Treasury bill ▶ noun a short-dated UK or US government security, yielding no interest but issued at a discount on its redemption price.

Treasury bond ▶ noun a government bond issued by the Treasury.

Treasury note ▶ noun US & historical a note issued by the Treasury for use as currency.

treat ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 behave towards or deal with in a certain way: she had been brutally treated | he treated her with grave courtesy.

■ (treat something as) regard something as being of a specified nature with implications for one's actions concerning it: the names are being treated as classified information. ■ give medical care or attention to; try to heal or cure: the two were treated for cuts and bruises. ■ apply a process or a substance to (something) to protect or preserve it or to give it particular properties: linen creases badly unless it is treated with the appropriate finish. ■ present or discuss (a subject): the lectures show a striking variation in the level at which subjects are treated.

2 (treat someone to) provide someone with (food, drink, or entertainment) at one's own expense: he treated her to a slap-up lunch.

■ give someone (something) as a favour: he treated her to one of his smiles. ■ (treat oneself) do or have something that gives one great pleasure: treat yourself—you can diet tomorrow.

3 [no obj.] negotiate terms with someone, especially an opponent: propagandists claimed that he was treating with the enemy.

▶ noun an event or item that is out of the ordinary and gives great pleasure: he wanted to take her to the pictures as a treat.

■ used with a possessive determiner to indicate that the person specified is paying for food, entertainment, etc., for someone else: 'My treat,' he insisted, reaching for the bill.

– PHRASES —— a treat Brit. informal used to indicate that someone or something does something specified very well or satisfactorily: their tactics worked a treat. ■ used to indicate that someone is looking attractive: I don't know whether she can act, but she looks a treat.

– DERIVATIVES treatable adjective, treater noun.

– ORIGIN Middle English (in the senses 'negotiate' and 'discuss (a subject)'): from Old French traitier, from Latin tractare 'handle', frequentative of trahere 'draw, pull'. The current noun sense dates from the mid 17th cent.

treatise /'tri:tɪs, -ɪz/ ▶ noun a written work dealing formally and systematically with a subject: his treatise on Scottish political theory.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French tretis, from Old French traitier (see TREAT).

treatment ▶ noun [mass noun] the manner in which someone behaves towards or deals with someone or something: the directive required equal treatment for men and women in social security schemes.
■ medical care given to a patient for an illness or injury: I'm receiving treatment for an injured shoulder. ■ [count noun] a session of medical care or the administration of a dose of medicine: the patient was given repeated treatments as required. ■ the use of a chemical, physical, or biological agent to preserve or give particular properties to something: the treatment of hazardous waste is particularly expensive. ■ the presentation or discussion of a subject: comparison with earlier artists is useful in analysis of the treatment of women in her painting. ■ (the full treatment) informal used to indicate that something is done enthusiastically, vigorously, or to an extreme degree: a bit of soft shoe shuffle got the full treatment.

treaty ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a formally concluded and ratified agreement between states.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French traite, from Latin tractatus 'treatise' (see TRACTATE).

treaty Indian ▶ noun chiefly Canadian a North American Indian whose people have signed a treaty with the government.

Treaty of Rome, Treaty of Versailles, etc. see ROME, TREATY OF; VERSAILLES, TREATY OF, etc.

treaty port ▶ noun historical a port bound by treaty to be open to foreign trade, especially in 19th and early 20th-century China and Japan.

Trebbiano /ˌtrɛbɪˈɑːnəʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a variety of wine grape widely cultivated in Italy and elsewhere.
■ a wine made from this grape.
– ORIGIN Italian, from the name of the River Trebbia, in northern central Italy.

Trebizond /ˈtrɛbɪzɒnd/ another name for TRABZON.

treble[1] ▶ adjective [attrib.] consisting of three parts; threefold: the fish were caught with large treble hooks dragged through the water.
■ multiplied or occurring three times: she turned back to make a double and treble check. ■ used to indicate that a number occurs three times in succession: call Kate on 0500 403 treble zero.
▶ predeterminer three times as much or as many: the tip was at least treble what she would normally have given.
▶ noun 1 Brit. three sporting victories or championships in the same season, event, etc.: the victory completed a treble for the horse's trainer.
2 Darts a hit on the narrow ring enclosed by the two middle circles of a dartboard, scoring treble.
3 Brit. a system of betting in which the winnings and stake from the first bet are transferred to a second and then (if successful) to a third.
4 a threefold quantity or thing, in particular:
■ (in showjumping) a fence consisting of three elements. ■ a crochet stitch made with three loops of wool on the hook at a time. ■ a drink of spirits of three times the standard measure.
▶ pronoun a number or amount which is three times as large as a contrasting or usual number or amount: by virtue of having paid treble, he had a double room to himself.
▶ verb make or become three times as large or numerous: [with obj.] rents were doubled and probably trebled | [no obj.] his salary has trebled in a couple of years.
– ORIGIN Middle English: via Old French from Latin triplus (see TRIPLE).

treble[2] ▶ noun a high-pitched voice, especially a boy's singing voice.
■ a boy (or girl) with such a singing voice. ■ a part written for a high voice or an instrument of a high pitch. ■ [as modifier] denoting a relatively high-pitched member of a family of similar instruments: a treble viol. ■ (also treble bell) the smallest and highest-pitched bell of a ring or set. ■ [mass noun] the high-frequency output of a radio, or audio system, corresponding to the treble in music.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from TREBLE[1], because it was the highest part in a three-part contrapuntal composition.

treble chance ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. a form of football pool in which different numbers of points are awarded for a draw, an away win, and a home win.

treble clef ▶ noun a clef placing G above middle C on the second-lowest line of the stave.

Treblinka /trɛˈblɪŋkə/ a Nazi concentration camp in Poland in the Second World War, where a great many of the Jews of the Warsaw ghetto were murdered.

trebly ▶ adjective (of sound, especially recorded music) having too much treble; tinny.
▶ adverb [as submodifier] three times as much: to Katherine, the house was trebly impressive.

trebuchet /ˈtrɛbjʊʃɛt, -bəʃɛt/ ▶ noun a machine used in medieval siege warfare for hurling large stones or other missiles.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, from trebucher 'overthrow'.

trecento /treɪˈtʃɛntəʊ/ ▶ noun (the trecento) the 14th century as a period of Italian art, architecture, or literature.
– ORIGIN Italian, literally '300', shortened from milletrecento '1300', used with reference to the years 1300–99.

tree ▶ noun 1 a woody perennial plant, typically having a single stem or trunk growing to a considerable height and bearing lateral branches at some distance from the ground. Compare with SHRUB[1].
■ (in general use) any bush, shrub, or herbaceous plant with a tall erect stem, e.g. a banana plant.
2 a wooden structure or part of a structure.
■ archaic or poetic/literary the cross on which Christ was crucified. ■ archaic a gibbet.
3 a thing that has a branching structure resembling that of a tree.
■ (also tree diagram) a diagram with a structure of branching connecting lines, representing different processes and relationships.
▶ verb (trees, treed, treeing) [with obj.] N. Amer. force (a hunted animal) to take refuge in a tree.
■ informal, chiefly US force (someone) into a difficult situation.
– PHRASES out of one's tree informal, chiefly N. Amer. completely stupid; mad. up a tree informal, chiefly N. Amer. in a difficult situation without escape; cornered.
– DERIVATIVES treeless adjective, treelessness noun, tree-like adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English trēow, trēo: from a Germanic variant of an Indo-European root shared by Greek doru 'wood, spear', drus 'oak'.

tree calf ▶ noun [mass noun] calfskin stained with a tree-like design and used in bookbinding.

treecreeper ▶ noun a small songbird with drab plumage and a downcurved bill, which creeps about on the trunks of trees to search for insects. Compare with CREEPER (in sense 2).
● a Eurasian and North American bird (Certhia, family Certhiidae, in particular the common C. familiaris). ● an Australasian bird (family Climacteridae and genus Climacteris).

tree diagram ▶ noun see TREE (sense 3).

tree duck ▶ noun another term for WHISTLING DUCK.

tree fern ▶ noun a large palm-like fern with a trunk-like stem bearing a crown of large fronds, sometimes reaching a height of 24 m and occurring chiefly in the tropics, particularly the southern hemisphere.
● Cyatheaceae and related families, class Filicopsida: seven genera, in particular Cyathea and Dicksonia.

tree frog ▶ noun an arboreal frog that has long toes with adhesive disks and is typically small and brightly coloured.
● Families Hylidae (of Eurasia, America, and Australia) and Rhacophoridae (of Africa and Asia): numerous species, including the common green tree frog (Hyla arborea) of southern Europe.

tree heath ▶ noun a white-flowered shrub or tree of the heather family, with woody nodules that are used to make briar pipes. It is native to southern Europe and parts of Africa. Also called BRIAR[2].
● Erica arborea, family Ericaceae.

treehopper ▶ noun a tree-dwelling jumping bug that lives chiefly in the tropics. A tall backward-curving projection of the thorax gives the bug a thorn-like appearance for camouflage.
● Family Membracidae, suborder Homoptera: species, including the bright green buffalo treehopper (Stictocephalus bisonia) of North America.

tree house ▶ noun a structure built in the branches of a tree for children to play in.

tree-hugger ▶ noun informal, chiefly derogatory an environmental campaigner (used in reference to the practice of embracing a tree in an attempt to prevent it from being felled).
– DERIVATIVES tree-hugging noun.

tree kangaroo ▶ noun an agile tree-climbing kangaroo with a long furred tail, and fore- and hindlimbs that are of almost equal length, found in the rainforests of Queensland and New Guinea.
● Genus Dendrolagus, family Macropodidae: six species.

treeline ▶ noun (on a mountain) the line or altitude above which no trees grow.
■ (in high northern (or southern) latitudes) the line north (or south) of which no trees grow.

tree lupin ▶ noun a shrubby yellow-flowered Californian lupin, widely planted to reclaim sandy land.
● Lupinus arboreus, family Leguminosae.

tree mallow ▶ noun a tall woody-stemmed European mallow of coastal regions.
● Lavatera arborea, family Malvaceae.

treen ▶ noun [treated as pl.] small domestic wooden objects, especially antiques.
▶ adjective chiefly archaic wooden: a fine treen sycamore dairy bowl.
– ORIGIN Old English trēowen 'wooden' (see TREE, -EN[2]).

treenail (also trenail or US trunnel) ▶ noun a hard wooden pin used for fastening timbers together.

tree of heaven ▶ noun a fast-growing Chinese ailanthus which is widely cultivated as an ornamental.
● Ailanthus altissima, family Simaroubaceae.

tree of knowledge (also tree of knowledge of good and evil) ▶ noun (in the Bible) the tree in the Garden of Eden bearing the forbidden fruit which Adam and Eve disobediently ate (Gen. 2:9, 3).

tree of life ▶ noun 1 (Tree of Life) (in the Bible) a tree in the Garden of Eden whose fruit imparts eternal life (Gen. 3:22–24).
■ an imaginary branching, tree-like structure representing the evolutionary divergence of all living creatures. ■ (in the Kabbalah) a diagram in the form of a tree bearing spheres which represent the sephiroth.
2 the thuja or arbor vitae.

tree pie ▶ noun a long-tailed tree-dwelling Asian crow, with blackish or brown and grey plumage.
● Family Corvidae: three genera, in particular Dendrocitta, and several species.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: pie from PIE[2].

tree pipit ▶ noun a widespread Old World pipit which inhabits open country with scattered trees.
● Anthus trivialis, family Motacillidae.

tree ring ▶ noun each of a number of concentric rings in the cross section of a tree trunk, representing a single year's growth.

tree shrew ▶ noun a small squirrel-like insectivorous mammal with a pointed snout, native to SE Asia, especially Borneo.
● Family Tupaiidae and order Scandentia: several genera, in particular Tupaia; tree shrews were formerly placed with either the insectivores or the primates.

tree snake ▶ noun a harmless arboreal snake, typically very slender and able to mimic a twig.
● Several genera in the family Colubridae, e.g. Dendrelaphis and Ahaetulla (of Asia), and Leptophis and Oxybelis (of America).

tree sparrow ▶ noun 1 a Eurasian sparrow with a chocolate brown cap in both sexes, inhabiting agricultural land.
● Passer montanus, family Passeridae (or Ploceidae).
2 N. Amer. a migratory sparrow-like songbird of the bunting family, breeding on the edge of the North American tundra.
● Spizella arborea, family Emberizidae (subfamily Emberizidae).

tree squirrel ▶ noun an arboreal squirrel that is typically active in daylight and does not hibernate.
● Sciurus and other genera, family Sciuridae: numerous species.

tree structure ▶ noun Computing a structure in which there are successive branchings or subdivisions.

tree surgeon ▶ noun a person who prunes and treats old or damaged trees in order to preserve them.
– DERIVATIVES tree surgery noun.

tree toad ▶ noun another term for TREE FROG.

tree tomato ▶ noun another term for TAMARILLO.

treetop ▶ noun (usu. treetops) the uppermost part of a tree.

tree trunk ▶ noun the main woody stem of a tree, from which its branches grow.

trefa /'treɪfə/ (also trifa or trayf) ▶ adjective (of food) not satisfying the requirements of Jewish law.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Hebrew ṭərēp̱āh 'the flesh of an animal torn or mauled', from ṭārap̱ 'rend'.

trefid /'trɛfɪd/ ▶ adjective variant spelling of TRIFID (in sense 2).

trefoil /'trɛfɔɪl, 'tri:fɔɪl/ ▶ noun a small European plant of the pea family, with yellow flowers and three-lobed cloverlike leaves.
• Genera Trifolium and Lotus, family Leguminosae: several species, in particular the bird's-foot trefoil.
■ a similar or related plant with three-lobed leaves. ■ an ornamental design of three rounded lobes like a clover leaf, used typically in architectural tracery. ■ a thing having three parts; a set of three: a trefoil of parachutes lowers the shuttle's used rockets to Earth. ■ [as modifier] denoting something shaped in the form of a trefoil leaf: trefoil windows.
– DERIVATIVES trefoiled adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French trifoil, from Latin trifolium, from tri- 'three' + folium 'leaf'.

trehalose /'tri:həlәʊs, trɪ'hɑ:lәʊs, -z/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a sugar of the disaccharide class produced by some fungi, yeasts, and similar organisms.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from trehala (from Turkish, denoting a sweet substance derived from insect cocoons) + -OSE[2].

trek ▶ noun 1 a long arduous journey, especially one made on foot: a trek to the South Pole.
■ (the Trek) S. African see GREAT TREK. ■ S. African a leg or stage of a journey.
2 [mass noun] S. African informal a person's possessions: I was at the new flat waiting for my trek to arrive.
3 S. African a haul of fish caught using a trek net.
▶ verb (trekked, trekking) 1 [no obj., with adverbial of direction] go on a long arduous journey, typically on foot: we trekked through the jungle.
■ historical, chiefly S. African migrate or journey with one's belongings by ox-wagon. ■ [no obj., usu. in imperative] S. African (of an ox) draw a vehicle or pull a load. ■ S. African travel constantly from place to place; lead a nomadic life: my plan is to trek about seeing the world.
2 [no obj.] S. African fish using a trek net.
– DERIVATIVES trekker noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from South African Dutch trek (noun), trekken (verb) 'pull, travel'.

Trekkie ▶ noun (pl. -ies) informal a fan of the US science-fiction television programme Star Trek.

trek net ▶ noun S. African a large fishing net, weighted at one end and fitted with floats on the other so that it hangs vertically in the water, usually dropped from a boat and hauled in from the shore.

trellis ▶ noun (also trellislwork) [mass noun] a framework of light wooden or metal bars, chiefly used as a support for fruit trees or creepers, typically fastened against a wall.
▶ verb (trellised, trellising) [with obj.] [usu. as adj. trellised] provide with or enclose in a trellis: a trellised archway.
■ support (a climbing plant) with a trellis.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting any latticed screen): from Old French trelis, from Latin trilix 'three-ply', from tri- 'three' + licium 'warp thread'. Current senses date from the early 16th cent.

trem (also trem arm) ▶ noun informal a tremolo arm.

Trematoda /ˌtrɛmə'tәʊdə/ Zoology a class of flatworms that comprises those flukes that are internal parasites. The monogenean flukes are sometimes also placed in this class. See FLUKE[2] (sense 1) and DIGENEAN.
– DERIVATIVES trematode /'trɛmətәʊd/ noun.
– ORIGIN modern Latin (plural), from Greek trēmatōdēs 'perforated', from trēma 'hole'.

tremble ▶ verb [no obj.] shake involuntarily, typically as a result of anxiety, excitement, or frailty: Isobel was trembling with excitement.
■ be in a state of extreme apprehension: [with infinitive] I tremble to think that we could ever return to conditions like these. ■ [usu. as adj. trembling] (of a person's voice) sound unsteady or hesitant. ■ shake or quiver slightly: the earth trembled beneath their feet.
▶ noun 1 a trembling feeling, movement, or sound: there was a slight tremble in his voice.
2 (the trembles) informal a physical or emotional condition marked by trembling.
■ another term for MILK-SICKNESS.
– PHRASES all of a tremble informal extremely agitated or excited.
– DERIVATIVES tremblingly adverb.
– ORIGIN Middle English (as a verb): from Old French trembler, from medieval Latin tremulare, from Latin tremulus (see TREMULOUS).

trembler ▶ noun 1 Brit. an automatic vibrator for making and breaking an electric circuit, typically used as a fuse for an explosive device sensitive to physical disturbance.
2 a songbird related to the thrashers, found in the Lesser Antilles and named from its habit of violent shaking.
• Genera Cinclocerthia and Ramphocinclus, family Mimidae: three species.
3 informal an earthquake.

trembling poplar ▶ noun the European aspen.

tremblor /'trɛmblɔ:/ ▶ noun US an earth tremor.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: alteration of Spanish temblor 'shudder', influenced by TREMBLER.

trembly ▶ adjective (tremblier, trembliest) informal shaking or quivering involuntarily: her eyes were tearful, her hands trembly | she gave a queer trembly laugh.

tremendous ▶ adjective very great in amount, scale, or intensity: Penny put in a tremendous amount of time | there was a tremendous explosion.
■ informal extremely good or impressive; excellent: the crew did a tremendous job.
– DERIVATIVES tremendously adverb, tremendousness noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin tremendus (gerundive of tremere 'tremble') + -OUS.

tremolando /ˌtrɛmə'landәʊ/ Music ▶ noun (pl. tremolandi) another term for TREMOLO.
▶ adverb & adjective (especially as a direction) with tremolo.
– ORIGIN Italian, literally 'trembling'.

tremolite /'trɛm(ə)lʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a white to grey amphibole mineral which occurs widely in igneous rocks and is characteristic of metamorphosed dolomitic limestones.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Tremola Valley, Switzerland, + -ITE[1].

tremolo ▶ noun (pl. -os) Music a wavering effect in a musical tone, produced either by rapid reiteration of a note, by rapid repeated slight variation in the pitch of a note, or by sounding two notes of slightly different pitches to produce prominent overtones. Compare with VIBRATO.
■ a mechanism in an organ producing such an effect. ■ (also tremolo arm) a lever on an electric guitar, used to produce such an effect.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Italian.

tremor ▶ noun an involuntary quivering movement: a disorder that causes tremors and muscle rigidity.
■ (also earth tremor) a slight earthquake. ■ a sudden feeling of fear or excitement: a tremor of unease. ■ a tremble or quaver in a person's voice.
▶ verb [no obj.] undergo a tremor or tremors: a muscle in my jaw tremored uncontrollably.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin tremor, from tremere 'to tremble'.

tremulous /'trɛmjʊlәs/ ▶ adjective shaking or quivering slightly: Barbara's voice was tremulous.
■ timid; nervous: he gave a tremulous smile.
– DERIVATIVES tremulously adverb, tremulousness noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin tremulus (from tremere 'tremble') + -OUS.

trenail ▶ noun variant spelling of TREENAIL.

trench ▶ noun a long, narrow ditch.
■ such a ditch dug by troops to provide a place of shelter from enemy fire. ■ (trenches) a connected system of such ditches forming an army's line. ■ (the trenches) the battlefields of northern France and Belgium in the First World War: the slaughter in the trenches created a new cynicism. ■ (also ocean trench) a long, narrow, deep depression in the ocean bed, typically one running parallel to a plate boundary and marking a subduction zone. ■ a trench coat.
▶ verb 1 [with obj.] dig a trench or trenches in (the ground): she trenched the terrace to a depth of 6 feet.
■ turn over the earth of (a field or garden) by digging a succession of adjoining ditches.
2 [no obj.] (trench on/upon) archaic border closely on; encroach upon: this would surely trench very far on the dignity and liberty of citizens.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the senses 'track cut through a wood' and 'sever by cutting'): from Old French trenche (noun), trenchier (verb), based on Latin truncare (see TRUNCATE).

trenchant /'trɛn(t)ʃ(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective 1 vigorous or incisive in expression or style: the White Paper makes trenchant criticisms of health authorities.
2 archaic or poetic/literary (of a weapon or tool) having a sharp edge: a trenchant blade.
– DERIVATIVES trenchancy noun (only in sense 1), trenchantly adverb (only in sense 1).
– ORIGIN Middle English (in sense 2): from Old French, literally 'cutting', present participle of trenchier (see TRENCH).

Trenchard /'trɛnʃәd/, Hugh Montague, 1st Viscount of Wolfeton (1873–1956), British Marshal of the RAF. As chief of staff (1918) then First Marshal (1927) of the RAF he developed the force as a major element in the British armed services.

trench coat ▶ noun a loose belted, double-breasted raincoat in a military style.
■ a lined or padded waterproof coat worn by soldiers.

trench digging ▶ noun another term for DOUBLE DIGGING.

trencher[1] ▶ noun 1 historical a wooden plate or platter for food.
■ a thick slice of bread used as a plate or platter.
2 old-fashioned term for MORTAR BOARD (in sense 1).
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French trenchour, from Old French trenchier 'to cut' (see TRENCH).

trencher[2] ▶ noun a machine or attachment used in digging trenches.

trencherman ▶ noun (pl. -men) [usu. with adj.] humorous a person who eats in a specified manner, typically heartily: a doughty trencherman who gives the Simpson's beef trolley a good run for its money.

trench fever ▶ noun [mass noun] a highly contagious rickettsial disease transmitted by lice, that infested soldiers in the trenches in the First World War.

trench foot ▶ noun [mass noun] a painful condition of the feet caused by long immersion in cold water or mud and marked by blackening and death of surface tissue.

trench mortar ▶ noun a light simple mortar designed to propel a bomb into enemy trenches.

trench mouth ▶ noun [mass noun] ulcerative gingivitis.

trench warfare ▶ noun [mass noun] a type of combat in which opposing troops fight from trenches facing each other.

trend ▶ noun a general direction in which something is developing or changing: an upward trend in sales and profit margins.
■ a fashion: the latest trends in modern dance.
▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (especially of geographical features) bend or turn away in a specified direction: the Richelieu River trending southward to Lake Champlain.
■ chiefly N. Amer. change or develop in a general direction: unemployment has been trending upwards.
– ORIGIN Old English trendan 'revolve, rotate', of Germanic origin; compare with TRUNDLE. The verb sense 'turn in a specified direction' dates from the late 16th cent, and gave rise to the figurative use 'assume a general tendency' in the mid 19th cent., a development paralleled in the noun.

Trendelenburg position /trɛn'dɛlənbə:g/ ▶ noun a position, used for pelvic surgery and to treat shock, in which a patient lies face upwards on a tilted table or bed with the pelvis higher than the head.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after Friedrich Trendelenburg (1844–1924), German surgeon.

trendify ▶ verb [with obj.] informal, chiefly derogatory make (something or someone) very fashionable or up to date in style or influence: the cafe has been trendified to look like a wine bar.

trend line ▶ noun a line indicating the general course or tendency of something, e.g. a geographical feature or a set of points on a graph.

trendoid informal ▶ noun a person who follows fashion blindly or excessively.
▶ adjective following fashion blindly or extravagantly.

trendsetter ▶ noun a person who leads the way in fashion or ideas.
– DERIVATIVES trendsetting adjective.

trendy informal ▶ adjective (trendier, trendiest) very fashionable or up to date in style or influence: I enjoyed being able to go out and buy trendy clothes.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) a person who is very fashionable or up to date.
– DERIVATIVES trendily adverb, trendiness noun.

Trengganu /trɛŋ'gɑ:nu:/ (also Terengganu) a state of Malaysia, on the east coast of the Malay Peninsula; capital, Kuala Trengganu.

Trent the chief river of central England, which rises in Staffordshire and flows 275 km (170 miles) generally north-eastwards, uniting with the River Ouse 25 km (15 miles) west of Hull to form the Humber estuary.

Trent, Council of an ecumenical council of the Roman Catholic Church, held in three sessions between 1545 and 1563 in Trento. Prompted by the opposition of the Reformation, the council clarified and redefined the Church's doctrine, abolished many ecclesiastical abuses, and strengthened the authority of the papacy. These measures provided the Church with a solid foundation for the Counter-Reformation.

trente et quarante /ˌtrõteɪka'rõt, French trɑ̃tekarɑ̃t/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a gambling game in which cards are turned up on a table marked with red and black diamonds.
– ORIGIN French, literally 'thirty and forty', these being winning and losing numbers respectively in the game.

Trentino-Alto Adige /trɛnˌti:nəʊ ˌaltəʊ 'adɪdʒeɪ/ a region of NE Italy; capital, Bolzano. Situated on the border with Austria, it includes the Dolomites.

Trento /'trɛntəʊ/ a city on the Adige River in northern Italy; pop. 102,120 (1990).

Trenton /'trɛntən/ the state capital of New Jersey; pop. 88,675 (1990).

trepan /trɪ'pan/ ▶ noun 1 chiefly historical a trephine (crown saw) used by surgeons for perforating the skull.
2 a borer for sinking shafts.
▶ verb (trepanned, trepanning) [with obj.] perforate (a person's skull) with a trepan.
– DERIVATIVES trepanation /ˌtrɛpə'neɪʃ(ə)n/ noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: the noun via medieval Latin from Greek trupanon, from trupan 'to bore', from trupē 'hole'; the verb from Old French trepaner.

trepang /trɪ'paŋ/ ▶ noun another term for BÊCHE-DE-MER (in sense 1).
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Malay teripang.

trephine /trɪ'fʌɪn, -'fi:n/ ▶ noun a crown saw used in surgery to remove a circle of tissue or bone.
▶ verb [with obj.] operate on with a trephine.
– DERIVATIVES trephination /ˌtrɛfɪ'neɪʃ(ə)n/ noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin tres fines 'three ends', apparently influenced by TREPAN.

trepidation ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 a feeling of fear or agitation about something that may happen: the men set off in fear and trepidation.
2 archaic trembling motion.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from Latin trepidatio(n-), from trepidare 'be agitated, tremble', from trepidus 'alarmed'.

treponeme /'trɛpəni:m/ (also treponema /-ə/) ▶ noun a spirochaete bacterium that is parasitic or pathogenic in humans and warm-blooded animals, including the causal agents of syphilis and yaws.
● Genus Treponema, order Spirochaetales; Gram-negative.
– DERIVATIVES treponemal adjective.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from modern Latin Treponema, from Greek trepein 'to turn' + nēma 'thread'.

trespass ▶ verb [no obj.] 1 enter someone's land or property without their permission: there is no excuse for trespassing on railway property.
■(tresspass on) make unfair claims on or take advantage of (something): she really must not trespass on his hospitality.
2 (trespass against) archaic or poetic/literary commit an offence against (a person or a set of rules): a man who had trespassed against Judaic law.
▶ noun 1 [mass noun] Law entry to a person's land or property without their permission: the defendants were guilty of trespass | [count noun] a mass trespass on the moor.
2 archaic or poetic/literary a sin; an offence: the worst trespass against the goddess Venus is to see her naked and asleep.
– DERIVATIVES trespasser noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in sense 2): from Old French trespasser 'pass over, trespass', trespas 'passing across', from medieval Latin transpassare (see TRANS-, PASS[1]).

tress ▶ noun (usu. tresses) a long lock of a woman's hair: she was tugging a comb through her long tresses.
▶ verb [with obj.] archaic arrange (a person's hair) into long locks.
– DERIVATIVES tressed adjective [often in combination] a blonde-tressed sex symbol, tressy adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French tresse, perhaps based on Greek trikha 'threefold'.

tressure /'trɛʃə, 'trɛs(j)ʊə/ ▶ noun Heraldry a thin border inset from the edge of a shield, narrower than an orle and usually borne double.
■an ornamental enclosure containing a figure or distinctive device, formerly found on various gold and silver coins.
– ORIGIN Middle English (denoting a ribbon or band for the hair): from Old French tressour (see TRESS).

trestle ▶ noun a framework consisting of a horizontal beam supported by two pairs of sloping legs, used in pairs to support a flat surface such as a table top.
■short for TRESTLE TABLE. ■(also trestlework) an open braced framework used to support an elevated structure such as a bridge. ■(also trestletree) each of a pair of horizontal pieces on a sailing ship's lower mast supporting the topmast.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French trestel, based on Latin transtrum 'beam'.

trestle table ▶ noun a table consisting of a board or boards laid on trestles.

tret /trɛt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] historical an allowance of extra weight made to purchasers of certain goods to compensate for waste during transportation.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent: from an Old French variant of trait 'draught' (see TRAIT).

Tretyakov Gallery /'trɛtjəkɒf/ an art gallery in Moscow, one of the largest in the world. It houses exhibits ranging from early Russian art to contemporary work, and has a huge collection of icons.
– ORIGIN named after P. M. Tretyakov (1832–98), who founded it in 1856.

trevally /trɪ'vali/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a marine sporting fish of the Indo-Pacific, which is sometimes caught in large quantities for food.
● Caranx and other genera, family Carangidae: several species.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: probably an alteration of cavally 'horse mackerel', from Spanish caballo 'horse'.

Trèves /trɛv/ French name for TRIER.

Trevino /trə'vi:nəʊ/, Lee (Buck) (b.1939), American golfer; known as Supermex. In 1971 he became the first man to win all three Open championships (Canadian, US, and British) in the same year.

Trevira /trə'vɪərə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark a polyester fibre, used chiefly to make clothes and soft furnishings.
– ORIGIN 1950s: of unknown origin.

Trevithick /trə'vɪθɪk/, Richard (1771–1833), English engineer. His chief contribution was in the use of high-pressure steam to drive a double-acting engine. Trevithick built the world's first railway locomotive (1804) and many stationary engines.

trews /tru:z/ ▶ plural noun chiefly Brit. trousers.
■close-fitting tartan trousers worn by certain Scottish regiments.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Irish triús, Scottish Gaelic triubhas (singular); compare with TROUSERS.

trey /treɪ/ ▶ noun (pl. -eys) a thing having three of something, in particular:
■a playing card or dice with three spots. ■US (in basketball) a shot scoring three points.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French trei 'three', from Latin tres.

TRH ▶ abbreviation for ■Their Royal Highnesses. ■Biochemistry thyrotropin-releasing hormone.

tri- /trʌɪ/ ▶ combining form three; having three: triathlon.
■Chemistry (in names of compounds) containing three atoms or groups of a specified kind: trichloroethane.
– ORIGIN from Latin and Greek, from Latin tres, Greek treis 'three'.

triable /'trʌɪəb(ə)l/ ▶ adjective Law (of an offence) liable to a judicial trial.
■(of a case or issue) able to be investigated and decided judicially.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French, from Old French trier 'sift' (see TRY).

triac /'trʌɪak/ ▶ noun Electronics a three-electrode semiconductor device that will conduct in either direction when triggered by a positive or negative signal at the gate electrode.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from TRIODE + AC (short for alternating current).

triacetate /trʌɪ'asɪteɪt/ (also cellulose triacetate) ▶ noun [mass noun] a form of cellulose acetate containing three acetate groups per glucose monomer, used as a basis for man-made fibres.

triad /'trʌɪad/ ▶ noun 1 a group or set of three connected people or things: the triad of medication, diet, and exercise are necessary in diabetes care.
■a chord of three musical notes, consisting of a given note with the third and fifth above it. ■a Welsh form of literary composition with an arrangement of subjects or statements in groups of three.
2 (also Triad) a secret society originating in China.
■a member of such a society.
– DERIVATIVES triadic adjective (only in sense 1).
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from French triade, or via late Latin from Greek trias, triad-, from treis 'three'.

triage /'trɑ:ɪdʒ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the action of sorting according to quality.
2 (in medical use) the assignment of degrees of urgency to wounds or illnesses to decide the order of treatment of a large number of patients or casualties.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from French, from trier 'separate out'. The medical sense dates from the 1930s, from the military system of assessing the wounded on the battlefield.

trial ▶ noun 1 a formal examination of evidence by a judge, typically before a jury, in order to decide guilt in a case of criminal or civil proceedings: the newspaper accounts of the trial | [mass noun] the editor was summoned to stand trial for libel.
2 a test of the performance, qualities, or suitability of someone or something: clinical trials must establish whether the new hip replacements are working.
■a sports match to test the ability of players eligible for selection to a team. ■a test of individual ability on a motorcycle over rough ground or on a road. ■(trials) an event in which horses, dogs, or other animals compete or perform: horse trials.
3 a person, thing, or situation that tests a person's endurance or forbearance: the trials and tribulations of married life.
▶ verb (trialled, trialling; US trialed, trialing) 1 [with obj.] test (something, especially a new product) to assess its suitability or performance: teachers all over the UK are trialling the materials.
2 [no obj.] (of a horse, dog, or other animal) compete in trials: the pup trialled on Saturday.
– PHRASES on trial 1 being tried in a court of law. 2 undergoing tests or scrutiny: water metering has been on trial in England and Wales. trial and error the process of experimenting with various methods of doing something until one finds the most successful.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (as a noun): from Anglo-Norman French, or from medieval Latin triallum. The verb dates from the 1980s.

trial balance ▶ noun a statement of all debits and credits in a double-entry account book, with any disagreement indicating an error.

trial balloon ▶ noun a tentative measure taken or statement made to see how a new policy will be received.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from translation of French ballon d'essai.

trial court ▶ noun chiefly N. Amer. a court of law where cases are tried in the first place, as opposed to an appeal court.

trialist (Brit. also triallist) ▶ noun a person who participates in a trial, in particular:
■a person who takes part in a sports trial or motorcycle trial. ■a person who takes part in a clinical or market test of a new product.

trial lawyer ▶ noun N. Amer. a lawyer who practises in a trial court.

trialogue ▶ noun a dialogue between three people.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: formed irregularly from TRI- 'three' + DIALOGUE (the prefix di- misinterpreted as 'two').

trial run ▶ noun a preliminary test of how a new system or product works.

triangle ▶ noun 1 a plane figure with three straight sides and three angles: an equilateral triangle.
■ a thing shaped like such a figure: a small triangle of grass. ■ a situation involving three people or things, especially an emotional relationship involving a couple and a third person with whom one of them is involved. ■ a musical instrument consisting of a steel rod bent into a triangle and sounded by being struck with a small steel rod. ■ a frame used to position the pool balls in snooker and pool. ■ N. Amer. a drawing instrument in the form of a right-angled triangle. ■ (triangles) historical a frame of three halberds joined at the top to which a soldier was bound for flogging.
2 a small brownish Eurasian moth of oak and beech woods.
• Heterogenea asella, family Limacodidae.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French triangle or Latin triangulum, neuter of triangulus 'three-cornered' (see TRI-, ANGLE[1]).

triangle of forces ▶ noun Physics a triangle whose sides represent in magnitude and direction three forces in equilibrium.

triangular ▶ adjective shaped like a triangle; having three sides and three corners: dainty triangular sandwiches.
■ involving three people or parties: a triangular cricket competition. ■ (of a pyramid) having a three-sided base.
– DERIVATIVES triangularity noun, triangularly adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from late Latin triangularis, from Latin triangulum (see TRIANGLE).

triangular number ▶ noun any of the series of numbers (1, 3, 6, 10, 15, etc.) obtained by continued summation of the natural numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, etc.

triangular trade ▶ noun [mass noun] a multilateral system of trading in which a country pays for its imports from one country by its exports to another.
■ used to refer to the trade in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries which involved shipping goods from Britain to West Africa to be exchanged for slaves, these slaves being shipped to the West Indies and exchanged for sugar and other commodities which were in turn shipped back to Britain.

triangulate ▶ verb /trʌɪ'aŋgjʊleɪt/ 1 [with obj.] divide (an area) into triangles for surveying purposes.
■ measure and map (an area) by the use of triangles with a known base length and base angles. ■ determine (a height, distance, or location) in this way.
2 [with obj.] form into a triangle or triangles: the brackets triangulate the frame.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin triangulum 'triangle' (see TRIANGLE) + -ATE[3].

triangulation ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 (in surveying) the tracing and measurement of a series or network of triangles in order to determine the distances and relative positions of points spread over a territory or region, especially by measuring the length of one side of each triangle and deducing its angles and the length of the other two sides by observation from this baseline.
2 formation of or division into triangles.

triangulation point ▶ noun another term for TRIG POINT.

Triangulum /trʌɪ'aŋgjʊləm/ Astronomy a small northern constellation (the Triangle), between Andromeda and Aries.
■ [as genitive Trianguli /trʌɪ'aŋgjʊlʌɪ/] used with preceding letter or numeral to designate a star in this constellation: the star Beta Trianguli.
– ORIGIN Latin.

Triangulum Australe /ɒ'strɑ:lɪ/ Astronomy a small southern constellation (the Southern Triangle), lying in the Milky Way near the south celestial pole.
■ [as genitive Trianguli Australis /ɒ'streɪlɪs/] used with preceding letter or numeral to designate a star in this constellation: the star Alpha Trianguli Australis.
– ORIGIN Latin.

Trianon /'tri:ənɒn, French trianɔ̃/ either of two small palaces in the great park at Versailles in France. The larger was built by Louis XIV in 1687; the smaller, built by Louis XV 1762–8, was used first by his mistress Madame du Barry (1743–93) and afterwards by Marie Antoinette.

Triassic /trʌɪ'asɪk/ ▶ adjective Geology of, relating to, or denoting the earliest period of the Mesozoic era, between the Permian and Jurassic periods. See also PERMO-TRIASSIC.
■ [as noun the Triassic or the Trias] the Triassic period or the system of rocks deposited during it.

The Triassic lasted from about 245 to 208 million years ago. Many new organisms appeared following the mass extinctions of the end of the Palaeozoic era, including the earliest dinosaurs and ammonites and the first primitive mammals.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from late Latin trias (see TRIAD), because the strata are divisible into three groups, + -IC.

triathlon /trʌɪ'aθlɒn, -lən/ ▶ noun an athletic contest consisting of three different events, typically swimming, cycling, and long-distance running.
– DERIVATIVES triathlete noun.
– ORIGIN 1970s: from TRI- 'three', on the pattern of decathlon.

triatomic /ˌtrʌɪə'tɒmɪk/ ▶ adjective Chemistry consisting of three atoms.

triaxial /trʌɪ'aksɪəl/ ▶ adjective having or relating to three axes, especially in mechanical or astronomical contexts.

tri-axle ▶ noun a trailer or articulated lorry with three axles.

triazine /'trʌɪəzi:n, trʌɪ'azi:n, -zɪn/ ▶ noun Chemistry any of a group of compounds whose molecules contain an unsaturated ring of three carbon and three nitrogen atoms.

triazole /'trʌɪəzəʊl, trʌɪ'azəʊl/ ▶ noun any compound whose molecule contains a ring of three nitrogen and two carbon atoms, in particular each of five isomeric compounds containing such a ring with two double bonds.
• Chem. formula: $C_2H_3N_3$ tribade /'trɪbəd/ ▶ noun a lesbian, especially one who lies on top of her partner and simulates the movements of the male in heterosexual intercourse.

– DERIVATIVES tribadism noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French tribade, or via Latin from Greek tribas, from tribein 'to rub'.

tribal ▶ adjective of or characteristic of a tribe or tribes: tribal people in Malaysia.
■ chiefly derogatory characterized by a tendency to form groups or by strong group loyalty: British industrial operatives remained locked in primitive tribal attitudes.
▶ noun (tribals) members of tribal communities, especially in the Indian subcontinent.
– DERIVATIVES tribally adverb.

tribalism ▶ noun [mass noun] the state or fact of being organized in a tribe or tribes: black tribalism became the excuse for creating ethnic homelands.
■ chiefly derogatory the behaviour and attitudes that stem from strong loyalty to one's own tribe or social group: the tribalism which haunts police defensiveness.

tribalist ▶ noun chiefly derogatory an advocate or practitioner of strong loyalty to one's own tribe or social group.
– DERIVATIVES tribalistic adjective.

tribasic /trʌɪ'beɪsɪk/ ▶ adjective Chemistry (of an acid) having three replaceable hydrogen atoms.

tribe ▶ noun 1 a social division in a traditional society consisting of families or communities linked by social, economic, religious, or blood ties, with a common culture and dialect, typically having a recognized leader: indigenous Indian tribes.
■ (in ancient Rome) each of several political divisions, originally three, later thirty, ultimately thirty-five. ■ derogatory a distinctive close-knit social or political group: she made a stand against the social codes of her English middle-class tribe. ■ derogatory a group or class of people or things: an outburst against the whole tribe of theoreticians. ■ (tribes) informal large numbers of people: tribes of children playing under the watchful eyes of nurses.
2 Biology a taxonomic category that ranks above genus and below family or subfamily, usually ending in -ini (in zoology) or -eae (in botany).
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French tribu or Latin tribus (singular and plural); perhaps related to tri- 'three' and referring to the three divisions of the early people of Rome.

USAGE In historical contexts, the word tribe is broadly accepted (the area was inhabited by Slavic tribes). However, in contemporary contexts, used to refer to a community living within a traditional society today, the word is problematic. It is strongly associated with past attitudes of white colonialists towards so-called primitive or uncivilized peoples living in remote undeveloped places. For this reason, it is generally preferable to use alternative terms such as community or people.

tribesman ▶ noun (pl. -men) a man belonging to a tribe in a traditional society or group.

Tribes of Israel the twelve divisions of ancient Israel, each traditionally descended from one of the twelve sons of Jacob. Ten of the tribes (Asher, Dan, Gad, Issachar, Levi, Manasseh, Naphtali, Reuben, Simeon, and Zebulun, known as the Lost Tribes) were deported to captivity in Assyria c.720 BC, leaving only the tribes of Judah and Benjamin. Also called TWELVE TRIBES OF ISRAEL.

tribespeople ▶ plural noun people belonging to a tribe in a traditional society or group.

tribeswoman ▶ noun (pl. -women) a woman belonging to a tribe in a traditional society or group.

triblet /'trɪblɪt/ ▶ noun a cylindrical rod used for forging nuts, rings, tubes, and other rounded metallic objects.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French triboulet, of unknown origin.

tribo- /'trʌɪbəʊ, 'trɪbəʊ/ ▶ combining form relating to friction: triboelectricity.
– ORIGIN from Greek tribos 'rubbing'.

triboelectricity ▶ noun [mass noun] electric charge generated by friction.

tribology /trʌɪ'bɒlədʒi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the study of friction, wear, lubrication, and the design of bearings; the science of interacting surfaces in relative motion.
– DERIVATIVES tribological adjective, tribologist noun.

triboluminescence ▶ noun [mass noun] the emission of light from a substance caused by rubbing, scratching, or similar frictional contact.
– DERIVATIVES triboluminescent adjective.

tribometer /trʌɪ'bɒmɪtə/ ▶ noun an instrument for measuring friction in sliding.

tribrach /'trʌɪbrak, 'trɪ-/ ▶ noun Prosody a metrical foot of three short or unstressed syllables.
– DERIVATIVES tribrachic /-'brakɪk/ adjective.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: via Latin from Greek tribrakhus, from tri- 'three' + brakhus 'short'.

tribulation /ˌtrɪbjʊ'leɪʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun (usu. tribulations) a cause of great trouble or suffering: the tribulations of being a megastar.
■ [mass noun] a state of great trouble or suffering: his time of tribulation was just beginning.
– ORIGIN Middle English: via Old French from ecclesiastical Latin tribulatio(n-), from Latin tribulare 'press, oppress', from tribulum 'threshing board (constructed of sharp points)', based on terere 'rub'.

tribunal /trʌɪ'bju:n(ə)l, trɪ-/ ▶ noun 1 Brit. a body established to settle certain types of dispute: an industrial tribunal ruled that he was unfairly dismissed.
2 a court of justice: an international war crimes tribunal.
■ a seat or bench for a judge or judges.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting a seat for judges): from Old French, or from Latin tribunal 'raised platform provided for magistrate's seats', from tribunus (see TRIBUNE[1]). Sense 1 dates from the early 20th cent.

tribune[1] ▶ noun (also tribune of the people) an official in ancient Rome chosen by the plebeians to protect their interests.
■ (also military tribune) a Roman legionary officer. ■ figurative a popular leader; a champion of the people.
– DERIVATIVES tribunate noun, tribuneship noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin tribunus, literally 'head of a tribe', from tribus 'tribe'.

tribune[2] ▶ noun 1 an apse in a basilica.
2 a dais or rostrum, especially in a church.
■ a raised area or gallery with seats, especially in a church.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent. (denoting the principal room in an Italian mansion): via French from Italian, from medieval Latin tribuna, alteration of Latin tribunal (see TRIBUNAL).

Tribune Group a left-wing group within the British Labour Party consisting of supporters of the views put forward in the weekly journal Tribune.

tributary /'trɪbjʊt(ə)ri/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 a river or stream flowing into a larger river or lake: the Illinois River, a tributary of the Mississippi.

2 historical a person or state that pays tribute to another state or ruler: tributaries of the Chinese empire.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (in sense 2): from Latin tributarius, from tributum (see TRIBUTE). Sense 1 dates from the early 19th cent.

tribute ▶ noun 1 an act, statement, or gift that is intended to show gratitude, respect, or admiration: the video is a tribute to the musicals of the '40s | [mass noun] a symposium organized to pay tribute to Darwin.

■ [in sing.] something resulting from something else and indicating its worth: his victory in the championship was a tribute to his persistence.

2 [mass noun] historical payment made periodically by one state or ruler to another, especially as a sign of dependence: the king had at his disposal plunder and tribute amassed through warfare.

3 historical a proportion of ore or its equivalent, paid to a miner for his work, or to the owner or lessor of a mine.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (in sense 2): from Latin tributum, neuter past participle (used as a noun) of tribuere 'assign' (originally 'divide between tribes'), from tribus 'tribe'.

tricameral /trʌɪ'kam(ə)r(ə)l/ ▶ adjective of or relating to the parliamentary system operating in South Africa between 1983 and 1994, in which the legislature consisted of three ethnically based houses.

tricar /'trʌɪkɑː/ ▶ noun Brit. dated a three-wheeled motor car.

tricarboxylic acid cycle /trʌɪˌkɑːbɒk'sɪlɪk/ ▶ noun another term for KREBS CYCLE.

tricast /'trʌɪkɑːst/ ▶ noun Brit. a bet in which the person betting forecasts the first three horses in a race in the correct order.

– ORIGIN 1970s: from TRI- 'three' + the noun FORECAST.

trice /trʌɪs/ ▶ noun (in phrase in a trice) in a moment; very quickly.

– ORIGIN late Middle English trice 'a tug', figuratively 'an instant', from Middle Dutch trīsen 'pull sharply', related to trīse 'pulley'.

Tricel /'trʌɪsɛl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark a textile fibre made from cellulose triacetate.

– ORIGIN 1950s: blend of TRIACETATE + CELLULOSE.

tricentenary ▶ noun (pl. -ies) another term for TERCENTENARY.

tricentennial ▶ adjective & noun another term for TERCENTENARY.

triceps /'trʌɪsɛps/ ▶ noun (pl. same) Anatomy any of several muscles having three points of attachment at one end, particularly (also triceps brachii /'breɪkɪʌɪ/) the large muscle at the back of the upper arm.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Latin, literally 'three-headed', from tri- 'three' + -ceps (from caput 'head').

triceratops /trʌɪ'sɛrətɒps/ ▶ noun a large quadrupedal herbivorous dinosaur living at the end of the Cretaceous period, having a massive head with two large horns, a smaller horn on the beaked snout, and a bony frill above the neck.

● Genus Triceratops, infraorder Ceratopsia, order Ornithischia.

– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Greek trikeratos 'three-horned' + ōps 'face'.

trichiasis /ˌtrɪkɪ'ʌɪəsɪs, trɪ'kʌɪəsɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine ingrowth or introversion of the eyelashes.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: via late Latin from Greek trikhiasis, from trikhian 'be hairy'.

trichina /'trɪkɪnə, trɪ'kʌɪnə/ ▶ noun (pl. trichinae /-niː/) a parasitic nematode worm of humans and other mammals, the adults of which live in the small intestine. The larvae form hard cysts in the muscles, where they remain until eaten by the next host.

● Genus Trichinella, class Aphasmida (or Adenophorea).

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from modern Latin (former genus name), from Greek trikhinos 'of hair'.

Trichinopoly /ˌtrɪtʃɪ'nɒpəli/ another name for TIRUCHIRAPALLI.

trichinosis /ˌtrɪkɪ'nəʊsɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a disease caused by trichinae, typically from infected meat, characterized by digestive disturbance, fever, and muscular rigidity.

● This disease is typically caused by Trichinella spiralis.

trichloroacetic acid /trʌɪˌklɔːrəʊə'siːtɪk, -ˌklɒrəʊ-/ (also trichloracetic acid /-ˌklɔːrə'siːtɪk, -ˌklɒr-/) ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a toxic deliquescent crystalline solid used as a solvent, analgesic, and anaesthetic.

● Chem. formula: CCl_3COOH.

– DERIVATIVES trichloroacetate noun.

trichloroethane /ˌtrʌɪklɔːrəʊ'iːθeɪn, -klɒr-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a colourless non-flammable volatile liquid, used as a solvent and cleaner.

● Alternative name: 1,1,1-trichloroethane; chem. formula: CCl_3CH_3.

trichloroethylene /ˌtrʌɪklɔːrəʊ'ɛθɪliːn, -klɒr-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a colourless volatile liquid used as a solvent and formerly as an anaesthetic.

● Chem. formula: $CCl_2{=}CHCl$.

trichlorophenol /ˌtrʌɪklɔːrə(ʊ)'fiːnɒl, -klɒr-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a synthetic crystalline compound used as an insecticide and preservative and in the synthesis of pesticides.

● Chem. formula: $C_6H_2Cl_3(OH)$; six isomers.

tricho- /'trɪkəʊ, 'trʌɪkəʊ/ ▶ combining form of or relating to hair: trichology.

– ORIGIN from Greek thrix, trikhos 'hair'.

trichocyst /'trɪkə(ʊ)sɪst, 'trʌɪ-/ ▶ noun Biology any of numerous minute rod-like structures, each containing a protrusible filament, found near the surface of ciliates and dinoflagellates.

trichology /trɪ'kɒlədʒi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the branch of medical and cosmetic study and practice concerned with the hair and scalp.

– DERIVATIVES trichological adjective, trichologist noun.

trichome /'trʌɪkəʊm, 'trɪ-/ ▶ noun Botany a small hair or other outgrowth from the epidermis of a plant, typically unicellular and glandular.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek trikhōma, from trikhoun 'cover with hair'.

trichomonad /ˌtrɪkə(ʊ)'mɒnad/ ▶ noun Zoology & Medicine a parasitic protozoan with four to six flagella and an undulating membrane, infesting the urogenital or digestive system.

● Order Trichomonadida, phylum Parabasilia, kingdom Protista.

– DERIVATIVES trichomonal adjective.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from modern Latin Trichomonadida (plural), from Greek thrix, trikh- 'hair' + monas, monad- 'unit'.

trichomoniasis /ˌtrɪkə(ʊ)mə'nʌɪəsɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine an infection caused by parasitic trichomonads, chiefly affecting the urinary tract, vagina, or digestive system.

● Genus Trichomonas, in particular T. vaginalis (in the reproductive tract) and T. hominis (in the large intestine).

Trichoptera /trʌɪ'kɒpt(ə)rə/ Entomology an order of insects that comprises the caddis flies.

■ [as plural noun trichoptera] insects of this order.

– DERIVATIVES trichopteran noun & adjective.

– ORIGIN modern Latin (plural), from TRICHO- 'hair' + pteron 'wing'.

trichotomy /trʌɪ'kɒtəmi, trɪ-/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a division into three categories: the pragmatics–semantics–syntax trichotomy.

– DERIVATIVES trichotomous adjective.

– ORIGIN 17th cent.: from Greek trikha 'threefold' from treis 'three', on the pattern of dichotomy.

trichroic /trʌɪ'krəʊɪk/ ▶ adjective Crystallography (of a crystal) appearing with different colours when viewed along the three crystallographic directions.

– DERIVATIVES trichroism /'trʌɪkrəʊɪz(ə)m/ noun.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek trikhroos (from tri- 'three' + khrōs 'colour') + -IC.

trichromatic /ˌtrʌɪkrə'matɪk/ ▶ adjective having or using three colours.

■ having normal colour vision, which is sensitive to all three primary colours.

– DERIVATIVES trichromatism noun.

trichrome /'trʌɪkrəʊm/ ▶ adjective Biology denoting a stain or method of histological staining in which different tissues are stained, each in one of three different colours.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from TRI- 'three' + Greek khrōma 'colour'.

trick ▶ noun 1 a cunning or skilful act or scheme intended to deceive or outwit someone: he's a double-dealer capable of any mean trick.

■ a mischievous practical joke: she thought Elaine was playing some trick on her. ■ a skilful act performed for entertainment or amusement: he did conjuring tricks for his daughters. ■ an illusion: I thought I saw a flicker of emotion, but it was probably a trick of the light. ■ a clever or particular way of doing something: the trick is to put one ski forward and kneel.

2 a peculiar or characteristic habit or mannerism: she had a trick of clipping off certain words and phrases.

3 (in bridge, whist, and similar card games) a sequence of cards forming a single round of play. One card is laid down by each player, the highest card being the winner.

4 informal a prostitute's client.

5 a sailor's turn at the helm, usually lasting for two or four hours.

▶ verb [with obj.] 1 (often be tricked) deceive or outwit (someone) by being cunning or skilful: many people have been tricked by villains with false identity cards.

■ (trick someone into) use deception to make someone do (something): he tricked her into parting with the money. ■ (trick someone out of) use deception to deprive someone of (something): two men tricked a pensioner out of several hundred pounds.

2 Heraldry sketch (a coat of arms) in outline, with the colours indicated by letters or signs.

▶ adjective [attrib.] 1 intended or used to deceive or mystify, or to create an illusion: a trick question.

2 N. Amer. liable to fail; defective: a trick knee.

– PHRASES do the trick informal achieve the required result. every trick in the book informal every available method of achieving what one wants. how's tricks? informal used as a friendly greeting: 'How's tricks in your neck of the woods?' not miss a trick see MISS[1]. the oldest trick in the book a ruse so hackneyed that it should no longer deceive anyone. trick or treat chiefly N. Amer. a children's custom of calling at houses at Halloween with the threat of pranks if they are not given a small gift (often used as a greeting by children doing this). tricks of the trade special ingenious techniques used in a profession or craft, especially those that are little known by outsiders. turn a trick informal (of a prostitute) have a session with a client. up to one's (old) tricks informal misbehaving in a characteristic way.

– DERIVATIVES tricker noun, trickish adjective (dated).

– ORIGIN late Middle English (as a noun): from an Old French dialect variant of triche, from trichier 'deceive', of unknown origin. Current senses of the verb date from the mid 16th cent.

▶ trick someone/thing out (or up) (usu. be tricked out) dress or decorate someone or something in an elaborate or showy way: a Marine tricked out in World War II kit and weaponry. [ORIGIN: late 15th cent.: perhaps associated with obsolete French s'estriquer.]

trick cyclist ▶ noun Brit. informal used as a humorous euphemism for a psychiatrist.

trickery ▶ noun (pl. -ies) [mass noun] the practice of deception: the dealer resorted to trickery.

trickle ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (of a liquid) flow in a small stream: a solitary tear trickled down her cheek | [as adj. trickling] a trickling brook.

■ [with obj. and adverbial of direction] cause (a liquid) to flow in a small stream: Philip trickled a line of sauce on his fish fingers. ■ come or go slowly or gradually: the details began to trickle out.

▶ noun a small flow of liquid: a trickle of blood.

■ a small group or number of people or things moving slowly: the traffic had dwindled to a trickle.

▶ trickle down (of wealth) gradually benefit the poorest as a result of the increasing wealth of the richest.

– ORIGIN Middle English (as a verb): imitative.

trickle charger ▶ noun an electrical charger for batteries that works at a steady slow rate from the mains.

trickle-down ▶ adjective (of an economic system) in which the poorest gradually benefit as a result of the increasing wealth of the richest.

trickle irrigation ▶ noun [mass noun] the supply of a controlled restricted flow of water to a number of points in a cultivated area.

trickster ▶ noun a person who cheats or deceives people.

tricksy ▶ adjective (tricksier, tricksiest) clever in an ingenious or deceptive way: tricksy little repro low-level cupboards.

■ (of a person) playful or mischievous.

– DERIVATIVES tricksily adverb, tricksiness noun.

tricky ▶ adjective (trickier, trickiest) (of a task, problem, or situation) requiring care and skill because difficult or awkward: applying eyeliner can be a tricky business | some things are very tricky to explain.

■(of a person or act) deceitful, crafty, or skilful.
– DERIVATIVES trickily adverb, trickiness noun.

triclad /'trʌɪklad/ ▶ noun Zoology a free-living flatworm of an order characterized by having a gut with three branches, including the planarians.
● Order Tricladida, class Turbellaria.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from modern Latin Tricladida, from TRI- 'three' + Greek klados 'branch'.

triclinic /trʌɪ'klɪnɪk/ ▶ adjective of or denoting a crystal system or three-dimensional geometrical arrangement having three unequal oblique axes.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Greek TRI- 'three' + -clinic, on the pattern of monoclinic.

triclinium /trʌɪ'klɪnɪəm, trɪ-, -'klʌɪn-/ ▶ noun (pl. triclinia /-nɪə/) a dining table with couches along three sides used in ancient Rome.
■a room containing such a table.
– ORIGIN Latin, from Greek triklinion, from tri- 'three' + klinē 'couch'.

tricolour /'trɪkələ, 'trʌɪkʌlə/ (US tricolor) ▶ noun a flag with three bands or blocks of different colours, especially the French national flag with equal upright bands of blue, white, and red.
▶ adjective (also tricoloured) having three colours.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from French tricolore, from late Latin tricolor (see TRI-, COLOUR).

tricorne /'trʌɪkɔ:n/ (also tricorn) ▶ adjective [attrib.] (of a hat) having a brim turned up on three sides.
▶ noun a hat of this kind.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from French tricorne or Latin tricornis, from tri- 'three' + cornu 'horn'.

tricot /'trɪkəʊ, 'tri:-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a fine knitted fabric made of a natural or man-made fibre.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from French, literally 'knitting', from tricoter 'to knit', of unknown origin.

tricoteuse /ˌtrɪkə'tə:z, French trikɔtøz/ ▶ noun (pl. pronounced same) a woman who sits and knits (used in particular in reference to a number of women who did this, during the French Revolution, while attending public executions).
– ORIGIN French, from tricoter 'to knit'.

tric-trac ▶ noun [mass noun] historical a form of backgammon.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from French, from the clicking sound made by the game pieces.

tricuspid /trʌɪ'kʌspɪd/ ▶ adjective 1 having three cusps or points, in particular:
■denoting a tooth with three cusps or points.
■denoting a valve formed of three triangular segments, particularly that between the right atrium and ventricle of the heart.
2 [attrib.] of or relating to the tricuspid valve: tricuspid atresia.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from TRI- 'three' + Latin cuspis, cuspid- 'cusp'.

tricycle ▶ noun a vehicle similar to a bicycle, but having three wheels, two at the back and one at the front.
■a three-wheeled motor vehicle for a disabled driver.
▶ verb [no obj.] [often as noun tricycling] ride on a tricycle.
– DERIVATIVES tricyclist noun.

tricyclic /trʌɪ'sʌɪklɪk/ ▶ adjective Chemistry (of a compound) having three rings of atoms in its molecule.
▶ noun (usu. tricyclics) Medicine any of a class of antidepressant drugs having molecules with three fused rings.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from TRI- 'three' + Greek kuklos 'circle' + -IC.

tridactyl /trʌɪ'daktɪl/ ▶ adjective Zoology (of a vertebrate limb) having three toes or fingers.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from TRI- 'three' + Greek daktulos 'finger'.

trident ▶ noun a three-pronged spear, especially as an attribute of Poseidon (Neptune) or Britannia.
■(Trident) a US design of submarine-launched long-range ballistic missile.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin trident-, from tri- 'three' + dens, dent- 'tooth'.

Tridentine /trɪ'dɛntʌɪn, trʌɪ-/ ▶ adjective of or relating to the Council of Trent, especially as the basis of Roman Catholic doctrine.
– ORIGIN from medieval Latin Tridentinus, from Tridentum 'Trent'.

Tridentine mass ▶ noun the Latin Eucharistic liturgy used by the Roman Catholic Church from 1570 to 1964.

triduum /'trɪdjʊəm, 'trʌɪ-/ ▶ noun [in sing.] (especially in the Roman Catholic Church) a period of three days' observance, specifically Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, and Holy Saturday.
– ORIGIN Latin, from tri- 'three' + dies 'day'.

tridymite /'trɪdɪmʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a high-temperature form of quartz found as thin hexagonal crystals in some igneous rocks and stony meteorites.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from German Tridymit, from Greek tridumos 'threefold', from tri- 'three' + -dumos (as in didumos 'twin'), because of its occurrence in groups of three crystals.

tried past and past participle of TRY. ▶ adjective [attrib.] used in various phrases to describe something that has proved effective or reliable before: novel applications of tried-and-tested methods.
– PHRASES the tried and true something that has proved effective or reliable before: supermarkets generally stick to the tried and true.

triene /'trʌɪi:n/ ▶ noun Chemistry an unsaturated hydrocarbon containing three double bonds between carbon atoms.

triennial /trʌɪ'ɛnɪəl/ ▶ adjective recurring every three years: the triennial meeting of the Association.
■lasting for or relating to a period of three years.
▶ noun a visitation of an Anglican diocese by its bishop every three years.
– DERIVATIVES triennially adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from late Latin triennis (from Latin tri- 'three' + annus 'year') + -AL.

triennium /trʌɪ'ɛnɪəm/ ▶ noun (pl. triennia /-nɪə/ or trienniums) a specified period of three years.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin, from tri- 'three' + annum 'year'.

Trier /trɪə/ a city on the River Mosel in Rhineland-Palatinate, western Germany; pop. 98,750 (1991). French name TRÈVES. Established by a Germanic tribe, the Treveri, *c.*400 BC, Trier is one of the oldest cities in Europe. It was a powerful archbishopric from 815 until the 18th century, but fell into decline after the French occupation in 1797.

trier ▶ noun 1 a person who always makes an effort, however unsuccessful they may be: Kelly was described by her teachers as a real trier.
2 a person or body responsible for investigating and deciding a case judicially: the jury is the trier of fact.

Trieste /trɪ'ɛst/ a city in NE Italy, the largest port on the Adriatic and capital of Friuli-Venezia Giulia region; pop. 231,000 (1990). Formerly held by Austria (1382–1918), Trieste was annexed by Italy after the First World War. The Free Territory of Trieste was created after the Second World War but returned to Italy in 1954.

trifa /'trʌɪfə/ ▶ adjective another term for TREFA.

trifacial nerve /trʌɪ'feɪʃ(ə)l/ ▶ noun another term for TRIGEMINAL NERVE.

trifecta /trʌɪ'fɛktə/ ▶ noun N. Amer. & Austral./NZ a bet in which the person betting forecasts the first three finishers in a race in the correct order. See also TRICAST.
■[in sing.] a run of three wins or grand events: today is a trifecta of birthdays.
– ORIGIN 1970s: from TRI- 'three' + PERFECTA.

triffid ▶ noun (in science fiction) one of a race of predatory plants which are capable of growing to a gigantic size and are possessed of locomotor ability and a poisonous sting.
– ORIGIN coined by John Wyndham in Day of the Triffids (1951).

trifid /'trʌɪfɪd/ ▶ adjective 1 chiefly Biology partly or wholly split into three divisions or lobes.
2 (also trefid) (of an antique spoon) with three notches splitting the end of the handle.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Latin trifidus, from tri- 'three' + fid- 'split, divided' (from the verb findere).

trifle ▶ noun 1 a thing of little value or importance: we needn't trouble the headmaster over such trifles.
■[in sing.] a small amount of something: the thousand yen he'd paid seemed the merest trifle.
2 Brit. a cold dessert of sponge cake and fruit covered with layers of custard, jelly, and cream.
▶ verb [no obj.] 1 (trifle with) treat (someone or something) without seriousness or respect: he is not a man to be trifled with | men who trifle with women's affections.
2 archaic talk or act frivolously: we will not trifle—life is too short.
■[with obj.] (trifle something away) waste (something, especially time) frivolously.
– PHRASES a trifle a little; somewhat: his methods are a trifle eccentric.
– DERIVATIVES trifler noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (also denoting an idle story told to deceive or amuse): from Old French trufle, by-form of trufe 'deceit', of unknown origin. The verb derives from Old French truffler 'mock, deceive'.

trifling ▶ adjective unimportant or trivial: a trifling sum.
– DERIVATIVES triflingly adverb.

trifluoperazine /ˌtrʌɪflu:ə(ʊ)'pɛrəzi:n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine an antipsychotic and sedative drug related to phenothiazine.
– ORIGIN mid 20th cent.: from TRI- + fluo(rine) + (pi)perazine.

trifocal ▶ adjective (of a pair of glasses) having lenses with three parts with different focal lengths.
▶ noun (trifocals) a pair of glasses with such lenses.

trifoliate /trʌɪ'fəʊlɪət/ ▶ adjective (of a compound leaf) having three leaflets: dark green trifoliate leaves.
■(of a plant) having such leaves. ■(of an object or design) having the form of such a leaf: a bronze trifoliate key handle.

triforium /trʌɪ'fɔ:rɪəm/ ▶ noun (pl. triforia /-rɪə/) a gallery or arcade above the arches of the nave, choir, and transepts of a church.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Anglo-Latin, of unknown origin.

triform ▶ adjective technical composed of three parts: strawberries nestling among their triform leaves.

trifurcate ▶ verb /'trʌɪfəkeɪt/ [no obj.] divide into three branches or forks.
▶ adjective /-'fə:kət/ divided into three branches or forks.
– DERIVATIVES trifurcation noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin trifurcus 'three-forked' (from tri- 'three' + furca 'fork') + -ATE[2].

trig[1] ▶ noun [mass noun] informal trigonometry.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: abbreviation.

trig[2] US or archaic ▶ adjective neat and smart in appearance: two trig little boys, each in a gray flannel suit.
▶ verb (trigged, trigging) [with obj.] make neat and smart in appearance: he has rigged her and trigged her with paint and spar.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'faithful, trusty'): from Old Norse tryggr; related to TRUE. The current verb sense dates from the late 17th cent.

trigamous /'trɪgəməs/ ▶ adjective having three wives or husbands at the same time.
– DERIVATIVES trigamist noun, trigamy noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Greek trigamos (from tri- 'three' + gamos 'marriage') + -OUS. The nouns trigamist and trigamy date from the mid 17th cent.

trigeminal nerve /trʌɪ'dʒɛmɪn(ə)l/ ▶ noun Anatomy each of the fifth and largest pair of cranial nerves, supplying the front part of the head and dividing into the ophthalmic, maxillary, and mandibular nerves.

trigeminal neuralgia ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine neuralgia involving one or more of the branches of the trigeminal nerves, and often causing severe pain.

trigeminus /trʌɪ'dʒɛmɪnəs/ ▶ noun (pl. trigemini /-nʌɪ/) Anatomy the trigeminal nerve.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin, literally 'three born at the same birth', extended to mean 'threefold'.

trigger ▶ noun a small device that releases a spring or catch and so sets off a mechanism, especially in order to fire a gun: he pulled the trigger of the shotgun.
■an event or thing that causes something to happen: the trigger for the strike was the closure of a mine.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 (often be triggered) cause (an event or situation) to happen or exist: an allergy can be triggered by stress or overwork.
■cause (a device) to function.
– PHRASES quick on the trigger quick to respond.
– DERIVATIVES triggered adjective.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from dialect tricker, from Dutch trekker, from trekken 'to pull'.

trigger finger ▶ noun 1 the forefinger of the right hand, as that with which the trigger of a gun is typically pulled.
2 [mass noun] Medicine a defect in a tendon causing a finger to jerk or snap straight when the hand is extended.

triggerfish ▶ noun (pl. same or -fishes) a marine fish occurring chiefly in tropical inshore waters. It has a large stout dorsal spine which can be erected and locked into place, allowing the fish to wedge itself into crevices.
• Family Balistidae: numerous genera and species.

trigger hair ▶ noun a hair-like structure which triggers a rapid movement when touched, in particular:
■ Zoology (in a coelenterate) a filament at the mouth of a nematocyst, triggering the emission of the stinging hair. ■ Botany a bristle on the leaf of a Venus flytrap, triggering the closure of the leaf around an insect.

trigger-happy ▶ adjective ready to react violently, especially by shooting, on the slightest provocation: territory controlled by trigger-happy bandits.

trigger point ▶ noun a particular circumstance or situation which causes an event to occur: the army's refusal to withdraw from the territory was the trigger point for military action.
■ Physiology & Medicine a sensitive area of the body, stimulation or irritation of which causes a specific effect in another part, especially a tender area in a muscle which causes generalized musculoskeletal pain when overstimulated.

Triglav /'tri:glaf/ a mountain in the Julian Alps, NW Slovenia, near the Italian border. Rising to 2,863 m (9,392 ft), it is the highest peak in the mountains east of the Adriatic.

triglyceride /trʌɪ'glɪsərʌɪd/ ▶ noun Chemistry an ester formed from glycerol and three fatty acid groups. Triglycerides are the main constituents of natural fats and oils.

triglyph /'trʌɪglɪf/ ▶ noun Architecture a tablet in a Doric frieze with three vertical grooves alternating with metopes.
– DERIVATIVES triglyphic adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: via Latin from Greek trigluphos, from tri- 'three' + gluphē 'carving'.

trigon /'trʌɪgɒn/ ▶ noun archaic term for TRIANGLE.
■ an ancient triangular lyre or harp. ■ a triangular cutting region formed by three cusps on an upper molar tooth.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (in the sense 'triangle'): via Latin from Greek trigōnon, neuter of trigōnos 'three-cornered'.

trigonal /'trɪg(ə)n(ə)l/ ▶ adjective triangular: square or trigonal double-sided inserts.
■ chiefly Biology triangular in cross section: large trigonal shells. ■ of or denoting a crystal system or three-dimensional geometrical arrangement having three equal axes separated by equal angles that are not right angles.
– DERIVATIVES trigonally adverb.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from medieval Latin trigonalis, from Latin trigonum (see TRIGON).

trigone /trɪ'gəʊn, 'trʌɪ-/ ▶ noun Anatomy a triangular region or tissue, particularly the area at the base of the urinary bladder, between the openings of the ureters and urethra.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from French, from Latin trigonum 'triangle'.

trigonometry /ˌtrɪgə'nɒmɪtrɪ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the branch of mathematics dealing with the relations of the sides and angles of triangles and with the relevant functions of any angles.
– DERIVATIVES trigonometric /-nə'mɛtrɪk/ adjective, trigonometrical adjective.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from modern Latin trigonometria (see TRIGON, -METRY).

trig point ▶ noun Brit. a reference point on high ground used in surveying, typically marked by a small pillar.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: abbreviation of trigonometrical point.

trigram /'trʌɪgram/ ▶ noun 1 another term for TRIGRAPH.
2 each of the eight figures formed of three parallel lines, each either whole or broken, combined to form the sixty-four hexagrams of the I Ching.

trigraph /'trʌɪgrɑ:f/ ▶ noun a group of three letters representing one sound, for example German sch-.

trihedral /trʌɪ'hi:dr(ə)l, -'hɛdr(ə)l/ ▶ adjective (of a solid figure or body) having three sides or faces (in addition to the base or ends); triangular in cross section.
▶ noun a trihedral figure.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Greek tri- 'three' + hedra 'base' + -AL.

trihedron /trʌɪ'hi:drən, -'hɛdrən/ ▶ noun (pl. trihedra /-drə/ or trihedrons) a solid figure having three sides or faces (in addition to the base or ends).
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from TRI- 'three' + -HEDRON, on the pattern of words such as polyhedron.

trihydric /trʌɪ'hʌɪdrɪk/ ▶ adjective Chemistry (of an alcohol) containing three hydroxyl groups.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from TRI- 'three' + HYDROGEN + -IC.

triiodomethane /trʌɪˌʌɪəʊdə(ʊ)'mi:θeɪn/ ▶ noun another term for IODOFORM.

triiodothyronine /trʌɪˌʌɪəʊdə(ʊ)'θʌɪrəni:n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a thyroid hormone similar to thyroxine but having greater potency.

trike informal ▶ noun 1 a tricycle.
2 a kind of ultralight aircraft.
▶ verb [no obj.] ride on a tricycle.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: abbreviation.

trilateral ▶ adjective shared by or involving three parties: trilateral negotiations.
■ Geometry of, on, or with three sides.
▶ noun a triangle.

trilby ▶ noun (pl. -ies) chiefly Brit. a soft felt hat with a narrow brim and indented crown.
– DERIVATIVES trilbied adjective.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from the name of the heroine in G. du Maurier's novel Trilby (1894), in the stage version of which such a hat was worn.

trilinear ▶ adjective Mathematics of or having three lines.

trilingual ▶ adjective (of a person) speaking three languages fluently.
■ (of a text or an activity) written or conducted in three languages: CNN have begun offering a trilingual entertainment service.
– DERIVATIVES trilingualism noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from TRI- 'three' + Latin lingua 'tongue' + -AL.

trilithon /trʌɪ'lɪθ(ə)n/ (also trilith /'trʌɪlɪθ/) ▶ noun Archaeology a megalithic structure consisting of two upright stones and a third across the top as a lintel.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Greek, from tri- 'three' + lithos 'stone'.

trill ▶ noun a quavering or vibratory sound, especially a rapid alternation of sung or played notes: they heard the muffled trill of the telephone | the caged bird launched into a piercing trill.
■ the pronunciation of a consonant, especially r, with rapid vibration of the tongue against the hard or soft palate or the uvula.
▶ verb [no obj.] produce a quavering or warbling sound: a skylark was trilling overhead | [with direct speech] 'Coming sir,' they both trilled.
■ [with obj.] sing (a note or song) with a warbling or quavering sound: trilling a love ballad, she led him to her chair. ■ [with obj.] pronounce (a consonant) by rapid vibration of the tongue against the hard or soft palate or the uvula.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Italian trillo (noun), trillare (verb).

triller ▶ noun an Australasian and SE Asian songbird of the cuckoo-shrike family, with mainly black and white plumage.
• Family Campephagidae: two genera, in particular Lalage, and several species.

trillion ▶ cardinal number (pl. trillions or (with numeral) same) a million million (1,000,000,000,000 or 10^{12}).
■ (trillions) informal a very large number or amount: the yammering of trillions of voices. ■ dated, chiefly Brit. a million million million (1,000,000,000,000,000,000 or 10^{18}).
– DERIVATIVES trillionth ordinal number.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from French, from million, by substitution of the prefix tri- 'three' for the initial letters.

trillium /'trɪlɪəm/ ▶ noun a plant with a solitary three-petalled flower above a whorl of three leaves, native to North America and Asia.
• Genus Trillium, family Liliaceae (or Trilliaceae).
– ORIGIN modern Latin, apparently an alteration of Swedish trilling 'triplet'.

trilobite /'trʌɪlə(ʊ)bʌɪt, 'trɪ-/ ▶ noun a fossil marine arthropod that occurred abundantly during the Palaeozoic era, with a carapace over the forepart, and a segmented hindpart divided longitudinally into three lobes.
• Subphylum Trilobita, phylum Arthropoda: numerous classes and orders.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from modern Latin Trilobites, from Greek tri- 'three' + lobos 'lobe'.

trilogy ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a group of three related novels, plays, films, operas, or albums.
■ (in ancient Greece) a series of three tragedies performed one after the other. [ORIGIN: from Greek trilogia.] ■ figurative a group or series of three related things: a trilogy of cases reflected this development.

Trim a town in Meath, in the Republic of Ireland, situated to the north-west of Dublin; pop. 18,120 (1991).

trim ▶ verb (trimmed, trimming) [with obj.] 1 make (something) neat or of the required size or form by cutting away irregular or unwanted parts: trim the grass using a sharp mower.
■ [with obj. and adverbial] cut off (irregular or unwanted parts): he was trimming the fat off some pork chops. ■ figurative reduce the size, amount, or number of (something, typically expenditure or costs): Congress had to decide which current defence programmes should be trimmed. ■ [no obj.] (trim down) (of a person) lose weight; become slimmer: he trimmed down from twenty-two stone to a mere eighteen. ■ firm up or lose weight from (a part of one's body).
2 (usu. be trimmed) decorate (something), typically with contrasting items or pieces of material: a pair of black leather gloves trimmed with fake fur.
3 adjust (a sail) to take advantage of the wind.
■ adjust the balance of (a ship or aircraft) by rearranging its cargo. ■ keep or adjust the degree to which (an aircraft) can be maintained at a constant altitude without any control forces being present. ■ [no obj.] adapt one's views to the prevailing political trends for personal advancement.
4 informal, dated get the better of (someone), typically by cheating them out of money.
5 informal, dated rebuke (someone) angrily.
▶ noun [mass noun] 1 additional decoration, typically along the edges of something and in contrasting colour or material: suede sandals with gold trim | [count noun] we painted the buildings off-white with a blue trim.
■ decorative additions to a vehicle, typically the upholstery or interior lining of a car.
2 [in sing.] an act of cutting off part of something in order to neaten it: his hair needs a trim.
■ [count noun] a short piece of film cut out during the final editing stage.
3 the state of being in good order or condition: no one had been there for months—everything was out of trim.
4 the degree to which an aircraft can be maintained at a constant altitude without any control forces being present: the pilot's only problem was the need to constantly readjust the trim.
5 the way in which a ship floats in the water, especially in relation to the fore-and-aft line.
▶ adjective (trimmer, trimmest) neat and smart in appearance; in good order: she kept her husband's clothes neat and trim | a trim little villa.
■ (of a person or their body) slim and fit: she has a trim, athletic figure.
– PHRASES in trim slim and fit. ■ Nautical in good order. trim one's sails (to the wind) make changes to suit one's new circumstances.
– DERIVATIVES trimly adverb, trimness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English trymman, trymian 'make firm, arrange', of which the adjective appears to be a derivative. The word's history is obscure; current verb senses date from the early 16th cent. when usage became frequent and served many purposes: this is possibly explained by spoken or dialect use in the Middle English period not recorded in extant literature.

trimaran /'trʌɪməran/ ▶ noun a yacht with three hulls in parallel.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from TRI- + CATAMARAN.

trimer /'trʌɪmə/ ▶ noun Chemistry a polymer comprising three monomer units.
– DERIVATIVES trimeric adjective.

trimerous /'trɪm(ə)rəs, 'trʌɪ-/ ▶ adjective Botany & Zoology having parts arranged in groups of three.
■ consisting of three joints or parts.

trimester /trʌɪ'mɛstə/ ▶ noun a period of three months, especially as a division of the duration of pregnancy.
■ US each of the three terms in an academic year.

– DERIVATIVES trimestral adjective, trimestrial adjective.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from French trimestre, from Latin trimestris, from tri- 'three' + mensis 'month'.

trimeter /'trɪmɪtə, 'traɪ-/ ▶ noun Prosody a line of verse consisting of three metrical feet.
– DERIVATIVES trimetric adjective, trimetrical adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: via Latin from Greek trimetros, from tri- 'three' + metron 'measure'.

trimethoprim /traɪ'mɛθə(ʊ)prɪm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a synthetic antibiotic used to treat malaria and respiratory and urinary infections (usually in conjunction with a sulphonamide).
– ORIGIN 1960s: from trimeth(yl) + o(xy-) + p(y)rim(idine).

trimix /'traɪmɪks/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a breathing mixture for deep-sea divers, composed of nitrogen, helium, and oxygen.

trimmer ▶ noun 1 an implement used for trimming off the unwanted or untidy parts of something: a hedge trimmer.
2 a person who adapts their views to the prevailing political trends for personal advancement.
3 a person who decorates something: window trimmers.
4 (also trimmer joist) Architecture a crosspiece fixed between full-length joists (and often across the end of truncated joists) to form part of the frame of an opening in a floor or roof.
5 a person responsible for trimming the sails of a yacht.
■ a person employed to arrange cargo or fuel in a ship's hold.
6 a small capacitor or other component used to tune a circuit such as a radio set.
7 Austral./NZ informal an excellent or outstanding person or thing.

trimming ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] the action of cutting off the unwanted or untidy parts of something: he keeps his hair short by continual trimming.
■ (trimmings) small pieces cut off in such a way: hedge trimmings.
2 (usu. trimmings) decoration, especially for clothing: a white romper suit with pink trimmings | [mass noun] a party dress with lace trimming.
■ (the trimmings) informal the traditional accompaniments to something, especially a meal or special occasion: roast turkey with all the trimmings.

Trimontium /traɪ'mɒntɪəm/ Roman name for PLOVDIV.

trimpot ▶ noun a small potentiometer used to make small adjustments to the value of resistance or voltage in an electronic circuit.

trim tab (also trimming tab) ▶ noun Aeronautics an adjustable tab or aerofoil attached to a control surface, used to trim an aircraft in flight.

Trimurti /trɪ'mʊrti, trɪ'mʊəti/ Hinduism the trinity of Brahma, Vishnu, and Shiva.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit tri 'three' + mūrti 'form'.

Trincomalee /ˌtrɪŋkəmə'liː/ the principal port of Sri Lanka, on the east coast; pop. 44,300 (1981). It was the chief British naval base in SE Asia during the Second World War after the fall of Singapore.

trine /traɪn/ Astrology ▶ noun an aspect of 120° (one third of a circle): Venus in trine to Mars | [as modifier] a trine aspect. See also GRAND TRINE.
▶ verb [with obj.] (of a planet) be in a trine aspect with (another planet or position): Jupiter trines Pluto all month.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'made up of three parts'): from Old French trin(e), from Latin trinus 'threefold', from tres 'three'.

Trini /'trɪnɪ/ ▶ noun W. Indian a Trinidadian.
– ORIGIN abbreviation.

Trinidad and Tobago /'trɪnɪdad, tə'beɪgəʊ/ a country in the Caribbean consisting of two islands off the NE coast of Venezuela; pop. 1,213,700 (1990); languages, English (official), Creoles; capital, Port-of-Spain (on Trinidad).

Much the larger of the two islands is Trinidad, with Tobago to the north-east. Trinidad, inhabited by Arawaks, was visited by Columbus in 1498 and settled by the Spanish; Tobago, occupied by Caribs, was colonized by the French and later the British in the 18th century. Trinidad became British during the Napoleonic Wars and was formally amalgamated with Tobago as a Crown Colony in 1888. Trinidad and Tobago became an independent member state of the Commonwealth in 1962 and finally a republic in 1976.

– DERIVATIVES Trinidadian /ˌtrɪnɪ'deɪdɪən, -'dadɪən/ adjective & noun, Tobagan adjective & noun, Tobagonian /ˌtəʊbə'gəʊnɪən/ adjective & noun.

Trinitarian /ˌtrɪnɪ'tɛːrɪən/ ▶ adjective of or relating to belief in the doctrine of the Trinity.
▶ noun a person who believes in the doctrine of the Trinity.
– DERIVATIVES Trinitarianism noun.

trinitrotoluene /traɪˌnaɪtrəʊ'tɒljʊiːn/ ▶ noun see TNT.

trinity ▶ noun (pl. -ies) (also the Trinity or the Holy Trinity) the three persons of the Christian Godhead; Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.
■ a group of three people or things: the wine was the first of a trinity of three excellent vintages. ■ [mass noun] the state of being three: God is said to be trinity in unity.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French trinite, from Latin trinitas 'triad', from trinus 'threefold' (see TRINE).

Trinity Brethren ▶ plural noun the members of Trinity House.

Trinity House an association founded in 1514 responsible for the licensing of ships' pilots and the construction and maintenance of buoys and lighthouses around the coasts of England and Wales.

Trinity Sunday ▶ noun the next Sunday after Pentecost, observed in the Western Christian Church as a feast in honour of the Holy Trinity.

Trinity term ▶ noun Brit. (in some universities) the term beginning after Easter.
■ a session of the High Court beginning after Easter.

trinket ▶ noun a small ornament or item of jewellery that is of little value.
– DERIVATIVES trinketry noun.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: of unknown origin.

trinomial /traɪ'nəʊmɪəl/ ▶ adjective 1 (of an algebraic expression) consisting of three terms.
2 Biology (of a taxonomic name) consisting of three terms where the first is the name of the genus, the second that of the species, and the third that of the subspecies or variety.
▶ noun 1 an algebraic expression of three terms.
2 Biology a trinomial taxonomic name.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from TRI- 'three', on the pattern of binomial.

trio ▶ noun (pl. -os) 1 a set or group of three people or things: the hotel was run by a trio of brothers.
■ a group of three musicians: a jazz trio. ■ a composition written for three musicians: Chopin's G minor Trio. ■ the central, typicallycontrastive, section of a minuet, scherzo, or march. ■ (in piquet) a set of three aces, kings, queens, jacks, or tens held in one hand.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Italian, from Latin tres 'three', on the pattern of duo.

triode /'traɪəʊd/ ▶ noun a thermionic valve having three electrodes.
■ a semiconductor rectifier having three connections.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from TRI- 'three' + ELECTRODE.

triolet /'triːə(ʊ)lɛt, 'traɪəlɛt/ ▶ noun a poem of eight lines, typically of eight syllables each, rhyming abaaabab and so structured that the first line recurs as the fourth and seventh and the second as the eighth.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from French.

triose /'traɪəʊz, -s/ ▶ noun Chemistry any of a group of monosaccharide sugars whose molecules contain three carbon atoms.

trio sonata ▶ noun a baroque composition written in three parts, two upper parts and one bass, and usually performed with a keyboard continuo.

trioxide ▶ noun Chemistry an oxide containing three atoms of oxygen in its molecule or empirical formula.

trip ▶ verb (tripped, tripping) 1 [no obj.] catch one's foot on something and stumble or fall: he tripped over his cat | she tripped up during the penultimate lap.
■ [with obj.] cause (someone) to do this: she shot out her foot to trip him up. ■ (trip up) make a mistake: taxpayers often trip up by not declaring taxable income. ■ [with obj.] (trip someone up) detect or expose someone in an error, blunder, or inconsistency: the man was determined to trip him up on his economics.
2 [no obj., with adverbial] walk, run, or dance with quick light steps: they tripped up the terrace steps.
■ (of words) flow lightly and easily: a name which trips off the tongue | the guest list tripped from her lips.
3 [with obj.] activate (a mechanism), especially by contact with a switch, catch, or other electrical device: an intruder trips the alarm.
■ [no obj.] (of part of an electric circuit) disconnect automatically as a safety measure: the plugs will trip as soon as any change in current is detected.
4 [with obj.] Nautical release and raise (an anchor) from the seabed by means of a cable.
■ turn (a yard or other object) from a horizontal to a vertical position for lowering.
5 [no obj.] informal experience hallucinations induced by taking a psychedelic drug, especially LSD: a couple of boys were tripping.
6 [no obj., with adverbial of direction] go on a short journey: when tripping through the Yukon take some time to explore our museums.
▶ noun 1 a journey or excursion, especially for pleasure: Sammy's gone on a school trip | a trip to America.
■ the distance from start to finish of a race: the dog clocked a tremendous 27.47 secs for the 450 metres trip.
2 a stumble or fall due to catching one's foot on something.
■ archaic a mistake: an occasional trip in the performance.
3 informal a hallucinatory experience caused by taking a psychedelic drug, especially LSD: acid trips.
■ an exciting or stimulating experience: it was quite a trip talking to you. ■ a self-indulgent attitude or activity: politics was a sixties trip.
4 a device that activates or disconnects a mechanism, circuit, etc.
■ an instance of a device deactivating or the power supply disconnecting as a safety measure.
5 archaic a light, lively movement of a person's feet: yonder comes Dalinda; I know her by her trip.
– PHRASES trip the light fantastic humorous dance, in particular engage in ballroom dancing. [ORIGIN: from 'Trip it as you go On the light fantastic toe' (Milton's L'Allegro).]
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French triper, from Middle Dutch trippen 'to skip, hop'.

tripartite /traɪ'pɑːtaɪt/ ▶ adjective consisting of three parts: a tripartite classification.
■ shared by or involving three parties: a tripartite coalition government.
– DERIVATIVES tripartitely adverb, tripartition noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin tripartitus, from tri- 'three' + partitus 'divided' (past participle of partiri).

trip computer ▶ noun an electronic odometer, typically with extra capabilities such as the ability to calculate fuel consumption.

tripe ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the first or second stomach of a cow or other ruminant used as food.
2 informal nonsense; rubbish: you do talk tripe sometimes.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, of unknown origin.

trip hammer ▶ noun a large, heavy pivoted hammer used in forging, raised by a cam or lever and allowed to drop on the metal being worked.

trip hop ▶ noun [mass noun] a style of dance music, usually slow in tempo, that combines elements of hip hop and dub reggae with softer, more ambient sounds.

triphthong /'trɪfθɒŋ/ ▶ noun a union of three vowels (letters or sounds) pronounced in one syllable (as in fire). Contrasted with DIPHTHONG, MONOPHTHONG.
■ three written vowel characters representing the sound of a single vowel (as in beau).
– DERIVATIVES triphthongal adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from French triphtongue, from tri- 'three', on the pattern of diphthong.

Tripitaka /trɪ'pɪtəkə/ ▶ noun (the Tripitaka) the sacred canon of Theravada Buddhism, written in the Pali language.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit tripiṭaka, literally 'the three baskets or collections'.

triplane ▶ noun an early type of aeroplane with three pairs of wings, one above the other.

triple ▶ adjective [attrib.] consisting of or involving three parts, things, or people: a triple murder | triple somersaults.
■ having three times the usual size, quality, or strength: a triple dark rum. ■ (of a person or animal) having done or won something three times: a triple champion.
▶ predeterminer three times as much or as many: the copper energy cells had triple the efficiency of silicon cells.
▶ noun 1 a set of three things or parts.

■an amount that is three times as large as another: Rowe scored two single centuries and a triple.

2 (triples) a sporting contest in which each side has three players.

3 (triples) Bell-ringing a system of change-ringing using seven bells, with three pairs changing places each time.

4 Baseball a hit which enables the batter to reach third base.

▶ verb [no obj.] become three times as much or as many: grain prices were expected to triple.

■[with obj.] multiply (something) by three: the party more than tripled its share of the vote.

– DERIVATIVES triply adverb.

– ORIGIN Middle English (as an adjective and adverb): from Old French, or from Latin triplus, from Greek triplous.

triple A ▶ noun 1 [usu. as modifier] Finance the highest grading available from credit rating agencies.

2 the highest competitive level of achievement in baseball.

triple acrostic ▶ noun an acrostic in which the first, middle, and last letters of each line form hidden words.

Triple Alliance ▶ noun a union or association between four powers or states, in particular that made in 1668 between England, the Netherlands, and Sweden against France, and that in 1882 between Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Italy against France and Russia.

triple bond ▶ noun Chemistry a chemical bond in which three pairs of electrons are shared between two atoms.

triple crown ▶ noun 1 (Triple Crown) an award or honour for winning a group of three important events in a sport, in particular (in rugby union) victory by one of the four British home countries over all the other three in the same season.

2 the papal tiara.

Triple Entente an early 20th-century alliance between Great Britain, France, and Russia. Originally a series of loose agreements, the Triple Entente began to assume the nature of a more formal alliance as the prospect of war with the Central Powers became more likely, and formed the basis of the Allied powers in the First World War.

triple harp ▶ noun a large harp without pedals, and with three rows of strings, the middle row providing sharps and flats. Also called WELSH HARP.

triple jump ▶ noun 1 (the triple jump) an athletic event in which competitors attempt to jump as far as possible by performing a hop, a step, and a jump from a running start.

2 Skating a jump in which the skater makes three full turns while in the air.

▶ verb (triple-jump) [no obj.] (of an athlete) perform a triple jump.

– DERIVATIVES triple jumper noun.

triple play ▶ noun Baseball a defensive play in which three runners are put out.

triple point ▶ noun Chemistry the temperature and pressure at which the solid, liquid, and vapour phases of a pure substance can coexist in equilibrium.

triple rhyme ▶ noun a rhyme involving three syllables.

triplet ▶ noun 1 (usu. triplets) one of three children or animals born at the same birth.

2 a set or succession of three similar things.

■Music a group of three equal notes to be performed in the time of two or four. ■ a set of three rhyming lines of verse.

3 Physics & Chemistry an atomic or molecular state characterized by two unpaired electrons with parallel spins.

■a group of three associated lines close together in a spectrum or electrophoretic gel.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from TRIPLE, on the pattern of doublet.

triplet code ▶ noun Biology the standard version of the genetic code, in which a sequence of three nucleotides on a DNA or RNA molecule codes for a specific amino acid in protein synthesis.

triple time ▶ noun [mass noun] musical time with three beats to the bar.

triple tonguing ▶ noun [mass noun] Music a technique in which alternate movements of the tongue are made (typically as in sounding ttk) to facilitate rapid playing of a wind instrument.

triplex /'triplɛks/ ▶ noun 1 (Triplex) [mass noun] Brit. trademark toughened or laminated safety glass, used especially for car windows.

2 [count noun] N. Amer. a building divided into three self-contained residences.

3 Biochemistry a triple-stranded polynucleotide molecule.

▶ adjective having three parts, in particular:

■N. Amer. (of a residence) on three floors: his vast triplex apartment. ■ Biochemistry consisting of three polynucleotide strands linked side by side.

▶ verb (be triplexed) (of electrical equipment or systems) be provided or fitted in triplicate so as to ensure reliability.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (as an adjective in the sense 'threefold'): from Latin, 'threefold', from tri- 'three' + plicare 'to fold'. Current specific senses date from the 1920s.

triplicate ▶ adjective /'triplikət/ [attrib.] existing in three copies or examples: triplicate measurements.

▶ noun /'triplikət/ archaic a thing which is part of a set of three copies or corresponding parts: the triplicate of a letter to the Governor.

▶ verb /'triplikeɪt/ [with obj.] make three copies of (something); multiply by three.

– PHRASES in triplicate three times in exactly the same way: the procedure was repeated in triplicate. ■ existing as a set of three exact copies: this form is in triplicate and must be handed to all employees.

– DERIVATIVES triplication /-'keɪʃ(ə)n/ noun.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin triplicat- 'made three', from the verb triplicare, from triplex, triplic- 'threefold' (see TRIPLEX). The verb dates from the early 17th cent.

triplicity /trɪ'plɪsɪti/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) rare a group of three people or things.

■[mass noun] archaic the state of being triple.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (as a term in astrology): from late Latin triplicitas, from Latin triplex, triplic- 'threefold' (see TRIPLEX).

triploblastic /ˌtrɪplə(ʊ)'blastɪk/ ▶ adjective Zoology having a body derived from three embryonic cell layers (ectoderm, mesoderm, and endoderm), as in all multicellular animals except sponges and coelenterates.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek triploos 'threefold' + -BLAST + -IC.

triploid /'triplɔɪd/ Genetics ▶ adjective (of a cell or nucleus) containing three homologous sets of chromosomes.

■(of an organism or species) composed of triploid cells.

▶ noun a triploid organism, variety, or species.

– DERIVATIVES triploidy noun.

tripmeter ▶ noun a vehicle instrument that can be set to record the distance of individual journeys.

tripod /'trʌɪpɒd/ ▶ noun 1 a three-legged stand for supporting a camera or other apparatus.

2 archaic a stool, table, or cauldron resting on three legs.

■historical the bronze altar at Delphi on which a priestess sat to utter oracles.

– DERIVATIVES tripodal /'trɪpəd(ə)l/ adjective.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: via Latin from Greek tripous, tripod-, from tri- 'three' + pous, pod- 'foot'.

Tripoli /'trɪpəli/ 1 the capital and chief port of Libya, on the Mediterranean coast in the north-west of the country; pop. 990,700 (1984). Founded by Phoenicians in the 7th century BC, its ancient name was Oea. Arabic name TARABULUS AL-GHARB, 'western Tripoli'.

2 a port in NW Lebanon; pop. 160,000 (1988). It was founded *c.*700 BC and was the capital of the Phoenician triple federation formed by the city states Sidon, Tyre, and Arvad. Today it is a major port and commercial centre of Lebanon. Arabic name TARABULUS ASH-SHAM, 'eastern Tripoli', TRÂBLOUS.

tripoli /'trɪpəli/ ▶ noun another term for ROTTENSTONE.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French, from TRIPOLI.

Tripolitania /ˌtrɪpəlɪ'teɪnɪə, trɪˌpɒlɪ-/ a coastal region surrounding Tripoli in North Africa, in what is now NE Libya.

– DERIVATIVES Tripolitanian adjective & noun.

– ORIGIN based on Latin tripolis 'three cities', referring to the Phoenician cities, Oea (now Tripoli), Leptis Magna, and Sabratha, established there in the 7th cent. BC.

tripos /'trʌɪpɒs/ ▶ noun [in sing.] the final honours examination for a BA degree at Cambridge University.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: alteration of Latin tripus 'tripod', with reference to the stool on which a designated graduate (known as the 'Tripos') sat to deliver a satirical speech at the degree ceremony. A sheet of humorous verses (at one time composed by the Tripos) was published on this occasion until the late 19th cent., on the back of which the list of successful candidates for the honours degree in mathematics was originally printed; hence the current sense.

trippant /'trɪp(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective [usu. postpositive] Heraldry (of a stag or deer) represented as walking. Compare with PASSANT.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Old French, literally 'walking or springing lightly', present participle of tripper.

tripper ▶ noun Brit. informal a person who goes on a pleasure trip or excursion.

tripple S. African ▶ noun [in sing.] a horse's gait in which both left and then both right legs move together.

▶ verb [no obj.] (of a horse or a horse and its rider) move at the pace of a tripple.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Dutch trippelen, from trippen 'to skip, trip'.

trippy ▶ adjective (trippier, trippiest) informal resembling or inducing the hallucinatory effect produced by taking a psychedelic drug: trippy house music.

triptych /'trɪptɪk/ ▶ noun a picture or relief carving on three panels, typically hinged together vertically and used as an altarpiece.

■a set of three associated artistic, literary, or musical works intended to be appreciated together.

– ORIGIN mid 18th cent. (denoting a set of three writing tablets hinged or tied together): from TRI- 'three', on the pattern of diptych.

triptyque /trɪp'ti:k/ ▶ noun dated a customs permit serving as a passport for a motor vehicle.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from French, literally 'triptych' (because originally the document had three sections).

Tripura /'trɪpʊərə/ a small state in the far north-east of India, on the eastern border of Bangladesh; capital, Agartala. An ancient Hindu kingdom, Tripura acceded to India after independence in 1947, and achieved full status as a state in 1972.

tripwire ▶ noun a wire stretched close to the ground, working a trap, explosion, or alarm when disturbed and serving to detect or prevent people or animals entering an area.

■a comparatively weak military force employed as a first line of defence, engagement with which will trigger the intervention of strong forces.

triquetra /trʌɪ'kwɛtrə, -'kwi:trə/ ▶ noun (pl. triquetrae /-tri:/) a symmetrical triangular ornament of three interlaced arcs used on metalwork and stone crosses.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (originally denoting a triangle): from Latin, feminine of triquetrus 'three-cornered'.

triquetral (also triquetral bone) ▶ noun Anatomy a carpal bone on the outside of the wrist, articulating with the lunate, hamate, and pisiform bones.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin triquetrus 'three-cornered' + -AL.

trireme /'trʌɪri:m/ ▶ noun an ancient Greek or Roman war galley with three banks of oars. The rowers are believed to have sat in threes on angled benches, rather than in three superimposed banks.

– ORIGIN from Latin triremis, from tri- 'three' + remus 'oar'.

tris[1] /trɪs/ (also tris buffer) ▶ noun [mass noun] a flammable compound which forms a corrosive solution in water and is used as a buffer and emulsifying agent.

● Alternative name: trishydroxymethylaminomethane; chem. formula: $(HOCH_2)_3CNH_2$.

– ORIGIN 1950s: from tris-, the prefix of the systematic name.

tris[2] /trɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an organophosphorus compound, used as a flame retardant.

● Alternative name: tris-2,3-dibromopropylphosphate; chem. formula: $(Br_2C_3H_5)_3PO_4$.

– ORIGIN 1970s: from tris-, the prefix of the systematic name.

trisaccharide /trʌɪ'sakərʌɪd/ ▶ noun Chemistry any of the class of sugars whose molecules contain three monosaccharide molecules.

Trisagion /trɪ'sagɪən, -'seɪgɪən/ ▶ noun a hymn, especially in the Orthodox Church, with a triple invocation of God as holy.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Greek, neuter of trisagios, from tris 'three times' + hagios 'holy'.

trisect /trʌɪ'sɛkt/ ▶ verb [with obj.] divide (something) into three parts, typically three equal parts.
– DERIVATIVES trisection noun, trisector noun.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from TRI- 'three' + Latin sect- 'divided, cut' (from the verb secare).

trishaw /'trʌɪʃɔ:/ ▶ noun a light three-wheeled vehicle with pedals used in the Far East.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from TRI- 'three' + RICKSHAW.

triskaidekaphobia /ˌtrɪskʌɪdɛkə'fəʊbɪə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] extreme superstition regarding the number thirteen.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Greek treiskaideka 'thirteen' + -PHOBIA.

triskelion /trɪ'skɛlɪən/ ▶ noun a Celtic symbol consisting of three legs or lines radiating from a centre.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from TRI- 'three' + Greek skelos 'leg'.

trismus /'trɪzməs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine spasm of the jaw muscles, causing the mouth to remain tightly closed, typically as a symptom of tetanus. Also called LOCKJAW.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from modern Latin, from Greek trismos 'a scream, grinding'.

trisomy /'trɪsəmi/ ▶ noun Medicine a condition in which an extra copy of a chromosome is present in the cell nuclei, causing developmental abnormalities.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from TRI- 'three' + -SOME[3].

trisomy-21 ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine the most common form of Down's syndrome, caused by an extra copy of chromosome number 21.

Tristan /'trɪstən/ variant spelling of TRISTRAM.

Tristan da Cunha /ˌtrɪstən də 'ku:nə/ the largest of a small group of volcanic islands in the South Atlantic, 2,112 km (1,320 miles) south-west of the British colony of St Helena, of which it is a dependency; pop. 292 (1996). It was discovered in 1506 by the Portuguese admiral Tristão da Cunha and annexed to Britain in 1816.

tristesse /trɪ'stɛs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] poetic/literary a state of melancholy sadness.
– ORIGIN French.

Tristram /'trɪstrəm/ (also Tristan) (in medieval legend) a knight who was the lover of Iseult.

trisyllable /trʌɪ'sɪlə(ə)l/ ▶ noun a word or metrical foot of three syllables.
– DERIVATIVES trisyllabic adjective.

tritagonist /trʌɪ'tag(ə)nɪst, trɪ-/ ▶ noun the person who is third in importance, after the protagonist and deuteragonist, in an ancient Greek drama.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek tritagōnistēs, from tritos 'third' + agōnistēs 'actor'.

tritanope /'trɪtənəʊp/ ▶ noun a person suffering from tritanopia.

tritanopia /ˌtrɪtə'nəʊpɪə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a rare form of colour blindness resulting from insensitivity to blue light, causing confusion of greens and blues. Compare with PROTANOPIA.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from TRITO- 'third' (referring to blue as the third colour in the spectrum) + AN-[1] 'without' + -OPIA.

trite ▶ adjective (of a remark, opinion, or idea) overused and consequently of little import; lacking originality or freshness: this point may now seem obvious and trite.
– DERIVATIVES tritely adverb, triteness noun.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin tritus, past participle of terere 'to rub'.

triterpene /trʌɪ'tə:pi:n/ ▶ noun Chemistry any of a group of terpenes found in plant gums and resins, having unsaturated molecules based on a unit with the formula $C_{30}H_{48}$.
– DERIVATIVES triterpenoid adjective & noun.

tritheism /'trʌɪˌθi:ɪz(ə)m/ ▶ noun [mass noun] (in Christian theology) the doctrine of or belief in the three persons of the Trinity as three distinct gods.
– DERIVATIVES tritheist noun.

tritiated /'trɪtɪeɪtɪd/ ▶ adjective Chemistry (of a compound) in which the ordinary isotope of hydrogen has been replaced with tritium.
– DERIVATIVES tritiation noun.

triticale /ˌtrɪtɪ'keɪlɪ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a hybrid cereal produced by crossing wheat and rye, grown as a fodder crop.
– ORIGIN 1950s: modern Latin, from a blend of the genus names Triticum 'wheat' and Secale 'rye'.

tritium /'trɪtɪəm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a radioactive isotope of hydrogen with a mass approximately three times that of the usual isotope. (Symbol: T)

Discovered in 1934, tritium has two neutrons as well as a proton in the nucleus. It occurs in minute traces in nature and can be made artificially from lithium or deuterium in nuclear reactors; it is used as a fuel in thermonuclear bombs.

– ORIGIN 1930s: from modern Latin, from Greek tritos 'third'.

trito- /'trɪtəʊ, 'trʌɪtəʊ/ ▶ combining form third: tritocerebrum.
– ORIGIN from Greek tritos 'third'.

tritocerebrum /ˌtrɪtə(ʊ)'sɛrɪbrəm/ ▶ noun (pl. tritocerebra /-brə/) Entomology the third and hindmost segment of an insect's brain.

Triton /'trʌɪt(ə)n/ 1 Greek Mythology a minor sea god usually represented as a man with a fish's tail and carrying a trident and shell-trumpet.
2 Astronomy the largest satellite of Neptune, the seventh closest to the planet and having a retrograde orbit and a thin nitrogen atmosphere, discovered in 1846 (diameter 2,700 km).

triton[1] ▶ noun a large mollusc which has a tall spiral shell with a large aperture, living in tropical and subtropical seas.
● Genus Charonia, family Cymatiidae, class Gastropoda, in particular C. tritonis, which is used as a trumpet shell.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from TRITON.

triton[2] ▶ noun a nucleus of a tritium atom, consisting of a proton and two neutrons.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from TRITIUM + -ON.

tritone ▶ noun Music an interval of three whole tones (an augmented fourth), as between C and F sharp.

triturate /'trɪtjʊreɪt/ ▶ verb [with obj.] technical grind to a fine powder.
■ chew or grind (food) thoroughly.
– DERIVATIVES trituration noun, triturator noun.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Latin triturat- '(of corn) threshed', from tritura 'rubbing' (from the verb terere).

triumph ▶ noun 1 a great victory or achievement: a garden built to celebrate Napoleon's many triumphs.
■ [mass noun] the state of being victorious or successful: the king returned home in triumph. ■ [mass noun] joy or satisfaction resulting from a success or victory: 'Here it is!' Helen's voice rose in triumph. ■ a highly successful example of something: the marriage had been a triumph of togetherness.
2 the processional entry of a victorious general into ancient Rome.
▶ verb [no obj.] 1 achieve a victory; be successful: they had no chance of triumphing over the Nationalists.
■ rejoice or exult at a victory or success: she stopped triumphing over Mrs Ward's failure.
2 (of a Roman general) ride into ancient Rome after a victory.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French triumphe (noun), from Latin triump(h)us, probably from Greek thriambos 'hymn to Bacchus'. Current senses of the verb date from the early 16th cent.

triumphal ▶ adjective made, carried out, or used in celebration of a great victory or achievement: a vast triumphal arch | a triumphal procession.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French triumphal or Latin triumphalis, from triump(h)us (see TRIUMPH).

triumphalism ▶ noun [mass noun] excessive exultation over one's success or achievements (used especially in a political context): an air of triumphalism reigns in his administration.
– DERIVATIVES triumphalist adjective & noun.

triumphant ▶ adjective having won a battle or contest; victorious: two of their triumphant Cup team | [postpositive] a comic fairy tale about innocence triumphant.
■ feeling or expressing jubilation after having won a victory or mastered a difficulty: he couldn't suppress a triumphant smile.
– DERIVATIVES triumphantly adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'victorious'): from Old French, or from Latin triumphant- 'celebrating a triumph', from the verb triumphare (see TRIUMPH).

triumvir /trʌɪ'ʌmvə, 'trʌɪəmvə/ ▶ noun (pl. triumvirs or triumviri /-rʌɪ/) (in ancient Rome) each of three public officers jointly responsible for overseeing any of the administrative departments.
– DERIVATIVES triumviral adjective.
– ORIGIN Latin, originally as triumviri (plural), back-formation from trium virorum 'of three men', genitive of tres viri.

triumvirate /trʌɪ'ʌmvɪrət/ ▶ noun 1 (in ancient Rome) a group of three men holding power, in particular (the First Triumvirate) the unofficial coalition of Julius Caesar, Pompey, and Crassus in 60 BC and (the Second Triumvirate) a coalition formed by Antony, Lepidus, and Octavian in 43 BC.
■ a group of three powerful or notable people or things existing in relation to each other: a triumvirate of three former executive vice-presidents.
2 the office of triumvir in ancient Rome.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Latin triumviratus, from triumvir (see TRIUMVIR).

triune /'trʌɪju:n/ ▶ adjective consisting of three in one (used especially with reference to the Trinity): the triune Godhead.
– DERIVATIVES triunity noun (pl. -ies).
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from TRI- 'three' + Latin unus 'one'.

trivalent /trʌɪ'veɪl(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective Chemistry having a valency of three.

Trivandrum /trɪ'vandrəm/ the capital of the state of Kerala, a port on the SW coast of India; pop. 524,000 (1991).

trivet ▶ noun an iron tripod placed over a fire for a cooking pot or kettle to stand on.
■ an iron bracket designed to hook on to bars of a grate for a similar purpose. ■ a stand or support with three or more legs.
– PHRASES (as) right as a trivet Brit. informal perfectly all right; in good health.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: apparently from Latin tripes, triped- 'three-legged', from tri- 'three' + pes, ped- 'foot'.

trivia ▶ plural noun details, considerations, or pieces of information of little importance or value: we fill our days with meaningless trivia.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from modern Latin, plural of trivium 'place where three roads meet', influenced in sense by TRIVIAL.

trivial ▶ adjective of little value or importance: huge fines were imposed for trivial offences | trivial details.
■ (of a person) concerned only with trifling or unimportant things. ■ Mathematics denoting a subgroup that either contains only the identity element or is identical with the given group.
– DERIVATIVES triviality noun (pl. -ies), trivially adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'belonging to the trivium'): from medieval Latin trivialis, from Latin trivium (see TRIVIUM).

trivialize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] make (something) seem less important, significant, or complex than it really is: the problem was either trivialized or ignored by teachers.
– DERIVATIVES trivialization noun.

trivial name ▶ noun chiefly Chemistry a name that is in general use although not part of systematic nomenclature: its common trivial name is citric acid.
■ chiefly Zoology another term for SPECIFIC EPITHET.

trivium /'trɪvɪəm/ ▶ noun historical an introductory course at a medieval university involving the study of grammar, rhetoric, and logic. Compare with QUADRIVIUM.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin, literally 'place where three roads meet', from tri- 'three' + via 'road'.

-trix ▶ suffix (pl. -trices /trɪ'si:z, 'trʌɪsi:z/ or -trixes) (chiefly in legal terms) forming feminine agent nouns corresponding to masculine nouns ending in -tor (such as executrix corresponding to executor).
– ORIGIN from Latin.

USAGE The suffix -trix has been used since the 15th century to form feminine agent nouns corresponding to masculine forms ending in -tor. Although a wide variety of forms has been coined, very few of them have ever had wide currency. In modern use the suffix is found chiefly in legal terms such as executrix, administratrix, and testatrix.

tRNA Biology ▶ abbreviation for transfer RNA.

Troad /'trəʊad/ an ancient region of NW Asia Minor, of which ancient Troy was the chief city.

Trobriand Islands /'trəʊbrɪənd/ a small group of islands in the SW Pacific, in Papua New Guinea, situated off the south-eastern tip of the island of New Guinea.

trocar /'trəʊkɑː/ ▶ noun a surgical instrument with a three-sided cutting point enclosed in a tube, used for withdrawing fluid from a body cavity.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from French trocart, trois-quarts, from trois 'three' + carre 'side, face of an instrument'.

trochaic /trə(ʊ)'keɪɪk/ Prosody ▶ adjective consisting of or featuring trochees.
▶ noun (usu. trochaics) a type of verse that consists of or features trochees.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: via Latin from Greek trokhaikos, from trokhaios (see TROCHEE).

trochal disc ▶ noun Zoology each of two projections below the neck of the femur (thigh bone) to which muscles are attached.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: trochal from Greek trokhos 'wheel' + -AL.

trochanter /trə'kantə/ ▶ noun 1 Anatomy any of a number of bony protuberances by which muscles are attached to the upper part of the thigh bone.
2 Entomology the small second segment of the leg of an insect, between the coxa and the femur.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French, from Greek trokhanter, from trekhein 'to run'.

trochee /'trəʊkiː/ ▶ noun Prosody a foot consisting of one long or stressed syllable followed by one short or unstressed syllable.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: via Latin from Greek trokhaios (pous) 'running (foot)', from trekhein 'to run'.

trochlea /'trɒklɪə/ ▶ noun (pl. trochleae /-liː/) Anatomy a structure resembling or acting like a pulley, such as the groove at the lower end of the humerus forming part of the elbow joint.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: Latin, 'pulley'; compare with Greek trokhilia 'sheave of a pulley'.

trochlear /'trɒklɪə/ ▶ adjective Anatomy of or relating to a part of the body resembling a pulley.

trochlear nerve ▶ noun Anatomy each of the fourth pair of cranial nerves, supplying the superior oblique muscle of the eyeball.

trochoid /'trəʊkɔɪd/ ▶ adjective 1 Anatomy denoting a joint in which one element rotates on its own axis (e.g. the atlas vertebra).
2 Geometry denoting a curve traced by a point on a radius of a circle rotating along a straight line or another circle (a cycloid, epicycloid, or hypocycloid).
3 Zoology having or denoting a form of mollusc shell which is conical with a flat base, like a top shell.
▶ noun 1 a trochoid curve.
2 a trochoid joint.
– DERIVATIVES trochoidal adjective.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Greek trokhoeidēs 'wheel-like', from trokhos 'wheel'.

trochophore /'trəʊkə(ʊ)fɔː, 'trɒk-/ ▶ noun Zoology the planktonic larva of certain invertebrates, including some molluscs and polychaete worms, having a roughly spherical body, a band of cilia, and a spinning motion.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek trokhos 'wheel' + -PHORE.

Trockenbeerenauslese /'trɒk(ə)nˌbɛːr(ə)nˌaʊsleɪzə, German 'trɔknbeːrənˌaʊsleːzə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a sweet German white wine made from selected individual grapes picked later than the general harvest and affected by noble rot.
– ORIGIN German, from trocken 'dry' + BEERENAUSLESE.

troctolite /'trɒktə(ʊ)lʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Geology gabbro made up mainly of olivine and calcic plagioclase, often having a spotted appearance likened to a trout's back.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from German Troklotit, from Greek troktēs, a marine fish (taken to be 'trout').

trod past and past participle of TREAD.

trodden past participle of TREAD.

trog[1] ▶ noun Brit. a person regarded as contemptible or socially inferior.
– ORIGIN 1950s: abbreviation of TROGLODYTE.

trog[2] ▶ verb (trogged, trogging) [no obj., with adverbial of direction] Brit. informal walk heavily or laboriously; trudge: I left him trogging off to the tube station.
– ORIGIN 1980s: perhaps a blend of TRUDGE, SLOG, TROLL[2], and JOG.

troglodyte /'trɒglədʌɪt/ ▶ noun (especially in prehistoric times) a person who lived in a cave.
■ a hermit. ■ a person who is regarded as being deliberately ignorant or old-fashioned.
– DERIVATIVES troglodytic /-'dɪtɪk/ adjective, troglodytism noun.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: via Latin from Greek trōglodutēs, alteration of the name of an Ethiopian people, influenced by trōglē 'hole'.

trogon /'trəʊgɒn/ ▶ noun a bird of tropical American forests, with a long tail and brilliantly coloured plumage.
● Family Trogonidae: several genera, in particular Trogon, and many species; the quetzals also belong to this family.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from modern Latin, from Greek trōgōn, from trōgein 'gnaw'.

troika /'trɔɪkə/ ▶ noun 1 a Russian vehicle pulled by a team of three horses abreast.
■ a team of three horses for such a vehicle.
2 a group of three people working together, especially in an administrative or managerial capacity.
– ORIGIN Russian, from troe 'set of three'.

troilism /'trɔɪlɪz(ə)m/ ▶ noun [mass noun] sexual activity involving three participants.
– ORIGIN 1950s: perhaps based on French trois 'three'.

Troilus /'trɔɪləs/ Greek Mythology a Trojan prince, the son of Priam and Hecuba, killed by Achilles. In medieval legends of the Trojan war he is portrayed as the forsaken lover of Cressida.

Trojan ▶ adjective of or relating to ancient Troy in Asia Minor: Trojan legends.
▶ noun a native or inhabitant of ancient Troy.
– PHRASES work like a Trojan (or Trojans) work extremely hard.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Latin Troianus, from Troia 'Troy'.

Trojan asteroid ▶ noun an asteroid belonging to one of two groups which orbit the sun at the same distance as Jupiter, at the Lagrangian points roughly 60 degrees ahead of it and behind it.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: so named because the first asteroids discovered were named after heroes of the Trojan War.

Trojan Horse ▶ noun (in Greek mythology) a hollow wooden statue of a horse in which the Greeks are said to have concealed themselves in order to enter Troy.
■ figurative a person or thing intended secretly to undermine or bring about the downfall of an enemy or opponent: the rebels may use this peace accord as a Trojan horse to try and take over. ■ Computing a program designed to breach the security of a computer system while ostensibly performing some innocuous function.

Trojan War the legendary ten-year siege of Troy by a coalition of Greeks, described in Homer's Iliad.

The Greeks were attempting to recover Helen, wife of Menelaus, who had been abducted by the Trojan prince Paris. The war ended with the capture of the city by a trick: the Greeks ostensibly ended the siege but left behind a group of men concealed in a hollow wooden horse so large that the city walls had to be breached for it to be drawn inside.

troll[1] /trəʊl, trɒl/ ▶ noun a mythical, cave-dwelling being depicted in folklore as either a giant or a dwarf, typically having a very ugly appearance.
– ORIGIN from Old Norse and Swedish troll, Danish trold; adopted into English from Scandinavian in the mid 19th cent.

troll[2] /trəʊl, trɒl/ ▶ verb [no obj.] 1 fish by trailing a baited line along behind a boat: we trolled for mackerel.
■ search for something: a group of companies trolling for partnership opportunities.
2 [with adverbial of direction] chiefly Brit. walk; stroll: we all trolled into town.
3 [with obj.] sing (something) in a happy and carefree way: he trolled a note or two.
4 Computing, informal send (an e-mail message or posting on the Internet) intended to provoke a response from the reader by containing errors.
▶ noun 1 [mass noun] the action of trolling for fish.
■ [count noun] a line or bait used in such fishing.
2 Computing, informal an e-mail message or posting on the Internet intended to provoke a response in the reader by containing errors.
– DERIVATIVES troller noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'stroll, roll'): origin uncertain; compare with Old French troller 'wander here and there (in search of game)' and Middle High German trollen 'stroll'.

trolley ▶ noun (pl. -eys) 1 Brit. a large metal basket or frame on wheels, used for transporting heavy or unwieldy items, such as purchases in a supermarket or luggage at an airport or railway station.
■ a small table on wheels or castors, typically used to convey food and drink. ■ a hospital bed on wheels for transporting patients who are incapable of moving unaided.
2 (also trolley wheel) a wheel attached to a pole, used for collecting current from an overhead electric wire to drive a tram.
3 short for TROLLEYBUS or TROLLEY CAR.
– PHRASES off one's trolley Brit. informal mad; insane.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: of dialect origin, perhaps from TROLL[2].

trolleybus ▶ noun a bus powered by electricity obtained from overhead wires by means of a pole.

trolley car ▶ noun US a tram powered by electricity obtained from an overhead cable by means of a trolley wheel.

trollius /'trɒlɪəs/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a plant of a genus that comprises the globeflowers.
● Genus Trollius, family Ranunculaceae.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, apparently representing German Trollblume 'globeflower', from the stem of trollen 'to roll' (because of the globular flowers).

trollop ▶ noun dated or humorous a woman perceived as sexually disreputable or promiscuous.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: perhaps related to TRULL.

Trollope /'trɒləp/, Anthony (1815–82), English novelist. He worked for the General Post Office from 1834 to 1867 and introduced the pillar box to Britain. He is best-known for the six 'Barsetshire' novels, including The Warden (1855) and Barchester Towers (1857), and for the six political 'Palliser' novels.

trombone ▶ noun a large brass wind instrument with straight tubing in three sections, ending in a bell over the player's left shoulder, different fundamental notes being made using a forward-pointing extendable slide.
■ an organ stop with the quality of such an instrument.
– DERIVATIVES trombonist noun.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from French or Italian, from Italian trombu 'trumpet'.

trommel /'trɒm(ə)l/ ▶ noun Mining a rotating cylindrical sieve or screen used for washing and sorting pieces of ore or coal.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from German, literally 'drum'.

trompe l'œil /trɒmp 'lɔɪ, French trɔ̃p lœj/ ▶ noun (pl. trompe l'œils pronunc. same) [mass noun] visual illusion in art, especially as used to trick the eye into perceiving a painted detail as a three-dimensional object.
■ [count noun] a painting or design intended to create such an illusion.
– ORIGIN French, literally 'deceives the eye'.

Tromsø /'trɒmsəː/ the principal city of Arctic Norway, situated on an island just west of the mainland; pop. 51,330 (1991).

-tron ▶ suffix Physics 1 denoting a subatomic particle: positron.
2 denoting a particle accelerator: cyclotron.
3 denoting a thermionic valve: ignitron.
– ORIGIN from (elec)tron.

trona /'trəʊnə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a grey mineral which occurs as an evaporite in salt deposits and consists of a hydrated carbonate and bicarbonate of sodium.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Swedish, from Arabic naṭrūn (see NATRON).

tronc /trɒŋk/ ▶ noun (in a hotel or restaurant) a common fund into which tips and service charges are paid for distribution to the staff.
– ORIGIN 1920s: from French, literally 'collecting box'.

Trondheim /'trɒndhʌɪm/ a fishing port in west central Norway; pop. 138,060 (1991). It was the capital of Norway during the Viking period.

Troon /truːn/ a town on the west coast of Scotland, in South Ayrshire; pop. 14,230 (1981). It is noted for its championship golf course.

troop ▶ noun 1 (troops) soldiers or armed forces: UN peacekeeping troops | [as modifier] (troop) troop withdrawals.
■ a cavalry unit commanded by a captain. ■ a unit of artillery and armoured formation. ■ a group of three or more Scout patrols.
2 a group of people or animals of a particular kind: a troop of musicians.
▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (of a group of people) come or go together or in large numbers: the girls trooped in for dinner.
■ (of a lone person) walk at a slow or steady pace: Caroline trooped wearily home from work.
– PHRASES troop the colour Brit. perform the ceremony of parading a regiment's flag along ranks of soldiers.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from French troupe, back-formation from troupeau, diminutive of medieval Latin troppus 'flock', probably of Germanic origin.

troop carrier ▶ noun a large aircraft or armoured vehicle designed for transporting troops.

trooper ▶ noun 1 a private soldier in a cavalry or armoured unit.
■ a cavalry horse. ■ chiefly Brit. a ship used for transporting troops.
2 Austral. & US a mounted police officer.
■ US a state police officer.
– PHRASES swear like a trooper swear a great deal.

troopie ▶ noun (pl. -ies) S. African informal a private soldier, especially a national serviceman.

troopship ▶ noun a ship designed or used for transporting troops.

tropaeolum /trə(ʊ)'piːələm/ ▶ noun a Central and South American trailing or climbing plant of a genus that includes the nasturtium and the canary creeper.
● Genus Tropaeolum, family Tropaeolaceae.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin tropaeum 'trophy', because of the resemblance of the flower and leaf to a helmet and shield.

trope /trəʊp/ ▶ noun a figurative or metaphorical use of a word or expression.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: via Latin from Greek tropos 'turn, way, trope', from trepein 'to turn'.

trophallaxis /ˌtrɒfə'laksɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Entomology the mutual exchange of regurgitated liquids between adult social insects or between them and their larvae.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from TROPHO- 'nourishment' + Greek allaxis 'exchange'.

trophectoderm /trɒ'fɛktə(ʊ)dəːm, trəʊ-/ ▶ noun another term for TROPHOBLAST.

trophic /'trəʊfɪk, 'trɒfɪk/ ▶ adjective Ecology of or relating to feeding and nutrition.
■ Physiology (of a hormone or its effect) stimulating the activity of another endocrine gland.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek trophikos, from trophē 'nourishment', from trephein 'nourish'.

-trophic ▶ combining form 1 relating to nutrition: oligotrophic.
2 relating to maintenance or regulation of a bodily organ or function, especially by a hormone: gonadotrophic.
– DERIVATIVES -trophism combining form in corresponding nouns, -trophy combining form in corresponding nouns.
– ORIGIN from Greek trophikos, from trophē 'nourishment'.

trophic level ▶ noun Ecology each of several hierarchical levels in an ecosystem, consisting of organisms sharing the same function in the food chain and the same nutritional relationship to the primary sources of energy.

tropho- ▶ combining form relating to nourishment: trophoblast.
– ORIGIN from Greek trophē 'nourishment'.

trophoblast /'trɒfə(ʊ)blast, 'trəʊf-/ ▶ noun Embryology a layer of tissue on the outside of a mammalian blastula, supplying the embryo with nourishment and later forming the major part of the placenta.
– DERIVATIVES trophoblastic adjective.

trophozoite /ˌtrɒfə(ʊ)'zəʊʌɪt, ˌtrəʊfə(ʊ)-/ ▶ noun Zoology & Medicine a growing stage in the life cycle of some sporozoan parasites, when they are absorbing nutrients from the host.

trophy ▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 a cup or other decorative object awarded as a prize for a victory or success.
■ a souvenir of an achievement, especially a part of an animal taken when hunting.
2 (in ancient Greece or Rome) the weapons of a defeated army set up as a memorial of victory.
■ a representation of such a memorial; an ornamental group of symbolic objects arranged for display.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent. (in sense 2, denoting a display of weapons): from French trophée, via Latin from Greek tropaion, from tropē 'a rout', from trepein 'to turn'.

trophy wife ▶ noun informal, derogatory a young, attractive wife regarded as a status symbol for an older man.

tropic[1] /'trɒpɪk/ ▶ noun the parallel of latitude 23°26′ north (tropic of Cancer) or south (tropic of Capricorn) of the equator.
■ Astronomy each of two corresponding circles on the celestial sphere where the sun appears to turn after reaching its greatest declination, marking the northern and southern limits of the ecliptic. ■ (the tropics) the region between the tropics of Cancer and Capricorn.
▶ adjective another term for TROPICAL (in sense 1).
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting the point on the ecliptic reached by the sun at the solstice): via Latin from Greek tropikos, from tropē 'turning', from trepein 'to turn'.

tropic[2] /'trəʊpɪk/ ▶ adjective 1 Biology relating to, consisting of, or exhibiting tropism.
2 Physiology variant spelling of TROPHIC.

-tropic ▶ combining form 1 turning towards: heliotropic.
2 affecting: psychotropic.
3 (especially in names of hormones) equivalent to -TROPHIC.
– ORIGIN from Greek tropē 'turn, turning'.

tropical ▶ adjective 1 of, typical of, or peculiar to the tropics: tropical countries | a tropical rainforest.
■ resembling the tropics, especially in being very hot and humid: some plants thrived in last year's tropical summer heat.
2 archaic of or involving a trope; figurative.
– DERIVATIVES tropically adverb.

tropical sprue ▶ noun see SPRUE[2].

tropical storm (also tropical cyclone) ▶ noun a localized, very intense low-pressure wind system, forming over tropical oceans and with winds of hurricane force.

tropical year ▶ noun see YEAR (sense 1).

tropicbird ▶ noun a tropical seabird with mainly white plumage and very long central tail feathers.
● Family Phaethontidae and genus Phaethon: three species.

tropic of Cancer ▶ noun see TROPIC[1].

tropic of Capricorn ▶ noun see TROPIC[1].

tropism /'trəʊpɪz(ə)m, 'trɒp-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biology the turning of all or part of an organism in a particular direction in response to an external stimulus.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek tropos 'turning' (from trepein 'to turn') + -ISM.

tropology /trə'pɒlədʒi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the figurative use of language.
■ Christian Theology the figurative interpretation of the scriptures as a source of moral guidance.
– DERIVATIVES tropological adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: via late Latin from Greek tropologia, from tropos (see TROPE).

tropolone /'trɒpələʊn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry an organic compound present in various plants, with a molecule based on a seven-membered carbon ring.
● An enolic ketone; chem. formula: $C_7H_6O_2$.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from tropilidine (a liquid hydrocarbon) + -OL + -ONE.

tropomyosin /ˌtrəʊpə(ʊ)'mʌɪəsɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a protein involved in muscle contraction. It is related to myosin and occurs together with troponin in the thin filaments of muscle tissue.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from Greek tropos 'turning' + MYOSIN.

troponin /'trəʊpə(ʊ)nɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a globular protein complex involved in muscle contraction. It occurs with tropomyosin in the thin filaments of muscle tissue.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from TROPOMYOSIN + -n- + -IN[1].

tropopause /'trɒpə(ʊ)pɔːz, 'trəʊp-/ ▶ noun the interface between the troposphere and the stratosphere.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Greek tropos 'turning' + PAUSE.

troposphere /'trɒpə(ʊ)sfɪə, 'trəʊp-/ ▶ noun the lowest region of the atmosphere, extending from the earth's surface to a height of about 6–10 km (the lower boundary of the stratosphere).
– DERIVATIVES tropospheric adjective.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Greek tropos 'turning' + SPHERE.

troppo[1] /'trɒpəʊ/ ▶ adverb [usu. with negative] Music (in directions) too much; excessively: allegro ma non troppo.
– ORIGIN Italian.

troppo[2] /'trɒpəʊ/ ▶ adjective Austral./NZ informal mentally disturbed, supposedly as a result of spending too much time in a tropical climate: have you gone troppo?
– ORIGIN 1940s: from TROPIC[1] + -O.

Trossachs /'trɒsəks/ (the Trossachs) a picturesque wooded valley in central Scotland, between Loch Achray and the lower end of Loch Katrine.

Trot ▶ noun informal, usu. derogatory, chiefly Brit. a Trotskyist or supporter of extreme left-wing views.
– ORIGIN 1960s: abbreviation.

trot ▶ verb (trotted, trotting) (of a horse or other quadruped) proceed at a pace faster than a walk, lifting each diagonal pair of legs alternately.
■ [with obj.] cause (a horse) to move at such a pace: he trotted his horse forward. ■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (of a person) run at a moderate pace, typically with short steps. ■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] informal go or walk briskly: I may trot round to Portobello market for vegetables.
▶ noun 1 a trotting pace: our horses slowed to a trot.
■ an act or period of trotting: you might like an early morning trot round the crew deck. ■ [usu. with adj.] informal, chiefly Austral./NZ a period of luck, especially of a specified kind: you expect the odd bad trot. ■ (the trots) Austral./NZ informal trotting races: she was taking me to the trots.
2 (the trots) informal diarrhoea: a bad case of the trots.
– PHRASES on the trot informal 1 Brit. in succession: they lost seven matches on the trot. 2 continually busy: I've been on the trot all day.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French trot (noun), troter (verb), from medieval Latin trottare, of Germanic origin.
▶ trot something out 1 informal produce the same information, story, or explanation that has been produced many times before: everyone trots out the old excuse. 2 cause a horse to trot to show its paces.

troth /trəʊθ, trɒθ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 archaic or formal faith or loyalty when pledged in a solemn agreement or undertaking: a token of troth.
2 archaic truth.
– PHRASES pledge (or plight) one's troth make a solemn pledge of commitment or loyalty, especially in marriage.
– ORIGIN Middle English: variant of TRUTH.

tro-tro /'trəʊtrəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) (in Ghana) a converted lorry or van used as a public conveyance.
– ORIGIN probably from Akan tro 'threepence', with reference to the fare.

Trotsky /'trɒtski/, Leon (1879–1940), Russian revolutionary; born Lev Davidovich Bronshtein. He helped to organize the October Revolution with Lenin, and built up the Red Army. He was expelled from the party by Stalin in 1927 and exiled in 1929. He settled in Mexico in 1937, where he was later murdered by a Stalinist assassin.

Trotskyism ▶ noun [mass noun] the political or economic principles of Leon Trotsky, especially the theory that socialism should be established throughout the world by continuing revolution. Trotskyism has generally included elements of anarchism and syndicalism, but the term has come to be used indiscriminately to describe a great many forms of radical socialism.
– DERIVATIVES Trotskyist noun & adjective, Trotskyite noun & adjective (derogatory).

trotter ▶ noun 1 a horse bred or trained for the sport of trotting.
2 a pig's foot used as food.
■ humorous a human foot.

trotting ▶ noun [mass noun] racing for trotting horses pulling a two-wheeled vehicle (a sulky) and driver. Also called HARNESS RACING.

troubadour /'tru:bədɔ:/ ▶ noun a French medieval lyric poet composing and singing in Provençal in the 11th to 13th centuries, especially on the theme of courtly love.
■ a poet who writes verse to music.
– ORIGIN French, from Provençal trobador, from trobar 'find, invent, compose in verse'.

trouble ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 difficulty or problems: I had trouble finding somewhere to park | the government's policies ran into trouble | [count noun] our troubles are just beginning.
■ the malfunction of something such as a machine or a part of the body: their helicopter developed engine trouble. ■ effort or exertion made to do something, especially when inconvenient: I wouldn't want to put you to any trouble | most schools found multimedia kits more trouble than they were worth | he's gone to a lot of trouble to help you. ■ a cause of worry or inconvenience: the kid had been no trouble up to now. ■ a particular aspect or quality of something regarded as unsatisfactory or as a source of difficulty: that's the trouble with capitalism. ■ a situation in which one is liable to incur punishment or blame: he's been in trouble with the police. ■ informal, dated used to refer to the condition of a pregnant unmarried woman: she's not the first girl who's got herself into trouble.
2 public unrest or disorder: there was crowd trouble before and during the match.
■ (the Troubles) any of various periods of civil war or unrest in Ireland, especially in 1919–23 and (in Northern Ireland) since 1968.
▶ verb [with obj.] (often be troubled) cause distress or anxiety to: he was not troubled by doubts.
■ [no obj.] (trouble about/over/with) be distressed or anxious about: there is nothing you need trouble about. ■ cause (someone) pain: my legs started to trouble me. ■ cause (someone) inconvenience (typically used as a polite way of asking someone to do or provide something): sorry to trouble you | could I trouble you for a receipt? ■ [no obj., with infinitive] make the effort required to do something: oh, don't trouble to answer.
– PHRASES ask for trouble informal act in a way that is likely to incur problems or difficulties: hitching a lift is asking for trouble. look for trouble informal behave in a way that is likely to provoke an argument or fight: youths take a cocktail of drink and drugs before going out to look for trouble. trouble and strife Brit. rhyming slang wife. a trouble shared is a trouble halved proverb talking to someone else about one's problems helps to alleviate them.
– DERIVATIVES troubler noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French truble (noun), trubler (verb), based on Latin turbidus (see TURBID).

troubled ▶ adjective beset by problems or conflict: his troubled private life.
■ showing distress or anxiety: his troubled face.
– PHRASES troubled waters a difficult situation or time.

troublemaker ▶ noun a person who habitually causes difficulty or problems, especially by inciting others to defy those in authority.
– DERIVATIVES troublemaking noun & adjective.

troubleshoot ▶ verb [no obj.] [usu. as noun troubleshooting] solve serious problems for a company or other organization.
■ trace and correct faults in a mechanical or electronic system.
– DERIVATIVES troubleshooter noun.

troublesome ▶ adjective causing difficulty or annoyance: schools are removing troublesome pupils.
– DERIVATIVES troublesomely adverb, troublesomeness noun.

trouble spot ▶ noun a place where difficulties regularly occur, especially a country or area where there is a continuous cycle of violence.

troublous ▶ adjective archaic or poetic/literary full of difficulty or agitation: those were troublous times.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French troubleus, from truble (see TROUBLE).

trough ▶ noun a long, narrow open container for animals to eat or drink out of: a water trough.
■ a container of a similar shape used for a purpose such as growing plants or mixing chemicals. ■ a channel used to convey a liquid. ■ a long hollow in the earth's surface: a vast glacial trough. ■ an elongated region of low barometric pressure. ■ a hollow between two wave crests in the sea. ■ a low level of economic activity. ■ Mathematics a region around the minimum on a curve of variation of a quantity. ■ a point of low achievement or satisfaction: learning a language is a series of peaks and troughs.
– ORIGIN Old English trog, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch trog and German Trog, also to TREE.

trough shell ▶ noun a burrowing marine bivalve mollusc with a thin smooth shell.
● Family Mactridae: Spisula and other genera.

trounce ▶ verb [with obj.] defeat heavily in a contest: Essex trounced Cambridgeshire 5–1 in the final.
■ rebuke or punish severely: insider dealing has been roundly trounced.
– DERIVATIVES trouncer noun.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (also in the sense 'afflict'): of unknown origin.

troupe ▶ noun a group of dancers, actors, or other entertainers who tour to different venues.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from French, literally 'troop'.

trouper ▶ noun an actor or other entertainer, typically one with long experience.
■ a reliable and uncomplaining person: a real trouper, Ma concealed her troubles.

troupial /'tru:pɪəl/ ▶ noun a gregarious songbird of the American oriole family, typically having orange and black plumage and yellow eyes.
● Genus Icterus, family Icteridae: several species, in particular the tropical American Icterus icterus.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from French troupiale, alteration of American Spanish turpial, of unknown origin.

trouser ▶ noun [as modifier] relating to trousers: his trouser pocket | a trouser press.
■ a trouser leg: his trouser was torn.
▶ verb [with obj.] Brit. informal receive or take (something, especially money) for oneself; pocket: they claimed that he had trousered a £2 million advance.

trouser clip ▶ noun another term for BICYCLE CLIP.

trousers (also a pair of trousers) ▶ plural noun an outer garment covering the body from the waist to the ankles, with a separate part for each leg.
– PHRASES catch someone with their trousers down see catch someone with their pants down at PANTS. wear the trousers informal be the dominant partner in a relationship.
– DERIVATIVES trousered adjective.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from archaic trouse (singular) from Irish triús and Scottish Gaelic triubhas (see TREWS), on the pattern of drawers.

trouser suit ▶ noun Brit. a pair of trousers and a matching jacket worn by women.

trousseau /'tru:səʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. trousseaux or trousseaus /-səʊz/) the clothes, linen, and other belongings collected by a bride for her marriage.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from French, diminutive of trousse 'bundle' (a sense also found in Middle English).

trout ▶ noun (pl. same or trouts) a chiefly freshwater fish of the salmon family, found in both Eurasia and North America and highly valued for food and game.
● Genera Salmo (several species of true trouts, including the European brown trout and the rainbow trout), and Salvelinus (several North American species), family Salmonidae. See also LAKE TROUT, SEA TROUT.
– PHRASES old trout informal an annoying or bad-tempered old person, especially a woman.
– ORIGIN late Old English truht, from late Latin tructa, based on Greek trōgein 'gnaw'.

trouting ▶ noun [mass noun] the activity of catching or trying to catch trout, either for food or as a sport.

trout lily ▶ noun a North American dog's-tooth violet with yellow flowers, so called from its mottled leaves.
● Erythronium americanum, family Liliaceae.

trouvaille /tru:'vaɪ/ ▶ noun a lucky find: one of numerous trouvailles to be gleaned from his book.
– ORIGIN French, from trouver 'find'.

trouvère /tru:'vɛ:/ ▶ noun a medieval epic poet in northern France in the 11th–14th centuries.
– ORIGIN from Old French trovere, from trover 'to find'; compare with TROUBADOUR.

trove ▶ noun a store of valuable or delightful things: the museum's trove of antique treasure.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from TREASURE TROVE.

trover ▶ noun [mass noun] Law common-law action to recover the value of personal property that has been wrongfully disposed of by another person.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from an Anglo-Norman French noun use of Old French trover 'to find'.

trow /trəʊ/ ▶ verb [with obj.] archaic think or believe: why, this is strange, I trow!
– ORIGIN Old English trūwian, trēowian 'to trust'; related to TRUCE.

Trowbridge /'trəʊbrɪdʒ/ a town in SW England, the county town of Wiltshire; pop. 22,980 (1981).

trowel ▶ noun 1 a small hand-held tool with a flat, pointed blade, used to apply and spread mortar or plaster.
2 a small hand-held tool with a curved scoop for lifting plants or earth.
▶ verb (trowelled, trowelling; US troweled, troweling) [with obj.] apply or spread with or as if with a trowel.
– ORIGIN Middle English (as a noun): from Old French truele, from medieval Latin truella, alteration of Latin trulla 'scoop', diminutive of trua 'skimmer'.

Troy (in Homeric legend) the city of King Priam, besieged for ten years by the Greeks during the Trojan War. It was regarded as having been a purely legendary city until Heinrich Schliemann identified the mound of Hissarlik on the NE Aegean coast of Turkey as the site of Troy. The city was apparently sacked and destroyed by fire in the mid 13th century BC, a period coinciding with the Mycenaean civilization of Greece. Also called ILIUM.

troy (in full troy weight) ▶ noun a system of weights used mainly for precious metals and gems, with a pound of 12 ounces or 5,760 grains. Compare with AVOIRDUPOIS.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from a weight used at the fair of Troyes (see TROYES[1]).

Troyes[1] /trwa, French trwa/ a town in northern France, on the River Seine; pop. 60,755 (1990). It was capital of the former province of Champagne.

Troyes[2], Chrétien de, see CHRÉTIEN DE TROYES.

truant ▶ noun a pupil who stays away from school without leave or explanation.
▶ adjective (of a pupil) being a truant: truant children.
■ wandering; straying: her truant husband.
▶ verb [no obj.] another way of saying play truant below.
– PHRASES play truant (of a pupil) stay away from school without leave or explanation.
– DERIVATIVES truancy noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (denoting a person begging through choice rather than necessity): from Old French, probably ultimately of Celtic origin; compare with Welsh truan, Scottish Gaelic truaghan 'wretched'.

truce ▶ noun an agreement between enemies or opponents to stop fighting or arguing for a certain time: the guerrillas called a three-day truce.
– ORIGIN Middle English trewes, trues (plural), from Old English trēowa, plural of trēow 'belief, trust', of Germanic origin; related to Dutch trouw and German Treue, also to TRUE.

Trucial States /'tru:ʃ(ə)l/ former name (until 1971) for UNITED ARAB EMIRATES.

truck[1] ▶ noun 1 a wheeled vehicle, in particular:
■ a large road vehicle, used for carrying goods, materials, or troops; a lorry. ■ Brit. a railway vehicle for carrying freight, especially a small open one. ■ a low flat-topped trolley used for moving heavy items.
2 a railway bogie.
■ each of two axle units on a skateboard, to which the wheels are attached.
3 a wooden disc at the top of a ship's mast or flagstaff, with holes for halyards to slide through.
▶ verb [with obj. and adverbial of direction] chiefly N. Amer. convey by truck: the food was trucked to St Petersburg | [as noun trucking] industries such as trucking.
■ [no obj.] drive a truck. ■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] informal go or proceed, especially in a casual or leisurely way: my mate walked confidently behind them and trucked on through!
– DERIVATIVES truckage noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (denoting a solid wooden wheel): perhaps short for TRUCKLE[1] in the sense 'wheel, pulley'. The sense 'wheeled vehicle' dates from the late 18th cent.

truck[2] ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 archaic barter.
■ chiefly historical the payment of workers in kind or with vouchers rather than money.
2 chiefly archaic small wares.
■ informal odds and ends.

3 N. Amer. market-garden produce, especially vegetables: [as modifier] a truck garden.

▶ verb [with obj.] archaic barter or exchange.

– PHRASES have (or want) no truck with avoid or wish to avoid dealings or being associated with: we have no truck with that style of gutter journalism.

– ORIGIN Middle English (as a verb): probably from Old French, of unknown origin; compare with medieval Latin trocare.

Truck Acts (in the UK) a series of Acts directed, from 1830 onwards, against the system whereby workers received their wages in the form of vouchers for goods redeemable only at a special shop (often run by the employer). The Acts required wages to be paid in cash.

trucker ▶ noun a long-distance lorry driver.

truckie ▶ noun Austral. informal term for TRUCKER.

truckle[1] ▶ noun a small barrel-shaped cheese, especially cheddar.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting a wheel or pulley): from Anglo-Norman French trocle, from Latin trochlea 'sheaf of a pulley'. The current sense dates from the early 19th cent. and was originally dialect.

truckle[2] ▶ verb [no obj.] submit or behave obsequiously: she despised her husband, who truckled to her.

– DERIVATIVES truckler noun.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: figuratively, from TRUCKLE BED; an earlier use of the verb was in the sense sleep in a truckle bed.

truckle bed ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a low bed on wheels that can be stored under a larger bed.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from TRUCKLE[1] in the sense 'wheel' + BED.

truckload ▶ noun a quantity of goods that can be transported in a truck: a truckload of chemicals caught fire.

■ (a truckload/truckloads of) informal a large quantity or number of something: the government had ploughed truckloads of money into this land.

– PHRASES by the truckload informal in large quantities or numbers: he had charm by the truckload.

truck stop ▶ noun North American term for TRANSPORT CAFE.

truculent /'trʌkjʊl(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective eager or quick to argue or fight; aggressively defiant: the truculent attitude of farmers to cheaper imports.

– DERIVATIVES truculence noun, truculently adverb.

– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin truculentus, from trux, truc- 'fierce'.

Trudeau /'tru:dəʊ, tru:'dəʊ/, Pierre (Elliott) (b.1919), Canadian Liberal statesman, Prime Minister of Canada 1968–79 and 1980–4. Noted for his commitment to federalism, Trudeau held a provincial referendum in Quebec in 1980, which rejected independence, and saw the transfer of residual constitutional powers from Britain to Canada in 1982.

trudge ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] walk slowly and with heavy steps, typically because of exhaustion or harsh conditions: I trudged up the stairs | she trudged through blinding snow.

▶ noun a difficult or laborious walk: he began the long trudge back to Stokenchurch Street.

– DERIVATIVES trudger noun.

– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (as a verb): of unknown origin.

trudgen /'trʌdʒ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [in sing.] a swimming stroke like the crawl with a scissors movement of the legs.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after John Trudgen (1852–1902), English swimmer.

true ▶ adjective (truer, truest) 1 in accordance with fact or reality: a true story | of course it's true | that is not true of the people I am talking about.

■ [attrib.] rightly or strictly so called; genuine: people are still willing to pay for true craftsmanship | we believe in true love. ■ [attrib.] real or actual: he has guessed my true intentions. ■ said when conceding a point in argument or discussion: true, it faced north, but you got used to that.

2 accurate or exact: it was a true depiction.

■ (of a note) exactly in tune. ■ (of a compass bearing) measured relative to true north: steer 085 degrees true. ■ correctly positioned, balanced, or aligned; upright or level.

3 loyal or faithful: he was a true friend.

■ [predic.] (true to) accurately conforming to (a standard or expectation); faithful to: this entirely new production remains true to the essence of Lorca's play.

4 chiefly archaic honest: we appeal to all good men and true to rally to us.

▶ adverb 1 chiefly poetic/literary truly: Hobson spoke truer than he knew.

2 accurately or without variation.

▶ verb (trues, trued, truing or trueing) [with obj.] bring (an object, wheel, or other construction) into the exact shape or position required.

– PHRASES come true actually happen or become the case: dreams can come true. out of true (or the true) not in the correct or exact shape or alignment: take care not to pull the frame out of true. many a true word is spoken in jest proverb a humorous remark not intended to be taken seriously may turn out to be accurate after all. true as Bob (or God) S. African informal absolutely true: true as Bob, I nearly went right through the windscreen. [ORIGIN: Bob represents a euphemistic substitution of God, the idiom translating obsolete Afrikaans so waar as God.] true to form (or type) being or behaving as expected: true to type, they took it well. true to life accurately representing real events or objects.

– DERIVATIVES trueness noun.

– ORIGIN Old English trēowe, trȳwe 'steadfast, loyal'; related to Dutch getrouw, German treu, also to TRUCE.

true bill ▶ noun US Law a bill of indictment found by a grand jury to be supported by sufficient evidence to justify the hearing of a case.

true-blue ▶ adjective Brit. staunchly loyal to the Conservative Party.

■ US extremely loyal or orthodox: I'm a dyed-in-the-wool, true-blue patriot.

▶ noun (true blue) Brit. a staunchly loyal supporter of the Conservative Party.

true-born ▶ adjective [attrib.] of a specified kind by birth; genuine: a true-born criminal.

true bug ▶ noun see BUG (sense 2).

true-hearted ▶ adjective poetic/literary loyal or faithful: a true-hearted paladin.

true horizon ▶ noun Astronomy see HORIZON (sense 1).

true leaf ▶ noun Botany a foliage leaf of a plant, as opposed to a seed leaf or cotyledon.

true-love knot (also true-lover's knot) ▶ noun a kind of knot with interlacing bows on each side, symbolizing the bonds of love.

Trueman, Fred (b.1931), English cricketer; full name Frederick Sewards Trueman. A fast bowler for Yorkshire and England, he became the first bowler to take 300 test wickets (1964).

true north ▶ noun north according to the earth's axis, not magnetic north.

true rib ▶ noun a rib which is attached directly to the breastbone. Compare with FLOATING RIB.

Truffaut /'tru:fəʊ, French tʀyfo/, François (1932–84), French film director. His first feature film, Les Quatre cents coups (1959), established him as a leading director of the nouvelle vague. Other films include Jules et Jim (1961) and The Last Metro (1980).

truffle ▶ noun 1 a strong-smelling underground fungus that resembles an irregular, rough-skinned potato, growing chiefly in broad-leaved woodland on calcareous soils. It is considered a culinary delicacy and found, especially in France, with the aid of trained dogs or pigs.

● Family Tuberaceae, subdivision Ascomycotina: Tuber and other genera.

2 a soft sweet made of a chocolate mixture, typically flavoured with rum and covered with cocoa.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: probably via Dutch from obsolete French truffle, perhaps based on Latin tubera, plural of tuber 'hump, swelling'. Sense 2 dates from the 1920s.

truffled ▶ adjective (of food) cooked, garnished, or stuffed with truffles: a truffled turkey.

truffling ▶ noun [mass noun] the activity of hunting or rooting for truffles.

trug (also trug basket) ▶ noun Brit. a shallow oblong basket made of strips of wood, traditionally used for carrying garden flowers and produce.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting a basin): perhaps a dialect variant of TROUGH.

truism ▶ noun a statement that is obviously true and says nothing new or interesting: the truism that you get what you pay for.

■ Logic a proposition that states nothing beyond what is implied by any of its terms.

– DERIVATIVES truistic /-'ɪstɪk/ adjective.

truite au bleu /ˌtrwi:t əʊ 'blə:/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a dish consisting of trout cooked with vinegar, which turns the fish blue.

– ORIGIN French, literally 'trout in the blue'.

Trujillo[1] /tru:'hi:jəʊ, -'hi:ljəʊ/ a city on the coast of NW Peru; pop. 509,310 (1993).

Trujillo[2] /tru:'hi:jəʊ, -'hi:ljəʊ/, Rafael (1891–1961), Dominican statesman, President of the Dominican Republic 1930–8 and 1942–52; born Rafael Leónidas Trujillo Molina; known as Generalissimo. Although he was formally President for only two periods, he wielded dictatorial powers from 1930 until his death.

Truk Islands /trʌk/ a group of fourteen volcanic islands and numerous atolls in the western Pacific, in the Caroline Islands group, forming part of the Federated States of Micronesia; pop. 53,700 (est. 1990). There was a Japanese naval base there during the Second World War.

trull /trʌl/ ▶ noun archaic a prostitute.

– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from German Trulle.

truly ▶ adverb 1 in a truthful way: he speaks truly.

■ used to emphasize emotional sincerity or seriousness: time to reflect on what we truly want | it is truly a privilege to be here | [as submodifier] I'm truly sorry, but I can't join you today | [sentence adverb] truly, I don't understand you sometimes.

2 to the fullest degree; genuinely or properly: management does not truly understand or care about the residents | [as submodifier] a truly free press.

■ [as submodifier] absolutely or completely (used to emphasize a description): a truly dreadful song.

3 in actual fact or without doubt; really: this is truly a miracle.

4 archaic loyally or faithfully: why cannot all masters be served truly?

– PHRASES yours truly used as a formula for ending a letter. ■ humorous used to refer to oneself: the demos will be organized by yours truly.

– ORIGIN Old English trēowlīce 'faithfully' (see TRUE, -LY[2]).

Truman, Harry S. (1884–1972), American Democratic statesman, 33rd President of the US 1945–53. He authorized the use of the atom bomb against Hiroshima and Nagasaki, introduced the Marshall Plan of emergency aid in 1948 to war-shattered European countries, and involved the US in the Korean War.

Truman Doctrine the principle that the US should give support to countries or peoples threatened by Soviet forces or Communist insurrection. First expressed in 1947 by US President Truman in a speech to Congress seeking aid for Greece and Turkey, the doctrine was seen by the Communists as an open declaration of the cold war.

trumeau /tru:'məʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. trumeaux /-'məʊz/) a section of wall or a pillar between two openings, especially a pillar dividing a large doorway in a church.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from French, literally 'calf of the leg'.

trump[1] ▶ noun (in bridge, whist, and similar card games) a playing card of the suit chosen to rank above the others, which can win a trick where a card of a different suit has been led.

■ (trumps) the suit having this rank in a particular hand: the ace of trumps. ■ (in a tarot pack) any of a special suit of 22 cards depicting symbolic and typical figures and scenes. ■ (also trump card) figurative a valuable resource that may be used, especially as a surprise, in order to gain an advantage: in this month General Haig decided to play his trump card: the tank. ■ informal, dated a helpful or admirable person. ■ Austral./NZ informal a person in authority.

▶ verb [with obj.] (in bridge, whist, and similar card games) play a trump on (a card of another suit), having no cards of the suit led.

■ figurative beat (someone or something) by saying or doing something better: if the fetus is human life, that trumps any argument about the freedom of the mother.

– PHRASES come (or turn) up trumps informal, chiefly Brit. (of a person or situation) have a better performance or outcome than expected: Conrad came up trumps again, finishing fourth in the 800 metres.

■ be especially generous or helpful: Mother had been absent throughout, but Aunt Edie had come up trumps.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: alteration of TRIUMPH, once used in card games in the same sense.
▶ trump something up invent a false accusation or excuse: they've trumped up charges against her.

trump[2] ▶ noun archaic a trumpet or a trumpet blast.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French trompe, of Germanic origin; probably imitative.

trumpery archaic ▶ noun (pl. -ies) [mass noun] attractive articles of little value or use.
■ practices or beliefs that are superficially or visually appealing but have little real value or worth.
▶ adjective showy but worthless: trumpery jewellery.
■ delusive or shallow: that trumpery hope which lets us dupe ourselves.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting trickery): from Old French tromperie, from tromper 'deceive'.

trumpet ▶ noun 1 a brass musical instrument with a flared bell and a bright, penetrating tone. The modern instrument has the tubing looped to form a straight-sided coil, with three valves.
■ an organ reed stop with a quality resembling that of a trumpet. ■ something shaped like a trumpet, especially the tubular corona of a daffodil flower. ■ a sound resembling that of a trumpet, especially the loud cry of an elephant.
2 (trumpets) a North American pitcher plant.
● Genus Sarracenia, family Sarraceniaceae: several species, in particular yellow trumpets (S. flava).
▶ verb (trumpeted, trumpeting) 1 [no obj.] play a trumpet: [as adj. trumpeting] figures of two trumpeting angels.
■ make a loud, penetrating sound resembling that of a trumpet: wild elephants trumpeting in the bush.
2 [with obj.] proclaim widely or loudly: the press trumpeted another defeat for the government.
– PHRASES blow one's trumpet talk openly and boastfully about one's achievements: he refused to blow his own trumpet and blushingly declined to speak.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French trompette, diminutive of trompe (see TRUMP[2]). The verb dates from the mid 16th cent.

trumpet creeper ▶ noun another term for TRUMPET VINE.

trumpeter ▶ noun 1 a person who plays a trumpet.
■ a cavalry or artillery soldier who gives signals with a trumpet.
2 a large gregarious ground-dwelling bird of tropical South American forests, with mainly black plumage and loud trumpeting and booming calls.
● Family Psophiidae and genus Psophia: three species.
3 a pigeon of a domestic breed that makes a trumpet-like sound.
4 an edible marine fish with a spiny dorsal fin, found chiefly in cool Australasian waters and said to make a grunting or trumpeting sound when taken out of the water.
● Family Latridae: several genera and species, including the Tasmanian trumpeter (Latris lineata), prized as food.

trumpeter swan ▶ noun a large migratory swan with a black and yellow bill and a honking call, breeding in northern North America.
● Cygnus buccinator, family Anatidae.

trumpetfish ▶ noun (pl. same or -fishes) an elongated marine fish with a long narrow snout, resembling a pipefish. It lives around reefs and rocks in tropical waters and typically hangs in a semi-vertical position.
● Family Aulostomidae and genus Aulostomus: several species.

trumpet major ▶ noun the chief trumpeter of a cavalry regiment, typically a principal musician in a regimental band.

trumpet shell ▶ noun the shell of a large marine mollusc which can be blown to produce a loud note.
● Several species in the class Gastropoda, in particular the triton (Charonia tritonis, family Cymatiidae).

trumpet tree ▶ noun any of a number of tropical American trees, in particular:
● a tree grown in the Caribbean for its numerous trumpet-shaped flowers, which bloom when the tree is leafless (genus Tabebuia, family Bignoniaceae). ● a cecropia whose hollow branches are used to make wind instruments (Cecropia peltata, family Cecropiaceae).

trumpet vine (also trumpet creeper) ▶ noun a climbing shrub with orange or red trumpet-shaped flowers, cultivated as an ornamental.
● Genus Campsis, family Bignoniaceae: the North American C. radicans and the Chinese C. grandiflora.

truncal ▶ adjective Medicine of or affecting the trunk of the body, or of a nerve.

truncate ▶ verb /trʌŋ'keɪt, 'trʌŋ-/ [with obj.] [often as adj. truncated] shorten (something) by cutting off the top or the end: a truncated cone shape | discussion was truncated by the arrival of tea.
■ Crystallography replace (an edge or an angle) by a plane, typically so as to make equal angles with the adjacent faces.
▶ adjective /'trʌŋkeɪt/ Botany & Zoology (of a leaf, feather, or other part) ending abruptly as if cut off across the base or tip.
– DERIVATIVES truncation noun.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent. (as a verb): from Latin truncat- 'maimed', from the verb truncare.

truncheon /'trʌn(t)ʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a short, thick stick carried as a weapon by a police officer.
■ a staff or baton acting as a symbol of authority, especially that used by the Earl Marshal.
– ORIGIN Middle English (denoting a piece broken off (especially from a spear), also a cudgel): from Old French tronchon 'stump', based on Latin truncus 'trunk'.

trundle ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (of a wheeled vehicle or its occupants) move slowly and heavily, typically in a noisy or uneven way: ten vintage cars trundled past.
■ (of a person) move in a similar way: she could hear him coughing as he trundled out. ■ [with obj. and adverbial of direction] cause (something, typically a wheeled vehicle) to roll or move in such a way: we trundled a wheelbarrow down to the river and collected driftwood.
▶ noun [in sing.] an act of moving in such a way.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (denoting a small wheel or roller): a parallel formation to obsolete or dialect trendle, trindle '(cause to) revolve'; related to TREND.

trundle bed ▶ noun chiefly N. Amer. a truckle bed.

trunk ▶ noun 1 the main woody stem of a tree as distinct from its branches and roots.
■ the main part of an artery, nerve, or other anatomical structure from which smaller branches arise. ■ an enclosed shaft or conduit for cables or ventilation.
2 a person's or animal's body apart from the limbs and head.
3 the elongated, prehensile nose of an elephant.
4 a large box with a hinged lid for storing or transporting clothes and other articles.
■ US the boot of a motor car.
– DERIVATIVES trunkful noun (pl. -fuls), trunkless adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French tronc, from Latin truncus.

trunk call ▶ noun dated, chiefly Brit. a long-distance telephone call made within the same country.

trunkfish ▶ noun (pl. same or -fishes) another term for BOXFISH.

trunking ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 a system of shafts or conduits for cables or ventilation.
2 the use or arrangement of trunk lines.

trunk line ▶ noun a main line of a railway, telephone system, or other network.

trunk road ▶ noun chiefly Brit. an important main road used for long-distance travel.

trunks ▶ plural noun men's shorts, worn especially for swimming or boxing.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent. (originally US): from an earlier theatrical use denoting short breeches of thin material worn over tights.

trunnel /'trʌn(ə)l/ ▶ noun US variant spelling of TREENAIL.

trunnion /'trʌnjən/ ▶ noun a pin or pivot forming one of a pair on which something is supported.
■ a supporting cylindrical projection on each side of a cannon or mortar.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French trognon 'core, tree trunk', of unknown origin.

Truro /'trʊərəʊ/ the county town of Cornwall; pop. 18,560 (1981).

truss ▶ noun 1 a framework, typically consisting of rafters, posts, and struts, supporting a roof, bridge, or other structure: roof trusses.
■ a surgical appliance worn to support a hernia, typically a padded belt. ■ a large projection of stone or timber, typically one supporting a cornice.
2 Brit., chiefly historical a bundle of old hay (56 lb), new hay (60 lb), or straw (36 lb).
3 a compact cluster of flowers or fruit growing on one stalk.
4 Sailing a heavy metal ring securing the lower yards to a mast.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 tie up the wings and legs of (a chicken or other bird) before cooking.
■ tie up (someone) with their arms at their sides: I found him trussed up in his cupboard.
2 [usu. as adj. trussed] support (a roof, bridge, or other structure) with a truss or trusses.
– DERIVATIVES trusser noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'bundle'): from Old French trusse (noun), trusser 'pack up, bind in', based on late Latin tors- 'twisted', from the verb torquere. Sense 1 dates from the mid 17th cent.

trust ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 firm belief in the reliability, truth, ability, or strength of someone or something: relations have to be built on trust | they have been able to win the trust of the others.
■ acceptance of the truth of a statement without evidence or investigation: I used only primary sources, taking nothing on trust. ■ the state of being responsible for someone or something: a man in a position of trust. ■ [count noun] poetic/literary a person or duty for which one has responsibility: rulership is a trust from God. ■ [count noun] poetic/literary a hope or expectation: all the great trusts of womanhood.
2 Law confidence placed in a person by making that person the nominal owner of property to be held or used for the benefit of one or more others.
■ [count noun] an arrangement whereby property is held in such a way: a trust was set up | [mass noun] the flat will be auctioned and the proceeds put into trust.
3 [count noun] a body of trustees.
■ an organization or company managed by trustees: a charitable trust | [in names] the Yorkshire Wildlife Trust. ■ US, dated a large company that has or attempts to gain monopolistic control of a market.
4 W. Indian or archaic commercial credit: my master lived on trust at an alehouse.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 believe in the reliability, truth, ability, or strength of: I should never have trusted her | [with obj. and infinitive] he can be trusted to carry out an impartial investigation | [as adj. trusted] a trusted adviser.
■ (trust someone with) allow someone to have, use, or look after (someone or something of importance or value) with confidence: I'd trust you with my life. ■ (trust someone/thing to) commit (someone or something) to the safe keeping of: they don't like to trust their money to anyone outside the family. ■ [with clause] have confidence; hope (used as a polite formula in conversation): I trust that you have enjoyed this book. ■ [no obj.] have faith or confidence: she trusted in the powers of justice. ■ [no obj.] (trust to) place reliance on (luck, fate, or something else over which one has little control): I hurtled down the path, trusting to luck that I wouldn't put a foot wrong.
2 archaic allow credit to (a customer).
– PHRASES not trust someone as far as one can throw them informal not trust or hardly trust a particular person at all. trust someone to —— it is characteristic or predictable for someone to act in the specified way: trust Sam to have all the inside information.
– DERIVATIVES trustable adjective, truster noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old Norse traust, from traustr 'strong'; the verb from Old Norse treysta, assimilated to the noun.

trustbuster ▶ noun informal, chiefly US a person or agency employed to enforce antitrust legislation.

trust company ▶ noun a company formed to act as a trustee or to deal with trusts.

trust corporation ▶ noun English Law a corporation empowered to act as a trustee, provided that it is a registered company which satisfies certain conditions.

trust deed ▶ noun Law a deed of conveyance creating and setting out the conditions of a trust.

trustee ▶ noun Law an individual person or member of a board given control or powers of administration of property in trust with a legal obligation to administer it solely for the purposes specified.
■ a state made responsible for the government of an area by the United Nations.
– DERIVATIVES trusteeship noun.

trustee in bankruptcy ▶ noun Law a person taking administrative responsibility for the financial affairs of a bankrupt and the distribution of assets to creditors.

trustful ▶ adjective having or marked by a total belief in the reliability, truth, ability, or strength of someone.

– DERIVATIVES trustfully adverb, trustfulness noun.

trust fund ▶ noun a fund consisting of assets belonging to a trust, held by the trustees for the beneficiaries.

trusting ▶ adjective showing or tending to have a belief in a person's honesty or sincerity; not suspicious: it is foolish to be too trusting of other people | a shy and trusting child.
– DERIVATIVES trustingly adverb, trustingness noun.

trust territory ▶ noun a territory under the trusteeship of the United Nations or of a state designated by them.

trustworthy ▶ adjective able to be relied on as honest or truthful: leave a spare key with a trustworthy neighbour.
– DERIVATIVES trustworthily adverb, trustworthiness noun.

trusty ▶ adjective (trustier, trustiest) [attrib.] archaic or humorous having served for a long time and regarded as reliable or faithful: my trusty old Morris Minor | their trusty steeds.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) a prisoner who is given special privileges or responsibilities in return for good behaviour.
– DERIVATIVES trustily adverb, trustiness noun.

Truth, Sojourner (*c.*1797–1883), American evangelist and reformer; previously Isabella Van Wagener. Born into slavery, she was sold to an Isaac Van Wagener, who released her in 1827. She became a zealous evangelist, preaching in favour of black rights and women's suffrage.

truth ▶ noun (pl. truths /tru:ðz, tru:θs/) [mass noun] the quality or state of being true: he had to accept the truth of her accusation.
■(also the truth) that which is true or in accordance with fact or reality: tell me the truth | she found out the truth about him. ■ [count noun] a fact or belief that is accepted as true: the emergence of scientific truths | the fundamental truths about mankind.
– PHRASES in truth really; in fact: in truth, she was more than a little unhappy. to tell the truth (or truth to tell or if truth be told) to be frank (used especially when making an admission or when expressing an unwelcome or controversial opinion): I think, if truth be told, we were all a little afraid of him. the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth used to emphasize the absolute veracity of a statement. [ORIGIN: part of a statement sworn by witnesses in court.]
– ORIGIN Old English trīewth, trēowth 'faithfulness, constancy' (see TRUE, -TH[2]).

truth condition ▶ noun Logic the condition under which a given proposition is true.
■a statement of this condition, sometimes taken to be the meaning of the proposition.

truth drug ▶ noun a drug supposedly able to induce a state in which a person answers questions truthfully.

truthful ▶ adjective (of a person or statement) telling or expressing the truth; honest: I think you're confusing being rude with being truthful | I want a truthful answer.
■(of artistic or literary representation) characterized by accuracy or realism; true to life: astonishingly truthful acting.
– DERIVATIVES truthfully adverb, truthfulness noun.

truth function ▶ noun Logic a function whose truth value is dependent on the truth value of its arguments.

truth table ▶ noun Logic a diagram in rows and columns showing how the truth or falsity of a proposition varies with that of its components.
■Electronics a similar diagram of the outputs from all possible combinations of input.

truth value ▶ noun Logic the attribute assigned to a proposition in respect of its truth or falsehood, which in classical logic has only two possible values (true or false).

try ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) 1 [no obj.] make an attempt or effort to do something: [with infinitive] he tried to regain his breath | I started to try and untangle the mystery | I decided to try writing fiction | none of them tried very hard | [with obj.] three times he tried the manoeuvre and three times he failed.
■(try for) attempt to achieve or attain: they decided to try for another baby. ■ [with obj.] use, test, or do (something new or different) in order to see if it is suitable, effective, or pleasant: everyone wanted to know if I'd tried jellied eel | these methods are tried and tested. ■ (try out for) N. Amer. compete or audition in order to join (a team) or be given (a post): she tried out for the team. ■ [with obj.] go to (a place) or attempt to contact (someone), typically in order to obtain something: I've tried the apartment, but the number is engaged. ■ [with obj.] push or pull (a door or window) to determine whether it is locked: I tried the doors, but they were locked. ■ [with obj.] make severe demands on (a person or a quality, typically patience): Mary tried everyone's patience to the limit.
2 [with obj.] (usu. be tried) subject (someone) to trial: he was arrested and tried for the murder.
■investigate and decide (a case or issue) in a formal trial: the case is to be tried by a jury in the Crown Court.
3 [with obj.] smooth (roughly planed wood) with a plane to give an accurately flat surface.
4 [with obj.] extract (oil or fat) by heating: some of the fat may be tried out and used.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 an effort to accomplish something; an attempt: he got his membership card on his third try.
■an act of doing, using, or testing something new or different to see if it is suitable, effective, or pleasant: she agreed that they should give the idea a try.
2 Rugby an act of touching the ball down behind the opposing goal line, scoring points and entitling the scoring side to a kick at goal.
■American Football an attempt to score an extra point after a touchdown.
– PHRASES I (or he etc.) will try anything once used to indicate willingness to do or experience something new. try conclusions with see CONCLUSION. try something (on) for size assess whether something is suitable: he was trying the role for size. try for white (or black) S. African historical (under the apartheid system) attempt to pass oneself off as a white (or black) person by assimilating oneself into a white (or black) community. try one's hand at attempt to do (something) for the first time, typically in order to find out if one is good at it: a chance to try your hand at the ancient art of drystone walling. try it on Brit. informal attempt to deceive or seduce someone: he was trying it on with my wife. ■ deliberately test someone's patience to see how much one can get away with. try one's luck see LUCK. try me used to suggest that one may be willing to do something unexpected or unlikely: 'You won't use a gun up here.' 'Try me.'
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French trier 'sift', of unknown origin. Sense 1 of the noun dates from the early 17th cent.

USAGE Is there any difference between try to plus infinitive and try and plus infinitive in sentences such as we should try to (or try and) help them? In practice there is little discernible difference in meaning, although there is a difference in formality, with try to being regarded as more formal than try and. The construction try and is grammatically odd, however, in that it cannot be inflected for tense (e.g. sentences like she tried and fix it or they are trying and renew their visa are not acceptable, while their equivalents she tried to fix it or they are trying to renew their visa undoubtedly are). For this reason try and is best regarded as a fixed idiom used only in its infinitive and imperative form. See also usage at AND.

▶ try something on put on an item of clothing to see if it fits or suits one.
try someone/thing out test someone or something new or different to assess their suitability or effectiveness: I try out new recipes on my daughter.

trying ▶ adjective difficult or annoying; hard to endure: it had been a very trying day.
– DERIVATIVES tryingly adverb.

trying plane ▶ noun a long, heavy plane used in smoothing the edges of roughly planed wood.

try-on ▶ noun [in sing.] Brit. informal an attempt to fool or deceive someone.

try-out ▶ noun a test of the potential of someone or something, especially in the context of entertainment or sport.

trypan blue ▶ noun [mass noun] a diazo dye used as a biological stain due to its absorption by macrophages of the reticuloendothelial system.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: trypan from TRYPANOSOME.

trypanosome /'trɪp(ə)nəsəʊm, trɪ'panə-/ ▶ noun Medicine & Zoology a single-celled parasitic protozoan with a trailing flagellum, infesting the blood.
● Genus Trypanosoma, phylum Kinetoplastida, kingdom Protista.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Greek trupanon 'borer' + -SOME[3].

trypanosomiasis /ˌtrɪp(ə)nə(ʊ)sə(ʊ)'mʌɪəsɪs, trɪˌpanə(ʊ)-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine any tropical disease caused by trypanosomes and typically transmitted by biting insects, especially sleeping sickness and Chagas' disease.

trypsin /'trɪpsɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a digestive enzyme which breaks down proteins in the small intestine. It is secreted by the pancreas in an inactive form, trypsinogen.
– DERIVATIVES tryptic adjective.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek tripsis 'friction', from tribein 'to rub' (because it was first obtained by rubbing down the pancreas with glycerine), + -IN[1].

trypsinogen /trɪp'sɪnədʒ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry an inactive substance secreted by the pancreas, from which the digestive enzyme trypsin is formed in the duodenum.

tryptamine /'trɪptəmɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a compound, of which serotonin is a derivative, produced from tryptophan by decarboxylation.
● A heterocyclic amine; chem. formula: $C_8H_6NCH_2CH_2NH$.

tryptophan /'trɪptəfan/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry an amino acid which is a constituent of most proteins. It is an essential nutrient in the diet of vertebrates.
● An indole derivative; chem. formula: $C_8H_6NCH_2CH(NH_2)COOH$.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from tryptic 'relating to trypsin' + Greek phainein 'appear'.

trysail /'trʌɪs(ə)l/ ▶ noun a small strong fore-and-aft sail set on the mainmast or other mast of a sailing vessel in heavy weather.

try square ▶ noun an implement used to check and mark right angles in constructional work.

tryst /trɪst/ poetic/literary ▶ noun a private, romantic rendezvous between lovers: a moonlight tryst.
▶ verb [no obj.] keep a rendezvous of this kind: [as noun trysting] a trysting place.
– DERIVATIVES tryster noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (originally Scots): variant of obsolete trist 'an appointed place in hunting', from French triste or medieval Latin trista.

tsamma /'tsamə/ (also tsamma melon) ▶ noun S. African a watermelon, especially one growing wild in the desert.
– ORIGIN from Nama tsamas 'watermelon'.

tsantsa /'tsantsə/ ▶ noun a human head shrunk as a trophy by the Jivaros of Ecuador.
– ORIGIN Jivaro.

Tsao-chuang /tʃaʊ'tʃwaŋ/ variant of ZAOZHUANG.

tsar /zɑ:, tsɑ:/ (also czar or tzar) ▶ noun an emperor of Russia before 1917: [as title] Tsar Nicholas II.
■a South Slav ruler in former times, especially one reigning over Serbia in the 14th century. ■ [usu. with adj. or noun modifier] a person with great authority or power in a particular area: America's new drug tsar.
– DERIVATIVES tsardom noun, tsarism noun, tsarist noun & adjective.
– ORIGIN from Russian tsar', representing Latin Caesar.

tsarevich /'zɑ:rɪvɪtʃ, 'tsɑ:-, -'rjeɪ-/ (also czarevich) ▶ noun historical the eldest son of an emperor of Russia.
– ORIGIN Russian, literally 'son of a tsar'.

tsarina /zɑ:'ri:nə, tsɑ:-/ (also czarina or tzarina) ▶ noun historical an empress of Russia before 1917.
– ORIGIN via Italian and Spanish from German Czarin, Zarin, feminine of Czar, Zar.

Tsaritsyn /tsɑ:'ri:tsɪn/ former name (until 1925) for VOLGOGRAD.

tsatske /'tsɒtskə/ ▶ noun variant spelling of TCHOTCHKE.

Tsavo National Park /'tsɑ:vəʊ/ an extensive national park in SE Kenya, established in 1948.

Tselinograd /(t)sɛ'lɪnə(ʊ),grad/ former name for AKMOLA.

tsessebi /tsɛ'seɪbi/ (also tsessebe or sassaby) ▶ noun a topi (antelope) of a race found mainly in southern Africa.
● Damaliscus lunatus lunatus, family Bovidae. Alternative name: bastard hartebeest.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Setswana.

tsetse /'tsɛtsi, 'tɛtsi/ (also tsetse fly) ▶ noun an African bloodsucking fly which bites humans and other mammals, transmitting sleeping sickness and nagana.

• Genus Glossina, family Tabanidae.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Setswana.

TSgt ▶ abbreviation for Technical Sergeant.

TSH ▶ abbreviation for thyroid-stimulating hormone.

T-shirt (also tee shirt) ▶ noun a short-sleeved casual top, generally made of cotton, having the shape of a T when spread out flat.

tsimmes /'tsɪməs/ (also tzimmes or tzimmis) ▶ noun (pl. same) a Jewish stew of sweetened vegetables or vegetables and fruit, sometimes with meat.
■ figurative a fuss or muddle.
– ORIGIN Yiddish.

Tsimshian /'tʃɪmʃɪən/ ▶ noun (pl. same) 1 a member of an American Indian people of the northern Pacific coast.
2 [mass noun] the Penutian language of this people, now with few speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN from Tsimshian čamsián, literally 'inside the Skeena River'.

Tsinan /tsi:'nan/ variant of JINAN.

Tsinghai variant of QINGHAI.

Tsiolkovsky /ˌtsi:ɒl'kɒfski/, Konstantin (Eduardovich) (1857–1935), Russian aeronautical engineer. Tsiolkovsky carried out pioneering theoretical work on multistage rockets, jet engines, and space flight, and his proposal for the use of liquid fuel pre-dated the work of R. H. Goddard by nearly forty years.

Tskhinvali /tskɪn'vɑ:li/ the capital of South Ossetia.

tsk tsk /t(ə)sk t(ə)sk/ ▶ exclamation expressing disapproval or annoyance: you of all people, Goldie—tsk, tsk.
▶ verb (tsk-tsk) [no obj.] make such an exclamation.
– ORIGIN 1940s: imitative.

Tsonga /'tsɒŋgə/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Tsongas) 1 a member of a people living in Transvaal, southern Mozambique, and southern Zimbabwe. Also called SHANGAAN.
2 [mass noun] the Bantu language of this people, which has about 3 million speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Tsonga or their language.
– ORIGIN a local name, from either Tsonga or Zulu.

tsotsi /'tsɒtsi/ ▶ noun (pl. tsotsis) S. African a young black urban criminal.
■ used as an affectionate or contemptuous term for a young man. ■ historical a young black gangster belonging to a group most prominent in the 1940s and 1950s, affecting a special language and flashy dress.
– ORIGIN said to be a Sotho corruption of ZOOT SUIT.

tsp ▶ abbreviation for (pl. same or tsps) teaspoonful.

T-square ▶ noun a T-shaped instrument for drawing or testing right angles.

TSR Computing ▶ abbreviation for terminate and stay resident, denoting a type of program that remains in the memory of a microcomputer after it has finished running and which can be quickly reactivated.

TSS ▶ abbreviation for toxic shock syndrome.

tsuba /'tsu:ba/ ▶ noun (pl. same or tsubas) a Japanese sword guard, typically elaborately decorated and made of iron or leather.
– ORIGIN Japanese.

tsubo /'tsu:bəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. same or -os) 1 a Japanese unit of area equal to approximately 3.31 sq. metres (3.95 sq. yards).
2 (in complementary medicine) a point on the face or body to which pressure or other stimulation is applied during treatment.
– ORIGIN Japanese.

tsukemono /ˌtsu:kɪ'məʊnəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) a Japanese side dish of pickled vegetables, usually served with rice.
– ORIGIN Japanese, from tsukeru 'pickle' + mono 'thing'.

tsunami /tsu:'nɑ:mi/ ▶ noun (pl. same or tsunamis) a long high sea wave caused by an earthquake or other disturbance.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Japanese, from tsu 'harbour' + nami 'wave'.

Tsushima /tsu:'ʃi:mə/ a Japanese island in the Korea Strait, between South Korea and Japan. In 1905 it was the scene of a defeat for the Russian navy during the Russo-Japanese War.

tsutsugamushi disease /ˌtsu:tsu:gə'mʊʃi/ ▶ noun another term for SCRUB TYPHUS.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: tsutsugamushi, from the Japanese name of the mite which transmits the disease.

Tswana /'tswɑ:nə/ ▶ noun (pl. same, Tswanas, or Batswana) 1 a member of a southern African people living in Botswana, South Africa, and neighbouring areas.
2 [mass noun] the language of this people, also called Setswana.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Tswana or their language.
– ORIGIN stem of Setswana moTswana, plural baTswana.

TT ▶ abbreviation for ■ teetotal. ■ teetotaller. ■ Tourist Trophy. ■ tuberculin-tested.

TTL ▶ noun [mass noun] Electronics a widely used technology for making integrated circuits. [ORIGIN: abbreviation of transistor transistor logic.]
▶ adjective Photography (of a camera focusing system) through-the-lens.

TU ▶ abbreviation for Trade Union.

Tu. ▶ abbreviation for Tuesday.

Tuamotu Archipelago /ˌtu:ə'məʊtu:/ a group of about eighty coral islands forming part of French Polynesia, in the South Pacific; pop. 12,370 (1988). It is the largest group of coral atolls in the world.

tuan /'tju:ən/ ▶ noun another term for PHASCOGALE.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: an Aboriginal word.

Tuareg /'twɑ:rɛg/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Tuaregs) a member of a Berber people of the western and central Sahara, living mainly in Algeria, Mali, Niger, and western Libya, traditionally as nomadic pastoralists.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people.
– ORIGIN the name in Berber.

tuatara /ˌtu:ə'tɑ:rə, ˌtju:-/ ▶ noun a nocturnal burrowing lizard-like reptile with a crest of soft spines along its back, now confined to some small islands off New Zealand.
• Order Rhynchocephalia and genus Sphenodon: two species, in particular S. punctatum. All other members of the order became extinct during the Mesozoic era.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Maori, from tua 'on the back' + tara 'spine'.

Tuatha Dé Danann /ˌtʊəhə deɪ 'danən/ ▶ plural noun Irish Mythology the members of an ancient race said to have inhabited Ireland before the historical Irish. Formerly believed to have been a real people, they are credited with the possession of magical powers and great wisdom.
– ORIGIN Irish, literally 'people of the goddess Danann'.

tub ▶ noun 1 a wide, open, deep, typically round container with a flat bottom used for holding liquids, growing plants, etc.: hydrangeas in a patio tub.
■ a similar small plastic or cardboard container in which food is bought or stored: a margarine tub. ■ the contents of such a container or the amount it can contain: she ate a tub of yogurt. ■ a washtub. ■ informal, chiefly N. Amer. a bath: a soak in the tub. ■ Mining a container for conveying ore, coal, etc.
2 informal, derogatory a short, broad boat that handles awkwardly.
▶ verb (tubbed, tubbing) [with obj.] 1 [usu. as adj. tubbed] plant in a tub: tubbed fruit trees.
2 dated wash or bathe (someone or something) in or as in a tub or bath.
■ [no obj.] Brit. informal have a bath.
– DERIVATIVES tubbable adjective (informal) (in sense 2 of the verb), tubful noun (pl. -fuls).
– ORIGIN Middle English: probably of Low German or Dutch origin; compare with Middle Low German, Middle Dutch tubbe.

tuba ▶ noun a large brass wind instrument of bass pitch, with three to six valves and a broad bell typically facing upwards.
■ a powerful reed stop on an organ with the quality of a tuba.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: via Italian from Latin, 'trumpet'.

tubal ▶ adjective of, relating to, or occurring in a tube, especially the Fallopian tubes.

tubal ligation ▶ noun a surgical procedure for female sterilization which involves severing and tying the Fallopian tubes.

tubal pregnancy ▶ noun Medicine an ectopic pregnancy in which the fetus develops in a Fallopian tube.

tubby ▶ adjective (tubbier, tubbiest) 1 informal (of a person) short and rather fat. [ORIGIN: referring to the shape of a tub.]
2 (of a sound) lacking resonance; dull. [ORIGIN: referring to the sound of a tub when struck.]
– DERIVATIVES tubbiness noun.

tub chair ▶ noun a chair with solid arms continuous with a semicircular back.

tube ▶ noun 1 a long, hollow cylinder of metal, plastic, glass, etc. for holding or transporting something, chiefly liquids or gases: a plastic tube is connected to the tap and the beer is ready to be pulled.
■ the inner tube of a bicycle tyre. ■ [mass noun] material in such a cylindrical form; tubing: the firm manufactures steel tube for a wide variety of applications.
2 a thing in the form of or resembling such a cylinder, in particular:
■ a flexible metal or plastic container sealed at one end and having a screw cap at the other, for holding a semi-liquid substance ready for use: a tube of toothpaste. ■ a rigid cylindrical container: a tube of Smarties. ■ Austral. informal a can of beer: a tube of lager. ■ [usu. with adj. or noun modifier] Anatomy, Zoology, & Botany a hollow cylindrical organ or structure in an animal body or in a plant (e.g. a Eustachian tube, a sieve tube). ■ (tubes) informal a woman's Fallopian tubes: women with blocked tubes. ■ a woman's close-fitting garment, typically without darts or other tailoring and made from a single piece of knitted or elasticated fabric: [as modifier] stretchy tube skirts. ■ (in surfing) the hollow curve under the crest of a breaking wave. ■ informal a cigarette.
3 Brit. informal (the tube) the underground railway system in London: it wasn't far from where he lived, just a stop further on the tube.
■ a train running on this system: I caught the tube home.
4 a sealed container, typically of glass and either evacuated or filled with gas, containing two electrodes between which an electric current can be made to flow.
■ a cathode ray tube, especially in a television set. ■ (the tube) N. Amer. informal television: watching the tube in a country bar. ■ US a thermionic valve.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 [usu. as adj. tubed] provide with a tube or tubes: [in combination] a giant eight-tubed hookah.
■ informal fit (a racehorse) with a tube to assist breathing, chiefly after a laryngotomy.
2 [with adverbial] convey in a tube.
– PHRASES go down the tube (or tubes) informal be completely lost or wasted; fail utterly: the country is going slowly and surely down the tubes.
– DERIVATIVES tubeless adjective, tube-like adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from French tube or Latin tubus.

tubectomy ▶ noun (pl. -ies) another term for SALPINGECTOMY.

tube foot ▶ noun (usu. tube feet) Zoology (in an echinoderm) each of a large number of small flexible hollow appendages protruding through the ambulacra, used either for locomotion or for collecting food and operated by hydraulic pressure within the water-vascular system.

tube-nosed bat ▶ noun an Old World bat with tubular nostrils:
• a fruit bat found chiefly in New Guinea and Sulawesi (genus Nyctimene, family Pteropodidae). • an insectivorous Asian bat (genus Murina, family Vespertilionidae).

tuber ▶ noun 1 a much thickened underground part of a stem or rhizome, e.g. in the potato, serving as a food reserve and bearing buds from which new plants arise.
■ a tuberous root, e.g. of the dahlia.
2 Anatomy a rounded swelling or protuberant part.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin, literally 'hump, swelling'.

tuber cinereum /ˌtju:bə sɪ'nɪərɪəm/ ▶ noun Anatomy the part of the hypothalamus to which the pituitary gland is attached.
– ORIGIN Latin cinereum, neuter of cinereus 'ash-coloured'.

tubercle /'tju:bək(ə)l/ ▶ noun 1 Anatomy, Zoology, & Botany a small rounded projection or protuberance, especially on a bone or on the surface of an animal or plant.
2 Medicine a small nodular lesion in the lungs or other tissues, characteristic of tuberculosis.

– DERIVATIVES tuberculate /-'bə:kjʊlət/ adjective (only in sense 1).
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Latin tuberculum, diminutive of tuber (see TUBER).

tubercle bacillus ▶ noun a bacterium that causes tuberculosis.

tubercular /tjʊ'bə:kjʊlə/ ▶ adjective Medicine of, relating to, or affected with tuberculosis: a tubercular kidney.
■Biology & Medicine having or covered with tubercles.
▶ noun a person with tuberculosis.

tuberculation /tjʊˌbə:kjʊ'leɪʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly Biology the formation or presence of tubercles, especially of a specified type.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin tuberculum (see TUBERCLE) + -ATION.

tuberculin /tjʊ'bə:kjʊlɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a sterile protein extract from cultures of tubercle bacillus, used in a test by hypodermic injection for infection with or immunity to tuberculosis, and also formerly in the treatment of the disease.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin tuberculum (see TUBERCLE) + -IN[1].

tuberculin-tested ▶ adjective (of cows or their milk) giving, or from cows giving, a negative response to a tuberculin test.

tuberculoid /tjʊ'bə:kjʊlɔɪd/ ▶ adjective Medicine resembling tuberculosis or its symptoms.
■relating to or denoting the milder of the two principal forms of leprosy, marked by few, well-defined lesions similar to those of tuberculosis, often with loss of feeling in the affected areas. Compare with LEPROMATOUS.

tuberculosis /tjʊˌbə:kjʊ'ləʊsɪs/ (abbrev.: TB) ▶ noun [mass noun] an infectious bacterial disease characterized by the growth of nodules (tubercles) in the tissues, especially the lungs.
● The disease is caused by the bacterium Mycobacterium tuberculosis or (especially in animals) a related species; Gram-positive acid-fast rods.

The most common form, pulmonary tuberculosis (formerly known as 'consumption'), is caused by inhalation of the bacteria. It was widespread in 19th-century Europe, and still causes 3 million deaths each year in developing countries. The disease can affect other parts of the body, notably the bones and joints and the central nervous system. Its spread is countered by vaccination and by the pasteurization of milk to prevent transmission from cattle. It was once considered incurable, but early X-ray diagnosis permits its arrest by drugs and surgery.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: modern Latin, from Latin tuberculum (see TUBERCLE) + -OSIS.

tuberculous /tjʊ'bə:kjʊləs/ ▶ adjective another term for TUBERCULAR.

tuberose /'tju:bərəʊz/ ▶ noun a Mexican plant with heavily scented white waxy flowers and a bulb-like base. Unknown in the wild, it was formerly cultivated as a flavouring for chocolate; the flower oil is used in perfumery.
● Polianthes tuberosa, family Agavaceae.
▶ adjective variant spelling of TUBEROUS.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: noun from Latin tuberosa, feminine of tuberosus 'with protuberances'; adjective from Latin tuberosus.

tuberous /'tju:b(ə)rəs/ (also tuberose /'tju:b(ə)rəʊs/) ▶ adjective 1 Botany of the nature of a tuber. See TUBEROUS ROOT.
■(of a plant) having tubers or a tuberous root.
2 Medicine characterized by or affected by rounded swellings: tuberous sclerosis.
– DERIVATIVES tuberosity /-'rɒsɪti/ noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from French tubéreux or Latin tuberosus, from tuber (see TUBER).

tuberous root ▶ noun a thick and fleshy root like a tuber but without buds, as in the dahlia.

tubesnout ▶ noun a small inshore fish with a very elongated snout, head, and body, living along the Pacific coast of North America.
● Aulorynchus flavidus, the only member of the family Aulorhynchidae.

tube top ▶ noun North American term for BOOB TUBE.

tube well ▶ noun a well consisting of an iron pipe with a solid steel point and lateral perforations near the end, which is driven into the earth until a water-bearing stratum is reached, when a suction pump is applied to the upper end.

tube worm ▶ noun a marine bristle worm, especially a fan worm, which lives in a tube made from sand particles or in a calcareous tube that it secretes.
● Families Serpulidae and Sabellidae, phylum Polychaeta.
■a pogonophoran or vestimentiferan worm.

tubicolous /tju:'bɪkələs/ ▶ adjective Zoology (of a marine worm) living in a tube.

tubifex /'tju:bɪfɛks/ ▶ noun a small red annelid worm that lives in fresh water, partly buried in the mud. Also called BLOODWORM.
● Genus Tubifex, family Tubificidae, class Oligochaeta.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin tubus 'tube' + -fex from facere 'make'.

tubing ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 a length or lengths of metal, plastic, glass, etc., in tubular form: use the plastic tubing to siphon the beer into the bottles.
2 N. Amer. the leisure activity of riding on water or snow on a large inflated inner tube.

tubocurarine /ˌtju:bə(ʊ)'kjʊərəri:n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a compound of the alkaloid class obtained from curare and used to produce relaxation of voluntary muscles before surgery and in tetanus, encephalitis, and poliomyelitis.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin tubus 'tube' + CURARE + -INE[4].

Tubruq /tʊ'bru:k/ Arabic name for TOBRUK.

tub-thumping informal, derogatory ▶ adjective [attrib.] expressing opinions in a loud and violent or dramatic manner: a tub-thumping speech.
▶ noun [mass noun] the expression of opinions in such a way.
– DERIVATIVES tub-thumper noun.

Tubuai Islands /tu:b'wa:i/ a group of volcanic islands in the South Pacific, forming part of French Polynesia; chief town, Mataura (on the island of Tubuai); pop. 6,500 (1988). Also called the AUSTRAL ISLANDS.

tubular ▶ adjective 1 long, round, and hollow like a tube: tubular flowers of deep crimson.
■made from a tube or tubes: tubular steel chairs.
■ Surfing, chiefly US (of a wave) hollow and well curved.
2 Medicine of or involving tubules or other tube-shaped structures.
▶ noun 1 short for TUBULAR TYRE.
2 (tubulars) oil-drilling equipment made from tubes.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Latin tubulus 'small tube' + -AR[1].

tubular bells ▶ plural noun an orchestral instrument consisting of a row of vertically suspended metal tubes struck with a mallet.

tubular tyre ▶ noun a completely enclosed tyre cemented on to the wheel rim, used on racing bicycles.

tubule /'tju:bju:l/ ▶ noun a minute tube, especially as an anatomical structure: kidney tubules.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Latin tubulus, diminutive of tubus 'tube'.

Tubulidentata /ˌtju:bjʊlɪdɛn'tɑ:tə, -'teɪtə/ Zoology an order of mammals which comprises only the aardvark.
– ORIGIN modern Latin (plural), from TUBULE + Greek odous, odont- 'tooth'.

tubulin /'tju:bjʊlɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a protein that is the main constituent of the microtubules of living cells.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from TUBULE + -IN[1].

TUC ▶ abbreviation for (in the UK) Trades Union Congress.

Tucana /tʊ'kɑ:nə/ Astronomy a southern constellation (the Toucan), south of Grus and Phoenix. It contains the Small Magellanic Cloud.
■[as genitive Tucanae /tʊ'kɑ:ni/] used with preceding letter or numeral to designate a star in this constellation: the star Delta Tucanae.
– ORIGIN modern Latin.

tuck ▶ verb 1 [with obj. and usu. with adverbial of place] push, fold, or turn (the edges or ends of something, especially a garment or bedclothes) so as to hide them or hold them in place: he tucked his shirt into his trousers.
■(tuck someone in/up) make someone, especially a child, comfortable in bed by pulling the edges of the bedclothes firmly under the mattress: Emily was only too willing to be tucked up in bed by nine. ■ draw (something, especially part of one's body) together into a small space: she tucked her legs under her. ■ (often be tucked) put (something) away in a specified place or way so as to be hidden, safe, comfortable, or tidy: the Colonel was coming towards her, his gun tucked under his arm.
2 [with obj.] make a flattened, stitched fold in (a garment or material), typically so as to shorten or tighten it, or for decoration.
▶ noun 1 a flattened, stitched fold in a garment or material, typically one of several parallel folds put in a garment for shortening, tightening, or decoration: a dress with tucks along the bodice.
■[usu. with modifier] informal a surgical operation to reduce surplus flesh or fat: a tummy tuck.
2 [mass noun] Brit. informal food, typically cakes and sweets, eaten by children at school as a snack: [as modifier] a tuck shop.
3 (also tuck position) (in diving, gymnastics, downhill skiing, etc.) a position with the knees bent and held close to the chest, often with the hands clasped round the shins.
– ORIGIN Old English tūcian 'to punish, ill-treat': of West Germanic origin; related to TUG. Influenced in Middle English by Middle Dutch tucken 'pull sharply'.
▶ tuck something away 1 store something in a secure place: savers are turning to unit trusts as the best place to tuck away their money. ■ (usu. be tucked away) put or keep someone or something in an inconspicuous or concealed place: the police station was tucked away in a square behind the main street. 2 informal (in sport) hit the ball to the desired place: Stewart neatly tucked away the first goal. 3 informal eat a lot of food.
tuck in (or into) informal eat food heartily: I tucked into the bacon and scrambled eggs.

tuckahoe /'tʌkəhəʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a root or other underground plant part formerly eaten by North American Indians, in particular:
● the starchy rhizome of an arum that grows chiefly in marshland (Peltandra virginica, family Araceae). ● the underground sclerotium of a bracket fungus (Poria cocos, class Hymenomycetes).
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Virginia Algonquian tockawhoughe.

tucker ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] Austral./NZ informal food. [ORIGIN: early 19th cent.: derivative of British English slang tuck 'consume (food or drink)'.]
2 historical a piece of lace or linen worn in or around the top of a bodice or as an insert at the front of a low-cut dress. See also one's best bib and tucker at BIB[1].
▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be tuckered out) N. Amer. informal exhaust; wear out.

tucket ▶ noun archaic a flourish on a trumpet.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from obsolete tuck 'beat (a drum)', from Old Northern French toquer, from the base of TOUCH.

tuck-in ▶ noun Brit. informal, dated a large meal.

tucking ▶ noun [mass noun] a series of stitched tucks in a garment.

tuck-point ▶ verb [with obj.] point (brickwork) with coloured mortar so as to have a narrow groove which is filled with fine white lime putty allowed to project slightly.

tuck position ▶ noun see TUCK (sense 3).

tuco-tuco /'tu:kəʊˌtu:kəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) a burrowing rat-like rodent native to South America.
● Family Ctenomyidae and genus Ctenomys: numerous species.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: imitative of the call of some species.

Tucson /'tu:sɒn/ a city in SE Arizona; pop. 405,390 (1990).

tucuxi /tʊ'ku:hi/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a small stout-bodied dolphin with a grey back and pinkish underparts, living along the coasts and rivers from Panama to Brazil and in the Amazon.
● Sotalia fluviatilis, family Delphinidae.

'tude ▶ noun N. Amer. informal short for ATTITUDE: the song bristles with lotsa 'tude.

-tude ▶ suffix forming abstract nouns such as beatitude, solitude.
– ORIGIN from French -tude, from Latin -tudo.

Tudeh /'tu:deɪ/ (also Tudeh Party) the Communist Party of Iran.
– ORIGIN Persian, literally 'mass'.

Tudor[1] ▶ adjective of or relating to the English royal dynasty which held the throne from the accession of Henry VII in 1485 until the death of Elizabeth I in 1603.
■of, denoting, or relating to the prevalent architectural style of the Tudor period, characterized especially by half-timbering.

▶ noun a member of this dynasty.

Tudor[2], Henry, Henry VII of England (see HENRY[1]).

Tudor[3], Mary, Mary I of England (see MARY[2]).

Tudorbethan /ˌtjuːdəˈbiːθ(ə)n/ ▶ adjective (of a contemporary house or architectural design) imitative of Tudor and Elizabethan styles.
– ORIGIN 1930s: blend of TUDOR[1] and ELIZABETHAN.

Tudor rose ▶ noun a conventionalized, typically five-lobed figure of a rose used in architectural and other decoration in the Tudor period, in particular a combination of the red and white roses of Lancaster or York adopted as a badge by Henry VII.

Tues. (also Tue.) ▶ abbreviation for Tuesday.

Tuesday ▶ noun the day of the week before Wednesday and following Monday: come to dinner on Tuesday | the following Tuesday | [as modifier] Tuesday afternoons.
▶ adverb chiefly N. Amer. on Tuesday: they're all leaving Tuesday.
■ (Tuesdays) on Tuesdays; each Tuesday: she works late Tuesdays.
– ORIGIN Old English Tīwesdæg, named after the Germanic god Tīw (associated with Mars); translation of Latin dies Marti 'day of Mars'; compare with Swedish tisdag.

tufa /ˈtjuːfə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a porous rock composed of calcium carbonate and formed by precipitation from water, e.g. around mineral springs.
■ another term for TUFF.
– DERIVATIVES tufaceous /-ˈfeɪʃəs/ adjective.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Italian, variant of tufo (see TUFF).

tuff /tʌf/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a light, porous rock formed by consolidation of volcanic ash.
– DERIVATIVES tuffaceous /-ˈfeɪʃəs/ adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: via French from Italian tufo, from late Latin tofus, Latin tophus (see TOPHUS).

tuffet ▶ noun 1 a tuft or clump of something: grass tuffets.
2 a footstool or low seat.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: alteration of TUFT.

tuft ▶ noun a bunch or collection of something, typically threads, grass, or hair, held or growing together at the base: scrubby tufts of grass.
■ Anatomy & Zoology a bunch of small blood vessels, respiratory tentacles, or other small anatomical structures.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 (usu. be tufted) provide (something) with a tuft or tufts.
2 Needlework make depressions at regular intervals in (a mattress or cushion) by passing a thread through it.
– DERIVATIVES tufty adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: probably from Old French tofe, of unknown origin. The final -t is typical of phonetic confusion between -f and -ft at the end of words; compare with GRAFT[1].

tufted ▶ adjective having or growing in a tuft or tufts: tufted grass.

tufted duck ▶ noun a Eurasian freshwater diving duck with a drooping crest, the male having mainly black and white plumage.
● Aythya fuligula, family Anatidae.

Tu Fu /tuː ˈfuː/ (also Du Fu) (AD 712–70), Chinese poet. He is noted for his bitter satiric poems attacking social injustice and corruption at court.

tug ▶ verb (tugged, tugging) [with obj.] pull (something) hard or suddenly: she tugged off her boots | [no obj.] he tugged at Tom's coat sleeve.
■ tow (a ship) by means of a tug or tugs.
▶ noun 1 a hard or sudden pull: another tug and it came loose | figurative an overwhelming tug of attraction.
2 (also tugboat) a small, powerful boat used for towing larger boats and ships, especially in harbour.
■ an aircraft towing a glider.
3 a loop from a horse's saddle which supports a shaft or trace.
– PHRASES tug of love Brit. informal a dispute over the custody of a child.
– DERIVATIVES tugger noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from the base of TOW[1]. The noun is first recorded (late Middle English) in sense 3.

tug of war ▶ noun a contest in which two teams pull at opposite ends of a rope until one drags the other over a central line.
■ figurative a situation in which two evenly matched people or factions are striving to keep or obtain the same thing: a tug of war between builders and environmentalists.

tugrik /ˈtuːgriːk/ ▶ noun (pl. same or tugriks) the basic monetary unit of Mongolia, equal to 100 mongos.
– ORIGIN Mongolian.

tui /ˈtuːi/ ▶ noun a large New Zealand honeyeater with glossy blackish plumage and two white tufts at the throat. Also called PARSON-BIRD.
● Prosthemadura novaeseelandiae, family Meliphagidae.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Maori.

tuile /twiːl/ ▶ noun (pl. pronounced same) a thin curved biscuit, typically made with almonds.
– ORIGIN French, literally 'tile'.

Tuileries /ˈtwiːləri, French tɥilʀi/ (also Tuileries Gardens) formal gardens next to the Louvre in Paris. The gardens are all that remain of the Tuileries Palace, a royal residence begun in 1564 and burnt down in 1871 during the Commune of Paris.
– ORIGIN French, literally 'Tile-works', so named because the palace was built on the site of an ancient tile-works.

Tuinal /ˈtjuːɪnal, -nəl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine, trademark a sedative and hypnotic drug consisting of a combination of two barbiturates.

tuition ▶ noun [mass noun] teaching or instruction, especially of individual pupils or small groups.
■ N. Amer. a sum of money charged for this by a college or university: I'm not paying next year's tuition.
– DERIVATIVES tuitional adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'custody, care'): via Old French from Latin tuitio(n-), from tueri 'to watch, guard'. Current senses date from the late 16th cent.

tuk-tuk /ˈtʊktʊk/ ▶ noun (in Thailand) a three-wheeled motorized vehicle used as a taxi.
– ORIGIN imitative.

Tula /ˈtuːlə/ 1 an industrial city in European Russia, to the south of Moscow; pop. 543,000 (1990).
2 the ancient capital city of the Toltecs, generally identified with a site near the town of Tula in Hidalgo State, central Mexico.

tularaemia /ˌtjuːləˈriːmɪə/ (US tularemia) ▶ noun [mass noun] a severe infectious bacterial disease of animals transmissible to humans, characterized by ulcers at the site of infection, fever, and loss of weight. Compare with RABBIT FEVER.
● This disease is caused by the bacterium Pasteurella tularense; Gram-negative rods or cocci.
– DERIVATIVES tularaemic adjective.
– ORIGIN 1920s: modern Latin, from Tulare, the county in California where it was first observed.

tule /ˈtuːli/ ▶ noun US a clubrush that is abundant in marshy areas of California.
● Scirpus acutus and S. validus, family Cyperaceae.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: via Spanish from Nahuatl tullin.

tulip ▶ noun a bulbous spring-flowering plant of the lily family, with boldly coloured cup-shaped flowers.
● Genus Tulipa, family Liliaceae: numerous complex hybrids.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from French tulipe, via Turkish from Persian dulband 'turban', from the shape of the expanded flower.

tulip shell ▶ noun a predatory marine mollusc with a sculptured spiral shell resembling that of a whelk.
● Family Fasciolariidae, class Gastropoda, in particular Fasciolaria tulipa, which is common in the Caribbean.

tulip tree ▶ noun a deciduous North American tree which has large distinctively lobed leaves and insignificant tulip-like flowers. Also called YELLOW POPLAR or WHITEWOOD in North America.
● Liriodendron tulipifera, family Magnoliaceae.

tulipwood ▶ noun 1 an Australian tree of rainforest and scrub, with heavy black and yellow timber that is used mainly for cabinetmaking.
● Harpullia pendula, family Sapindaceae.
2 [mass noun] the pale timber of the tulip tree.

Tull /tʌl/, Jethro (1674–1741), English agriculturalist. In 1701 he invented the seed drill, a machine which could sow seeds in accurately spaced rows at a controlled rate, reducing the need for farm labourers.

Tullamore /ˌtʊləˈmɔː/ the county town of Offaly, in the Republic of Ireland; pop. 8,620 (1991).

tulle /t(j)uːl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a soft, fine silk, cotton, or nylon material like net, used for making veils and dresses.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Tulle, a town in SW France, where it was first made.

tullibee /ˈtʌlɪbiː/ ▶ noun (pl. same or tullibees) a lake cisco (fish) of a deep-bodied race living in the Great Lakes of Canada.
● Coregonus artedii tullibee, family Salmonidae.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Canadian French toulibi, ultimately from Ojibwa.

tulip /tʌːlp/ ▶ noun S. African an African plant of the iris family, which is grown for its showy flowers but is toxic to livestock.
● Genera Homeria and Moraea, family Iridaceae: several species, including the blue tulip (M. polystachya).
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Afrikaans, from Dutch.

Tulsa /ˈtʌlsə/ a port on the Arkansas River in NE Oklahoma; pop. 367,300 (1990).

tulsi /ˈtʊlsiː/ ▶ noun a kind of basil which is cultivated by Hindus as a sacred plant.
● Ocimum sanctum, family Labiatae.
– ORIGIN from Hindi tūlsī.

Tulsidas /ˈtʊlsɪdɑːs/ (c.1543–1623), Indian poet. A leading Hindu devotional poet, he is chiefly remembered for the Ramcaritmanas (c.1574–7), a work consisting of seven cantos based on the Sanskrit epic the Ramayana.

tum ▶ noun informal a person's stomach or abdomen.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: abbreviation of TUMMY.

tumbaga /tʊmˈbɑːgə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an alloy of gold and copper commonly used in pre-Columbian South and Central America.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from Spanish, from Malay tembaga 'copper, brass'.

tumble ▶ verb 1 [no obj., with adverbial] (typically of a person) fall suddenly, clumsily, or headlong: she pitched forward, tumbling down the remaining stairs.
■ move or rush in a headlong or uncontrolled way: police and dogs tumbled from the vehicle. ■ (of something abstract) fall rapidly in amount or value: property prices tumbled. ■ [with obj.] dry (washing) in a tumble-dryer. ■ [with obj.] rumple; disarrange: [as adj. tumbled] his tumbled bedclothes. ■ [with obj.] informal have sexual intercourse with (someone).
2 [no obj.] (tumble to) informal understand the meaning or hidden implication of (a situation): she'll ring again as soon as she tumbles to what she's done.
3 [no obj.] perform acrobatic feats, typically handsprings and somersaults in the air.
■ (of a breed of pigeon) repeatedly turn over backwards in flight.
4 [with obj.] clean (castings, gemstones, etc.) in a tumbling barrel.
▶ noun 1 a sudden or headlong fall: I took a tumble in the nettles.
■ a rapid fall in amount or value: a tumble in share prices. ■ an untidy or confused arrangement or state: her hair was a tumble of untamed curls. ■ informal an act of sexual intercourse. ■ a handspring, somersault in the air, or other acrobatic feat.
2 US informal a friendly sign of recognition, acknowledgement, or interest: not a soul gave him a tumble.
– ORIGIN Middle English (as a verb, also in the sense 'dance with contortions'): from Middle Low German tummelen; compare with Old English tumbian 'to dance'. The sense was probably influenced by Old French tomber 'to fall'. The noun, first in the sense 'tangled mass', dates from the mid 17th cent.

tumblebug ▶ noun N. Amer. a dung beetle that rolls balls of dung along the ground.

tumbledown ▶ adjective (of a building or structure) falling or fallen into ruin; dilapidated.

tumble-dryer ▶ noun a machine that dries washed clothes by spinning them in hot air inside a rotating drum.
– DERIVATIVES tumble-dry verb (-dries, -dried).

tumblehome ▶ noun [mass noun] the inward slope of the upper part of a boat's sides.

tumbler ▶ noun 1 a drinking glass with straight sides and no handle or stem. [ORIGIN: formerly having a rounded bottom so as not to stand upright.]

2 an acrobat, especially one who performs somersaults.
■a pigeon of a breed that repeatedly turns over backwards in flight.
3 (also tumbler-dryer) another term for TUMBLE-DRYER.
4 a pivoted piece in a lock that holds the bolt until lifted by a key.
■a notched pivoted plate in a gunlock.
5 an electrical switch worked by pushing a small sprung lever.
6 another term for TUMBLING BARREL.
– DERIVATIVES tumblerful noun (pl. -fuls).

tumbleweed ▶ noun [mass noun] N. Amer. & Austral. a plant of arid regions which breaks off near the ground in late summer, forming light globular masses which are tumbled about by the wind.
● Genera Salsola (family Chenopodiaceae) and Amaranthus (family Amaranthaceae).

tumbling barrel ▶ noun a revolving device containing an abrasive substance, in which castings, gemstones, or other hard objects can be cleaned by friction.

tumbling bay ▶ noun chiefly historical an outfall from a river, reservoir, or canal, or the pool into which this flows.

tumbril /ˈtʌmbr(ə)l, -brɪl/ (also tumbrel) ▶ noun historical an open cart that tilted backwards to empty out its load, in particular one used to convey condemned prisoners to the guillotine during the French Revolution.
■a two-wheeled covered cart which carried tools or ammunition for an army.
– ORIGIN Middle English (originally denoting a type of cucking-stool): from Old French tomberel, from tomber 'to fall'.

tumefy /ˈtjuːmɪfʌɪ/ ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [no obj.] become swollen.
– DERIVATIVES tumefaction noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (in the sense 'cause to swell'): from French tuméfier, from Latin tumefacere, from tumere 'to swell'.

tumescent /tjʊˈmɛs(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective swollen or becoming swollen, especially as a response to sexual arousal.
– DERIVATIVES tumescence noun, tumescently adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin tumescent- 'beginning to swell', from the verb tumescere, from tumere 'to swell'.

tumid /ˈtjuːmɪd/ ▶ adjective (especially of a part of the body) swollen: a tumid belly.
■figurative (especially of language or literary style) pompous or bombastic: tumid oratory.
– DERIVATIVES tumidity noun, tumidly adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin tumidus, from tumere 'to swell'.

tummler /ˈtʊmlə/ ▶ noun US a person who makes things happen, in particular a professional entertainer whose function is to encourage an audience, guests at a resort, etc. to participate in the entertainments or activities.
■a professional comedian.
– ORIGIN 1960s: Yiddish, from German tummeln 'to stir'.

tummy ▶ noun (pl. -ies) informal a person's stomach or abdomen: [as modifier] a tummy upset.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: child's pronunciation of STOMACH.

tummy button ▶ noun informal a person's navel.

tumorigenesis /ˌtjuːmərɪˈdʒɛnɪsɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the production or formation of a tumour or tumours.

tumorigenic /ˌtjuːmərɪˈdʒɛnɪk/ ▶ adjective capable of forming or tending to form tumours.
– DERIVATIVES tumorigenicity noun.

tumour (US tumor) ▶ noun a swelling of a part of the body, generally without inflammation, caused by an abnormal growth of tissue, whether benign or malignant.
■archaic a swelling of any kind.
– DERIVATIVES tumorous adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin tumor, from tumere 'to swell'.

tump /tʌmp/ ▶ noun chiefly dialect [often in place names] 1 a small rounded hill or mound; a tumulus.
2 a clump of trees, shrubs, or grass.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: of unknown origin.

tumpline /ˈtʌmplʌɪn/ ▶ noun N. Amer. a sling for carrying a load on the back, with a strap which passes round the forehead.
■a strap of this kind.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: based on Algonquian (mat)tump + the noun LINE[1].

tumult ▶ noun [usu. in sing.] a loud, confused noise, especially one caused by a large mass of people: a tumult of shouting and screaming broke out.
■[mass noun] confusion or disorder: the whole neighbourhood was in a state of fear and tumult | figurative his personal tumult ended when he began writing songs.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French tumulte or Latin tumultus.

tumultuous /tjʊˈmʌltjʊəs/ ▶ adjective making a loud, confused noise; uproarious: tumultuous applause.
■excited, confused, or disorderly: a tumultuous crowd | figurative a tumultuous personal life.
– DERIVATIVES tumultuously adverb, tumultuousness noun.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Old French tumultuous or Latin tumultuosus, from tumultus (see TUMULT).

tumulus /ˈtjuːmjʊləs/ ▶ noun (pl. tumuli /-lʌɪ, -liː/) an ancient burial mound; a barrow.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin; related to tumere 'swell'.

tun ▶ noun 1 a large beer or wine cask.
■a brewer's fermenting-vat.
2 an imperial measure of capacity, equal to 4 hogsheads.
3 (also tun shell) a large marine mollusc which has a rounded barrel-like shell with broad spirals.
● Family Tonnidae, class Gastropoda.
▶ verb (tunned, tunning) [with obj.] archaic store (wine or other alcoholic drinks) in a tun.
– ORIGIN Old English tunne, from medieval Latin tunna, probably of Gaulish origin.

tuna[1] ▶ noun (pl. same or tunas) a large and active predatory schooling fish of warm seas, extensively fished commercially and popular as a game fish. See also TUNNY.
● Thunnus and other genera, family Scombridae: several species, including the albacore, bigeye, bluefin, skipjack, and yellowfin.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from American Spanish, from Spanish atún 'tunny'.

tuna[2] ▶ noun N. Amer. 1 the edible fruit of a prickly pear cactus.
2 a cactus that produces such fruit, widely cultivated in Mexico.
● Genus Opuntia, family Cactaceae: many species, in particular O. tuna of Central America and the Caribbean.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: via Spanish from Taino.

Tunbridge Wells a spa town in Kent, SE England; pop. 58,140 (1981). Founded in the 1630s after the discovery of iron-rich springs, the town was patronized by royalty throughout the 17th and 18th centuries. Official name ROYAL TUNBRIDGE WELLS.

tundish /ˈtʌndɪʃ/ ▶ noun Brit. a broad open container or large funnel with one or more holes at the bottom, used especially in plumbing or metal-founding.

tundra /ˈtʌndrə/ ▶ noun a vast, flat, treeless Arctic region of Europe, Asia, and North America in which the subsoil is permanently frozen.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Lappish.

tundra swan ▶ noun an Arctic-breeding migratory swan with a yellow and black bill, often known by the names of its constituent races (Bewick's swan and whistling swan).
● Cygnus columbianus, family Anatidae.

tune ▶ noun a melody, especially one which characterizes a certain piece of music: she left the theatre humming a cheerful tune.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 adjust (a musical instrument) to the correct or uniform pitch: he tuned the harp for me.
■adjust (a receiver circuit such as a radio or television) to the frequency of the required signal: the radio was tuned to the BBC | [no obj.] they tuned in to watch the cricket. ■ adjust (an engine) or balance (mechanical parts) so that a vehicle runs smoothly and efficiently. ■ (usu. be tuned) figurative adjust or adapt (something) to a particular purpose or situation: the animals are finely tuned to life in the desert. ■ [no obj.] (tune into) figurative become sensitive to: you must tune into the needs of loved ones.
2 [with two objs] S. African informal tell (someone) (something): he starts tuning you stories about his youth. [ORIGIN: transferred use of tune 'adjust, put right'.]
– PHRASES be tuned in informal be aware of, sensitive to, or able to understand something: it's important to be tuned in to your child's needs. call the tune see CALL. change one's tune see CHANGE. in (or out of) tune with correct (or incorrect) pitch or intonation. ■ (of a motor engine or other machine) properly (or poorly) adjusted. ■ figurative in (or not in) agreement or harmony: he was out of tune with conventional belief. there's many a good tune played on an old fiddle proverb someone's abilities do not depend on their being young. to the tune of informal amounting to or involving (a specified considerable sum): he was in debt to the tune of forty thousand pounds.
– DERIVATIVES tunable (also tuneable) adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: unexplained alteration of TONE. The verb is first recorded (late 15th cent.) in the sense 'celebrate in music, sing'.
▶ tune out informal stop listening or paying attention.
tune something out exclude a sound or transmission of a particular frequency.
tune up (of a musician) adjust one's instrument to the correct or uniform pitch.
tune something up adjust something so that it performs at its most efficient.

tuneful ▶ adjective having a pleasing tune; melodious.
– DERIVATIVES tunefully adverb, tunefulness noun.

tuneless ▶ adjective not pleasing to listen to; unmelodious.
– DERIVATIVES tunelessly adverb, tunelessness noun.

tuner ▶ noun a person who tunes musical instruments, especially pianos.
■an electronic device for tuning a guitar or other instrument. ■ an electronic device for varying the frequency to which a radio or television is tuned. ■ a separate unit for detecting and preamplifying a programme signal and supplying it to an audio amplifier. ■ a person who tunes car engines or other machines.

tunesmith ▶ noun informal a composer of popular music or songs.

tune-up ▶ noun an act of tuning something up: take your car in for a tune-up if it's an older model.
■chiefly US a sporting event that serves as a practice for a subsequent event: a tune-up for the college's fall league.

tung oil ▶ noun [mass noun] an oil used as a drying agent in inks, paints, and varnishes.
● This oil is obtained from the seeds of trees of the genus Aleurites, family Euphorbiaceae.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: tung, from Chinese.

tungstate /ˈtʌŋsteɪt/ ▶ noun Chemistry a salt in which the anion contains both tungsten and oxygen, especially one of the anion WO_4^{2-}.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from TUNGSTEN + -ATE[1].

tungsten /ˈtʌŋst(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the chemical element of atomic number 74, a hard steel-grey metal of the transition series. It has a very high melting point (3410°C) and is used to make electric light filaments. (Symbol: W) – ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Swedish, from tung 'heavy' + sten 'stone'.

tungsten carbide ▶ noun [mass noun] a very hard grey compound made by reaction of tungsten and carbon at high temperatures, used in making engineering dies, cutting and drilling tools, etc.
● Chem. formula: WC; some forms also contain W_2C.

tungstite /ˈtʌŋstʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a yellow mineral consisting of hydrated tungsten oxide, typically occurring as a powdery coating on tungsten ores.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from TUNGSTEN + -ITE[1].

Tungus /ˈtʊŋgʊs, tʊŋˈguːs/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a member of the northern Evenki people of Siberia.
■older term for EVENKI (the language).
– ORIGIN the name in Yakut.

Tungusic /tʊŋˈguːsɪk/ ▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting a small family of Altaic languages of Siberia and northern China.
▶ noun this family of languages collectively.

Tunguska /tʊŋˈguːskə/ two rivers in Siberian Russia, the Lower Tunguska and Stony Tunguska, flowing westwards into the Yenisei River through the forested, sparsely populated Tunguska Basin. The area was the scene in 1908 of a devastating explosion believed to have been due to the disintegration in the atmosphere of a meteorite or small comet.

tunic ▶ noun 1 a loose garment, typically sleeveless and reaching to the wearer's knees, as worn in ancient Greece and Rome.
■ a loose, thigh-length garment, worn typically by women over a skirt or trousers. ■ a gymslip.
2 a close-fitting short coat as part of a uniform, especially a police or military uniform.
3 Biology & Anatomy an integument or membrane enclosing or lining an organ or part.
■ Botany any of the concentric layers of a plant bulb, e.g. an onion. ■ Zoology the rubbery outer coat of a sea squirt.
– ORIGIN Old English, from Old French tunique or Latin tunica.

tunica /'tju:nɪkə/ ▶ noun (pl. tunicae /-ki:/) 1 Anatomy a membranous sheath enveloping or lining an organ.
2 Botany the outer layer or layers of cells in an apical meristem, which contribute to surface growth.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Latin, literally 'tunic'.

tunicate /'tju:nɪkət, -keɪt/ ▶ noun Zoology a marine invertebrate of a group which includes the sea squirts and salps. They have a rubbery or hard outer coat and two siphons to draw water into and out of the body.
• Subphylum Urochordata: three classes.
▶ adjective (usu. tunicated) Botany (of a plant bulb, e.g. an onion) having concentric layers.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Latin tunicatus, past participle of tunicare 'clothe with a tunic', from tunica (see TUNICA).

tunicle /'tju:nɪk(ə)l/ ▶ noun a short liturgical vestment which is traditionally worn over the alb by a subdeacon at celebrations of the Mass.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French tunicle or Latin tunicula, diminutive of tunica (see TUNICA).

tuning ▶ noun [mass noun] the action or process of tuning something: an electronic instrument requires no tuning.
■ the extent to which a musical instrument, performance, or ensemble is in tune: at times the tuning is uncertain, and the solos often lack conviction. ■ a particular key or set of pitches to which an instrument, especially one with strings, is tuned: E-flat tuning. ■ the facility on a radio allowing for the reception of different stations, frequencies, or wavelengths. ■ Electronics the variation of the resonant frequency of an oscillatory circuit.

tuning fork ▶ noun a two-pronged steel device used by musicians, which vibrates when struck to give a note of specific pitch.

tuning peg ▶ noun any of the pegs in the neck of a stringed musical instrument around which the strings are wound, and which are turned to adjust their tension and so tune the instrument.

Tunis /'tju:nɪs/ the capital of Tunisia, a port on the Mediterranean coast of North Africa; pop. 596,650 (1984).

Tunisia /tju:'nɪzɪə/ a country in North Africa; pop. 8,223,000 (est. 1991); official language, Arabic; capital, Tunis.

Tunisia has a Mediterranean coastline and extends south into the Sahara Desert. Phoenician coastal settlements developed into the commercial empire of Carthage (near modern Tunis). The area was conquered by the Arabs in the 7th century and became part of the Ottoman Empire in the 16th century; a French protectorate was established in 1886. The rise of nationalism led to independence and the establishment of a republic in 1956–7.

– DERIVATIVES Tunisian adjective & noun.

tunnel ▶ noun 1 an artificial underground passage, especially one built through a hill or under a building, road, or river.
■ an underground passage dug by a burrowing animal. ■ [in sing.] a passage in a sports stadium by which players enter or leave the field.
2 short for WIND TUNNEL (in sense 1).
3 a long, half-cylindrical enclosure used to protect plants, typically made of clear plastic stretched over hoops.
▶ verb (tunnelled, tunnelling; US tunneled, tunneling) 1 [no obj., with adverbial of direction] dig or force a passage underground or through something: he tunnelled under the fence | (tunnel one's way) the insect tunnels its way out of the plant.
2 [no obj.] Physics (of a particle) pass through a potential barrier.
– PHRASES light at the end of the tunnel see LIGHT[1].
– DERIVATIVES tunneller noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the senses 'tunnel-net' and 'flue of a chimney'): from Old French tonel, diminutive of tonne 'cask'. Sense 1 of the noun dates from the mid 18th cent.

tunnel diode ▶ noun Electronics a two-terminal semiconductor diode using tunnelling electrons to perform high-speed switching operations.

tunnel kiln ▶ noun an industrial kiln in which ceramic items being fired are carried on trucks along a continuously heated passage.

tunnel of love ▶ noun a fairground amusement for couples involving a train- or boat-ride through a darkened tunnel.

tunnel vision ▶ noun [mass noun] defective sight in which objects cannot be properly seen if not close to the centre of the field of view.
■ informal the tendency to focus exclusively on a single or limited objective or view.

tunny (also tunny fish) ▶ noun (pl. same or -ies) a tuna, especially the bluefin.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from French thon, via Latin from Greek thunnos.

tun shell ▶ noun see TUN (sense 3).

tup /tʌp/ ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a ram.
▶ verb (tupped, tupping) [with obj.] 1 [often as noun tupping] chiefly Brit. (of a ram) copulate with (a ewe).
■ vulgar slang (of a man) have sexual intercourse with (a woman).
2 N. English informal head-butt (someone) in a fight.
– ORIGIN Middle English: of unknown origin.

Tupamaro /ˌtu:pə'mɑ:rəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) a member of a Marxist urban guerrilla organization in Uruguay that was active mainly in the late 1960s and early 1970s.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from Tupac Amarú, the name of an 18th-cent. Inca leader.

Tupelo /'t(j)u:pələʊ/ a city in NE Mississippi; pop. 30,685 (1990).

tupelo /'t(j)u:pɪləʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) a North American or Asian tree of damp and swampy habitats, which yields useful timber.
• Genus Nyssa, family Nyssaceae: several species, in particular N. sylvatica (also called PEPPERIDGE).
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Creek, from ito 'tree' + opilwa 'swamp'.

Tupi /'tu:pi/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Tupis) 1 a member of a group of American Indian peoples living in scattered areas throughout the Amazon valley.
2 [mass noun] any of the languages of these peoples, which constitute a branch of the Tupi-Guarani language family.
▶ adjective of or relating to these peoples or their languages.
– DERIVATIVES Tupian adjective.
– ORIGIN a local name.

Tupi-Guarani ▶ noun [mass noun] a South American Indian language family whose principal members are Guarani and the Tupian languages.
▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting these languages.

tupik /'tu:pɪk/ ▶ noun a hut or tent made of animal skins used by Inuits in the Canadian Arctic as a summer dwelling.
– ORIGIN from Inuit tupiq.

tuppence ▶ noun Brit. variant spelling of TWOPENCE.

tuppenny ▶ adjective Brit. variant spelling of TWOPENNY.

Tupperware /'tʌpəwɛ:/ ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark a range of plastic containers used chiefly for storing food.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from Tupper, the name of the American manufacturer, + WARE[1].

tuque /tu:k/ ▶ noun Canadian a close-fitting knitted stocking cap.
– ORIGIN Canadian French form of TOQUE.

tur /tʊə/ ▶ noun a wild goat native to the Caucasian mountains.
• Genus Capra, family Bovidae: two species.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Russian.

turaco /'tʊərəkəʊ/ (also touraco) ▶ noun (pl. -os) a fruit-eating African bird with brightly coloured plumage, a prominent crest, and a long tail. Also called LOERIE or LOURIE in South Africa.
• Family Musophagidae (the turaco family): three genera, especially Musophaga and Tauraco, and several species. The turaco family also includes the go-away birds and plantain-eaters.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from French touraco, from a West African word.

Turanian /tjʊ'reɪnɪən/ ▶ adjective dated of, relating to, or denoting the languages of central Asia, particularly those of the Uralic and Altaic families, or the peoples that speak them.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Persian Tūrān, the region beyond the Oxus, + -IAN.

turban ▶ noun 1 a man's headdress, consisting of a long length of cotton or silk wound round a cap or the head, worn especially by Muslims and Sikhs.
2 (also turban shell) a marine mollusc with a sculptured spiral shell and a distinctive operculum which is smooth on the inside and sculptured and typically patterned on the outside.
• Family Turbinidae, class Gastropoda: Turbo and other genera.
– DERIVATIVES turbaned (also turbanned) adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: via French from Turkish tülbent, from Persian dulband. Compare with TULIP.

turbary /'tə:b(ə)ri/ ▶ noun (in full common of turbary) (pl. -ies) [mass noun] Brit. the legal right to cut turf or peat for fuel on common ground or on another person's ground.
■ [count noun] a place where turf or peat is dug or cut under such a right.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French turberie, from Old French tourbe 'turf'.

Turbellaria /ˌtə:bɪ'lɛ:rɪə/ Zoology a class of typically free-living flatworms which have a ciliated surface and a simple branched gut with a single opening.
– DERIVATIVES turbellarian adjective & noun.
– ORIGIN modern Latin (plural), from Latin turbella 'bustle, stir', diminutive of turba 'crowd'.

turbid /'tə:bɪd/ ▶ adjective (of a liquid) cloudy, opaque, or thick with suspended matter: the turbid estuary | figurative a turbid piece of cinéma vérité.
– DERIVATIVES turbidity noun, turbidly adverb, turbidness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the figurative sense): from Latin turbidus, from turba 'a crowd, a disturbance'.

turbidimeter /ˌtə:bɪ'dɪmɪtə/ ▶ noun an instrument for measuring the turbidity of a liquid suspension, usually as a means of determining the surface area of the suspended particles.
– DERIVATIVES turbidimetric adjective, turbidimetry noun.

turbidite /'tə:bɪdaɪt/ ▶ noun Geology a sediment or rock deposited by a turbidity current.
– DERIVATIVES turbiditic adjective.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from turbidity (see TURBID) + -ITE[1].

turbidity current ▶ noun an underwater current flowing swiftly downslope owing to the weight of sediment it carries.

turbinal /'tə:bɪn(ə)l/ ▶ noun (usu. turbinals) Anatomy & Zoology each of three thin curved shelves of bone in the sides of the nasal cavity in humans and other warm-blooded vertebrates, covered in mucous membrane.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (as an adjective in the sense 'top-shaped'): from Latin turbo, turbin- 'spinning top' + -AL.

turbinate /'tə:bɪnət/ ▶ adjective chiefly Zoology (especially of a shell) shaped like a spinning top or inverted cone.
■ Anatomy relating to or denoting the turbinals.
▶ noun (also turbinate bone) Anatomy another term for TURBINAL.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin turbinatus, from turbo, turbin- (see TURBINE).

turbine /'tə:baɪn, -ɪn/ ▶ noun a machine for producing continuous power in which a wheel or rotor, typically fitted with vanes, is made to revolve by a fast-moving flow of water, steam, gas, air, or other fluid.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from French, from Latin turbo, turbin- 'spinning top, whirl'.

turbit /'tə:bɪt/ ▶ noun a stoutly built pigeon of a domestic breed with a neck frill and short beak.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: apparently from Latin turbo 'spinning top', from its shape.

turbo /'tə:bəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) short for TURBOCHARGER.
■ a motor vehicle equipped with a turbocharger.

turbo- ▶ combining form having or driven by a turbine: turboshaft.
– ORIGIN from TURBINE.

turboboost ▶ noun [mass noun] the increase in speed or power produced by turbocharging a car's engine or, specifically, when the turbocharger becomes activated.

turbocharge ▶ verb [with obj.] [often as adj. turbocharged] equip (an engine or vehicle) with a turbocharger.

turbocharger ▶ noun a supercharger driven by a turbine powered by the engine's exhaust gases.

turbo diesel ▶ noun a turbocharged diesel engine.
■a vehicle equipped with such an engine.

turbofan ▶ noun a jet engine in which a turbine-driven fan provides additional thrust.
■an aircraft powered by such an engine.

turbogenerator ▶ noun a large electricity generator driven by a steam turbine.

turbojet ▶ noun a jet engine in which the jet gases also operate a turbine-driven compressor for compressing the air drawn into the engine.
■an aircraft powered by such an engine.

turboprop ▶ noun a jet engine in which a turbine is used to drive a propeller.
■an aircraft powered by such an engine.

turboshaft ▶ noun a gas turbine engine in which the turbine drives a shaft other than a propeller shaft.

turbosupercharger ▶ noun another term for TURBOCHARGER.

turbot ▶ noun (pl. same or turbots) a European flatfish of inshore waters, which has large bony tubercles on the body and is prized as food.
● Scophthalmus maximus, family Scophthalmidae (or Bothidae).
■used in names of similar flatfishes, e.g. black turbot.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, of Scandinavian origin.

turbulence ▶ noun [mass noun] violent or unsteady movement of air or water, or of some other fluid: the plane shuddered as it entered some turbulence.
■figurative conflict; confusion: a time of political turbulence.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, or from late Latin turbulentia, from turbulentus 'full of commotion' (see TURBULENT).

turbulent /'tə:bjʊl(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective characterized by conflict, disorder, or confusion; not controlled or calm: the country's turbulent 20-year history | her turbulent emotions.
■(of air or water) moving unsteadily or violently: the turbulent sea. ■ technical of, relating to, or denoting flow of a fluid in which the velocity at any point fluctuates irregularly and there is continual mixing rather than a steady or laminar flow pattern.
– DERIVATIVES turbulently adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin turbulentus 'full of commotion', from turba 'crowd'.

Turco /'tə:kəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) historical an Algerian soldier in the French army.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Spanish, Portuguese, and Italian, literally 'Turk'.

Turco- (also Turko-) ▶ combining form Turkish; Turkish and ...: Turco-Tartar.
■relating to Turkey.

Turcoman ▶ noun variant spelling of TURKOMAN.

turd ▶ noun vulgar slang a lump of excrement.
■a person regarded as obnoxious or contemptible.
– ORIGIN Old English tord, of Germanic origin.

tureen /tjʊ'ri:n, tə-/ ▶ noun a deep covered dish from which soup is served.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: alteration of earlier terrine, from French terrine (see TERRINE), feminine of Old French terrin 'earthen', based on Latin terra 'earth'.

turf ▶ noun (pl. turfs or turves) [mass noun] 1 grass and the surface layer of earth held together by its roots: they walked across the springy turf.
■[count noun] a piece of such grass and earth cut from the ground. ■ peat used for fuel.
2 (the turf) horse racing or racecourses generally: he spent his money gambling on the turf.
3 informal an area regarded as someone's personal territory; one's home ground: the team will play Canada on their home turf this summer.
■a person's sphere of influence or activity: we're in similar businesses but we cover different turf.
▶ verb 1 [with obj. and adverbial] informal, chiefly Brit. force (someone) to leave somewhere: they were turfed off the bus.
2 [with obj.] [often as adj. turfed] cover (a patch of ground) with turf: a turfed lawn.
– ORIGIN Old English, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch turf and German Torf, from an Indo-European root shared by Sanskrit darbha 'tuft of grass'.

turf accountant ▶ noun Brit. formal a bookmaker.

Turfan Depression /'tʊəfan, tʊə'fan/ (also Turpan) a low-lying area in Xinjiang, western China, descending to 154 m (505 ft) below sea level, with an area of 50,000 sq. km (20,000 sq. miles). It is China's lowest point below sea level.

turfman ▶ noun (pl. -men) chiefly US a devotee of horse racing, especially one who owns or trains horses.

turf war (also turf battle) ▶ noun informal, chiefly N. Amer. an acrimonious dispute between rival groups over territory or a particular sphere of influence.
– ORIGIN 1970s: from the notion of a war over turf in the informal sense 'area regarded as personal territory' (originally the area controlled by, for example, a street gang or criminal).

turfy ▶ adjective (turfier, turfiest) covered with or consisting of turf; grassy: a turfy plain.
■of or like peat; peaty: I inhaled the turfy air.

Turgenev /tə:'geɪnjɛf, tʊə'gɛnjɛf/, Ivan (Sergeevich) (1818–83), Russian novelist, dramatist, and short-story writer. His novels, such as Fathers and Sons (1862), examine individual lives to illuminate the social, political, and philosophical issues of the day.

turgescent /tə:'dʒɛs(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective chiefly technical becoming or seeming swollen or distended.
– DERIVATIVES turgescence noun.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin turgescent- 'beginning to swell', from the verb turgescere, from turgere 'to swell'.

turgid /'tə:dʒɪd/ ▶ adjective swollen and distended or congested: a turgid and fast-moving river.
■(of language or style) tediously pompous or bombastic: some turgid verses on the death of Prince Albert.
– DERIVATIVES turgidity noun, turgidly adverb.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin turgidus, from turgere 'to swell'.

turgor /'tə:gə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly Botany the state of turgidity and resulting rigidity of cells (or tissues), typically due to the absorption of fluid.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from late Latin, from turgere 'to swell'.

Turin /tjʊ'rɪn/ a city in NW Italy on the River Po, capital of Piedmont region; pop. 991,870 (1990). Turin was the capital of the kingdom of Sardinia from 1720 and became the first capital of a unified Italy (1861–4). Italian name TORINO.

Turing /'tjʊərɪŋ/, Alan Mathison (1912–54), English mathematician. He developed the concept of a theoretical computing machine, a key step in the development of the first computer, and carried out important code-breaking work in the Second World War. He also investigated artificial intelligence.

Turing machine ▶ noun a mathematical model of a hypothetical computing machine which can use a predefined set of rules to determine a result from a set of input variables.

Turing test ▶ noun a test for intelligence in a computer, requiring that a human being should be unable to distinguish the machine from another human being by using the replies to questions put to both.

Turin Shroud a relic, preserved at Turin since 1578, venerated as the winding-sheet in which Christ's body was wrapped for burial. It bears the imprint of the front and back of a human body as well as markings that correspond to the traditional stigmata. Scientific tests carried out in 1988 dated the shroud to the 13th–14th centuries.

turion /'t(j)ʊərɪən/ ▶ noun Botany (in some aquatic plants) a wintering bud which becomes detached and remains dormant at the bottom of the water.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from French, from Latin turio(n-) 'a shoot'.

turista /t(j)ʊ'rɪstə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] informal, chiefly US diarrhoea as suffered by holidaymakers when visiting certain foreign countries.
– ORIGIN Spanish, literally 'tourist'.

Turk ▶ noun 1 a native or national of Turkey, or a person of Turkish descent.
2 historical a member of any of the ancient central Asian peoples who spoke Turkic languages, including the Seljuks and Ottomans.
3 archaic a member of the ruling Muslim population of the Ottoman Empire.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: via Old French from Turkish türk.

Turkana /tə:'kɑ:nə/ ▶ noun (pl. same) 1 a member of an East African people living between Lake Turkana and the Nile.
2 [mass noun] the Nilotic language of the Turkana, spoken by about 250,000 people.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Turkana or their language.
– ORIGIN a local name.

Turkana, Lake a salt lake in NW Kenya, with no outlet. It was visited in 1888 by the Hungarian explorer Count Teleki (1845–1916), who named it Lake Rudolf after the Crown Prince of Austria. It was given its present name in 1979.

Turkestan /ˌtə:kɪ'stɑ:n, -'stan/ (also Turkistan) a region of central Asia between the Caspian Sea and the Gobi Desert, inhabited mainly by Turkic peoples. It is divided by the Pamir and Tien Shan mountains into eastern Turkestan, now the Xinjiang autonomous region of China, and western Turkestan, which comprises present-day Turkmenistan, Kazakhstan, Uzbekistan, Tajikistan, and Kyrgyzstan.

Turkey a country comprising the whole of the Anatolian peninsula in western Asia, with a small enclave in SE Europe to the west of Istanbul; pop. 56,473,000 (1990); official language, Turkish; capital, Ankara.

Turkey was the centre of the Ottoman Empire, established in the late Middle Ages and largely maintained until its collapse at the end of the First World War, in which Turkey supported the Central Powers. The nationalist leader Kemal Atatürk expelled the minority Greek population and established the modern republic of Turkey in the 1920s. Turkey was neutral in the Second World War but is a member of NATO.

turkey ▶ noun (pl. -eys) 1 a large mainly domesticated game bird native to North America, having a bald head and (in the male) red wattles. It is prized as food, especially on festive occasions such as Christmas and (in the US) Thanksgiving.
● Meleagris gallopavo, family Meleagridae (or Phasianidae).
■[mass noun] the flesh of the turkey as food.
2 informal, chiefly US something that is extremely or completely unsuccessful, especially a play or film.
■a stupid or inept person.
– PHRASES like turkeys voting for Christmas informal used to suggest that a particular action or decision is hopelessly self-defeating. talk turkey N. Amer. informal discuss something frankly and straightforwardly.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: short for TURKEYCOCK or turkeyhen, originally applied to the guineafowl (which was imported through Turkey), and then erroneously to the American bird.

turkey buzzard ▶ noun North American term for TURKEY VULTURE.

turkey call ▶ noun chiefly US an instrument used by hunters to decoy the wild turkey by imitating its characteristic gobbling sound.

turkeycock ▶ noun a male turkey.
■a pompous or self-important person.

turkey oak ▶ noun a southern European oak with a domed spreading crown and acorn cups with long outward-pointing scales.
● Quercus cerris, family Fagaceae.

Turkey red ▶ noun [mass noun] a scarlet textile dye obtained from madder or alizarin.
■the colour of this dye. ■ cotton cloth dyed with this, popular in the 19th century.

turkey shoot ▶ noun informal, chiefly US a situation, typically in a war, in which the aggressor has an overwhelming advantage.

turkey trot ▶ noun a kind of ballroom dance to ragtime music which originated in the US and was popular in the early 20th century.

turkey vulture ▶ noun a common American vulture with black plumage and a bare red head.
● Cathartes aura, family Cathartidae.

Turkic /'tə:kɪk/ ▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting a large group of closely related Altaic languages of western and central Asia, including Turkish, Azerbaijani, Kazakh, Kyrgyz, Uighur, Uzbek, and Tatar.
▶ noun [mass noun] the Turkic languages collectively.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from TURK + -IC.

Turkish ▶ adjective of or relating to Turkey or to the Turks or their language.
■ historical relating to or associated with the Ottoman Empire.
▶ noun [mass noun] the official language of Turkey, a Turkic language spoken by about 50 million people. It was written in the Arabic script until 1928, when the Roman alphabet was adopted.

Turkish bath ▶ noun a cleansing or relaxing treatment that involves a period of time spent sitting in a room filled with very hot air or steam, generally followed by washing and massage.
■ a building or room where such a treatment is available.

Turkish carpet (also Turkish rug) ▶ noun a rug woven in Turkey in a traditional fashion, typically with a bold coloured design and thick wool pile, or made elsewhere in this style.

Turkish coffee ▶ noun [mass noun] very strong black coffee served with the fine grounds in it.

Turkish delight ▶ noun [mass noun] a sweet consisting of flavoured gelatin coated in icing sugar.

Turkish slipper ▶ noun a soft heelless slipper with a turned-up toe.

Turkish towel ▶ noun a towel made of cotton terry towelling.

Turkish Van (in full Turkish Van cat) ▶ noun a cat of a long-haired breed, with a white body, auburn markings on the head and tail, and light orange eyes.
– ORIGIN 1960s: named after the town of Van, Turkey.

Turkistan variant spelling of TURKESTAN.

Turkmen /ˈtəːkmən/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Turkmens) 1 a member of a group of Turkic peoples inhabiting the region east of the Caspian Sea and south of the Aral Sea, now comprising Turkmenistan and parts of Iran and Afghanistan.
2 [mass noun] the Turkic language of these peoples, having about 3 million speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Turkmens, their language, or the region which they inhabit.
– ORIGIN from Persian turkmān, from Turkish türkmen; also influenced by Russian turkmen.

Turkmenistan /təːkˌmɛnɪˈstɑːn, -ˈstan/ a republic in central Asia, lying between the Caspian Sea and Afghanistan; pop. 3,861,000 (est. 1992); languages, Turkoman (official), Russian; capital, Ashgabat. Also called TURKMENIA /-ˈmiːnɪə/.

Turkmenistan is dominated by the Karakum Desert, which occupies about 90 per cent of the country. Previously part of Turkestan, from 1924 it formed a separate constituent republic of the USSR; Turkmenistan became an independent republic within the Commonwealth of Independent States in 1991.

Turko- ▶ combining form variant spelling of TURCO-.

Turkoman /ˈtəːkə(ʊ)mən/ (also Turcoman) ▶ noun (pl. Turkomans) 1 another term for TURKMEN.
2 (also Turkoman carpet or rug) a kind of large, soft, richly coloured rug made by the Turkmens.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from medieval Latin Turcomannus, French turcoman, from Persian turkmān (see TURKMEN).

Turks and Caicos Islands /ˈkeɪkɒs/ a British dependency in the Caribbean, comprising two island groups between Haiti and the Bahamas; pop. 12,350 (1990); capital, Cockburn Town (on the island of Grand Turk).

Turk's cap ▶ noun any of a number of plants which have parts that are said to resemble a turban or similar headdress, in particular:
● (also Turk's cap lily) the martagon lily. ● (also Turk's cap cactus) a barrel-shaped Caribbean cactus (Melocactus communis, family Cactaceae).

Turk's head ▶ noun an ornamental knot resembling a turban in shape, made in the end of a rope to form a stopper.

Turku /ˈtʊəkuː/ an industrial port in SW Finland; pop. 159,180 (1990). It was the capital of Finland until 1812. Swedish name Åbo.

turlough /ˈtʊələʊx/ ▶ noun (in Ireland) a low-lying area on limestone which becomes flooded in wet weather through the welling up of groundwater from the rock.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Irish turloch, from tur 'dry' + loch 'lake'.

turmeric /ˈtəːmərɪk/ ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 a bright yellow aromatic powder obtained from the rhizome of a plant of the ginger family, used for flavouring and colouring in Asian cookery and formerly as a fabric dye.
2 the Asian plant from which this rhizome is obtained.
● Curcuma longa, family Zingiberaceae.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (earlier as tarmaret): perhaps from French terre mérite and modern Latin terra merita, literally 'deserving earth', perhaps an alteration of an oriental word.

turmoil ▶ noun [mass noun] a state of great disturbance, confusion, or uncertainty: the country was in turmoil | he endured years of inner turmoil.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: of unknown origin.

turn ▶ verb 1 move or cause to move in a circular direction wholly or partly around an axis or point: [no obj.] the big wheel was turning | [with obj.] I turned the key in the door and crept in.
■ [with obj. and adverbial] move (something) so that it is in a different position in relation to its surroundings or its previous position: we waited in suspense for him to turn the cards over. ■ [with obj.] move (a page) over so that it is flat against the previous or next page: she turned a page noisily | [no obj.] turn to page five for the answer. ■ change or cause to change direction: [no obj., with adverbial of direction] we turned round and headed back to the house. ■ [with obj. and adverbial] aim, point, or direct (something): she turned her head towards me | the government has now turned its attention to primary schools. ■ [no obj.] change the position of one's body so that one is facing in a different direction: Charlie turned and looked at his friend. ■ [no obj.] (of the tide) change from flood to ebb or vice versa. ■ [with obj.] pass round (the flank or defensive lines of an army) so as to attack it from the side or rear. ■ [with obj.] perform (a somersault or cartwheel). ■ [with obj.] twist or sprain (an ankle). ■ [with obj. and adverbial] fold or unfold (fabric or a piece of a garment) in the specified way: he turned up the collar of his coat. ■ [with obj.] remake (a garment or a sheet), putting the worn outer side on the inside. ■ [with obj.] [usu. as adj. turned] Printing set or print (a type or letter) upside down. ■ [with obj.] archaic bend back (the edge of a blade) so as to make it blunt.
2 [no obj., with complement or adverbial] change in nature, state, form, or colour; become: Emmeline turned pale | the slight drizzle turned into a downpour.
■ [with obj. and complement or adverbial] cause to change in such a way; cause to become: potatoes are covered with sacking to keep the light from turning them green. ■ [no obj.] (of leaves) change colour in the autumn. ■ [with obj.] pass the age or time of: I've just turned forty. ■ (with reference to milk) make or become sour: [with obj.] the thunder had turned the milk. ■ (with reference to the stomach) make or become nauseated: [with obj.] the smell was bad enough to turn the strongest stomach. ■ [with obj. and complement or adverbial] send or put into a specified place or condition: the dogs were turned loose on the crowd.
3 [no obj.] (turn to) start doing or becoming involved with: in 1939 he turned to films in earnest.
■ go on to consider next: we can now turn to another aspect of the problem. ■ go to for help, advice, or information: who can she turn to? ■ have recourse to (something, especially something dangerous or unhealthy): he turned to drink and drugs for solace.
4 [with obj.] shape (something) on a lathe: the faceplate is turned rather than cast.
■ give a graceful or elegant form to: [as adj., with submodifier] (turned) a production full of so many finely turned words. ■ make (a profit).
▶ noun 1 an act of moving something in a circular direction around an axis or point: a safety lock requiring four turns of the key.
■ a change of direction when moving: they made a left turn and picked up speed. ■ a development or change in circumstances or a course of events: life has taken a turn for the better. ■ a time when one specified period of time ends and another begins: the turn of the century. ■ a bend or curve in a road, path, river, etc.: the twists and turns in the passageways. ■ a place where a road meets or branches off another; a turning. ■ [mass noun] Cricket deviation in the direction of the ball when bouncing off the pitch. ■ (the turn) the beginning of the second nine holes of a round of golf: he made the turn in one under par. ■ a change of the tide from ebb to flow or vice versa. ■ one round in a coil of rope or other material.
2 an opportunity or obligation to do something that comes successively to each of a number of people: it was his turn to speak.
■ a short performance, especially one of a number given by different performers in succession: a comic turn. ■ a performer giving such a performance.
3 a short walk or ride: why don't you take a turn around the garden?
4 informal a shock: you gave us quite a turn!
■ a brief feeling or experience of illness: tell me how you feel when you have these funny turns.
5 the difference between the buying and selling price of stocks or other financial products.
■ a profit made from such a difference.
6 Music a melodic ornament consisting of the principal note with those above and below it.
– PHRASES at every turn on every occasion; continually: her name seemed to come up at every turn. by turns one after the other; alternately: he was by turns amused and mildly annoyed by her. do someone a good (or bad) turn do something that is helpful (or unhelpful) for someone. in turn in succession; one after the other: everyone took it in turn to attack my work. ■ (also in one's/its turn) used to convey that an action, process, or situation is the result or product of a previous one: he would shout until she, in her turn, lost her temper. not know which way (or where) to turn not know what to do; be completely at a loss. not turn a hair see HAIR. one good turn deserves another proverb if someone does you a favour, you should take the chance to repay it. on the turn at a turning point; in a state of change: my luck is on the turn. ■ (of certain foods or liquids) going off: the smell of meat on the turn. out of turn at a time when it is not one's turn. speak (or talk) out of turn speak in a tactless or foolish way. take turns (or take it in turns) (of two or more people) do something alternately or in succession. to a turn to exactly the right degree (used especially in relation to cooking): beefburgers done to a turn. turn and turn about chiefly Brit. one after another; in succession: the two men were working in rotation, turn and turn about. turn one's back on see BACK. turn the (or a) corner 1 pass round a corner into another street. 2 pass the critical point and start to improve. turn a deaf ear see DEAF. turn one's hand to something see HAND. turn one's head see HEAD. turn heads see HEAD. turn an honest penny see HONEST. turn in one's grave see GRAVE[1]. turn of mind a particular way of thinking: people with a practical turn of mind. turn of speed the ability to go fast when necessary. turn on one's heel see HEEL[1]. turn the other cheek see CHEEK. turn over a new leaf start to act or behave in a better or more responsible way. turn something over in one's mind think about or consider something thoroughly. turn round and do (or say) something informal used to convey that someone's actions or words are perceived as unexpected, unwelcome, or confrontational: then she just turned round and said she wasn't coming after all. turn the scales see SCALE[2]. turn the tables see TABLE. turn tail informal turn round and run away. turn the tide reverse the trend of events. turn something to (good) account see ACCOUNT. turn a trick see TRICK. turn turtle see TURTLE. turn up one's nose at see NOSE.
– ORIGIN Old English tyrnan, turnian (verb), from Latin tornare, from tornus 'lathe', from Greek tornos 'lathe, circular movement'; probably reinforced in Middle English by Old French turner. The noun (Middle English) is partly from Anglo-Norman French tourn, partly from the verb.
▶ turn about move so as to face in the opposite direction: Alice turned about and walked down the corridor.
turn against (or turn someone against) become (or cause someone to become) hostile towards: public opinion turned against him.
turn something around chiefly N. Amer. see turn something round.
turn someone away refuse to allow someone to enter or pass through a place.
turn back (or turn someone/thing back) go (or cause to go) back in the direction in which one has come: they turned back before reaching the church.
turn someone down reject an offer or application made by someone: the RAF turned him down on medical grounds.
turn something down 1 reject something offered or proposed: his novel was turned down by publisher after publisher. 2 adjust a control on an electrical device to reduce the volume, heat, etc.
turn in informal go to bed in the evening.
turn someone in hand someone over to the authorities.
turn something in give something to someone in authority: I've turned in my resignation. ■ produce or achieve a particular score or a performance of a specified quality.

turn off leave one road in order to join another.
turn someone off informal cause someone to feel bored, disgusted, or sexually repelled.
turn something off stop the operation or flow of something by means of a tap, switch, or button: remember to turn off the gas. ■ operate a tap or switch in order to do this.
turn on 1 suddenly attack (someone) physically or verbally: he turned on her with cold savagery. 2 have as the main topic or point of interest: for most businessmen, the central questions will turn on taxation.
turn someone on informal excite or stimulate the interest of someone, especially sexually.
turn something on start the flow or operation of something by means of a tap, switch, or button: she turned on the TV. ■ operate a tap or switch in order to do this.
turn someone on to informal cause someone to become interested or involved in (something, especially drugs): he turned her on to heroin.
turn out 1 prove to be the case: the job turned out to be beyond his rather limited abilities. 2 go somewhere in order to do something, especially to attend a meeting, to play in a match, or to vote: over 75 per cent of the electorate turned out to vote.
turn someone out 1 eject or expel someone from a place. 2 Military call a guard from the guardroom. 3 (be turned out) be dressed in the manner specified: she was smartly turned out and as well groomed as always.
turn something out 1 extinguish a light. 2 produce something: the plant takes 53 hours to turn out each car. 3 empty something, especially one's pockets. ■ Brit. clean out a drawer, room, etc. by taking out and reorganizing its contents. 4 tip prepared food from a mould or other container.
turn over (of an engine) start or continue to run properly.
turn someone over to deliver someone to the care or custody of (another person or body, especially one in authority): they turned him over to the police.
turn something over 1 cause an engine to run. 2 transfer control or management of something to someone else: a plan to turn the pub over to a new manager. 3 change the function or use of something: the works was turned over to the production of aircraft parts. 4 informal rob a place. 5 (of a business) have a turnover of a specified amount: last year the company turned over £12 million.
turn something round (or around) 1 prepare a ship or aircraft for its return journey. 2 reverse the previously poor performance of something, especially a company, and make it successful.
turn up 1 be found, especially by chance, after being lost: all the missing documents had turned up. 2 put in an appearance; arrive: half the guests failed to turn up.
turn something up 1 increase the volume or strength of sound, heat, etc. by turning a knob or switch on a device. 2 reveal or discover something: New Yorkers confidently expect the inquiry to turn up nothing. 3 shorten a garment by raising the hem.

turnabout ▶ noun a sudden and complete change or reversal of policy, opinion, or of a situation: the move was a significant turnabout for the company.

turnaround (also turnround) ▶ noun 1 an abrupt or unexpected change, especially one that results in a more favourable situation: it was a remarkable turnaround in his fortunes.
2 the process of completing or the time needed to complete a task, especially one involving receiving something, processing it, and sending it out again: a seven-day turnaround.
■ the process of or time taken for unloading and reloading a ship, aircraft, or vehicle.
3 N. Amer. a space for vehicles to turn round in, especially one at the end of a driveway.

turnback ▶ noun a part of a garment that is folded back: [as modifier] the jacket has turnback cuffs.

turnbuckle ▶ noun a coupling with internal screw threads used to connect two rods, lengths of boat's rigging, etc. lengthwise or to regulate their length or tension.

turncoat ▶ noun a person who deserts one party or cause in order to join an opposing one.

turncock ▶ noun historical a waterworks official responsible for turning on water at the mains.

turndown ▶ noun 1 a rejection or refusal.
2 a decline in something; a downturn.
▶ adjective (of a collar) turned down.

Turner, J. M. W. (1775–1851), English painter; full name Joseph Mallord William Turner. He made his name with landscapes and stormy seascapes, becoming increasingly concerned with depicting the power of light by the use of primary colours, often arranged in a swirling vortex. Notable works: Rain, Steam, Speed (1844); The Fighting Téméraire (1838).

turner ▶ noun 1 a person who is skilled in turning wood on a lathe.
2 an implement that can be used to turn or flip something over: a pancake turner.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French torneor, from late Latin tornator, from the verb tornare (see TURN).

Turner's syndrome ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a genetic defect in which affected women have only one X chromosome, causing developmental abnormalities and infertility.
– ORIGIN named after Henry Hubert Turner (1892–1970), the American physician who described it.

turnery ▶ noun [mass noun] the action or skill of making objects on a lathe.
■ objects made on a lathe.

turning ▶ noun 1 a place where a road branches off another: take the first turning on the right.
2 [mass noun] the action or skill of using a lathe.
■ (turnings) shavings of wood resulting from turning wood on a lathe.

turning circle ▶ noun the smallest circle in which a vehicle or vessel can turn without reversing.

turning point ▶ noun a time at which a decisive change in a situation occurs, especially one with beneficial results: this could be the turning point in Nigel's career.

turnip ▶ noun 1 a round root with white or cream flesh which is eaten as a vegetable and also has edible leaves.
■ a similar or related root, especially a swede.
2 the European plant of the cabbage family which produces this root.
• Brassica rapa, family Cruciferae: 'rapifera' group.
3 informal a large, thick, old-fashioned watch.
– DERIVATIVES turnipy adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: first element of unknown origin + NEEP.

turnip moth ▶ noun a moth with drab forewings and pearly hindwings, the caterpillar of which is the most harmful of cutworms in Britain.
• Agrotis segetum, family Noctuidae.

turnip tops (US turnip greens) ▶ plural noun the leaves of a turnip eaten as a vegetable.

turnkey ▶ noun (pl. -eys) archaic a jailer.
▶ adjective of or involving the provision of a complete product or service that is ready for immediate use: turnkey systems for telecommunications customers.

turn-off ▶ noun 1 a junction at which a road branches off from a main road: Adam missed the turn-off to the village.
2 [usu. in sing.] informal a person or thing that causes someone to feel bored, disgusted, or sexually repelled: he smelled of carbolic soap, a dreadful turn-off.
3 an instance of turning or switching something off.

turn-on ▶ noun 1 [usu. in sing.] informal a person or thing that causes someone to feel excited or sexually aroused: tight jeans are a real turn-on.
2 an instance of turning or switching something on.

turnout ▶ noun 1 [usu. in sing.] the number of people attending or taking part in an event, especially the number of people voting in an election.
2 N. Amer. a road turning.
■ a point at which a railway track diverges; a set of points. ■ N. Amer. a widened place in a road for cars to pass each other or park temporarily.
3 a carriage or other horse-drawn vehicle with its horse or horses.
4 [in sing.] the way in which a person or thing is equipped or dressed: his turnout was exceedingly elegant.
5 [mass noun] Ballet the ability to rotate the legs outward in the hip socket.

turnover ▶ noun 1 the amount of money taken by a business in a particular period: a turnover approaching £4 million.
2 the rate at which employees leave a workforce and are replaced.
■ the rate at which goods are sold and replaced in a shop.
3 a small pie made by folding a piece of pastry over on itself to enclose a sweet filling: an apple turnover.
4 US (in a game) a loss of possession of the ball to the opposing team.

turnpike ▶ noun 1 historical a toll gate.
■ (also turnpike road) a road on which a toll was collected at such a gate. ■ US a motorway, especially one on which a toll is charged.
2 historical a spiked barrier fixed in or across a road or passage as a defence against sudden attack.

turnround ▶ noun another term for TURNAROUND.

turnsick ▶ noun dialect term for STURDY.

turn signal ▶ noun N. Amer. an indicator on a vehicle.

turnsole ▶ noun a Mediterranean plant of the spurge family, whose flowers are said to turn with the sun.
• Chrozophora tinctoria (family Euphorbiaceae), from which a blue or purple dye was formerly obtained.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French tournesole, based on Latin tornare (see TURN) + sol 'sun'.

turnspit ▶ noun historical a servant whose job was to turn a spit on which meat was roasting.
■ a dog kept to perform this task by running on a treadmill connected to the spit.

turns ratio ▶ noun the ratio of the number of turns on the primary coil of an electrical transformer to the number on the secondary, or vice versa.

turnstile ▶ noun a mechanical gate consisting of revolving horizontal arms fixed to a vertical post, allowing only one person at a time to pass through.

turnstone ▶ noun a small short-billed wading bird of the sandpiper family that turns over stones to feed on small animals beneath them.
• Genus Arenaria, family Scolopacidae: two species, in particular the (ruddy) turnstone (A. interpres), breeding in northern Eurasia and northern Canada.

turntable ▶ noun a circular revolving platform for turning a railway locomotive or other vehicle.
■ a circular revolving plate supporting a gramophone record as it is played.

turntable ladder ▶ noun Brit. a power-operated extending and revolving ladder mounted on a fire engine.

turn-up ▶ noun Brit. 1 (usu. turn-ups) the end of a trouser leg folded upwards on the outside.
2 [in sing.] informal an unusual or unexpected event or occurrence; a surprise: fancy you being in New York too—what a turn-up for the books.

Turpan Depression variant of TURFAN DEPRESSION.

turpentine /ˈtəːp(ə)ntʌɪn/ ▶ noun 1 (also oil of turpentine) [mass noun] a volatile pungent oil distilled from gum turpentine or pine wood, used in mixing paints and varnishes and in liniment.
■ (also crude turpentine or gum turpentine) an oleoresin secreted by certain trees, especially pines, and distilled to make rosin and oil of turpentine.
2 (also turpentine tree) any of a number of trees which yield turpentine or a similar resin, in particular:
• a coniferous tree of the pine family (Larix, Pinus, and other genera, family Pinaceae). • the terebinth.
▶ verb [with obj.] apply turpentine to.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French ter(e)bentine, from Latin ter(e)binthina (resina) '(resin) of the turpentine tree', from terebinthus (see TEREBINTH).

Turpin, Dick (1706–39), English highwayman. He was a cattle and deer thief in Essex before entering into partnership with Tom King, a notorious highwayman. Turpin was hanged at York for horse-stealing.

turpitude /ˈtəːpɪtjuːd/ ▶ noun [mass noun] formal depravity; wickedness: acts of moral turpitude.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from French, or from Latin turpitudo, from turpis 'disgraceful, base'.

turps ▶ noun [mass noun] informal turpentine.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: abbreviation.

turquoise /ˈtəːkwɔɪz, -kwɑːz/ ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 a semi-precious stone, typically opaque and of a greenish-blue or sky-blue colour, consisting of a hydrated phosphate of copper and aluminium.

2 a greenish-blue colour like that of this stone: [as modifier] the turquoise waters of the bay.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French turqueise 'Turkish (stone)'.

turret ▶ noun 1 a small tower on top of a larger tower or at the corner of a building or wall, typically of a castle.
■ a low, flat armoured tower, typically one that revolves, for a gun and gunners in a ship, aircraft, fort, or tank. ■ a rotating holder for tools, especially on a lathe.
2 (also turret shell) a mollusc with a long, slender, pointed spiral shell, typically brightly coloured and living in tropical seas.
• Family Turritellidae, class Gastropoda: Turritella and other genera.
– DERIVATIVES turreted adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French tourete, diminutive of tour 'tower'.

turret lathe ▶ noun another term for CAPSTAN LATHE.

turron /tʊ'rɒn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a kind of Spanish confectionery resembling nougat, made from almonds and honey.
– ORIGIN from Spanish turrón.

turtle ▶ noun 1 (also sea turtle) a large marine reptile with a bony or leathery shell and flippers, coming ashore annually on sandy beaches to lay eggs.
• Families Cheloniidae (seven species) and Dermochelyidae (the leatherback).
■ [mass noun] the flesh of a sea turtle, especially the green turtle, used chiefly for soup.
2 a freshwater reptile related to the sea turtles and tortoises, typically having a flattened shell. Called TERRAPIN in South Africa and India and TORTOISE in Australia.
• Order Chelonia: several families, in particular Emydidae and Kinosternidae.
■ N. Amer. any reptile of this order, including the terrapins and tortoises.
3 Computing a directional cursor in a computer graphics system which can be instructed to move around a screen.
– PHRASES turn turtle (chiefly of a boat) turn upside down.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: apparently an alteration of French tortue (see TORTOISE).

turtle bug ▶ noun a bug or beetle with a turtle-like carapace, especially an olive-brown European shield bug which frequents grassy places.
• The shield bug is Podops inuncta, family Pentatomidae.

turtle dove ▶ noun a small Old World dove with a soft purring call, noted for the apparent affection shown for its mate.
• Genus Streptopelia, family Columbidae: several species, in particular the migratory European and North African S. turtur, with a reddish-brown back and pinkish breast.
– ORIGIN Middle English: turtle from Old English turtla, turtle 'turtle dove' (from Latin turtur, of imitative origin).

turtle-grass ▶ noun [mass noun] a submerged marine flowering plant found in the Caribbean, with long grass-like leaves.
• Thalassia testudinum, family Hydrocharitaceae.

turtlehead ▶ noun a North American plant which produces spikes of pink or white flowers which are said to resemble the head of a turtle.
• Genus Chelone, family Scrophulariaceae.

turtleneck ▶ noun Brit. a high, round, close-fitting neck on a knitted garment.
■ a sweater with a neck of this type. ■ North American term for POLO NECK.

turtleshell ▶ noun another term for TORTOISESHELL.

turves plural form of TURF.

Tuscan /'tʌskən/ ▶ adjective 1 of or relating to Tuscany, its inhabitants, or the form of Italian spoken there, which is a standard variety widely taught to foreign learners.
2 relating to or denoting a classical order of architecture resembling the Doric but lacking all ornamentation.
▶ noun 1 a native or inhabitant of Tuscany.
2 [mass noun] the form of Italian spoken in Tuscany.
3 [mass noun] the Tuscan order of architecture.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (as a noun denoting an Etruscan): via French from Latin Tuscanus, from Tuscus 'an Etruscan'.

Tuscany /'tʌskəni/ a region of west central Italy, on the Ligurian Sea; capital, Florence. Italian name TOSCANA.

Tuscarora /ˌtʌskə'rɔːrə/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Tuscaroras) 1 an American Indian people forming part of the Iroquois confederacy, originally inhabiting the Carolinas and later New York State.
2 [mass noun] the extinct Iroquoian language of this people.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Tuscarora or their language.
– ORIGIN the name in Iroquois.

tush[1] /tʌʃ/ ▶ exclamation archaic or humorous expressing disapproval, impatience, or dismissal: tush, these are trifles and mere old wives' tales.
– ORIGIN natural utterance: first recorded in late Middle English.

tush[2] /tʌʃ/ ▶ noun a long pointed tooth, in particular a canine tooth of a male horse.
■ a stunted tusk of some Indian elephants.
– ORIGIN Old English tusc (see TUSK).

tush[3] /tʊʃ/ ▶ noun informal, chiefly N. Amer. a person's buttocks.
– ORIGIN 1960s (as tushie): from Yiddish tokhes, from Hebrew taḥaṯ 'beneath'.

tushy /'tʊʃi/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) another term for TUSH[3].

tusk ▶ noun a long, pointed tooth, especially one specially developed so as to protrude from the closed mouth, as in the elephant, walrus, or wild boar.
■ a long, tapering object or projection resembling such a tooth.
– DERIVATIVES tusked adjective, tusky adjective (poetic/literary).
– ORIGIN Old English tux, variant of tusc (see TUSH[2]).

tusker ▶ noun an elephant or wild boar with well-developed tusks.

tusk shell ▶ noun a burrowing mollusc with a slender tusk-shaped shell, which is open at both ends and typically white, and a three-lobed foot.
• Class Scaphopoda, in particular the genus Dentalium.

tussah /'tʌsə/ ▶ noun variant form of TUSSORE.

Tussaud /tə'sɔːd, French tyso/, Madame (1761–1850), French founder of Madame Tussaud's waxworks, resident in Britain from 1802; née Marie Grosholtz. She took death masks in wax of prominent victims of the French Revolution and later toured Britain with her wax models. In 1835 she founded a permanent waxworks exhibition in Baker Street, London.

tussie-mussie /'tʌsɪmʌsi/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a small bunch of flowers or aromatic herbs.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: of unknown origin.

tussive /'tʌsɪv/ ▶ adjective Medicine relating to coughing.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin tussis 'a cough' + -IVE.

tussle ▶ noun a vigorous struggle or scuffle, typically in order to obtain or achieve something: there was a tussle for the ball.
▶ verb [no obj.] engage in such a struggle or scuffle: the demonstrators tussled with police.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (as a verb, originally Scots and northern English): perhaps a diminutive of dialect touse 'handle roughly' (see TOUSLE).

tussock /'tʌsək/ ▶ noun 1 a small area of grass that is thicker or longer than the grass growing around it.
2 (also tussock moth) a woodland moth whose adults and brightly coloured caterpillars both bear tufts of irritant hairs. The caterpillars can be a pest of trees, damaging fruit and stripping leaves.
• Family Lymantriidae: many genera.
– DERIVATIVES tussocky adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: perhaps an alteration of dialect tusk 'tuft', of unknown origin.

tussock grass ▶ noun a grass which grows in tussocks.
• Genera Poa, Nassella, or Deschampsia, family Gramineae: several species, in particular D. cespitosa, a coarse fodder grass of the northern hemisphere.

tussore /'tʌsɔː, 'tʌsə/ (also tussah) ▶ noun (also tussore silk) [mass noun] coarse silk from the larvae of the tussore moth and related species.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (denoting the silk): from Hindi tasar, from Sanskrit tasara 'shuttle'.

tussore moth ▶ noun a silk moth that is sometimes kept in India and China, with caterpillars (tussore silkworms) that yield a strong but coarse brown silk.
• Antheraea mylitta, family Saturniidae.

tut ▶ exclamation, noun, & verb short for TUT-TUT.

Tutankhamen /ˌtuːt(ə)n'kɑːm(ə)n/ (also Tutankhamun /-kɑː'muːn/) (died *c.*1352 BC), Egyptian pharaoh of the 18th dynasty, reigned *c.*1361–*c.*1352 BC. His tomb, containing a wealth of rich and varied contents, was discovered virtually intact by the English archaeologist Howard Carter in 1922.

tutee /tjuː'tiː/ ▶ noun a student or pupil of a tutor.

tutelage /'tjuːtɪlɪdʒ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] protection of or authority over someone or something; guardianship: the organizations remained under firm government tutelage.
■ instruction; tuition: he felt privileged to be under the tutelage of an experienced actor.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin tutela 'keeping', (from tut- 'watched', from the verb tueri) + -AGE.

tutelary /'tjuːtɪlərɪ/ (also tutelar /-tɪlə/) ▶ adjective serving as a protector, guardian, or patron: the tutelary spirits of these regions.
■ of or relating to protection or a guardian: the state maintained a tutelary relation with the security police.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin tutelarius, from tutela 'keeping' (see TUTELAGE).

Tuthmosis III /tʌθ'məʊsɪs/ (died *c.*1450 BC), son of Tuthmosis II, Egyptian pharaoh of the 18th dynasty *c.*1504–*c.*1450. His reign was marked by extensive building; the monuments he erected included Cleopatra's Needles (*c.*1475).

tutor ▶ noun a private teacher, typically one who teaches a single pupil or a very small group.
■ chiefly Brit. a university or college teacher responsible for the teaching and supervision of assigned students. ■ US an assistant lecturer in a college or university. ■ Brit. a book of instruction in a particular subject.
▶ verb [with obj.] act as a tutor to (a single pupil or a very small group): his children were privately tutored.
■ [no obj.] work as a tutor.
– DERIVATIVES tutorage noun, tutorship noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French tutour or Latin tutor, from tueri 'to watch, guard'.

tutorial ▶ adjective of or relating to a tutor or a tutor's tuition: tutorial sessions | a tutorial college.
▶ noun a period of tuition given by a university or college tutor to an individual or very small group.
■ an account or explanation of a subject, printed or on a computer screen, intended for private study.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin tutorius (see TUTOR) + -AL.

tutsan /'tʌts(ə)n/ ▶ noun a Eurasian St John's wort with large aromatic leaves and a berry-like fruit, formerly used medicinally.
• H. androsaemum, family Guttiferae.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French tutsaine 'all wholesome'.

Tutsi /'tʊtsi/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Tutsis) a member of a people forming a minority of the population of Rwanda and Burundi but who formerly dominated the Hutu majority. Historical antagonism between the peoples led in 1994 to large-scale ethnic violence, especially in Rwanda.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people.
– ORIGIN a local name. See also WATUSI.

tutti /'tʊti/ Music ▶ adverb & adjective (especially as a direction) with all voices or instruments together.
▶ noun (pl. tuttis) a passage to be performed in this way.
– ORIGIN Italian, plural of tutto 'all', from Latin totus.

tutti-frutti /ˌtuːtɪ'fruːtɪ/ ▶ noun (pl. tutti-fruttis) [mass noun] a type of ice cream containing or flavoured with mixed fruits and sometimes nuts.
– ORIGIN Italian, literally 'all fruits'.

tut-tut (also tut) ▶ exclamation expressing disapproval or annoyance: tut-tut, Robin, you disappoint me.
▶ noun such an exclamation: tut-tuts of disapproval.
▶ verb (tut-tutted, tut-tutting) [no obj.] make such an exclamation: Aunt Mary tut-tutted at all the goings-on.
– ORIGIN natural utterance (representing a reduplicated clicking sound made by the tongue against the teeth): first recorded in English in the early 16th cent.

Tutu /'tuːtuː/, Desmond (Mpilo) (b.1931), South African clergyman. As General Secretary of the South African Council of Churches (1979–84) he became a leading voice in the struggle against apartheid. He was archbishop of Cape Town 1986–96. Nobel Peace Prize (1984).

tutu[1] /'tu:tu:/ ▶ noun a female ballet dancer's costume consisting of a bodice and an attached skirt incorporating numerous layers of fabric, this being either short and stiff and projecting horizontally from the waist (the classical tutu) or long, soft, and bell-shaped (the romantic tutu).
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from French, child's alteration of cucu, informal diminutive of cul 'buttocks'.

tutu[2] /'tu:tu:/ ▶ noun a New Zealand shrub which bears poisonous purplish-black berries.
● Coriaria arborea, family Coriariaceae.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Maori.

Tuva /'tu:və/ an autonomous republic in south central Russia, on the border with Mongolia; pop. 314,000 (1990); capital, Kyzyl. Former name TANNU-TUVA.

Tuvalu /tu:'və:lu:/ a country in the SW Pacific consisting of a group of nine main islands, formerly called the Ellice Islands; pop. 8,500 (est. 1988); official languages, English and Tuvaluan (local Austronesian language); capital, Funafuti. The islands formed part of the British colony of the Gilbert and Ellice Islands but separated from the Gilberts after a referendum in 1975. Tuvalu became independent within the Commonwealth in 1978.
– DERIVATIVES Tuvaluan /ˌtu:və'lu:ən, tu:'və:luən/ adjective & noun.

tu-whit tu-whoo ▶ noun a stylized representation of the cry of the tawny owl.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: imitative.

tux ▶ noun informal, chiefly US a tuxedo.

tuxedo /tʌk'si:dəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os or -oes) chiefly US a man's dinner jacket.
■ a suit of formal evening clothes including such a jacket.
– DERIVATIVES tuxedoed adjective.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Tuxedo Park, the site of a country club in New York, where it was first worn.

Tuxtla Gutiérrez /ˌtʊstlə ˌgu:tɪ'ɛ:rɛz/ a city in SE Mexico, capital of the state of Chiapas; pop. 295,615 (1990).

tuyère /twi:'jɛ:, tu:-/ ▶ noun a nozzle through which air is forced into a smelter, furnace, or forge.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: French, from tuyau 'pipe'.

Tuzla /'tʊzlə/ a town in NE Bosnia; pop. 132,000 (1991). The town, a Muslim enclave, suffered damage and heavy casualties when besieged by Bosnian Serb forces between 1992 and 1994.

TV ▶ abbreviation for ■ television (the system or a set): anything good on TV tonight? ■ transvestite.

TVA ▶ abbreviation for (in the US) Tennessee Valley Authority.

TV dinner ▶ noun a prepared pre-packed meal that only requires heating before it is ready to eat.

TVEI ▶ abbreviation for (in the UK) Technical and Vocational Educational Initiative, a national scheme encouraging students to gain practical experience of technology and industry, often through work placement.

Tver /tvɛ:/ an industrial port in European Russia, on the River Volga north-west of Moscow; pop. 454,000 (1990). It was known as Kalinin, in honour of President Kalinin, from 1931 until 1991.

TVP trademark ▶ abbreviation for textured vegetable protein.

Twa /twɑ:/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Twas) a member of a pygmy people inhabiting parts of Burundi, Rwanda, and Zaire (Democratic Republic of Congo).
▶ adjective of or relating to the Twa.
– ORIGIN a local word meaning 'foreigner, outsider'.

twaddle informal ▶ noun [mass noun] trivial or foolish speech or writing; nonsense: he dismissed the novel as self-indulgent twaddle.
▶ verb [no obj.] archaic talk or write in a trivial or foolish way: what is that old fellow twaddling about?
– DERIVATIVES twaddler noun.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: alteration of earlier twattle, of unknown origin.

Twain, Mark (1835–1910), American novelist and humorist; pseudonym of Samuel Langhorne Clemens. His best-known novels, The Adventures of Tom Sawyer (1876) and The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn (1885), give a vivid evocation of Mississippi frontier life.

twain ▶ cardinal number archaic term for TWO: he split it in twain.
– PHRASES never the twain shall meet used to suggest that two things are too different to exist alongside each other: families were either 'church' or 'chapel' and never the twain shall meet. [ORIGIN: from Rudyard Kipling's 'Oh, East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet'. (Barrack-room Ballads (1892)).]
– ORIGIN Old English twegen, masculine of twā (see TWO).

twaite shad /tweɪt/ ▶ noun a European shad (fish) with a deep blue back, silvery sides, and some spotting.
● Alosa fallax, family Clupeidae.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (as twaite): of unknown origin.

twang ▶ noun a strong ringing sound such as that made by the plucked string of a musical instrument or a released bowstring.
■ a nasal or other distinctive manner of pronunciation or intonation characteristic of the speech of an individual, area, or country: an American twang.
▶ verb make or cause to make such a sound: [no obj.] a spring twanged beneath him.
■ [with obj.] play (an instrument) in such a way as to produce such sounds: some old men were twanging banjos. ■ [with obj.] utter (something) with a nasal twang: the announcer was twanging out all the details.
– DERIVATIVES twangy adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: imitative.

'twas archaic or poetic/literary ▶ contraction of it was.

twat /twɒt, twat/ ▶ noun vulgar slang a woman's genitals.
■ a person regarded as stupid or obnoxious.
▶ verb [with obj.] Brit. informal hit or punch (someone).
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: of unknown origin.

twayblade ▶ noun an orchid with a slender spike of greenish or brownish flowers and a single pair of broad leaves near the base.
● Genus Listera, family Orchidaceae: several species, including the Eurasian common twayblade (L. ovata).
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from tway (variant of TWAIN) + BLADE, translating Latin bifolium.

tweak ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 twist or pull (something) sharply: he tweaked the boy's ear.
2 informal improve (a mechanism or system) by making fine adjustments to it: engineers tweak the car's operating systems during the race.
▶ noun 1 a sharp twist or pull.
2 informal a fine adjustment to a mechanism or system.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: probably an alteration of dialect twick 'pull sharply'; related to TWITCH.

twee ▶ adjective (tweer, tweest) Brit., chiefly derogatory excessively or affectedly quaint, pretty, or sentimental: although the film's a bit twee, it's watchable.
– DERIVATIVES tweely adverb, tweeness noun.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: representing a child's pronunciation of SWEET.

Tweed a river which rises in the Southern Uplands of Scotland and flows generally eastwards, crossing into NE England and entering the North Sea at Berwick-upon-Tweed. For part of its lower course it forms the border between Scotland and England.

tweed ▶ noun [mass noun] a rough-surfaced woollen cloth, typicallyof mixed flecked colours, originally produced in Scotland: [as modifier] a tweed sports jacket.
■ (tweeds) clothes made of this material: boisterous Englishwomen in tweeds.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: originally a misreading of tweel, Scots form of TWILL, influenced by association with the river Tweed.

Tweedledum and Tweedledee ▶ noun a pair of people or things that are virtually indistinguishable.
– ORIGIN originally names applied to the composers Bononcini (1670–1747) and Handel, in a 1725 satire by John Byrom (1692–1763); they were later used for two identical characters in Lewis Carroll's Through the Looking Glass.

tweedy ▶ adjective (tweedier, tweediest) (of a garment) made of tweed cloth: a tweedy suit.
■ informal (of a person) habitually wearing tweed clothes: a stout, tweedy woman. ■ informal of a robust traditional or rural character (by association with the country gentry who traditionally wear tweeds): a tweedy gathering of the Cheshire young farmers.
– DERIVATIVES tweedily adverb, tweediness noun.

Tween ▶ noun trademark any of a class of compounds used especially as emulsifiers and surfactants. They are derivatives of fatty acid esters of sorbitan.
– ORIGIN 1940s: of unknown origin.

'tween archaic or poetic/literary ▶ contraction of between.

'tween decks ▶ plural noun Nautical the space between the decks of a ship, especially that between the continuous inside decks below the main or upper deck.

tweeny ▶ noun (pl. -ies) archaic, informal a maid who assisted two other members of a domestic staff.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from between-maid, a servant assisting two others.

tweet (also tweet tweet) ▶ noun the chirp of a small or young bird.
▶ verb [no obj.] make a chirping noise: the birds were tweeting in the branches.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: imitative.

tweeter ▶ noun a loudspeaker designed to reproduce high frequencies.

tweeze ▶ verb [with obj.] pluck, grasp, or pull with or as if with tweezers: the brows were tweezed to an almost invisible line.
– ORIGIN 1930s: back-formation from tweezer (see TWEEZERS).

tweezers ▶ plural noun (also a pair of tweezers) a small instrument like a pair of pincers for plucking out hairs and picking up small objects.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: extended form of obsolete tweeze 'case of surgical instruments', shortening of etweese, plural of ETUI.

twelfth /twelfθ/ ▶ ordinal number constituting number twelve in a sequence; 12th: the twelfth of November | his twelfth birthday | the twelfth in a series of essays.
■ (a twelfth/one twelfth) each of twelve equal parts into which something is or may be divided. ■ Music an interval or chord spanning an octave and a fifth in the diatonic scale, or a note separated from another by this interval. ■ (the Twelfth or the Glorious Twelfth) (in the UK) 12 August, the day on which the grouse-shooting season begins. ■ (the Twelfth) 12 July, celebrated by upholders of Protestant supremacy in Ireland as the anniversary of William III's victory over James II at the Battle of the Boyne.
– DERIVATIVES twelfthly adverb, twelvefold adjective & adverb.

Twelfth Day ▶ noun archaic term for TWELFTH NIGHT.

twelfth man ▶ noun Cricket a player nominated to act as a reserve in a game, typically carrying out duties such as fielding as a substitute, taking out drinks, etc.

Twelfth Night ▶ noun 6 January, the feast of the Epiphany.
■ strictly, the evening of 5 January, the eve of the Epiphany and formerly the twelfth and last day of Christmas festivities.

twelve ▶ cardinal number equivalent to the product of three and four; two more than ten; 12: he walked twelve miles | there are just twelve of us in all | a twelve-string guitar. (Roman numeral: xii or XII.)
■ a group or unit of twelve people or things. ■ twelve years old: a small blonde girl of about twelve. ■ twelve o'clock: it's half past twelve. ■ a size of garment or other merchandise denoted by twelve. ■ (the Twelve) the twelve Apostles. ■ (12) Brit. (of a film) classified as suitable for people of 12 years and over.
– ORIGIN Old English twelf(e), from the base of TWO + a second element (probably expressing the sense 'left over'); of Germanic origin and related to Dutch twaalf and German zwölf. Compare with ELEVEN.

twelve-bar ▶ adjective denoting or relating to a musical structure based around a sequence lasting twelve bars and typically consisting of three chords, the basic unit of much blues and rock and roll music.
▶ noun a song or piece of music having such a structure.

twelve-bore ▶ noun a shotgun with a bore corresponding to the diameter of a round bullet of which twelve constitute a pound in weight.

twelve-gauge ▶ noun North American term for TWELVE-BORE.

twelvemo ▶ noun another term for DUODECIMO.

twelvemonth ▶ noun archaic a year.

twelve-note (also twelve-tone) ▶ adjective denoting a system of musical composition using the twelve chromatic notes of the octave on an equal basis without dependence on a key system. Developed by Arnold Schoenberg, the technique is central to serialism and involves the transposition and inversion of a fixed sequence of pitches.

Twelve Tables a set of laws drawn up in ancient Rome in 451 and 450 BC, embodying the most important rules of Roman law.

Twelve Tribes of Israel see TRIBES OF ISRAEL.

Twentieth Century Fox a US film production company formed in 1935 by the merger of the Fox Company with Twentieth Century. Under production head Darryl F. Zanuck (1902–79) the company pioneered widescreen film techniques.

twenty ▶ cardinal number (pl. -ies) the number equivalent to the product of two and ten; ten less than thirty; 20: twenty or thirty years ago | twenty of us stood and waited | a twenty-foot aerial. (Roman numeral: xx or XX.)
■ (twenties) the numbers from twenty to twenty-nine, especially the years of a century or of a person's life: he's in his late twenties. ■ twenty years old: he's about twenty. ■ twenty miles an hour. ■ a size of garment or other merchandise denoted by twenty.
– DERIVATIVES twentieth ordinal number, twentyfold adjective & adverb.
– ORIGIN Old English twentig, from the base of TWO + -TY[2].

twenty-eight ▶ noun Austral. a ringneck parrot of a race having a call that resembles the word 'twenty-eight'.
• Barnardius zonarius semitorquatus, family Psittacidae; a subspecies of the Port Lincoln parrot.

twenty-four-hour clock (also 24-hour clock) ▶ noun a method of measuring the time based on the full twenty-four hours of the day, rather than dividing it into two units of twelve hours.

twenty-four hours ▶ noun W. Indian a long-legged arboreal lizard of tropical America, related to the anoles.
• Polychrus marmoratus, family Iguanidae.
– ORIGIN so named from the superstition that a person touched by one will die within twenty-four hours.

twenty-one ▶ noun [mass noun] the card game blackjack or pontoon.

twenty-twenty (also 20/20) ▶ adjective denoting vision of normal acuity.
– ORIGIN the Snellen fraction for normal visual acuity (see SNELLEN TEST).

'twere archaic or poetic/literary ▶ contraction of it were.

twerp (also twirp) ▶ noun informal a silly or annoying person.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: of unknown origin.

Twi /twiː, tʃwiː/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Twis) 1 a member of an Akan-speaking people of Ghana.
2 another term for AKAN (the language).
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN the name in Akan.

twibill /ˈtwʌɪbɪl/ ▶ noun archaic a double-bladed battleaxe.
– ORIGIN Old English twibile 'axe with two cutting edges', from twi- 'double' + BILL[3].

twice ▶ adverb two times; on two occasions: the earl married twice | the tablets should be taken twice a day.
■ double in degree or quantity: I'm twice your age | an engine twice as big as the original.
– PHRASES once bitten, twice shy see BITE. think twice see THINK.
– ORIGIN late Old English twiges, from the base of TWO + -S[3] (later respelled -ce to denote the unvoiced sound); compare with ONCE.

twice-born ▶ adjective having undergone a renewal of faith or life, in particular:
■ (of a Hindu) belonging to one of the three highest castes, especially as an initiated Brahmin. ■ (of a Christian) born-again.

twiddle ▶ verb [with obj.] twist, move, or fiddle with (something), typically in a purposeless or nervous way: she twiddled the dials on the radio | [no obj.] he began twiddling with the curtain cord.
■ [no obj.] archaic turn or move in a twirling way.
▶ noun an act of twisting or fiddling with something: one twiddle of a button.
■ a twisted or curled mark or design: twiddles and twirls.
■ a rapid or intricate series of musical notes: gay little twiddles from the clarinet.
– PHRASES twiddle one's thumbs rotate one's thumbs round each other with the fingers linked together. ■ be bored or idle because one has nothing to do.
– DERIVATIVES twiddler noun, twiddly adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (in the sense 'trifle'): apparently imitative, combining the notion twirl or twist with that of trifling action expressed by fiddle.

twig[1] ▶ noun a slender woody shoot growing from a branch or stem of a tree or shrub.
■ Anatomy a small branch of a blood vessel or nerve.
– DERIVATIVES twigged adjective, twiggy adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English twigge, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch twijg and German Zweig, also to TWAIN and TWO.

twig[2] ▶ verb (twigged, twigging) [no obj.] Brit. informal understand or realize something: it was amazing that Graham hadn't twigged before.
■ [with obj.] archaic perceive; observe: nine days now since my eyes have twigged any terra firma.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: of unknown origin.

twig furniture ▶ noun [mass noun] N. Amer. a rustic style of furniture in which the natural state of the wood is retained as an aesthetic feature.

twilight /ˈtwʌɪlʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the soft glowing light from the sky when the sun is below the horizon, caused by the reflection of the sun's rays from the atmosphere.
■ the period of the evening during which this takes place, between daylight and darkness: a pleasant walk in the woods at twilight. ■ [in sing.] figurative a period or state of obscurity, ambiguity, or gradual decline: he was in the twilight of his career.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old English twi- 'two' (used in an obscure sense in this compound) + LIGHT[1].

twilight home ▶ noun a residential home for the elderly.

twilight of the gods Scandinavian & Germanic Mythology the destruction of the gods and the world in a final conflict with the powers of evil. Also called GÖTTERDÄMMERUNG, RAGNARÖK.
– ORIGIN translating Icelandic ragna rökr (see RAGNARÖK).

twilight sleep ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a state of partial narcosis or stupor without total loss of consciousness, in particular a state induced by an injection of morphine and scopolamine, formerly popular for use during childbirth.

twilight zone ▶ noun 1 an urban area that is becoming dilapidated, with decrepit housing and accompanying social and economic degeneration.
2 a conceptual area which is undefined or intermediate: the twilight zone between the middle and working classes.
■ a sphere of experience which appears sinister or dangerous because of its uncertainty, unpredictability, or ambiguity: schizophrenia isolates the individual in a twilight zone of terror.
3 the lowest level of the ocean to which light can penetrate.

twilit (also twilighted) ▶ adjective dimly illuminated by or as if by twilight: the deserted twilit street.
■ relating to or denoting the period of twilight: twilit hours.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: past participle of the literary verb twilight.

twill ▶ noun [mass noun] a fabric so woven as to have a surface of diagonal parallel ridges.
▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. twilled] weave (fabric) in this way: twilled cotton.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from a Scots and northern English variant of obsolete twilly, from Old English twi- 'two', suggested by Latin bilix 'two-threaded'.

'twill archaic or poetic/literary ▶ contraction of it will.

twin ▶ noun 1 one of two children or animals born at the same birth.
■ a person or thing that is exactly like another: there was a bruise on his cheek, a twin to the one on mine. ■ (the Twins) the zodiacal sign or constellation Gemini.
2 something containing or consisting of two matching or corresponding parts, in particular:
■ a twin-bedded room. ■ a twin-engined aircraft. ■ a twinned crystal.
▶ adjective [attrib.] forming, or being one of, a pair born at one birth: she gave birth to twin boys | her twin sister.
■ forming a matching, complementary, or closely connected pair: the twin problems of economic failure and social disintegration. ■ Botany growing in pairs: twin seed leaves. ■ (of a bedroom) containing two single beds. ■ (of a crystal) twinned.
▶ verb (twinned, twinning) [with obj.] (usu. be twinned) Brit. link (a town or district) with another in a different country or cause (two towns or districts) to be linked, for the purposes of friendship and cultural exchange: the Russian city of Kostroma is twinned with Durham.
■ link; combine: the company twinned its core business of brewing with that of distilling.
– ORIGIN late Old English twinn 'double', from twi- 'two'; related to Old Norse tvinnr. Current verb senses date from late Middle English.

twin bed ▶ noun one of a pair of matching single beds, particularly in a hotel or guest room intended for two people.
– DERIVATIVES twin-bedded adjective.

twin-cam ▶ adjective denoting an engine having two camshafts.

twin city ▶ noun either of two neighbouring cities lying close together.
■ (the Twin Cities) N. Amer. Minneapolis and St Paul in Minnesota. ■ a city which has been twinned with another.

twine ▶ noun [mass noun] strong thread or string consisting of two or more strands of hemp or cotton twisted together.
▶ verb [with obj.] cause to wind or spiral round something: she twined her arms round his neck.
■ [no obj.] (of a plant) grow so as to spiral round a support: runner beans twined round canes. ■ interlace: a spray of jasmine was twined in her hair.
– DERIVATIVES twiner noun.
– ORIGIN Old English twīn 'thread, linen', from the Germanic base of twi- 'two'; related to Dutch twijn.

twin-engined ▶ adjective (chiefly of an aircraft) having two engines.

twinflower ▶ noun a slender evergreen trailing plant with pairs of very small trumpet-shaped pink flowers in the leaf axils, native to coniferous woodland in northern latitudes.
• Linnaea borealis, family Caprifoliaceae.

twinge ▶ noun a sudden, sharp localized pain: he felt a twinge in his knee.
■ a brief experience of an emotion, typically an unpleasant one: Kate felt a twinge of guilt.
▶ verb (twingeing or twinging) [no obj.] (of a part of the body) suffer a sudden, sharp localized pain: stop the exercises if the tummy twinges.
– ORIGIN Old English twengan 'pinch, wring', of Germanic origin. The noun dates from the mid 16th cent.

twinkie ▶ noun (pl. -ies) US 1 trademark a small finger-shaped sponge cake with a white synthetic cream filling.
2 informal, offensive a gay or effeminate man.
– ORIGIN late 20th cent.: probably related to TWINKLE.

twinkle ▶ verb [no obj.] (of a star or light, or a shiny object) shine with a gleam that changes constantly from bright to faint: the lights twinkled in the distance.
■ (of a person's eyes) sparkle, especially with amusement. ■ smile so that one's eyes sparkle: 'Aha!' he said, twinkling at her. ■ [no obj., with adverbial] (of a person's feet) move lightly and rapidly: his sandalled feet twinkled over the ground.
▶ noun a sparkle or gleam in a person's eyes.
■ a light which appears continually to grow brighter and fainter: the distant twinkle of the lights.
– PHRASES in a twinkling (or the twinkling of an eye) in an instant; very quickly.
– DERIVATIVES twinkler noun, twinkly adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English twinclian (verb), of Germanic origin.

twinkle-toed ▶ adjective informal nimble and quick on one's feet: a twinkle-toed midfielder.

twinkletoes ▶ noun informal a person who is nimble and quick on their feet.

twin-lens ▶ adjective (of a camera) having two identical sets of lenses, either for taking stereoscopic pictures, or with one forming an image for viewing and the other an image to be photographed (twin-lens reflex).

twinned ▶ adjective (of a crystal) that is a composite consisting of two (or sometimes more) parts which are reversed in orientation with respect to each other (typically by reflection in a particular plane).

twinning ▶ noun [mass noun] the bearing of twins: the study showed an increased level of twinning in cattle.
■ the occurrence or formation of twinned crystals.

twin paradox ▶ noun Physics the apparent paradox arising from relativity theory that if one of a pair of twins makes a long journey at near the speed of light and then returns, he or she will have aged less than the twin who remains behind.

twin-screw ▶ adjective (of a ship) having two propellers on separate shafts with opposite twists.

twinset ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a woman's matching cardigan and jumper.

twinspot ▶ noun an African waxbill with white-spotted black underparts, the male typically having a reddish face and breast.
● Hypargos and related genera, family Estrildidae: several species.

twin town ▶ noun Brit. a town which has established official or social links with another, typically in a different country.

twin-tub ▶ adjective (of a washing machine) having two separate top-loading drums, one for washing and the other for spin-drying.
▶ noun a washing machine of this kind.

twirl ▶ verb [no obj.] spin quickly and lightly round, especially repeatedly: she twirled in delight to show off her new dress.
■ [with obj.] cause to rotate: she twirled her fork in the pasta.
▶ noun an act of spinning: Kate did a twirl in front of the mirror.
■ a spiralling or swirling shape, especially a flourish made with a pen.
– DERIVATIVES twirler noun, twirly adjective.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: probably an alteration (by association with WHIRL) of tirl, a variant of archaic trill 'twiddle, spin'.

twirp ▶ noun variant spelling of TWERP.

twist ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 form into a bent, curling, or distorted shape: a strip of metal is twisted to form a hollow tube | her pretty features twisted into a fearsome expression.
■ [with obj. and adverbial] form (something) into a particular shape by taking hold of one or both ends and turning them: she twisted her handkerchief into a knot. ■ [with obj. and adverbial] turn or bend into a specified position or in a specified direction: he grabbed the man and twisted his arm behind his back. ■ (twist something off) remove something by pulling and rotating it: beetroot can be stored once the leaves have been twisted off. ■ [no obj.] move one's body so that the shoulders and hips are facing in different directions: she twisted in her seat to look at the buildings. ■ [no obj., with adverbial] move in a wriggling or writhing fashion: he twisted himself free. ■ injure (a joint) by wrenching it: he twisted his ankle trying to avoid his opponent's lunge. ■ distort or misrepresent the meaning of (words): he twisted my words to make it seem that I'd claimed she was a drug addict. ■ [as adj. twisted] (of a personality or a way of thinking) unpleasantly or unhealthily abnormal: a man with a twisted mind.
2 cause to rotate around something that remains stationary; turn: she twisted her ring round and round on her finger.
■ [with obj. and adverbial] wind around or through something: she twisted a lock of hair around her finger. ■ move or cause to move around each other; interlace: [with obj.] she twisted her hands together nervously | the machine twists together strands to make a double yarn. ■ make (something) by interlacing or winding strands together. ■ [no obj.] take or have a winding course: the railway lines twist and turn round the hills.
3 [no obj.] dance the twist.
4 Brit. informal cheat; defraud.
5 [no obj.] (in pontoon) request, deal, or be dealt a card face upwards.
▶ noun 1 an act of turning something so that it moves in relation to something that remains stationary: the taps needed a single twist to turn them on.
■ an act of turning one's body or part of one's body: with a sudden twist, she got away from him. ■ (the twist) a dance with a twisting movement of the body, popular in the 1960s. ■ [mass noun] the extent of twisting of a rod or other object. ■ [mass noun] force producing twisting; torque. ■ [mass noun] forward motion combined with rotation about an axis. ■ the rifling in the bore of a gun: barrels with a 1:24 inch twist.
2 a thing with a spiral shape: a barley sugar twist.
■ Brit. a paper packet with twisted ends. ■ a small quantity of tobacco, sugar, salt, or a similar substance, wrapped in such a packet. ■ a curled piece of lemon peel used to flavour a drink.
3 a distorted shape: he had a cruel twist to his mouth.
■ an unusual feature of a person's personality, typically an unhealthy one. ■ Brit. informal a swindle.
4 a point at which something turns or bends: the car negotiated the twists and turns of the mountain road.
■ an unexpected development of events: it was soon time for the next twist of fate in his extraordinary career. ■ a new treatment or outlook; a variation: she takes conventional subjects and gives them a twist.
5 [mass noun] a fine strong thread consisting of twisted strands of cotton or silk.
6 Brit. a drink consisting of two ingredients mixed together.
7 a carpet with a tightly curled pile.
– PHRASES round the twist Brit. informal out of one's mind; crazy: the games she plays drive me round the twist. twist someone's arm informal persuade someone to do something that they are or might be reluctant to do. twist in the wind be left in a state of suspense or uncertainty. twist someone around one's little finger see LITTLE FINGER. twists and turns intricate or convoluted dealings or circumstances: the twists and turns of her political career.
– DERIVATIVES twisty adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English (as a noun), of Germanic origin; probably from the base of TWIN and TWINE. Current verb senses date from late Middle English.

twist drill ▶ noun a drill with a twisted body like that of an auger.

twisted pair ▶ noun Electronics a cable consisting of two wires twisted round each other, used especially for telephone or computer applications.

twisted-stalk ▶ noun a plant of the lily family with bell-shaped flowers carried on bent or twisted stalks, native to the temperate regions of Russia and North America.
● Genus Streptopus, family Liliaceae.

twister ▶ noun 1 Brit. informal a swindler; a dishonest person.
2 N. Amer. a tornado.

twist-grip ▶ noun a control operated manually by twisting, especially one serving as a handgrip for operating the throttle on a motorcycle or for changing gear on a bicycle.

twist-lock ▶ noun a locking device for securing freight containers to the trailers on which they are transported.

twistor /'twistə/ ▶ noun Physics a complex variable used in some descriptions of space–time.

twist tie ▶ noun a small piece of plastic-covered wire, to be twisted around the neck of a plastic bag as a closure.

twit[1] ▶ noun informal, chiefly Brit. a silly or foolish person.
– DERIVATIVES twittish adjective.
– ORIGIN 1930s (earlier dialect, in the sense 'tale-bearer'): perhaps from TWIT[2].

twit[2] informal ▶ verb (twitted, twitting) [with obj.] dated tease or taunt (someone), especially in a good-humoured way.
▶ noun [in sing.] N. Amer. a state of nervous excitement: we're in a twit about your visit.
– ORIGIN Old English ætwītan 'reproach with', from æt 'at' + wītan 'to blame'.

twitch ▶ verb 1 give or cause to give a short, sudden jerking or convulsive movement: [no obj.] he saw her lips twitch and her eyelids flutter | [with obj.] the dog twitched his ears.
■ [with obj. and adverbial] cause to move in a specified direction by giving a sharp pull: he twitched a cigarette out of a packet.
2 [with obj.] use a twitch to subdue (a horse).
▶ noun 1 a short, sudden jerking or convulsive movement: his mouth gave a slight twitch.
■ a sudden pull or jerk: he gave a twitch at his moustache. ■ a sudden sharp sensation; a pang: he felt a twitch of annoyance.
2 a stick with a small noose attached to one end. The noose may be twisted around the upper lip or the ear of a horse to subdue it, especially during veterinary procedures.
– ORIGIN Middle English: of Germanic origin; related to Old English twiccian 'to pluck, pull sharply'.

twitcher ▶ noun a person or thing that twitches.
■ Brit. informal a birdwatcher whose main aim is to collect sightings of rare birds.

twitch grass ▶ noun [mass noun] couch grass.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: twitch, alteration of QUITCH.

twitchy ▶ adjective (twitchier, twitchiest) informal nervous; anxious: she felt twitchy about the man hovering in the background.
■ given to twitching: a mouse with a twitchy nose.

twite /twʌɪt/ ▶ noun a Eurasian moorland finch related to the linnet, having streaky brown plumage with a pink rump.
● Acanthis flavirostris, family Fringillidae.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: imitative of its call.

twitten /'twɪt(ə)n/ ▶ noun Brit. dialect a narrow path or passage between two walls or hedges.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: perhaps related to Low German twiete 'alley, lane'.

twitter ▶ verb [no obj.] (of a bird) give a call consisting of repeated light tremulous sounds.
■ talk in a light, high-pitched voice: old ladies in the congregation twittered. ■ talk rapidly and at length in an idle or trivial way: he twittered on about buying a new workshop.
▶ noun a series of short, high-pitched calls or sounds: his words were cut off by a faint electronic twitter.
■ [mass noun] idle or ignorant talk: drawing-room twitter.
– PHRASES in (or of) a twitter informal in a state of agitation or excitement.
– DERIVATIVES twitterer noun, twittery adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (as a verb): imitative.

'twixt ▶ contraction of betwixt.

twizzle informal or dialect ▶ verb spin or cause to spin around.
▶ noun a twisting or spinning movement.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: probably imitative, influenced by TWIST.

two ▶ cardinal number equivalent to the product of one and one; one less than three; 2: two years ago | a romantic weekend for two in Paris two of Amy's friends. (Roman numeral: ii or II.)
■ a group or unit of two people or things: they would straggle home in ones and twos. ■ two years old: he is only two. ■ two o'clock: the pub closed at two. ■ a size of garment or other merchandise denoted by two. ■ a playing card or domino with two pips.
– PHRASES a —— or two (or two or three ——) used to denote a small but unspecified number: a minute or two had passed. be two a penny see PENNY. in two in or into two halves or pieces: he tore the piece of paper in two. in two shakes (of a lamb's tail) see SHAKE. it takes two to tango see TANGO[1]. put two and two together draw an obvious conclusion from what is known or evident. ■ (put two and two together and make five) draw a plausible but incorrect conclusion from what is known or evident. that makes two of us one is in the same position or holds the same opinion as the previous speaker: 'I haven't a clue!' 'That makes two of us.' two by two (or two and two) side by side in pairs. two can play at that game used to assert that another person's bad behaviour can be copied to that person's disadvantage. two's company, three's a crowd used to indicate that two people, especially lovers, should be left alone together. two heads are better than one proverb it's helpful to have the advice or opinion of a second person.
– ORIGIN Old English twā (feminine and neuter) of Germanic origin; related to Dutch twee and German zwei, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin and Greek duo. Compare with TWAIN.

two-bit ▶ adjective [attrib.] N. Amer. informal insignificant, cheap, or worthless: some two-bit town.

two-by-four ▶ noun a length of wood with a rectangular cross section nominally two inches by four inches.
■ [usu. as modifier] W. Indian & US a small or insignificant thing, typically a building: they lived in a two-by-four shack of one bedroom.

twoc /twɒk/ ▶ verb (twocced, twoccing) [with obj.] Brit. informal steal (a car): people are fed up with having their cars twocced.
– DERIVATIVES twoccer noun.
– ORIGIN 1990s: acronym from taken without owner's consent.

two-cycle ▶ adjective another term for TWO-STROKE.

two-dimensional ▶ adjective having or appearing to have length and breadth but no depth.
■ lacking depth or substance; superficial: a nether world of two-dimensional heroes and villains.
– DERIVATIVES two-dimensionality noun, two-dimensionally adverb.

two-edged ▶ adjective double-edged.

two-faced ▶ adjective insincere and deceitful.

two fingers ▶ plural noun [often treated as sing.] another term for V-SIGN (chiefly in sense 1).

two-fisted ▶ adjective US strong, virile, and straightforward.

twofold ▶ adjective twice as great or as numerous: a twofold increase in the risk.
■having two parts or elements: the twofold demands of the business and motherhood.
▶ adverb so as to double; to twice the number or amount: use increased more than twofold from 1979 to 1989.

two-handed ▶ adjective & adverb having, using, or requiring the use of two hands.
– DERIVATIVES two-handedly adverb.

two-hander ▶ noun a play for two actors.

two-horse ▶ adjective (of a race or other contest) in which only two of the competitors or participants are likely winners.

twoness ▶ noun [mass noun] the fact or state of being two; duality.

twopence /'tʌp(ə)ns/ ▶ noun Brit. the sum of two pence, especially before decimalization (1971).
■[with negative] informal a trivial sum; anything at all: he didn't care twopence for her.

twopenn'orth /tu:'pɛnəθ/ ▶ noun an amount of something that is worth or costs twopence.
■a paltry or insignificant amount.
– PHRASES add (or put in) one's twopenn'orth informal contribute one's opinion.

twopenny /'tʌp(ə)ni/ ▶ adjective [attrib.] Brit. costing or worth two pence, especially before decimalization (1971).

twopenny-halfpenny ▶ adjective Brit. informal not worthy of consideration or respect; worthless and unimportant: a twopenny-halfpenny dictator.

two-phase ▶ adjective (of an electric generator, motor, or other device) designed to supply or use simultaneously two separate alternating currents of the same voltage, but with phases differing by half a period.

two-piece ▶ adjective denoting something consisting of two matching items: a two-piece suit.
▶ noun a thing consisting of two matching parts, especially a suit.

two-ply ▶ adjective (of a material or yarn) consisting of two layers or strands.
▶ noun [mass noun] 1 a yarn consisting of two strands.
2 plywood made by gluing together two layers with the grain in different directions.

two-seater ▶ noun a vehicle or piece of furniture with seating for two people.

two shot ▶ noun a cinema or television shot of two people together.

two-sided ▶ adjective having two sides: a colourful two-sided leaflet.
■having two aspects: the two-sided nature of the debate.

twosome ▶ noun a pair of people considered together.
■a game or dance for or involving two people.

two-star ▶ adjective given two stars in a grading system in which this denotes a low middle standard, being the next above one-star: a two-star award in the Michelin guide.
■having or denoting the fourth-highest military rank, distinguished in the US armed forces by two stars on the shoulder piece of the uniform.
▶ noun [mass noun] petrol with two-star grading.

two-state ▶ adjective capable of existing in either of two states or conditions.

two-step ▶ noun a round dance with a sliding step in march or polka time.

two-stroke ▶ adjective denoting an internal-combustion engine having its power cycle completed in one up-and-down movement of the piston.
■denoting a vehicle having such an engine.
▶ noun a two-stroke engine or vehicle.

two-tailed ▶ adjective Statistics (of a test) testing for deviation from the null hypothesis in both directions.

two-tailed pasha ▶ noun see PASHA.

two-time ▶ verb [with obj.] informal deceive or be unfaithful to (a lover or spouse).
▶ adjective [attrib.] denoting someone who has done or experienced something twice: a two-time winner of the event.
– DERIVATIVES two-timer noun.

two-tone ▶ adjective having two different shades or colours: a two-tone jacket.
■emitting or consisting of two different sounds, typically alternately and at intervals: a two-tone pulse signal.

two-toned ▶ adjective another term for TWO-TONE.

'twould archaic ▶ contraction of it would.

two-up ▶ noun (in Australia and New Zealand) a gambling game in which two coins are tossed in the air and bets are laid as to whether both will fall heads or tails uppermost.

two-up two-down ▶ noun Brit. informal a house with two reception rooms downstairs and two bedrooms upstairs.

two-way ▶ adjective allowing or involving movement or communication in opposite directions: a two-way radio | make the interview a two-way process.
■(of a switch) permitting a current to be switched on or off from either of two points.
– PHRASES two-way street a situation or relationship involving mutual or reciprocal action or obligation: trust is a two-way street.

two-way mirror ▶ noun a panel of glass that can be seen through from one side and is a mirror on the other.

two-wheeler ▶ noun a bicycle or motorcycle.

TX ▶ abbreviation for Texas (in official postal use).

-ty¹ ▶ suffix forming nouns denoting quality or condition such as beauty, royalty.
– ORIGIN via Old French from Latin -tas, -tat-.

-ty² ▶ suffix denoting specified groups of ten: forty | ninety.
– ORIGIN Old English -tig.

Tyburn /'tʌɪbə:n/ a place in London, near Marble Arch, where public hangings were held *c.*1300–1783.
– ORIGIN named after a tributary of the Thames, which flows in an underground culvert nearby.

tychism /'tʌɪkɪz(ə)m/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Philosophy the doctrine that account must be taken of the element of chance in reasoning or explanation of the universe.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek tukhē 'chance' + -ISM.

Tycho Brahe see BRAHE.

tycoon /tʌɪ'ku:n/ ▶ noun 1 a wealthy, powerful person in business or industry: a newspaper tycoon.
2 a title applied by foreigners to the shogun of Japan in power between 1857 and 1868.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Japanese taikun 'great lord'.

Tyddewi /tɪ'ðewi/ Welsh name for ST DAVID'S.

tying present participle of TIE.

tying-up ▶ noun another term for AZOTURIA in horses.

tyke (also tike) ▶ noun 1 [usu. with adj.] informal a small child, especially one regarded as cheeky or badly behaved: is the little tyke up to his tricks again?
■[usu. as modifier] Canadian an initiation level of sports competition for young children: tyke hockey.
2 dated, chiefly Brit. an unpleasant or coarse man.
3 a dog, especially a mongrel.
4 (also Yorkshire tyke) Brit. informal a person from Yorkshire.
5 Austral./NZ informal, derogatory a Roman Catholic. [ORIGIN: early 20th cent.: alteration of TAIG.]
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in senses 2 and 3): from Old Norse tīk 'bitch'.

Tylenol /'θʌɪlənɒl/ ▶ noun chiefly US trademark for PARACETAMOL.

Tyler¹, John (1790–1862), American Whig statesman, 10th President of the US 1841–5.

Tyler², Wat (d.1381), English leader of the Peasants' Revolt of 1381. He captured Canterbury and went on to take London and secure Richard II's concession to the rebels' demands, which included the lifting of the newly imposed poll tax. He was killed by royal supporters.

tylopod /'tʌɪlə(ʊ)pɒd/ ▶ noun Zoology an even-toed ungulate mammal of a group that comprises the camels, llamas, and their extinct relatives. They are distinguished by bearing their weight on the soles of pads of the feet rather than on the hoofs, and they do not chew the cud.
● Suborder Tylopoda, order Artiodactyla: family Camelidae.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from modern Latin Tylopoda, from Greek tulos 'knob' or tulē 'callus, cushion' + pous, pod- 'foot'.

tympan /'tɪmpən/ ▶ noun 1 (in letterpress printing) a layer of packing, typically of paper, placed between the platen and the paper to be printed to equalize the pressure over the whole forme.
2 Architecture another term for TYMPANUM.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (in sense 1): from French tympan or Latin tympanum (see TYMPANUM). Sense 2 dates from the early 18th cent.

tympana plural form of TYMPANUM.

tympani ▶ plural noun variant spelling of TIMPANI.

tympanic /tɪm'panɪk/ ▶ adjective 1 Anatomy of, relating to, or having a tympanum.
2 resembling or acting like a drumhead.

tympanic bone ▶ noun Zoology a small bone supporting the tympanic membrane in some vertebrates.

tympanic membrane ▶ noun a membrane forming part of the organ of hearing, which vibrates in response to sound waves. In humans and other higher vertebrates it forms the eardrum, between the outer and middle ear.

tympanites /ˌtɪmpə'nʌɪti:z/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine swelling of the abdomen with air or gas.
– DERIVATIVES tympanitic adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: via late Latin from Greek tumpanitēs, from tumpanon (see TYMPANUM).

tympanum /'tɪmpənəm/ ▶ noun (pl. tympanums or tympana /-nə/) 1 Anatomy & Zoology the tympanic membrane or eardrum.
■Entomology a membrane covering the hearing organ on the leg or body of some insects, sometimes adapted (as in cicadas) for producing sound. ■ archaic a drum.
2 Architecture a vertical recessed triangular space forming the centre of a pediment, typically decorated.
■a similar space over a door between the lintel and the arch.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: via Latin from Greek tumpanon 'drum', based on tuptein 'to strike'.

tympany /'tɪmpəni/ ▶ noun another term for TYMPANITES (used especially in veterinary medicine).
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from Greek tumpanias, from tumpanon (see TYMPANUM).

Tyndale /'tɪnd(ə)l/, William (*c.*1494–1536), English translator and Protestant martyr. Faced with ecclesiastical opposition to his project for translating the Bible into English, Tyndale left England in 1524. His translations of the Bible later formed the basis of the Authorized Version. He was burnt at the stake as a heretic in Antwerp.

Tyndall /'tɪnd(ə)l/, John (1820–93), Irish physicist. He is best known for his work on heat but he also worked on diamagnetism, the transmission of sound, and the scattering of light by suspended particles (becoming the first person to explain the blue colour of the sky).

Tyne a river in NE England, formed by the confluence of two headstreams, the North Tyne, which rises in the Cheviot Hills, and the South Tyne, which rises in the northern Pennines. It flows generally eastwards, entering the North Sea at Tynemouth.
■a shipping forecast area covering English coastal waters roughly from Flamborough Head in the south to Berwick in the north.

Tyne and Wear /wɪə/ a metropolitan county of NE England.

Tyneside an industrial conurbation on the banks of the River Tyne, in NE England, stretching from Newcastle-upon-Tyne to the coast.
– DERIVATIVES Tynesider noun.

Tynwald /'tɪnw(ə)ld/ the parliament of the Isle of Man. It meets annually and consists of the governor (representing the sovereign) and council acting as the upper house, and an elected assembly called the House of Keys.
– ORIGIN from Old Norse thing-vǫllr 'place of assembly', from thing 'assembly' + vǫllr 'field'.

type ▶ noun 1 a category of people or things having common characteristics: this type of heather grows better in a drier habitat | blood types.

■ a person, thing, or event considered as a representative of such a category: it's not the type of car I'd want my daughter to drive | I'm an adventurous type. ■ [with adj. or noun modifier] informal a person of a specified character or nature: two sporty types in tracksuits. ■ (one's type) informal the sort of person one likes or finds attractive: she's not really my type. ■ Linguistics an abstract category or class of linguistic item or unit, as distinct from actual occurrences in speech or writing. Contrasted with TOKEN.

2 a person or thing symbolizing or exemplifying the ideal or defining characteristics of something: she characterized his witty sayings as the type of modern wisdom.

■ an object, conception, or work of art serving as a model for subsequent artists. ■ Botany & Zoology an organism or taxon chosen as having the essential characteristics of its group. ■ short for TYPE SPECIMEN.

3 [mass noun] printed characters or letters: bold or italic type.

■ [count noun] a piece of metal with a raised letter or character on its upper surface, for use in letterpress printing. ■ such pieces collectively.

4 a design on either side of a medal or coin.

5 Theology a foreshadowing in the Old Testament of a person or event of the Christian dispensation.

▶ verb [with obj.] 1 write (something) on a typewriter or computer by pressing the keys: he typed out the second draft | [no obj.] I am learning how to type.

2 Medicine determine the type to which (a person or their blood or tissue) belongs: the kidney was typed.

3 short for TYPECAST.

– PHRASES in type Printing composed and ready for printing.

– DERIVATIVES typal adjective (rare).

– ORIGIN late 15th cent. (in the sense 'symbol, emblem'): from French, or from Latin typus, from Greek tupos 'impression, figure, type', from tuptein 'to strike'. The use in printing dates from the early 18th cent.; the general sense 'category with common characteristics' arose in the mid 19th cent.

-type ▶ suffix (forming adjectives) resembling or having the characteristics of a specified thing: the dish-type radio telescope | a champagne-type fizzy wine.

Type A ▶ noun a personality type characterized by ambition, impatience, and competitiveness, and thought to be susceptible to stress and heart disease.

type approval ▶ noun [mass noun] official confirmation from a government or other body that a manufactured item meets required specifications.

Type B ▶ noun a personality type characterized as easy-going and thought to have low susceptibility to stress.

typecast ▶ verb (past and past participle -cast) [with obj.] (usu. be typecast) assign (an actor or actress) repeatedly to the same type of role, as a result of the appropriateness of their appearance or previous success in such roles: he tends to be typecast as the caring, intelligent male.

■ represent or regard (a person or their role) as a stereotype: people are not as likely to be typecast by their accents as they once were.

typeface ▶ noun Printing a particular design of type.

type founder ▶ noun Printing a designer and maker of metal type.

– DERIVATIVES type foundry noun.

type locality ▶ noun 1 Botany & Zoology the place in which a type specimen was found.

2 Geology a place where deposits regarded as defining the characteristics of a particular geological formation or period occur.

type metal ▶ noun [mass noun] Printing an alloy of lead, tin, and antimony, used for casting type.

typescript ▶ noun a typed copy of a text.

typeset ▶ verb (-setting; past and past participle -set) [with obj.] arrange or generate the type for (a piece of text to be printed).

– DERIVATIVES typesetting noun.

typesetter ▶ noun Printing a person who typesets text.

■ a typesetting machine.

type site ▶ noun 1 Archaeology a site where objects or materials regarded as defining the characteristics of a particular period were found.

2 another term for TYPE LOCALITY (in sense 1).

type species ▶ noun Botany & Zoology the species on which a genus is based and with which the genus name remains associated during any taxonomic revision.

type specimen ▶ noun Botany & Zoology the specimen, or each of a set of specimens, on which the description and name of a new species is based. See also HOLOTYPE, SYNTYPE.

typewriter ▶ noun an electric, electronic, or manual machine with keys for producing print-like characters one at a time on paper inserted round a roller.

– DERIVATIVES typewriting noun, typewritten adjective.

typhlitis /tɪˈflʌɪtɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine inflammation of the caecum.

– DERIVATIVES typhlitic adjective.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: modern Latin, from Greek tuphlon 'caecum or blind gut' (from tuphlos 'blind') + -ITIS.

typhoid (also typhoid fever) ▶ noun [mass noun] an infectious bacterial fever with an eruption of red spots on the chest and abdomen and severe intestinal irritation.

● Typhoid is caused by the bacterium Salmonella typhi: Gram-negative rods.

– DERIVATIVES typhoidal adjective.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from TYPHUS + -OID.

Typhoid Mary ▶ noun (pl. Typhoid Marys) informal a transmitter of undesirable opinions, sentiments, or attitudes.

– ORIGIN the nickname of Mary Mallon (died 1938), an Irish-born cook who transmitted typhoid fever in the US.

typhoon /tʌɪˈfuːn/ ▶ noun a tropical storm in the region of the Indian or western Pacific oceans.

– DERIVATIVES typhonic adjective.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: partly via Portuguese from Arabic ṭūfān (perhaps from Greek tuphōn 'whirlwind'); reinforced by Chinese dialect tai fung 'big wind'.

typhus /ˈtʌɪfəs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an infectious disease caused by rickettsiae, characterized by a purple rash, headaches, fever, and usually delirium, and historically a cause of high mortality during wars and famines. There are several forms, transmitted by vectors such as lice, ticks, mites, and rat fleas. Also called SPOTTED FEVER.

– DERIVATIVES typhous adjective.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: modern Latin, from Greek tuphos 'smoke, stupor', from tuphein 'to smoke'.

typical ▶ adjective having the distinctive qualities of a particular type of person or thing: a typical day | a typical example of 1930s art deco | typical symptoms.

■ characteristic of a particular person or thing: he brushed the incident aside with typical good humour. ■ informal showing the characteristics expected of or popularly associated with a particular person, situation, or thing: 'Typical woman!' John said disapprovingly. ■ representative as a symbol; symbolic: the pit is typical of hell.

– DERIVATIVES typicality /-ˈkalɪti/ noun, typically adverb [sentence adverb] typically, she showed no alarm | [as submodifier] a typically British stiff upper lip.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from medieval Latin typicalis, via Latin from Greek tupikos, from tupos (see TYPE).

typify ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [with obj.] be characteristic or a representative example of: tough, low-lying vegetation typifies this arctic area.

■ represent; symbolize: the sun typified the Greeks, and the moon the Persians.

– DERIVATIVES typification noun, typifier noun.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin typus (see TYPE) + -FY.

typing ▶ noun [mass noun] the action or skill of writing something by means of a typewriter or computer: they learned shorthand and typing | [as modifier] typing errors.

■ writing produced in such a way: five pages of typing.

typist ▶ noun a person who is skilled in using a typewriter or computer keyboard, especially one who is employed for this purpose.

typo /ˈtʌɪpəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) informal a typographical error.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: abbreviation.

typography /tʌɪˈpɒgrəfi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the art or process of setting and arranging types and printing from them.

■ the style and appearance of printed matter.

– DERIVATIVES typographer noun, typographic adjective, typographical adjective, typographically adverb.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French typographie or modern Latin typographia (see TYPE, -GRAPHY).

typology ▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 a classification according to general type, especially in archaeology, psychology, or the social sciences: a typology of Saxon cremation vessels.

■ [mass noun] study or analysis using such classification.

2 [mass noun] the study and interpretation of types and symbols, originally especially in the Bible.

– DERIVATIVES typological /-əˈlɒdʒɪk(ə)l/ adjective, typologist noun.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent. (in sense 2): from Greek tupos 'type' + -LOGY.

Tyr /tɪə/ Scandinavian Mythology the god of battle, identified with Mars, after whom Tuesday is named.

tyramine /ˈtʌɪrəmiːn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a compound which occurs naturally in cheese and other foods and can cause dangerously high blood pressure in people taking a monoamine oxidase inhibitor.

● An amine related to tyrosine; chem. formula: $C_6H_4(OH)CH_2CH_2NH_2$.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from tyr(osine) + AMINE.

tyrannical /tɪˈranɪk(ə)l, tʌɪ-/ ▶ adjective exercising power in a cruel or arbitrary way: her father was portrayed as tyrannical and unloving.

■ characteristic of tyranny; oppressive and controlling: a momentary quieting of her tyrannical appetite.

– DERIVATIVES tyrannically adverb.

– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Old French tyrannique, via Latin from Greek turannikos, from turannos (see TYRANT).

tyrannicide /tɪˈranɪsʌɪd, tʌɪ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the killing of a tyrant.

■ [count noun] the killer of a tyrant.

– DERIVATIVES tyrannicidal adjective.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from French, from Latin tyrannicida 'killer of a tyrant', tyrannicidium 'killing of a tyrant' (see TYRANT, -CIDE).

tyrannize /ˈtɪrənʌɪz/ (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] rule or treat (someone) despotically or cruelly: she tyrannized her family | [no obj.] he tyrannizes over the servants.

– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from French tyranniser, from tyran 'tyrant'.

tyrannosaur /tɪˈranəsɔː, tʌɪ-/ (also tyrannosaurus /tɪˌranəˈsɔːrəs/) ▶ noun a very large bipedal carnivorous dinosaur of the late Cretaceous period, with powerful jaws and small claw-like front legs.

● Family Tyrannosauridae, infraorder Carnosauria, suborder Theopoda: several species, in particular Tyrannosaurus rex.

– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Greek turannos 'tyrant' + sauros 'lizard', on the pattern of dinosaur.

tyrannulet /tʌɪˈranjʊlɪt/ ▶ noun a small tropical American bird of the tyrant flycatcher family, typically with drab greyish or greenish plumage.

● Family Tyrannidae: several genera and many species.

– ORIGIN diminutive based on modern Latin Tyrannus (genus name), from Greek turannos 'tyrant'.

tyranny ▶ noun (pl. -ies) [mass noun] cruel and oppressive government or rule: refugees who managed to escape Nazi tyranny | [count noun] the removal of the regime may be the end of a tyranny.

■ [count noun] a state under such cruel and oppressive government. ■ cruel, unreasonable, or arbitrary use of power or control: she resented his rages and his tyranny | figurative the tyranny of the nine-to-five day | [count noun] his father's tyrannies. ■ (especially in ancient Greece) rule by one who has absolute power without legal right.

– DERIVATIVES tyrannous adjective, tyrannously adverb.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French tyrannie, from late Latin tyrannia, from Latin turannus (see TYRANT).

tyrant /ˈtʌɪr(ə)nt/ ▶ noun 1 a cruel and oppressive ruler: the tyrant was deposed by popular demonstrations.

■ a person exercising power or control in a cruel, unreasonable, or arbitrary way: her father was a tyrant and a bully. ■ (especially in ancient Greece) a ruler who seized absolute power without legal right.

2 a tyrant flycatcher.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, via Latin from Greek turannos.

tyrant flycatcher ▶ noun a New World perching bird that resembles the Old World flycatchers in behaviour, typically with brightly coloured plumage.

• Family Tyrannidae: many genera and numerous species.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: so named because of its aggressive behaviour towards other birds approaching its nest.

Tyre /ˈtʌɪə/ a port on the Mediterranean in southern Lebanon; pop. 14,000 (1988). Founded in the 2nd millennium BC as a colony of Sidon, it was for centuries a Phoenician port and trading centre.
– DERIVATIVES Tyrian adjective & noun.

tyre (US tire) ▶ noun a rubber covering, typically inflated or surrounding an inflated inner tube, placed round a wheel to form a soft contact with the road.
■ a strengthening band of metal fitted around the rim of a wheel, especially of a railway vehicle.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent. (denoting the curved pieces of iron plate with which carriage wheels were formerly shod): perhaps a variant of archaic tire, shortening of ATTIRE (because the tyre was the 'clothing' of the wheel).

tyre gauge ▶ noun a portable pressure gauge for measuring the air pressure in a tyre.

Tyrian purple ▶ noun see PURPLE.

tyro /ˈtʌɪrəʊ/ (also tiro) ▶ noun (pl. -os) a beginner or novice.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin tiro, medieval Latin tyro 'recruit'.

Tyrode's solution /ˈtʌɪrəʊdz/ (also Tyrode's) ▶ noun [mass noun] Biology & Medicine a type of physiological saline solution.
– ORIGIN 1920s: named after Maurice V. Tyrode (1878–1930), American pharmacologist.

Tyrol /tɪˈrəʊl/ an Alpine state of western Austria; capital, Innsbruck. The southern part was ceded to Italy after the First World War. German name TIROL.
– DERIVATIVES Tyrolean /ˌtɪrəˈliːən/ adjective & noun, Tyrolese adjective & noun.

Tyrolean finish ▶ noun a rough-textured plaster finish for an exterior wall.

Tyrone /tɪˈrəʊn/ one of the Six Counties of Northern Ireland, formerly an administrative area; pop. 143,900 (1981); chief town, Omagh.

tyrosinase /ˈtʌɪrəsɪneɪz, tʌɪˈrɒs-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a copper-containing enzyme which catalyses the formation of quinones from phenols and polyphenols (e.g. melanin from tyrosine).
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from TYROSINE + -ASE.

tyrosine /ˈtʌɪrəsiːn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a hydrophilic amino acid which is a constituent of most proteins and is important in the synthesis of some hormones.
• Chem. formula: $C_6H_4(OH)CH_2CH(NH_2)COOH$.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: formed irregularly from Greek turos 'cheese' + -INE[4].

Tyrrhene /ˈtɪriːn/ ▶ adjective & noun archaic term for ETRUSCAN.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin Tyrrhenus 'Etruscan'.

Tyrrhenian /tɪˈriːnɪən/ ▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting the Tyrrhenian Sea or the surrounding region.
■ archaic Etruscan.
▶ noun archaic an Etruscan.

Tyrrhenian Sea a part of the Mediterranean Sea between mainland Italy and the islands of Sicily and Sardinia.

Tyson /ˈtʌɪs(ə)n/, Mike (b.1966), American boxer; full name Michael Gerald Tyson. He became undisputed world heavyweight champion in 1987, winning the WBA, WBC, and IBF titles. He was imprisoned in 1992 for rape; after his release in 1995 he reclaimed the WBC and WBA titles in the following year.

tystie /ˈtʌɪsti, ˈtiːsti/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) chiefly Scottish another term for BLACK GUILLEMOT.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: of Norse origin.

Tyumen /tjuːˈmɛn/ a city in west Siberian Russia, in the eastern foothills of the Ural Mountains; pop. 487,000 (1990). Founded in 1586, it is regarded as the oldest city in Siberia.

tyuyamunite /ˌtjuːjəˈmuːnʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a yellowish earthy mineral which is an ore of uranium. It consists of a hydrated vanadate of calcium and uranium.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Tyuya Muyun, the name of a Kyrgyz village, + -ITE[1].

tzar ▶ noun variant spelling of TSAR.

Tzara /ˈzɑːrə/, Tristan (1896–1963), Romanian-born French poet; born Samuel Rosenstock. He was one of the founders of the Dada movement and wrote its manifestos. His poetry, with its continuous flow of unconnected images, helped form the basis for surrealism.

tzarina ▶ noun variant spelling of TSARINA.

tzatziki /tsatˈsiːki/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a Greek side dish of yogurt with cucumber, garlic, and often mint.
– ORIGIN modern Greek.

tzedakah /tsɛˈdɒkə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] (among Jewish people) charitable giving, typically seen as a moral obligation.
– ORIGIN from Hebrew ṣĕḏāqāh 'righteousness'.

Tzeltal /tsɛlˈtɑːl, ˈtsɛltɑːl; s-/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Tzeltals) 1 a member of an American Indian people inhabiting parts of southern Mexico.
2 [mass noun] the Mayan language of this people.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN Spanish name of one of the three regions of the Mexican state of Chiapas, of uncertain origin.

tzigane /tsɪˈgɑːn/ ▶ noun (pl. same or tziganes) a Hungarian gypsy.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from French, from Hungarian c(z)igány.

tzimmes (also tzimmis) ▶ noun variant spelling of TSIMMES.

T-zone ▶ noun the central part of a person's face, including the forehead, nose, and chin, especially as having oilier skin than the rest of the face.
– ORIGIN T designating the shape of the area defined.

Tzotzil /ˈtsɔʊtsɪl, tsɔʊtˈsɪl, s-/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Tzotzils) 1 a member of an American Indian people inhabiting parts of southern Mexico.
2 [mass noun] the Mayan language of this people.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN the name in Tzotzil.

Tzu-po /tsuːˈpɔʊ/ variant of ZIBO.

Uu

U[1] /juː/ (also u) ▶ noun (pl. Us or U's) 1 the twenty-first letter of the alphabet.
■denoting the next after T in a set of items, categories, etc.
2 (U) a shape like that of a capital U, especially a cross section: [in combination] U-shaped glaciated valleys.

U[2] /juː/ ▶ abbreviation for ■ (in names of sports clubs) United: Newcastle U. ■ Brit. universal (denoting films classified as suitable without restriction). ■ Uruguay (international vehicle registration).
▶ symbol for the chemical element uranium.

U[3] /juː/ ▶ adjective informal, chiefly Brit. (of language or social behaviour) characteristic of or appropriate to the upper social classes: U manners.
– ORIGIN abbreviation of UPPER CLASS; coined in 1954 by Alan S. C. Ross, professor of linguistics, the term was popularized by its use in Nancy Mitford's Noblesse Oblige (1956).

U[4] /uː/ ▶ noun a Burmese title of respect before a man's name, equivalent to Mr: U Thien San.

u ▶ abbreviation Physics denoting quantum states or wave functions which change sign on inversion through the origin. The opposite of g. [ORIGIN: from German ungerade 'odd'.] ▶ symbol for [in combination] (in units of measurement) micro- (10^{-6}): direct read-out of concentration in ug or mg/l. [ORIGIN: substituted for MU.]

UAE ▶ abbreviation for United Arab Emirates.

uakari /wəˈkɑːri/ ▶ noun (pl. uakaris) a short-tailed monkey with a long, coarse coat and a bare red, white, or black face, found in the Amazon rainforest.
●Genus Cacajao, family Cebidae: two or three species.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Tupi.

UB40 ▶ noun (in the UK) a card issued to a person registered as unemployed.

ubac /ˈjuːbak/ ▶ noun Geography a mountain slope which receives little sunshine, especially one facing north. Compare with ADRET.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from French, apparently from Latin opacus 'shady'.

Ubaid /uːˈbeɪd/ ▶ adjective Archaeology of, relating to, or denoting a pre-urban culture in Mesopotamia, dated to the 5th millennium BC.
■[as noun the Ubaid] the Ubaid culture or period.
– ORIGIN from the name of the tell Al 'Ubaid near Ur in the Euphrates valley.

Ubanghi Shari /juːˌbaŋgɪ ˈʃɑːri/ former name (until 1958) for CENTRAL AFRICAN REPUBLIC.

U-bend ▶ noun a section of a pipe, in particular of a waste pipe, shaped like a U.

Übermensch /ˈuːbəˌmɛnʃ/ ▶ noun the ideal superior man of the future who could rise above conventional Christian morality to create and impose his own values, originally described by Nietzsche in Thus Spake Zarathustra (1883–5). Also called SUPERMAN and OVERMAN.
– ORIGIN German, literally 'superhuman person'.

ubiety /juːˈbʌɪɪti/ ▶ noun [mass noun] poetic/literary the condition of being in a definite place.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from medieval Latin ubietas, from Latin ubi 'where'.

-ubility ▶ suffix forming nouns from or corresponding to adjectives ending in -uble (such as solubility from soluble).

ubiquinone /juːˈbɪkwɪnəʊn/ ▶ noun Biochemistry any of a class of compounds which occur in all living cells and which act as electron-transfer agents in cell respiration. They are substituted quinones.
– ORIGIN 1950s: blend of UBIQUITOUS and QUINONE.

ubiquitarian /juːˌbɪkwɪˈtɛːrɪən/ Christian Theology ▶ noun a person, typically a Lutheran, who believes that Christ is present everywhere at all times.
▶ adjective relating to or believing in such a doctrine.
– DERIVATIVES ubiquitarianism noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from modern Latin ubiquitarius (from Latin ubique 'everywhere') + -AN.

ubiquitin /juːˈbɪkwɪtɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a compound found in living cells which plays a role in the degradation of defective and superfluous proteins. It is a single-chain polypeptide.
– ORIGIN 1970s: from UBIQUITOUS + -IN[1].

ubiquitous /juːˈbɪkwɪtəs/ ▶ adjective present, appearing, or found everywhere: his ubiquitous influence was felt by all the family | cowboy hats are ubiquitous among the male singers.
– DERIVATIVES ubiquitously adverb, ubiquitousness noun, ubiquity noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from modern Latin ubiquitas (from Latin ubique 'everywhere', from ubi 'where') + -OUS.

-uble ▶ suffix (forming adjectives) able to: voluble.
■able to be: soluble. Compare with -ABLE.
– ORIGIN from French, from Latin -ubilis.

-ubly ▶ suffix forming adverbs corresponding to adjectives ending in -uble (such as volubly corresponding to voluble).

U-boat ▶ noun a German submarine used in the First or Second World War.
– ORIGIN from German U-boot, abbreviation of Unterseeboot 'undersea boat'.

UBR ▶ abbreviation for uniform business rate (a tax on business property in England and Wales).

ubuntu /ʊˈbʊntʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] S. African a quality that includes the essential human virtues; compassion and humanity.
– ORIGIN Xhosa and Zulu.

UC ▶ abbreviation for University College.

u.c. ▶ abbreviation for upper case.

UCAS /ˈjuːkas/ ▶ abbreviation for (in the UK) Universities and Colleges Admissions Service (created by the amalgamation of UCCA and PCAS in the 1993–4 academic year).

UCCA /ˈʌkə/ ▶ abbreviation for (in the UK) Universities Central Council on Admissions (incorporated into UCAS in the 1993–4 academic year).

Uccello /uːˈtʃɛləʊ, ʊtˈtsɛllo/, Paolo (*c.*1397–1475), Italian painter; born Paolo di Dono. His paintings are associated with the early use of perspective and include The Rout of San Romano (*c.*1454–7) and A Hunt in a Forest (after 1460), one of the earliest known paintings on canvas.

UDA ▶ abbreviation for Ulster Defence Association (a Loyalist paramilitary organization).

udal /ˈjuːd(ə)l/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Law a kind of freehold tenure based on uninterrupted possession, formerly practised in northern Europe and still in use in Orkney and Shetland.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from Old Norse óthal 'property held by inheritance', of Germanic origin.

UDC ▶ abbreviation for ■ (in the UK) Urban Development Corporation. ■ historical (in the UK) Urban District Council.

udder ▶ noun the mammary gland of female cattle, sheep, goats, horses, and related ungulates, hanging near the hind legs as a bag-like organ with two or more teats.
– DERIVATIVES uddered adjective [in combination].
– ORIGIN Old English ūder, of West Germanic origin; related to Dutch uier and German Euter.

UDI ▶ abbreviation for unilateral declaration of independence.

Udmurt /ˈʊdmʊət/ ▶ noun 1 a member of a people of central Russia, living mainly in Udmurtia.
2 [mass noun] the Finno-Ugric language of this people, with about 500,000 speakers. Formerly called VOTYAK.
▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting this people or their language.

Udmurtia /ʊdˈmʊətɪə/ an autonomous republic in central Russia; pop. 1,619,000 (1990); capital, Izhevsk. Also called UDMURT REPUBLIC /ˈʊdmʊət/.

udon /ˈuːdɒn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] (in Japanese cookery) wheat pasta made in thick strips.
– ORIGIN Japanese.

UDR ▶ abbreviation for Ulster Defence Regiment (a Loyalist paramilitary organization).

UEFA /juːˈiːfə, -ˈeɪfə/ ▶ abbreviation for Union of European Football Associations, the governing body of soccer in Europe.

UF ▶ abbreviation for urea-formaldehyde.

Ufa /uːˈfɑː/ the capital of Bashkiria, in the Ural Mountains; pop. 1,094,000 (1990).

Uffizi /ʊˈfiːtsi/ an art gallery and museum in Florence, housing one of Europe's finest art collections.

UFO ▶ noun (pl. UFOs) a mysterious object seen in the sky for which it is claimed no orthodox scientific explanation can be found.
– ORIGIN 1950s: acronym from unidentified flying object.

ufology /juːˈfɒlədʒi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the study of UFOs.
– DERIVATIVES ufological adjective, ufologist noun.

ugali /uːˈgɑːli/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a type of maize porridge eaten in east and central Africa.
– ORIGIN Kiswahili.

Uganda /juːˈgandə/ a landlocked country in East Africa; pop. 16,876,000 (est. 1991); languages, English (official), Swahili, and other languages; capital, Kampala.

Ethnically and culturally diverse, Uganda became a British protectorate in 1894 and an independent Commonwealth state in 1962. The country was ruled 1971–9 by the brutal dictator Idi Amin, who came to power after an army coup. His overthrow, with Tanzanian military support, was followed by several years of conflict, partly resolved in 1986 by the formation of a government under President Yoweri Museveni.

– DERIVATIVES Ugandan adjective & noun.

Ugarit /ʊˈgɑːrɪt, ˈjuːgərɪt/ an ancient port and Bronze Age trading city in northern Syria, founded in Neolithic times and destroyed by the Sea Peoples in about the 12th century BC. Its people spoke a Semitic language written in a distinctive cuneiform alphabet.

– DERIVATIVES Ugaritic /ju:gə'rɪtɪk/ adjective & noun.

ugh ▶ exclamation informal used to express disgust or horror: Ugh—what's this disgusting object?
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: imitative.

Ugli fruit /'ʌgli/ ▶ noun (pl. same) trademark a mottled green and yellow citrus fruit which is a hybrid of a grapefruit and tangerine.
● This fruit is obtained from the tree Citrus × tangelo, family Rutaceae.
– ORIGIN 1930s: ugli, alteration of UGLY.

ugly ▶ adjective (uglier, ugliest) unpleasant or repulsive, especially in appearance: she thought she was ugly and fat | the ugly sound of a fire alarm | [as noun the ugly] he instinctively shrinks from the ugly.
■ (of a situation or mood) involving or likely to involve violence or other unpleasantness: the mood in the room turned ugly. ■ unpleasantly suggestive; causing disquiet: ugly rumours persisted that there had been a cover-up. ■ morally repugnant: racism and its most ugly manifestations, racial attacks and harassment.
– DERIVATIVES uglification noun, uglify verb, uglily adverb, ugliness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old Norse uggligr 'to be dreaded', from ugga 'to dread'.

ugly American ▶ noun informal an American who behaves offensively when abroad.

ugly duckling ▶ noun a person who turns out to be beautiful or talented against all expectations.
– ORIGIN from the title of one of Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tales, in which the 'ugly duckling' becomes a swan.

Ugrian /'u:grɪən, 'ju:-/ ▶ adjective another term for UGRIC.

Ugric /'u:grɪk, 'ju:-/ ▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting a branch of the Finno-Ugric language family including only Hungarian and the Ob-Ugric languages.
– ORIGIN from Russian ugry (the name of a people dwelling east of the Urals) + -IC.

uh[1] ▶ exclamation 1 used to express hesitation: 'I was just, uh, passing by.'
2 used in questions to invite agreement or further comment or to express a lack of understanding: 'You want to get there pretty bad, uh?'
– ORIGIN 1960s: imitative.

uh[2] ▶ determiner non-standard spelling of the indefinite article A[1], used to represent black English: crabs in uh basket.
▶ preposition non-standard spelling of OF, used to represent black English: a house full uh young 'uns.

UHF ▶ abbreviation for ultra-high frequency.

uh-huh ▶ exclamation used to express assent or as a non-committal response to a question or remark: 'Do you understand?' 'Uh-huh.'
– ORIGIN 1920s: imitative.

uhlan /'u:lɑ:n, 'ju:-, ʊ'lɑ:n/ ▶ noun historical a cavalryman armed with a lance as a member of various European armies.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: via French and German from Polish (h)ulan, from Turkish oğlan 'youth, servant'.

uh-oh ▶ exclamation an expression of alarm, dismay, or realization of a difficulty: 'Uh-oh! Take cover!'

UHT ▶ abbreviation for ultra heat treated (a process typically used to extend the shelf life of milk).

uh-uh ▶ exclamation used to express a negative response to a question or remark.
– ORIGIN 1920s: imitative.

Uighur /'wi:gə/ (also Uigur, Uygur) ▶ noun 1 a member of a Turkic people of NW China, particularly the Xinjiang region, and adjoining areas.
2 [mass noun] the Turkic language of this people, which has about 7 million speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN the name in Uighur.

uilleann pipes /'ɪlɪn, 'ɪlən/ ▶ plural noun Irish bagpipes played resting on the knee using bellows worked by the elbow, and having three extra pipes on which chords can be played.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Irish píob uilleann, literally 'pipe of the elbow'.

uintathere /ju:'ɪntəθɪə/ ▶ noun an early fossil hoofed mammal of the Eocene epoch, with a heavy rhinoceros-like body and a grotesque head with several bony horn-like swellings and long canine teeth.
● Family Uintatheriidae, order Dinocerata, including Uintatherium.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from modern Latin Uintatherium, from Uinta(h), the name of a mountain range in Utah, US (where remains were found), + Greek thērion 'wild beast'.

Uist /'ju:ɪst/ two islands in the Outer Hebrides, North Uist and South Uist, lying to the south of Lewis and Harris and separated from each other by the island of Benbecula.

ujamaa /ˌʊdʒa'mɑ:/ ▶ noun [mass noun] (in Tanzania) a socialist system of village cooperatives based on equality of opportunity and self-help, established in the 1960s.
– ORIGIN Kiswahili, literally 'brotherhood', from jamaa 'family', from Arabic jamā'a 'community'.

Ujiyamada /ˌu:jɪjə'mɑ:də/ former name (until 1956) for ISE.

Ujjain /'u:dʒʌɪn/ a city in west central India, in Madhya Pradesh; pop. 376,000 (1991).

Ujung Pandang /u:ˌdʒʊŋ pan'daŋ/ the chief seaport of the island of Sulawesi in Indonesia; pop. 944,300 (1990). Former name (until 1973) MAKASSAR.

UK ▶ abbreviation for United Kingdom.

UKAEA ▶ abbreviation for United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority.

ukase /ju:'keɪz/ ▶ noun (in tsarist Russia) a decree with the force of law.
■ an arbitrary or peremptory command.
– ORIGIN from Russian ukaz 'ordinance, edict', from ukazat' 'show, decree'.

uke ▶ noun informal short for UKULELE.

ukiyo-e /u:ˌki:jəʊ'eɪ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a school of Japanese art depicting subjects from everyday life, dominant in the 17th–19th centuries.
– ORIGIN Japanese, from ukiyo 'fleeting world' + e 'picture'.

Ukraine /ju:'kreɪn/ (also the Ukraine) a country in eastern Europe, to the north of the Black Sea; pop. 51,999,000 (est. 1991); languages, Ukrainian and Russian; capital, Kiev.

Ukraine was united with Russia, with the capital at Kiev, in the 9th century. After a period of division between Poland, Russia, and the Ottoman Empire it was reunited with Russia in 1785. Briefly independent following the 1917 revolution, it became one of the original constituent republics (and the third largest) of the USSR. In 1991, on the break-up of the Soviet Union, Ukraine became an independent republic within the Commonwealth of Independent States.

– ORIGIN from obsolete Russian ukraina 'frontier regions', from u 'at' + kraĭ 'edge'.

Ukrainian ▶ noun 1 a native or national of Ukraine, or a person of Ukrainian descent.
2 [mass noun] the Eastern Slavic language of Ukraine, which has about 60 million speakers worldwide.
▶ adjective of or relating to Ukraine, its people, or their language.

ukulele /ˌju:kə'leɪli/ ▶ noun a small four-stringed guitar of Hawaiian origin.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Hawaiian, literally 'jumping flea'.

Ulala /ˌu:lɑ:'lɑ:/ former name (until 1932) for GORNO-ALTAISK.

ulama ▶ noun variant spelling of ULEMA.

Ulan Bator /ˌu:lɑ:n 'bɑ:tə/ (also Ulaanbaatar) the capital of Mongolia; pop. 575,000 (1990). Former name (until 1924) URGA.

Ulanova /u:'lɑ:nəvə/, Galina (Sergeevna) (1910–98), Russian ballet dancer. She gave notable interpretations of Swan Lake and Giselle, and also danced the leading roles, composed especially for her, in all three of Prokofiev's ballets.

Ulan-Ude /u:ˌlɑ:nu:'deɪ/ an industrial city in southern Siberian Russia, capital of the republic of Buryatia; pop. 359,000 (1990). Former name (until 1934) VERKHNEUDINSK.

-ular ▶ suffix forming adjectives, sometimes corresponding to nouns ending in -ule (such as pustular corresponding to pustule), but often without diminutive force (as in angular, granular).
– DERIVATIVES -ularity suffix forming corresponding nouns.
– ORIGIN from Latin -ularis.

ulcer ▶ noun an open sore on an external or internal surface of the body, caused by a break in the skin or mucous membrane which fails to heal. Ulcers range from small, painful sores in the mouth to bedsores and serious lesions of the stomach or intestine.
■ figurative a moral blemish or corrupting influence: he's a con man with an incurable ulcer called gambling.
– DERIVATIVES ulcered adjective, ulcerous adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin ulcus, ulcer-.

ulcerate ▶ verb [no obj.] develop into or become affected by an ulcer.
– DERIVATIVES ulceration noun, ulcerative adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin ulcerat- 'made ulcerous', from the verb ulcerare.

-ule ▶ suffix forming diminutive nouns such as capsule, pustule.
– ORIGIN from Latin -ulus, -ula, -ulum.

Uleåborg /ˌu:leəʊ'bɒrj/ Swedish name for OULU.

ulema /'ʊləmə, 'u:lɪmə, ˌu:lə'mɑ:/ (also ulama) ▶ noun [treated as sing. or pl.] a body of Muslim scholars who are recognized as having specialist knowledge of Islamic sacred law and theology.
■ a member of such a body.
– ORIGIN from Arabic 'ulamā', plural of 'ālim 'learned', from 'alima 'know'.

-ulent ▶ suffix (forming adjectives) abounding in; full of: fraudulent | purulent. Compare with -LENT.
– DERIVATIVES -ulence suffix forming corresponding nouns.
– ORIGIN from Latin -ulentus.

ulexite /'ju:lɛksʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a mineral occurring on alkali flats as rounded masses of small white crystals. It is a hydrated borate of sodium and calcium.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from George L. Ulex (died 1883), German chemist, + -ITE[1].

Ulfilas /'ʊlfɪlas/ (also Wulfila) (*c.*311–*c.*381), bishop and translator. Believed to be of Cappadocian descent, he became bishop of the Visigoths in 341. His translation of the Bible from Greek into Gothic (of which fragments survive) is the earliest known translation of the Bible into a Germanic language. Ulfilas is traditionally held to have invented the Gothic alphabet, based on Latin and Greek characters.

Ulhasnagar /ˌu:lhəs'nʌgə/ a city in western India, in the state of Maharashtra; pop. 369,000 (1991).

ullage /'ʌlɪdʒ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the amount by which a container falls short of being full.
■ loss of liquid, by evaporation or leakage.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French ullage, from Old French euillier 'fill up', based on Latin oculus 'eye' (with reference to a container's bunghole).

ullage rocket ▶ noun an auxiliary rocket engine used in weightless conditions to provide sufficient acceleration to maintain the flow of liquid propellant from the tank.

Ulm /ʊlm/ an industrial city on the Danube in Baden-Württemberg, southern Germany; pop. 112,170 (1991).

ulmo /'ʌlməʊ/ ▶ noun a Chilean eucryphia tree which is sometimes cultivated as an ornamental.
● Eucryphia cordifolia, family Eucryphiaceae.
– ORIGIN Spanish.

ulna /'ʌlnə/ ▶ noun (pl. ulnae /-ni:/ or ulnas) the thinner and longer of the two bones in the human forearm, on the side opposite to the thumb. Compare with RADIUS (in sense 2).
■ the corresponding bone in a quadruped's foreleg or a bird's wing.
– DERIVATIVES ulnar adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting the humerus): from Latin; related to ELL[1].

U-lock ▶ noun another term for D-LOCK.

-ulous ▶ suffix forming adjectives such as incredulous, garrulous.
– ORIGIN from Latin -ulosus, -ulus.

Ulpian /'ʌlpɪən/ (died *c.*228), Roman jurist, born in Phoenicia; Latin name Domitius Ulpianus. His numerous legal writings provided one of the chief sources for Justinian's Digest of 533.

Ulsan /u:l'sɑ:n/ an industrial port on the south coast of South Korea; pop. 682,980 (1990).

Ulster a former province of Ireland, in the north of the island. The nine counties of Ulster are now divided between Northern Ireland (Antrim, Down, Armagh, Londonderry, Tyrone, and Fermanagh) and the Republic of Ireland (Cavan, Donegal, and Monaghan).

■(in general use) Northern Ireland.
– DERIVATIVES Ulsterman noun (pl. -men), Ulsterwoman noun (pl. -women).

ulster ▶ noun a man's long, loose overcoat of rough cloth, typically with a belt at the back.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from ULSTER, where it was originally sold.

Ulster Democratic Unionist Party an extreme Loyalist political party in Northern Ireland, co-founded by Ian Paisley in 1972.

Ulster Unionist Council (abbrev.: UUC) a political party in Northern Ireland seeking to maintain the union with Britain. Founded in 1905, the UUC is regarded as being more moderate than the Ulster Democratic Unionist Party.

ult. ▶ abbreviation for ■ ultimate. ■ ultimo.

ulterior ▶ adjective existing beyond what is obvious or admitted; intentionally hidden: could there be an ulterior motive behind his request?
■beyond what is immediate or present; coming in the future: ulterior pay promised to the mariners.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin, literally 'further, more distant'.

ultimata plural form of ULTIMATUM.

ultimate ▶ adjective being or happening at the end of a process; final: their ultimate aim was to force his resignation.
■being the best or most extreme example of its kind: the ultimate accolade. ■ basic or fundamental: the ultimate constituents of anything that exists are atoms. ■ Physics denoting the maximum possible strength or resistance beyond which an object breaks.
▶ noun 1 (the ultimate) the best achievable or imaginable of its kind: the ultimate in decorative luxury.
2 a final or fundamental fact or principle.
– DERIVATIVES ultimacy noun (pl. -ies), ultimately adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from late Latin ultimatus, past participle of ultimare 'come to an end'.

ultima Thule ▶ noun a distant unknown region; the extreme limit of travel and discovery.
– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'furthest Thule' (see THULE).

ultimatum ▶ noun (pl. ultimatums or ultimata /-tə/) a final demand or statement of terms, the rejection of which will result in retaliation or a breakdown in relations: the British government issued an ultimatum to Hitler to cease invasion of Poland.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Latin, neuter past participle of ultimare 'come to an end'.

ultimo /'ʌltɪməʊ/ (abbrev.: ult. or ulto) ▶ adjective [postpositive] dated of last month: the 3rd ultimo.
– ORIGIN from Latin ultimo mense 'in the last month'.

ultimobranchial /ˌʌltɪmə(ʊ)'braŋkɪəl/ ▶ adjective Zoology relating to or denoting a gland in the neck which in many lower vertebrates regulates the calcium level in the body.

ultisol /'ʌltɪsɒl/ ▶ noun Soil Science a highly weathered leached red or reddish-yellow acid soil with a clay-rich B horizon, occurring in warm, humid climates.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from ULTIMATE + Latin solum 'soil'.

ultra informal ▶ noun an extremist.
▶ adverb [as submodifier] very: ultra modern furniture.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: an independent usage of ULTRA-, originally as an abbreviation of French ultra-royaliste.

ultra- ▶ prefix 1 beyond; on the other side of: ultramontane. Often contrasted with cis-.
2 extreme; to an extreme degree: ultramicroscopic.
– ORIGIN from Latin ultra 'beyond'.

ultrabasic ▶ adjective Geology relating to or denoting igneous rocks having a silica content less than 45 per cent by weight.

ultracentrifuge ▶ noun a very fast centrifuge used to precipitate large biological molecules from solution or separate them by their different rates of sedimentation.
▶ verb [with obj.] subject to the action of an ultracentrifuge.
– DERIVATIVES ultracentrifugation noun.

ultracold ▶ adjective Physics (of a neutron) having an energy of the order of 10^{-7} eV or less.

ultradian /ʌl'treɪdɪən/ ▶ adjective Physiology (of a rhythm or cycle) having a period of recurrence shorter than a day but longer than an hour. Compare with INFRADIAN.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from ULTRA- 'beyond' (being of greater frequency than circadian) + -IAN.

ultrafiltration ▶ noun [mass noun] filtration using a medium fine enough to retain colloidal particles, viruses, or large molecules.

ultra-high frequency (abbrev.: UHF) ▶ noun a radio frequency in the range 300 to 3,000 MHz.

ultraist ▶ noun a holder of extreme opinions.
– DERIVATIVES ultraism noun.

ultralight ▶ adjective extremely lightweight.
▶ noun chiefly N. Amer. another term for MICROLIGHT.

ultramafic /ˌʌltrə'mafɪk/ ▶ adjective Geology relating to or denoting igneous rocks composed chiefly of mafic minerals.

ultramarine ▶ noun [mass noun] a brilliant deep blue pigment originally obtained from lapis lazuli.
■an imitation of such a pigment, made from powdered fired clay, sodium carbonate, sulphur, and resin. ■ a brilliant deep blue colour.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from medieval Latin ultramarinus 'beyond the sea'; the name of the pigment is from obsolete Italian (azzurro) oltramarino, literally '(azure) from overseas'.

ultramicroscope ▶ noun an optical microscope used to detect particles smaller than the wavelength of light by illuminating them at an angle and observing the light scattered by the Tyndall effect against a dark background.

ultramicroscopic ▶ adjective too small to be seen by an ordinary optical microscope.
■of or relating to an ultramicroscope.

ultramontane /ˌʌltrə'mɒnteɪn/ ▶ adjective 1 advocating supreme papal authority in matters of faith and discipline. Compare with GALLICAN.
2 situated on the other side of the Alps from the point of view of the speaker.
▶ noun a person advocating supreme papal authority.
– DERIVATIVES ultramontanism noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (denoting a representative of the Roman Catholic Church north of the Alps): from medieval Latin ultramontanus, from Latin ultra 'beyond' + mons, mont- 'mountain'.

ultramundane /ˌʌltrə'mʌndeɪn/ ▶ adjective poetic/literary existing outside the known world, the solar system, or the universe.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from late Latin ultramundanus, from ultra 'beyond' + mundanus (from mundus 'world').

ultrasaurus /'ʌltrəsɔːrəs/ ▶ noun a late Jurassic dinosaur related to brachiosaurus, known from only a few bones but probably the tallest ever animal, and possibly the heaviest at up to 130 tons.
● Genus Ultrasaurus, infraorder Sauropoda, order Saurischia.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin ultra 'beyond' + Greek sauros 'lizard'.

ultrashort ▶ adjective (of radio waves) having a wavelength significantly shorter than that of the usual short waves, in particular shorter than 10 metres (i.e. of a VHF frequency above 30 MHz).

ultrasonic ▶ adjective of or involving sound waves with a frequency above the upper limit of human hearing.
– DERIVATIVES ultrasonically adverb.

ultrasonics ▶ plural noun [treated as sing.] the science and application of ultrasonic waves.
■[treated as sing. or pl.] ultrasonic waves; ultrasound.

ultrasonography /ˌʌltrəsə'nɒgrəfi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a technique using echoes of ultrasound pulses to delineate objects or areas of different density in the body.
– DERIVATIVES ultrasonographic adjective.

ultrasound ▶ noun [mass noun] sound or other vibrations having an ultrasonic frequency, particularly as used in medical imaging.
■[count noun] an ultrasound scan, especially one of a pregnant woman to examine the fetus.

ultrastructure ▶ noun Biology fine structure, especially within a cell, that can be seen only with the high magnification obtainable with an electron microscope.

ultraviolet Physics ▶ adjective (of electromagnetic radiation) having a wavelength shorter than that of the violet end of the visible spectrum but longer than that of X-rays.
■(of equipment or techniques) using or concerned with this radiation: an ultraviolet telescope.
▶ noun [mass noun] the ultraviolet part of the spectrum; ultraviolet radiation.

> Ultraviolet radiation spans wavelengths from about 10 nm to 400 nm, and is an important component of sunlight, although the ozone layer prevents much of it from reaching the earth's surface. While ultraviolet is necessary for the production of vitamin D_2 in the skin, it is now known that excessive exposure can be harmful, causing skin cancer and genetic mutation.

ultra vires /ˌʌltrə 'vaɪriːz, ˌʊltrɑː 'viːreɪz/ ▶ adjective & adverb Law beyond one's legal power or authority: [as adj.] jurisdictional errors render the decision ultra vires.
– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'beyond the powers'.

ulu /'uːluː/ ▶ noun (pl. ulus) an Eskimo woman's short-handled knife with a broad crescent-shaped blade.
– ORIGIN Inuit.

ululate /'juːljʊleɪt, 'ʌl-/ ▶ verb [no obj.] howl or wail as an expression of strong emotion, typically grief: women were ululating as the body was laid out.
– DERIVATIVES ululant adjective, ululation noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin ululat- 'howled, shrieked', from the verb ululare, of imitative origin.

Ulundi /ʊ'lʊndi/ a town in KwaZulu/Natal, South Africa, formerly capital of Zululand and KwaZulu.

Uluru /ʊ'lʊəruː/ Aboriginal name for AYERS ROCK.

Ulyanov /uːl'jɑːnɒf/, Vladimir Ilich, see LENIN.

Ulyanovsk /uːl'jɑːnəfsk/ former name (1924–92) for SIMBIRSK.

Ulysses /'juːlɪsiːz/ 1 Roman Mythology Roman name for ODYSSEUS.
2 a space probe of the European Space Agency, launched in 1990 to investigate the polar regions of the sun.

um ▶ exclamation expressing hesitation or a pause in speech: anyway, um, where was I?
– ORIGIN natural utterance: first recorded in English in the early 17th cent.

-um ▶ suffix variant spelling of -IUM (in sense 1).

U-matic ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark a system for recording and playing audio-visual material and videos, mainly restricted to professional use.
– ORIGIN 1970s: U from the shape of the path followed by the tape around the drum and heads of the machine + -matic from AUTOMATIC.

Umayyad /ʊ'mʌɪjad/ (also Omayyad) ▶ noun a member of a Muslim dynasty that ruled the Islamic world from AD 660 (or 661) to 750 and Moorish Spain 756–1031. The dynasty claimed descent from Umayya, a distant relative of Muhammad.
▶ adjective of or relating to this dynasty.

Umayyad Mosque a mosque in Damascus, Syria, built AD 705–15 on the site of a church dedicated to St John the Baptist.

Umbanda /ʊm'bandə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a Brazilian folk religion combining elements of macumba, Roman Catholicism, and South American Indian practices.
– ORIGIN Portuguese.

umbel /'ʌmb(ə)l/ ▶ noun Botany a flower cluster in which stalks of nearly equal length spring from a common centre and form a flat or curved surface, characteristic of the parsley family.
– DERIVATIVES umbellate adjective.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from obsolete French umbelle or Latin umbella 'sunshade', diminutive of umbra (see UMBRA).

umbellifer /ʌm'bɛlɪfə/ ▶ noun Botany a plant of the parsley family.
● Family Umbelliferae: numerous genera and species.
– DERIVATIVES umbelliferous adjective.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from obsolete French umbellifère, from Latin umbella 'parasol' + -fer 'bearing'.

umber /'ʌmbə/ ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] a natural pigment resembling but darker than ochre, normally dark yellowish-brown in colour (raw umber) or dark brown when roasted (burnt umber).
■the colour of this pigment.
2 a brownish moth with colouring that resembles tree bark.
● Several species in the family Geometridae, including the mottled umber (Erannis defoliaria), whose female is wingless and the caterpillar a pest of trees and fruit bushes.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from French (terre d')ombre or Italian (terra di) ombra, literally '(earth of) shadow', from Latin umbra 'shadow' or Umbra (feminine) 'Umbrian'.

umbilical /ʌm'bɪlɪk(ə)l, ˌʌmbɪ'lʌɪk(ə)l/ ▶ adjective relating to or affecting the navel or umbilical cord: the umbilical artery.
■ figurative extremely close; inseparable: the umbilical link between commerce and international rugby. ■ (of a pipe or cable) connecting someone or something to a source of essential supplies.
▶ noun short for UMBILICAL CORD.
– DERIVATIVES umbilically adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from French ombilical, or based on Latin umbilicus (see UMBILICUS).

umbilical cord ▶ noun a flexible cord-like structure containing blood vessels and attaching a human or other mammalian fetus to the placenta during gestation.
■ a flexible cable, pipe, or other line carrying essential services or supplies.

umbilicate /ʌm'bɪlɪkət/ ▶ adjective Botany & Zoology (especially of the cap of a fungus) having a central depression.
■ (of a shell) having an umbilicus.

umbilicus /ʌm'bɪlɪkəs, ˌʌmbɪ'lʌɪkəs/ ▶ noun (pl. umbilici /-sʌɪ/ or umbilicuses) Anatomy the navel.
■ Zoology a depression or hole at the centre of the shell whorls of some gastropod molluscs and many ammonites. ■ Zoology a hole at each end of the hollow shaft of a feather.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Latin: related to Greek omphalos, also to NAVEL.

umbles ▶ plural noun variant spelling of NUMBLES.

umbo /'ʌmbəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. umbones /-'bəʊniːz/ or umbos) 1 historical the central boss of a shield.
2 Biology a rounded knob or protuberance.
■ Zoology the highest point of each valve of a bivalve shell. ■ Botany a central swelling on the cap of a mushroom or toadstool.
– DERIVATIVES umbonal adjective (chiefly Zoology), umbonate adjective (chiefly Botany).
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin, 'shield boss'.

umbra /'ʌmbrə/ ▶ noun (pl. umbras or umbrae /-briː/) the fully shaded inner region of a shadow cast by an opaque object, especially the area on the earth or moon experiencing the total phase of an eclipse. Compare with PENUMBRA.
■ Astronomy the dark central part of a sunspot. ■ [mass noun] chiefly poetic/literary shadow or darkness.
– DERIVATIVES umbral adjective.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (denoting a phantom or ghost): from Latin, literally 'shade'.

umbrage /'ʌmbrɪdʒ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 offence or annoyance: she took umbrage at his remarks.
2 archaic shade or shadow, especially as cast by trees.
– DERIVATIVES umbrageous adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in sense 2): from Old French, from Latin umbra 'shadow'. An early sense was 'shadowy outline', giving rise to 'ground for suspicion', whence the current notion of 'offence'.

umbrella ▶ noun 1 a device consisting of a circular canopy of cloth on a folding metal frame supported by a central rod, used as protection against rain.
■ figurative a protecting force or influence: the American nuclear umbrella over the west. ■ a screen of fighter aircraft or anti-aircraft artillery. ■ [usu. as modifier] a thing that includes or contains many different elements or parts: an umbrella organization.
2 Zoology the gelatinous disc of a jellyfish, which it contracts and expands to move through the water.
– DERIVATIVES umbrellaed adjective, umbrella-like adjective.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Italian ombrella, diminutive of ombra 'shade', from Latin umbra (see UMBRA).

umbrellabird ▶ noun a large tropical American cotinga with black plumage, a radiating crest, and typically long wattles.
● Genus Cephalopterus, family Cotingidae: three species.

umbrella fund ▶ noun an offshore investment fund which invests only in other investment funds.

umbrella pine ▶ noun 1 another term for STONE PINE.
2 a tall Japanese evergreen conifer related to the redwoods, with leaves growing in umbrella-like whorls.
● Sciadopitys verticillata, family Taxodiaceae.

umbrella plant ▶ noun a tropical Old World sedge which has stiff green stems, each terminating in a whorl of arching green leaf-like bracts. It is commonly grown as a house plant.
● Cyperus involucratus, family Cyperaceae.

umbrella tree ▶ noun either of two small trees or shrubs with leaves or leaflets arranged in umbrella-like whorls:
● an Australian plant which is widely grown elsewhere as a house plant (Schefflera actinophylla, family Araliaceae). ● a North American magnolia (Magnolia tripetala, family Magnoliaceae).

Umbria /'ʌmbrɪə/ a region of central Italy, in the valley of the Tiber; capital, Perugia.

Umbrian ▶ adjective of or relating to Umbria, its people, or their languages.
▶ noun 1 a native or inhabitant of Umbria, especially in pre-Roman times.
2 [mass noun] an extinct Italic language of central Italy, related to Oscan and surviving in inscriptions mainly of the 2nd and 1st centuries BC.

Umbrian School a Renaissance school of Italian painting, to which Raphael and Perugino belonged.

Umbriel /'ʌmbrɪəl/ Astronomy a satellite of Uranus, the thirteenth closest to the planet, discovered in 1851 (diameter 1,190 km).
– ORIGIN named after a sprite in The Rape of the Lock by Alexander Pope.

umbriferous /ʌm'brɪf(ə)rəs/ ▶ adjective poetic/literary providing shade.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin umbrifer (from umbra 'shade' + -fer 'bearing') + -OUS.

Umbundu see MBUNDU.

Umeå /'uːməˌɔː/ a city in NE Sweden, on an inlet of the Gulf of Bothnia; pop. 91,260 (1990).

umfaan /ʊm'fɑːn, ʌm-/ ▶ noun (pl. umfaans, abafana, or bafana) S. African (among Zulu-speaking people) a young man who has gone through initiation but is not yet married.
■ offensive a black male domestic servant.
– ORIGIN from Zulu umfana 'boy'.

umiak /'uːmɪak/ ▶ noun an Eskimo open boat made of wood and skin, traditionally rowed by women.
– ORIGIN from Inuit umiaq.

umlaut /'ʊmlaʊt/ Linguistics ▶ noun a mark (¨) used over a vowel, especially in German, to indicate a different vowel quality.
■ [mass noun] the process in Germanic languages by which the quality of a vowel was altered in certain phonetic contexts, resulting for example in the differences between modern German Mann and Männer.
▶ verb [with obj.] modify (a form or a sound) by using an umlaut.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from German Umlaut, from um 'about' + Laut 'sound'.

umma /'ʊmə/ (also ummah) ▶ noun the whole community of Muslims bound together by ties of religion.
– ORIGIN Arabic, literally 'people, community'.

Umm al Qaiwain /ˌʊm al kʌɪ'wʌɪn/ one of the seven member states of the United Arab Emirates; pop. 35,100 (1995).

ump ▶ noun informal, chiefly N. Amer. an umpire.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: abbreviation.

umph ▶ noun variant spelling of OOMPH.

umpire ▶ noun (in some sports) an official who watches a game or match closely to enforce the rules and arbitrate on matters arising from the play.
■ a person chosen to arbitrate between contending parties.
▶ verb [no obj.] act as an umpire.
■ [with obj.] act as umpire in (a game or match).
– DERIVATIVES umpirage noun, umpireship noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (originally as noumpere) (denoting an arbitrator): from Old French nonper 'not equal'. The n was lost by wrong division of a noumpere; compare with ADDER[1].

umpteen informal ▶ cardinal number indefinitely many; a lot of: you need umpteen pieces of identification to cash a cheque | umpteen of them arrived at once.
– DERIVATIVES umpteenth ordinal number.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: humorous formation based on -TEEN.

Umtali /ʊm'tɑːli/ former name (until 1982) for MUTARE.

umu /'ʊmʊ/ ▶ noun a Maori oven consisting of a hollow in the earth in which food is cooked on heated stones.
– ORIGIN Maori.

Umwelt /'ʊmvɛlt/ ▶ noun (pl. Umwelten /-t(ə)n/) (in ethology) the world as it is experienced by a particular organism.
– ORIGIN German, literally 'environment'.

UN ▶ abbreviation for United Nations.

un-[1] ▶ prefix 1 (added to adjectives, participles, and their derivatives) denoting the absence of a quality or state; not: unabashed | unacademic | unrepeatable.
■ the reverse of (usually with an implication of approval or disapproval, or with another special connotation): unselfish | unprepossessing | unworldly.
2 (added to nouns) a lack of: unrest | untruth.
– ORIGIN Old English, of Germanic origin; from an Indo-European root shared by Latin in- and Greek a-.

USAGE The prefixes un- and non- both mean 'not', but there is often a distinction in terms of emphasis. un- tends to be stronger and less neutral than non-: consider the differences between unacademic and non-academic, for example (his language was refreshingly unacademic; a non-academic life suits him).

un-[2] ▶ prefix added to verbs: 1 denoting the reversal or cancellation of an action or state: untie | unsettle.
2 denoting deprivation, separation, or reduction to a lesser state: unmask | unman.
■ denoting release: unburden | unhand.
– ORIGIN Old English un-, on-, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch ont- and German ent-.

'un informal ▶ contraction of one: a good 'un | a wild 'un.

UNA ▶ abbreviation for United Nations Association.

unabashed ▶ adjective not embarrassed, disconcerted, or ashamed: he was unabashed by the furore his words provoked.
– DERIVATIVES unabashedly adverb.

unabated ▶ adjective without any reduction in intensity or strength: the storm was raging unabated.
– DERIVATIVES unabatedly adverb.

unable ▶ adjective [with infinitive] lacking the skill, means, or opportunity to do something: she was unable to conceal her surprise.

unabridged ▶ adjective (of a text) not cut or shortened; complete: an unabridged edition.

unabsorbed ▶ adjective not taken in or soaked up; not absorbed: unabsorbed nutrients.

unacademic ▶ adjective not adopting or characteristic of a scholarly approach or language: his language was refreshingly unacademic.
■ (of a person) not suited or drawn to academic study.

unaccented ▶ adjective having no accent, stress, or emphasis: his English is fluent and unaccented.

unacceptable ▶ adjective not satisfactory or allowable: unacceptable behaviour.
– DERIVATIVES unacceptability noun, unacceptably adverb.

unaccommodating ▶ adjective not fitting in with the wishes or demands of others; unhelpful.

unaccompanied ▶ adjective having no companion or escort: no unaccompanied children allowed.
■ (of a piece of music) sung or played without instrumental accompaniment: they sang unaccompanied. ■ (of a state, condition, or event) taking place without something specified taking place at the same time: the political change was unaccompanied by social change.

unaccomplished ▶ adjective 1 showing little skill.
2 not accomplished or carried out.

unaccountable ▶ adjective 1 unable to be explained: a strange and unaccountable fact.
■ (of a person or their behaviour) unpredictable and strange.
2 (of a person, organization, or institution) not required or expected to justify actions or decisions; not responsible for results or consequences.
– DERIVATIVES unaccountability noun, unaccountably adverb.

unaccounted ▶ adjective (unaccounted for) not included in (an account or calculation) through being lost or disregarded: a substantial amount of money is unaccounted for.

unaccustomed ▶ adjective not familiar or usual; out of the ordinary: they finished their supper with unaccustomed speed.
■ [predic.] (unaccustomed to) not familiar with or used to: the visitors were unaccustomed to country roads.
– DERIVATIVES unaccustomedly adverb.

unacknowledged ▶ adjective (of a state, action, or event) existing or having taken place but not accepted, recognized, or admitted to: her unacknowledged feelings.

■(of a person or their work) deserving but not receiving praise or recognition.

una corda /ˌuːnə ˈkɔːdə/ Music ▶ adverb & adjective (especially as a direction) using the soft pedal on a piano.
▶ noun a device in a piano that shifts the mechanism slightly to one side when the soft pedal is depressed, so that the hammers do not strike all of the strings when sounding each note and the tone is therefore quieter.
– ORIGIN Italian, literally 'one string'.

unacquainted ▶ adjective [predic.] (unacquainted with) having no experience of or familiarity with: I regret that I am unacquainted with the place.
■(of two or more people) not having met before; not knowing each other.

unaddressed ▶ adjective 1 not considered or dealt with: wider questions remain unaddressed.
2 (of a letter or other item sent in the post) having no address written or printed on it.

unadjusted ▶ adjective (especially of figures or statistics) not adjusted or refined: the unadjusted jobless total increased last month.

unadopted ▶ adjective Brit. (of a road) taken over for maintenance by a local authority.

unadorned ▶ adjective not adorned; plain.

unadulterated ▶ adjective not mixed or diluted with any different or extra elements; complete and absolute: pure, unadulterated jealousy.
■(of food or drink) having no inferior added substances; pure: unadulterated whole-milk yogurt.

unadventurous ▶ adjective not offering, involving, or eager for new or stimulating things: he was the unadventurous type | an unadventurous menu.
– DERIVATIVES unadventurously adverb.

unadvertised ▶ adjective existing or taking place without being made public.

unadvisable ▶ adjective another term for INADVISABLE.

unadvisedly ▶ adverb in an unwise or rash manner: they enter into nothing lightly or unadvisedly.

unaesthetic ▶ adjective not visually pleasing; unattractive.
■not motivated by aesthetic principles.

unaffected ▶ adjective 1 feeling or showing no effects or changes: the walks are suitable only for people who are unaffected by vertigo.
2 (of a person) without artificiality or insincerity.
– DERIVATIVES unaffectedly adverb, unaffectedness noun.

unaffectionate ▶ adjective feeling, showing, or having no fondness or tenderness.

unaffiliated ▶ adjective not officially attached to or connected with an organization or group.

unaffordable ▶ adjective too expensive to be afforded by the average person: medical care has become unaffordable.

unafraid ▶ adjective [predic.] feeling no fear or anxiety: she was calm and unafraid.

unaggressive ▶ adjective tending not to attack without provocation; not hostile or violent.

unaided ▶ adjective needing or having no assistance; without help: she can no longer walk unaided.

unalienable ▶ adjective another term for INALIENABLE.

unaligned ▶ adjective not placed or arranged in a straight line, in parallel, or in correct relative positions.
■not allied with or giving support to a particular organization or cause.

unalike ▶ adjective [predic.] (of two or more subjects) differing from each other; not similar: they are unalike in personality.

unalleviated ▶ adjective not alleviated; relentless: a time of unalleviated misery.

unalloyed ▶ adjective (of metal) not alloyed; pure: unalloyed copper.
■(chiefly of emotions) complete and unreserved: unalloyed delight.

unalterable ▶ adjective not able to be changed.
– DERIVATIVES unalterableness noun, unalterably adverb.

unaltered ▶ adjective remaining the same; unchanged: many buildings survive unaltered.

unambiguous ▶ adjective not open to more than one interpretation: instructions should be unambiguous.
– DERIVATIVES unambiguity noun, unambiguously adverb.

unambitious ▶ adjective not motivated or driven by a strong desire or determination to succeed.
■(of a plan or piece of work) not involving anything new, exciting, or demanding.
– DERIVATIVES unambitiously adverb, unambitiousness noun.

unambivalent ▶ adjective having or showing no mixed feelings or contradictory ideas.
– DERIVATIVES unambivalently adverb.

un-American ▶ adjective not in accordance with American characteristics: such un-American concepts as subsidized medicine and free education.
■US, chiefly historical contrary to the interests of the US and therefore treasonable.
– DERIVATIVES un-Americanism noun.

Unami /uːˈnɒmi/ ▶ noun see DELAWARE[2] (in sense 2).
– ORIGIN the name in Unami.

unamiable ▶ adjective not having a friendly manner; not pleasant.

unamplified ▶ adjective not amplified.

unamused ▶ adjective not responding in a positive way to something intended to be amusing; feeling somewhat annoyed or disapproving: she was unamused by some of the things written about her.

unanalysable (US unanalyzable) ▶ adjective not able to be explained or interpreted through methodical examination: unanalysable recorded data.

unanalysed (US unanalyzed) ▶ adjective not revealed, explained, or interpreted through methodical examination.

unanchored ▶ adjective not anchored or securely fixed.

unaneled /ˌʌnəˈniːld/ ▶ adjective archaic having died without receiving extreme unction; unanointed.

Unani /juːˈnɑːni/ ▶ noun [mass noun] [usu. as modifier] a system of medicine practised in parts of India, thought to be derived via medieval Muslim physicians from Byzantine Greece. It is sometimes contrasted with the Ayurvedic system.
– ORIGIN from Arabic Yūnānī 'Greek'.

unanimous /juːˈnanɪməs/ ▶ adjective (of two or more people) fully in agreement: the doctors were unanimous in their diagnoses.
■(of an opinion, decision, or vote) held or carried by everyone involved.
– DERIVATIVES unanimity /juːnəˈnɪmɪti/ noun, unanimously adverb.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin unanimus (from unus 'one' + animus 'mind') + -ous.

unannounced ▶ adjective not made known; not publicized.
■without previous notice or arrangement and therefore unexpected: he arrived unannounced.

unanswerable ▶ adjective unable to be answered: unanswerable questions concerning our own mortality.
■unable to be disclaimed or proved wrong: the case for abolishing the fee is unanswerable.
– DERIVATIVES unanswerably adverb.

unanswered ▶ adjective not answered or responded to: unanswered letters.

unanticipated ▶ adjective not expected or predicted.

unapologetic ▶ adjective not acknowledging or expressing regret: he remained unapologetic about his decision.
– DERIVATIVES unapologetically adverb.

unapparent ▶ adjective not visible or in evidence.

unappealable ▶ adjective Law (of a case or ruling) not able to be referred to a higher court for review.

unappealing ▶ adjective not inviting or attractive: the company faces some unappealing choices.
– DERIVATIVES unappealingly adverb.

unappeasable ▶ adjective not able to be pacified, placated, or satisfied.

unappeased ▶ adjective not pacified, placated, or satisfied.

unappetizing (also -ising) ▶ adjective not inviting or attractive; unwholesome.
– DERIVATIVES unappetizingly adverb.

unappreciated ▶ adjective not fully understood, recognized, or valued: she had been brought up in a family where she felt unappreciated and undervalued.

unappreciative ▶ adjective not fully understanding, recognizing, or valuing something: they were unappreciative of country problems.

unapprehended ▶ adjective 1 not perceived or understood.
2 not seized in the name of the law; not arrested.

unapproachable ▶ adjective (of a person or institution) not welcoming or friendly.
■archaic (of a place) remote and inaccessible.
– DERIVATIVES unapproachability noun, unapproachably adverb.

unapproved ▶ adjective not officially accepted or sanctioned: they deposit waste on unapproved sites.

unapt ▶ adjective not appropriate or suitable in the circumstances: it is not an unapt word.
– DERIVATIVES unaptly adverb, unaptness noun.

unarguable ▶ adjective not open to disagreement; indisputable: unarguable proof of conspiracy.
■not able to be discussed or asserted.
– DERIVATIVES unarguably adverb.

unarmed ▶ adjective not equipped with or carrying weapons: he was shooting unarmed civilians.

unarmed combat ▶ noun [mass noun] a mode of combat in which weapons are not used.

unarticulated ▶ adjective not mentioned or coherently expressed: repressed hurt and previously unarticulated anger are explored.

unary /ˈjuːnəri/ ▶ adjective (especially of a mathematical operation) consisting of or involving a single component or element.

unashamed ▶ adjective expressed or acting openly and without guilt or embarrassment: an unashamed emotionalism.
– DERIVATIVES unashamedly adverb, unashamedness noun.

unasked ▶ adjective (of a question) not asked.
■(of an action) not invited or requested: the memories he had poured unasked into her head. ■ (unasked for) not sought or requested: unasked-for advice.

unassailable ▶ adjective unable to be attacked, questioned, or defeated: an unassailable lead.
– DERIVATIVES unassailability noun, unassailably adverb.

unassertive ▶ adjective (of a person) not having or showing a confident and forceful personality.
– DERIVATIVES unassertively adverb, unassertiveness noun.

unassigned ▶ adjective not allocated or set aside for a specific purpose.

unassimilated ▶ adjective (especially of a people, an idea, or a culture) not absorbed or integrated into a wider society or culture.
– DERIVATIVES unassimilable adjective.

unassisted ▶ adjective not helped by anyone or anything: medically unassisted births | I could never find the place unassisted.

unassociated ▶ adjective not connected or associated: the issue is being raised by thousands of unassociated individuals.

unassuaged ▶ adjective not soothed or relieved: her unassuaged grief.
– DERIVATIVES unassuageable adjective.

unassuming ▶ adjective not pretentious or arrogant; modest: he was an unassuming and kindly man.
– DERIVATIVES unassumingly adverb, unassumingness noun.

unattached ▶ adjective not working for or belonging to a particular body or organization.
■not married or having an established partner; single.

unattainable ▶ adjective not able to be reached or achieved: an unattainable goal.
– DERIVATIVES unattainableness noun, unattainably adverb.

unattempted ▶ adjective not previously attempted or embarked upon; untried.

unattended ▶ adjective not noticed or dealt with: her behaviour went unnoticed and unattended to.
■not supervised or looked after: it is not acceptable for parents to leave children unattended at that age.

unattractive ▶ adjective not pleasing or appealing to look at.

■having no inviting or beneficial features: if the revised bid is unattractive, it may not be accepted.
– DERIVATIVES unattractively adverb, unattractiveness noun.

unattributed ▶ adjective (of a quotation, story, or work of art) not ascribed to any source; of unknown or unpublished provenance.
– DERIVATIVES unattributable adjective, unattributably adverb.

unaudited ▶ adjective (of financial accounts) not having been officially examined.

unauthentic ▶ adjective not made or done in a way that reflects tradition or faithfully resembles an original.
– DERIVATIVES unauthentically adverb.

unauthenticated ▶ adjective not proven or validated: an unauthenticated report.

unauthorized (also -ised) ▶ adjective not having official permission or approval: an unauthorized meeting.

unavailable ▶ adjective not able to be used or obtained; not at someone's disposal: material which is unavailable to the researcher.
■(of a person) not free to do something; otherwise occupied: the men were unavailable for work.
– DERIVATIVES unavailability noun.

unavailing ▶ adjective achieving little or nothing; ineffective: their efforts were unavailing.
– DERIVATIVES unavailingly adverb.

unavoidable ▶ adjective not able to be avoided, prevented, or ignored; inevitable: the natural and unavoidable consequences of growing old.
– DERIVATIVES unavoidability noun, unavoidably adverb.

unavowed ▶ adjective not openly or publicly declared; unstated: an underlying, unavowed hostility.

unawakened ▶ adjective not aware of or roused to particular sensations or feelings.

unaware ▶ adjective [predic.] having no knowledge of a situation or fact: they were unaware of his absence.
▶ adverb variant of UNAWARES.
– DERIVATIVES unawareness noun.

unawares (also unaware) ▶ adverb without being aware of a situation: the photographer had caught her unawares.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from UNAWARE + -S[3].

unawed ▶ adjective not filled with awe.

unbacked ▶ adjective 1 having no financial, material, or moral support.
2 (of a horse) having no backers in a race.
3 having no backing layer: unbacked hessian.

unbalance ▶ verb [with obj.] make (someone or something) unsteady so that they tip or fall.
■upset or disturb the equilibrium of (a state of affairs or someone's state of mind): this sharing can often unbalance even the closest of relationships.
▶ noun a lack of symmetry, balance, or stability.

unbalanced ▶ adjective not keeping or showing an even balance; not evenly distributed.
■(of a person) emotionally or mentally disturbed. ■(of an account) not giving accurate, fair, or equal coverage to all aspects; partial: this may give an unbalanced impression of the competition.

unban ▶ verb (unbanned, unbanning) [with obj.] remove a ban on (a person, group, or activity).

unbar ▶ verb (unbarred, unbarring) [with obj.] remove the bars from (a gate or door); unlock.

unbearable ▶ adjective not able to be endured or tolerated: the heat was getting unbearable.
– DERIVATIVES unbearableness noun, unbearably adverb [as submodifier] it was unbearably hot.

unbeatable ▶ adjective not able to be defeated or exceeded in a contest or commercial market: the shop sells bikes at unbeatable prices.
■extremely good; outstanding: views from the patio are unbeatable.

unbeaten ▶ adjective not defeated or surpassed: they were the only side to remain unbeaten.
■Cricket (of a batsman) not out in his or her side's innings.

unbeautiful ▶ adjective without beauty.
– DERIVATIVES unbeautifully adverb.

unbecoming ▶ adjective (especially of clothing or a colour) not flattering: a stout lady in an unbecoming striped sundress.
■(of a person's attitude or behaviour) not fitting or appropriate; unseemly: it was unbecoming for a university to do anything so crass as advertising its wares.
– DERIVATIVES unbecomingly adverb, unbecomingness noun.

unbefitting ▶ adjective not appropriate; unsuitable: unbefitting conduct.
– DERIVATIVES unbefittingly adverb, unbefittingness noun.

unbeholden ▶ adjective formal owing no one any duty or thanks; free of any obligation.

unbeknown (also unbeknownst) ▶ adjective [predic.] (unbeknown to) without the knowledge of (someone): unbeknown to me, she made some enquiries.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from UN-[1] 'not' + archaic beknown 'known'.

unbelief ▶ noun [mass noun] lack of religious belief; an absence of faith.
– DERIVATIVES unbeliever noun, unbelieving adjective, unbelievingly adverb.

unbelievable ▶ adjective not able to be believed; unlikely to be true: unbelievable or not, it happened.
■so great or extreme as to be difficult to believe; extraordinary: your audacity is unbelievable.
– DERIVATIVES unbelievability noun, unbelievably adverb [as submodifier] he worked unbelievably long hours.

unbeloved ▶ adjective not loved: he is unbeloved of the society in which his creations are set.

unbelt ▶ verb [with obj.] remove or undo the belt of (a garment): he unbelted his kimono.

unbelted ▶ adjective (of a garment) without a belt.
■(of a person) not wearing a belt, in particular a vehicle seat belt.

unbend ▶ verb (past and past participle unbent) 1 make or become straight from a bent or twisted form or position: [with obj.] I had trouble unbending my cramped knees | [no obj.] he unbent from the cockpit as she passed.
■[no obj.] become less reserved, formal, or strict: you could be fun too, you know, if you'd only unbend a little.
2 [with obj.] Sailing unfasten (sails) from yards and stays.
■cast (a cable) loose. ■ untie (a rope).

unbending ▶ adjective reserved, formal, or strict in one's behaviour or attitudes; austere and inflexible.
– DERIVATIVES unbendingly adverb, unbendingness noun.

unbiased (also unbiassed) ▶ adjective showing no prejudice for or against something; impartial.

unbiblical ▶ adjective not found in, authorized by, or based on the Bible.

unbiddable ▶ adjective not easily controlled; unruly or disobedient.

unbidden ▶ adjective without having been commanded or invited: unbidden guests.
■(especially of a thought or feeling) arising without conscious effort: unbidden tears came to his eyes.

unbind ▶ verb (past and past participle unbound) [with obj.] release from bonds or restraints.

unbirthday ▶ noun humorous any day except one's birthday: [as modifier] an unbirthday present.
– ORIGIN 1871: coined by Lewis Carroll in Through the Looking Glass.

unbleached ▶ adjective (especially of paper or cloth) not made whiter or lighter by a chemical process: unbleached cotton.

unblemished ▶ adjective not damaged or marked in any way.

unblended ▶ adjective not mixed with other types of the same substance: unblended whisky.

unblessed (also unblest) ▶ adjective not blessed: to us, unblessed by our own children, he was almost a son.

unblind ▶ verb [with obj.] conduct (a test or experiment) in such a way that it is not blind.

unblinking ▶ adjective (of a person or their gaze or eyes) not blinking.
– DERIVATIVES unblinkingly adverb.

unblock ▶ verb [with obj.] remove an obstruction from (something, especially a pipe or drain).
■Bridge play in such a way that (a long suit) becomes established.

unblown ▶ adjective informal (of a vehicle or its engine) not provided with a turbocharger.

unblushing ▶ adjective not feeling or showing embarrassment or shame.
– DERIVATIVES unblushingly adverb.

unbolt ▶ verb [with obj.] open (a door or window) by drawing back a bolt.

unbookish ▶ adjective not particularly interested in reading and studying.

unborn ▶ adjective (of a baby) not yet born.

unbosom ▶ verb [with obj.] archaic disclose (one's thoughts or secrets): she unbosomed herself to a trusty female friend.

unbothered ▶ adjective showing or feeling a lack of concern about or interest in something: she was unbothered by the mess in the sink.

unbound[1] ▶ adjective not bound or tied up: her hair was unbound | figurative they were unbound by convention.
■(of printed sheets) not bound together. ■(of a bound book) not provided with a proper or permanent cover. ■ Chemistry & Physics not held by a chemical bond, gravity, or other physical force: unbound electrons.

unbound[2] past and past participle of UNBIND.

unbounded ▶ adjective having or appearing to have no limits: the possibilities are unbounded.
– DERIVATIVES unboundedly adverb, unboundedness noun.

unbowed ▶ adjective not having submitted to pressure or demands: they are unbowed by centuries of colonial rule.

unbrace ▶ verb [with obj.] remove a support from.

unbranded ▶ adjective 1 (of a product) not bearing a brand name: unbranded computer systems.
2 (of livestock) not branded with the owner's mark.

unbreachable ▶ adjective not able to be breached or overcome: a virtually unbreachable position.

unbreakable ▶ adjective not liable to break or able to be broken easily: the flask is guaranteed unbreakable | an unbreakable code.

unbreathable ▶ adjective (of air) not fit or pleasant to breathe.

unbribable ▶ adjective (of a person) not susceptible to bribery.

unbridgeable ▶ adjective (of a gap or difference) not able to be bridged or made less significant: a seemingly unbridgeable cultural abyss.

unbridled ▶ adjective uncontrolled; unconstrained: a moment of unbridled ambition | unbridled lust.

unbroken ▶ adjective not broken, fractured, or damaged: an unbroken glass.
■not interrupted or disturbed; continuous: a night of sleep unbroken by nightmares. ■(of a record) not surpassed: a 13-year unbroken record of increasing profits. ■(of a horse) not tamed or accustomed to being ridden. ■(of land) not cultivated.
– DERIVATIVES unbrokenly adverb, unbrokenness noun.

unbruised ▶ adjective not bruised.

unbuckle ▶ verb [with obj.] unfasten the buckle of (something, especially a belt or shoe).

unbuild ▶ verb (past and past participle unbuilt) [with obj.] demolish or destroy (something, especially a building or system).
■[as adj. unbuilt] (of buildings or land) not yet built or built on: a slope of unbuilt land.

unbundle ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 market or charge for (items or services) separately rather than as part of a package.
2 split (a company or conglomerate) into its constituent businesses, especially prior to selling them off.
– DERIVATIVES unbundler noun (only in sense 2).

unburden ▶ verb [with obj.] relieve (someone) of something that is causing anxiety or distress: the need to unburden yourself to someone who will listen.
■(usu. be unburdened) not cause (someone) hardship or distress: they are unburdened by expectations of success.

unburied ▶ adjective (especially of a dead body) not buried.

unburnt (also unburned) ▶ adjective not damaged or destroyed by fire.
■(especially of bricks) not exposed to heat in a kiln.

unbury ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [with obj.] remove (something) from under the ground.

unbusinesslike ▶ adjective not businesslike.

unbutton ▶ verb [with obj.] unfasten the buttons of (a garment).
■[no obj.] informal relax and become less inhibited: unbutton a little, Molly.

uncaged ▶ adjective released from or not confined in a cage.

uncalled ▶ adjective not summoned or invited.

■ (uncalled for) (especially of a person's behaviour) undesirable and unnecessary: uncalled-for remarks.

uncanny ▶ adjective (uncannier, uncanniest) strange or mysterious, especially in an unsettling way: an uncanny feeling that she was being watched.
– DERIVATIVES uncannily adverb, uncanniness noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (originally Scots in the sense 'relating to the occult, malicious'): from UN-[1] 'not' + CANNY.

uncanonical ▶ adjective not conforming to or ordered by canon law.
■ not belonging to a literary or other canon.
– DERIVATIVES uncanonically adverb.

uncap ▶ verb (uncapped, uncapping) [with obj.] remove the lid or cover from.
■ remove a limit or restriction on (a price, rate, or amount).

uncapped ▶ adjective chiefly Brit. (of a player) never having been chosen as a member of a particular sports team, especially a national one.

uncared ▶ adjective (uncared for) not looked after properly: it was sad to see the old place uncared for and neglected.

uncaring ▶ adjective not displaying sympathy or concern for others: an uncaring father.
■ not feeling interest in or attaching importance to something: she had always been uncaring of her appearance.
– DERIVATIVES uncaringly adverb.

uncarpeted ▶ adjective (of a floor) not covered with a carpet or carpeting.

uncase ▶ verb [with obj.] remove from a cover or case.

uncashed ▶ adjective (of a cheque or money order) not yet cashed.

uncatchable ▶ adjective not able to be caught, in particular (of an athlete or sports team) not able or likely to be equalled or bettered.

unceasing ▶ adjective not coming to an end; continuous: the unceasing efforts of the staff.
– DERIVATIVES unceasingly adverb.

uncelebrated ▶ adjective not publicly acclaimed: an uncelebrated but indispensable role.

uncensored ▶ adjective not censored.

unceremonious ▶ adjective having or showing a lack of courtesy or dignity; rough or abrupt: he was known for his strong views and unceremonious manners.
– DERIVATIVES unceremoniously adverb, unceremoniousness noun.

uncertain ▶ adjective not able to be relied on; not known or definite: an uncertain future.
■ (of a person) not completely confident or sure of something: I was uncertain how to proceed.
– PHRASES in no uncertain terms clearly and forcefully: she has already refused me, in no uncertain terms.
– DERIVATIVES uncertainly adverb.

uncertainty ▶ noun (pl. -ies) [mass noun] the state of being uncertain: times of uncertainty and danger.
■ [count noun] (usu. uncertainties) something that is uncertain or that causes one to feel uncertain: financial uncertainties.

uncertainty principle ▶ noun Physics the principle that the momentum and position of a particle cannot both be precisely determined at the same time.

uncertified ▶ adjective not officially recognized as having a certain status or meeting certain standards: uncertified accountants.
■ not attested or confirmed in a formal statement.

unchain ▶ verb [with obj.] remove the chains fastening or securing (someone or something).

unchallengeable ▶ adjective not able to be disputed, opposed, or defeated: the unchallengeable truth of these basic facts.
– DERIVATIVES unchallengeably adverb.

unchallenged ▶ adjective not disputed or questioned: the report's findings did not go unchallenged.
■ (especially of a person in power) not opposed or defeated: a position of unchallenged supremacy. ■ not called on to prove one's identity or allegiance: they walked unchallenged into a hospital and stole a baby.

unchallenging ▶ adjective (of a task or situation) not testing one's abilities: my job was unchallenging.
■ not threatening someone's position: his voice was gentle and unchallenging.

unchancy ▶ adjective (unchancier, unchanciest) chiefly Scottish unlucky, inauspicious, or dangerous.

unchangeable ▶ adjective not liable to variation or able to be altered: personality characteristics are virtually unchangeable.
– DERIVATIVES unchangeability noun, unchangeableness noun, unchangeably adverb.

unchanged ▶ adjective not changed; unaltered: an unchanged side for tonight's home game.

unchanging ▶ adjective not changing; remaining the same: the party stood for unchanging principles.
– DERIVATIVES unchangingly adverb.

unchaperoned ▶ adjective unaccompanied; unsupervised.

uncharacteristic ▶ adjective not typical of a particular person or thing: an uncharacteristic display of temper.
– DERIVATIVES uncharacteristically adverb.

uncharged ▶ adjective not charged, in particular:
■ not accused of an offence under the law: she was released uncharged. ■ not carrying an electric charge. ■ not charged to a particular account: an uncharged fixed cost.

uncharismatic ▶ adjective lacking the charm and attractiveness that can inspire enthusiasm in others.

uncharitable ▶ adjective (of a person's behaviour or attitude towards others) unkind; unsympathetic: this uncharitable remark possibly arose out of jealousy.
– DERIVATIVES uncharitableness noun, uncharitably adverb.

uncharted ▶ adjective (of an area of land or sea) not mapped or surveyed.

unchartered ▶ adjective not having a charter or written constitution.

unchaste ▶ adjective relating to or engaging in sexual activity, especially of an illicit or extramarital nature: unchaste subjects in art.
– DERIVATIVES unchastely adverb, unchastity noun.

unchastened ▶ adjective (of a person) not restrained or subdued: he was unchastened and ready for fresh mischief.

unchecked ▶ adjective (especially of something undesirable) not controlled or restrained: prices rose unchecked, hitting the poor worst of all.
■ not examined, especially in order to determine the accuracy, quality, or condition of something.

unchivalrous ▶ adjective (of a man or his behaviour) discourteous, especially towards women.
– DERIVATIVES unchivalrously adverb.

unchosen ▶ adjective not chosen.

unchristian ▶ adjective not professing Christianity or its teachings.
■ informal (of a person or their behaviour) unkind, unfair, or morally wrong.
– DERIVATIVES unchristianly adverb.

unchurch ▶ verb [with obj.] officially exclude (someone) from participation in the Christian sacraments; excommunicate.
■ deprive (a building) of its status as a church.

unchurched ▶ adjective [attrib.] not belonging to or connected with a church.

uncial /ˈʌnsɪəl, -ʃ(ə)l/ ▶ adjective 1 of or written in a majuscule script with rounded unjoined letters which is found in European manuscripts of the 4th–8th centuries and from which modern capital letters are derived.
2 rare of or relating to an inch or an ounce.
▶ noun an uncial letter or script.
■ a manuscript in uncial script.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin uncialis, from uncia 'inch'. Sense 1 is in the late Latin sense of unciales litterae 'uncial letters', the original application of which is unclear.

unciform /ˈʌnsɪfɔːm/ ▶ adjective another term for UNCINATE.
■ dated denoting the hamate bone of the wrist.

uncinariasis /ˌʌnsɪnəˈrʌɪəsɪs/ ▶ noun another term for ANCYLOSTOMIASIS.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from modern Latin Uncinaria (the name of a genus of hookworms) + -IASIS.

uncinate /ˈʌnsɪnət, -eɪt/ ▶ adjective chiefly Anatomy having a hooked shape.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Latin uncinatus, from uncinus 'hook'.

uncirculated ▶ adjective (especially of a note or coin) that has not been in circulation.

uncircumcised ▶ adjective (of a boy or man) not circumcised.
■ archaic irreligious or heathen.
– DERIVATIVES uncircumcision noun.

uncivil ▶ adjective discourteous; impolite.
– DERIVATIVES uncivilly adverb.

uncivilized (also -ised) ▶ adjective (of a place or people) not considered to be socially, culturally, or morally advanced.
■ impolite; bad-mannered.

unclad ▶ adjective 1 unclothed; naked.
2 not provided with cladding: unclad girders.

unclaimed ▶ adjective not demanded or requested as being something one has a right to: unclaimed benefits.

unclasp ▶ verb [with obj.] unfasten (a clasp or similar device): they unclasped their seat belts.
■ release the grip of: I unclasped her fingers from my hair.

unclassifiable ▶ adjective not able to be assigned to a particular class or category.

unclassified ▶ adjective not arranged in or assigned to classes or categories: many texts remain unclassified or uncatalogued.
■ (of information or documents) not designated as secret. ■ Brit. (of a road) not classified according to the overall system of road numbering. ■ Brit. denoting a university degree without honours. ■ Brit. (of a grade in an examination) denoting a fail.

uncle ▶ noun the brother of one's father or mother or the husband of one's aunt.
■ informal an unrelated older male friend, especially of a child. ■ archaic, informal a pawnbroker.
– PHRASES cry (or say or yell) uncle N. Amer. informal surrender or admit defeat. Uncle Tom Cobley (or Cobleigh) and all Brit. informal used to denote a long list of people. [ORIGIN: with allusion to the ballad Widdicombe Fair in G. Bantock's One Hundred Songs of England.]
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French oncle, from late Latin aunculus, alteration of Latin avunculus 'maternal uncle' (see AVUNCULAR).

-uncle ▶ suffix forming chiefly diminutive nouns: carbuncle | peduncle.
– ORIGIN from Old French -oncle, -uncle, or from Latin -unculus, a special form of -ulus.

unclean ▶ adjective dirty: the firm was fined for operating in unclean premises.
■ morally wrong: unclean thoughts. ■ (of food) regarded in a particular religion as impure and unfit to be eaten: pork is an unclean meat for Muslims. ■ (in biblical use) ritually impure; (of a spirit) evil.
– DERIVATIVES uncleanness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English unclǣne (see UN-[1], CLEAN).

uncleanliness ▶ noun [mass noun] the state of being dirty: head lice and general uncleanliness in schools.

uncleanly ▶ adjective archaic term for UNCLEAN.

unclear ▶ adjective not easy to see, hear, or understand: the motive for this killing is unclear.
■ not obvious or definite; ambiguous: their future remains unclear. ■ having or feeling doubt or confusion: users are still unclear about what middleware does.
– DERIVATIVES unclearly adverb, unclearness noun.

uncleared ▶ adjective not having been cleared or cleared up, in particular:
■ (of a cheque) not having passed through a clearing house and been paid into the payee's account. ■ (of land) not cleared of vegetation before cultivation.

unclench ▶ verb [with obj.] release (a clenched part of the body): slowly she unclenched her fist.
■ [no obj.] relax from a clenched state.

Uncle Sam a personification of the federal government or citizens of the US.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: said (from the time of the first recorded instances) to have arisen as a facetious expansion of the letters US.

Uncle Tom ▶ noun derogatory, chiefly N. Amer. a black man considered to be excessively obedient or servile.
– ORIGIN 1920s: from the name of the hero of H. B. Stowe's Uncle Tom's Cabin (1852).

unclimbed ▶ adjective (of a mountain or rock face) not previously climbed: the unclimbed south ridge.
– DERIVATIVES unclimbable adjective.

uncloak ▶ verb [with obj.] poetic/literary uncover; reveal.

unclog ▶ verb (unclogged, unclogging) [with obj.]

remove accumulated glutinous matter from.

unclose ▶ verb rare open.

unclosed ▶ adjective not closed.

unclothe ▶ verb [with obj.] remove the clothes from (oneself or someone).

unclouded ▶ adjective (of the sky) not dark or overcast: you wake up to sunshine and unclouded skies.
■not troubled or spoiled by anything: six months of unclouded happiness.

uncluttered ▶ adjective not having or impeded by too many objects, details, or elements: the rooms were plain and uncluttered.

unco /'ʌŋkə/ Scottish ▶ adjective unusual or remarkable.
▶ adverb [as submodifier] remarkably; very: it's got an unco fine taste.
▶ noun (pl. -os) a stranger.
■(uncos) news.
– PHRASES the unco guid /gɪd/ chiefly derogatory strictly religious people.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'unknown, strange'): alteration of UNCOUTH.

uncoated ▶ adjective not covered with a coating of a particular substance.

uncoil ▶ verb straighten or cause to straighten from a coiled or curled position: [no obj.] the rope uncoiled like a snake | [with obj.] she uncoiled her feather boa.

uncollected ▶ adjective (especially of money) not collected or claimed: the reward remained uncollected.
■left awaiting collection: bursting sacks of uncollected refuse. ■(of literary works) not previously published.

uncoloured (US uncolored) ▶ adjective having no colour; neutral in colour.
■not influenced, especially in a negative way: explanations which are uncoloured by the observer's feelings.

uncombed ▶ adjective (of a person's hair) not combed: his hair was matted and uncombed.

uncomely ▶ adjective archaic or humorous (especially of a woman) not attractive: she was nineteen and not uncomely.
■archaic not agreeable or suitable.

uncomfortable ▶ adjective causing or feeling slight pain or physical discomfort: athlete's foot is a painful and uncomfortable condition.
■causing or feeling unease or awkwardness: he began to feel uncomfortable at the man's hard stare | an uncomfortable silence.
– DERIVATIVES uncomfortableness noun, uncomfortably adverb [as submodifier] the house was dark and uncomfortably cold.

uncomfy ▶ adjective informal not comfortable.

uncomment ▶ verb [with obj.] Computing change (a piece of text within a program) from being a comment to be part of the program that is run by the computer.

uncommercial ▶ adjective not making, intended to make, or allowing a profit.

uncommitted ▶ adjective not committed to a particular course or policy: uncommitted voters.
■(of resources) not pledged or set aside for future use: there is very little uncommitted money to fund new policies. ■(of a person) not pledged to remain in a long-term emotional relationship with someone.

uncommon ▶ adjective out of the ordinary; unusual: prostate cancer is not uncommon in men over 60 | an uncommon name.
■[attrib.] remarkably great (used for emphasis): an uncommon amount of noise.
▶ adverb [as submodifier] archaic remarkably: he was uncommon afraid.
– DERIVATIVES uncommonly adverb [as submodifier] an uncommonly large crowd, uncommonness noun.

uncommunicative ▶ adjective (of a person) unwilling to talk or impart information.
– DERIVATIVES uncommunicatively adverb, uncommunicativeness noun.

uncompanionable /ʌnkəm'panjənəb(ə)l/ ▶ adjective not friendly and sociable.

uncompensated ▶ adjective (of a person or expense) not compensated or reimbursed.
■(of an action) not compensated for: uncompensated exploitation of the Third World.

uncompetitive ▶ adjective (with reference to business or commerce) not competitive: that would destroy jobs and make industry uncompetitive.
■characterized by a desire to avoid fair competition: uncompetitive practices.
– DERIVATIVES uncompetitively adverb, uncompetitiveness noun.

uncomplaining ▶ adjective not complaining; resigned: she was uncomplaining, accepting of her lot.
– DERIVATIVES uncomplainingly adverb.

uncompleted ▶ adjective not completed.

uncomplicated ▶ adjective simple or straightforward: he was an extraordinarily uncomplicated man.
– DERIVATIVES uncomplicatedly adverb uncomplicatedness noun.

uncomplimentary ▶ adjective not complimentary; negative or insulting: uncomplimentary remarks.

uncompounded ▶ adjective not mixed.
■(of a word) not made up of two or more existing words.

uncomprehending ▶ adjective showing or having an inability to comprehend something: an uncomprehending silence.
– DERIVATIVES uncomprehendingly adverb.

uncompromising ▶ adjective showing an unwillingness to make concessions to others, especially by changing one's ways or opinions.
■harsh or relentless: the uncompromising ugliness of her home.
– DERIVATIVES uncompromisingly adverb, uncompromisingness noun.

unconcealed ▶ adjective (especially of an emotion) not concealed; obvious: Sophia looked around her with unconcealed curiosity.

unconcern ▶ noun [mass noun] a lack of worry or interest, especially when surprising or callous.

unconcerned ▶ adjective showing a lack of worry or interest, especially when this is surprising or callous: Scott seemed unconcerned by his companion's problem.
– DERIVATIVES unconcernedly adverb.

unconcluded ▶ adjective not yet brought to a conclusion: unconcluded agreements.

unconditional ▶ adjective not subject to any conditions: unconditional surrender.
– DERIVATIVES unconditionality noun, unconditionally adverb.

unconditioned ▶ adjective 1 not subject to conditions or to an antecedent condition; unconditional.
2 relating to or denoting instinctive reflexes or other behaviour not formed or influenced by conditioning or learning: an unconditioned response.
3 not subjected to a conditioning process: waste in its raw, unconditioned form.

unconfessed ▶ adjective not acknowledged: the hope that remains unconfessed.
■(of a sin) not confessed to a priest.

unconfident ▶ adjective not confident; hesitant.
– DERIVATIVES unconfidently adverb.

unconfined ▶ adjective not confined to a limited space: sows should be unconfined at farrowing.
■(of joy or excitement) very great: joy was unconfined.

unconfirmed ▶ adjective not confirmed as to truth or validity: an unconfirmed report of shots being fired.

unconformable ▶ adjective Geology (of rock strata in contact) marking a discontinuity in the geological record, and typically not having the same direction of stratification.
– DERIVATIVES uncomformably adverb.

unconformity ▶ noun Geology a surface of contact between two groups of unconformable strata.
■[mass noun] the condition of being unconformable.

uncongenial ▶ adjective (of a person) not friendly or pleasant to be with: uncongenial dining companions.
■unsuitable and therefore unlikely to promote success or well-being: the religious climate proved uncongenial to such ideas.

unconnected ▶ adjective not joined together or to something else: the earth wire was left unconnected.
■not associated or linked in a sequence: two unconnected events | the question was unconnected to anything they had been discussing. ■not having relatives in important or influential positions.
– DERIVATIVES unconnectedly adverb, unconnectedness noun.

unconquerable ▶ adjective (especially of a place, people, or emotion) not conquerable: an unconquerable pride.
– DERIVATIVES unconquerably adverb.

unconquered ▶ adjective not conquered.

unconscionable /ʌn'kɒnʃ(ə)nəb(ə)l/ ▶ adjective not right or reasonable: the unconscionable conduct of his son.
■unreasonably excessive: shareholders have had to wait an unconscionable time for the facts to be established.
– DERIVATIVES unconscionably adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from UN-[1] 'not' + obsolete conscionable, from CONSCIENCE (interpreted as a plural) + -ABLE.

unconscious ▶ adjective not awake and aware of and responding to one's environment: the boy was beaten unconscious.
■done or existing without one realizing: he would wipe back his hair in an unconscious gesture of annoyance. ■ [predic.] (unconscious of) unaware of: 'What is it?' he said again, unconscious of the repetition.
▶ noun (the unconscious) the part of the mind which is inaccessible to the conscious mind but which affects behaviour and emotions.
– DERIVATIVES unconsciously adverb, unconsciousness noun.

unconsecrated ▶ adjective not consecrated.

unconsenting ▶ adjective not consenting.

unconsidered ▶ adjective disregarded and unappreciated: a snapper-up of unconsidered trifles.
■(of a statement or action) not thought about in advance, and therefore rash or harsh.

unconsolable ▶ adjective inconsolable.
– DERIVATIVES unconsolably adverb.

unconstitutional ▶ adjective not in accordance with the political constitution or with procedural rules.
– DERIVATIVES unconstitutionality noun, unconstitutionally adverb.

unconstrained ▶ adjective not restricted or limited: unconstrained growth.
– DERIVATIVES unconstrainedly adverb.

unconstricted ▶ adjective not constricted.

unconstructed ▶ adjective chiefly N. Amer. (of a garment) unstructured.

unconsulted ▶ adjective not consulted for information or an opinion.

unconsumed ▶ adjective (especially of food or fuel) not consumed.

unconsummated ▶ adjective (of a marriage or other relationship) not having been consummated.

uncontainable ▶ adjective (especially of an emotion) very strong: his uncontainable enthusiasm.

uncontaminated ▶ adjective not contaminated: uncontaminated air and food.

uncontentious ▶ adjective not causing or likely to cause an argument: an uncontentious view.

uncontested ▶ adjective not contested: these claims have not gone uncontested.
– DERIVATIVES uncontestedly adverb.

uncontradicted ▶ adjective (of a statement) not contradicted.

uncontrived ▶ adjective not artificially created.
■not appearing artificial: the whole effect was uncontrived.

uncontrollable ▶ adjective not controllable: her brother had an uncontrollable temper.
– DERIVATIVES uncontrollableness noun, uncontrollably adverb.

uncontrolled ▶ adjective not controlled.
– DERIVATIVES uncontrolledly adverb.

uncontroversial ▶ adjective not controversial.
– DERIVATIVES uncontroversially adverb.

uncontroverted ▶ adjective of which the truth or validity is not disputed.

unconventional ▶ adjective not based on or conforming to what is generally done or believed: his unconventional approach to life.
– DERIVATIVES unconventionality noun, unconventionally adverb.

unconverted ▶ adjective not converted, in particular:
■(of a building) not adapted to a different use. ■not having adopted a different religion, belief, or practice: unconverted pagans. ■ Rugby (of a try) not followed by a successful kick at goal.

unconvinced ▶ adjective not certain that something is true or can be relied on or trusted: Parisians remain unconvinced that the project will be approved.

unconvincing ▶ adjective failing to make someone believe that something is true or valid: she felt the lie was unconvincing.
■failing to impress: a slightly bizarre and unconvincing fusion of musical forces.
– DERIVATIVES unconvincingly adverb.

uncooked ▶ adjective not cooked; raw.

uncool ▶ adjective informal not fashionable or impressive: an uncool haircut.

uncooperative ▶ adjective unwilling to help others or do what they ask.
– DERIVATIVES uncooperatively adverb.

uncoordinated ▶ adjective 1 badly organized: expensive mistakes resulting from uncoordinated manufacturing strategies.
2 (of a person or their movements) clumsy.

uncork ▶ verb [with obj.] pull the cork out of (a bottle or other container).
■N. Amer. informal (in a game or sport) deliver (a kick, throw, or punch): Stulce uncorked the best throw of his career.

uncorrected ▶ adjective not corrected.

uncorroborated ▶ adjective not confirmed or supported by other evidence or information: the unreliability of uncorroborated confessions.

uncorrupted ▶ adjective not corrupted: Lucinda is uncorrupted by nefarious influences.

uncountable ▶ adjective too many to be counted (usually in hyperbolic use): she'd spent uncountable nights in this very bed.
– DERIVATIVES uncountability noun, uncountably adverb.

uncountable noun (also uncount noun) ▶ noun another term for MASS NOUN (in sense 1).

uncounted ▶ adjective not counted.
■very numerous: uncounted millions of dollars.

uncouple ▶ verb [with obj.] disconnect (something, especially a railway vehicle that has been coupled to another).
■[no obj.] become disconnected. ■release (hunting dogs) from being fastened together in couples.

uncourtly ▶ adjective not courteous or refined.

uncouth ▶ adjective (of a person or their appearance or behaviour) lacking good manners, refinement, or grace: he is unwashed, uncouth, and drunk most of the time.
■(especially of art or language) lacking sophistication or delicacy: uncouth sketches of peasants. ■archaic (of a place) uncomfortable, especially because of remoteness or poor conditions.
– DERIVATIVES uncouthly adverb, uncouthness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English uncūth 'unknown', from UN-[1] 'not' + cūth (past participle of cunnan 'know, be able').

uncovenanted ▶ adjective not bound by or in accordance with a covenant or agreement.
■not promised by or based on a covenant, especially a covenant with God.

uncover ▶ verb [with obj.] remove a cover or covering from: he uncovered the face of the dead man.
■discover (something previously secret or unknown): further evidence has been uncovered. ■[no obj.] archaic remove one's hat, especially as a mark of respect.

uncreate ▶ verb [with obj.] poetic/literary destroy.

uncreated ▶ adjective (especially of a divine being) existing without having been created.
■not yet created.

uncreative ▶ adjective not having or involving imagination or original ideas.

uncredited ▶ adjective (of a person or their work) not publicly acknowledged as being part of something, especially a publication or broadcast.

uncritical ▶ adjective not expressing criticism or using one's critical faculties: an uncritical acceptance of the results.
■not in accordance with the principles of critical analysis: uncritical reasoning.
– DERIVATIVES uncritically adverb.

uncropped ▶ adjective not cropped.

uncross ▶ verb [with obj.] move (something) back from a crossed position: the reporter uncrossed his legs.

uncrossed ▶ adjective not crossed, in particular:
■(of a person's legs or arms) not folded across each other. ■Brit. (of a cheque) not crossed.

uncrowded ▶ adjective not filled with a large number of people: miles of uncrowded beaches.

uncrown ▶ verb [with obj.] deprive (a monarch) of their ruling position.

uncrowned ▶ adjective not formally crowned as a monarch.

uncrushable ▶ adjective (of a fabric) resistant to creasing.

uncrushed ▶ adjective not crushed.

UNCSTD ▶ abbreviation for United Nations Conference on Science and Technology for Development.

UNCTAD /ˈʌŋ(k)tad/ ▶ abbreviation for United Nations Conference on Trade and Development.

unction /ˈʌŋ(k)ʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 formal the action of anointing someone with oil or ointment as a religious rite or as a symbol of investiture as a monarch.
■[count noun] the oil or ointment so used. ■short for EXTREME UNCTION.
2 archaic treatment with a medicinal oil or ointment.
■[count noun] an ointment: mercury in the form of unctions.
3 a manner of expression arising or apparently arising from deep emotion, especially as intended to flatter: the headlines gloated with the kind of effusive unction only the English press can muster.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin unctio(n-), from unguere 'anoint'. Sense 3 arises from the link between religious fervour and 'anointing' with the Holy Spirit.

unctuous /ˈʌŋ(k)tjʊəs/ ▶ adjective 1 (of a person) excessively or ingratiatingly flattering; oily: he seemed anxious to please but not in an unctuous way.
2 (chiefly of minerals) having a greasy or soapy feel.
– DERIVATIVES unctuously adverb, unctuousness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'greasy'): from medieval Latin unctuosus, from Latin unctus 'anointing', from unguere 'anoint'.

uncultivated ▶ adjective (of land) not used for growing crops.
■(of a person) not highly educated.

uncultured ▶ adjective not characterized by good taste, manners, or education: to my uncultured palate most of the wines were good.

uncurbed ▶ adjective not restrained or kept in check: their activities continue to be largely uncurbed.

uncured ▶ adjective 1 (of a person) not restored to health.
2 (of meat, fish, tobacco, or animal skins) not preserved by salting, drying, or smoking.

uncurl ▶ verb straighten or cause to straighten from a curled position: [no obj.] in spring the new leaves uncurl | [with obj.] the doctor uncurled his fingers.

uncurtained ▶ adjective (of a window) not provided with a curtain or curtains.

uncut ▶ adjective not cut: her hair was left uncut.
■(of a text, film, or performance) complete; unabridged. ■(of a stone, especially a diamond) not shaped by cutting. ■(of alcohol or a drug) not diluted or adulterated: large amounts of uncut heroin. ■chiefly historical (of a book) with the edges of its pages not slit open or trimmed off. ■(of fabric) having its pile loops intact.

undamaged ▶ adjective not harmed or damaged: buildings undamaged during the war.

undated ▶ adjective not provided or marked with a date: most of his letters are undated.

undaunted ▶ adjective not intimidated or discouraged by difficulty, danger, or disappointment: they were undaunted by the huge amount of work needed.
– DERIVATIVES undauntedly adverb, undauntedness noun.

undead ▶ adjective (of a fictional being, especially a vampire) technically dead but still animate.

undecagon /ʌnˈdɛkəg(ə)n/ ▶ noun another term for HENDECAGON.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: formed irregularly from Latin undecim 'eleven', on the pattern of decagon.

undeceive ▶ verb [with obj.] tell (someone) that an idea or belief is mistaken: they took her for a nun and Mary said nothing to undeceive them.

undecidable ▶ adjective not able to be firmly established or refuted.
■Logic (of a proposition or theorem) not able to be proved or disproved.
– DERIVATIVES undecidability noun.

undecided ▶ adjective (of a person) not having made a decision: the jury remained undecided.
■not settled or resolved: the match was still undecided.
▶ noun a person who has not decided how they are going to vote in an election.
– DERIVATIVES undecidedly adverb.

undecipherable ▶ adjective (of speech or writing) not able to be read or understood.

undeclared ▶ adjective not publicly announced, admitted, or acknowledged: undeclared war.
■(especially of taxable income or dutiable goods) not declared.

undecorated ▶ adjective 1 not adorned or decorated: the walls were completely undecorated.
2 (of a member of the armed forces) not honoured with an award.

undee /ˈʌndeɪ/ ▶ adjective variant spelling of UNDY.

undefeated ▶ adjective not defeated, especially in a battle or other contest: the undefeated champion.

undefended ▶ adjective not defended: undefended frontiers | legal aid for undefended divorces.

undefiled ▶ adjective not defiled; pure.

undefined ▶ adjective not clear or defined: undefined areas of jurisdiction | he felt an undefined longing.
– DERIVATIVES undefinable adjective, undefinably adverb.

undelete ▶ verb [with obj.] Computing cancel the deletion of (text or a file).

undelivered ▶ adjective not delivered: undelivered letters.

undemanding ▶ adjective (especially of a task or person) not demanding: undemanding clerical jobs.

undemocratic ▶ adjective not relating or according to democratic principles: an undemocratic regime.
– DERIVATIVES undemocratically adverb.

undemonstrated ▶ adjective not shown to exist or be true.

undemonstrative ▶ adjective (of a person) not tending to express feelings, especially of affection, openly: the English are an undemonstrative lot.
– DERIVATIVES undemonstratively adverb, undemonstrativeness noun.

undeniable ▶ adjective unable to be denied or disputed: it is an undeniable fact that some dogs are easier to train than others.
– DERIVATIVES undeniably adverb [sentence adverb] the topic is undeniably an important one.

undenominational ▶ adjective not attached to any specific religious denomination.

undented ▶ adjective (of a surface) not marked with a dent.

undependable ▶ adjective not trustworthy and reliable: evidence is scarce and often undependable.

under ▶ preposition 1 extending or directly below: vast stores of gas under the North Sea | the streams that ran under the melting glaciers.
■below (something covering or protecting): under several feet of water | a hot plate under an insulated lid.
2 at a lower level or layer than: the room under his study.
■behind (a physical surface): it was written on the new canvas under a gluey coating. ■behind or hidden behind (an appearance): he had a deep sense of fun under his quiet exterior. ■lower in grade or rank than: under him in the hierarchy.
3 used to express dominance or control: I was under his spell.
■during (a specified time period): the coinage standard was reformed under Elizabeth I. ■as a reaction to or undergoing the pressure of (something): the sofa creaked under his weight | certain institutions may be under threat. ■as provided for by the rules of; in accordance with: flowers supplied under contract by a local florist. ■used to express grouping or classification: file it under 'lost' | published under his own name. ■Computing within the environment of (a particular operating system): the program runs under DOS.
4 lower than (a specified amount, rate, or norm): they averaged just under 2.8 per cent.
5 undergoing (a process): under construction.
■in an existent state of: children living under difficult circumstances. ■planted with: fields under wheat.
▶ adverb 1 extending or directly below something: weaving the body through the crossbars, over and under, over and under.

2 under water: he was floating for some time but suddenly went under.
■ affected by an anaesthetic; unconscious: the operation was quick; she was only under for 15 minutes.
– PHRASES under way having started and making progress. ■ (of a boat) moving through the water: no time was lost in getting under way. [ORIGIN: mid 18th cent. (as a nautical term): from Dutch onderweg.]
– DERIVATIVES undermost adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch onder and German unter.

under- ▶ prefix 1 below; beneath: underclothes | undercover.
■ lower in status; subordinate: undersecretary.
2 insufficiently; incompletely: undernourished.

underachieve ▶ verb [no obj.] do less well than is expected, especially in school work.
– DERIVATIVES underachievement noun, underachiever noun.

underact ▶ verb [no obj.] act a part in a play or film in an overly restrained or unemotional way.

under age ▶ adjective (of a person) too young to engage legally in a particular activity, especially drinking alcohol or having sex.
■ [attrib.] (of an activity) engaged in by people who are under age: under-age drinking.

underarm ▶ adjective & adverb (of a throw or stroke in sport) made with the arm or hand below shoulder level: [as adj.] a good length underarm serve | [as adv.] bowling underarm.
▶ noun a person's armpit: [as modifier] use an underarm deodorant.

underbelly ▶ noun (pl. -lies) the soft underside or abdomen of an animal.
■ figurative an area vulnerable to attack: these multinationals have a soft underbelly. ■ figurative a hidden unpleasant or criminal part of society.

underbid ▶ verb (-bidding; past and past participle -bid) [with obj.] (in an auction or competitive tendering) make a lower bid than (someone).
■ Bridge make a lower bid on (one's hand) than its strength warrants.
▶ noun a bid that is lower than another or than is justified.
– DERIVATIVES underbidder noun.

underbite ▶ noun (in non-technical use) the projection of the lower teeth beyond the upper.

underbody ▶ noun (pl. -ies) the underside of a road vehicle, ship, or animal's body.

underbred ▶ adjective dated ill-mannered; rude.

underbridge ▶ noun a bridge spanning an opening under a railway or road.

underbrush ▶ noun [mass noun] N. Amer. shrubs and small trees forming the undergrowth in a forest.

undercapitalize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] provide (a company) with insufficient capital to achieve desired results.
– DERIVATIVES undercapitalization noun.

undercard ▶ noun the list of less important bouts on the same bill as a main boxing match.

undercarriage ▶ noun a wheeled structure beneath an aircraft, typically retracted when not in use, which receives the impact on landing and supports the aircraft on the ground.
■ the supporting frame under the body of a vehicle.

undercast ▶ verb (past and past participle -cast) [with obj.] (usu. be undercast) allocate the parts in (a play or film) to insufficiently skilled actors.

undercharge ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 charge (someone) a price or amount that is too low.
2 give less than the proper charge to (an electric battery).
▶ noun a charge that is insufficient.

underclass ▶ noun the lowest social stratum in a country or community, consisting of the poor and unemployed.

undercliff ▶ noun a terrace or lower cliff formed by a landslip.

undercling Climbing ▶ noun a handhold which faces down the rock face.
▶ verb [no obj.] climb using such handholds.

underclothes ▶ plural noun clothes worn under others, typically next to the skin.
– DERIVATIVES underclothing noun.

undercoat ▶ noun 1 a layer of paint applied after the primer and before the topcoat.
2 an animal's underfur or down.
▶ verb [with obj.] apply a coat of undercoat to (something).

underconsumption ▶ noun [mass noun] Economics purchase of goods and services at a level lower than that of their supply.

undercook ▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. undercooked] cook (something) insufficiently: undercooked meats.

undercool ▶ verb another term for SUPERCOOL.

undercount ▶ verb [with obj.] enumerate (something, especially a sector of a population in a census) at a lower figure than the actual figure.
▶ noun a count or figure that is inaccurately low.
■ the amount by which such a count or figure falls short of the actual figure.

undercover ▶ adjective 1 (of a person or their activities) involved in or involving secret work within a community or organization, especially for the purposes of police investigation or espionage: an undercover police operation.
2 provided with shelter: undercover seating.
▶ adverb as an undercover agent: he worked undercover in Northern Ireland.

undercroft ▶ noun the crypt of a church.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from UNDER- + the rare term croft 'crypt', from Middle Dutch crofte 'cave', from Latin crypta.

undercurrent ▶ noun a current of water below the surface and moving in a different direction from any surface current.
■ figurative an underlying feeling or influence, especially one that is contrary to the prevailing atmosphere and is not expressed openly: racial undercurrents.

undercut ▶ verb (-cutting; past and past participle -cut) [with obj.] 1 offer goods or services at a lower price than (a competitor): these industries have been undercut by more efficient foreign producers.
2 cut or wear away the part below or under (something, especially a cliff).
■ figurative weaken; undermine: the chairman denied his authority was being undercut. ■ cut away material to leave (a carved design) in relief.
3 Tennis strike (a ball) with backspin so that it rises high in the air.
▶ noun 1 a space formed by the removal or absence of material from the lower part of something, such as a cliff, a coal seam, or part of a carving in relief.
■ N. Amer. a notch cut in a tree trunk to guide its fall when felled.
2 Brit. the underside of a sirloin of beef.

underdamp ▶ verb [with obj.] Physics damp (a system) incompletely, so as to allow a few oscillations after a single disturbance.

underdetermine ▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be underdetermined) account for (a theory or phenomenon) with less than the amount of evidence needed for proof or certainty.
– DERIVATIVES underdetermination noun.

underdeveloped ▶ adjective not fully developed: underdeveloped kidneys | the community services are underfunded and underdeveloped.
■ (of a country or region) not advanced economically. ■ (of a photographic film) not developed sufficiently to give a normal image.
– DERIVATIVES underdevelopment noun.

underdog ▶ noun a competitor thought to have little chance of winning a fight or contest.
■ a person who has little status in society.

underdone ▶ adjective (of food) insufficiently cooked.

underdrawing ▶ noun [mass noun] sketched lines made by a painter as a preliminary guide, and subsequently covered with layers of paint.
■ [count noun] such a preliminary sketch.

underdress ▶ verb [no obj.] (also be underdressed) dress too plainly or too informally: without a pinstripe you'd be underdressed.

undereducated ▶ adjective poorly educated.

underemphasize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be underemphasized) place insufficient emphasis on: history is underemphasized in the curriculum.
– DERIVATIVES underemphasis noun.

underemployed ▶ adjective (of a person) not having enough paid work or not doing work that makes full use of their skills and abilities.
– DERIVATIVES underemployment noun.

underestimate ▶ verb [with obj.] estimate (something) to be smaller or less important than it really is: the government has grossly underestimated the extent of the problem.
■ regard (someone) as less capable than they really are: he had underestimated the new President.
▶ noun [usu. in sing.] an estimate that is too low.
– DERIVATIVES underestimation noun.

underexpose ▶ verb [with obj.] Photography expose (film or an image) for too short a time.
– DERIVATIVES underexposure noun.

underfed ▶ adjective insufficiently fed or nourished.

underfelt ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. felt laid under a carpet for extra support.

under-fives ▶ plural noun chiefly Brit. children who are less than five years old, especially those who are not in full-time education.

underfloor ▶ adjective (especially of a heating system) situated or operating beneath the floor.

underflow ▶ noun 1 an undercurrent.
■ a horizontal flow of water through the ground, especially one underneath a river bed.
2 [mass noun] Computing the generation of a number that is too small to be represented in the device meant to store it.

underfoot ▶ adverb under one's feet; on the ground: it was very muddy underfoot | figurative genuine rights were being trodden underfoot.
■ constantly present and in one's way: the last thing my mother wanted was a child underfoot.
▶ adjective [attrib.] of or relating to the state of the ground, especially in a horse race.

underframe ▶ noun the substructure of a motor vehicle or railway carriage.
■ the supporting frame of a chair seat or table top.

underfund ▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be underfunded) provide with insufficient funding.
– DERIVATIVES underfunding noun.

underfur ▶ noun [mass noun] an inner layer of short, fine fur or down underlying an animal's outer fur, providing warmth and waterproofing.

undergarment ▶ noun an article of underclothing.

undergird ▶ verb [with obj.] secure or fasten from the underside, especially by a rope or chain passed underneath.
■ formal provide support or a firm basis for.

underglaze ▶ adjective (of decoration on pottery) done before the glaze is applied.
■ (of colours) used in such decoration.
▶ noun a colour or design applied in this way.

undergo ▶ verb (-goes; past -went; past participle -gone) [with obj.] experience or be subjected to (something, typically something unpleasant, painful, or arduous): the baby underwent a life-saving brain operation.
– ORIGIN Old English undergān 'undermine' (see UNDER-, GO[1]).

undergrad ▶ noun informal an undergraduate.

undergraduate ▶ noun a student at a university who has not yet taken a first degree.

underground ▶ adverb beneath the surface of the ground: miners working underground.
■ in or into secrecy or hiding, especially as a result of carrying out subversive political activities: many were forced to go underground by the government.
▶ adjective situated beneath the surface of the ground: an underground car park.
■ of or relating to the secret activities of people working to subvert an established order: Czech underground literature. ■ of or denoting a group or movement seeking to explore alternative forms of lifestyle or artistic expression; radical and experimental: the New York underground art scene.
▶ noun 1 (often the Underground) Brit. an underground railway, especially the one in London: travel chaos on the Underground | he'd gone home by underground.
2 a group or movement organized secretly to work against an existing regime.
■ a group or movement seeking to explore alternative forms of lifestyle or artistic expression: the late sixties underground.
▶ verb [with obj.] lay (cables) below ground level.

underground economy ▶ noun North American term for BLACK ECONOMY.

underground mutton ▶ noun [mass noun] Austral. informal rabbit meat.

Underground Railroad (in the US) a secret network for helping slaves escape from the South to the North and Canada in the years before the American Civil War.

undergrowth ▶ noun [mass noun] a dense growth of shrubs and other plants, especially under trees in woodland.

underhand ▶ adjective 1 acting or done in a secret or dishonest way: underhand dealings.

2 another term for UNDERARM: underhand bowling | [as adv.] I served underhand.

■ with the palm of the hand upward or outward: an underhand grip.

– ORIGIN Old English in the sense 'in or into subjection, under control' (see UNDER-, HAND).

underhanded ▶ adjective another term for UNDERHAND: underhanded practices.

– DERIVATIVES underhandedly adverb.

underhung ▶ adjective another term for UNDERSHOT (in sense 2).

underinsured ▶ adjective (of a person) having inadequate insurance cover.

– DERIVATIVES underinsurance noun.

underinvest ▶ verb [no obj.] fail to invest sufficient money or resources in a project or enterprise: we persistently underinvest in historic buildings.

– DERIVATIVES underinvestment noun.

underlay[1] ▶ verb (past and past participle -laid) [with obj.] (usu. be underlaid) place something under (something else), especially to support or raise it: the green fields are underlaid with limestone.

▶ noun [mass noun] something placed under or behind something else, especially material laid under a carpet for protection or support.

■ Music the manner in which the words are fitted to the notes of a piece of vocal music.

– ORIGIN Old English underlecgan (see UNDER-, LAY[1]).

underlay[2] past tense of UNDERLIE.

underlease ▶ noun & verb another term for SUBLEASE.

underlet ▶ verb (-letting; past and past participle -let) another term for SUBLEASE.

underlever ▶ noun a lever behind the trigger guard on a rifle.

underlie ▶ verb (-lying; past -lay; past participle -lain) [with obj.] (especially of a layer of rock or soil) lie or be situated under (something).

■ be the cause or basis of (something): the fundamental issue which underlies the conflict | [as adj. underlying] the underlying causes of poverty and drug addiction.

– ORIGIN Old English underlicgan 'be subject or subordinate to' (see UNDER-, LIE[1]).

underlife ▶ noun (pl. underlives) a way of living with which the general public do not normally come into contact.

underline ▶ verb [with obj.] draw a line under (a word or phrase) to give emphasis or indicate special type.

■ emphasize (something): the improvement in retail sales was underlined by these figures.

▶ noun 1 a line drawn under a word or phrase, especially for emphasis.

2 the line of the lower part of an animal's body.

underlinen ▶ noun [mass noun] archaic underclothes, especially those made of linen.

underling ▶ noun (usu. underlings) chiefly derogatory a person lower in status or rank.

underlip ▶ noun the lower lip of a person or animal.

underlying present participle of UNDERLIE.

underman ▶ verb (-manned, -manning) [with obj.] (usu. be undermanned) fail to provide with enough workers or crew: the public prosecutor's offices are hopelessly undermanned.

undermanager ▶ noun a manager who is subordinate to another manager.

undermentioned ▶ adjective Brit. mentioned at a later place in a book or document.

undermine ▶ verb [with obj.] erode the base or foundation of (a rock formation).

■ dig or excavate beneath (a building or fortification) so as to make it collapse. ■ figurative damage or weaken (someone or something), especially gradually or insidiously: this could undermine years of hard work.

– DERIVATIVES underminer noun.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from UNDER- + the verb MINE[2], probably suggested by Middle Dutch ondermineren.

underneath ▶ preposition & adverb 1 situated directly below (something else): [as prep.] our bedroom's right underneath theirs | [as adv.] his eyes were red-rimmed with black bags underneath | [as adj.] on longer hair, the underneath layers can be permed to give extra body.

■ situated on a page directly below (a picture or another piece of writing): [as prep.] four names written neatly underneath each other | [as adv.] there was writing underneath.

2 so as to be concealed by (something else): [as prep.] money changed hands underneath the table | figurative underneath his aloof air, Nicky was a warm and open young man | [as adv.] paint peeling off in flakes to reveal greyish plaster underneath.

■ partly or wholly concealed by (a garment): [as prep.] she could easily see the broadness of his shoulders underneath a tailored white sports shirt | [as adv.] undoing her jacket to reveal nothing but a clingy bra underneath.

▶ noun [in sing.] the part or side of something facing towards the ground; the underside.

– ORIGIN Old English underneothan; compare with BENEATH.

undernourished ▶ adjective having insufficient food or other substances for good health and condition: undernourished children.

– DERIVATIVES undernourishment noun.

underoccupancy ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. (with reference to holiday or hospital accommodation) the state of not being occupied to the expected or advertised capacity.

underpaid past and past participle of UNDERPAY.

underpainting ▶ noun [mass noun] paint subsequently overlaid with another layer or with a finishing coat.

underpants ▶ plural noun an undergarment, especially for men or boys, covering the lower part of the body and having two holes for the legs.

underpart ▶ noun a lower part or portion of something.

■ (underparts) the underside of an animal's body, especially when of a specified colour or pattern.

underpass ▶ noun a road or pedestrian tunnel passing under another road or a railway.

underpay ▶ verb (past and past participle -paid) [with obj.] pay too little to (someone).

■ pay less than is due for (something): [as adj. underpaid] late or underpaid tax.

– DERIVATIVES underpayment noun.

underperform ▶ verb [no obj.] perform less well than expected.

■ [with obj.] increase in value less than: the shares have underperformed the market.

– DERIVATIVES underperformance noun.

underpin ▶ verb (-pinned, -pinning) [with obj.] support (a building or other structure) from below by laying a solid foundation below ground level or by substituting stronger for weaker materials.

■ support, justify, or form the basis for: the theme of honour underpinning the two books.

underpinning ▶ noun a solid foundation laid below ground level to support or strengthen a building.

■ a set of ideas, motives, or devices which justify or form the basis for something: the theoretical underpinning for free-market economics.

underplant ▶ verb [with obj.] plant or cultivate the ground around (a tall plant) with smaller plants: the roses are underplanted with pink and white bulbs.

underplay ▶ verb [with obj.] perform (something) in a restrained way: the violins underplayed the romantic element in the music.

■ represent (something) as being less important than it really is: I do not wish to underplay the tragedies that have occurred.

underplot ▶ noun a subordinate plot in a play, novel, or similar work.

underpopulated ▶ adjective having an insufficient or very small population.

– DERIVATIVES underpopulation noun.

underpowered ▶ adjective lacking sufficient mechanical, electrical, or other power.

underprepared ▶ adjective not having prepared sufficiently to carry out a task.

underprice ▶ verb [with obj.] sell or offer at too low a price: water shares were underpriced.

underprivileged ▶ adjective (of a person) not enjoying the same standard of living or rights as the majority of people in a society.

underproduce ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 produce less of (a commodity) than is wanted or needed.

2 [often as adj. underproduced] record or produce (a song or film) in such a basic way that it appears rough or unfinished.

– DERIVATIVES underproduction noun.

underproof ▶ adjective containing less alcohol than proof spirit does.

underprop ▶ verb (-propped, -propping) [with obj.] archaic support, especially with a prop.

underrate ▶ verb [with obj.] [often as adj. underrated] underestimate the extent, value, or importance of (someone or something): a very underrated film.

under-read ▶ verb (past and past participle -read) [no obj.] (of a gauge or dial) show a reading lower than the true one.

under-record ▶ verb [with obj.] record (a number or amount) as being lower than it really is.

■ record (data or information) insufficiently or inadequately: such conditions had been markedly under-recorded in medical inspection.

under-rehearsed ▶ adjective (of a performance or performer) insufficiently rehearsed.

under-report ▶ verb [with obj.] fail to report (something, especially news or data) fully.

under-represent ▶ verb [with obj.] provide with insufficient or inadequate representation: women are under-represented at high levels.

– DERIVATIVES under-representation noun.

under-resourced ▶ adjective provided with insufficient resources: an overstretched and under-resourced service.

– DERIVATIVES under-resourcing noun.

undersaturated ▶ adjective technical falling short of being saturated with a particular constituent.

– DERIVATIVES undersaturation noun.

underscore ▶ verb another term for UNDERLINE.

▶ noun another term for UNDERLINE (in sense 1).

undersea ▶ adjective of, relating to, or situated below the sea or the surface of the sea.

underseal chiefly Brit. ▶ verb [with obj.] coat (the underpart of a motor vehicle) with waterproof material as protection against rust.

▶ noun [mass noun] waterproof coating used in this way.

undersecretary ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a subordinate official, in particular (in the UK) a junior minister or senior civil servant, or (in the US) the principal assistant to a member of the cabinet.

undersell ▶ verb (past and past participle -sold) [with obj.] sell something at a lower price than (a competitor).

■ promote or rate (something) insufficiently; undervalue.

underset ▶ verb (-setting; past and past participle -set) [with obj.] rare place (something) under something else, especially for support.

▶ noun another term for UNDERCURRENT.

undersexed ▶ adjective having unusually weak sexual desires.

undersheriff ▶ noun a deputy sheriff.

undershirt ▶ noun chiefly N. Amer. an undergarment worn under a shirt; a vest.

undershoot ▶ verb (past and past participle -shot) [with obj.] fall short of (a point or target): the figure undershot the government's original estimate.

■ (of an aircraft) land short of (the runway).

▶ noun an act of undershooting.

undershorts ▶ plural noun chiefly N. Amer. underpants.

undershot past and past participle of UNDERSHOOT. ▶ adjective 1 (of a waterwheel) turned by water flowing under it.

2 denoting or having a lower jaw which projects beyond the upper jaw.

underside ▶ noun the bottom or lower side or surface of something: the butterfly's wings have a mottled brown pattern on the underside.

■ figurative the less favourable aspect of something: the sordid underside of the glamorous 1980s.

undersigned ▶ adjective [usu. as plural noun the undersigned] formal whose signature is appended: we, the undersigned, wish to protest at the current activities of the company.

undersized (also undersize) ▶ adjective of less than the usual size.

underskirt ▶ noun a skirt worn under another; a petticoat.

underslung ▶ adjective suspended from the underside of something: helicopters hover to lift underslung loads.

■(of a vehicle chassis) hanging lower than the axles.

undersoil ▶ noun [mass noun] subsoil.

undersold past and past participle of UNDERSELL.

undersow ▶ verb (past participle -sown) [with obj.] sow (a later-growing crop) on land already seeded with another crop.

underspend ▶ verb (past and past participle -spent) [no obj.] spend too little.

■[with obj.] spend less than (a specified or allocated amount): schools have underspent their training budgets.

▶ noun [in sing.] an act of underspending: areas in the year's budget where there has been an underspend.

understaff ▶ verb [with obj.] provide (an organization) with too few members of staff to operate effectively: [as adj. understaffed] the department is understaffed and overworked.

– DERIVATIVES understaffing noun.

understairs ▶ adjective in the space below the staircase: an understairs storage cupboard.

understand ▶ verb (past and past participle -stood) 1 [with obj.] perceive the intended meaning of (words, a language, or speaker): he didn't understand a word I said | *he could usually make himself understood | [with clause] she understood what he was saying.

■perceive the significance, explanation, or cause of (something): she didn't really understand the situation | [with clause] he couldn't understand why we burst out laughing | [no obj.] you don't understand—she has left me. ■ be sympathetically or knowledgeably aware of the character or nature of: Picasso understood colour | [with clause] I understand how you feel. ■ interpret or view (something) in a particular way: as the term is usually understood, legislation refers to regulations and directives.

2 [with clause] infer something from information received (often used as a polite formula in conversation): I understand you're at art school | [with obj.] as I understood it she was flying back to the States tomorrow.

■[with obj.] (often be understood) regard (a missing word, phrase, or idea) as present; supply mentally: 'present company excepted' is always understood when sweeping generalizations are being made. ■ [with obj.] (often be understood) assume to be the case; take for granted: he liked to play the field, that was understood.

– DERIVATIVES understander noun.

– ORIGIN Old English understandan (see UNDER-, STAND).

understandable ▶ adjective able to be understood: though his accent was strange, the words were perfectly understandable.

■to be expected; natural, reasonable, or forgivable: such fears are understandable | it is understandable that mistakes occur sometimes.*

– DERIVATIVES understandability noun, understandably adverb [sentence adverb] understandably, Richard did not believe me.

understanding ▶ noun [mass noun] the ability to understand something; comprehension: foreign visitors with little understanding of English.

■the power of abstract thought; intellect: a child of sufficient intelligence and understanding. ■ an individual's perception or judgement of a situation: my understanding was that he would try to find a new supplier. ■ sympathetic awareness or tolerance: a problem which needs to be handled with understanding. ■ [count noun] an informal or unspoken agreement or arrangement: he and I have an understanding | he had only been allowed to come on the understanding that he would be on his best behaviour.

▶ adjective 1 sympathetically aware of other people's feelings; tolerant and forgiving: people expect their doctor to be understanding.

2 archaic having insight or good judgement.

– DERIVATIVES understandingly adverb.

understate ▶ verb [with obj.] describe or represent (something) as being smaller or less good or important than it really is: the press have understated the extent of the problem.

– DERIVATIVES understater noun.

understated ▶ adjective presented or expressed in a subtle and effective way: understated elegance.

– DERIVATIVES understatedly adverb.

understatement ▶ noun [mass noun] the presentation of something as being smaller or less good or important than it really is: a master of English understatement | [count noun] to say I am delighted is an understatement.

understeer ▶ verb [no obj.] (of a motor vehicle) have a tendency to turn less sharply than is intended: the turbo understeers on very fast bends.

▶ noun [mass noun] the tendency of a vehicle to turn in such a way.

understood past and past participle of UNDERSTAND.

understorey ▶ noun (pl. -eys) Ecology a layer of vegetation beneath the main canopy of a forest.

understrapper ▶ noun informal, dated an assistant or junior official.

understudy ▶ noun (pl. -ies) (in the theatre) a person who learns another's role in order to be able to act at short notice in their absence.

▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [with obj.] study (a role or actor) as an understudy: he had to understudy Prospero.

undersubscribed ▶ adjective (of a course or event) having more places available than applications.

■(of a share issue) having fewer applications for shares than there are shares available.

undersurface ▶ noun the lower or under surface of something.

underswell ▶ noun an undercurrent.

undertake ▶ verb (past -took; past participle -taken) [with obj.] commit oneself to and begin (an enterprise or responsibility); take on: a firm of builders undertook the construction work.

■[usu. with infinitive] promise to do a particular thing: the firm undertook to keep price increases to a minimum. ■ [with clause] guarantee or affirm something; give as a formal pledge: a lorry driver implicitly undertakes that he is reasonably skilled as a driver.

undertaker ▶ noun a person whose business is preparing dead bodies for burial or cremation and making arrangements for funerals.

undertaking ▶ noun 1 a formal pledge or promise to do something: I give an undertaking that we shall proceed with the legislation.

■a task that is taken on; an enterprise: a mammoth undertaking that involved digging into the side of a cliff face. ■ a company or business: industrial undertakings ranging from textiles to rubber. ■ [mass noun] the action of undertaking to do something: the knowing undertaking of an obligation.

2 [mass noun] the management of funerals as a profession.

undertenant ▶ noun a subtenant.

– DERIVATIVES undertenancy noun (pl. -ies).

underthings ▶ plural noun underclothes.

underthrust Geology ▶ verb (past and past participle -thrust) [with obj.] force (a crustal plate or other body of rock) beneath another formation.

■be forced underneath (another formation).

▶ noun an instance of such forced movement.

undertint ▶ noun a subdued or delicate tint.

undertone ▶ noun a subdued or muted tone of sound or colour: they were talking in undertones.

■an underlying quality or feeling: the sexual undertones of most advertising.

undertook past participle of UNDERTAKE.

undertow ▶ noun another term for UNDERCURRENT.

undertrial ▶ noun Indian informal a person who is on trial in a court of law.

undertrick ▶ noun Bridge a trick by which the declarer falls short of his or her contract.

underuse /ʌndə'ju:z/ ▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. underused] use (something) below the optimum level: massive acreages of unused land.

▶ noun /ʌndə'ju:s/ [mass noun] insufficient use: underuse of existing services.

underutilize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] underuse (something).

– DERIVATIVES underutilization noun.

undervalue ▶ verb (-values, -valued, -valuing) [with obj.] [often as adj. undervalued] rate (something) insufficiently highly; fail to appreciate: the skills of the housewife remain undervalued in society.

■underestimate the financial value of (something): the company's assets were undervalued in its balance sheet.

▶ noun a price below the real value.

– DERIVATIVES undervaluation noun.

undervest ▶ noun a vest worn as an undergarment.

underwater ▶ adjective & adverb situated, occurring, or done beneath the surface of the water: [as adj.] there are underwater volcanoes in the region | [as adv.] the seal spent a lot of time underwater.

underwear ▶ noun [mass noun] clothing worn under other clothes, typically next to the skin.

underweight ▶ adjective below a weight considered normal or desirable: he was thirty pounds underweight.

■Finance having less investment in a particular area than is considered desirable or appropriate: the company is still underweight in Japan.

▶ verb [with obj.] apply too little weight to (something): we feared the hot-air balloon had been underweighted.

▶ noun [mass noun] insufficient weight.

underwent past participle of UNDERGO.

underwhelm ▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be underwhelmed) humorous fail to impress or make a positive impact on (someone); disappoint: American voters seem underwhelmed by the choices for president.

– ORIGIN 1950s: suggested by OVERWHELM.

underwing ▶ noun 1 the hindwing of an insect, especially when it is normally hidden by a forewing.

2 the underside of a bird's wing.

3 (also underwing moth) [usu. with modifier] a moth with drab forewings and brightly coloured hindwings, typically yellow with a black terminal band.

● Several genera in the family Noctuidae.

underwire ▶ noun a semicircular wire support stitched under each cup of a bra.

– DERIVATIVES underwired adjective.

underwood ▶ noun [mass noun] small trees and shrubs growing beneath taller timber trees.

underwork ▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be underworked) impose too little work on (someone).

underworld ▶ noun 1 the world of criminals or of organized crime.

2 the mythical abode of the dead, imagined as being under the earth.

underwrite ▶ verb (past -wrote; past participle -written) [with obj.] 1 sign and accept liability under (an insurance policy), thus guaranteeing payment in case loss or damage occurs.

■accept (a liability or risk) in this way.

2 (of a bank or other financial institution) engage to buy all the unsold shares in (an issue of new shares).

■undertake to finance or otherwise support or guarantee (something): they were willing to underwrite, in part, the construction of a ship.

3 archaic write (something) below something else, especially other written matter.

– DERIVATIVES underwriter noun.

undescended ▶ adjective Medicine (of a testicle) remaining in the abdomen instead of descending normally into the scrotum.

undeserved ▶ adjective not warranted, merited, or earned: an undeserved term of imprisonment.

– DERIVATIVES undeservedly adverb.

undeserving ▶ adjective not deserving or worthy of something positive, especially help or praise.

– DERIVATIVES undeservingly adverb.

undesigned ▶ adjective unintended.

– DERIVATIVES undesignedly adverb.

undesirable ▶ adjective not wanted or desirable because harmful, objectionable, or unpleasant: the drug's undesirable side effects.

▶ noun a person considered to be objectionable in some way.

– DERIVATIVES undesirability noun, undesirableness noun, undesirably adverb.

undesired ▶ adjective (especially of an act or consequence) not wanted or desired.

undesirous ▶ adjective [predic.] formal not wanting or wishing something: the prince was undesirous of seeing the Lady Anne.

undetectable ▶ adjective not able to be detected.

– DERIVATIVES undetectability noun, undetectably adverb.

undetected ▶ adjective not detected or discovered: the thieves escaped undetected.

undetermined ▶ adjective not authoritatively decided or settled: the acquisition will result in an as yet undetermined number of lay-offs.

■not known: the bus was travelling with an undetermined number of passengers when it crashed.

undeterred ▶ adjective [predic.] persevering with something despite setbacks: he was undeterred by these disasters.

undeveloped ▶ adjective not having been developed: undeveloped coal reserves.

■not having developed: undeveloped buds and shoots.

undeviating ▶ adjective showing no deviation; constant and steady: the undeviating loyalty of his wife.
– DERIVATIVES undeviatingly adverb.

undiagnosed ▶ adjective not diagnosed or having been subject to diagnosis.

undid past of UNDO.

undies ▶ plural noun informal articles of underwear, especially those of a woman or girl.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: abbreviation.

undifferenced ▶ adjective Heraldry (of arms) not made distinct by a mark of difference.

undifferentiated ▶ adjective not different or differentiated.

undigested ▶ adjective (of food) not digested.
■(of information, facts, or ideas) not having been properly assessed, considered, or understood.

undignified ▶ adjective appearing foolish and unseemly: lacking in dignity: an undignified exit.

undiluted ▶ adjective (of a liquid) not diluted.
■not moderated or weakened in any way: a sudden surge of pure, undiluted happiness.

undiminished ▶ adjective not diminished, reduced, or lessened: his enthusiasm for the game remains undiminished.

undine /ˈʌndiːn/ ▶ noun a female spirit or nymph imagined as inhabiting water.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from modern Latin undina (a word invented by Paracelsus), from Latin unda 'a wave'.

undiplomatic ▶ adjective being or appearing insensitive and tactless.
– DERIVATIVES undiplomatically adverb.

undirected ▶ adjective lacking direction; without a particular aim, purpose, or target: she was full of ineffectual undirected anger.

undiscerning ▶ adjective lacking judgement, insight, or taste: an undiscerning audience.

undischarged ▶ adjective not discharged: an undischarged bankrupt | an undischarged gun.

undisciplined ▶ adjective lacking in discipline; uncontrolled in behaviour or manner.

undisclosed ▶ adjective not revealed or made known publicly: the precise terms of the agreement remained undisclosed.

undiscovered ▶ adjective not discovered: the novel had lain undiscovered for years among his papers.

undiscriminating ▶ adjective not having or showing good judgement or taste.

undiscussed ▶ adjective not discussed.

undisguised ▶ adjective (of a feeling) not disguised or concealed; open: she looked at him with undisguised contempt.
– DERIVATIVES undisguisedly adverb.

undismayed ▶ adjective not dismayed or discouraged by a setback.

undisputed ▶ adjective not disputed or called in question; accepted.

undistinguishable ▶ adjective indistinguishable.

undistinguished ▶ adjective lacking distinction; unexceptional: an undistinguished career.

undistorted ▶ adjective not distorted: it may be difficult to provide undistorted information.

undistributed ▶ adjective not distributed.

undistributed middle ▶ noun Logic a fallacy arising from the failure of the middle term of a syllogism to refer to all the members of a class in a least one premise.

undisturbed ▶ adjective not disturbed: a quiet weekend of undisturbed tranquillity | the tombs had lain undisturbed for 2,500 years.

undivided ▶ adjective not divided, separated, or broken into parts.
■concentrated on or devoted completely to one object: I can now give you my undivided attention.

undo ▶ verb (undoes; past undid; past participle undone) [with obj.] 1 unfasten, untie, or loosen (something): the knot was difficult to undo.
2 cancel or reverse the effects or results of (a previous action or measure): there wasn't any way Evelyn could undo the damage.
■cancel (the last command executed by a computer).
3 formal cause the downfall or ruin of: Iago's hatred of women undoes him.
▶ noun Computing a feature of a computer program that allows a user to cancel or reverse the last command executed.
– ORIGIN Old English undōn (see UN-[2], DO[1]).

undock ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 separate (a spacecraft) from another in space.
2 take (a ship) out of a dock.

undocumented ▶ adjective 1 not recorded in or proved by documents.
2 N. Amer. not having the appropriate legal document or licence: undocumented immigrants.

undoing ▶ noun [in sing.] a person's ruin or downfall: he knew of his ex-partner's role in his undoing.
■the cause of such ruin or downfall: that complacency was to be their undoing.

undomesticated ▶ adjective not domesticated: I never cook for him and I am totally undomesticated.

undone ▶ adjective 1 not tied or fastened: the top few buttons of his shirt were undone.
2 not done or finished: he had left his homework undone.
3 formal or humorous (of a person) ruined by a disastrous or devastating setback or reverse: I am undone!

undoubtable ▶ adjective rare not able to be doubted; indubitable.
– DERIVATIVES undoubtably adverb.

undoubted ▶ adjective not questioned or doubted by anyone: her undoubted ability.
– DERIVATIVES undoubtedly adverb.

UNDP ▶ abbreviation for United Nations Development Programme.

undrained ▶ adjective not emptied of water; not drained: undrained marshes.

undramatic ▶ adjective lacking the qualities expected in drama: an undramatic libretto.
■unexciting: research tends to be undramatic and unglamorous.

undraped ▶ adjective not covered with cloth or drapery.
■(especially of a model or subject in art) naked.

undrawn ▶ adjective 1 (of curtains) not drawn across the window; open.
2 (of money) not drawn from a bank account.

undreamed /ʌnˈdriːmd, -ˈdrɛmt/ (Brit. also undreamt /ʌnˈdrɛmt/) ▶ adjective (undreamed of) not thought to be possible (used to express pleasant surprise at the amount, extent, or level of something): she is now enjoying undreamed-of success.

undress ▶ verb [no obj.] take off one's clothes: she undressed and climbed into bed | I went into the bathroom to get undressed.
■[with obj.] take the clothes off (someone else).
▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the state of being naked or only partially clothed: women in various states of undress.
2 Military ordinary clothing or uniform, as opposed to that worn on ceremonial occasions. Compare with FULL DRESS.

undressed ▶ adjective 1 wearing no clothes; naked: he was undressed and ready for bed.
2 not treated, processed, or prepared for use: undressed deerskin | a rough, undressed stone slab.
3 (of food) not having a dressing: an undressed salad.

undrinkable ▶ adjective not fit to be drunk because of impurity or poor quality.

UNDRO ▶ abbreviation for United Nations Disaster Relief Office.

undue ▶ adjective unwarranted or inappropriate because excessive or disproportionate: this figure did not give rise to undue concern.
– DERIVATIVES unduly adverb.

undue influence ▶ noun [mass noun] Law influence by which a person is induced to act otherwise than by their own free will or without adequate attention to the consequences.

undulant /ˈʌndjʊl(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective having a rising and falling motion or appearance like that of waves; undulating.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin undulant- 'moving like a wave', from the verb undulare.

undulant fever ▶ noun [mass noun] brucellosis in humans.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: so named because of the intermittent fever associated with the disease.

undulate ▶ verb /ˈʌndjʊleɪt/ [no obj.] move with a smooth wave-like motion: her body undulated to the thumping rhythm of the music.
■[usu. as adj. undulating] have a wavy form or outline: delightful views over undulating countryside.
▶ adjective /ˈʌndjʊlət/ Botany & Zoology (especially of a leaf) having a wavy surface or edge.
– DERIVATIVES undulately adverb, undulation noun, undulatory adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from late Latin undulatus, from Latin unda 'a wave'.

undutiful ▶ adjective not respectful or obedient.
– DERIVATIVES undutifully adverb, undutifulness noun.

undy /ˈʌndi/ (also undee) ▶ adjective [usu. postpositive] Heraldry another term for WAVY.

undyed ▶ adjective (of fabric) not dyed; of its natural colour.

undying ▶ adjective (especially of an emotion) lasting forever: promises of undying love.
– DERIVATIVES undyingly adverb.

unearned ▶ adjective not earned or deserved: unearned privileges.
■Baseball (of a run) resulting from an error by the fielding side.

unearned income ▶ noun [mass noun] income from investments rather than from work.

unearned increment ▶ noun an increase in the value of land or property without labour or expenditure on the part of the owner.

unearth ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 find (something) in the ground by digging.
■discover (something hidden, lost, or kept secret) by investigation or searching: they have done all they can to unearth the truth.
2 drive (an animal, especially a fox) out of a hole or burrow.

unearthly ▶ adjective 1 unnatural or mysterious, especially in a disturbing way: unearthly quiet.
2 informal unreasonably early or inconvenient: a job which involves getting up at an unearthly hour.
– DERIVATIVES unearthliness noun.

unease ▶ noun [mass noun] anxiety or discontent: public unease about defence policy.

uneasy ▶ adjective (uneasier, uneasiest) causing or feeling anxiety; troubled or uncomfortable: she felt guilty now and a little uneasy | an uneasy silence.
– DERIVATIVES uneasily adverb, uneasiness noun.

uneatable ▶ adjective not fit to be eaten.

uneaten ▶ adjective not eaten: salad lying uneaten on the plate.

uneconomic ▶ adjective unprofitable: the closure of uneconomic pits.
■constituting an inefficient use of money or other resources: it may be uneconomic to repair some goods.

uneconomical ▶ adjective wasteful of money or other resources; not economical: the old buses eventually become uneconomical to run.
– DERIVATIVES uneconomically adverb.

unedifying ▶ adjective (especially of an event taking place in public) distasteful; unpleasant: the unedifying sight of the two leaders screeching conflicting proposals.
– DERIVATIVES unedifyingly adverb.

unedited ▶ adjective (of material for publication or broadcasting) not edited.

uneducated ▶ adjective having or showing a poor level or education.
– DERIVATIVES uneducable adjective.

unelectable ▶ adjective (of a candidate or party) very likely to be defeated at an election.

unelected ▶ adjective (of an official) not elected: unelected bureaucrats.

unembarrassed ▶ adjective not feeling or showing embarrassment.

unembellished ▶ adjective not embellished or decorated: the unembellished truth.

unemotional ▶ adjective not having or showing strong feelings: a flat, unemotional voice.
– DERIVATIVES unemotionally adverb.

unemphatic ▶ adjective (especially of tone or a gesture) not emphatic: an unemphatic 'yes'.
– DERIVATIVES unemphatically adverb.

unemployable ▶ adjective (of a person) not able or likely to get paid employment because of a lack of skills or qualifications.
▶ noun an unemployable person.
– DERIVATIVES unemployability noun.

unemployed ▶ adjective (of a person) without a paid job but available to work: I was unemployed for three months | [as plural noun the unemployed] a training programme for the long-term unemployed.

■(of a thing) not in use.

unemployment ▶ noun [mass noun] the state of being unemployed.
■the number or proportion of unemployed people: a time of high unemployment.

unemployment benefit ▶ noun [mass noun] payment made by the state or a trade union to an unemployed person.

unenclosed ▶ adjective (especially of land) not enclosed: the unenclosed uplands of Wales.

unencumbered ▶ adjective not having any burden or impediment: he needed to travel light and unencumbered.
■free of debt or other financial liability.

unending ▶ adjective having or seeming to have no end: the charity rescues children from unending poverty.
■countless or continual: unending demands.
– DERIVATIVES unendingly adverb, unendingness noun.

unendowed ▶ adjective not endowed, especially by donated funds.

unendurable ▶ adjective not able to be tolerated or endured: cries of unendurable suffering.
– DERIVATIVES unendurably adverb.

unenforceable ▶ adjective (especially of an obligation or law) impossible to enforce.

unengaged ▶ adjective not occupied or engaged.

un-English ▶ adjective not considered characteristic of English people or the English language.

unenjoyable ▶ adjective (of an activity or occasion) not giving pleasure.

unenlightened ▶ adjective not having or showing an enlightened outlook: unenlightened rules.
– DERIVATIVES unenlightening adjective, unenlightenment noun.

unentangle ▶ verb another term for DISENTANGLE.

unenterprising ▶ adjective not having or showing initiative or entrepreneurial ability.

unenthusiastic ▶ adjective not having or showing enthusiasm: an unenthusiastic response.
– DERIVATIVES unenthusiastically adverb.

unenviable ▶ adjective difficult, undesirable, or unpleasant: an unenviable reputation for drunkenness.
– DERIVATIVES unenviably adverb.

unenvied ▶ adjective not regarded with envy.

UNEP ▶ abbreviation for United Nations Environment Programme.

unequal ▶ adjective 1 not equal in quantity, size, or value: two rooms of unequal size | unequal odds.
■not fair, evenly balanced, or having equal advantage: the ownership of capital is unequal in this country.
2 [predic.] not having the ability or resources to meet a challenge: she felt unequal to the task before her.
▶ noun a person or thing considered to be different from another in status or level.
– DERIVATIVES unequally adverb.

unequalled (US unequaled) ▶ adjective superior to all others in performance or extent: a range of facilities unequalled in London | trout of unequalled quality.

unequipped ▶ adjective [predic.] not equipped with the necessary items or skills: kids unequipped to deal with the situation.

unequivocal ▶ adjective leaving no doubt; unambiguous: an unequivocal answer | he was unequivocal in condemning the violence.
– DERIVATIVES unequivocally adverb, unequivocalness noun.

unerring ▶ adjective always right or accurate: an unerring sense of direction.
– DERIVATIVES unerringly adverb, unerringness noun.

unescapable ▶ adjective unable to be avoided or denied.

UNESCO /juːˈnɛskəʊ/ (also Unesco) an agency of the United Nations set up in 1945 to promote the exchange of information, ideas, and culture.
– ORIGIN acronym from United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization.

unescorted ▶ adjective not escorted, especially for protection, security, or as a mark of rank.

unessential ▶ adjective & noun another term for INESSENTIAL.

unestablished ▶ adjective not established.
■not forming part of the permanent staff: an unestablished professor of anatomy.

unethical ▶ adjective not morally correct: it is unethical to torment any creature for entertainment.
– DERIVATIVES unethically adverb.

unevangelical ▶ adjective not evangelical.

uneven ▶ adjective not level or smooth: the floors are cracked and uneven.
■not regular, consistent, or equal: the uneven distribution of resources. ■(of a contest) not equally balanced: Fran struggled briefly but soon gave up the uneven match.
– DERIVATIVES unevenly adverb, unevenness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English unefen 'not corresponding exactly' (see UN-[1], EVEN[1]).

uneven bars ▶ plural noun North American term for ASYMMETRIC BARS.

uneventful ▶ adjective not marked by interesting or exciting events.
– DERIVATIVES uneventfully adverb, uneventfulness noun.

unexamined ▶ adjective not investigated or examined: widely held but largely unexamined preconceptions.

unexampled ▶ adjective formal having no precedent or parallel: a regime which brought such unexampled disaster on its people.

unexceptionable ▶ adjective not open to objection, but not particularly new or exciting: the unexceptionable belief that society should be governed by law.
– DERIVATIVES unexceptionableness noun, unexceptionably adverb.

USAGE There is a clear distinction in meaning between exceptionable ('open to objection') and exceptional ('out of the ordinary; very good'). However, this distinction has become blurred in the negative forms unexceptionable and unexceptional. Strictly speaking, unexceptionable means 'not open to objection', as in this view is unexceptionable in itself, while unexceptional means 'not out of the ordinary; usual', as in *the hotel was adequate but unexceptional. But, although the distinction may be clear in these two examples, the meaning of unexceptionable is often indeterminate between 'not open to objection' and 'ordinary', as in *the food was bland and unexceptionable or *the candidates were pretty unexceptionable.

unexceptional ▶ adjective not out of the ordinary; usual: an unexceptional movie.
– DERIVATIVES unexceptionally adverb.

unexcitable ▶ adjective (of a person) not easily excited.
– DERIVATIVES unexcitability noun.

unexciting ▶ adjective not exciting; dull.

unexecuted ▶ adjective not executed, carried out, or put into effect: unexecuted schemes for redeveloping the main buildings.

unexercised ▶ adjective not made use of or put into practice: the enemy left no manner of cruelty unexercised that day.
■(of a person) not taking exercise; unfit.

unexhausted ▶ adjective (especially of resources or reserves) not exhausted.

unexpected ▶ adjective not expected or regarded as likely to happen: his death was totally unexpected | [as noun the unexpected] he seemed to have a knack for saying the unexpected.
– DERIVATIVES unexpectedly adverb [as submodifier] an unexpectedly high price, unexpectedness noun.

unexpired ▶ adjective (of an agreement or period of time) not yet having come to an end: the unexpired portion of the lease.

unexplainable ▶ adjective unable to be explained or accounted for: unexplainable rages.
– DERIVATIVES unexplainably adverb.

unexplained ▶ adjective not described or made clear; unknown: the reason for her summons was as yet unexplained.
■not accounted for or attributable to an identified cause: cot death is still an unexplained phenomenon.

unexploded ▶ adjective (of a bomb or other explosive device) not having exploded.

unexploited ▶ adjective (of resources) not used to maximum benefit: unexploited reserves of natural gas.

unexplored ▶ adjective (of a country or area) not investigated or mapped.
■not evaluated or discussed in detail: the research focuses on an unexplored theme in European history.

unexposed ▶ adjective covered or protected; not vulnerable.
■[predic.] not introduced to or acquainted with something: a person unexposed to spiritualist traditions. ■[predic.] not made public; concealed: no secrets were left unexposed. ■(of photographic film) not subjected to light.

unexpressed ▶ adjective (of a thought or feeling) not communicated or made known: he thought it best to leave his doubts unexpressed.
■Genetics (of a gene) not appearing in a phenotype.

unexpurgated ▶ adjective (of a text) complete and containing all the original material; uncensored.

unfaceable ▶ adjective (of a situation or circumstance) not able to be confronted or dealt with.

unfading ▶ adjective not losing brightness, vitality, or strength.
– DERIVATIVES unfadingly adverb.

unfailing ▶ adjective without error or fault: his unfailing memory for names.
■reliable or constant: his mother had always been an unfailing source of reassurance.
– DERIVATIVES unfailingly adverb, unfailingness noun.

unfair ▶ adjective not based on or behaving according to the principles of equality and justice: at times like these the legal system appears inhuman and unfair.
■unkind, inconsiderate, or unreasonable: you're unfair to criticize like that, she's never done you any harm. ■not following the rules of a game or sport: he was sent off for unfair play.
– DERIVATIVES unfairly adverb, unfairness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English unfæger 'not beautiful' (see UN-[1], FAIR[1]).

unfaithful ▶ adjective not faithful, in particular:
■engaging in sexual relations with a person other than one's regular partner in contravention of a previous promise or understanding: you haven't been unfaithful to him, have you? | her unfaithful husband. ■disloyal, treacherous, or insincere: she felt that to sell the house would be unfaithful to her parent's memory.
– DERIVATIVES unfaithfully adverb, unfaithfulness noun.

unfaltering ▶ adjective not faltering; steady; resolute: her unfaltering energy and determination.
– DERIVATIVES unfalteringly adverb.

unfamiliar ▶ adjective not known or recognized: his voice was unfamiliar to her.
■unusual or uncharacteristic: the yellow taxicab was an unfamiliar sight on these roads. ■[predic.] (unfamiliar with) not having knowledge or experience of: the organization was set up to advise people who might be unfamiliar with legal procedures.
– DERIVATIVES unfamiliarity noun.

unfancied ▶ adjective (of a sports team or racehorse) not considered likely to win.

unfashionable ▶ adjective not fashionable or popular at a particular time: they lived in an unfashionable part of London.
– DERIVATIVES unfashionableness noun, unfashionably adverb.

unfashioned ▶ adjective chiefly poetic/literary not made into a specific shape; formless.

unfasten ▶ verb [with obj.] open the fastening of; undo (something): Allie stands before the mirror unfastening her earrings | [as adj. unfastened] he had left the door unfastened.
■[no obj.] become loose or undone.

unfathered ▶ adjective dated having no known or acknowledged father; illegitimate.
■chiefly poetic/literary of unknown or obscure origin: unfathered rumours.

unfatherly ▶ adjective not having or showing the affectionate or protective characteristics associated with a father.
– DERIVATIVES unfatherliness noun.

unfathomable ▶ adjective incapable of being fully explored or understood: her grey eyes were dark with some unfathomable emotion.
■(of water or a natural feature) impossible to measure the extent of.
– DERIVATIVES unfathomableness noun, unfathomably adverb.

unfathomed ▶ adjective not fully explored or understood.
■(of water) of unascertained depth.

unfavourable (US unfavorable) ▶ adjective 1 expressing or showing a lack of approval or support: single mothers are often the target of unfavourable press attention.
2 adverse; inauspicious: it would be unwise to sell the company while the economic circumstances are so unfavourable.
– DERIVATIVES unfavourableness noun, unfavourably adverb.

unfavourite (US unfavorite) ▶ adjective [attrib.] informal least favourite; most disliked.

unfazed ▶ adjective [predic.] informal not disconcerted or perturbed: the protestors were unfazed by the prospect of arrest.

unfeasible ▶ adjective inconvenient or impractical: childcare is expensive, making the return to work unfeasible for many women.
– DERIVATIVES unfeasibility noun, unfeasibly adverb.

unfed ▶ adjective not having been fed.

unfeeling ▶ adjective unsympathetic, harsh, or callous.
■lacking physical sensation or sensitivity.
– DERIVATIVES unfeelingly adverb, unfeelingness noun.
– ORIGIN late Old English unfēlende 'insensible' (see UN-[1], FEELING).

unfeigned ▶ adjective genuine; sincere: a broad smile of unfeigned delight.
– DERIVATIVES unfeignedly adverb.

unfelt ▶ adjective not felt or experienced.

unfeminine ▶ adjective not having or showing qualities traditionally associated with women.
– DERIVATIVES unfemininity noun.

unfenced ▶ adjective not provided with fences.

unfermented ▶ adjective not fermented.

unfertile ▶ adjective not fertile; infertile.

unfertilized (also -ised) ▶ adjective not fertilized: an unfertilized egg | unfertilized land.

unfetter ▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. unfettered] release from restraint or inhibition: his imagination is unfettered by the laws of logic.

unfilial ▶ adjective not having or showing the qualities associated with a son or daughter.
– DERIVATIVES unfilially adverb.

unfilled ▶ adjective not filled: there are a number of unfilled posts in this area of nursing.

unfiltered ▶ adjective 1 not filtered: unfiltered tap water.
2 (of a cigarette) not provided with a filter.

unfinished ▶ adjective not finished or concluded; incomplete: her last novel is unfinished.
■(of an object) not having been given an attractive surface appearance as the final stage of manufacture.

unfit ▶ adjective 1 [predic.] (of a thing) not of the necessary quality or standard to meet a particular purpose: the land is unfit for food crops.
■(of a person) not having the requisite qualities or skills to undertake something competently: she is unfit to have care and control of her children.
2 (of a person) not in good physical condition, typically as a result of failure to take regular exercise.
▶ verb (unfitted, unfitting) [with obj.] archaic make (something or someone) unsuitable; disqualify.
– DERIVATIVES unfitly adverb, unfitness noun.

unfitted ▶ adjective 1 [predic.] (of a person) not fitted or suited for a particular task or vocation: she was unfitted for marriage.
2 (of furniture) not fitted.

unfitting ▶ adjective not fitting or suitable; unbecoming: certain occupations were held unfitting for baptized believers.
– DERIVATIVES unfittingly adverb.

unfixed ▶ adjective not fixed, in particular:
■not fixed in a definite place or position; unfastened; loose: the green cloth cover had become unfixed in a dozen places. ■uncertain or variable: a being of unfixed gender.
– DERIVATIVES unfix verb.

unflagging ▶ adjective tireless; persistent: his apparently unflagging enthusiasm impressed her.
– DERIVATIVES unflaggingly adverb.

unflappable ▶ adjective informal having or showing calmness in a crisis.
– DERIVATIVES unflappability noun, unflappably adverb.

unflattering ▶ adjective not flattering: the reviews of the book were very unflattering | an unflattering portrait.
– DERIVATIVES unflatteringly adverb.

unflavoured (US unflavored) ▶ adjective (of food or drink) not containing additional flavourings.

unfledged ▶ adjective (of a bird) not yet fledged.
■figurative (of a person) inexperienced; youthful.

unfleshed ▶ adjective chiefly poetic/literary not covered with flesh.

unflinching ▶ adjective not showing fear or hesitation in the face of danger or difficulty: he has shown unflinching determination throughout the campaign.
– DERIVATIVES unflinchingly adverb.

unfocused (also unfocussed) ▶ adjective (of a person or their eyes) not seeing clearly; appearing glazed or expressionless.
■(of an optical device) not adjusted to focus. ■(of a lens) not making incident light rays meet at a single point. ■(of an object of vision) not in focus; indistinct. ■(of feelings or plans) without a specific aim or direction: my aspirations to write history were real but unfocused.

unfold ▶ verb open or spread out from a folded position: [with obj.] he unfolded the map and laid it out on the table | [no obj.] a Chinese paper flower that unfolds in water.
■[with obj.] reveal or disclose (thoughts or information): Miss Eva unfolded her secret exploits to Mattie. ■[no obj.] (of information or a sequence of events) be revealed or disclosed: there was a fascinating scene unfolding before me.
– DERIVATIVES unfoldment noun US.
– ORIGIN Old English unfealdan (see UN-[2], FOLD[1]).

unforced ▶ adjective not produced by effort; natural: an unforced cheerfulness.
■not compelled or constrained: his retirement was an unforced departure.
– DERIVATIVES unforcedly adverb.

unforeseeable ▶ adjective not able to be anticipated or predicted: too many unforeseeable political consequences could arise from such a decision.

unforeseen ▶ adjective not anticipated or predicted.

unforetold ▶ adjective poetic/literary not foretold; unpredicted.

unforgettable ▶ adjective impossible to forget; very memorable: that unforgettable first kiss.
– DERIVATIVES unforgettably adverb.

unforgivable ▶ adjective so bad as to be unable to be forgiven or excused: losing your temper with him was unforgivable.
– DERIVATIVES unforgivably adverb.

unforgiven ▶ adjective not forgiven: the catalogue of unforgiven wrongs simply grows and grows.

unforgiving ▶ adjective not willing to forgive or excuse people's faults or wrongdoings: he was always a proud and unforgiving man.
■(of conditions) harsh; hostile: the moor can be a wild and unforgiving place in bad weather.
– DERIVATIVES unforgivingly adverb, unforgivingness noun.

unforgotten ▶ adjective not forgotten.

unformed ▶ adjective without a definite form or shape: she packed the unformed butter into the mould.
■not having developed or been developed fully: he had an ambitious, albeit unformed, idea for a novel | unformed youths.

unformulated ▶ adjective not formulated: the unformulated rules of society.

unforthcoming ▶ adjective [predic.] 1 (of a person) not willing to divulge information: the sergeant seemed unforthcoming, so he enquired at the gate.
2 (of something required) not ready or made available when wanted or needed: with money unforthcoming from the company, the project has had to be delayed.

unfortified ▶ adjective not fortified: there seems to have been an unfortified village on the site | unfortified wines.

unfortunate ▶ adjective having or marked by bad fortune; unlucky: the unfortunate Cunningham was sacked.
■(of a circumstance) unfavourable or inauspicious: the delay at the airport was an unfortunate start to our holiday. ■regrettable or inappropriate: his unfortunate remark silenced the gathering.
▶ noun (often unfortunates) a person who suffers bad fortune.
■archaic a person who is considered immoral or lacking in religious faith or instruction, especially a prostitute.

unfortunately ▶ adverb [sentence adverb] it is unfortunate that: unfortunately, we do not have the time to interview every applicant.

unfounded ▶ adjective having no foundation or basis in fact: her persistent fear that she had cancer was unfounded.
– DERIVATIVES unfoundedly adverb, unfoundedness noun.

UNFPA ▶ abbreviation for United Nations Fund for Population Activities.

unframed ▶ adjective (especially of a picture) not having a frame.

unfree ▶ adjective deprived or devoid of liberty.
– DERIVATIVES unfreedom noun.

unfreeze ▶ verb (past unfroze; past participle unfrozen) [with obj.] cause (something) to thaw.
■[no obj.] become thawed. ■remove restrictions on the use or transfer of (an asset).

unfrequented ▶ adjective (of a place) visited only rarely: a region with only a few unfrequented tracks.

unfriended ▶ adjective poetic/literary without friends: murder left innocent people bereft and unfriended.

unfriendly ▶ adjective (unfriendlier, unfriendliest) not friendly: she shot him an unfriendly glance.
– DERIVATIVES unfriendliness noun.

unfrock ▶ verb another term for DEFROCK.

unfroze past of UNFREEZE.

unfrozen[1] past participle of UNFREEZE.

unfrozen[2] ▶ adjective not or no longer frozen: larvae remain unfrozen under the ice.

unfruitful ▶ adjective 1 not producing good or helpful results; unproductive: the meeting was unfruitful.
2 not producing fruit or crops; unfertile.
– DERIVATIVES unfruitfully adverb, unfruitfulness noun.

unfulfilled ▶ adjective not carried out or brought to completion: it was his unfulfilled ambition to write.
■not having fully utilized or exploited one's abilities or character.
– DERIVATIVES unfulfillable adjective, unfulfilling adjective.

unfunded ▶ adjective not funded, in particular:
■not receiving public funds: a new education bill remained unfunded. ■(of a debt) repayable on demand rather than having been converted into a more or less permanent debt at fixed interest. ■denoting or relating to a pension scheme without a pension fund, the current beneficiaries being paid by a former employer from revenue or contributions by present employees.

unfunny ▶ adjective (unfunnier, unfunniest) (especially of something intended to be funny) not amusing: a hideously unfunny spoof film.
– DERIVATIVES unfunnily adverb, unfunniness noun.

unfurl ▶ verb make or become spread out from a rolled or folded state, especially in order to be open to the wind: [with obj.] a man was unfurling a sail | [no obj.] the flags unfurl.

unfurnished ▶ adjective 1 (of a house or flat) without furniture, especially available to be rented without furniture: an unfurnished apartment.
2 archaic not supplied: he is unfurnished with the ideas of justice.

unfussy ▶ adjective not fussy: a simple unfussy design.
– DERIVATIVES unfussily adverb.

ungainly ▶ adjective (of a person or movement) awkward; clumsy: an ungainly walk.
– DERIVATIVES ungainliness noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from UN-[1] 'not' + obsolete gainly 'graceful', based on Old Norse gegn 'straight'.

ungainsayable /ˌʌngeɪnˈseɪəb(ə)l/ ▶ adjective formal undeniable; irrefutable.

ungallant ▶ adjective not gallant.
– DERIVATIVES ungallantly adverb.

ungeared ▶ adjective 1 (of a vehicle) not having gears or gearing.

2 (of a company or its balance sheet) having or showing no debt.

ungenerous ▶ adjective not generous; mean.
– DERIVATIVES ungenerously adverb, ungenerousness noun.

ungenial ▶ adjective not genial.

ungentle ▶ adjective not gentle: an ungentle grip.
– DERIVATIVES ungentleness noun, ungently adverb.

ungentlemanly ▶ adjective not appropriate to or behaving like a gentleman: an ungentlemanly lack of sportsmanship.
– DERIVATIVES ungentlemanliness noun.

unget-at-able ▶ adjective informal inaccessible.

ungifted ▶ adjective not having any exceptional talents.

ungird ▶ verb [with obj.] archaic release or take off by undoing a belt or girth.

ungiving ▶ adjective (of a person) cold or stubborn in relationships with other people.
■(of a material) not bending or pliable; stiff.

unglamorous ▶ adjective lacking glamour and excitement: an unglamorous family car.

unglazed ▶ adjective not glazed: unglazed porcelain.

ungloved ▶ adjective not wearing a glove or gloves.

unglued ▶ adjective not or no longer stuck: grease particles come unglued from the plate.
■informal (of a person or state of mind) confused and emotionally strained: it had been a long day, and tempers were becoming unglued.

ungodly ▶ adjective irreligious or immoral: ungodly lives of self-obsession, lust, and pleasure.
■informal unreasonably early or inconvenient: I've been troubled by telephone calls at ungodly hours.
– DERIVATIVES ungodliness noun.

ungovernable ▶ adjective impossible to control or govern.
– DERIVATIVES ungovernability noun, ungovernably adverb.

ungraceful ▶ adjective lacking grace; clumsy.
– DERIVATIVES ungracefully adverb, ungracefulness noun.

ungracious ▶ adjective 1 not polite or friendly: after Anna's kindness I wouldn't want to seem ungracious.
2 not graceful or elegant.
– DERIVATIVES ungraciously adverb, ungraciousness noun.

ungrammatical ▶ adjective not conforming to grammatical rules; not well formed: ungrammatical sentences.
– DERIVATIVES ungrammaticality noun (pl. -ies), ungrammatically adverb, ungrammaticalness noun.

ungraspable ▶ adjective impossible to comprehend or understand.

ungrateful ▶ adjective not feeling or showing gratitude: she's so ungrateful for everything we do.
– DERIVATIVES ungratefully adverb, ungratefulness noun.

ungreen ▶ adjective (of a product or practice) harmful to the environment; not ecologically acceptable: an ungreen commercial development.
■(of a person or organization) not supporting protection of the environment.
– DERIVATIVES ungreenly adverb.

ungrounded ▶ adjective 1 having no basis or justification; unfounded: ungrounded fears.
2 not electrically earthed.
3 [predic.] (ungrounded in) not properly instructed or proficient in (a subject or activity).

ungroup ▶ verb [with obj.] Computing separate (items) from a group formed within a word-processing or graphics package.

ungrudging ▶ adjective not grudging: he showed her ungrudging courtesy and kindness.
– DERIVATIVES ungrudgingly adverb.

ungual /'ʌŋgw(ə)l/ ▶ adjective Zoology & Medicine of, relating to, or affecting a nail, hoof, or claw.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin unguis 'nail' + -AL.

unguard ▶ verb [with obj.] (in bridge and whist) expose (a high card) to a risk of defeat by discarding low cards in the same suit.

unguarded ▶ adjective without protection or a guard: the museum was unguarded at night.
■not well considered; careless: an unguarded remark.
– DERIVATIVES unguardedly adverb, unguardedness noun.

unguent /'ʌŋgwənt/ ▶ noun a soft greasy or viscous substance used as ointment or for lubrication.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin unguentum, from unguere 'anoint'.

unguessable ▶ adjective impossible to guess or imagine: a manor of an unguessable antiquity.

unguiculate /ʌŋ'gwɪkjʊlət/ ▶ adjective Zoology having one or more nails or claws.
■Botany (of a petal) having a narrow stalk-like base.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from modern Latin unguiculatus, from Latin unguiculus 'fingernail, toenail', diminutive of unguis 'nail'.

unguided ▶ adjective not guided in a particular path or direction; left to take its own course.
■(of a missile) not directed by remote control or internal equipment.

unguis /'ʌŋgwɪs/ ▶ noun (pl. ungues /-wi:z/) Zoology a nail, claw, or fang.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin.

ungulate /'ʌŋgjʊlət, -leɪt/ ▶ noun Zoology a hoofed mammal.
● Former order Ungulata, now divided into two unrelated orders (see ARTIODACTYLA and PERISSODACTYLA).
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from late Latin ungulatus, from Latin ungula 'hoof'.

unguled /'ʌŋgju:ld/ ▶ adjective Heraldry (of an animal) having hoofs of a specified different tincture.

unhallowed ▶ adjective not formally consecrated: unhallowed ground.
■unholy; wicked: unhallowed retribution.

unhampered ▶ adjective not impeded or encumbered: a press unhampered by government censorship.

unhand ▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. in imperative] archaic or humorous release (someone) from one's grasp: 'Unhand me, sir!' she cried.

unhandled ▶ adjective not handled, in particular (of an animal) not tamed.

unhandsome ▶ adjective [often with negative] not handsome: Bobby was not unhandsome in his uniform.

unhandy ▶ adjective 1 not easy to handle or manage; awkward.
2 not skilful in using the hands.
– DERIVATIVES unhandily adverb, unhandiness noun.

unhang ▶ verb (past and past participle unhung) rare [with obj.] take down from a hanging position.

unhappen ▶ verb [no obj.] (of an occurrence) become as though never having happened; be reversed: things had happened that could never unhappen.

unhappily ▶ adverb in an unhappy manner.
■[sentence adverb] unfortunately: unhappily, such days do not come too often.

unhappy ▶ adjective (unhappier, unhappiest) not happy: an unhappy marriage.
■[predic.] (unhappy at/about/with) not satisfied or pleased with (a situation): many were unhappy about the scale of the cuts. ■unfortunate: an unhappy coincidence.
– DERIVATIVES unhappiness noun.

unharmed ▶ adjective [often as complement] not harmed; uninjured: all the hostages were released unharmed.

unharmful ▶ adjective not harmful.

unharmonious ▶ adjective not harmonious.

unharness ▶ verb [with obj.] remove a harness from (a horse or other animal).

unhasp ▶ verb [with obj.] archaic unfasten.

unhatched ▶ adjective (of an egg or young bird) not yet hatched.

UNHCR an agency of the United Nations set up in 1951 to aid, protect, and monitor refugees.
– ORIGIN abbreviation of United Nations High Commission for Refugees.

unhealed ▶ adjective not yet healed.

unhealthful ▶ adjective harmful to health.
– DERIVATIVES unhealthfulness noun.

unhealthy ▶ adjective (unhealthier, unhealthiest) harmful to health: an unhealthy diet.
■not having or showing good health: his skin looked pale and unhealthy. ■(of a person's attitude or behaviour) not sensible or well balanced; abnormal and harmful: an unhealthy obsession with fast cars.
– DERIVATIVES unhealthily adverb, unhealthiness noun.

unheard ▶ adjective not heard or listened to: my protests went unheard.
■(unheard of) not previously known of or done: sales tax was unheard of in Kansas up until 1937 | wines from unheard-of villages.

unheated ▶ adjective not heated.

unhedged ▶ adjective 1 not bounded by a hedge.
2 (of an investment or investor) not protected against loss by balancing or compensating contracts or transactions.

unheeded ▶ adjective heard or noticed but disregarded: my protest went unheeded.

unheedful ▶ adjective [predic.] not noticing or paying attention: I charged down the stairs, unheedful of the missing bannister.

unheeding ▶ adjective not paying attention: Mary, unheeding, watched the television.
– DERIVATIVES unheedingly adverb.

unheimlich /ʊn'haɪmlɪx/ ▶ adjective uncanny; weird.
– ORIGIN German.

unhelpful ▶ adjective not helpful: several complained that the staff were unhelpful.
– DERIVATIVES unhelpfully adverb, unhelpfulness noun.

unheralded ▶ adjective not previously announced, expected, or recognized.

unheroic ▶ adjective not heroic: an unheroic death.
– DERIVATIVES unheroically adverb.

unhesitating ▶ adjective without doubt or hesitation; immediate: war merits unequivocal and unhesitating condemnation.
– DERIVATIVES unhesitatingly adverb.

unhindered ▶ adjective not hindered or obstructed.

unhinge ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 [usu. as adj. unhinged] make (someone) mentally unbalanced: I thought she must be unhinged by grief.
■deprive of stability or fixity; throw into disorder.
2 take (a door) off its hinges.

unhistoric ▶ adjective not historic or historical.

unhistorical ▶ adjective not in accordance with history or with historical analysis.
– DERIVATIVES unhistorically adverb.

unhitch ▶ verb [with obj.] unhook or unfasten (something tethered to or caught on something else).

unholy ▶ adjective (unholier, unholiest) sinful; wicked.
■denoting an alliance with potentially harmful implications between two or more parties that are not natural allies. ■informal awful; dreadful (used for emphasis): she was making an unholy racket.
– DERIVATIVES unholiness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English unhālig (see UN-[1], HOLY).

unhonoured ▶ adjective not given public praise or respect.

unhood ▶ verb [with obj.] remove the hood from (a falcon, horse, or someone held captive).

unhook ▶ verb [with obj.] unfasten or detach (something that is held or caught by a hook).

unhoped ▶ adjective (unhoped for) exceeding hope or expectation: an unhoped-for piece of good luck.

unhorse ▶ verb [with obj.] drag or cause to fall from a horse.

unhoused ▶ adjective having no accommodation or shelter: the poor remain unhoused.

unhouseled /ʌn'haʊz(ə)ld/ ▶ adjective archaic (of a person) not having received the Eucharist.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from UN-[1] 'not' + the past participle of obsolete housel 'offer the Eucharist to', from housel 'Eucharist'.

unhuman ▶ adjective not resembling or having the qualities of a human being.

unhung[1] ▶ adjective (especially of a picture) not hanging or hung.

unhung[2] past and past participle of UNHANG.

unhurried ▶ adjective moving, acting, or taking place without haste or urgency.
– DERIVATIVES unhurriedly adverb.

unhurt ▶ adjective [predic.] not hurt or harmed.

unhusk ▶ verb [with obj.] remove a husk or shell from (a seed or fruit): [as adj. unhusked] unhusked rice.

unhygienic ▶ adjective not clean or sanitary: damp, unhygienic accommodation.

– DERIVATIVES unhygienically adverb.

unhyphenated ▶ adjective (of a word or phrase) not written with a hyphen.

uni ▶ noun (pl. unis) informal university.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: abbreviation.

uni- ▶ combining form one; having or consisting of one: unicellular | unicycle.
– ORIGIN from Latin unus 'one'.

Uniate /'ju:nɪeɪt/ (also Uniat) ▶ adjective denoting or relating to any community of Christians in eastern Europe or the Near East that acknowledges papal supremacy but retains its own liturgy.
▶ noun a member of such a community.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Russian uniat, from uniya, from Latin unio (see UNION).

uniaxial /ˌju:nɪ'aksɪəl/ ▶ adjective having or relating to a single axis.
■(of crystals) having one optic axis, as in the hexagonal, trigonal, and tetragonal systems.

unibody ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a single moulded unit forming both the bodywork and chassis of a vehicle.

unicameral /ˌju:nɪ'kam(ə)r(ə)l/ ▶ adjective (of a legislative body) having a single legislative chamber.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from UNI- 'one' + Latin camera 'chamber' + -AL.

UNICEF /'ju:nɪsɛf/ an agency of the United Nations established in 1946 to help governments (especially in developing countries) improve the health and education of children and their mothers.
– ORIGIN acronym from United Nations Children's (originally International Children's Emergency) Fund.

unicellular ▶ adjective Biology (of protozoans, certain algae, spores, etc.) consisting of a single cell.
■(of an evolutionary or developmental stage) characterized by the formation or presence of a single cell or cells.

unicity /ju:'nɪsɪti/ ▶ noun [mass noun] rare the fact of being or consisting of one, or of being united as a whole.
■the fact or quality of being unique.

unicolour (also unicoloured) (US -color or -colored) ▶ adjective of one colour.

unicom ▶ noun a radio communications system of a type used at small airports.

unicorn ▶ noun 1 a mythical animal typically represented as a horse with a single straight horn projecting from its forehead.
■a heraldic representation of such an animal, with a twisted horn, a deer's feet, a goat's beard, and a lion's tail.
2 historical a carriage drawn by three horses, two abreast and one leader.
■a team of three horses arranged in such a way.
– ORIGIN Middle English: via Old French from Latin unicornis, from uni- 'single' + cornu 'horn', translating Greek monokerōs.

unicorn fish ▶ noun any of a number of fishes with a horn-like projection on the head:
• an Indo-Pacific surgeonfish (genus Naso, family Acanthuridae). • a crestfish with a dorsal fin that extends forward from the head (Lophotes fiskii, family Lophotidae).

unicorn root ▶ noun [mass noun] US any of a number of plants in the lily family, especially those with roots having medicinal uses, in particular:
• the blazing star (Chamaelirium luteum). • colic root.

unicum /'ju:nɪkəm/ ▶ noun (pl. unica) rare a unique example or specimen.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin, neuter of unicus 'unique'.

unicursal /ˌju:nɪ'kə:s(ə)l/ ▶ adjective Mathematics relating to or denoting a curve or surface which is closed and can be drawn or swept out in a single movement.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from UNI- 'one' + Latin cursus 'course' + -AL.

unicuspid ▶ adjective having one cusp or point.
▶ noun a tooth with a single cusp, especially a canine tooth.

unicycle ▶ noun a cycle with a single wheel, typically used by acrobats.
– DERIVATIVES unicyclist noun.

unidea'd ▶ adjective archaic having no ideas.

unideal ▶ adjective not satisfying one's perception of what is perfect: we have all had unideal parents.

unidentifiable ▶ adjective unable to be identified: an unidentifiable accent.

unidentified ▶ adjective not recognized or identified: a picture of an unidentified motorcyclist.

unidimensional ▶ adjective having one dimension: a unidimensional model.

unidiomatic ▶ adjective not using or containing expressions natural to a native speaker of a language.

unidirectional ▶ adjective moving or operating in a single direction.
– DERIVATIVES unidirectionality noun, unidirectionally adverb.

UNIDO /ju:'ni:dəʊ/ ▶ abbreviation for United Nations Industrial Development Organization.

uniface ▶ adjective (of a coin or medallion) having one side blank or unfinished.

unification ▶ noun [mass noun] the process of being united or made into a whole.
– DERIVATIVES unificatory adjective.

Unification Church an evangelistic religious and political organization founded in 1954 in Korea by Sun Myung Moon. Also called HOLY SPIRIT ASSOCIATION FOR THE UNIFICATION OF WORLD CHRISTIANITY.

unified field theory ▶ noun Physics a theory that describes two or more of the four interactions (electromagnetic, gravitational, weak, and strong) previously described by separate theories.

uniflow ▶ adjective [attrib.] involving flow in one direction (used especially with reference to the flow of steam or gases through the cylinder in a steam or internal-combustion engine): a uniflow engine.

uniform ▶ adjective 1 not changing in form or character; remaining the same in all cases and at all times: blocks of stone of uniform size.
■of a similar form or character to another or others: a uniform package of amenities at a choice of hotels.
2 denoting a garment forming part of a person's uniform: black uniform jackets.
▶ noun 1 the distinctive clothing worn by members of the same organization or body or by children attending certain schools: airline pilots in dark blue uniforms | [mass noun] an officer in uniform.
■informal, chiefly N. Amer. a police officer wearing a uniform: uniforms were already on the scene.
2 a code word representing the letter U, used in radio communication.
▶ verb [with obj.] make uniform.
– DERIVATIVES uniformly adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (as an adjective): from French uniforme or Latin uniformis (see UNI-, FORM). Sense 1 of the noun dates from the mid 18th cent.

uniformed ▶ adjective (of a person) wearing a uniform: uniformed police officers.

uniformitarianism ▶ noun [mass noun] Geology the theory that changes in the earth's crust during geological history have resulted from the action of continuous and uniform processes. Often contrasted with CATASTROPHISM.
– DERIVATIVES uniformitarian adjective & noun.

uniformity ▶ noun (pl. -ies) [mass noun] the quality or state of being uniform: an attempt to impose administrative and cultural uniformity.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French uniformite or late Latin uniformitas, from Latin uniformis (see UNIFORM).

Uniformity, Act of (in British history) any of four acts (especially that of 1662) establishing the foundations of the English Protestant Church and securing uniformity in public worship and use of a particular Book of Common Prayer.

unify /'ju:nɪfʌɪ/ ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) make or become united, uniform, or whole: [with obj.] the government hoped to centralize and unify the nation | [no obj.] opposition groups struggling to unify around the goal of replacing the regime | [as adj. unified] a unified system of national education.
– DERIVATIVES unifier noun.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from French unifier or late Latin unificare 'make into a whole'.

unijunction ▶ noun Electronics a negative resistance device consisting of a rectifying p–n junction in the middle of a length of semiconducting material that has an ohmic contact at each end, used as a switching element.

unilateral ▶ adjective 1 (of an action or decision) performed by or affecting only one person, group, or country involved in a particular situation, without the agreement of another or the others: unilateral nuclear disarmament.
2 relating to, occurring on, or affecting only one side of an organ or structure, or of the body.
– DERIVATIVES unilaterally adverb.

Unilateral Declaration of Independence (abbrev.: UDI) the declaration of independence from the United Kingdom made by Rhodesia under Ian Smith in 1965. See ZIMBABWE.

unilateralism ▶ noun [mass noun] the process of acting, reaching a decision, or espousing a principle unilaterally.
– DERIVATIVES unilateralist noun & adjective.

unilingual ▶ adjective conducted in, concerned with, or speaking only one language.
– DERIVATIVES unilingually adverb.

unilluminated ▶ adjective not illuminated.

unillustrated ▶ adjective having no illustrations.

unilocular /ˌju:nɪ'lɒkjʊlə/ ▶ adjective Botany & Zoology having, consisting of, or characterized by only one loculus or cavity; single-chambered.

unimaginable ▶ adjective difficult or impossible to imagine or comprehend: lives of almost unimaginable deprivation.
– DERIVATIVES unimaginably adverb.

unimaginative ▶ adjective not readily using or demonstrating the use of the imagination; stolid and somewhat dull.
– DERIVATIVES unimaginatively adverb, unimaginativeness noun.

unimodal ▶ adjective having or involving one mode.
■(of a statistical distribution) having one maximum.

unimodular ▶ adjective Mathematics having a determinant of ±1.

unimolecular ▶ adjective Chemistry consisting of or involving a single molecule.

unimpaired ▶ adjective not weakened or damaged: unimpaired mobility.

unimpassioned ▶ adjective having or showing no emotion or intensity: a flat, unimpassioned voice.

unimpeachable ▶ adjective not able to be doubted, questioned, or criticized; entirely trustworthy: an unimpeachable witness.
– DERIVATIVES unimpeachably adverb.

unimpeded ▶ adjective not obstructed or hindered: an unimpeded view across the headland.
– DERIVATIVES unimpededly adverb.

unimportance ▶ noun [mass noun] the state or fact of lacking in importance or significance: the relative unimportance of wider kin ties in British culture.

unimportant ▶ adjective lacking in importance or significance: trivial and unimportant details.

unimposing ▶ adjective not imposing or grandly impressive.
– DERIVATIVES unimposingly adverb.

unimpressed ▶ adjective feeling no admiration, interest, or respect.

unimpressionable ▶ adjective (of a person) not easily moved or influenced.

unimpressive ▶ adjective evoking no admiration or respect; not striking.
– DERIVATIVES unimpressively adverb, unimpressiveness noun.

unimproved ▶ adjective not made better.
■(of land) not cleared or cultivated.

unincorporated ▶ adjective 1 (of a company or other organization) not formed into a legal corporation: an unincorporated business.
2 not included as part of a whole.
■N. Amer. (of territory) not designated as belonging to a particular country, town, or area.

uninfected ▶ adjective not harbouring a disease-causing organism.
■Computing not affected with a virus.

uninflamed ▶ adjective (of a part of the body) not affected by inflammation: an uninflamed appendix.

uninflected ▶ adjective 1 Grammar (of a word or a language) not undergoing changes to express particular grammatical functions or attributes: English is largely uninflected.
2 not varying in intonation or pitch: her voice was flat and uninflected.

uninfluenced ▶ adjective [predic.] not influenced or affected: styles of dress relatively uninfluenced by popular fashion.

uninfluential ▶ adjective having little or no influence.

uninformative ▶ adjective not providing particularly useful or interesting information.

uninformed ▶ adjective not having or showing awareness or understanding of the facts: uninformed criticism of conservation projects.

uninhabitable ▶ adjective (of a place) unsuitable for living in.

uninhabited ▶ adjective (of a place) without inhabitants: small uninhabited islands.

uninhibited ▶ adjective expressing one's feelings or thoughts unselfconsciously and without restraint: fits of uninhibited laughter.
– DERIVATIVES uninhibitedly adverb, uninhibitedness noun.

uninitiated ▶ adjective without special knowledge or experience: [as plural noun the uninitiated] the discussion wasn't easy to follow for the uninitiated.

uninjured ▶ adjective (of a person or part of the body) not harmed or damaged.

uninspired ▶ adjective 1 lacking in imagination or originality: he writes repetitive and uninspired poetry.
2 (of a person) not filled with excitement: they were uninspired by the Nationalist Party.

uninspiring ▶ adjective not producing excitement or interest: an uninspiring game that United scarcely deserved to win.
– DERIVATIVES uninspiringly adverb.

uninstructed ▶ adjective (of a person) not taught or having learned a subject or skill.
■(of behaviour) not acquired by teaching; natural or spontaneous: her own instinctive, uninstructed response.

uninsulated ▶ adjective not insulated.

uninsurable ▶ adjective not eligible for insurance cover: some risky activities are uninsurable at any price.

uninsured ▶ adjective not covered by insurance: an uninsured driver.

unintelligent ▶ adjective having or showing a low level of intelligence: a good-natured but unintelligent boy.
– DERIVATIVES unintelligence noun, unintelligently adverb.

unintelligible ▶ adjective impossible to understand: dolphin sounds are unintelligible to humans.
– DERIVATIVES unintelligibility noun, unintelligibly adverb.

unintended ▶ adjective not planned or meant: the unintended consequences of people's actions.

unintentional ▶ adjective not done on purpose: the translation added a layer of unintentional comedy.
– DERIVATIVES unintentionally adverb.

uninterested ▶ adjective not interested in or concerned about something or someone: I was totally uninterested in boys | an uninterested voice.
– DERIVATIVES uninterestedly adverb, uninterestedness noun.

USAGE On the meaning and use of uninterested and disinterested, see usage at DISINTERESTED.

uninteresting ▶ adjective not arousing curiosity or interest: the scenery is dull and uninteresting.
– DERIVATIVES uninterestingly adverb, uninterestingness noun.

uninterpretable ▶ adjective impossible to explain or understand in terms of meaning or significance.

uninterrupted ▶ adjective without a break in continuity: an uninterrupted flow of traffic.
■(of a view) unobstructed.
– DERIVATIVES uninterruptedly adverb.

uninterruptible ▶ adjective not able to be broken in continuity: an uninterruptible power supply.

uninventive ▶ adjective not showing creativity or original thought: the oils were sensitively painted but uninventive in design.
– DERIVATIVES uninventively adverb, uninventiveness noun.

uninvestigated ▶ adjective not systematically investigated: uninvestigated deaths in custody.

uninvited ▶ adjective (of a person) attending somewhere or doing something without having been asked: their privacy was disrupted by a series of uninvited guests.
■(of a thought or act) involuntary, unwelcome, or unwarranted: strange uninvited thoughts crossed her mind.
– DERIVATIVES uninvitedly adverb.

uninviting ▶ adjective (especially of a place or prospect) not attractive: the house was dark and uninviting.
– DERIVATIVES uninvitingly adverb.

uninvoked ▶ adjective (of a god, spirit, or power) not invoked or called on in prayer.

uninvolved ▶ adjective not connected or concerned with someone or something, especially on an emotional level.

union ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] the action or fact of joining together or being joined together, especially in a political context: he was opposed to closer political or economic union with Europe | [count noun] a currency union between the two countries.
■a state of harmony or agreement: they live in perfect union. ■ [count noun] a marriage: their union had not been blessed with children. ■ (the Union) historical the uniting of the English and Scottish crowns in 1603, of the English and Scottish parliaments in 1707, or of the parliaments of Great Britain and Ireland in 1801.
2 an organized association of workers formed to protect and further their rights and interests; a trade union: the National Farmers' Union.
■a club, society, or association formed by people with a common interest or purpose: members of the Students' Union. ■ short for RUGBY UNION. ■ Brit. historical a number of parishes consolidated for the purposes of administering the Poor Laws. ■ (also union workhouse or house) a workhouse set up by such a group of parishes. ■ Brit. an association of independent Churches, especially Congregational or Baptist, for purposes of cooperation. ■ (in the Indian subcontinent) a local administrative unit comprising several rural villages.
3 (also Union) a political unit consisting of a number of states or provinces with the same central government, in particular:
■the United States, especially from its founding by the original thirteen states in 1787–90 to the secession of the Confederate states in 1860–1. ■ the United Kingdom. ■ South Africa. ■ (also the Federal Union) the northern states of the United States which opposed the seceding Confederate states in the American Civil War.
4 Mathematics the set that comprises all the elements (and no others) contained in any of two or more given sets.
■[mass noun] the operation of forming such a set.
5 a joint or coupling for pipes.
6 a part of a flag with an emblem symbolizing national union, typically occupying the upper corner next to the staff.
7 [mass noun] a fabric made of two or more different yarns, typically cotton and linen or silk.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, or from ecclesiastical Latin unio(n-) 'unity', from Latin unus 'one'.

Union, Act of (in British history) either of the parliamentary acts by which the countries of the United Kingdom were brought together as a political whole. By the first Act of Union (1707) Scotland was joined with England to form Great Britain. The second Act of Union (1801) established the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. Wales had been incorporated with England in 1536.

union-bashing ▶ noun [mass noun] informal active or vocal opposition to trade unions and their rights.

union catalogue ▶ noun a list of the combined holdings of several libraries.

Union flag ▶ noun another term for UNION JACK (in sense 1).

union house ▶ noun see UNION (sense 2).

unionist ▶ noun 1 a member of a trade union.
■an advocate or supporter of trade unions.
2 (Unionist) a person in Northern Ireland, especially a member of a political party, supporting or advocating union with Great Britain.
■historical a member of a British political party formed in 1886 which supported maintenance of the parliamentary union between Great Britain and Ireland. ■ a person who opposed secession during the American Civil War of 1861–5.
– DERIVATIVES unionism noun, unionistic adjective.

unionize (also -ise) ▶ verb become or cause to become members of a trade union.
– DERIVATIVES unionization noun.

unionized (also -ised) ▶ adjective (of workers or their workplace) belonging to, or having workers belonging to, a trade union: unionized factories.

Union Jack ▶ noun 1 the national flag of the United Kingdom, consisting of red and white crosses on a blue background and formed by combining the flags of St George, St Andrew, and St Patrick. Also called UNION FLAG. [ORIGIN: originally a small British union flag flown as the jack of a ship.]
2 (union jack) (in the US) a small flag consisting of the union from the national flag, flown at the bows of vessels in harbour.

Union of Myanmar official name for BURMA.

Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (abbrev.: USSR) full name of SOVIET UNION.

union shop ▶ noun a place of work where all employees must belong to a trade union or join one within an agreed time. Compare with CLOSED SHOP.

union suit ▶ noun N. Amer. dated a single undergarment covering the body and legs, worn by men and boys.

Union Territory any of several territories of India which are administered by the central government.

union workhouse ▶ noun see UNION (sense 2).

uniparous /juːˈnɪp(ə)rəs/ ▶ adjective chiefly Zoology producing a single young at a birth.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from modern Latin uniparus (from Latin uni- 'one' + -parus 'bearing') + -OUS.

uniped /ˈjuːnɪpɛd/ ▶ noun rare a person or animal having only one foot or leg.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from UNI- 'one' + pes, ped- 'foot'.

unipersonal ▶ adjective rare comprising, or existing as, one person only.

uniplanar ▶ adjective lying in one plane.

unipod /ˈjuːnɪpɒd/ ▶ noun a one-legged support for a camera.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from UNI- 'one', suggested by TRIPOD.

unipolar ▶ adjective having or relating to a single pole or kind of polarity: a unipolar magnetic charge.
■(of psychiatric illness) characterized by either depressive or (more rarely) manic episodes but not both. ■ (of a nerve cell) having only one axon or process. ■ Electronics (of a transistor or other device) using charge carriers of a single polarity.
– DERIVATIVES unipolarity /-ˈlarɪti/ noun.

unipotent /juːnɪˈpəʊt(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective 1 Mathematics (of a subgroup) having only one idempotent element.
2 Biology (of an immature or stem cell) capable of giving rise to only one cell type.

unique ▶ adjective being the only one of its kind; unlike anything else: the situation was unique in modern British politics | original and unique designs.
■particularly remarkable, special, or unusual: a unique opportunity to see the spectacular Bolshoi Ballet. ■ [predic.] (unique to) belonging or connected to (one particular person, group, or place): a style of architecture that is unique to Portugal.
▶ noun archaic a unique person or thing.
– DERIVATIVES uniquely adverb, uniqueness noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French, from Latin unicus, from unus 'one'.

USAGE There is a set of adjectives—including unique, complete, equal, infinite, and perfect—whose core meaning embraces a mathematically absolute concept and which therefore, according to a traditional argument, cannot be modified by adverbs such as really, quite, or very. For example, since the core meaning of unique (from Latin 'one') is 'being only one of its kind', it is logically impossible, the argument goes, to submodify it: it either is 'unique' or it is not, and there are no in-between stages. In practice the situation in the language is more complex than this. Words like unique have a core sense but they often also have a secondary, less precise sense: in this case, the meaning 'very remarkable or unusual', as in a really unique opportunity. In its secondary sense, unique does not relate to an absolute concept, and so the use of submodifying adverbs is grammatically acceptable.

unironed ▶ adjective (of clothes or other fabric articles) not smoothed with an iron.

uniserial ▶ adjective Botany & Zoology arranged in or consisting of one series or row.

unisex ▶ adjective (especially of clothing or hairstyles) designed to be suitable for both sexes.

▶ noun [mass noun] a style in which men and women look and dress in a similar way.

unisexual ▶ adjective (of an organism) either male or female; not hermaphrodite.
■ Botany (of a flower) having either stamens or pistils but not both.
– DERIVATIVES unisexuality noun, unisexually adverb.

UNISON /'ju:nɪs(ə)n/ ▶ noun (in the UK) a trade union formed in 1993 and representing employees in the health service and public sector.

unison /'ju:nɪs(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 simultaneous performance or utterance of action or speech: 'Yes, sir,' said the girls in unison.
2 Music coincidence in pitch of sounds or notes: the flutes play in unison with the violas.
■ [count noun] a combination of notes, voices, or instruments at the same pitch or (especially when singing) in octaves: good unisons are formed by flutes, oboes, and clarinets.
▶ adjective [attrib.] performed in unison.
– DERIVATIVES unisonous adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in sense 2): from Old French, or from late Latin unisonus, from Latin uni- 'one' + sonus 'sound'.

unison string ▶ noun a string in a piano or other instrument tuned to the same pitch (or to a pitch an octave higher) as another string and meant to be sounded with it.

unissued ▶ adjective (especially of shares) not yet issued.

unit ▶ noun 1 an individual thing or person regarded as single and complete, especially for purposes of calculation; each of the individuals or collocations into which a complex whole may be analysed: large areas of land made up of smaller units | the sentence as a unit of grammar | the family unit.
■ a device that has a specified function, especially one forming part of a complex mechanism: the gearbox and transmission unit. ■ a piece of furniture or equipment for fitting with others like it or made of complementary parts: a sink unit. ■ a self-contained section of accommodation in a larger building or group of buildings: one- and two-bedroom units. ■ a part of an institution such as a hospital having a special function: the intensive-care unit. ■ a subdivision of a larger military grouping: he returned to Germany with his unit. ■ a self-contained part of a course: students take three compulsory core units. ■ an item manufactured: [as modifier] unit cost. ■ US a police car: he eased into his unit and flicked the siren on. ■ Brit. the smallest measure of investment in a unit trust.
2 a quantity chosen as a standard in terms of which other quantities may be expressed: a unit of measurement | fifty units of electricity.
3 the number one.
■ (units) the digit before the decimal point in decimal notation, representing an integer less than ten.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (as a mathematical term): from Latin unus, probably suggested by DIGIT.

UNITA /ju:'ni:tə/ an Angolan nationalist movement founded in 1966 by Jonas Savimbi (b.1934) to fight Portuguese rule. After independence was achieved in 1975 UNITA continued to fight against the ruling Marxist MPLA, with help from South Africa.
– ORIGIN acronym from Portuguese União Nacional para a Independencia Total de Angola.

UNITAR /ju:'ni:ta:/ ▶ abbreviation for United Nations Institute for Training and Research.

unitard /'ju:nɪta:d/ ▶ noun a tight-fitting one-piece garment of stretchable fabric which covers the body from the neck to the knees or feet.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from UNI- 'single' + LEOTARD.

Unitarian /ju:nɪ'tɛ:rɪən/ ▶ noun Theology a person, especially a Christian, who asserts the unity of God and rejects the doctrine of the Trinity.
■ a member of a Church or religious body maintaining this belief and typically rejecting formal dogma in favour of a rationalist and inclusivist approach to belief.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Unitarians.
– DERIVATIVES Unitarianism noun.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from modern Latin unitarius (from Latin unitas 'unity') + -AN.

unitarist /'ju:nɪt(ə)rɪst/ ▶ noun an advocate of a unitary system of government.

unitary /'ju:nɪt(ə)ri/ ▶ adjective 1 single; uniform: a sort of unitary wholeness.
■ of or relating to a system of government or organization in which the powers of the separate constituent parts are vested in a central body: a unitary rather than a federal state.
2 of or relating to a unit or units.
– DERIVATIVES unitarily adverb, unitarity /-'tarɪti/ noun.

unitary authority (also unitary council) ▶ noun (chiefly in the UK) an administrative division of local government established in place of, or as an alternative to, a two-tier system of local councils.

unit cell ▶ noun Crystallography the smallest group of atoms which has the overall symmetry of a crystal, and from which the entire lattice can be built up by repetition in three dimensions.

unite ▶ verb come or bring together for a common purpose or action: [no obj.] he called on the party to unite | [with obj.] they are united by their love of cars.
■ come or bring together to form a unit or whole, especially in a political context: [no obj.] the two Germanys officially united | [with obj.] he aimed to unite Italy and Sicily under his imperial crown | his work unites theory and practice. ■ [with obj.] archaic join in marriage: Lady Midlothian united herself to a man of bad character.
– DERIVATIVES unitive adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin unit- 'joined together', from the verb unire, from unus 'one'.

united ▶ adjective joined together politically, for a common purpose, or by common feelings: women acting together in a united way.
■ Brit. used in names of soccer and other sports teams formed by amalgamation: Oxford United.
– DERIVATIVES unitedly adverb.

United Arab Emirates (abbrev.: UAE) an independent state on the south coast of the Persian Gulf, west of the Gulf of Oman; population 2,377,400 (1995); official language, Arabic; capital, Abu Dhabi. The United Arab Emirates was formed in 1971 by the federation of the independent sheikhdoms formerly called the Trucial States: Abu Dhabi, Ajman, Dubai, Fujairah, Ras al Khaimah (joined early 1972), Sharjah, and Umm al Qaiwain.

United Arab Republic (abbrev.: UAR) a former political union established by Egypt and Syria in 1958. It was seen as the first step towards the creation of a pan-Arab union in the Middle East, but only Yemen entered into loose association with it (1958–66) and Syria withdrew in 1961. Egypt retained the name United Arab Republic until 1971.

United Artists a US film production company founded in 1919 by Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, and D. W. Griffith, formed to make films without the artistic strictures of the larger companies.

United Free Church a Presbyterian Church in Scotland formed in 1900 by the union of the Free Church of Scotland with the United Presbyterian Church. In 1929 the majority of its congregation joined the established Church of Scotland.

United Kingdom (abbrev.: UK) a country of western Europe consisting of England, Wales, Scotland, and Northern Ireland; pop. 55,700,000 (1991); official language, English; capital, London. Full name UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND NORTHERN IRELAND.

England (which had incorporated Wales in the 16th century) and Scotland have had the same monarch since 1603, when James VI of Scotland succeeded to the English crown as James I; the kingdoms were formally united by the Act of Union in 1707. An Act of Parliament joined Great Britain and Ireland in 1801, but the Irish Free State (later the Republic of Ireland) broke away in 1921. The UK became a member of the EC in 1973.

United Nations (abbrev.: UN) an international organization of countries set up in 1945, in succession to the League of Nations, to promote international peace, security, and cooperation.

Its members, originally the countries that fought against the Axis Powers in the Second World War, now number more than 150 and include most sovereign states of the world, the chief exceptions being Switzerland and North and South Korea. Administration is by a secretariat headed by the Secretary General. The chief deliberative body is the General Assembly, in which each member state has one vote; recommendations are passed but are not binding on members, and in general have had little effect on world politics. The Security Council bears the primary responsibility for the maintenance of peace and security, and may call on members to take action, chiefly peacekeeping action, to enforce its decisions. The UN's headquarters are in New York.

United Presbyterian Church a Presbyterian Church in Scotland formed in 1847. In 1900 it joined with the Free Church of Scotland to form the United Free Church.

United Provinces historical 1 the seven provinces united in 1579 and forming the basis of the republic of the Netherlands.
2 an Indian administrative division formed by the union of Agra and Oudh and called Uttar Pradesh since 1950.

United Provinces of Central America a former federal republic in Central America, formed in 1823 to unite the states of Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, and Costa Rica, all newly independent from Spain. The federation collapsed in 1838.

United Reformed Church a Church formed in 1972 by the union of the Congregational Church in England and Wales with the Presbyterian Church in England. Most of the Churches of Christ in the UK joined the union in 1981.

USAGE The correct term is United Reformed Church, although it is sometimes called United Reform Church in general use.

United States (abbrev.: US) a country occupying most of the southern half of North America and including also Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands; pop. 248,709,870 (1990); official language, English; capital, Washington DC. Full name UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

The US is a federal republic comprising fifty states and the Federal District of Columbia. It originated in the American War of Independence, the successful rebellion of the British colonies on the east coast in 1775–83. The original thirteen states which formed the Union drew up a federal constitution in 1787, and George Washington was elected the first President in 1789. In the 19th century the territory of the US was extended across the continent through the westward spread of pioneers and settlers (at the expense of the American Indian peoples), and acquisitions such as that of Texas and California from Mexico in the 1840s. After a long period of isolation in foreign affairs the US participated on the Allied side in both world wars, and came out of the cold war as the world's leading military and economic power.

unitholder ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a person with an investment in a unit trust.

unitize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] form into a unit; unite into a whole.
■ [usu. as adj. unitized] package (cargo) into unit loads: a unitized load. ■ convert (an investment trust) into a unit trust.

unit-linked ▶ adjective Brit. denoting or relating to a life assurance policy or other investment in which the premiums or payments are invested in a unit trust.

unit matrix ▶ noun another term for IDENTITY MATRIX.

unit membrane ▶ noun Biology a lipoprotein membrane which encloses many cells and cell organelles and is composed of two electron-dense layers enclosing a less dense layer.

unit train ▶ noun N. Amer. a train transporting a single commodity.

unit trust ▶ noun Brit. a trust formed to manage a portfolio of stock exchange securities, in which small investors can buy units.

unit vector ▶ noun Mathematics a vector which has a magnitude of one.

unity ▶ noun (pl. -ies) [mass noun] 1 the state of being united or joined as a whole, especially in a political context: European unity | economic unity.
■ harmony or agreement between people or groups: their leaders called for unity between opposing factions. ■ the state of forming a complete and pleasing whole, especially in an artistic context: the repeated phrase gives the piece unity and cohesion. ■ [count noun] a thing forming a complex whole: they speak of the three parts as a unity. ■ [count noun] each of the three dramatic principles requiring limitation of the supposed time of a drama to that occupied in acting it or to a single day (unity of time), use of one scene throughout (unity of place), and concentration on the development of a single plot (unity of action).
2 Mathematics the number one.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French unite, from Latin unitas, from unus 'one'.

Univ. ▶ abbreviation for University.

univalent ▶ adjective 1 /ju:'nɪvəl(ə)nt/ Biology (of a chromosome) remaining unpaired during meiosis.
2 /ju:nɪ'veɪl(ə)nt/ Chemistry another term for MONOVALENT.
▶ noun /ju:'nɪvəl(ə)nt/ Biology a univalent chromosome.

univalve Zoology ▶ adjective having one valve or shell.
▶ noun another term for gastropod (see GASTROPODA).

Universal a US film production company formed in 1912.

universal ▶ adjective of, affecting, or done by all people or things in the world or in a particular group; applicable to all cases: universal adult suffrage | the incidents caused universal concern.
■ Logic denoting a proposition in which something is asserted of all of a class. Contrasted with PARTICULAR. ■ Linguistics denoting or relating to a grammatical rule, set of rules, or other linguistic feature that is found in all languages. ■ (of a tool or machine) adjustable to or appropriate for all requirements; not restricted to a single purpose or position.
▶ noun a person or thing having universal effect, currency, or application, in particular:
■ Logic a universal proposition. ■ Philosophy a term or concept of general application. ■ Philosophy a nature or essence signified by a general term. ■ Linguistics a universal grammatical rule or linguistic feature.
– DERIVATIVES universality noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, or from Latin universalis, from universus (see UNIVERSE).

universal compass ▶ noun a pair of compasses with legs that may be extended for large circles.

universal donor ▶ noun a person of blood group O, who can in theory donate blood to recipients of any ABO blood group.

universal indicator ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a mixture of dyes that changes colour gradually over a range of pH and is used (especially as indicator paper) in testing for acids and alkalis.

universalist ▶ noun 1 Christian Theology a person who believes that all humankind will eventually be saved.
2 a person advocating loyalty to and concern for others without regard to national or other allegiances.
▶ adjective 1 Christian Theology of or relating to universalists.
2 universal in scope or character.
– DERIVATIVES universalism noun, universalistic adjective.

universalize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] give a universal character or application to (something, especially something abstract): theories that universalize experience.
■ bring into universal use; make available for all: attempts to universalize basic education.
– DERIVATIVES universalizability noun, universalization noun.

universal joint (also universal coupling) ▶ noun a coupling or joint which can transmit rotary power by a shaft at any selected angle.

universally ▶ adverb by everyone; in every case: progress is not always universally welcomed.

Universal Postal Union (abbrev.: UPU) an agency of the United Nations that regulates international postal affairs.

universal product code ▶ noun more formal term for BAR CODE.

universal quantifier ▶ noun Logic a formal expression used in asserting that a stated general proposition is true of all the members of the delineated universe or class.

universal recipient ▶ noun a person of blood group AB, who can in theory receive donated blood of any ABO blood group.

universal set ▶ noun Mathematics & Logic the set containing all objects or elements and of which all other sets are subsets.

universal suffrage ▶ noun [mass noun] the right of almost all adults to vote in political elections.

Universal Time (also Universal Time Coordinated) another term for GREENWICH MEAN TIME.

universe ▶ noun (the universe) all existing matter and space considered as a whole; the cosmos. The universe is believed to be at least 10 billion light years in diameter and contains a vast number of galaxies; it has been expanding since its creation in the big bang about 13 billion years ago.
■ a particular sphere of activity, interest, or experience: the front parlour was the hub of her universe. ■ (Logic also universe of discourse) another term for UNIVERSAL SET.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French univers or Latin universum, neuter of universus 'combined into one, whole', from uni- 'one' + versus 'turned' (past participle of vertere).

university ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a high-level educational institution in which students study for degrees and academic research is done: I went to university at the Sorbonne | his daughter is at university.
– PHRASES the university of life the experience of life regarded as a means of instruction.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French universite, from Latin universitas 'the whole', in late Latin 'society, guild', from universus (see UNIVERSE).

University of the Third Age ▶ noun an organization providing courses of education for retired or elderly people.

univocal /ˌjuːnɪˈvəʊk(ə)l, juːˈnɪvək(ə)l/ ▶ adjective Philosophy & Linguistics (of a word or term) having only one possible meaning; unambiguous: a univocal set of instructions.
– DERIVATIVES univocality noun, univocally adverb.

Unix /ˈjuːnɪks/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Computing, trademark a widely used multi-user operating system.
– ORIGIN 1970s: from UNI- 'one' + a respelling of -ICS, on the pattern of an earlier less compact system called Multics.

unjoin ▶ verb [with obj.] archaic detach; separate.

unjoined ▶ adjective not joined together.

unjoint ▶ verb [with obj.] rare separate or dislocate the joints of.

unjointed ▶ adjective lacking a joint or joints; consisting of a single piece: a flat, unjointed surface.

unjust ▶ adjective not based on or behaving according to what is morally right and fair: resistance to unjust laws.
– DERIVATIVES unjustly adverb, unjustness noun.

unjustifiable ▶ adjective not able to be shown to be right or reasonable: an unjustifiable restriction on their freedom.
– DERIVATIVES unjustifiably adverb [sentence adverb] they seemed, unjustifiably, to be taking things out on the students.

unjustified ▶ adjective 1 not shown to be right or reasonable: unjustified price increases.
2 Printing (of printed text) not justified.

unkempt /ʌnˈkɛm(p)t/ ▶ adjective (especially of a person) having an untidy or dishevelled appearance: they were unwashed and unkempt.
– DERIVATIVES unkemptly adverb, unkemptness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from UN-[1] 'not' + kempt 'combed' (past participle of archaic kemb, related to COMB).

unkept ▶ adjective 1 (of a commitment or undertaking) not honoured or fulfilled: unkept appointments and broken promises.
2 not tidy or cared for.

unkillable ▶ adjective not able to be killed.

unkind ▶ adjective inconsiderate and harsh to others: you were terribly unkind to her | he was the butt of some unkind jokes | it was unkind of her to criticize.
– DERIVATIVES unkindly adverb, unkindness noun.

unking ▶ verb [with obj.] archaic remove (a monarch) from power.

unkink ▶ verb straighten or become straight.

unknit ▶ verb (unknitted, unknitting) [with obj.] separate (things that are joined, knotted, or interlocked).

unknot ▶ verb (unknotted, unknotting) 1 [with obj.] release or untie the knot or knots in: he swiftly unknotted his tie.
2 [no obj.] (of a muscle) relax after being tense and hard: his shoulders unknotted.

unknowable ▶ adjective not able to be known: the total cost is unknowable.
– DERIVATIVES unknowability noun.

unknowing ▶ adjective not knowing or aware: the lions moved stealthily towards their unknowing victims.
▶ noun [mass noun] lack of awareness or knowledge.
– DERIVATIVES unknowingly adverb, unknowingness noun.

unknown ▶ adjective not known or familiar: exploration into unknown territory | his whereabouts are unknown to his family.
■ (of a performer or artist) not well known or famous.
▶ noun an unknown person or thing: she is a relative unknown.
■ Mathematics an unknown quantity or variable: find the unknown in the following equations. ■ (the unknown) that which is unknown: our fear of the unknown.
– PHRASES unknown to without the knowledge of.
– DERIVATIVES unknownness noun.

unknown quantity ▶ noun a person or thing whose nature, value, or significance cannot be determined or is not yet known.

Unknown Soldier (also Unknown Warrior) ▶ noun an unidentified representative member of a country's armed forces killed in war, given burial with special honours in a national memorial.

unlabelled (US unlabeled) ▶ adjective without a label; not labelled: bottles of unlabelled white wine.

unlaboured (US unlabored) ▶ adjective done with ease or fluency: flexibility and unlaboured movement.

unlace ▶ verb [with obj.] undo the laces of (a shoe or garment).

unlade /ʌnˈleɪd/ ▶ verb [with obj.] archaic unload (a ship or cargo).

unladen ▶ adjective not carrying a load: unladen, the boat heeled to starboard.

unladen weight ▶ noun the weight of a vehicle when not loaded with goods.

unladylike ▶ adjective not behaving or dressing in a way considered appropriate for a well-bred woman or girl: Sharon gave an unladylike snort.
■ (of an activity or occupation) not considered suitable for a woman or girl.

unlaid[1] ▶ adjective not laid: the table was still unlaid.

unlaid[2] past and past participle of UNLAY.

unlamented ▶ adjective (of a person who has died or something that has gone or finished) not mourned or regretted.

unlash ▶ verb [with obj.] unfasten (something securely tied with a cord or rope): he unlashed the dinghy.

unlatch ▶ verb [with obj.] unfasten the latch of (a door or gate).

unlawful ▶ adjective not conforming to, permitted by, or recognized by law or rules: the use of unlawful violence | they claimed the ban was unlawful.
– DERIVATIVES unlawfully adverb, unlawfulness noun.

unlawful assembly ▶ noun English Law, historical a meeting of three or more people likely to cause a breach of the peace or to endanger the public.

unlay ▶ verb (past and past participle unlaid) [with obj.] Nautical untwist (a rope) into separate strands.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from UN-[2] (expressing reversal) + LAY[1].

unleaded ▶ adjective 1 (especially of petrol) without added lead.
2 not covered, weighted, or framed with lead.
3 Printing (of type) with no space or leads added between lines.
▶ noun [mass noun] petrol without added lead.

unlearn ▶ verb (past and past participle unlearned or unlearnt) [with obj.] discard (something learned, especially a bad habit or false or outdated information) from one's memory: teachers are being asked to unlearn rigid rules for labelling and placing children.

unlearned[1] /ʌnˈlɜːnd, -ˈlɜːnɪd/ ▶ adjective (of a person) not well educated.
– DERIVATIVES unlearnedly adverb.

unlearned[2] /ʌnˈlɜːnd/ (also unlearnt /-ˈlɜːnt/) ▶ adjective not having been learned: she found herself on the stage, lines unlearned.
■ not needing to be learned because innate: the unlearned responses of our inner world.

unleash ▶ verb [with obj.] release from a leash or restraint: they dig up badger setts and unleash terriers into them | figurative the failure of the talks could unleash more fighting.

unleavened ▶ adjective (of bread) made without yeast or other raising agent.

unless ▶ conjunction except if (used to introduce the case in which a statement being made is not true or valid): unless you have a photographic memory, repetition is vital | manuscripts cannot be returned unless accompanied by a self-addressed envelope.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from ON or IN (assimilated through lack of stress to UN-[1]) + LESS.

unlettered ▶ adjective (of a person) poorly educated or illiterate.

unliberated ▶ adjective (of a person or their behaviour) not liberated: she never minded housework—Jenny said she was appallingly unliberated.

unlicensed (also unlicenced) ▶ adjective not having an official licence: unlicensed weapons.
■ chiefly Brit. (of premises) not having a licence for the sale of alcoholic liquor: unlicensed restaurants.

unlighted ▶ adjective unlit.

unlike ▶ preposition different from; not similar to: a large house not unlike Mr Shah's | they were unlike anything ever seen before.
■ in contrast to; differently from: unlike Elena he was not superstitious. ■ uncharacteristic of (someone): he sounded irritable, which was unlike him.
▶ adjective [predic.] dissimilar or different from each other: they seemed utterly unlike, despite being twins.
■ (unlike to/from) archaic not like; different from: he was very unlike to any other man.
– DERIVATIVES unlikeness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: perhaps originally an alteration of Old Norse úlíkr; compare with Old English ungelīc 'not of the same kind, not comparable'.

USAGE The use of unlike as a conjunction, as in she was behaving unlike she'd ever behaved before, is not considered standard English. It can be avoided by using as with a negative instead: she was behaving as she'd never behaved before.

unlikeable (also unlikable) ▶ adjective (especially of a person) not likeable: a thoroughly unlikeable bully.

unlikely ▶ adjective (unlikelier, unlikeliest) not likely to happen, be done, or be true; improbable: an unlikely explanation | it is unlikely that they will ever be used | [with infinitive] the change is unlikely to affect many people.
– DERIVATIVES unlikelihood noun, unlikeliness noun.

unlimber ▶ verb [with obj.] detach (a gun) from its limber so that it can be used.
■ chiefly US unpack or unfasten (something) ready for use: we had to unlimber some of the gear.

unlimited ▶ adjective not limited or restricted in terms of number, quantity, or extent: offshore reserves of gas and oil are not unlimited.
■ (of a company) not limited. ■ Mathematics (of a problem) having an infinite number of solutions.
– DERIVATIVES unlimitedly adverb, unlimitedness noun.

unlined[1] ▶ adjective not marked or covered with lines: her face was still unlined | unlined paper.

unlined[2] ▶ adjective (of a container or garment) without a lining: unlined curtains.

unlink ▶ verb [with obj.] make no longer connected: [as adj. unlinked] three previously unlinked murders.

unliquidated ▶ adjective (of a debt) not cleared or paid off.

unlisted ▶ adjective not included on a list.
■ denoting or relating to a company whose shares are not listed on a stock exchange. ■ chiefly N. Amer. another term for EX-DIRECTORY. ■ Brit. (of a building) not having listed status.

unlistenable ▶ adjective (especially of music) impossible or unbearable to listen to.

unlit ▶ adjective 1 not provided with lighting: an unlit staircase.
2 not having been set light to: his unlit pipe.

unlivable ▶ adjective not able to be lived in; uninhabitable: humanity had made the world unlivable.

unlived ▶ adjective (unlived-in) not appearing to be used or inhabited; not homely or comfortable.

unload ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 remove goods from (a vehicle, ship, container, etc.): she hadn't finished unloading the car.
■ remove (goods) from a vehicle, ship, container, etc. ■ [no obj.] (of a vehicle, ship, container, etc.) have goods removed: the street was jammed with vans unloading. ■ informal get rid of (something unwanted): he had unloaded his depreciating stock on his unsuspecting wife. ■ chiefly US give expression to (oppressive thoughts or feelings): the meeting had been a chance for her to unload some of her feelings about her son.
2 remove (ammunition) from a gun or (film) from a camera.
– DERIVATIVES unloader noun.

unlock ▶ verb [with obj.] undo the lock of (something) using a key: he unlocked the door to his room.
■ make (something previously inaccessible or unexploited) available for use: the campaign has helped us unlock rich reserves of talent among our employees.

unlocked ▶ adjective not locked: unlocked doors.

unlooked ▶ adjective (unlooked-for) unexpected; unforeseen: in his family he found unlooked-for happiness.

unloose ▶ verb [with obj.] undo; let free: his first action must be to unloose that knotted necktie | figurative she unloosed a salvo of condescension.

unloosen ▶ verb another term for UNLOOSE.

unlovable (also unloveable) ▶ adjective not lovable: a very unlovable child.
– DERIVATIVES unlovability noun.

unloved ▶ adjective not loved.

unlovely ▶ adjective not attractive; ugly.
– DERIVATIVES unloveliness noun.

unloving ▶ adjective not loving: an unloving father.
– DERIVATIVES unlovingly adverb, unlovingness noun.

unlucky ▶ adjective (unluckier, unluckiest) having, bringing, or resulting from bad luck: an unlucky defeat | [with infinitive] the visitors were unlucky to have a goal disallowed.
– DERIVATIVES unluckily adverb, unluckiness noun.

unmade ▶ adjective 1 (of a bed) not having the bedclothes arranged tidily ready for sleeping in.
2 Brit. (of a road) without a hard, smooth surface.

unmaidenly ▶ adjective not befitting or characteristic of a young, sexually inexperienced woman.
– DERIVATIVES unmaidenliness noun.

unmake ▶ verb (past and past participle unmade) [with obj.] reverse or undo the making of; annul: Parliament can make and unmake any law whatever.

unman ▶ verb (unmanned, unmanning) [with obj.] poetic/literary deprive of qualities traditionally associated with men, such as self-control or courage: sitting in the dock awaiting a sentence will unman the stoutest heart.

unmanageable ▶ adjective difficult or impossible to manage, manipulate, or control: his behaviour was becoming unmanageable at home.
– DERIVATIVES unmanageableness noun, unmanageably adverb.

unmanaged ▶ adjective 1 not controlled or regulated: a critique of unmanaged capitalism.
2 (of land) left wild; in a natural state.

unmanly ▶ adjective not manly: unmanly behaviour.
– DERIVATIVES unmanliness noun.

unmanned ▶ adjective not having or needing a crew or staff: an unmanned level crossing.

unmannered ▶ adjective not affected or artificial in style.

unmannerly ▶ adjective not having or showing good manners: uncouth, unmannerly fellows.
– DERIVATIVES unmannerliness noun.

unmapped ▶ adjective (of an area or feature) not represented on a geographical map.
■ unexplored: unmapped corners of Africa. ■ Biology (of a gene or chromosome) not yet mapped.

unmarked ▶ adjective 1 not marked: an unmarked police car | his skin was unmarked.
■ Linguistics (of a word or other linguistic unit) having a more general meaning or use than a corresponding marked term: 'duck' is unmarked, whereas 'drake' is marked.
2 not noticed: it's a pleasure to reward them for work which might otherwise go unmarked.

unmarketable ▶ adjective not marketable.

unmarried ▶ adjective not married; single.

unmask ▶ verb [with obj.] expose the true character of or hidden truth about: the trial unmasked him as a complete charlatan.
■ [often as adj. unmasked] remove the mask from: an unmasked gunman.
– DERIVATIVES unmasker noun.

unmatchable ▶ adjective incapable of being matched, equalled, or rivalled.
– DERIVATIVES unmatchably adverb.

unmatched ▶ adjective not matched or equalled: he has a talent unmatched by any other politician.

unmatured ▶ adjective not yet matured: unmatured cheese.

unmeaning ▶ adjective having no meaning or significance; meaningless: a sweet, unmeaning smile.
– DERIVATIVES unmeaningly adverb.

unmeant ▶ adjective not meant or intended: an unmeant threat.

unmeasurable ▶ adjective not able to be measured objectively: the unmeasurable qualities of a scientist.
– DERIVATIVES unmeasurably adverb.

unmeasured ▶ adjective 1 not having been measured: unmeasured risk factors.
2 chiefly poetic/literary immense; limitless: he is regarded by his congregation with unmeasured adoration.

unmediated ▶ adjective without anyone or anything intervening or acting as an intermediate; direct.

unmelodious ▶ adjective not melodious; discordant: an unmelodious chorus of horns.
– DERIVATIVES unmelodiously adverb.

unmelted ▶ adjective not melted: unmelted snow.

unmemorable ▶ adjective not memorable.
– DERIVATIVES unmemorably adverb.

unmentionable ▶ adjective too embarrassing, offensive, or shocking to be spoken about: the unmentionable subject of incontinence.
▶ noun (usu. unmentionables) chiefly humorous a person or thing that is too shocking or embarrassing to be mentioned by name: wearing nothing but fig leaves over their unmentionables.
– DERIVATIVES unmentionability noun, unmentionableness noun, unmentionably adverb.

unmentioned ▶ adjective not mentioned: a monument unmentioned in all the architectural guides.

unmerchantable ▶ adjective not suitable for purchase or sale.

unmerciful ▶ adjective cruel or harsh; showing no mercy.
– DERIVATIVES unmercifully adverb, unmercifulness noun.

unmerited ▶ adjective not deserved or merited: an unmerited insult.

unmet ▶ adjective (of a requirement) not achieved or fulfilled: an unmet need.

unmetalled ▶ adjective Brit. (of a road) not having a hard surface of road metal.

unmethodical ▶ adjective not orderly and systematic.
– DERIVATIVES unmethodically adverb.

unmetrical ▶ adjective not composed in or using metre: an unmetrical poet.

unmilitary ▶ adjective not typical of, suitable for, or connected with the military.

unmindful ▶ adjective [predic.] not conscious or aware: Danielle seemed unmindful of her parents' plight.
– DERIVATIVES unmindfully adverb, unmindfulness noun.

unmissable ▶ adjective 1 so good that it should not be missed: the special effects make this an unmissable treat.
2 so clear or obvious that it cannot be missed.

unmistakable (also unmistakeable) ▶ adjective not able to be mistaken for anything else; very distinctive: the unmistakable sound of his laughter.
– DERIVATIVES unmistakability noun, unmistakably adverb.

unmitigated ▶ adjective [attrib.] absolute; unqualified: the tour had been an unmitigated disaster.
– DERIVATIVES unmitigatedly adverb.

unmixed ▶ adjective not mixed: bold unmixed colours.

unmixed blessing ▶ noun [usu. with negative] a situation or thing having advantages and no disadvantages: motherhood is not an unmixed blessing.

unmodernized (also -ised) ▶ adjective (especially of a building) not modernized; retaining the original features.

unmodified ▶ adjective not modified.

unmodulated ▶ adjective not modulated.

unmolested ▶ adjective not pestered or molested; left in peace: they allowed him to pass unmolested.

unmoor ▶ verb [with obj.] release the moorings of (a vessel).

unmoral ▶ adjective not influenced by or concerned with morality. Compare with IMMORAL.
– DERIVATIVES unmorality noun.

unmothered ▶ adjective deprived of or without a mother or maternal care.

unmotherly ▶ adjective not having or showing the affectionate feelings associated with a mother.

unmotivated ▶ adjective 1 not having interest in or enthusiasm for something, especially work or study.
2 without a reason or motive: an unmotivated attack.

unmounted ▶ adjective not mounted.

unmourned ▶ adjective not mourned: he would die alone and unmourned.

unmoved ▶ adjective [predic.] not affected by emotion or excitement: he was clearly unmoved by her outburst.
■not changed in one's purpose or intention: her opponents were unmoved and plan to return to court. ■ not changed in position: their shares were unmoved at 25p.
– DERIVATIVES unmovable (also unmoveable) adjective.

unmoving ▶ adjective 1 not moving; still: Claudia sat unmoving behind her desk.
2 not stirring any emotion.

unmown ▶ adjective not mown: unmown grass.

unmuffle ▶ verb [with obj.] free from something that muffles or conceals.

unmurmuring ▶ adjective poetic/literary not complaining.
– DERIVATIVES unmurmuringly adverb.

unmusical ▶ adjective not pleasing to the ear.
■unskilled in or indifferent to music.
– DERIVATIVES unmusicality noun, unmusically adverb, unmusicalness noun.

unmutilated ▶ adjective not mutilated.

unmuzzle ▶ verb [with obj.] remove a muzzle from (an animal).
■figurative allow (a person or the press) to express their views freely and without censorship.

unmuzzled ▶ adjective (of an animal) not wearing a muzzle.

unnameable (also unnamable) ▶ adjective not able to be named, especially because too bad or horrific: his mind was blank with an unnameable fear.

unnamed ▶ adjective not named.

unnatural ▶ adjective contrary to the ordinary course of nature; abnormal: death by unnatural causes.
■not existing in nature; artificial: the artificial turf looks an unnatural green. ■ affected or stilted: the formal tone of the programmes caused them to sound stilted and unnatural. ■ lacking feelings of kindness and sympathy that are considered to be natural: they condemned her as an unnatural woman.
– DERIVATIVES unnaturally adverb, unnaturalness noun.

unnavigable ▶ adjective (of a waterway or sea) not able to be sailed on by ships or boats.
– DERIVATIVES unnavigability noun.

unnecessary ▶ adjective not needed: the police had used unnecessary violence.
■more than is needed; excessive: good construction is essential to avoid unnecessary waste. ■ (of a remark) not appropriate and likely to be offensive or impertinent.
▶ plural noun (unnecessaries) unnecessary things.
– DERIVATIVES unnecessarily adverb, unnecessariness noun.

unneeded ▶ adjective not needed: the disposal of unneeded assets.

unneighbourly ▶ adjective not neighbourly.
– DERIVATIVES unneighbourliness noun.

unnerve ▶ verb [with obj.] make (someone) lose courage or confidence: [as adj. unnerving] an unnerving experience.
– DERIVATIVES unnervingly adverb.

unnoticeable ▶ adjective not easily observed or noticed: the reverberation will be so slight as to be unnoticeable.
– DERIVATIVES unnoticeably adverb.

unnoticed ▶ adjective [usu. as complement] not noticed: a deliberate kick that went unnoticed by the referee.

unnumbered ▶ adjective 1 not marked with or assigned a number.
2 not counted, typically because very great.

UNO ▶ abbreviation for United Nations Organization.

unobjectionable ▶ adjective not objectionable; acceptable: much of the above would be unobjectionable to most Marxists.
– DERIVATIVES unobjectionably adverb.

unobliging ▶ adjective not helpful or cooperative.

unobscured ▶ adjective not obscured.

unobservable ▶ adjective not able to be observed.

unobservant ▶ adjective not observant.
– DERIVATIVES unobservantly adverb.

unobserved ▶ adjective not observed: their courtship has not gone unobserved by Giles.

unobstructed ▶ adjective not obstructed: an unobstructed view of the traffic lights.

unobtainable ▶ adjective not able to be obtained.

unobtrusive ▶ adjective not conspicuous or attracting attention: corrections should be neat and unobtrusive.
– DERIVATIVES unobtrusively adverb, unobtrusiveness noun.

unoccupied ▶ adjective not occupied: the house has been unoccupied for some time.

unoffended ▶ adjective not having taken offence.

unoffending ▶ adjective not causing offence; harmless.

unofficial ▶ adjective not officially authorized or confirmed: unofficial reports said that dozens of people were injured.
– DERIVATIVES unofficially adverb.

unoiled ▶ adjective not oiled: unoiled hinges.

unopened ▶ adjective not opened: unopened mail.

unopposed ▶ adjective not opposed; unchallenged: she was elected unopposed as leader.

unordained ▶ adjective not having been ordained as a priest or minister.

unordered ▶ adjective not put in order; unarranged or disorderly.
■not ordered or asked for.

unordinary ▶ adjective not ordinary; unusual.

unorganized (also -ised) ▶ adjective not organized: a sea of unorganized data.

unoriginal ▶ adjective lacking originality; derivative: an uninteresting and unoriginal essay.
– DERIVATIVES unoriginality noun, unoriginally adverb.

unornamental ▶ adjective not ornamental; plain.

unornamented ▶ adjective not having any decoration.

unorthodox ▶ adjective contrary to what is usual, traditional, or accepted; not orthodox: he frequently upset other scholars with his unorthodox views.
– DERIVATIVES unorthodoxly adverb, unorthodoxy noun.

unostentatious ▶ adjective not ostentatious: he was generous in a quiet, unostentatious way.
– DERIVATIVES unostentatiously adverb, unostentatiousness noun.

unowned ▶ adjective 1 not having an owner.
2 not admitted to; unacknowledged: the unowned anger of all the smiling females of unenlightened times.

unpack ▶ verb [with obj.] open and remove the contents of (a suitcase, bag, or package): she unpacked her suitcase | [no obj.] he unpacked and put everything away.
■remove (something) from a suitcase, bag, or package: we unpacked the sandwiches. ■ figurative analyse (something) into its component elements: let us unpack this question. ■ Computing convert (data) from a compressed form to a usable form.
– DERIVATIVES unpacker noun.

unpaid ▶ adjective 1 (of a debt) not yet discharged by payment: unpaid bills.
2 (of work or a period of leave) undertaken without payment: unpaid labour in the home.
■(of a person) not receiving payment for work done.

unpainted ▶ adjective not painted.

unpaired ▶ adjective 1 not arranged in pairs.
2 not forming one of a pair.

unpalatable ▶ adjective not pleasant to taste.
■difficult to put up with or accept: the unpalatable fact that many of the world's people are starving.
– DERIVATIVES unpalatability noun, unpalatably adverb.

unparalleled ▶ adjective having no parallel or equal; exceptional: the sudden rise in unemployment is unparalleled in the post-war period.

unpardonable ▶ adjective (of a fault or offence) too severe to be pardoned; unforgivable: an unpardonable sin.
– DERIVATIVES unpardonableness noun, unpardonably adverb.

unparliamentary ▶ adjective (especially of language) contrary to the rules or procedures of parliament: an unparliamentary expression.

unpasteurized (also -ised) ▶ adjective not pasteurized: unpasteurized milk.

unpatented ▶ adjective not patented: an unpatented invention.

unpatriotic ▶ adjective not patriotic.
– DERIVATIVES unpatriotically adverb.

unpatronizing (also -ising) ▶ adjective not showing condescension.
– DERIVATIVES unpatronizingly adverb.

unpaved ▶ adjective not paved: unpaved streets.

unpeeled ▶ adjective not peeled: an unpeeled orange.

unpeg ▶ verb (unpegged, unpegging) [with obj.] unfasten by the removal of pegs: she hastily unpegged her washing.
■cease to maintain a fixed relationship between (a currency) and another currency.

unpeople ▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. unpeopled] empty of people; depopulate.

unperceived ▶ adjective [usu. as complement] not perceived; unobserved: the full significance of this went unperceived.

unperceptive ▶ adjective not perceptive.
– DERIVATIVES unperceptively adverb, unperceptiveness noun.

unperfected ▶ adjective not perfected: an unperfected sketch.

unperforated ▶ adjective not perforated.

unperformed ▶ adjective not having been performed: an unperformed play.

unperfumed ▶ adjective not perfumed.

unperson ▶ noun (pl. -persons) a person whose name or existence is denied or ignored, especially because of a political misdemeanour.

unpersuadable ▶ adjective not able to be persuaded; obstinate.

unpersuaded ▶ adjective not persuaded; unconvinced.

unpersuasive ▶ adjective not persuasive.
– DERIVATIVES unpersuasively adverb.

unperturbed ▶ adjective not perturbed or concerned: Kenneth seems unperturbed by the news.
– DERIVATIVES unperturbedly adverb.

unphilosophical ▶ adjective not following philosophical principles or method.
– DERIVATIVES unphilosophic adjective (archaic), unphilosophically adverb.

unphysical ▶ adjective not in accordance with the laws or principles of physics; not corresponding to a physically possible situation.

unphysiological ▶ adjective not in accordance with normal physiological conditions.
– DERIVATIVES unphysiologic adjective, unphysiologically adverb.

unpick ▶ verb [with obj.] undo the sewing of (stitches or a garment): I unpicked the seams of his trousers.
■figurative carefully analyse the different elements of, especially in order to find faults.

unpicked ▶ adjective 1 (of a flower, fruit, or vegetable) not picked: unpicked tomatoes.
2 not selected.

unpicturesque ▶ adjective not picturesque.

unpin ▶ verb (unpinned, unpinning) [with obj.] unfasten or detach by removing a pin or pins.
■Chess release (a pinned piece or pawn), e.g. by moving away the piece it is shielding.

unpitied ▶ adjective not pitied.

unpitying ▶ adjective not feeling or showing pity.
– DERIVATIVES unpityingly adverb.

unplaceable ▶ adjective not able to be placed or classified: an unplaceable accent.

unplaced ▶ adjective not having or assigned to a specific place.
■chiefly Horse Racing not one of the first three to finish in a race or competition.

unplanned ▶ adjective not planned: an unplanned pregnancy.

unplanted ▶ adjective (of land) uncultivated.

unplayable ▶ adjective not able to be played or played on: unplayable deliveries | an unplayable winter pitch.
■(of music) too difficult or bad to perform.
– DERIVATIVES unplayably adverb.

unpleasant ▶ adjective causing discomfort, unhappiness, or revulsion; disagreeable: an unpleasant smell | the symptoms are extremely unpleasant.
■(of a person or their manner) unfriendly and inconsiderate; rude: when drunk, he could become very unpleasant.
– DERIVATIVES unpleasantly adverb.

unpleasantness ▶ noun [mass noun] the state or quality of being unpleasant.
■bad feeling or quarrelling between people.

unpleasantry ▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 (unpleasantries) disagreeable matters or comments: the day-to-day unpleasantries of dealing with an alien administration.
2 [mass noun] dated quarrelling or other disagreeable behaviour: a little unpleasantry with the authorities.

unpleasing ▶ adjective not giving satisfaction, especially of an aesthetic kind: the sound was not unpleasing.
– DERIVATIVES unpleasingly adverb.

unpleasure ▶ noun [mass noun] Psychoanalysis the sense of inner pain, discomfort, or anxiety which results from the blocking of an instinctual impulse by the ego.

unploughed (US unplowed) ▶ adjective 1 (of an area of land) not having been ploughed.
2 N. Amer. (of a road) not cleared of snow by a snowplough.

unplucked ▶ adjective not plucked: unplucked eyebrows.

unplug ▶ verb (unplugged, unplugging) [with obj.] 1 disconnect (an electrical device) by removing its plug from a socket: she unplugged the fridge.
2 remove an obstacle or blockage from: a procedure to unplug blocked arteries.

unplugged ▶ adjective trademark (of pop or rock music) performed or recorded with acoustic rather than electrically amplified instruments.

unplumbed ▶ adjective 1 not fully explored or understood: one-dimensional performances that leave the play's psychological depths unplumbed.
2 (of a building or room) not having water and drainage pipes installed and connected.
– DERIVATIVES unplumbable adjective.

unpoetic ▶ adjective not having a style of expression characteristic of poetry.
– DERIVATIVES unpoetical adjective.

unpointed ▶ adjective 1 not having a sharpened or tapered tip.
2 (of a Semitic language) written without dots or small strokes to indicate vowels or distinguish consonants.
3 (of brickwork, a brick structure, or tiling) having joints that are not filled in or repaired.

unpolished ▶ adjective not having a polished surface: his shoes were unpolished.
■unrefined in style or behaviour: his work is unpolished and sometimes incoherent.

unpolitic ▶ adjective rare term for IMPOLITIC.

unpolitical ▶ adjective not concerned with politics: large numbers of otherwise unpolitical people responded to the war.

unpolled ▶ adjective 1 (of a voter) not having voted, or registered to vote, at an election.
■(of a vote) not cast at or registered for an election.
2 (of a person) not included in an opinion poll.

unpolluted ▶ adjective not contaminated with noxious or poisonous substances.

unpopular ▶ adjective not liked or popular: unpopular measures | Luke was unpopular with most of the teachers.
– DERIVATIVES unpopularity noun.

unpopulated ▶ adjective (of a place) having no inhabitants: three missiles landed in unpopulated areas.
■(of a printed circuit board) having no components fitted.

unposed ▶ adjective (of a photograph) not having an artificially posed subject.

unpossessed ▶ adjective not owned.
■[predic.] (unpossessed of) not having (an ability, quality, or characteristic): the money men are unpossessed of the social graces.

unpowered ▶ adjective having no fuel-burning source of power for propulsion.

unpractical ▶ adjective another term for IMPRACTICAL (in sense 1).
– DERIVATIVES unpracticality noun.

unpractised (US unpracticed) ▶ adjective (of a person or faculty) not trained or experienced: to the unpractised eye, the result might appear a hotchpotch.
■(of an action or performance) not often done before.

unprecedented /ʌn'prɛsɪdɛntɪd/ ▶ adjective never done or known before: the government took the unprecedented step of releasing confidential correspondence.
– DERIVATIVES unprecedentedly adverb.

unpredictable ▶ adjective not able to be predicted: the unpredictable weather of the Scottish islands.
■(of a person) behaving in a way that is not easily predicted: he is emotional and unpredictable.
– DERIVATIVES unpredictability noun, unpredictably adverb.

unpredicted ▶ adjective (of an event or result) unforeseen: the unpredicted change of weather.

unprejudiced ▶ adjective not having or showing a dislike or distrust based on fixed or preconceived ideas.

unpremeditated ▶ adjective (of an act, remark, or state) not thought out or planned beforehand: it was a totally unpremeditated attack.
– DERIVATIVES unpremeditatedly adverb.

unprepared ▶ adjective [predic.] not ready or able to deal with something: she was totally unprepared for what happened next | the transformation caught them unprepared.
■[with infinitive] not willing to do something: they were unprepared to accept what was proposed. ■(of a thing) not made ready for use: paintings on unprepared canvas.
– DERIVATIVES unpreparedness noun.

unprepossessing ▶ adjective not attractive or appealing to the eye.

unpresentable ▶ adjective not clean, smart, or decent enough to be seen in public.

unpressed ▶ adjective (of food or drink) not shaped, squeezed, or obtained by pressure.
■(of clothing) unironed.

unpressurized (also -ised) ▶ adjective (of a gas or its container) not having raised pressure that is produced or maintained artificially.
■(of an aircraft cabin) not having normal atmospheric pressure maintained at a high altitude.

unpretending ▶ adjective archaic not pretentious or false: unpretending sympathy.

unpretentious ▶ adjective not attempting to impress others with an appearance of greater importance, talent, or culture than is actually possessed.
■(of a place) pleasantly simple and functional; modest.
– DERIVATIVES unpretentiously adverb, unpretentiousness noun.

unpriced ▶ adjective having no marked or stated price.

unprimed ▶ adjective not made ready for use or action, in particular:
■(of wood, canvas, or metal) not covered with primer or undercoat. ■ Biology & Medicine (of a cell) not having an induced susceptibility or proclivity.

unprincipled ▶ adjective (of a person or their behaviour) not acting in accordance with moral principles: the public's dislike of unprincipled press behaviour.

unprintable ▶ adjective (of words, comments, or thoughts) too offensive or shocking to be published: Peter's first reply was unprintable.
– DERIVATIVES unprintably adverb.

unprinted ▶ adjective (of a book or piece of writing) not published: unprinted law reports.

unprivileged ▶ adjective not having special rights, advantages, or immunities.

unproblematic ▶ adjective not constituting or presenting a problem or difficulty: none of these approaches is unproblematic.
– DERIVATIVES unproblematical adjective, unproblematically adverb.

unprocessed ▶ adjective not processed: fresh, unprocessed food.

unproclaimed ▶ adjective not announced officially or publicly.

unproductive ▶ adjective not producing or able to produce large amounts of goods, crops, or other commodities: unproductive land must be reforested.
■(of an activity or period) not achieving much; not very useful: unproductive meetings.
– DERIVATIVES unproductively adverb, unproductiveness noun.

unprofessional ▶ adjective below or contrary to the standards expected in a particular profession: a report on unprofessional conduct.
– DERIVATIVES unprofessionalism noun, unprofessionally adverb.

unprofitable ▶ adjective (of a business or activity) not yielding profit or financial gain: the mines became increasingly unprofitable.
■(of an activity) not beneficial or useful: there has been much unprofitable speculation.
– DERIVATIVES unprofitability noun, unprofitably adverb.

unprogressive ▶ adjective not favouring or implementing social reform or new, typically liberal, ideas.

unpromising ▶ adjective not giving hope of future success or good results: the boy's natural intellect had survived in unpromising circumstances.
– DERIVATIVES unpromisingly adverb.

unprompted ▶ adjective said, done, or acting without being encouraged or assisted: unprompted remarks.

unpronounceable ▶ adjective (of a word or name) too difficult to say.
– DERIVATIVES unpronounceably adverb.

unpropitious ▶ adjective (of a circumstance) not giving or indicating a good chance of success; unfavourable.
– DERIVATIVES unpropitiously adverb.

unprosperous ▶ adjective rare not enjoying or bringing financial success.

unprotected ▶ adjective not protected or kept safe from harm or injury: a high, unprotected plateau | health-care workers remained unprotected against hepatitis B infection.
■(of a dangerous machine or mechanism) not fitted with safety guards. ■(of sexual intercourse) performed without a condom. ■ Computing (of data or a memory location) able to be accessed or used without restriction.

unprotesting ▶ adjective not objecting to what someone has said or done.
– DERIVATIVES unprotestingly adverb.

unproud ▶ adjective not having a high opinion of one's worth or accomplishments.

unprovable ▶ adjective unable to be demonstrated by evidence or argument as true or existing: the hypothesis is not merely unprovable, but false.
– DERIVATIVES unprovability noun.

unproven /ʌn'pru:v(ə)n, -'prəʊ-/ (also unproved /-'pru:vd/) ▶ adjective not demonstrated by evidence or argument as true or existing: long-standing but unproven allegations | the risks are unproven.
■(of a new or alternative product, system, or treatment) not tried and tested.

unprovided ▶ adjective not provided.
■(unprovided with) not equipped with (something useful or necessary). ■(unprovided for) (of a dependant) not supplied with sufficient money to cover the cost of living: he left a widow and children totally unprovided for.

unprovoked ▶ adjective (of an attack, or a display of aggression or emotion) not caused by anything done or said: acts of unprovoked aggression.
■(of a person) not provoked to do something.

unpublicized (also -ised) ▶ adjective not made widely known.

unpublished ▶ adjective (of a piece of writing or music) not issued in print for public sale or consumption.
■(of an author) having no writings issued in print.
– DERIVATIVES unpublishable adjective.

unpunctual ▶ adjective not happening or doing something at the agreed or proper time.
– DERIVATIVES unpunctuality noun.

unpunctuated ▶ adjective (of a continuing event) not interrupted or marked by something occurring at intervals: we wished for sleep unpunctuated by the cry of gulls.
■(of text) not containing punctuation marks.

unpunished ▶ adjective [as complement] (of an offence or offender) not receiving a penalty or sanction as retribution for transgression: I can't allow such a mistake to go unpunished.

unpurified ▶ adjective not made pure: unpurified water.

unputdownable ▶ adjective informal (of a book) so engrossing that one cannot stop reading it.

unqualified ▶ adjective 1 (of a person) not officially recognized as a practitioner of a particular profession or activity through having satisfied the relevant conditions or requirements.
■[usu. with infinitive] not competent or sufficiently knowledgeable to do something: I am singularly unqualified to write about football.
2 without reservation or limitation; total: the experiment was not an unqualified success.
– DERIVATIVES unqualifiedly adverb.

unquantifiable ▶ adjective impossible to express or measure in terms of quantity.

unquantified ▶ adjective not expressed or measured in terms of quantity: we now have abundant, if unquantified, evidence.

unquenchable ▶ adjective not able to be quenched: his enthusiasm was unquenchable.
– DERIVATIVES unquenchably adverb.

unquenched ▶ adjective not quenched.

unquestionable ▶ adjective not able to be disputed or doubted: his musicianship is unquestionable.
– DERIVATIVES unquestionability noun, unquestionably adverb [sentence adverb] unquestionably, the loss of his father was a grievous blow.

unquestioned ▶ adjective not disputed or doubted; certain: his loyalty to John is unquestioned.
■not examined or enquired into: an unquestioned assumption. ■ not subjected to questioning.

unquestioning ▶ adjective accepting something without dissent or doubt: an unquestioning acceptance of the traditional curriculum.
– DERIVATIVES unquestioningly adverb.

unquiet ▶ adjective not inclined to be quiet or inactive; restless: she prowled at night like an unquiet spirit.
■uneasy; anxious: her unquiet desperation.
– DERIVATIVES unquietly adverb, unquietness noun.

unquotable ▶ adjective not able to be quoted.

unquote ▶ verb see quote* —— *unquote at QUOTE.

unquoted ▶ adjective not quoted or listed on a stock exchange.

unrated ▶ adjective not having received a rating or assessment.
■US (of a film) not allocated an official classification, typically because regarded as unsuitable for general release. ■ informal not highly regarded.

unravel ▶ verb (unravelled, unravelling; US unraveled, unraveling) [with obj.] 1 undo (twisted, knitted, or woven threads).
■[no obj.] (of twisted, knitted, or woven threads) become undone: part of the crew neck had unravelled. ■ unwind (something wrapped around another object): he unravelled the cellophane from a small cigar.
2 investigate and solve or explain (something complicated or puzzling): they were attempting to unravel the cause of death.
■[no obj.] begin to fail or collapse: his painstaking diplomacy of the last eight months could quickly unravel.

unreachable ▶ adjective unable to be reached or contacted.
– DERIVATIVES unreachableness noun, unreachably adverb.

unreached ▶ adjective not yet reached, especially by those seeking to convert people to Christianity.

unread ▶ adjective (of a book or document) not read.
■archaic (of a person) not well read.

unreadable ▶ adjective not clear enough to read; illegible.
■too dull or difficult to be worth reading: a heavy, unreadable novel.
– DERIVATIVES unreadability noun, unreadably adverb.

unready ▶ adjective [predic.] not prepared for a situation or activity: she was young and unready for motherhood.
■archaic slow to act; hesitant.
– DERIVATIVES unreadiness noun.

unreal ▶ adjective so strange as to appear imaginary; not seeming real: in the half-light the tiny cottages seemed unreal.
■unrealistic: unreal expectations. ■ informal, chiefly N. Amer. incredible; amazing.
– DERIVATIVES unreality noun, unreally adverb.

unrealism ▶ noun [mass noun] lack of realism.

unrealistic ▶ adjective not realistic: it was unrealistic to expect changes to be made overnight.
– DERIVATIVES unrealistically adverb.

unrealizable (also -isable) ▶ adjective not able to be achieved or made to happen: the summit might generate unrealizable public expectations.

unrealized (also -ised) ▶ adjective not achieved or created: an unrealized plan for a full-length novel.
■not converted into money: unrealized property assets.

unreason ▶ noun [mass noun] inability to act or think reasonably.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the senses 'unreasonable intention' and 'impropriety'): from UN-[1] 'lack of' + REASON.

unreasonable ▶ adjective not guided by or based on good sense: your attitude is completely unreasonable.
■beyond the limits of acceptability or fairness: an unreasonable request.
– DERIVATIVES unreasonableness noun, unreasonably adverb.

unreasoned ▶ adjective not based on good sense or logic: an unreasoned reaction to the idea.

unreasoning ▶ adjective not guided by or based on good sense; illogical: unreasoning panic.
– DERIVATIVES unreasoningly adverb.

unreceptive ▶ adjective not receptive, especially to new suggestions or ideas.

unreciprocated ▶ adjective not reciprocated: his feelings for her were unreciprocated.

unreckoned ▶ adjective not calculated or taken into account.

unreclaimed ▶ adjective (especially of land) not reclaimed.

unrecognizable (also -isable) ▶ adjective not able to be recognized or identified from previous encounters.
– DERIVATIVES unrecognizably adverb.

unrecognized (also -ised) ▶ adjective not identified from previous encounters or knowledge.
■not acknowledged as valuable or valid.

unrecompensed ▶ adjective not rewarded or made amends for.

unreconciled ▶ adjective not reconciled: unreconciled conflict.

unreconstructed ▶ adjective 1 not reconciled or converted to the current political theory or movement.
2 not rebuilt.

unrecorded ▶ adjective not recorded.
– DERIVATIVES unrecordable adjective.

unrecoverable ▶ adjective not able to be recovered or corrected.

unrectified ▶ adjective not corrected or amended.

unredeemable ▶ adjective not able to be redeemed: an unredeemable defect.

unredeemed ▶ adjective not redeemed.

unredressed ▶ adjective not corrected or compensated for: unredressed grievances and protests.

unreel ▶ verb [with obj. and adverbial] unwind (something wrapped around another object): she unreeled the plug from her headset.
■[no obj., with adverbial] (of a film) wind from one reel to another during projection.

unreeve ▶ verb (past unrove) [with obj.] Nautical withdraw (a rope) from a securing ring or block.

unrefined ▶ adjective not processed to remove impurities or unwanted elements: unrefined sugar.
■(of a person or their behaviour) not elegant or cultured.

unreflecting ▶ adjective 1 not engaging in reflection or thought: an unreflecting hedonist.
2 not reflecting light.
– DERIVATIVES unreflectingly adverb, unreflectingness noun, unreflective adjective.

unreformed ▶ adjective not changed or improved.

unregarded ▶ adjective not respected or considered; ignored: her sarcasm went unregarded.

unregenerate /ˌʌnrɪˈdʒɛn(ə)rət/ ▶ adjective not reforming or showing repentance; obstinately wrong or bad.
– DERIVATIVES unregeneracy noun, unregenerately adverb.

unregistered ▶ adjective not officially recognized and recorded: unregistered births.

unregulated ▶ adjective not controlled or supervised by regulations or laws.

unrehearsed ▶ adjective not practised before a performance: spontaneous and unrehearsed music.

unrelated ▶ adjective not related: unrelated facts | households containing two or more unrelated people.
– DERIVATIVES unrelatedness noun.

unrelaxed ▶ adjective tense.

unreleased ▶ adjective (especially of a film or recording) not released.

unrelenting ▶ adjective not yielding in strength, severity, or determination: the heat was unrelenting.
■(of a person or their behaviour) not giving way to kindness or compassion: unrelenting opponents.
– DERIVATIVES unrelentingly adverb, unrelentingness noun.

unreliable ▶ adjective not able to be relied upon: he's lazy and unreliable | unreliable information.
– DERIVATIVES unreliability noun, unreliably adverb.

unrelieved ▶ adjective lacking variation or change; monotonous: flowing gowns of unrelieved black.
■not provided with relief; not aided or assisted.
– DERIVATIVES unrelievedly adverb.

unreligious ▶ adjective indifferent or hostile to religion.
■not connected with religion.

unremarkable ▶ adjective not particularly interesting or surprising: his early childhood was unremarkable | an unremarkable house.
– DERIVATIVES unremarkably adverb.

unremarked ▶ adjective not mentioned or remarked upon; unnoticed: she let his bitterness go unremarked.

unremembered ▶ adjective not remembered; forgotten.

unremitting ▶ adjective never relaxing or slackening; incessant: unremitting drizzle.
– DERIVATIVES unremittingly adverb, unremittingness noun.

unremorseful ▶ adjective lacking feelings of regret or guilt.
– DERIVATIVES unremorsefully adverb.

unremovable ▶ adjective not able to be removed.

unremunerative ▶ adjective bringing little or no profit or income: unremunerative research work.
– DERIVATIVES unremuneratively adverb.

unrenewable ▶ adjective not able to be renewed: unrenewable fossil fuels.
– DERIVATIVES unrenewed adjective.

unrepealed ▶ adjective not repealed.

unrepeatable ▶ adjective not able to be done or made again.
■too offensive or shocking to be said again.
– DERIVATIVES unrepeatability noun.

unrepentant ▶ adjective showing no regret for one's wrongdoings.
– DERIVATIVES unrepentantly adverb.

unreported ▶ adjective not reported: many human rights abuses went unreported.

unrepresentative ▶ adjective not typical of a class, group, or body of opinion: an unrepresentative minority.
– DERIVATIVES unrepresentativeness noun.

unrepresented ▶ adjective not represented.

unrequested ▶ adjective not asked for.

unrequited ▶ adjective (of a feeling, especially love) not returned or rewarded.
– DERIVATIVES unrequitedly adverb, unrequitedness noun.

unreserve ▶ noun [mass noun] archaic lack of reserve; frankness.

unreserved ▶ adjective 1 without reservations; complete: he has had their unreserved support.
■frank and open: a tall, unreserved young man.
2 not set apart for a particular purpose or booked in advance: unreserved grandstand seats.
– DERIVATIVES unreservedly adverb, unreservedness noun.

unresisted ▶ adjective not resisted.

unresisting ▶ adjective not showing, producing, or putting up any resistance.
– DERIVATIVES unresistingly adverb.

unresolvable ▶ adjective not able to be resolved.

unresolved ▶ adjective (of a problem, question, or dispute) not resolved: a number of issues remain unresolved.

■archaic (of a person) uncertain of what to think or do.
– DERIVATIVES unresolvedly /-vidli/ adverb, unresolvedness noun.

unresponsive ▶ adjective not responsive: these symptoms may be unresponsive to conventional treatment.
– DERIVATIVES unresponsively adverb, unresponsiveness noun.

unrest ▶ noun [mass noun] a state of dissatisfaction, disturbance, and agitation in a group of people, typically involving public demonstrations or disorder: the very worst years of industrial unrest.
■a feeling of disturbance and dissatisfaction in a person: the frenzy and unrest of her own life.

unrested ▶ adjective (of a person) not refreshed by rest: she woke feeling unrested.

unresting ▶ adjective ceaselessly active.
– DERIVATIVES unrestingly adverb.

unrestored ▶ adjective not repaired or renovated: an unrestored farmhouse.

unrestrained ▶ adjective not restrained or restricted: a display of unrestrained delight.
– DERIVATIVES unrestrainedly adverb, unrestrainedness noun.

unrestricted ▶ adjective not limited or restricted: unrestricted access to both military bases.
– DERIVATIVES unrestrictedly adverb.

unreturned ▶ adjective not reciprocated or responded to: the pain of unreturned love.

unrevised ▶ adjective not revised; in an original form: the manuscript was unrevised when he died.

unrevoked ▶ adjective not revoked or annulled; still in force.

unrewarded ▶ adjective not rewarded: he gave untiring and unrewarded service.

unrewarding ▶ adjective not rewarding or satisfying: it was dull, unrewarding work.

unrhymed ▶ adjective without rhymes; not rhymed.

unridden ▶ adjective not ridden or never having been ridden.

unriddle ▶ verb [with obj.] rare solve; explain.

unrideable (also unridable) ▶ adjective not able to be ridden.

unrig ▶ verb (unrigged, unrigging) [with obj.] remove the rigging from (a ship).
■archaic or dialect undress (someone).

unrighteous ▶ adjective formal not righteous; wicked.
– DERIVATIVES unrighteously adverb, unrighteousness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English unrihtwīs (see UN-[1], RIGHTEOUS).

unrip ▶ verb (unripped, unripping) [with obj.] rare open by ripping: he carefully unripped one of the seams.

unripe ▶ adjective not ripe: unripe fruit.
– DERIVATIVES unripeness noun.

unrisen ▶ adjective not having risen: the unrisen sun.

unrivalled (US unrivaled) ▶ adjective better than everyone or everything of the same type: the paper's coverage of foreign news is unrivalled.

unrivet ▶ verb (unriveted, unriveting) [with obj.] rare undo, unfasten, or detach by the removal of rivets.

unroadworthy ▶ adjective (of a vehicle) not roadworthy.

unrobe ▶ verb less common term for DISROBE.

unroll ▶ verb open or cause to open out from a rolled-up state: [no obj.] the blanket unrolled as he tugged it | [with obj.] two carpets had been unrolled.

unromantic ▶ adjective not romantic.
– DERIVATIVES unromantically adverb.

unroofed ▶ adjective not provided with a roof.

unroot ▶ verb uproot (something).

unrope ▶ verb [no obj.] Climbing detach oneself from a rope.

unrounded ▶ adjective not rounded.
■Phonetics (of a vowel) pronounced with the lips not rounded.

unrove past of UNREEVE.

unruffled ▶ adjective not disordered or disarranged: the unruffled waters of the lake.
■(of a person) not agitated or disturbed; calm.

unruled ▶ adjective 1 poetic/literary not ruled, governed, or under control: men with passions unruled.
2 (of paper) not having ruled lines.

unruly ▶ adjective (unrulier, unruliest) disorderly and disruptive and not amenable to discipline or control: complaints about unruly behaviour.
■(of hair) difficult to keep neat and tidy.
– DERIVATIVES unruliness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from UN-[1] 'not' + archaic ruly 'amenable to discipline or order' (from RULE).

UNRWA ▶ abbreviation for United Nations Relief and Works Agency.

unsaddle ▶ verb [with obj.] remove the saddle from (a horse or other ridden animal).
■dislodge from a saddle.

unsafe ▶ adjective 1 not safe; dangerous: drinking water in some areas may be unsafe.
2 Law (of a verdict or conviction) not based on reliable evidence and likely to constitute a miscarriage of justice.
– DERIVATIVES unsafely adverb, unsafeness noun.

unsafe sex ▶ noun [mass noun] sexual activity in which precautions are not taken to reduce the risk of spreading sexually transmitted diseases, especially Aids.

unsaid[1] past and past participle of UNSAY.

unsaid[2] ▶ adjective not said or uttered: the rest of the remark he left unsaid.

unsalaried ▶ adjective not being paid or involving the payment of a salary: an unsalaried post.

unsaleable (also unsalable) ▶ adjective not able to be sold: the house proved unsaleable.
– DERIVATIVES unsaleability noun.

unsalted ▶ adjective not salted: unsalted butter.

unsanctified ▶ adjective not sanctified.

unsanctioned ▶ adjective not sanctioned.

unsanitary ▶ adjective not sanitary: the unsanitary conditions in the orphanage.

unsatisfactory ▶ adjective unacceptable because poor or not good enough: an unsatisfactory situation.
■Law another term for UNSAFE.
– DERIVATIVES unsatisfactorily adverb, unsatisfactoriness noun.

unsatisfied ▶ adjective not satisfied: the compromise left all sides unsatisfied.

unsatisfying ▶ adjective not satisfying: an unsatisfying relationship.
– DERIVATIVES unsatisfyingly adverb.

unsaturated ▶ adjective Chemistry (of organic molecules) having carbon–carbon double or triple bonds and therefore not containing the greatest possible number of hydrogen atoms.
– DERIVATIVES unsaturation noun.

unsaved ▶ adjective not saved, in particular (in Christian use) not having had one's soul saved from damnation.

unsavoury (US unsavory) ▶ adjective disagreeable to taste, smell, or look at.
■disagreeable and unpleasant because morally disreputable: an unsavoury reputation.
– DERIVATIVES unsavourily adverb, unsavouriness noun.

unsay ▶ verb (past and past participle unsaid) [with obj.] withdraw or retract (a statement).

unsayable ▶ adjective not able to be said, especially because considered too controversial or offensive to mention.

unscalable ▶ adjective not able to be scaled or climbed: a prison with unscalable walls.

unscaled ▶ adjective (of a mountain) not yet climbed: they had climbed a hitherto unscaled peak.

unscarred ▶ adjective not scarred or damaged: he did not escape unscarred.

unscathed ▶ adjective [predic.] without suffering any injury, damage, or harm: I came through all those perils unscathed.

unscented ▶ adjective not scented: unscented soap.

unscheduled ▶ adjective not scheduled: his plane made an unscheduled stop.

unscholarly ▶ adjective not showing the learning and attention to detail characteristic of a scholar.
– DERIVATIVES unscholarliness noun (rare).

unschooled ▶ adjective not educated at or made to attend school: unschooled children.
■lacking knowledge or training in a particular field: she was unschooled in the niceties of royal behaviour.
■not affected or artificial; natural and spontaneous.
■uncontrolled; undisciplined: he reacts with intense, unschooled emotion.

unscientific ▶ adjective 1 not in accordance with scientific principles or methodology: our whole approach is hopelessly unscientific.
2 lacking knowledge of or interest in science.
– DERIVATIVES unscientifically adverb.

unscramble ▶ verb [with obj.] restore (something that has been scrambled) to an intelligible, readable, or viewable state.
– DERIVATIVES unscrambler noun.

unscreened ▶ adjective 1 not subjected to testing or investigation by screening: transfusion with unscreened blood.
■not filtered or sorted using a screen.
2 (of a film or programme) not shown or broadcast: copies of the unscreened episodes.
3 not provided with or hidden by a screen.

unscrew ▶ verb (with reference to a lid or other object held in place by a spiral thread) unfasten or be unfastened by twisting: [with obj.] Will unscrewed the cap from a metal flask | [no obj.] the spout usually unscrews or lifts off easily.
■[with obj.] detach, open, or slacken (something) by removing or loosening the screws holding it in place.

unscripted ▶ adjective said or delivered without a prepared script; impromptu.

unscriptural ▶ adjective not in accordance with the Bible: sacraments deemed unscriptural by Luther.

unscrupulous ▶ adjective having or showing no moral principles; not honest or fair.
– DERIVATIVES unscrupulously adverb, unscrupulousness noun.

unseal ▶ verb [with obj.] remove or break the seal of: she slowly unsealed the envelope.

unsealed ▶ adjective not sealed: unsealed envelopes.
■chiefly Austral./NZ (of a road) not surfaced with bitumen or a similar substance.

unsearchable ▶ adjective poetic/literary unable to be clearly understood; inscrutable.
– DERIVATIVES unsearchableness noun, unsearchably adverb.

unseasonable ▶ adjective (of weather) unusual for the time of year: an unseasonable warm spell.
■untimely; inopportune.
– DERIVATIVES unseasonableness noun, unseasonably adverb.

unseasonal ▶ adjective (especially of weather) unusual or inappropriate for the time of year: temperatures rose to an unseasonal 12°C.

unseasoned ▶ adjective 1 (of food) not flavoured with salt, pepper, or other spices.
2 (of timber) not treated or matured.
■(of a person) inexperienced.

unseat ▶ verb [with obj.] cause (someone) to fall from a horse or bicycle.
■remove from a position of power or authority.

unseaworthy ▶ adjective (of a boat or ship) not in a good enough condition to sail on the sea.

unsecured ▶ adjective 1 (of a loan) made without an asset given as security.
■(of a creditor) having made such a loan.
2 not made secure or safe.

unseeable ▶ adjective not able to be seen; invisible.

unseeded ▶ adjective 1 (chiefly of a competitor in a sports tournament) not seeded.
2 (of a grape) not having seeds.

unseeing ▶ adjective with one's eyes open but without noticing or seeing anything.
– DERIVATIVES unseeingly adverb.

unseemly ▶ adjective (of behaviour or actions) not proper or appropriate: an unseemly squabble.
– DERIVATIVES unseemliness noun.

unseen ▶ adjective not seen or noticed: it seemed she might escape unseen.
■not foreseen or predicted: unseen problems. ■ chiefly Brit. (of a passage for translation in a test or examination) not previously read or prepared.
▶ noun Brit. an unseen passage for translation.

unsegregated ▶ adjective not segregated or set apart from the rest or from others.

unselective ▶ adjective not selective.

unselfconscious ▶ adjective not suffering from or exhibiting self-consciousness; not shy or embarrassed.

– DERIVATIVES unselfconsciously adverb, unself-consciousness noun.

unselfish ▶ adjective willing to put the needs or wishes of others before one's own: unselfish devotion.
– DERIVATIVES unselfishly adverb, unselfishness noun.

unsensational ▶ adjective not sensational or seeking to provoke interest or excitement at the expense of accuracy.
– DERIVATIVES unsensationally adverb.

unsentimental ▶ adjective not displaying or influenced by sentimental feelings.
– DERIVATIVES unsentimentally adverb.

unserious ▶ adjective not serious; light-hearted.

unserved ▶ adjective (of a person or section of society) not attended to or catered for.
■ Law (of a writ or summons) not officially delivered to a person. ■ (of a female animal) not mated with a male.

unserviceable ▶ adjective not in working order or fulfilling its function adequately; unfit for use.
– DERIVATIVES unserviceability noun.

unsettle ▶ verb [with obj.] cause to feel anxious or uneasy; disturb: the crisis has unsettled financial markets | [as adj. unsettling] an unsettling conversation.
– DERIVATIVES unsettlement noun, unsettlingly adverb.

unsettled ▶ adjective 1 lacking stability: an unsettled childhood.
■ worried and uneasy: she felt edgy and unsettled. ■ liable to change; unpredictable: a spell of unsettled weather. ■ not yet resolved: one important question remains unsettled. ■ (of a bill) not yet paid.
2 (of an area) having no settlers or inhabitants.
– DERIVATIVES unsettledness noun.

unsewn binding ▶ noun Brit. another term for PERFECT BINDING.

unsex ▶ verb [with obj.] deprive of gender, sexuality, or the characteristic attributes or qualities of one or other sex.

unsexy ▶ adjective (unsexier, unsexiest) not sexually attractive or exciting.

unshackle ▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be unshackled) release from shackles, chains, or other physical restraints: his feet were unshackled.
■ figurative liberate; set free.

unshaded ▶ adjective 1 (of a light bulb or lamp) not having a shade or cover.
■ not screened from direct light.
2 (of an area of a diagram) not shaded with pencil lines or a block of colour.

unshadowed ▶ adjective not covered or darkened by a shadow or shadows.

unshakeable (also unshakable) ▶ adjective (of a belief, feeling, or opinion) strongly felt and unable to be changed: an unshakeable faith in God.
■ unable to be disputed or questioned: an unshakeable alibi.
– DERIVATIVES unshakeability noun, unshakeably adverb.

unshaken ▶ adjective not disturbed from a firm position or state; steadfast and unwavering: their trust in him remained unshaken.
– DERIVATIVES unshakenly adverb.

unshaped ▶ adjective having a vague, ill-formed, or unfinished shape.

unshared ▶ adjective not shared with or by another or others.

unsharp ▶ adjective Photography (of a picture or image) not well defined.
– DERIVATIVES unsharpness noun.

unshaved ▶ adjective unshaven.

unshaven ▶ adjective not having recently shaved or been shaved.

unsheathe ▶ verb [with obj.] draw or pull out (a knife, sword, or similar weapon) from its sheath or covering.

unshed ▶ adjective (of tears) welling in a person's eyes but not falling on their cheeks.

unshelled ▶ adjective not extracted from its shell: unshelled peanuts.

unshielded ▶ adjective not protected or shielded.

unship ▶ verb (unshipped, unshipping) [with obj.] chiefly Nautical remove (an oar, mast, or other object) from its fixed or regular position: they unshipped the oars.
■ unload (a cargo) from a ship or boat.

unshockable ▶ adjective impossible to shock, horrify, or disgust: most doctors are fairly unshockable.
– DERIVATIVES unshockability noun.

unshod ▶ adjective not wearing shoes.

unshorn ▶ adjective (of a person's hair) not cut.

unshrinking ▶ adjective unhesitating; fearless.
– DERIVATIVES unshrinkingly adverb.

unsighted ▶ adjective lacking the power of sight: blind or unsighted people.
■ (especially in sport) prevented from having a clear view of something. ■ not seen: a distant unsighted object.

unsightly ▶ adjective unpleasant to look at; ugly: an unsightly rubbish tip.
– DERIVATIVES unsightliness noun.

unsigned ▶ adjective 1 not identified or authorized by a person's signature: an unsigned cheque.
■ (of a musician or sports player) not having signed a contract of employment.
2 Mathematics & Computing not having a plus or minus sign, or a bit representing this.

unsinkable ▶ adjective (of a ship or boat) unable to be sunk: the supposedly unsinkable ship hit an iceberg.
– DERIVATIVES unsinkability noun.

unsisterly ▶ adjective not showing the support and affection which is thought to be characteristic of a sister.

unsized ▶ adjective (of fabric, paper, or a wall) not treated with size.

unskilful (also chiefly US unskillful) ▶ adjective not having or showing skill.
– DERIVATIVES unskilfully adverb, unskilfulness noun.

unskilled ▶ adjective not having or requiring special skill or training: unskilled manual workers.

unslakeable (also unslakable) ▶ adjective not able to be quenched or satisfied: her unslakeable desire.

unsleeping ▶ adjective not or never sleeping: much of that night she lay unsleeping.
– DERIVATIVES unsleepingly adverb.

unsliced ▶ adjective (especially of a commercially produced loaf of bread) not having been cut into slices.

unsling ▶ verb (past and past participle unslung) [with obj.] remove (something) from the place where it has been slung or suspended.

unsmiling ▶ adjective (of a person or their manner or expression) serious or unfriendly; not smiling.
– DERIVATIVES unsmilingly adverb, unsmilingness noun.

unsmoked ▶ adjective 1 (of meat or fish) not cured by exposure to smoke: smoked and unsmoked bacon.
2 (of tobacco or a cigarette) not having been smoked.

unsnap ▶ verb (unsnapped, unsnapping) [with obj.] unfasten or open with a brisk movement and a sharp sound: he put the case on the table and unsnapped the clasps.

unsnarl ▶ verb [with obj.] disentangle; sort out.

unsociable ▶ adjective not enjoying or making an effort to behave sociably in the company of others: Terry was grumpy and unsociable.
■ not conducive to friendly social relations: watching TV is a fairly unsociable activity.
– DERIVATIVES unsociability noun, unsociableness noun, unsociably adverb.

USAGE There is some overlap in the use of the adjectives unsociable, unsocial, and antisocial, but they also have distinct core meanings. Generally speaking, unsociable means 'not enjoying the company of others', as in Terry was grumpy and unsociable. Antisocial means 'contrary to the laws and customs of a society', as in aggressive and antisocial behaviour. Unsocial is usually restricted to the sense '(of hours) falling outside the normal working day', as in employees were expected to work unsocial hours.

unsocial ▶ adjective (of the hours of work of a job) falling outside the normal working day and thus socially inconvenient.
■ causing annoyance and disapproval in others; antisocial: the unsocial behaviour of young teenagers. ■ not seeking the company of others.
– DERIVATIVES unsocially adverb.

unsoiled ▶ adjective not stained or dirty.

unsold ▶ adjective (of an item) not sold.

unsolicited ▶ adjective not asked for; given or done voluntarily: unsolicited junk mail.
– DERIVATIVES unsolicitedly adverb.

unsolvable ▶ adjective not able to be solved.
– DERIVATIVES unsolvability noun.

unsolved ▶ adjective not solved: an unsolved mystery.

unsophisticated ▶ adjective lacking refined worldly knowledge or tastes.
■ not complicated or highly developed; basic: unsophisticated computer software.
– DERIVATIVES unsophisticatedly adverb, unsophisticatedness noun, unsophistication noun.

unsorted ▶ adjective not sorted or arranged: a mass of unsorted papers.

unsought ▶ adjective not searched for, requested, or desired.

unsound ▶ adjective not safe or robust; in poor condition: the tower is structurally unsound.
■ not based on sound evidence or reasoning and therefore unreliable or unacceptable: activities deemed to be environmentally unsound. ■ (of a person) not competent, reliable, or holding acceptable views. ■ injured, ill, or diseased; especially (of a horse) lame.
– DERIVATIVES unsoundly adverb, unsoundness noun.

unsounded[1] ▶ adjective not uttered, pronounced, or made to sound.

unsounded[2] ▶ adjective unfathomed.

unsoured ▶ adjective not soured: unsoured milk.

unsown ▶ adjective not having been sown.

unsparing ▶ adjective 1 merciless; severe: he is unsparing in his criticism of the arms trade.
2 given freely and generously: she had won her mother's unsparing approval.
– DERIVATIVES unsparingly adverb, unsparingness noun.

unspeakable ▶ adjective not able to be expressed in words: I felt an unspeakable tenderness towards her.
■ too bad or horrific to express in words.
– DERIVATIVES unspeakableness noun, unspeakably adverb.

unspeaking ▶ adjective not speaking; silent.

unspecialized (also -ised) ▶ adjective not specialized.

unspecific ▶ adjective not specific; vague: he was unspecific about his relationship with Marian.

unspecified ▶ adjective not stated clearly or exactly: an unspecified number of people.

unspectacular ▶ adjective not spectacular; unremarkable: she had been an unspectacular student.
– DERIVATIVES unspectacularly adverb.

unspent ▶ adjective not spent.
■ not exhausted or used up: he shook with unspent rage.

unspilled (also unspilt) ▶ adjective not spilt.

unspiritual ▶ adjective not spiritual; worldly: the clergymen were deplorably unspiritual.
– DERIVATIVES unspirituality noun, unspiritually adverb.

unspoilt (also unspoiled) ▶ adjective not spoilt, in particular (of a place) not marred by development: unspoilt countryside.

unspoken ▶ adjective not expressed in speech; tacit: an unspoken assumption.

unsponsored ▶ adjective not supported or promoted by a sponsor.

unspool ▶ verb [no obj.] unwind from or as if from a spool.
■ (of a film) be screened. ■ [with obj.] show (a film).

unsporting ▶ adjective not fair, generous, or sportsmanlike: the unsporting behaviour of some of the crowd.
– DERIVATIVES unsportingly adverb.

unsportsmanlike ▶ adjective unsporting.

unspotted ▶ adjective not marked with spots.

unsprayed ▶ adjective not having been sprayed, especially with pesticides or other chemicals.

unsprung ▶ adjective not provided with springs.

unstable ▶ adjective (unstabler, unstablest) prone to change, fail, or give way; not stable: the unstable cliff tops | an unstable government.

■prone to psychiatric problems or sudden changes of mood: he was mentally unstable.
– DERIVATIVES unstableness noun, unstably adverb.

unstable equilibrium ▶ noun Physics a state of equilibrium in which a small disturbance will produce a large change.

unstageable ▶ adjective (of a play) impossible or very difficult to present to an audience.

unstained ▶ adjective not stained.

unstamped ▶ adjective 1 not marked by stamping.
2 not having a postage stamp affixed.

unstarched ▶ adjective (especially of fabric or clothing) not starched.

unstated ▶ adjective not stated or declared: a series of unstated assumptions.

unstatesmanlike ▶ adjective not suitable for or befitting a statesman.

unsteady ▶ adjective (unsteadier, unsteadiest) 1 liable to fall or shake; not firm: he was very unsteady on his feet.
2 not uniform or regular.
– DERIVATIVES unsteadily adverb, unsteadiness noun.

unstep ▶ verb (unstepped, unstepping) [with obj.] detach (a mast) from its step.

unstick ▶ verb (past and past participle unstuck) 1 [with obj.] cause to become no longer stuck together.
2 [no obj.] Brit. informal (of an aircraft) take off.
■[with obj.] cause (an aircraft) to take off.
▶ noun [in sing.] Brit. informal the moment at which an aircraft takes off.
– PHRASES come (or get) unstuck become separated or unfastened. ■ informal fail completely: all their clever ideas came unstuck.

unstinted ▶ adjective given without restraint; liberal: they received unstinted praise.
– DERIVATIVES unstintedly adverb.

unstinting ▶ adjective given or giving without restraint; unsparing: he was unstinting in his praise.
– DERIVATIVES unstintingly adverb.

unstirred ▶ adjective not moved, agitated, or stirred.

unstitch ▶ verb [with obj.] undo the stitches of.

unstop ▶ verb (unstopped, unstopping) [with obj.] free (something) from obstruction: he must unstop the sink.
■remove the stopper from (a bottle or other container).

unstoppable ▶ adjective impossible to stop or prevent: an unstoppable left-foot volley.
– DERIVATIVES unstoppability noun, unstoppably adverb.

unstopper ▶ verb [with obj.] remove the stopper from (a bottle or other container): he unstoppered the jar.

unstrained ▶ adjective 1 not forced or produced by effort: a lovely warm unstrained smile.
2 not subjected to straining or stretching.

unstrap ▶ verb (unstrapped, unstrapping) [with obj.] undo the strap or straps of.
■release (someone or something) by undoing straps: they unstrapped themselves.

unstreamed ▶ adjective Brit. (of schoolchildren, a class, or a school) not arranged in streams.

unstressed ▶ adjective 1 Phonetics (of a syllable) not pronounced with stress: an unstressed syllable.
2 not subjected to stress: a well-balanced, unstressed person.

unstring ▶ verb (past and past participle unstrung) [with obj.] 1 [usu. as adj. unstrung] unnerve: a mind unstrung by loneliness.
2 remove or relax the string or strings of (a bow or musical instrument).
3 remove from a string: unstringing the beads from the rosary.

unstructured ▶ adjective without formal organization or structure: an unstructured interview.
■(of a garment) made with little or no interfacing or other material which would give definition to its shape.

unstuck past and past participle of UNSTICK.

unstudied ▶ adjective not laboured or artificial; natural: she had an unstudied grace in every step.
– DERIVATIVES unstudiedly adverb.

unstuffed ▶ adjective not containing stuffing.

unstuffy ▶ adjective 1 friendly, informal, and approachable: colourful and unstuffy periodicals.
2 having fresh air or ventilation.

unstylish ▶ adjective not elegant, fashionable, or stylish.

unsubdued ▶ adjective not restrained or subdued.

unsubjugated ▶ adjective not subjugated.

unsubstantial ▶ adjective having little or no solidity, reality, or factual basis.
– DERIVATIVES unsubstantiality noun, unsubstantially adverb.

unsubstantiated ▶ adjective not supported or proven by evidence: unsubstantiated claims.

unsubtle ▶ adjective not subtle; obvious; clumsy: a grindingly unsubtle joke.
– DERIVATIVES unsubtly adverb.

unsuccess ▶ noun [mass noun] lack of success: I had done two shows with spectacular unsuccess.

unsuccessful ▶ adjective not successful: an unsuccessful attempt to enter Parliament.
– DERIVATIVES unsuccessfully adverb, unsuccessfulness noun.

unsugared ▶ adjective not sweetened with sugar.

unsuitable ▶ adjective not fitting or appropriate: the display is unsuitable for young children.
– DERIVATIVES unsuitability noun, unsuitableness noun, unsuitably adverb.

unsuited ▶ adjective [predic.] not right or appropriate: he was totally unsuited for the job.

unsullied ▶ adjective not spoiled or made impure: an unsullied reputation.

unsummoned ▶ adjective not summoned: these visions appeared, unsummoned.

unsung ▶ adjective not celebrated or praised: Harvey is one of the unsung heroes of the industrial revolution.

unsupervised ▶ adjective not done or acting under supervision: unsupervised visits | a safe garden where children may play unsupervised.

unsupportable ▶ adjective another term for INSUPPORTABLE.
– DERIVATIVES unsupportably adverb.

unsupported ▶ adjective (of a structure, object, or person) not supported physically: a toddler who can stand unsupported.
■not borne out by evidence or facts: the assumption was unsupported by evidence. ■ (of a person or activity) not given financial or other assistance. ■ Computing (of a program, language, or device) not having assistance for the user available from a manufacturer or system manager.

unsupportive ▶ adjective not providing encouragement or emotional help.

unsure ▶ adjective not feeling, showing, or done with confidence and certainty: she was feeling nervous, unsure of herself | [with clause] she was unsure how to reply.
■(of a fact) not fixed or certain: the date is unsure.
– DERIVATIVES unsurely adverb, unsureness noun.

unsurfaced ▶ adjective (of a road or path) not provided with a durable upper layer.

unsurmountable ▶ adjective not able to be overcome; insurmountable.

unsurpassable ▶ adjective not able to be exceeded in quality or degree.
– DERIVATIVES unsurpassably adverb.

unsurpassed ▶ adjective better or greater than any other: the quality of workmanship is unsurpassed.

unsurprised ▶ adjective not feeling or showing surprise at something unexpected: he replied in a flat and unsurprised voice.

unsurprising ▶ adjective not unexpected and so not causing surprise: the outcome of this sombre film is unsurprising.
– DERIVATIVES unsurprisingly adverb [sentence adverb] unsurprisingly, recession is the theme of most reports.

unsusceptible ▶ adjective 1 not likely or liable to be influenced or harmed by a particular thing: infants are relatively unsusceptible to infections.
2 [predic.] (unsusceptible of) not capable or admitting of: their meaning is unsusceptible of analysis.
– DERIVATIVES unsusceptibility noun.

unsuspected ▶ adjective not known or thought to exist or be present; not imagined possible: the actor displays an unsuspected talent for comedy.
■(of a person) not regarded with suspicion.
– DERIVATIVES unsuspectedly adverb.

unsuspecting ▶ adjective (of a person or animal) not aware of the presence of danger; feeling no suspicion: anti-personnel mines lie in wait for their unsuspecting victims.
– DERIVATIVES unsuspectingly adverb, unsuspectingness noun.

unsuspicious ▶ adjective not having or showing suspicion.
– DERIVATIVES unsuspiciously adverb.

unsustainable ▶ adjective not able to be maintained at the current rate or level: macroeconomic instability led to an unsustainable boom.
■Ecology upsetting the ecological balance by depleting natural resources: unsustainable fishing practices. ■ not able to be upheld or defended: both remarks are unsustainable.
– DERIVATIVES unsustainably adverb.

unsustained ▶ adjective not prolonged for an extended period or without interruption.

unswayed ▶ adjective [predic.] (of a person) not influenced or affected: investors are unswayed by suggestions that the numbers are overblown.

unsweetened ▶ adjective (of food or drink) without sugar or a similar substance having been added: unsweetened grapefruit juice.

unswept ▶ adjective (of an area) not cleaned by having the dirt or litter on it swept up.

unswerving ▶ adjective not changing or becoming weaker; steady or constant: unswerving loyalty.
– DERIVATIVES unswervingly adverb.

unsworn ▶ adjective Law (of testimony or evidence) not given under oath.

unsymmetrical ▶ adjective another term for ASYMMETRICAL.
– DERIVATIVES unsymmetrically adverb.

unsympathetic ▶ adjective not feeling, showing, or expressing sympathy: I'm not being unsympathetic, but I can't see why you put up with him.
■[predic.] not showing approval or favour towards an idea or action: they were initially unsympathetic towards the cause of Irish freedom. ■ (of a person) not friendly or cooperative; unlikeable: a totally unsympathetic character.
– DERIVATIVES unsympathetically adverb.

unsystematic ▶ adjective not done or acting according to a fixed plan or system; unmethodical.
– DERIVATIVES unsystematically adverb.

untack[1] ▶ verb [with obj.] detach (something) by the removal of tacks.

untack[2] ▶ verb [with obj.] remove the saddle and bridle from (a horse).

untainted ▶ adjective not contaminated, polluted, or tainted: the paper was untainted by age.

untaken ▶ adjective 1 (of a region or person) not taken by force; uncaptured.
2 (of an action) not put into effect: hard decisions have been left untaken.

untalented ▶ adjective (of a person) not having a natural aptitude or skill.

untameable (also untamable) ▶ adjective (of an animal) not capable of being domesticated.
■not capable of being controlled: her untameable mop of thick black hair.

untamed ▶ adjective not domesticated or otherwise controlled.

untangle ▶ verb [with obj.] free from a tangled or twisted state: fishermen untangle their nets.
■make (something complicated or confusing) easier to understand or deal with.

untanned ▶ adjective 1 (of a person or their skin) not tanned by exposure to the sun.
2 (of animal skin) not converted into leather by tanning: untanned hides.

untapped ▶ adjective (of a resource) not yet exploited or used: the vast untapped potential of individual women and men.

untarnished ▶ adjective (of metal or metalware) not having lost its lustre, especially as a result of exposure to air or moisture.
■figurative not made less valuable or respected: his ministers enjoyed an untarnished reputation.

untasted ▶ adjective (of food or drink) not sampled or tested for flavour.

untaught ▶ adjective (of a person) not trained by teaching: she is totally untaught and will not listen.
■not acquired by teaching; natural or spontaneous: by untaught instinct they know that scent means food.

untaxed ▶ adjective not subject to taxation.

■(of an item, income, etc.) not having had the required tax paid on it.

unteachable ▶ adjective (of a pupil or skill) unable to be taught.

untechnical ▶ adjective not having or requiring technical knowledge.

untempered ▶ adjective not moderated or lessened by anything: the products of a technological mastery untempered by political imagination.

■(of a material) not brought to the proper hardness or consistency.

untenable ▶ adjective (especially of a position or view) not able to be maintained or defended against attack or objection: this argument is clearly untenable.

– DERIVATIVES untenability noun, untenably adverb.

untended ▶ adjective not cared for or looked after; neglected: untended gravestones.

untenured ▶ adjective (of a teacher, lecturer, or other professional) not having a permanent post.

■(of an academic or other post) not permanent.

Untermensch /ˈʊntəmɛn(t)ʃ, German ˈʊntɐmɛnʃ/ ▶ noun (pl. Untermenschen /-mɛn(t)ʃ(ə)n, German -mɛnʃn/) a person considered racially or socially inferior.

– ORIGIN German, literally 'underperson'.

untested ▶ adjective (of an idea, product, or person) not subjected to examination, experiment, or experience; unproven: analyses based on dubious and untested assumptions.

– DERIVATIVES untestable adjective.

untether ▶ verb [with obj.] release or free from a tether: I reached the horses and untethered them.

unthanked ▶ adjective without receiving thanks: the women's kind gesture did not go unthanked.

unthankful ▶ adjective not feeling or showing pleasure, relief, or gratitude.

– DERIVATIVES unthankfully adverb, unthankfulness noun.

unthaw ▶ verb N. Amer. melt or thaw: [with obj.] the warm weather helped unthaw the rail lines.

untheorized (also -ised) ▶ adjective not given a theoretical premise or framework.

unthinkable ▶ adjective (of a situation or event) too unlikely or undesirable to be considered a possibility: it was unthinkable that John could be dead | [as noun the unthinkable] the unthinkable happened—I spoke up.

– DERIVATIVES unthinkability noun, unthinkably adverb [as submodifier] a land of unthinkably vast spaces.

unthinking ▶ adjective expressed, done, or acting without proper consideration of the consequences: she was at pains to correct unthinking prejudices.

– DERIVATIVES unthinkingly adverb, unthinkingness noun.

unthought ▶ adjective not formed by the process of thinking.

■(unthought of) not imagined or dreamed of: the old develop interests unthought of in earlier years.

unthread ▶ verb [with obj.] take (a thread) out of a needle.

■remove (an object) from a thread.

unthreatening ▶ adjective not having a hostile or frightening quality or manner: the nymphet image renders women safe, unthreatening, and biddable.

– DERIVATIVES unthreatened adjective.

unthrifty ▶ adjective 1 not using money and other resources carefully; wasteful.

2 chiefly archaic or dialect (of livestock or plants) not strong and healthy.

– DERIVATIVES unthriftily adverb, unthriftiness noun.

unthrone ▶ verb archaic term for DETHRONE.

untidy ▶ adjective (untidier, untidiest) not arranged neatly and in order: the place was dreadfully untidy.

■(of a person) not inclined to keep one's possessions or appearance neat and in order.

– DERIVATIVES untidily adverb, untidiness noun.

untie ▶ verb (untying) [with obj.] undo or unfasten (a cord or knot): she knelt to untie her laces.

■undo a cord or similar fastening that binds (someone or something): Morton untied the parcel.

– ORIGIN Old English untīgan (see UN-[2], TIE).

untied ▶ adjective 1 not fastened or knotted.

2 (of an international loan or aid) not given subject to the condition that it should be used for purchases from the donor country.

until ▶ preposition & conjunction up to (the point in time or the event mentioned): [as prep.] the kidnappers have given us until October 11th to deliver the documents | he held the office until his death | [as conjunction] you don't know what you can achieve until you try.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old Norse und 'as far as' + TILL[1] (the sense thus duplicated).

USAGE On the differences between until and till, see usage at TILL[1].

untilled ▶ adjective (of land) not prepared and cultivated for crops.

untimely ▶ adjective (of an event or act) happening or done at an unsuitable time: Dave's untimely return.

■(of a death or end) happening too soon or sooner than normal: his untimely death in military action.

▶ adverb archaic at a time that is unsuitable or premature: the moment was very untimely chosen.

– DERIVATIVES untimeliness noun.

untinged ▶ adjective [predic.] (untinged by/with) not in the slightest affected by: a cold-blooded killing untinged by any remorse on your part.

untiring ▶ adjective (of a person or their actions) continuing at the same rate without loss of vigour: his untiring efforts in commissioning ecological reports.

– DERIVATIVES untiringly adverb.

untitled ▶ adjective 1 (of a book, composition, or other artistic work) having no name.

2 (of a person) not having a title indicating high social or official rank: lesser untitled officials.

■(of a sports player) not a champion.

unto ▶ preposition 1 archaic term for TO: do unto others as you would be done by | I say unto you, be gone.

2 archaic term for UNTIL: marriage was forever—unto death.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from UNTIL, with TO replacing TILL[1] (in its northern dialect meaning 'to').

untold ▶ adjective 1 [attrib.] too much or too many to be counted or measured: thieves caused untold damage.

2 (of a story or event) not narrated or recounted: no event, however boring, is left untold.

– ORIGIN Old English unteald 'not counted' (see UN-[1], TOLD).

untoned ▶ adjective 1 (of a person's body) lacking in tone or muscular definition.

2 (especially of music) lacking in variation of tone or subtlety.

untouchable ▶ adjective 1 not able or allowing to be touched or affected: a receptionist looking gorgeous and untouchable.

■unable to be matched or rivalled: when the band retreat to ambience and minimalism, they are untouchable.

2 of or belonging to the lowest-caste Hindu group or the people outside the caste system.

▶ noun a member of the lowest-caste Hindu group or a person outside the caste system. Contact with untouchables is traditionally held to defile members of higher castes.

– DERIVATIVES untouchability noun.

USAGE In senses relating to the traditional Hindu caste system, the term untouchable and the social restrictions accompanying it were declared illegal in the constitution of India in 1949 and of Pakistan in 1953. The official term today is scheduled caste.

untouched ▶ adjective 1 not handled, used, or tasted: Annabel pushed aside her untouched plate.

■(of a subject) not treated in writing or speech; not discussed: no detail is left untouched.

2 not affected, changed, or damaged in any way: Prague was relatively untouched by the war.

untoward ▶ adjective unexpected and inappropriate or inconvenient: both tried to behave as if nothing untoward had happened | untoward jokes and racial remarks.

– DERIVATIVES untowardly adverb, untowardness noun.

untraceable ▶ adjective unable to be found, discovered, or traced: many use false addresses and are untraceable.

– DERIVATIVES untraceably adverb.

untraced ▶ adjective not found or discovered by investigation: patients with untraced records.

untracked ▶ adjective (of land) not previously explored or traversed; without a path or tracks: the Saxons usually hid in the untracked marshlands.

– PHRASES get untracked US get into one's stride or find good form, especially in sporting contexts.

untraditional ▶ adjective not existing in or as part of a tradition; not customary or long-established.

untrained ▶ adjective not having been trained in a particular skill: self-styled doctors untrained in diagnosis | to the untrained eye, the two products look remarkably similar.

– DERIVATIVES untrainable adjective.

untrammelled (US also untrammeled) ▶ adjective not deprived of freedom of action or expression; not restricted or hampered: a mind untrammelled by convention.

untransferable ▶ adjective not able to be transferred to another place, occupation, or person.

untransformed ▶ adjective not having been transformed in form, appearance, or character.

untranslatable /ˌʌntrans'leɪtəb(ə)l, ˌʌntrɑːns-, -z-/ ▶ adjective (of a word, phrase, or text) not able to have its sense expressed in another language: an untranslatable German pun.

– DERIVATIVES untranslatability noun.

untravelled (US also untraveled) ▶ adjective (of a person) not having travelled much.

■(of a road or region) not journeyed along or through: an unknown and untravelled wilderness.

untreatable ▶ adjective (of a patient, disease, or other condition) for whom or which no medical care is available or possible.

untreated ▶ adjective 1 (of a patient, disease, or other condition) not given medical care: untreated cholera can kill up to half of those infected.

2 not preserved, improved, or altered by the use of a chemical, physical, or biological agent: untreated sewage is pumped directly into the sea.

untrendy ▶ adjective informal not very fashionable or up to date: his untrendy long hair.

untried ▶ adjective 1 not yet tested to discover quality or reliability; inexperienced: he chose two untried actors for leading roles.

2 Law (of an accused person) not yet subjected to a trial in court.

untrimmed ▶ adjective not having been trimmed.

untrodden ▶ adjective (of a surface) not having been walked on: untrodden snow.

untroubled ▶ adjective not feeling, showing, or affected by anxiety or problems: a man untroubled by a guilty conscience | an untroubled gaze.

untrue ▶ adjective 1 not in accordance with fact or reality; false or incorrect: these suggestions are totally untrue | a malicious and untrue story.

2 [predic.] not faithful or loyal.

3 incorrectly positioned or balanced; not upright or level.

– DERIVATIVES untruly adverb.

– ORIGIN Old English untrēowe 'unfaithful' (see UN-[1], TRUE).

untrussed ▶ adjective (of a chicken or other bird prepared for eating) having had its wings and legs unfastened before cooking: an untrussed chicken.

untrusting ▶ adjective not tending to believe in other people's honesty or sincerity; suspicious.

untrustworthy ▶ adjective not able to be relied on as honest or truthful.

– DERIVATIVES untrustworthiness noun.

untruth ▶ noun (pl. untruths) a lie or false statement (often used euphemistically): they go off and tell untruths about organizations for which they worked.

■[mass noun] the quality of being false.

– ORIGIN Old English untrēowth 'unfaithfulness' (see UN-[1], TRUTH).

untruthful ▶ adjective saying or consisting of something that is false or incorrect: companies issuing untruthful recruitment brochures.

– DERIVATIVES untruthfully adverb, untruthfulness noun.

untuck ▶ verb [with obj.] free the edges or ends of (something) from being hidden or held in place.

untucked ▶ adjective with the edges or ends hanging loose; not tucked in: an untucked shirt.

untuned ▶ adjective not tuned or properly adjusted.

untuneful ▶ adjective not having a pleasing melody; unmusical: an untuneful hymn.

– DERIVATIVES untunefully adverb.

unturned ▶ adjective not turned: unturned soil.

untutored ▶ adjective not formally taught or trained: the species are all much the same to the untutored eye.

untwine ▶ verb make or become unwound or untwisted: [with obj.] Robyn untwined her fingers.

untwist ▶ verb open or cause to open from a twisted position: [with obj.] he untwisted the wire and straightened it out.

untying present participle of UNTIE.

untypical ▶ adjective not having the distinctive qualities of a particular type of person or thing; unusual or uncharacteristic: the harsh dissonances give a sound which is quite untypical of that period.
- DERIVATIVES untypically adverb [as submodifier] I'll keep this review untypically short | [sentence adverb] not untypically, one large painting took her five months.

unusable ▶ adjective not fit to be used: the steps were overgrown and unusable.

unused ▶ adjective 1 not being, or never having been, used: any unused equipment will be welcomed back.
2 [predic.] (unused to) not familiar with or accustomed to something: unused to spicy food, she took a long mouthful of water.

unusual ▶ adjective not habitually or commonly occurring or done: the government has taken the unusual step of calling home its ambassador | it was unusual for Dennis to be late.
■remarkable or interesting because different from or better than others: a man of unusual talent.
- DERIVATIVES unusually adverb [sentence adverb] unusually for a city hotel, it is set around a lovely garden | [as submodifier] he made an unusually large number of mistakes, unusualness noun.

unutterable ▶ adjective too great, intense, or awful to describe: there was an unutterable sadness around Medina del Campo | I felt an unutterable fool.
- DERIVATIVES unutterably adverb [as submodifier] Juliet climbed the stairs, feeling unutterably weary.

unuttered ▶ adjective (of words or thoughts) not spoken or expressed.

unvalued ▶ adjective 1 not considered to be important or beneficial: he felt unvalued.
2 archaic not valued or appraised with regard to monetary worth.

unvanquished ▶ adjective (of an opponent or obstacle) not conquered or overcome.

unvaried ▶ adjective not involving change: a plain, unvaried diet.

unvarnished ▶ adjective not covered with varnish.
■(of a statement or manner) plain and straightforward: please tell me the unvarnished truth.

unvarying ▶ adjective not changing; constant or uniform: the unvarying routine of parsonage life.
- DERIVATIVES unvaryingly adverb [as submodifier] they found her to be unvaryingly polite, unvaryingness noun.

unveil ▶ verb [with obj.] remove a veil or covering from, in particular uncover (a new monument or work of art) as part of a public ceremony: the Princess unveiled a plaque | [as noun unveiling] the unveiling of the memorial.
■show or announce publicly for the first time: the Home Secretary has unveiled plans to crack down on crime.

unventilated ▶ adjective (of a room or space) not provided with fresh air.

unverifiable ▶ adjective not able to be verified: an unverifiable hypothesis.

unverified ▶ adjective not having been verified.

unversed ▶ adjective [predic.] (unversed in) not experienced or skilled in; not knowledgeable about: he was unversed in Washington ways.

unviable ▶ adjective not capable of working successfully; not feasible: the commission found the plan to be financially unviable.
- DERIVATIVES unviability noun.

unviolated ▶ adjective not violated or desecrated.

unvisited ▶ adjective (of a place) having had no people visit it: Antarctica remained unvisited until the late 18th century.

unvitiated /ʌnˈvɪʃɪeɪtɪd/ ▶ adjective archaic pure and uncorrupted.

unvoiced ▶ adjective 1 not expressed in words: unuttered: a person's unvoiced thoughts.
2 Phonetics (of a speech sound) uttered without vibration of the vocal cords.

unwaged ▶ adjective chiefly Brit. (of a person) out of work or doing unpaid work: unwaged adults claiming income support.
■(of work) unpaid: recognition of unwaged work.

unwalled ▶ adjective (of a place) without enclosing or defensive walls.

unwanted ▶ adjective not or no longer desired: affairs can lead to unwanted pregnancies | she felt unwanted.

unwarlike ▶ adjective not disposed towards war or hostilities.

unwarned ▶ adjective (of a person) not warned in advance about something.

unwarrantable ▶ adjective not able to be authorized or sanctioned; unjustifiable: an unwarrantable intrusion into personal matters.
- DERIVATIVES unwarrantably adverb.

unwarranted ▶ adjective not justified or authorized: I am sure your fears are unwarranted.

unwary ▶ adjective not cautious of possible dangers or problems: accidents can happen to the unwary traveller | [as plural noun the unwary] hidden traps for the unwary.
- DERIVATIVES unwarily adverb, unwariness noun.

unwashed ▶ adjective not having been washed.
- PHRASES the (great) unwashed derogatory the mass or multitude of ordinary people.

unwatchable ▶ adjective (of a film or television programme) too poor, tedious, or disturbing to be viewed.

unwatched ▶ adjective not looked at or observed.

unwatered ▶ adjective not supplied or sprinkled with water.

unwavering ▶ adjective not wavering; steady or resolute: she fixed him with an unwavering stare.
- DERIVATIVES unwaveringly adverb.

unweaned ▶ adjective (of an infant or other young mammal) not accustomed to food other than its mother's milk.

unwearable ▶ adjective (of a garment) not fit to be worn.

unwearied ▶ adjective not tired or becoming tired.
- DERIVATIVES unweariedly adverb.

unwearying ▶ adjective never tiring or slackening.
- DERIVATIVES unwearyingly adverb.

unwed (also unwedded) ▶ adjective not married: an unwed teenage mother.
- DERIVATIVES unweddedness noun.

unweight ▶ verb [with obj.] momentarily stop pressing heavily on (a ski or skateboard) in order to make a turn more easily.
- ORIGIN 1930s: back-formation from UNWEIGHTED.

unweighted ▶ adjective 1 without a weight attached.
2 Statistics (of a figure or sample) not adjusted or biased to reflect importance or value.

unwelcome ▶ adjective (of a guest or new arrival) not gladly received: guards kept out unwelcome visitors.
■not much needed or desired: unwelcome attentions from men.
- DERIVATIVES unwelcomely adverb, unwelcomeness noun.

unwelcoming ▶ adjective having an inhospitable or uninviting atmosphere or appearance: Jean crept into her cold and unwelcoming bed.
■(of a person or their manner) not friendly towards someone arriving or approaching.

unwell ▶ adjective [predic.] ill: he was admitted to hospital for tests after feeling unwell.

unwept ▶ adjective chiefly poetic/literary (of a person) not mourned or lamented.

unwhipped ▶ adjective Brit. (of an MP or vote) not subject to a party whip.

unwholesome ▶ adjective not characterized by or conducive to health or moral well-being: the use of the living room as sleeping quarters led to unwholesome crowding.
- DERIVATIVES unwholesomely adverb, unwholesomeness noun.

unwieldy ▶ adjective (unwieldier, unwieldiest) difficult to carry or move because of its size, shape, or weight: the first mechanical clocks were large and unwieldy.
■(of a system or bureaucracy) too big or badly organized to function efficiently.
- DERIVATIVES unwieldily adverb, unwieldiness noun.
- ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'lacking strength, infirm'): from UN-[1] 'not' + WIELDY (in the obsolete sense 'active').

unwilling ▶ adjective [often with infinitive] not ready, eager, or prepared to do something: he was unwilling to take on that responsibility | unwilling conscripts.
- DERIVATIVES unwillingly adverb, unwillingness noun.
- ORIGIN Old English unwillende (see UN-[1], WILLING).

unwind ▶ verb (past and past participle unwound) undo or be undone after winding or being wound: [with obj.] Ellá unwound the long woollen scarf from her neck | [no obj.] the net unwinds from the reel.
■[no obj.] relax after a period of work or tension: the Grand Hotel is a superb place to unwind.

unwinking ▶ adjective (of a stare or a shining light) steady; unwavering: the lights shone unwinking in the still air | unwinking blue eyes.
- DERIVATIVES unwinkingly adverb.

unwinnable ▶ adjective not able to be won: an immoral and unwinnable war.

unwisdom ▶ noun [mass noun] folly; lack of wisdom: it stresses the unwisdom of fathers leaving their children.
- ORIGIN Old English unwīsdōm (see UN-[1], WISDOM).

unwise ▶ adjective (of a person or action) not wise or sensible; foolish: it is unwise to rely on hearsay evidence | unwise policy decisions.
- DERIVATIVES unwisely adverb [sentence adverb] unwisely, she repeated the remark to her mother.
- ORIGIN Old English unwīs (see UN-[1], WISE[1]).

unwished ▶ adjective not wanted or desired.

unwithered ▶ adjective not withered.

unwitnessed ▶ adjective (especially of an event) not witnessed.

unwitting ▶ adjective (of a person) not aware of the full facts: an unwitting accomplice.
■not done on purpose; unintentional: we are anxious to rectify the unwitting mistakes made in the past.
- DERIVATIVES unwittingly adverb [sentence adverb] quite unwittingly you played right into my hands that night, unwittingness noun.
- ORIGIN Old English unwitende 'not knowing or realizing' (see UN-[1], WIT[2]).

unwomanly ▶ adjective not having or showing qualities traditionally associated with women: initiative of any overt sort was considered unwomanly.
- DERIVATIVES unwomanliness noun.

unwonted /ʌnˈwəʊntɪd/ ▶ adjective [attrib.] unaccustomed or unusual: there was an unwonted gaiety in her manner.
- DERIVATIVES unwontedly adverb [as submodifier] she was unwontedly shy and subdued, unwontedness noun.

unwooded ▶ adjective 1 not having many trees.
2 (of a wine) not stored in a wooden cask.

unworkable ▶ adjective not able to function or be carried out successfully; impractical: an unworkable scheme.
■(of a material) not able to be worked: the alloy becomes brittle and almost unworkable.
- DERIVATIVES unworkability noun, unworkably adverb.

unworked ▶ adjective not cultivated, mined, or carved: unworked fields | unworked flint nodules.

unworkmanlike ▶ adjective badly done or made.

unworldly ▶ adjective (of a person) not having much awareness of the realities of life, in particular not motivated by material or practical considerations: she was so shrewd in some ways, but hopelessly unworldly in others.
■not seeming to belong to this planet; strange: the unworldly monolith loomed four stories high.
- DERIVATIVES unworldliness noun.

unworn ▶ adjective not damaged or shabby-looking as a result of much use: the tyres appear unworn, even after many fast miles | unworn carpeting.
■(of a garment) never worn.

unworried ▶ adjective [predic.] not anxious or uneasy: foreign investors are largely unworried by the government's fall.

unworthy ▶ adjective (unworthier, unworthiest) not deserving effort, attention, or respect: he was unworthy of trust and unfit to hold office.
■(of a person's action or behaviour) not acceptable, especially from someone with a good reputation or social position: such a suggestion is unworthy of the Honourable Gentleman. ■ having little value or merit: many pieces are unworthy and ungrammatical.

– DERIVATIVES unworthily adverb, unworthiness noun.

unwound[1] ▶ adjective (of a clock or watch) not wound or wound up.

unwound[2] past and past participle of UNWIND.

unwounded ▶ adjective not hurt or injured.

unwrap ▶ verb (unwrapped, unwrapping) [with obj.] remove the wrapping from a package: children excitedly unwrapping and playing with their new presents.

unwrinkled ▶ adjective (especially of fabric or the skin) free from wrinkles.

unwritable ▶ adjective not able to be written.

unwritten ▶ adjective not recorded in writing: documenting unwritten languages.
■(especially of a law) resting originally on custom or judicial decision rather than on statute: an unwritten constitution. ■(of a convention) understood and accepted by everyone, although not formally established: the unwritten rules of social life.

unyielding ▶ adjective (of a mass or structure) not giving way to pressure; hard or solid: the Atlantic hurled its waves at the unyielding rocks.
■(of a person or their behaviour) unlikely to be swayed; resolute: his unyielding faith.
– DERIVATIVES unyieldingly adverb, unyieldingness noun.

unyoke ▶ verb [with obj.] release (a pair of animals) from a yoke.
■[no obj.] archaic cease work.

unzip ▶ verb (unzipped, unzipping) [with obj.] unfasten the zip fastener of.
■Computing decompress (a file) that has previously been compressed.

up ▶ adverb 1 towards the sky or a higher position: he jumped up | two of the men hoisted her up | the curtain went up.
■upstairs: she made her way up to bed. ■out of bed: Miranda hardly ever got up for breakfast | he had been up for hours. ■(of the sun) visible in the sky after daybreak: the sun was already up when they set off. ■expressing movement towards or position in the north: driving up to Inverness to see the old man. ■to or at a place perceived as higher: going for a walk up to the shops. ■towards or in the capital or a major city: give me a ring when you're up in London. ■Brit. at or to a university, especially Oxford or Cambridge: they were up at Cambridge about the same time. ■(of food that has been eaten) regurgitated from the stomach: I was ill and vomited up everything. ■[as exclamation] used as a command to a soldier or an animal to stand up and be ready to move or attack: up, boys, and at 'em.
2 to the place where someone is: Dot didn't hear Mrs Parvis come creeping up behind her.
3 at or to a higher level of intensity, volume, or activity: she turned the volume up | liven up the graphics | US environmental groups had been stepping up their attack on GATT.
■at or to a higher price, value, or rank: sales are up 22.8 per cent at $50.2 m | unemployment is up and rising. ■winning or at an advantage by a specified margin: United were 3–1 up at half time | we came away £300 up on the evening.
4 into the desired or a proper condition: the government agreed to set up a committee of inquiry.
■so as to be finished or closed: I've got a bit of paperwork to finish up | he zipped up the holdall.
5 into a happy mood: I don't think anything's going to cheer me up.
6 displayed on a noticeboard or other publicly visible site: sticking up posters to advertise concerts.
■(of points in a game) scored or registered on a scoreboard.
7 (of sailing) against the current or the wind.
■(of a ship's helm) moved round to windward so that the rudder is to leeward.
8 Baseball at bat: every time up, he had a different stance.
▶ preposition from a lower to a higher point on (something); upwards along: she climbed up a flight of steps.
■from one end to another of (a street or other area), not necessarily with any noticeable change in altitude: cycling up St Giles towards North Oxford | walking up the street. ■to a higher part of (a river or stream), away from the sea: a cruise up the Rhine. ■informal at or to (a place, typically one considered interesting or sophisticated): going up the Palais.
▶ adjective 1 [attrib.] directed or moving towards a higher place or position: the up escalator.
■relating to or denoting trains travelling towards the major point on a route: the first up train. ■Physics denoting a flavour of quark having a charge of +⅔. Protons and neutrons are thought to be composed of combinations of up and down quarks.
2 [predic.] (of the road) being repaired.
3 (of a jockey) in the saddle.
4 [predic.] in a cheerful mood; ebullient: the mood here is resolutely up.
■Brit. dated (of a drink) effervescent; frothy.
5 [predic.] (of a computer system) functioning properly: the system is now up.
6 [predic.] at an end: his contract was up in three weeks | time's up.
▶ noun informal a period of good fortune: you can't have ups all the time in football.
▶ verb (upped, upping) 1 [no obj.] (up and do something) informal do something abruptly or boldly: she upped and left him.
2 [with obj.] cause (a level or amount) to be increased: capacity will be upped by 70 per cent next year.
3 [with obj.] lift (something) up: everybody was cheering and upping their glasses.
■[no obj.] (up with) informal, chiefly W. Indian & US raise or pick up (something): this woman ups with a stone.
– PHRASES it is all up with informal it is the end or there is no hope for (someone or something). on the up and up informal 1 Brit. steadily improving or becoming more successful. 2 chiefly N. Amer. honest or sincere. something is up informal something unusual or undesirable is happening or afoot. up against close to or in contact with: crowds pressed up against the police barricades. ■ informal confronted with or opposed by: I began to think of what teachers are up against today. ■ (up against it) informal facing some serious but unspecified difficulty: they play better when they're up against it. up and about no longer in bed (after sleep or an illness). up and doing active; busy: a normal young chap wants to be up and doing. up and down 1 moving upwards and downwards: bouncing up and down. 2 to and fro: pacing up and down in front of her desk. ■ [as prep.] to and fro along: strolling up and down the corridor. 3 in various places throughout: in clubs up and down the country. 4 informal in varying states or moods; changeable: my relationship with her was up and down. up and running (especially of a computer system) in operation; functioning: the new computer is up and running. up the ante see ANTE. up before appearing for a hearing in the presence of: we'll have to come up before a magistrate. up for 1 available for: the house next door is up for sale. 2 being considered for: he had been up for promotion. 3 due for: his contract is up for renewal in June. up for it informal ready to take part in a particular activity: Nigel was really up for it, as always. up hill and down dale all over the place: he led me up hill and down dale till my feet were dropping off. up on well informed about: he was up on the latest methods. up sticks see STICK[1]. up to 1 as far as: I could reach just up to his waist. ■ (also up until) until: up to now I hadn't had a relationship. 2 indicating a maximum amount: the process is expected to take up to two years. 3 [with negative or in questions] as good as; good enough for: I was not up to her standards. ■ capable of or fit for: he is simply not up to the job. 4 the duty, responsibility, or choice of (someone): it was up to them to gauge the problem. 5 informal occupied or busy with: what's he been up to? up top Brit. informal in the brain (with reference to intelligence): a man with nothing much up top. up with —— an exclamation expressing support for a stated person or thing. up yours vulgar slang an exclamation expressing contemptuous defiance or rejection of someone. what's up? informal 1 what is going on? 2 what is the matter?: what's up with you?
– ORIGIN Old English up(p), uppe, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch op and German auf.

up- ▶ prefix 1 (added to verbs and their derivatives) upwards: upturned | upthrow.
■to a more recent time: update.
2 (added to nouns) denoting motion up: upriver | uphill.
3 (added to nouns) higher: upland | upstroke
■increased: up-tempo.

up-anchor ▶ verb [no obj.] (of a ship) weigh anchor.

up-and-coming ▶ adjective (of a person beginning a particular activity or occupation) making good progress and likely to become successful: up-and-coming young players.
– DERIVATIVES up-and-comer noun.

up-and-over ▶ adjective (of a door, typically one to a garage) opened by being raised and pushed back into a horizontal position.

up-and-under ▶ noun Rugby a high kick that allows time for fellow team members to reach the point where the ball will come down.

Upanishad /uːˈpanɪʃad/ ▶ noun each of a series of Hindu sacred treatises written in Sanskrit *c.*800–200 BC, expounding the Vedas in predominantly mystical and monistic terms.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit, literally 'sitting near (i.e. at the feet of a master)', from upa 'near' + ni-ṣad 'sit down'.

upas /ˈjuːpəs/ (also upas tree) ▶ noun a tropical Asian tree, the milky sap of which has been used as arrow poison and for ritual purposes.
• Antiaris toxicaria, family Moraceae.
■(in folklore) a Javanese tree alleged to poison its surroundings and said to be fatal to approach.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Malay (pohun) upas 'poison'.

upbeat ▶ noun (in music) an unaccented beat preceding an accented beat.
▶ adjective informal cheerful; optimistic.

upbraid ▶ verb [with obj.] find fault with (someone); scold: he was upbraided for his slovenly appearance.
– ORIGIN late Old English upbrēdan 'allege (something) as a basis for censure', based on BRAID in the obsolete sense 'brandish'. The current sense dates from Middle English.

upbringing ▶ noun the treatment and instruction received by a child from its parents throughout its childhood: she had had a Christian upbringing | he was a countryman by upbringing.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from obsolete upbring 'to rear' (see UP-, BRING).

upbuild ▶ verb (past and past participle -built) [with obj.] chiefly poetic/literary construct or develop (something).

up card ▶ noun chiefly US a playing card turned face up on the table, especially the top card of the waste heap in rummy.

upcast ▶ noun (also upcast shaft) a shaft through which air leaves a mine.
▶ verb (past and past participle -cast) [with obj.] cast (something) upward: [as adj. upcast] upcast light.

upchuck N. Amer. informal ▶ verb vomit: [no obj.] don't let her upchuck on him | [with obj.] I almost upchucked my toasted marshmallows.
▶ noun [mass noun] matter vomited from the stomach.

upcoast ▶ adverb & adjective further up the coast.

upcoming ▶ adjective forthcoming; about to happen: the upcoming election.

upcountry ▶ adverb & adjective in or towards the interior of a country; inland: [as adv.] she comes from somewhere up-country | [as adj.] a little up-country town.

update ▶ verb /ʌpˈdeɪt/ [with obj.] make (something) more modern or up to date: security measures are continually updated and improved | [as adj. updated] an updated list of subscribers.
■give (someone) the latest information about something: the reporter promised to keep the viewers updated.
▶ noun /ˈʌpdeɪt/ an act of bringing something or someone up to date, or an updated version of something: an update on recently published crime figures.
– DERIVATIVES updatable adjective (Computing).

Updike /ˈʌpdʌɪk/, John (Hoyer) (b.1932), American novelist, poet, and short-story writer. He is noted for his quartet of novels Rabbit, Run (1960), Rabbit Redux (1971), Rabbit is Rich (Pulitzer Prize, 1981), and Rabbit at Rest (Pulitzer Prize, 1990).

updoming /ˈʌpdəʊmɪŋ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Geology the upward deformation of a rock mass into a dome shape.

updraught (US updraft) ▶ noun an upward current or draught of air.

upend ▶ verb [with obj.] set or turn (something) on its end or upside down: she upended a can of soup over the portions | [as adj. upended] an upended box.
■[no obj.] (of a swimming duck or other waterbird) submerge the head and foreparts in order to feed, so that the tail is raised in the air.

upfield ▶ adverb 1 (in sport) in or to a position nearer to the opponents' end of a field.
2 Physics in a direction corresponding to increasing field strength.

upflung ▶ adjective chiefly poetic/literary (especially of limbs) flung upwards, especially in a gesture of helplessness or alarm.

upfront informal ▶ adverb (usu. up front) 1 at the front; in front: he can played up front or in defence.
2 (of a payment) in advance.
▶ adjective 1 bold, honest, and frank: he'd been upfront about his intentions.
2 [attrib.] (of a payment) made in advance.
3 chiefly US at the front or the most prominent position: a literary weekly with an upfront section modelled on the New Yorker.

upgrade ▶ verb [with obj.] raise (something) to a higher standard, in particular improve (equipment or machinery) by adding or replacing components: [as adj. upgraded] upgraded computers.
■raise (an employee) to a higher grade or rank.
▶ noun an act of upgrading something.
■an improved or more modern version of something, especially a piece of computing equipment.
– PHRASES on the upgrade improving; progressing.
– DERIVATIVES upgradeability (also upgradability) noun, upgradeable (also upgradable) adjective.

upgrowth ▶ noun [mass noun] the process or result of growing upwards.
■[count noun] an upward growth.

uphaul ▶ noun a rope used for hauling up a boat's sail or centreboard.

upheaval ▶ noun a violent or sudden change or disruption to something: major upheavals in the financial markets | [mass noun] times of political upheaval.
■an upward displacement of part of the earth's crust.

upheave ▶ verb [with obj.] poetic/literary heave or lift up (something, especially part of the earth's surface): the area was first upheaved from the primeval ocean.

Up-Helly-Aa /ˌʌphɛlɪˈɑː/ (also Up-Helly-A') ▶ noun an annual festival held at Lerwick in the Shetland Islands, celebrated as the revival of a traditional midwinter fire festival.
– ORIGIN variant of Scots Uphaliday, denoting Epiphany as the end of the Christmas holiday.

uphill ▶ adverb in an ascending direction up a hill or slope: follow the track uphill.
▶ adjective sloping upwards; ascending: the journey is slightly uphill.
■figurative requiring great effort; difficult: an uphill struggle to gain worldwide recognition.
▶ noun an upward slope.

uphold ▶ verb (past and past participle -held) [with obj.] confirm or support (something which has been questioned): the court upheld his claim for damages.
■maintain (a custom or practice): they uphold a tradition of not causing distress to living creatures.
– DERIVATIVES upholder noun.

upholster /ʌpˈhəʊlstə, -ˈhɒl-/ ▶ verb [with obj.] provide (furniture) with a soft, padded covering: the chairs were upholstered in red velvet | [as adj. upholstered] an upholstered stool.
■cover the walls or furniture in (a room) with textiles.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: back-formation from UPHOLSTERER.

upholsterer ▶ noun a person who upholsters furniture, especially professionally.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from the obsolete noun upholster (from UPHOLD in the obsolete sense 'keep in repair') + -STER.

upholstery ▶ noun [mass noun] soft, padded textile covering that is fixed to furniture such as armchairs and sofas.
■the art or practice of fitting such a covering.

upkeep ▶ noun [mass noun] the process of keeping something in good condition: we will be responsible for the upkeep of the access road.
■financial or material support of a person or animal: payments for the children's upkeep.

upland ▶ noun [mass noun] (also uplands) an area of high or hilly land: conservation of areas of upland.

upland cotton ▶ noun [mass noun] cotton of a type grown in the US, which typically yields medium- and short-stapled forms of cotton.
• Gossypium hirsutum var. latifolium, family Malvaceae.

uplift ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 [usu. as adj. uplifted] lift (something) up; raise: her uplifted face.
■(be uplifted) (of an island, mountain, etc.) be created by an upward movement of the earth's surface.
2 elevate or stimulate (someone) morally or spiritually: [as adj. uplifting] an uplifting tune.
▶ noun 1 an act of raising something.
■Geology the upward movement of part of the earth's surface. ■ [mass noun] [often as modifier] support, especially for a woman's bust, from a garment: an uplift bra.
2 a morally or spiritually elevating influence: their love will prove an enormous uplift.
– DERIVATIVES uplifter noun.

uplighter (also uplight) ▶ noun a light placed or designed to throw illumination upwards.
– DERIVATIVES uplighting noun.

uplink ▶ noun a communications link to a satellite.
▶ verb [with obj.] provide (someone) with or send (something) by such a link: I can uplink fax transmissions to a satellite.

upload Computing ▶ verb [with obj.] transfer (data) to a larger computer system.
▶ noun [mass noun] the action or process of transferring data in such a way.

upmarket ▶ adjective & adverb chiefly Brit. towards or relating to the more expensive or affluent sector of the market: [as adj.] an upmarket housing estate | [as adv.] they used their newly acquired cash to move a little upmarket.

upmost ▶ adjective another term for UPPERMOST.

upon ▶ preposition more formal term for ON, especially in abstract senses: it was based upon two principles | a school's dependence upon parental support.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from UP + ON, suggested by Old Norse upp á.

USAGE The preposition upon has the same core meaning as the preposition on. However, in modern English upon tends to be restricted to more formal contexts or to established phrases and idioms, as in once upon a time and row upon row of seats.

upper[1] ▶ adjective 1 situated above another part: his upper arm | the upper atmosphere.
■higher in position or status: the upper end of the social scale.
2 situated on higher ground.
■situated to the north: [in place names] Upper California.
3 Geology & Archaeology denoting a younger (and hence usually shallower) part of a stratigraphic division or archaeological deposit or the period in which it was formed or deposited: the Upper Palaeolithic age.
▶ noun the part of a boot or shoe above the sole.
– PHRASES have (or gain) the upper hand have or gain advantage or control over someone or something. on one's uppers informal extremely short of money. the upper crust informal the upper classes.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from the adjective UP + -ER[2].

upper[2] ▶ noun (usu. uppers) informal a stimulating drug, especially amphetamine.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from the verb UP + -ER[1].

Upper Austria a state of NW Austria; capital, Linz. German name OBERÖSTERREICH.

Upper Canada the mainly English-speaking region of Canada north of the Great Lakes and west of the Ottawa River, in what is now southern Ontario.

upper case ▶ noun [mass noun] capital letters as opposed to small letters (lower case): the keywords must be in upper case | [as modifier] upper-case letters.
– ORIGIN referring originally to two type cases positioned on an angled stand, the case containing the capital letters being higher and further away from the compositor.

upper chamber ▶ noun another term for UPPER HOUSE.

upper circle ▶ noun the tier of seats in a theatre above the dress circle.

upper class ▶ noun [treated as sing. or pl.] the social group that has the highest status in society, especially the aristocracy.
▶ adjective of, relating to, or characteristic of such a group: upper-class accents.

upperclassman ▶ noun (pl. -men) US a junior or senior in high school or college.

uppercut ▶ noun a punch delivered with an upwards motion and the arm bent.
■Baseball an upward batting stroke, typically resulting in a fly ball.

upper house ▶ noun the higher house in a bicameral parliament or similar legislature.
■(the Upper House) (in the UK) the House of Lords.

uppermost ▶ adjective (also upmost) highest in place, rank, or importance: the uppermost windows | her father was uppermost in her mind.
▶ adverb at or to the highest or most important position: investors put environmental concerns uppermost on their list.

upper regions ▶ plural noun archaic or poetic/literary the sky or heaven.

upper school ▶ noun a secondary school for children aged from about fourteen upwards, generally following on from a middle school.
■the section of a school which comprises or caters for the older pupils.

Upper Volta former name (until 1984) for BURKINA.

upper works ▶ plural noun the parts of a ship that are above the water when it is fully laden.

uppish ▶ adjective informal arrogantly self-assertive.
– DERIVATIVES uppishly adverb, uppishness noun.

uppity ▶ adjective informal self-important; arrogant: an uppity MP and his lady wife.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: a fanciful formation from UP.

Uppsala /ˈʊpsɑːlə/ a city in eastern Sweden; pop. 167,500 (1990). Its university, founded in 1477, is the oldest in northern Europe.

upraise ▶ verb [with obj.] raise (something) to a higher level: [as adj. upraised] an upraised arm.

uprate ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 increase the value of (a payment or benefit): income support will be uprated by an unspecified amount.
2 improve the performance of; upgrade: the gas plants are to be expanded and uprated.

upright ▶ adjective 1 vertical; erect: the posts must be in an upright position.
■(of a piano) having vertical strings. ■ greater in height than breadth: an upright freezer. ■ denoting a device designed to be used in a vertical position: an upright vacuum cleaner. ■ denoting a chair with a straight back and typically no arms.
2 (of a person or their behaviour) strictly honourable or honest: an upright member of the community.
▶ adverb in or into a vertical position: she was sitting upright in bed.
▶ noun 1 a post or rod fixed vertically, especially as a structural support: the stone uprights of the parapet.
2 an upright piano.
– DERIVATIVES uprightly adverb, uprightness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English upriht, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch oprecht and German aufrecht (see UP, RIGHT).

uprise ▶ verb (past -rose; past participle -risen) [no obj.] archaic or poetic/literary rise to a standing or elevated position: bright and red uprose the morning sun.

uprising ▶ noun an act of resistance or rebellion; a revolt: an armed uprising.

upriver ▶ adverb & adjective towards or situated at a point nearer the source of a river: [as adv.] the salmon heads upriver to spawn | [as adj.] they headed for the upriver side.

uproar ▶ noun a loud and impassioned noise or disturbance: the room was in an uproar | [mass noun] the assembly dissolved in uproar.
■a public expression of protest or outrage: it caused an uproar in the press.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from Middle Dutch uproer, from op 'up' + roer 'confusion', associated with ROAR.

uproarious ▶ adjective characterized by or provoking loud noise or uproar: an uproarious party.
■provoking loud laughter; very funny.
– DERIVATIVES uproariously adverb, uproariousness noun.

uproot ▶ verb [with obj.] pull (something, especially a tree or plant) out of the ground: the elephant's trunk is powerful enough to uproot trees.
■move (someone) from their home or a familiar location: my father travelled constantly and uprooted his family several times. ■ figurative eradicate; destroy: a revolution is necessary to uproot the social order.
– DERIVATIVES uprooter noun.

uprose past of UPRISE.

uprush ▶ noun a sudden upward surge or flow, especially of a feeling: an upsurge of joy.

UPS ▶ abbreviation for uninterruptible power supply.

ups-a-daisy ▶ exclamation variant spelling of UPSY-DAISY.

ups and downs ▶ plural noun a succession of both good and bad experiences: I have my ups and downs.

■rises and falls, especially in the value or success of something: the ups and downs of the market.

upscale ▶ adjective & adverb N. Amer. upmarket.

upset ▶ verb /ʌp'sɛt/ (-setting; past and past participle -set) [with obj.] 1 make (someone) unhappy, disappointed, or worried: the accusation upset her | [as adj. upsetting] a painful and upsetting divorce.

2 knock (something) over: he upset a tureen of soup.

■cause disorder in (something); disrupt: the dam will upset the ecological balance. ■ disturb the digestion of (a person's stomach); cause (someone) to feel nauseous or unwell.

3 [often as noun upsetting] shorten and thicken the end or edge of (a metal bar, wheel rim, or other object), especially by hammering or pressure when heated.

▶ noun /'ʌpsɛt/ 1 a state of being unhappy, disappointed, or worried: domestic upsets | [mass noun] a legal dispute will cause worry and upset.

2 an unexpected result or situation, especially in a sports competition: they caused one of last season's league upsets by winning 27–15.

3 a disturbance of a person's digestive system: a stomach upset.

▶ adjective 1 /ʌp'sɛt/ [predic.] unhappy, disappointed, or worried: she looked pale and upset.

2 /'ʌpsɛt/ (of a person's stomach) having disturbed digestion, especially because of something eaten.

– DERIVATIVES upsetter noun, upsettingly adverb.

upset price ▶ noun the lowest acceptable selling price for a property in an auction; a reserve price.

upshift ▶ verb [no obj.] change to a higher gear in a motor vehicle.

■[with obj.] increase: stricter driving laws that upshifted the penalties for drunk-driving.

▶ noun a change to a higher gear.

■an increase in something.

upshot ▶ noun [in sing.] the final or eventual outcome or conclusion of a discussion, action, or series of events: the upshot of the meeting was that he was on the next plane to New York.

upside ▶ noun [in sing.] 1 the positive aspect of something.

2 an upward movement of share prices.

upside down ▶ adverb & adjective with the upper part where the lower part should be; in an inverted position: [as adv.] the bar staff put the chairs upside down on the tables | [as adj.] an upside-down canoe.

■in or into total disorder or confusion: [as adv.] burglars have turned our house upside down.

– ORIGIN Middle English: originally up so down, perhaps in the sense 'up as if down'.

upside-down cake ▶ noun a sponge cake that is baked over a layer of fruit in syrup and inverted for serving.

upside-down catfish ▶ noun a small freshwater catfish that habitually swims upside down, enabling it to browse on algae on the undersides of floating leaves. Native to central Congo, it is popular in aquaria.

● Synodontis nigriventris, family Mochokidae.

upsides ▶ adverb (especially in horse racing) alongside; on a level: the horse came upsides.

■(upsides with) archaic even or equal with.

– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from UPSIDE in the sense 'upper part' + the adverbial suffix -s.

upsilon /ʌp'sʌɪlən, juːp-, 'ʊpsɪlɒn, 'juːp-/ ▶ noun the twentieth letter of the Greek alphabet (Υ, υ), transliterated as 'u' or (chiefly in English words derived through Latin) as 'y'.

■(Upsilon) [followed by Latin genitive] Astronomy the twentieth star in a constellation: Upsilon Scorpii. ■ (also upsilon particle) Physics a meson thought to contain a b quark bound to its antiparticle, produced in particle accelerators.

– ORIGIN Greek, literally 'slender U', from psilos 'slender', referring to the need to distinguish upsilon from the diphthong oi: in late Greek the two had the same pronunciation.

upslope ▶ noun an upward slope.

▶ adverb & adjective at or towards a higher point on a slope.

upstage ▶ adverb & adjective at or towards the back of a theatre stage: [as adv.] Hamlet turns to face upstage | [as adj.] an upstage exit.

■[as adj.] informal, dated superior; aloof.

▶ verb [with obj.] divert attention from (someone) towards oneself; outshine: they were totally upstaged by their co-star in the film.

■(of an actor) move towards the back of a stage to make (another actor) face away from the audience.

upstairs ▶ adverb on or to an upper floor of a building: I tiptoed upstairs.

▶ adjective (also upstair) [attrib.] situated on an upper floor: an upstairs bedroom.

▶ noun an upper floor: she was cleaning the upstairs.

upstand ▶ noun an upright structure or object.

■a turned-up edge of a flat surface or sheeting, especially in a roof space where it meets the wall.

upstanding ▶ adjective 1 honest; respectable: an upstanding member of the community.

2 standing up; erect: upstanding feathered plumes.

■(of an animal) strong and healthy.

upstart ▶ noun 1 derogatory a person who has risen suddenly to wealth or high position, especially one who behaves arrogantly: the upstarts who dare to challenge the legitimacy of his rule | [as modifier] an upstart leader.

2 Gymnastics a series of movements on the parallel or asymmetric bars, by which a gymnast swings to a position in which their body is supported by their arms above the bar, especially at the start of a routine.

upstate US ▶ adjective & adverb of, in, or to a part of a state remote from its large cities, especially the northern part: [as adj.] upstate New York.

▶ noun such an area: visiting farmers from upstate.

– DERIVATIVES upstater noun.

upstream ▶ adverb & adjective moving or situated in the opposite direction from that in which a stream or river flows; nearer to the source: [as adv.] a lone motor cruiser rumbled upstream | [as adj.] the upstream stretch of the Nene.

■Biology situated in or towards the part of a sequence of genetic material where transcription takes place earlier than at a given point. ■ at a stage in the process of gas or oil extraction and production before the raw material is ready for refining.

upstroke ▶ noun a stroke made upwards: the upstroke of the whale's tail.

upsurge ▶ noun an upward surge in the strength or quantity of something; an increase: an upsurge in separatist activity.

upswell ▶ noun rare an increase or upsurge.

upswept ▶ adjective curved, sloping, or directed upwards: an upswept moustache.

■(of the hair) brushed or held upwards and off the face: an elegant upswept style.

upswing ▶ noun an increase in strength or quantity; an upward trend: an upswing in economic activity.

upsy-daisy (also ups-a-daisy, oops-a-daisy) ▶ exclamation expressing encouragement to a child who has fallen or is being lifted.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: alteration of earlier up-a-daisy; compare with LACKADAISICAL.

uptake ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of taking up or making use of something that is available: the uptake of free school meals.

■the taking in or absorption of a substance by a living organism or bodily organ: the uptake of glucose into the muscles.

– PHRASES be quick (or slow) on the uptake informal be quick (or slow) to understand something.

uptempo ▶ adjective & adverb Music played with a fast or increased tempo: [as adj.] uptempo guitar work.

upthrow Geology ▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. upthrown] displace (a rock formation) upwards.

▶ noun an upward displacement of rock strata.

upthrust ▶ noun Physics the upward force that a liquid or gas exerts on a body floating in it.

■Geology another term for UPLIFT.

▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. upthrust] thrust (something) upwards: Turco's upthrust beard.

uptick ▶ noun US a small increase.

uptight ▶ adjective informal anxious or angry in a tense and overly controlled way: he is so uptight about everything.

uptime ▶ noun [mass noun] time during which a machine, especially a computer, is in operation.

up to date ▶ adjective incorporating the latest developments and trends: a modern, up-to-date hospital.

■incorporating or aware of the latest information.

up to the minute ▶ adjective incorporating the very latest information or developments: it is fitted with up-to-the-minute security devices.

uptown chiefly N. Amer. ▶ adjective of, in, or characteristic of the residential area of a town or city.

■of or characteristic of an affluent area or people: I don't pay uptown prices.

▶ adverb in or into such an area.

▶ noun a residential area in a town or city.

– DERIVATIVES uptowner noun.

uptrend ▶ noun an upward tendency.

upturn ▶ noun an improvement or upward trend, especially in economic conditions or someone's fortunes: an upturn in the economy.

▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. upturned] turn (something) upwards or upside down: a sea of upturned faces.

UPU ▶ abbreviation for Universal Postal Union.

uPVC ▶ abbreviation for unplasticized polyvinyl chloride, a rigid, chemically resistant form of PVC used for pipework, window frames, and other structures.

upward ▶ adverb (also upwards) towards a higher place, point, or level: she peered upward at the sky.

▶ adjective moving, pointing, or leading to a higher place, point, or level: an upward trend in sales.

– PHRASES upwards (or upward) of more than.

– ORIGIN Old English upweard(es) (see UP, -WARD).

upwardly ▶ adverb in an upward direction.

– PHRASES upwardly mobile see MOBILE.

upwarp Geology ▶ noun a broad elevated area of the earth's surface.

▶ verb (be upwarped) (of part of the earth's surface) be elevated to form an upwarp.

upwelling ▶ noun a rising up of seawater, magma, or other liquid.

▶ adjective (especially of emotion) building up or gathering strength: upwelling grief.

upwind /ʌp'wɪnd/ ▶ adverb & adjective against the direction of the wind: [as adv.] you learn how to sail upwind | [as adj.] the upwind wing tip.

Ur /əː, ʊə/ an ancient Sumerian city formerly on the Euphrates, in southern Iraq. It was one of the oldest cities of Mesopotamia, dating from the 4th millennium BC, and reached its zenith in the late 3rd millennium BC.

ur- /ʊə/ ▶ combining form primitive; original; earliest: urtext.

– ORIGIN from German.

uracil /'jʊərəsɪl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a compound found in living tissue as a constituent base of RNA. In DNA it is replaced by thymine.

● A pyrimidine derivative; chem. formula: $C_4H_4N_2O_2$.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from ur(ea) + ac(etic) + -IL.

uraemia /jʊ'riːmɪə/ (US uremia) ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a raised level in the blood of urea and other nitrogenous waste compounds that are normally eliminated by the kidneys.

– DERIVATIVES uraemic adjective.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: modern Latin, from Greek ouron 'urine' + haima 'blood'.

uraeus /jʊ'riːəs/ ▶ noun (pl. uraei /jʊ'riːʌɪ/) a representation of a sacred serpent as an emblem of supreme power, worn on the headdresses of ancient Egyptian deities and sovereigns.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: modern Latin, from Greek ouraios, representing the Egyptian word for 'cobra'.

Ural-Altaic ▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting a hypothetical language group formerly proposed to include both the Uralic and the Altaic languages.

Uralic /jʊ'ralɪk/ ▶ adjective 1 of, relating to, or denoting a family of languages spoken from northern Scandinavia to western Siberia, comprising the Finno-Ugric and Samoyedic groups.

2 of or relating to the Ural Mountains or the surrounding areas.

▶ noun [mass noun] the Uralic languages collectively.

Ural Mountains /'jʊərəl/ (also the Urals) a mountain range in northern Russia, extending 1,600 km (1,000 miles) southwards from the Arctic Ocean to the Aral Sea, in Kazakhstan, rising to 1,894 m (6,214 ft) at Mount Narodnaya. It forms part of the conventional boundary between Europe and Asia.

Urania /jʊ'reɪnɪə/ Greek & Roman Mythology the Muse of astronomy.

– ORIGIN Greek, literally 'heavenly (female)'.

uraninite /jʊ'ranɪnʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a black, grey, or brown mineral which consists mainly of uranium dioxide and is the chief ore of uranium.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from URANO-[2] + -ITE[1].

uranium /jʊ'reɪnɪəm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the chemical element of atomic number 92, a grey dense radioactive metal used as a fuel in nuclear reactors. (Symbol: U)

Uranium is a chemically reactive metal belonging to the actinide series. Becquerel discovered radioactivity in uranium in 1896, and its capacity to undergo fission led to its use as a source of energy, though the fissile isotope, uranium-235, has to be separated from the more common uranium-238 before it can be used in nuclear weapons. The atom bomb exploded over Hiroshima in 1945 contained uranium-235.

– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: modern Latin, from URANUS: compare with TELLURIUM.

urano-[1] /'jʊər(ə)nəʊ/ ▶ combining form relating to the heavens: uranography.

– ORIGIN from Greek ouranos 'heavens, sky'.

urano-[2] /'jʊər(ə)nəʊ/ ▶ combining form representing URANIUM.

uranography /jʊərə'nɒgrəfi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] archaic the branch of astronomy concerned with describing and mapping the stars.

– DERIVATIVES uranographer noun, uranographic adjective.

Uranus /'jʊərənəs, jʊ'reɪnəs/ 1 Greek Mythology a personification of heaven or the sky, the most ancient of the Greek gods and first ruler of the universe. He was overthrown and castrated by his son Cronus.

2 Astronomy a distant planet of the solar system, seventh in order from the sun, discovered by William Herschel in 1781.

Uranus orbits between Jupiter and Neptune at an average distance of 2,870 million km from the sun. It has an equatorial diameter of 50,800 km, and is one of the gas giants. The planet is bluish-green in colour, having an upper atmosphere consisting almost entirely of hydrogen and helium. There are at least seventeen satellites, the largest of which are Oberon and Titania, and a faint ring system.

uranyl /'jʊər(ə)naɪl, 'jʊər(ə)nɪl/ ▶ noun [as modifier] Chemistry the cation UO_2^{2+}, present in some compounds of uranium: uranyl acetate.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from URANIUM + -YL.

Urartian /ʊ'rɑ:tɪən/ ▶ adjective of or relating to the ancient kingdom of Urartu in eastern Anatolia (*c.*1500–585 BC).

▶ noun 1 a native or inhabitant of ancient Urartu.

2 [mass noun] the language of Urartu, related to Hurrian.

urban ▶ adjective in, relating to, or characteristic of a town or city: the urban population.

– DERIVATIVES urbanism noun, urbanist noun.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin urbanus, from urbs, urb- 'city'.

urban district ▶ noun Brit. historical a group of urban communities governed by an elected council.

urbane /ə:'beɪn/ ▶ adjective (of a person, especially a man) suave, courteous, and refined in manner.

– DERIVATIVES urbanely adverb.

– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (in the sense 'urban'): from French urbain or Latin urbanus (see URBAN).

urbanite ▶ noun informal a person who lives in a town or city.

urbanity ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 suavity, courteousness, and refinement of manner.

2 urban life.

– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from French urbanité or Latin urbanitas, from urbanus 'belonging to the city' (see URBAN).

urbanize (also -ise) ▶ verb make or become urban in character: [with obj.] once an agrarian society, the island has recently been urbanized | [as adj. urbanized] urbanized areas.

– DERIVATIVES urbanization noun.

urban myth (also chiefly US urban legend) ▶ noun an entertaining story or piece of information circulated as though true, especially one purporting to involve someone vaguely related or known to the teller.

urban renewal ▶ noun [mass noun] the redevelopment of areas within a large city, typically involving the clearance of slums.

urbs /ə:bz/ ▶ noun chiefly poetic/literary the city, especially as a symbol of harsh or busy modern life.

– ORIGIN Latin.

URC ▶ abbreviation for United Reformed Church.

urchin /'ə:tʃɪn/ ▶ noun 1 a mischievous young child, especially one who is poorly or raggedly dressed.

■archaic a goblin.

2 chiefly dialect a hedgehog.

■short for SEA URCHIN.

– ORIGIN Middle English hirchon, urchon 'hedgehog', from Old Northern French herichon, based on Latin hericius 'hedgehog'.

Urdu /'ʊədu:, 'ə:du:/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an Indic language closely related to Hindi but written in the Persian script and having many loanwords from Persian and Arabic. It is the official language of Pakistan, and is also widely used in India and elsewhere, with about 50 million speakers worldwide.

– ORIGIN from Persian (zabān-i-)urdū '(language of the) camp' (because it developed as a lingua franca after the Muslim invasions between the occupying armies and the local people of the region around Delhi), urdū being from Turkic ordu (see HORDE).

-ure ▶ suffix forming nouns: 1 denoting an action, process, or result: censure | closure | scripture.

2 denoting an office or function: judicature.

3 denoting a collective: legislature.

– ORIGIN from Old French -ure, from Latin -ura.

urea /jʊ'ri:ə, 'jʊərɪə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a colourless crystalline compound which is the main nitrogenous breakdown product of protein metabolism in mammals and is excreted in urine.

● Chem. formula: $CO(NH_2)_2$.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: modern Latin, from French urée, from Greek ouron 'urine'.

ureaplasma /jʊərɪə'plazmə/ ▶ noun a small bacterium related to the mycoplasmas, characterized by the ability to metabolize urea.

● Genus Ureaplasma, order Mycoplasmatales.

ureide /'jʊərɪaɪd/ ▶ noun Chemistry any of a group of compounds which are acyl derivatives of urea.

uremia ▶ noun US spelling of URAEMIA.

ureter /jʊ'ri:tə, 'jʊərɪtə/ ▶ noun Anatomy & Zoology the duct by which urine passes from the kidney to the bladder or cloaca.

– DERIVATIVES ureteral adjective, ureteric /jʊərɪ'tɛrɪk/ adjective.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from French uretère or modern Latin ureter, from Greek ourētēr, from ourein 'urinate'.

urethane /'jʊərɪθeɪn, jʊ'rɛθeɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a synthetic crystalline compound used in making pesticides and fungicides, and formerly as an anaesthetic.

● Alternative name: ethyl carbamate; chem. formula: $CO(NH_2)OC_2H_5$.

■short for POLYURETHANE.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from French uréthane (see UREA, ETHANE).

urethra /jʊ'ri:θrə/ ▶ noun Anatomy & Zoology the duct by which urine is conveyed out of the body from the bladder, and which in male vertebrates also conveys semen.

– DERIVATIVES urethral adjective.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from late Latin, from Greek ourēthra, from ourein 'urinate'.

urethritis /jʊrɪ:'θraɪtɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine inflammation of the urethra.

Urey /'jʊərɪ/, Harold Clayton (1893–1981), American chemist. He discovered deuterium in 1932, pioneered the use of isotope labelling, and became director of the Manhattan project at Columbia University. Nobel Prize for Chemistry (1934).

Urga /'ʊəgə/ former name (until 1924) for ULAN BATOR.

urge ▶ verb [with obj. and usu. infinitive] try earnestly or persistently to persuade (someone) to do something: he urged her to come and stay with us | [with direct speech] 'Do try to relax,' she urged.

■recommend or advocate (something) strongly: I urge caution in interpreting these results | [with clause] they are urging that more treatment facilities be provided. ■ [with obj. and adverbial] encourage (a person or animal) to move more quickly or in a particular direction: drawing up outside the house, he urged her inside. ■ (urge someone on) encourage someone to continue or succeed in something: he could hear her voice urging him on.

▶ noun a strong desire or impulse: the urge for revenge.

– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin urgere 'press, drive'.

urgent ▶ adjective (of a state or situation) requiring immediate action or attention: the situation is far more urgent than politicians are admitting.

■(of an action or event) done or arranged in response to such a situation: she needs urgent treatment. ■ (of a person or their manner) earnest and persistent in response to such a situation: an urgent whisper.

– DERIVATIVES urgency noun, urgently adverb.

– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from Old French, from Latin urgent- 'pressing, driving', from the verb urgere (see URGE).

urger /'ə:dʒə/ ▶ noun Austral. informal a person who gives tips at a race meeting.

■a person who takes advantage of others; a racketeer.

-uria ▶ combining form in nouns denoting that a substance is present in the urine, especially in excess: glycosuria.

– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Greek -ouria, from ouron 'urine'.

Uriah /jʊ'raɪə/ (in the Bible) a Hittite officer in David's army, whom David, desiring his wife Bathsheba, caused to be killed in battle (2 Sam. 11).

urial /'ʊərɪəl/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a wild sheep with long legs and relatively small horns, native to central Asia.

● Ovis vignei, family Bovidae.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Punjabi ūrīal.

uric acid ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry an almost insoluble compound which is a breakdown product of nitrogenous metabolism. It is the main excretory product in birds, reptiles, and insects.

● A bicyclic acid derived from purine; chem. formula: $C_5H_4N_4O_3$.

– DERIVATIVES urate noun.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: uric from French urique, from urine (see URINE).

uridine /'jʊərɪdi:n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a compound formed by partial hydrolysis of RNA. It is a nucleoside containing uracil linked to ribose.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from ur(acil) + -IDE + -INE[4].

Urim and Thummim ▶ plural noun historical two objects of a now unknown nature, possibly used for divination, worn on the breastplate of a Jewish high priest.

– ORIGIN from Hebrew.

urinal /jʊ'raɪn(ə)l, 'jʊərɪn(ə)l/ ▶ noun a bowl or other receptacle, typically attached to a wall in a public toilet, into which men may urinate.

– ORIGIN Middle English (denoting a glass container for the medical inspection of urine): via Old French from Latin urinal, from urina (see URINE).

urinalysis /jʊərɪ'nalɪsɪs/ ▶ noun (pl. urinalyses /-si:z/) [mass noun] Medicine analysis of urine by physical, chemical, and microscopical means to test for the presence of disease, drugs, etc.

urinary ▶ adjective of or relating to urine.

■of, relating to, or denoting the system of organs, structures, and ducts by which urine is produced and discharged, in mammals comprising the kidneys, ureters, bladder, and urethra.

urinate ▶ verb [no obj.] discharge urine; pass water.

– DERIVATIVES urination noun.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from medieval Latin urinat- 'urinated', from the verb urinare.

urine /'jʊərɪn, -raɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a watery, typically yellowish fluid stored in the bladder and discharged through the urethra. It is one of the body's chief means of eliminating excess water and salt, and also contains nitrogen compounds such as urea and other waste substances removed from the blood by the kidneys.

– ORIGIN Middle English: via Old French from Latin urina.

uriniferous tubule /jʊərɪ'nɪf(ə)rəs/ ▶ noun another term for KIDNEY TUBULE.

URL Computing ▶ abbreviation for uniform (or universal) resource locator, the address of a World Wide Web page.

urn ▶ noun 1 a tall, rounded vase with a stem and base, especially one used for storing the ashes of a cremated person.

2 a large metal container with a tap, in which tea or coffee is made and kept hot, or water for making such drinks is boiled: a tea urn.

▶ verb [with obj.] archaic place (something) in an urn.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin urna; related to urceus 'pitcher'.

urnfield Archaeology ▶ noun a prehistoric cemetery of the European late Bronze Age and early Iron Age, in which cremated remains were placed in pottery vessels (cinerary urns) and buried.

▶ adjective (often Urnfield) of, relating to, or denoting a people or culture characterized by burial in this form of cemetery. The Urnfield complex is equated with the Hallstatt culture and is dated to *c.*1200–800 BC.

uro-[1] ▶ combining form of or relating to urine or the urinary organs: urogenital.
– ORIGIN from Greek ouron 'urine'.

uro-[2] ▶ combining form Zoology relating to a tail or the caudal region: urodele.
– ORIGIN from Greek oura 'tail'.

uroboros /ˌjʊərəʊ(ʊ)'bɒrəs/ (also ouroboros) ▶ noun a circular symbol depicting a snake, or less commonly a dragon, swallowing its tail, as an emblem of wholeness or infinity.
– DERIVATIVES uroboric adjective.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from Greek (drakōn) ouroboros '(snake) devouring its tail'.

Urochordata /ˌjʊərə(ʊ)kɔː'deɪtə/ Zoology a group of chordate animals that comprises the tunicates.
● Subphylum Urochordata, phylum Chordata.
– DERIVATIVES urochordate noun & adjective.
– ORIGIN modern Latin (plural), from URO-[2] 'tail' + CHORDATA.

Urodela /ˌjʊərə(ʊ)'diːlə/ Zoology an order of amphibians that comprises the newts and salamanders, which retain the tail as adults. Also called CAUDATA.
– DERIVATIVES urodele /'jʊərə(ʊ)diːl/ noun & adjective.
– ORIGIN modern Latin (plural), from URO-[2] 'tail' + Greek dēlos 'evident'.

urodynamics ▶ plural noun [treated as sing.] Medicine the diagnostic study of pressure in the bladder, in treating incontinence.
– DERIVATIVES urodynamic adjective.

urogenital ▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting both the urinary and genital organs.

urography /jʊ'rɒgrəfi/ ▶ noun another term for PYELOGRAPHY.
– DERIVATIVES urogram noun.

urokinase /ˌjʊərə(ʊ)'kʌɪneɪz/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry an enzyme produced in the kidneys which promotes the conversion of plasminogen to plasmin and can be used to dissolve blood clots.

urolagnia /ˌjʊərə(ʊ)'lagnɪə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a tendency to derive sexual pleasure from the sight or thought of urination. Also called UROPHILIA.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from URO-[1] 'of urine' + Greek lagneia 'lust'.

urolithiasis /ˌjʊərə(ʊ)lɪ'θʌɪəsɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine the formation of stony concretions in the bladder or urinary tract.

urology /jʊ'rɒlədʒi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the branch of medicine and physiology concerned with the function and disorders of the urinary system.
– DERIVATIVES urologic adjective, urological adjective, urologist noun.

uronic acid /jʊ'rɒnɪk/ ▶ noun Biochemistry any of a class of compounds which are derived from sugars by oxidizing a $-CH_2OH$ group to an acid group ($-COOH$).
– ORIGIN 1920s: uronic from URO-[1] 'urine' + -IC, with the insertion of -n-.

urophilia /ˌjʊərə(ʊ)'fɪlɪə/ ▶ noun another term for UROLAGNIA.

uropod /'jʊərə(ʊ)pɒd/ ▶ noun Zoology the sixth and last pair of abdominal appendages of lobsters and related crustaceans, forming part of the tail fan.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from URO-[2] 'tail' + Greek pous, pod- 'pod'.

uropygium /ˌjʊərə(ʊ)'pɪdʒɪəm/ ▶ noun Zoology the rump of a bird, supporting the tail feathers.
– DERIVATIVES uropygial adjective.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: via medieval Latin from Greek ouropugion.

uroscopy /jʊ'rɒskəpi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine, historical the diagnostic examination of urine by simple inspection.

urostyle /'jʊərə(ʊ)stʌɪl/ ▶ noun Zoology a long bone formed from fused vertebrae at the base of the vertebral column in some lower vertebrates, especially frogs and toads.

Ursa Major /ˌɜːsə 'meɪdʒə/ Astronomy one of the largest and most prominent northern constellations (the Great Bear). The seven brightest stars form a familiar formation variously called the Plough, Big Dipper, or Charles's Wain, and include the Pointers.
■ [as genitive Ursae Majoris /ˌɜːsiː mə'dʒɔrɪs/] used with preceding letter or numeral to designate a star in this constellation: the star Delta Ursae Majoris.
– ORIGIN Latin, from the story in Greek mythology that the nymph Callisto was turned into a bear and placed as a constellation in the heavens by Zeus.

Ursa Minor /'mʌɪnə/ Astronomy a northern constellation (the Little Bear), which contains the north celestial pole and the pole star Polaris. The brightest stars form a shape that is also known as the Little Dipper.
■ [as genitive Ursae Minoris /mɪ'nɔːrɪs/] used with preceding letter or numeral to designate a star in this constellation: the star Alpha Ursae Minoris.
– ORIGIN Latin.

ursine /'ɜːsʌɪn, -ɪn/ ▶ adjective of, relating to, or resembling bears.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin ursinus, from ursus 'bear'.

Ursula, St /'ɜːsjʊlə/ a legendary British saint and martyr, said to have been put to death with 11,000 virgins after being captured by Huns near Cologne while on a pilgrimage.

Ursuline /'ɜːsjʊlʌɪn, -lɪn/ ▶ noun a nun of an order founded by St Angela Merici (1470–1540) at Brescia in 1535 for nursing the sick and teaching girls.
▶ adjective of or relating to this order.
– ORIGIN from St Ursula, the founder's patron saint (see URSULA, ST), + -INE[1].

urtext /'uːətekst/ ▶ noun (pl. urtexte /-tə/) an original or the earliest version of a text, to which later versions can be compared.

urticaria /ˌɜːtɪ'kɛːrɪə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a rash of round, red weals on the skin which itch intensely, sometimes with dangerous swelling, caused by an allergic reaction, typically to specific foods. Also called NETTLERASH or HIVES.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: modern Latin, from Latin urtica 'nettle', from urere 'to burn'.

urticate /'ɜːtɪkeɪt/ ▶ verb [no obj.] cause a stinging or prickling sensation like that given by a nettle: [as adj. urticating] the urticating hairs.
– DERIVATIVES urtication noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from medieval Latin urticat- 'stung', from the verb urticare, from Latin urtica (see URTICARIA).

Uruguay /'jʊərəgwʌɪ, Spanish uru'ɣwaj/ a country on the Atlantic coast of South America south of Brazil; pop. 3,110,000 (est. 1991); official language, Spanish; capital, Montevideo.

> Uruguay was liberated from Spanish colonial rule in 1825, and in the early 20th century was moulded into South America's first welfare state. Civil unrest beginning in the 1960s, and particularly fighting against the Marxist Tupamaro guerrillas, led to a period of military rule, but civilian government was restored in 1985.

– DERIVATIVES Uruguayan adjective & noun.

Uruk /'ʊrʊk/ an ancient city in southern Mesopotamia, to the north-west of Ur. One of the greatest cities of Sumer, it was built in the 5th millennium BC and is associated with the legendary hero Gilgamesh. Arabic name WARKA; biblical name ERECH.

Urumqi /ʊ'rʊmtʃi/ (also Urumchi) the capital of Xinjiang autonomous region in NW China; pop. 1,110,000 (1990). Former name (until 1954) TIHWA.

urus /'jʊərəs/ ▶ noun another term for AUROCHS.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin, from Greek ouros.

urushiol /ʊ'ruːʃɪɒl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry an oily liquid which is the main constituent of Japanese lacquer and is responsible for the irritant properties of poison ivy and other plants. It consists of a mixture of catechol derivatives.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Japanese urushi 'Japanese lacquer' + -OL.

US ▶ abbreviation for ■ Brit. undersecretary. ■ United States. ■ Brit. informal unserviceable; useless.

us ▶ pronoun [first person plural] 1 used by a speaker to refer to himself or herself and one or more other people as the object of a verb or preposition: let us know | we asked him to come with us | both of us. Compare with WE.
■ used after the verb 'to be' and after 'than' or 'as': it's us or them | they are richer than us. ■ N. Amer. informal to or for ourselves: we got us some good hunting.
2 informal me: give us a kiss.
– PHRASES one of us a person recognized as an accepted member of a particular group, typically one that is exclusive in some way. us and them (or them and us) expressing a sense of division within a group of people: negotiations were hampered by an 'us and them' attitude between management and unions.
– ORIGIN Old English ūs, accusative and dative of WE, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch ons and German uns.

> USAGE Is it correct to say they are richer than us, or is it better to say they are richer than we (are)? See usage at PERSONAL PRONOUN and THAN.

USA ▶ abbreviation for ■ United States of America. ■ United States Army.

usable (also useable) ▶ adjective able or fit to be used: usable information.
– DERIVATIVES usability noun.

USAF ▶ abbreviation for United States Air Force.

usage ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of using something or the fact of being used: a survey of water usage | the usage of equipment.
■ the way in which a word or phrase is normally and correctly used. ■ habitual or customary practice, especially as creating a right, obligation, or standard.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'customary practice'): from Old French, from us 'a use' (see USE).

usance /'juːz(ə)ns/ ▶ noun [mass noun] archaic 1 another term for USAGE.
2 the time allowed for the payment of foreign bills of exchange, according to law or commercial practice.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, from the base of the verb user 'to use'.

USD ▶ abbreviation for United States dollar.

USDA ▶ abbreviation for United States Department of Agriculture.

use ▶ verb 1 /juːz/ [with obj.] take, hold, or deploy (something) as a means of accomplishing a purpose or achieving a result; employ: she used her key to open the front door | the poem uses simple language.
■ take or consume (an amount) from a limited supply of something: we have used all the available funds. ■ exploit (a person or situation) for one's own advantage: I couldn't help feeling that she was using me. ■ [with obj. and adverbial] treat (someone) in a particular way: use your troops well and they will not let you down. ■ apply (a name or title) to oneself: she still used her maiden name professionally. ■ (one could use) informal one would like or benefit from: I could use another cup of coffee. ■ informal take (an illegal drug).
2 /juːst/ [in past, with infinitive] (used to) describing an action or state of affairs that was done repeatedly or existed for a period in the past: this road used to be a dirt track | I used to give him lifts home.
3 /juːst/ (be/get used to) be or become familiar with someone or something through experience: she was used to getting what she wanted | he's weird, but you just have to get used to him.
▶ noun /juːs/ [mass noun] the action of using something or the state of being used for some purpose: a member of staff is present when the pool is in use | theatre owners were charging too much for the use of their venues.
■ the ability or power to exercise or manipulate something, especially one's mind or body: the horse lost the use of his hind legs. ■ [count noun] a purpose for or way in which something can be used: the herb has various culinary uses. ■ the value or advantage of something: it was no use trying to persuade her | what's the use of crying? ■ Law, historical the benefit or profit of lands, especially lands that are in the possession of another who holds them solely for the beneficiary. ■ the characteristic ritual and liturgy of a church or diocese. ■ the action of taking or habitual consumption of a drug.
– PHRASES have its (or one's) uses informal be useful on certain occasions or in certain respects. have no use for be unable to find a purpose for; have no need for: he had no use for a single glove. ■ informal dislike or be impatient with. make use of use for a purpose. ■ benefit from: they were educated enough to make use of further training. use and wont formal established custom. use someone's name quote someone as an authority or reference.
– ORIGIN Middle English: the noun from Old French us, from Latin usus, from uti 'to use'; the verb from Old French user, based on Latin uti.

USAGE 1 The construction used to is standard, but difficulties arise with the formation of negatives and questions. Traditionally, used to behaves as a modal verb, so that questions and negatives are formed without the auxiliary verb do, as in it used not to be like that and used she to come here? In modern English this question form is now regarded as very formal or old-fashioned and the use with do is broadly accepted as standard, as in did they use to come here? Negative constructions with do, on the other hand (as in it didn't use to be like that), though common, are informal and are not generally accepted.
2 There is sometimes confusion over whether to use the form used to or use to, which has arisen largely because the pronunciation is the same in both cases. Except in negatives and questions, the correct form is used to: we used to go to the cinema all the time, not we use to go to the cinema all the time. However, in negatives and questions using the auxiliary verb do, the correct form is use to, because the form of the verb required is the infinitive: I didn't use to like mushrooms, not I didn't used to like mushrooms.

▶ use something up consume or expend the whole of something: the money was soon used up. ■ find a purpose for something that is left over: I might use up all my odd scraps of wool to make a scarf. ■ (be used up) informal (of a person) be worn out, especially with overwork: she was tired and used up.

useable ▶ adjective variant spelling of USABLE.

use-by date ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a date marked on a perishable product, especially a foodstuff, indicating the recommended date by which it should be used or consumed.

used /juːzd/ ▶ adjective 1 having already been used: scrawling on the back of a used envelope.
2 second-hand: a used car.

useful ▶ adjective able to be used for a practical purpose or in several ways: aspirin are useful for headaches.
■ informal very able or competent in a particular area: a useful pace bowler.
– PHRASES make oneself useful do something that is of some value or benefit to someone: make yourself useful—get Jenny a drink.
– DERIVATIVES usefully adverb, usefulness noun.

useful load ▶ noun the load carried by an aircraft in addition to its own weight.

useless ▶ adjective not fulfilling or not expected to achieve the intended purpose or desired outcome: a piece of useless knowledge | we tried to pacify him but it was useless.
■ informal having no ability or skill in a specified activity or area: he was useless at football.
– DERIVATIVES uselessly adverb, uselessness noun.

Usenet Computing an Internet service consisting of thousands of newsgroups.

user ▶ noun 1 a person who uses or operates something, especially a computer or other machine.
■ a person who takes illegal drugs; an addict. ■ a person who manipulates others for their own gain: he was a gifted user of other people.
2 [mass noun] Law the continued use or enjoyment of a right.

user-definable ▶ adjective Computing having a function or meaning that can be specified and varied by a user.

user-friendly ▶ adjective (of a machine or system) easy to use or understand: the search software is user-friendly.
– DERIVATIVES user-friendliness noun.

user-hostile ▶ adjective (of a machine or system) difficult to use or understand.

user interface ▶ noun Computing the means by which the user and a computer system interact, in particular the use of input devices and software.

username ▶ noun Computing an identification used by a person with access to a computer network.

user-oriented ▶ adjective (of a machine or system) designed with the user's convenience given priority.

ushabti /ʊˈʃabti/ ▶ noun (pl. ushabtis) variant form of SHABTI.

usher ▶ noun 1 a person who shows people to their seats, especially in a theatre or cinema or at a wedding.
■ an official in a law court whose duties include swearing in jurors and witnesses and keeping order.
■ Brit. a person employed to walk before a person of high rank on special occasions.
2 archaic an assistant teacher.
▶ verb [with obj. and adverbial of direction] show or guide (someone) somewhere: a waiter ushered me to a table.
■ figurative cause or mark the start of (something new): the railways ushered in an era of cheap mass travel.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting a doorkeeper): from Anglo-Norman French usser, from medieval Latin ustiarius, from Latin ostiarius, from ostium 'door'.

usherette ▶ noun a woman who shows people to their seats in a cinema or theatre.

Ushuaia /uːˈswʌɪə/ a port in Argentina, in Tierra del Fuego; pop. 11,000 (1980). It is the southernmost town in the world.

Üsküdar /ˌuːskʊˈdɑːr/ a suburb of Istanbul, on the eastern side of the Bosporus where it joins the Sea of Marmara; pop. 395,620 (1990). Former name SCUTARI.

US Marines a US armed service (part of the US navy), founded in 1775 and trained to operate on land and at sea.

USN ▶ abbreviation for United States Navy.

usnic acid /ˈʌznɪk/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a yellow crystalline compound which is present in many lichens and is used as an antibiotic.
● A tricyclic phenol; chem. formula: $C_{18}H_{16}O_7$.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: usnic from medieval Latin usnea (from Arabic ushnah 'moss') + -IC.

Usonian /juːˈsəʊnɪən/ ▶ adjective of or relating to the United States: the Usonian city.
■ relating to or denoting the style of buildings designed in the 1930s by Frank Lloyd Wright, characterized by inexpensive construction and flat roofs.
▶ noun a native or inhabitant of the United States.
■ a house built in the 1930s by Frank Lloyd Wright.

Uspallata Pass /ˌuːspəˈjɑːtə/ a pass over the Andes near Santiago, in southern South America.

usquebaugh /ˈʌskwɪbɔː/ ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly Irish & Scottish whisky.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Irish and Scottish Gaelic uisge beatha 'water of life'; compare with WHISKY.

USS ▶ abbreviation for United States Ship, used in the names of ships in the US navy: USS Saratoga.

USSR historical ▶ abbreviation for Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Ust-Abakanskoe /ˌuːstəbəˈkɑːnskəʊjɛ/ former name (until 1931) for ABAKAN.

ustad /ʊsˈtɑːd/ ▶ noun Indian an expert or highly skilled person, especially a musician.
– ORIGIN from Urdu ustād.

Ustashe /uːˈstɑːʃi/ (also Ustashas or Ustashi) ▶ plural noun [treated as sing. or pl.] the members of a Croatian extreme nationalist movement that engaged in terrorist activity before the Second World War and ruled Croatia with Nazi support after Yugoslavia was invaded and divided by the Germans in 1941.
– ORIGIN from Serbo-Croat Ustaše 'rebels'.

Ustinov[1] /uːˈstiːnɒf/ former name (1984–7) for IZHEVSK.

Ustinov[2] /ˈjuːstɪnɒf/, Sir Peter (Alexander) (b.1921), British actor, director, and dramatist, of Russian descent. He has written and acted in a number of plays, including Romanoff and Juliet (1956). Notable films: Spartacus (1960) and Death on the Nile (1978).

usual ▶ adjective habitually or typically occurring or done; customary: he carried out his usual evening routine | their room was a shambles as usual.
▶ noun (the/one's usual) informal the drink someone habitually orders or prefers.
■ the thing which is typically done or present: the band was a bit sick of playing all the usuals.
– DERIVATIVES usually adverb March usually has the heaviest rainfall, usualness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, or from late Latin usualis, from Latin usus 'a use' (see USE).

usucaption /juːzjʊˈkapʃ(ə)n/ (also usucapion /juːzjʊˈkeɪpɪən/) ▶ noun [mass noun] Roman Law, chiefly historical the acquisition of a title or right to property by uninterrupted and undisputed possession for a prescribed term.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from medieval Latin usucaptio(n-), from usucapere 'acquire by prescription', from usu 'by use' + capere 'take'.

usufruct /ˈjuːzjʊfrʌkt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Roman Law the right to enjoy the use and advantages of another's property short of the destruction or waste of its substance.
– DERIVATIVES usufructuary adjective & noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from medieval Latin usufructus, from Latin usus (et) fructus 'use (and) enjoyment', from usus 'a use' + fructus 'fruit'.

Usumbura /ˌuːzəmˈbʊərə/ former name (until 1962) for BUJUMBURA.

usurer /ˈjuːʒ(ə)rə/ ▶ noun a person who lends money at unreasonably high rates of interest.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French, from Old French usure, from Latin usura (see USURY).

usurious /juːˈʒʊərɪəs, juːˈzj-/ ▶ adjective of or relating to the practice of usury: they lend money at usurious rates.
– DERIVATIVES usuriously adverb.

usurp /jʊˈzɜːp, jʊˈsɜːp/ ▶ verb [with obj.] take (a position of power or importance) illegally or by force: Richard usurped the throne.
■ take the place of (someone in a position of power) illegally: supplant: the Hanoverian dynasty had usurped the Stuarts. ■ [no obj.] (usurp on/upon) archaic encroach or infringe upon (someone's rights): the Church had usurped upon the domain of the state.
– DERIVATIVES usurpation /juːzəˈpeɪʃ(ə)n, juːs-/ noun, usurper noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'appropriate (a right) wrongfully)': from Old French usurper, from Latin usurpare 'seize for use'.

usury /ˈjuːʒ(ə)ri/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the action or practice of lending money at unreasonably high rates of interest.
■ archaic interest at such rates.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French usurie, or from medieval Latin usuria, from Latin usura, from usus 'a use' (see USE).

UT ▶ abbreviation for ■ Universal Time. ■ Utah (in official postal use).

Utah /ˈjuːtɔː, -tɑː/ a state in the western US; pop. 1,722,850 (1990); capital, Salt Lake City. The region became part of Mexico in 1821 and was ceded to the US in 1848, becoming the 45th state of the US in 1896.
– DERIVATIVES Utahan /juːˈtɔːən, -ˈtɑːən/ adjective & noun.

utahraptor /ˈjuːtɔːˌraptə/ ▶ noun a large dromaeosaurid dinosaur, the remains of which were discovered in Utah in 1992. It was twice the size of deinonychus.
● Genus Utahraptor, family Dromaeosauridae, suborder Theropoda.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, from UTAH + 'RAPTOR.

Utamaro /ˌuːtəˈmɑːrəʊ/, Kitagawa (1753–1806), Japanese painter and printmaker; born Kitagawa Nebsuyoshi. A leading exponent of the ukiyo-e school, he was noted for his sensual depictions of women.

UTC ▶ abbreviation for Universal Time Coordinated. Also expanded as COORDINATED UNIVERSAL TIME.

Utd ▶ abbreviation for United (in names of soccer teams): Scunthorpe Utd.

Ute /juːt/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Utes) 1 a member of an American Indian people living chiefly in Colorado, Utah, and New Mexico.
2 [mass noun] the Uto-Aztecan language of this people, now with few speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN from Spanish Yuta; compare with PAIUTE.

ute /juːt/ ▶ noun Austral./NZ informal a utility vehicle; a pickup.
– ORIGIN 1940s: abbreviation.

utensil ▶ noun a tool, container, or other article, especially for household use.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting domestic implements or vessels collectively): from Old French utensile, from medieval Latin, neuter of Latin utensilis 'usable', from uti 'to use' (see USE).

uteri plural form of UTERUS.

uterine /ˈjuːtərɪn, -ʌɪn/ ▶ adjective of or relating to the uterus or womb: uterine contractions.
■ [attrib.] born of the same mother but not having the same father: a uterine sister.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from UTERUS + -INE[1], or, in the sense 'born of the same mother', from late Latin uterinus.

uterus ▶ noun (pl. uteri /-rʌɪ/) the womb (as a bodily organ, especially in medical and technical contexts).
– ORIGIN Latin.

Uther Pendragon /ˌjuːθə pɛnˈdrag(ə)n/ (in Arthurian legend) king of the Britons and father of Arthur.

utile[1] /ˈjuːtʌɪl/ ▶ adjective rare advantageous.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: via Old French from Latin utilis, from uti 'to use'.

utile[2] /ˈjuːtɪli/ ▶ noun a large tropical African hardwood tree with timber that is widely used as a substitute for mahogany.
• Entandrophragma utile, family Meliaceae.
– ORIGIN 1950s: modern Latin, specific epithet (see above).

utilitarian /jʊˌtɪlɪˈtɛːrɪən/ ▶ adjective 1 designed to be useful or practical rather than attractive.
2 Philosophy of, relating to, or adhering to the doctrine of utilitarianism: a utilitarian theorist.
▶ noun Philosophy an adherent of utilitarianism.

utilitarianism ▶ noun [mass noun] the doctrine that actions are right if they are useful or for the benefit of a majority.
■ the doctrine that an action is right in so far as it promotes happiness, and that the greatest happiness of the greatest number should be the guiding principle of conduct.

The most famous exponents of utilitarianism were Jeremy Bentham and J. S. Mill. It has been criticized for focusing on the consequences rather than the motive or intrinsic nature of an action, for the difficulty of adequately comparing the happiness of different individuals, and for failing to account for the value placed on concepts such as justice and equality.

utility ▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 [mass noun] the state of being useful, profitable, or beneficial.
■ (in game theory or economics) a measure of that which is sought to be maximized in any situation involving a choice.
2 a public utility.
3 Computing a utility program.
4 Austral./NZ a utility vehicle.
▶ adjective [attrib.] 1 useful, especially through being able to perform several functions: a utility truck.
■ denoting a player capable of playing in several different positions in a sport.
2 functional rather than attractive: utility clothing.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French utilite, from Latin utilitas, from utilis 'useful'.

utility function ▶ noun Economics a mathematical function which ranks alternatives according to their utility to an individual.

utility knife ▶ noun a knife with a small sharp blade, often retractable, designed to cut wood, cardboard, and other materials.

utility pole ▶ noun North American term for TELEGRAPH POLE.

utility program ▶ noun Computing a program for carrying out a routine function.

utility room ▶ noun a room equipped with appliances for washing and other domestic work.

utility vehicle (also utility truck) ▶ noun a truck with low sides designed for carrying small loads.

utilize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] make practical and effective use of: vitamin C helps your body utilize the iron present in your diet.
– DERIVATIVES utilizable adjective, utilization noun, utilizer noun.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from French utiliser, from Italian utilizzare, from utile (see UTILE[1]).

-ution ▶ suffix (forming nouns) equivalent to -ATION (as in solution).
– ORIGIN via French from Latin -utio(n-).

utmost ▶ adjective [attrib.] most extreme; greatest: a matter of the utmost importance.
▶ noun (the utmost) the greatest or most extreme extent or amount: a plot that stretches credulity to the utmost.
– PHRASES do one's utmost do the most that one is able: Dan was doing his utmost to be helpful.
– ORIGIN Old English ūt(e)mest 'outermost' (see OUT, -MOST).

Uto-Aztecan /juːtəʊˈaztɛk(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a language family of Central America and western North America including Nahuatl (the language of the Aztecs), Shoshone, and Paiute.
▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting this language family.

Utopia /juːˈtəʊpɪə/ ▶ noun an imagined place or state of things in which everything is perfect. The word was first used in the book Utopia (1516) by Sir Thomas More. The opposite of DYSTOPIA.
– ORIGIN based on Greek ou 'not' + topos 'place'.

Utopian ▶ adjective modelled on or aiming for a state in which everything is perfect; idealistic.
▶ noun an idealistic reformer.
– DERIVATIVES Utopianism noun.

utopian socialism ▶ noun [mass noun] socialism achieved by the moral persuasion of capitalists to surrender the means of production peacefully to the people. It was advocated by Johann Fichte and Robert Owen among others.

Utrecht /juːtrɛxt/ a city in the central Netherlands, capital of a province of the same name; pop. 231,230 (1991).

Utrecht, Peace of a series of treaties (1713–14) ending the War of the Spanish Succession. The disputed throne of Spain was given to the French Philip V, but the union of the French and Spanish thrones was forbidden. The House of Hanover succeeded to the British throne and the former Spanish territories in Italy were ceded to the Habsburgs.

Utrecht velvet ▶ noun [mass noun] a strong, thick plush velvet, used in upholstery.

utricle /ˈjuːtrɪk(ə)l/ ▶ noun a small cell, sac, or bladder-like protuberance in an animal or plant.
■ (also utriculus /juːˈtrɪkjʊləs/) the larger of the two fluid-filled cavities forming part of the labyrinth of the inner ear (the other being the sacculus). It contains hair cells and otoliths which send signals to the brain concerning the orientation of the head.
– DERIVATIVES utricular /juːˈtrɪkjʊlə/ adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from French utricule or Latin utriculus, diminutive of uter 'leather bag'.

Utrillo /juːˈtrɪləʊ, French ytʀijo/, Maurice (1883–1955), French painter, chiefly known for his depictions of Paris street scenes.

Utsire /ʊtˈsɪərə/ a small island off the coast of southern Norway to the north-west of Stavanger. The shipping forecast area North Utsire covers Norwegian coastal waters immediately to the north of the island, while South Utsire covers the area to the south, as far as the mouth of the Skagerrak.

Uttar Pradesh /ˌʊtə prəˈdɛʃ/ a large state in northern India, bordering on Tibet and Nepal; capital, Lucknow. It was formed in 1950 from the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh.

utter[1] ▶ adjective [attrib.] complete; absolute: Charlotte stared at her in utter amazement.
– DERIVATIVES utterly adverb [as submodifier] he looked utterly ridiculous.
– ORIGIN Old English ūtera, ūttra 'outer', comparative of ūt 'out'; compare with OUTER.

utter[2] ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 make (a sound) with one's voice: he uttered an exasperated snort.
■ say (something) aloud: they are busily scribbling down every word she utters.
2 Law put (forged money) into circulation.
– DERIVATIVES utterable adjective, utterer noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Middle Dutch ūteren 'speak, make known, give currency to (coins)'.

utterance ▶ noun a spoken word, statement, or vocal sound.
■ [mass noun] the action of saying or expressing something aloud: the simple utterance of a few platitudes. ■ Linguistics an uninterrupted chain of spoken or written language.

uttermost ▶ adjective & noun another term for UTMOST.

Uttley /ˈʌtli/, Alison (1884–1976), English author. She is remembered for her children's books, particularly the 'Little Grey Rabbit' series (1929 onwards) and the 'Sam Pig' stories (1940 onwards).

U-turn ▶ noun the turning of a vehicle in a U-shaped course so as to face in the opposite direction.
■ a change of plan, especially a reversal of political policy: another U-turn by the government.

UUC ▶ abbreviation for Ulster Unionist Council.

UV ▶ abbreviation for ultraviolet.

UVA ▶ abbreviation for ultraviolet radiation of relatively long wavelengths.

uvarovite /uːˈvarə(ʊ)vʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an emerald green variety of garnet, containing chromium.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from the name of Count Sergei S. Uvarov (1785–1855), Russian statesman, + -ITE[1].

UVB ▶ abbreviation for ultraviolet radiation of relatively short wavelengths.

UVC ▶ abbreviation for ultraviolet radiation of very short wavelengths, which does not penetrate the earth's ozone layer.

uvea /ˈjuːvɪə/ ▶ noun the pigmented layer of the eye, lying beneath the sclera and cornea, and comprising the iris, choroid, and ciliary body.
– DERIVATIVES uveal adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting the choroid layer of the eye): from medieval Latin, from Latin uva 'grape'.

uveitis /juːvɪˈʌɪtɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine inflammation of the uvea.

uvula /ˈjuːvjʊlə/ ▶ noun (pl. uvulae /-liː/) Anatomy (also palatine uvula) a fleshy extension at the back of the soft palate which hangs above the throat.
■ a similar fleshy, hanging structure in any organ of the body, particularly one at the opening of the bladder.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from late Latin, diminutive of Latin uva 'grape'.

uvular /ˈjuːvjʊlə/ ▶ adjective 1 Phonetics (of a sound) articulated with the back of the tongue and the uvula, as r in French and q in Arabic.
2 Anatomy of or relating to the uvula.
▶ noun Phonetics a uvular consonant.

uxorial /ʌkˈsɔːrɪəl/ ▶ adjective of or relating to a wife.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin uxor 'wife' + -IAL.

uxoricide /ʌkˈsɔːrɪsʌɪd/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the killing of one's wife.
■ [count noun] a man who kills his wife.
– DERIVATIVES uxoricidal adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin uxor 'wife' + -CIDE.

uxorilocal /ˌʌksɔrɪˈləʊk(ə)l/ ▶ adjective another term for MATRILOCAL.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from Latin uxorius 'of a wife' (from uxor 'wife') + LOCAL.

uxorious /ʌkˈsɔːrɪəs/ ▶ adjective having or showing a great or excessive fondness for one's wife.
– DERIVATIVES uxoriously adverb, uxoriousness noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Latin uxoriosus, from uxor 'wife'.

Uygur ▶ noun & adjective variant spelling of UIGHUR.

Uzbek /ˈʊzbɛk, ˈʌz-/ ▶ noun 1 a member of a Turkic people living mainly in the republic of Uzbekistan and also in Turkmenistan, Tajikistan, Kazakhstan, and Afghanistan.
■ a native or national of Uzbekistan.
2 [mass noun] the Turkic language of Uzbekistan, having some 16 million speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to Uzbekistan, the Uzbeks, or their language.
– ORIGIN the name in Uzbek.

Uzbekistan /ʊzˌbɛkɪˈstɑːn, ʌz-, -ˈstan/ an independent republic in central Asia, lying south and south-east of the Aral Sea; pop. 20,955,000 (est. 1991); official language, Uzbek; capital, Tashkent.

Uzbekistan was formerly a constituent republic of the USSR (established in 1924). It became independent within the Commonwealth of Independent States on the break-up of the Soviet Union in 1991.

Uzi /ˈuːzi/ ▶ noun a type of sub-machine gun of Israeli design.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from Uzi Gal, the Israeli army officer who designed it.

Vv

V[1] (also v) ▶ noun (pl. Vs or V's) 1 the twenty-second letter of the alphabet.
■denoting the next after U in a set of items, categories, etc.
2 (also vee) a shape like that of a letter V: [in combination] deep, V-shaped valleys.
■[as modifier] denoting an internal-combustion engine with a number of cylinders arranged in two rows at an angle to each other in a V-shape: a V-engine | a 32-valve V8 power plant.
3 the Roman numeral for five.

V[2] ▶ abbreviation for ■ Vatican City (international vehicle registration). ■ volt(s).
▶ symbol for ■ the chemical element vanadium. ■ voltage or potential difference: V = IR. ■ (in mathematical formulae) volume: pV = nRT.

v ▶ abbreviation for ■ Grammar verb. ■ (in textual references) verse. ■ verso. ■ versus. ■ very. ■ (in textual references) vide.
▶ symbol for velocity.

V-1 ▶ noun a small flying bomb powered by a simple jet engine, used by the Germans in the Second World War. Also called DOODLEBUG.
– ORIGIN abbreviation of German Vergeltungswaffe 'reprisal weapon'.

V-2 ▶ noun a rocket-powered flying bomb, which was the first ballistic missile, used by the Germans in the Second World War.
– ORIGIN see V-1.

VA ▶ abbreviation for ■ (in the UK) Order of Victoria and Albert. ■ (in the US) Veterans' Administration. ■ Vicar Apostolic. ■ Vice Admiral. ■ Virginia (in official postal use).

Va ▶ abbreviation for Virginia.

Vaal /vɑ:l/ a river of South Africa, the chief tributary of the Orange River, rising in the Drakensberg Mountains and flowing 1,200 km (750 miles) south-westwards to the Orange River near Douglas, in Northern Cape. For much of its length it forms the border between North-West Province and Free State.

Vaasa /'vɑ:sə/ a port in western Finland, on the Gulf of Bothnia; pop. 53,430 (1990). Swedish name VASA.

vac ▶ noun Brit. 1 informal term for VACATION.
2 informal term for VACUUM CLEANER.

vacancy ▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 an unoccupied position or job: a vacancy for a shorthand typist.
■an available room in a hotel or other establishment providing accommodation.
2 [mass noun] empty space: Cathy stared into vacancy, seeing nothing.
■emptiness of mind; lack of intelligence or understanding: vacancy, vanity, and inane deception.

vacant ▶ adjective (of a place) not occupied; empty: 40 per cent of the offices are still vacant.
■(of a position or employment) not filled: the President resigned and the post was left vacant. ■ (of a person or their expression) having or showing no intelligence or interest: a vacant stare.
– DERIVATIVES vacantly adverb.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, or from Latin vacant- 'remaining empty', from the verb vacare.

vacant possession ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. the right of a purchaser to exclusive use of a property on completion of the sale, any previous occupant having moved out.

vacate /və'keɪt, veɪ'keɪt/ ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 leave (a place that one previously occupied): rooms must be vacated by noon on the last day of your holiday.
■give up (a position or employment): he vacated his office as Director.
2 Law cancel or annul (a judgement, contract, or charge).
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent. (as a legal term, also in the sense 'make ineffective'): from Latin vacat- 'left empty', from the verb vacare.

vacation ▶ noun 1 a fixed holiday period between terms in universities and law courts.
■chiefly N. Amer. a holiday: he took a vacation in the south of France | people come here on vacation.
2 [mass noun] the action of leaving something one previously occupied: his marriage was the reason for the vacation of his fellowship.
▶ verb [no obj.] chiefly US take a holiday: I was vacationing in Europe with my family.
– DERIVATIVES vacationer noun, vacationist noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, or from Latin vacatio(n-), from vacare 'be unoccupied' (see VACATE).

vacationland ▶ noun US an area providing attractions for holidaymakers.

vaccinate /'vaksɪneɪt/ ▶ verb [with obj.] treat with a vaccine to produce immunity against a disease; inoculate: all the children were vaccinated against tuberculosis.
– DERIVATIVES vaccination noun, vaccinator noun.

vaccine /'vaksi:n, -ɪn/ ▶ noun Medicine a substance used to stimulate the production of antibodies and provide immunity against one or several diseases, prepared from the causative agent of a disease, its products, or a synthetic substitute, treated to act as an antigen without inducing the disease: there is no vaccine against HIV infection.
■Computing a program designed to detect computer viruses, and prevent them from operating.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Latin vaccinus, from vacca 'cow' (because of the early use of the cowpox virus against smallpox).

vaccinia /vak'sɪnɪə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine cowpox, or the virus which causes it.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: modern Latin, from Latin vaccinus (see VACCINE).

Vacherin /'vaʃ(ə)rã/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a type of soft French or Swiss cheese made from cow's milk.
– ORIGIN French, from earlier vachelin, from vache 'cow'.

vacillate /'vasɪleɪt/ ▶ verb [no obj.] alternate or waver between different opinions or actions; be indecisive: I had for a time vacillated between teaching and journalism.
– DERIVATIVES vacillation noun, vacillator noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (in the sense 'sway unsteadily'): from Latin vacillat- 'swayed', from the verb vacillare.

vacua plural form of VACUUM.

vacuole /'vakjʊəʊl/ ▶ noun Biology a space or vesicle within the cytoplasm of a cell, enclosed by a membrane and typically containing fluid.
■a small cavity or space in tissue, especially in nervous tissue as the result of disease.
– DERIVATIVES vacuolar /'vakjʊələ/ adjective, vacuolation noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from French, diminutive of Latin vacuus 'empty'.

vacuous /'vakjʊəs/ ▶ adjective having or showing a lack of thought or intelligence; mindless: a vacuous smile | vacuous slogans.
■archaic empty.
– DERIVATIVES vacuity /və'kju:ɪti/ noun, vacuously adverb, vacuousness noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent. (in the sense 'empty of matter'): from Latin vacuus 'empty' + -OUS.

vacuum /'vakjʊəm/ ▶ noun (pl. vacuums or vacua /-jʊə/) 1 a space entirely devoid of matter.
■a space or container from which the air has been completely or partly removed. ■ [usu. in sing.] a gap left by the loss, death, or departure of someone or something formerly playing a significant part in a situation or activity: the political vacuum left by the death of the Emperor.
2 (pl. vacuums) informal a vacuum cleaner.
▶ verb [with obj.] informal clean with a vacuum cleaner: the room needs to be vacuumed.
– PHRASES in a vacuum (of an activity or a problem to be considered) isolated from the context normal to it and in which it can best be understood or assessed.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: modern Latin, neuter of Latin vacuus 'empty'.

vacuum brake ▶ noun a railway vehicle brake operated by changes in pressure in a continuous pipe which is generally kept exhausted of air by a pump and controls similar brakes throughout the train.

vacuum cleaner ▶ noun an electrical apparatus that by means of suction collects dust and small particles from floors and other surfaces.
– DERIVATIVES vacuum-clean verb.

vacuum distillation ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry distillation of a liquid under reduced pressure, enabling it to boil at a lower temperature than normal.

vacuum extraction ▶ noun [mass noun] the application of reduced pressure to extract something, particularly to assist childbirth or as a method of abortion, or as a technique for removing components of a chemical mixture.

vacuum extractor ▶ noun a cup-shaped appliance for performing vacuum extraction in childbirth. Also called VENTOUSE.

vacuum flask ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a container that keeps a drink or other fluid hot by means of a double wall enclosing a vacuum.

vacuum gauge ▶ noun a gauge for testing pressure after the production of a vacuum.

vacuum-pack ▶ verb [with obj.] seal (a product) in a pack or wrapping after any air has been removed so that the pack or wrapping is tight and firm: [as adj. vacuum-packed] vacuum-packed cheese.

vacuum pump ▶ noun a pump used for creating a vacuum.

vacuum tube ▶ noun a sealed glass tube containing a near-vacuum which allows the free passage of electric current.

VAD historical ▶ abbreviation for Voluntary Aid Detachment, a British organization of first-aid workers and nurses.

vada /'vɑːdə/ (also wada) ▶ noun an Indian dish consisting of a ball made from ground lentils and deep-fried.
– ORIGIN from Hindi vaḍā.

vade mecum /ˌvɑːdi 'meɪkəm, ˌveɪdi, 'miːkəm/ ▶ noun a handbook or guide that is kept constantly at hand for consultation.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: modern Latin, literally 'go with me'.

Vadodara /və'dəʊdərə/ a city in the state of Gujarat, western India; pop. 1,021,000 (1991). The capital of the former state of Baroda, the city was known as Baroda until 1976.

vadose /'veɪdəʊs/ ▶ adjective relating to or denoting underground water above the water table. Compare with PHREATIC.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin vadosus, from vadum 'shallow expanse of water'.

Vaduz /va'dʊts/ the capital of Liechtenstein; pop. 4,870 (est. 1990).

vagabond ▶ noun a person who wanders from place to place without a home or job.
■ informal, dated a rascal; a rogue.
▶ adjective [attrib.] having no settled home.
▶ verb [no obj.] archaic wander about as or like a vagabond.
– DERIVATIVES vagabondage noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (originally denoting a criminal): from Old French, or from Latin vagabundus, from vagari 'wander'.

vagal ▶ adjective of or relating to the vagus nerve.

vagarious /və'gɛːrɪəs/ ▶ adjective rare erratic and unpredictable in behaviour or direction.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent. (in the sense 'changing, inconstant'): from VAGARY + -OUS.

vagary /'veɪg(ə)ri/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) (usu. vagaries) an unexpected and inexplicable change in a situation or in someone's behaviour: the vagaries of the weather.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (also as a verb in the sense 'roam'): from Latin vagari 'wander'.

vagi plural form of VAGUS.

vagina /və'dʒʌɪnə/ ▶ noun (pl. vaginas or vaginae /-niː/) the muscular tube leading from the external genitals to the cervix of the uterus in women and most female mammals.
■ Botany & Zoology any sheath-like structure, especially a sheath formed round a stem by the base of a leaf.
– DERIVATIVES vaginal adjective.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Latin, literally 'sheath, scabbard'.

vagina dentata /dɛn'tɑːtə/ ▶ noun the motif of a vagina with teeth, occurring in folklore and fantasy and said to symbolize male fears of the dangers of sexual intercourse.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: dentata, feminine of Latin dentatus 'having teeth'.

vaginal plug ▶ noun Zoology a secretion which blocks the vagina of some rodents and insectivores after mating.

vaginismus /ˌvadʒɪ'nɪzməs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] painful spasmodic contraction of the vagina in response to physical contact or pressure (especially in sexual intercourse).
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: modern Latin, from Latin vagina (see VAGINA).

vaginitis /ˌvadʒɪ'nʌɪtɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] inflammation of the vagina.

vaginosis /ˌvadʒɪ'nəʊsɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a bacterial infection of the vagina causing a smelly white discharge.

vagotomy /veɪ'gɒtəmi/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) [mass noun] a surgical operation in which one or more branches of the vagus nerve are cut, typically to reduce the rate of gastric secretion (e.g. in treating peptic ulcers).
– DERIVATIVES vagotomized adjective.

vagrant /'veɪgr(ə)nt/ ▶ noun a person without a settled home or regular work who wanders from place to place and lives by begging.
■ archaic a wanderer. ■ Ornithology a bird that has strayed or been blown from its usual range or migratory route. Also called ACCIDENTAL.
▶ adjective [attrib.] characteristic of, relating to, or living the life of a vagrant: vagrant beggars.
■ moving from place to place: wandering: vagrant whales. ■ poetic/literary moving or occurring unpredictably; inconstant: the vagrant heart of my mother.
– DERIVATIVES vagrancy noun, vagrantly adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French vagarant 'wandering about', from the verb vagrer.

vague ▶ adjective of uncertain, indefinite, or unclear character or meaning: many patients suffer vague symptoms.
■ thinking or communicating in an unfocused or imprecise way: he had been very vague about his activities.
– DERIVATIVES vaguely adverb, vagueness noun, vaguish adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from French, or from Latin vagus 'wandering, uncertain'.

vagus /'veɪgəs/ ▶ noun (pl. vagi /-dʒʌɪ, -gʌɪ/) (also vagus nerve) Anatomy each of the tenth pair of cranial nerves, supplying the heart, lungs, upper digestive tract, and other organs of the chest and abdomen.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin (see VAGUE).

vail /veɪl/ ▶ verb [with obj.] archaic take off or lower (one's hat or crown) as a token of respect or submission.
■ [no obj.] take off one's hat or otherwise show respect or submission to someone.
– ORIGIN Middle English (originally in the sense 'lower (one's eyes, weapon, banner, etc.) as a sign of submission'): shortening of obsolete avale, from Old French avaler 'to lower', from a val 'down' (literally 'in the valley').

vain ▶ adjective 1 having or showing an excessively high opinion of one's appearance, abilities, or worth: their flattery made him vain.
2 [attrib.] producing no result; useless: a vain attempt to tidy up the room | the vain hope of finding work.
■ having no meaning or likelihood of fulfilment: a vain boast.
– PHRASES in vain without success or a result: they waited in vain for a response. take someone's name in vain use someone's name in a way that shows a lack of respect.
– DERIVATIVES vainly adverb.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'devoid of real worth'): via Old French from Latin vanus 'empty, without substance'.

vainglory ▶ noun [mass noun] poetic/literary inordinate pride in oneself or one's achievements; excessive vanity.
– DERIVATIVES vainglorious adjective, vaingloriously adverb, vaingloriousness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: suggested by Old French vaine gloire, Latin vana gloria.

vair /vɛː/ ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 fur obtained from a variety of red squirrel, used in the 13th and 14th centuries as a trimming or lining for garments.
2 Heraldry fur represented by interlocking rows of shield-shaped or bell-shaped figures which are typically alternately blue and white, as a tincture.
– ORIGIN Middle English: via Old French from Latin varius (see VARIOUS).

vairy /'vɛːri/ ▶ adjective Heraldry of a pattern resembling vair but usually in other colours.

Vaishnava /'vʌɪʃnəvə/ ▶ noun a member of one of the main branches of modern Hinduism, devoted to the worship of the god Vishnu as the supreme being. Compare with SAIVA.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit vaiṣṇava.

Vaisya /'vʌɪsjə, -ʃjə/ (also Vaishya) ▶ noun a member of the third of the four Hindu castes, comprising the merchants and farmers.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit vaiśya 'peasant, labourer'.

vajra /'vʌdʒrə/ ▶ noun (in Buddhism and Hinduism) a thunderbolt or mythical weapon, especially one wielded by the god Indra.
– ORIGIN Sanskrit.

valance /'val(ə)ns/ (also valence) ▶ noun a length of decorative drapery attached to the canopy or frame of a bed in order to screen the structure or the space beneath it.
■ a sheet with a deep pleated or gathered border that is designed to hang down over the mattress and sides of a bed. ■ a length of decorative drapery hung above a window to screen the curtain fittings. ■ a protective panel screening the wheels of a vehicle.
– DERIVATIVES valanced adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: perhaps Anglo-Norman French, from a shortened form of Old French avaler 'descend' (see VAIL).

vale[1] /veɪl/ ▶ noun a valley (used in place names or as a poetic term): the Vale of Glamorgan.
– PHRASES vale of tears poetic/literary the world regarded as a scene of trouble or sorrow.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French val, from Latin vallis, valles.

vale[2] /'vɑːleɪ/ archaic ▶ exclamation farewell.
▶ noun a written or spoken farewell.
– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'be well!, be strong!', imperative of valere.

valediction /ˌvalɪ'dɪkʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of saying farewell: he spread his palm in valediction.
■ [count noun] a statement or address made at or as a farewell: his official memorial valediction.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: based on Latin vale 'goodbye' + dicere 'to say', on the pattern of benediction.

valedictorian /ˌvalɪdɪk'tɔːrɪən/ ▶ noun (in North America) a student who delivers the valedictory at a graduation ceremony.

valedictory /ˌvalɪ'dɪkt(ə)ri/ ▶ adjective serving as a farewell: a valedictory wave.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) a farewell address.

valence[1] /'veɪl(ə)ns/ ▶ noun Chemistry & Linguistics another term for VALENCY.
■ [as modifier] relating to or denoting electrons involved in or available for chemical bond formation: molecules with unpaired valence electrons.

valence[2] ▶ noun variant spelling of VALANCE.

Valencia /və'lɛnsɪə, Spanish ba'lenθja, -sja/ 1 an autonomous region of eastern Spain, on the Mediterranean coast. It was formerly a Moorish kingdom (1021–1238).
■ its capital, a port on the Mediterranean coast; pop. 777,430 (1991).
2 a city in northern Venezuela; pop. 903,080 (1991).

Valenciennes /ˌvalɒ̃'sjɛn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a type of bobbin lace.
– ORIGIN named after a town in NE France, where it was made in the 17th and 18th cents.

valency /'veɪl(ə)nsi/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) Chemistry, chiefly Brit. the combining power of an element, especially as measured by the number of hydrogen atoms it can displace or combine with: carbon always has a valency of 4. Compare with VALENCE[1].
■ Linguistics the number of grammatical elements with which a particular word, especially a verb, combines in a sentence.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from late Latin valentia 'power, competence', from valere 'be well or strong'.

valentine ▶ noun a card sent, often anonymously, on St Valentine's Day, 14 February, to a person one loves or is attracted to.
■ a person to whom one sends such a card or whom one asks to be one's sweetheart.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting a person chosen (sometimes by lot) as a sweetheart or special friend): from Old French Valentin, from Latin Valentinus.

Valentine, St either of two early Italian saints (who may have been the same person) traditionally commemorated on 14 February—a Roman priest martyred *c.*269 and a bishop of Terni martyred at Rome. St Valentine was regarded as the patron of lovers.

Valentino /ˌvalən'tiːnəʊ/, Rudolph (1895–1926), Italian-born American actor; born Rodolfo Guglielmi di Valentina d'Antonguolla. He played the romantic hero in silent films such as The Sheikh (1921).

Valera, Eamon de, see DE VALERA.

Valerian /və'lɪərɪən/ (d.260), Roman emperor 253–60; Latin name Publius Licinius Valerianus. He renewed the persecution of the Christians initiated by Decius.

valerian /və'lɪərɪən/ ▶ noun a Eurasian plant which typically bears clusters of small pink or white flowers.
● Family Valerianaceae: several species, in particular common valerian (Valeriana officinalis), a valued medicinal herb, and the Mediterranean red valerian (Centranthus ruber), grown for its spurred flowers which attract butterflies.
■ [mass noun] a drug obtained from the root of common valerian, used as a stimulant and antispasmodic.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French valeriane, from medieval Latin valeriana (herba), apparently the feminine of Valerianus 'of Valerius' (a personal name).

valeric acid /və'lɛrɪk, -'lɪərɪk/ ▶ noun Chemistry another term for PENTANOIC ACID.
- DERIVATIVES valerate noun.
- ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: valeric from VALERIAN + -IC.

Valéry /ˌvalɛ'ri:, French valeʀi/, (Ambroise) Paul (Toussaint Jules) (1871–1945), French poet, essayist, and critic. His poetry includes La Jeune parque (1917) and 'Le Cimetière marin' (1922).

valet /'valɪt, 'valeɪ/ ▶ noun 1 a man's personal male attendant, responsible for his clothes and appearance.
■ a hotel employee performing such duties for guests.
2 a person employed to clean or park cars.
▶ verb (valeted, valeting) [with obj.] 1 act as a valet to (a particular man).
■ [no obj.] work as a valet.
2 clean (a car), especially on the inside.
- ORIGIN late 15th cent. (denoting a footman acting as an attendant to a horseman): from French; related to VASSAL.

valeta ▶ noun variant spelling of VELETA.

valetudinarian /ˌvalɪtju:dɪ'nɛ:rɪən/ ▶ noun a person who is unduly anxious about their health.
■ a person suffering from poor health.
▶ adjective showing undue concern about one's health.
■ suffering from poor health.
- DERIVATIVES valetudinarianism noun.
- ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin valetudinarius 'in ill health' (from valetudo 'health', from valere 'be well') + -AN.

valetudinary /ˌvalɪ'tju:dɪn(ə)ri/ ▶ adjective & noun (pl. -ies) another term for VALETUDINARIAN.

valgus /'valgəs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a deformity involving oblique displacement of part of a limb away from the midline. The opposite of VARUS.
- ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin, literally 'knock-kneed'.

Valhalla /val'halə/ Scandinavian Mythology a palace in which heroes killed in battle were believed to feast with Odin for eternity.
- ORIGIN modern Latin, from Old Norse Valhǫll, from valr 'the slain' + hǫll 'hall'.

valiant ▶ adjective possessing or showing courage or determination: she made a valiant effort to hold her anger in check | a valiant warrior.
- DERIVATIVES valiantly adverb.
- ORIGIN Middle English (also in the sense 'robust, well-built'): from Old French vaillant, based on Latin valere 'be strong'.

valid ▶ adjective actually supporting the intended point or claim; acceptable as cogent: a valid criticism.
■ legally binding due to having been executed in compliance with the law: a valid contract. ■ legally acceptable: the visas are valid for thirty days.
- DERIVATIVES validity noun, validly adverb.
- ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from French valide or Latin validus 'strong', from valere 'be strong'.

validate ▶ verb [with obj.] check or prove the validity or accuracy of (something): all analytical methods should be validated in respect of accuracy.
■ demonstrate or support the truth or value of: acclaim was seen as a means of validating one's existence. ■ make or declare legally valid.
- DERIVATIVES validation noun.
- ORIGIN mid 17th cent. (in the sense 'make legally valid'): from medieval Latin validat- 'made legally valid', from the verb validare, from Latin validus (see VALID).

valine /'veɪli:n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry an amino acid which is a constituent of most proteins. It is an essential nutrient in the diet of vertebrates.
• Chem. formula: $(CH_3)_2CHCH(NH_2)COOH$.
- ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from val(eric acid) + -INE[4].

valise /və'li:z/ ▶ noun a small travelling bag or suitcase.
- ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French, from Italian valigia; compare with medieval Latin valesia, of unknown origin.

Valium /'valɪəm/ ▶ noun trademark for DIAZEPAM.
- ORIGIN 1960s: of unknown origin.

Valkyrie /val'kɪəri, 'valkɪri/ ▶ noun Scandinavian Mythology each of Odin's twelve handmaids who conducted the slain warriors of their choice from the battlefield to Valhalla.
- ORIGIN from Old Norse Valkyrja, literally 'chooser of the slain', from valr 'the slain' + kyrja 'chooser'.

Valladolid /ˌvaləda'li:d, Spanish bajaðo'lið/ 1 a city in northern Spain, capital of Castilla-León region; pop. 345,260 (1991). It was the principal residence of the kings of Castile in the 15th century.
2 former name (until 1828) for MORELIA.

vallecula /va'lɛkjʊlə/ ▶ noun (pl. valleculae /-li:/) Anatomy & Botany a groove or furrow.
- DERIVATIVES vallecular adjective.
- ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from a late Latin variant of Latin vallicula, diminutive of Latin vallis 'valley'.

Valle d'Aosta /ˌvaleɪ da:'ɒstə/ an Alpine region in the north-western corner of Italy; capital, Aosta.

Valletta /və'lɛtə/ the capital and chief port of Malta; pop. 9,240 (1987); urban harbour area pop. 102,000 (1992).
- ORIGIN named after Jean de Valette, Grand Master of the Knights of St John, who built the town after the victory over the Turks in 1565.

valley ▶ noun (pl. -eys) 1 a low area of land between hills or mountains, typically with a river or stream flowing through it.
2 Architecture an internal angle formed by the intersecting planes of a roof, or by the slope of a roof and a wall.
- ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French valee, based on Latin vallis, valles; compare with VALE[1].

valley fever (also San Joaquin valley fever) ▶ noun [mass noun] N. Amer. informal term for COCCIDIOIDOMYCOSIS.

Valley Forge the site on the Schuylkill River in Pennsylvania, about 32 km (20 miles) to the north-west of Philadelphia, where George Washington's Continental Army spent the winter of 1777–8 in conditions of extreme hardship.

Valley Girl ▶ noun US informal a fashionable and affluent teenage girl from the San Fernando valley in southern California.

Valley of the Kings a valley near ancient Thebes in Egypt where the pharaohs of the New Kingdom (*c.*1550–1070 BC) were buried.

vallum /'valəm/ ▶ noun (in ancient Rome) a defensive wall, rampart, or stockade.
- ORIGIN Latin, collective from vallus 'stake, palisade'.

Valois[1] /'valwɑ:/ 1 a medieval duchy of northern France, home of the Valois dynasty.
2 the French royal house from the accession of Philip VI in 1328 to the death of Henry III (1589).

Valois[2], Dame Ninette de, see DE VALOIS.

Valona /va'lona/ Italian name for VLORË.

valonia /va'ləʊnɪə/ ▶ noun (also valonia oak) an evergreen oak tree native to southern Europe and western Asia. See also ALEPPO GALL.
• Quercus macrolepis, family Fagaceae.
■ the acorn cups of this tree, which yield a black dye and are used in tanning.
- ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Italian vallonia, based on Greek balanos 'acorn'.

valor ▶ noun US spelling of VALOUR.

valorize /'valəraɪz/ (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] give or ascribe value or validity to (something): the culture valorizes the individual.
■ raise or fix the price or value of (a commodity or currency) by artificial means, especially by government action.
- DERIVATIVES valorization noun.
- ORIGIN 1920s: back-formation from valorization (from French valorisation, from valeur 'value').

valour (US valor) ▶ noun [mass noun] great courage in the face of danger, especially in battle: the medals are awarded for acts of valour.
- DERIVATIVES valorous adjective.
- ORIGIN Middle English (denoting worth derived from personal qualities or rank): via Old French from late Latin valor, from valere 'be strong'.

Valparaíso /ˌvalpə'raɪzəʊ, Spanish balpara'iso/ the principal port of Chile, in the centre of the country, near the capital Santiago; pop. 276,740 (1992).

Valpolicella /ˌvalpɒlɪ'tʃɛlə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] red Italian wine made in the Val Policella district.

valproic acid /val'prəʊɪk/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a synthetic crystalline compound with anticonvulsant properties, used (generally as salts) in the treatment of epilepsy.
• Alternative name: 2-propylpentanoic acid; chem. formula: $C_7H_{15}COOH$.
- DERIVATIVES valproate noun.
- ORIGIN 1970s: valproic from valeric (see VALERIC ACID) + pro(pyl) + -IC.

Valsalva manoeuvre /val'salvə/ ▶ noun Medicine the action of attempting to exhale with the nostrils and mouth, or the glottis, closed. This increases pressure in the middle ear and the chest, as when bracing to lift heavy objects, and is used as a means of equalizing pressure in the ears.
- ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after Antonio M. Valsalva (1666–1723), Italian anatomist.

valse /vals, vɔ:ls/ ▶ noun (pl. pronounced same) French term for WALTZ (especially as used in the titles of pieces of music).
- ORIGIN late 18th cent.: via French from German Walzer.

valuable ▶ adjective worth a great deal of money: a valuable antique.
■ extremely useful or important: my time is valuable.
▶ noun (usu. valuables) a thing that is of great worth, especially a small item of personal property: put all your valuables in the hotel safe.
- DERIVATIVES valuably adverb.

valuable consideration ▶ noun [mass noun] Law legal consideration having some economic value, which is necessary for a contract to be enforceable.

valuation ▶ noun an estimation of something's worth, especially one carried out by a professional valuer: it is wise to obtain an independent valuation.
■ the monetary worth of something, especially as estimated by a valuer.
- DERIVATIVES valuate verb chiefly US.

valuator ▶ noun archaic a person who makes valuations; a valuer.

value ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] the regard that something is held to deserve; the importance or preciousness of something: your support is of great value.
■ the material or monetary worth of something: prints seldom rise in value | [count noun] equipment is included up to a total value of £500. ■ the worth of something compared to the price paid or asked for it: at £12.50 the book is good value. ■ the usefulness of something considered in respect of a particular purpose: some new drugs are of great value in treating cancers.
2 (values) a person's principles or standards of behaviour; one's judgement of what is important in life: they internalize their parents' rules and values.
3 the numerical amount denoted by an algebraic term; a magnitude, quantity, or number: the mean value of x | an accurate value for the mass of Venus.
4 Music the relative duration of the sound signified by a note.
5 Linguistics the meaning of a word or other linguistic unit.
■ the quality or tone of a spoken sound; the sound represented by a letter.
6 Art the relative degree of lightness or darkness of a particular colour: the artist has used adjacent colour values as the landscape recedes.
▶ verb (values, valued, valuing) [with obj.] 1 (often be valued) estimate the monetary worth of (something): his estate was valued at £45,000.
2 consider (someone or something) to be important or beneficial; have a high opinion of: she had come to value her privacy and independence | [as adj. valued] a valued friend.
- PHRASES value for money Brit. used in reference to something that is well worth the money spent on it: this camera is really good value for money.
- ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, feminine past participle of valoir 'be worth', from Latin valere.

value added ▶ noun [mass noun] Economics the amount by which the value of an article is increased at each stage of its production, exclusive of initial costs.
▶ adjective [attrib.] (of goods) having features added to a basic line or model for which the buyer is prepared to pay extra.
■ (of a company) offering specialized or extended services in a commercial area.

value added tax (abbrev.: VAT) ▶ noun [mass noun] a tax on the amount by which the value of an article has been increased at each stage of its production or distribution.

value analysis ▶ noun [mass noun] the systematic and critical assessment by an organization of every feature of a product to ensure that its cost is no greater than is necessary to carry out its functions.

value engineering ▶ noun [mass noun] the modification of designs and systems according to value analysis.

value-free ▶ adjective free from criteria imposed by subjective values or standards; purely objective: real science could and should be value-free.

value judgement ▶ noun an assessment of something as good or bad in terms of one's standards or priorities.

value-laden ▶ adjective presupposing the acceptance of a particular set of values: governments' judgements are value-laden.

valueless ▶ adjective having no value; worthless: cherished but valueless heirlooms.
– DERIVATIVES valuelessness noun.

value-neutral ▶ adjective not presupposing the acceptance of any particular values.

valuer ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a person whose job is to estimate or assess the value of something that is to be purchased.

value received ▶ noun [mass noun] Finance used on a bill of exchange to indicate that the bill is a means of paying for goods or services to the value of the bill.

valuta /və'lju:tə, -'lu:-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the value of one currency with respect to its exchange rate with another.
■ foreign currency: these internal flights supply valuta to the cash-starved confederation.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Italian, literally 'value'.

valvate /'valveɪt/ ▶ adjective Botany (of sepals or other parts) having adjacent edges abutting rather than overlapping. Compare with IMBRICATE.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin valvatus 'having folding doors', from valva 'valve'.

valve ▶ noun a device for controlling the passage of fluid through a pipe or duct, especially an automatic device allowing movement in one direction only.
■ Brit. short for THERMIONIC VALVE. ■ Music a cylindrical mechanism in a brass instrument which, when depressed or turned, admits air into different sections of tubing and so extends the range of available notes. ■ Anatomy & Zoology a membranous fold in a hollow organ or tubular structure, such as a blood vessel or the digestive tract, which maintains the flow of the contents in one direction by closing in response to any pressure from reverse flow. ■ Zoology each of the halves of the hinged shell of a bivalve mollusc or brachiopod, or of the parts of the compound shell of a barnacle. ■ Botany each of the halves or sections into which a dry fruit (especially a pod or capsule) dehisces.
– DERIVATIVES valved adjective [in combination] a branchiopod has a two-valved outer covering, valveless adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting a leaf of a folding or double door): from Latin valva.

valve gear ▶ noun the mechanism that controls the opening and closing of the cylinder valves in a steam engine or internal-combustion engine.

valve head ▶ noun the part of a vertically opening valve that is lifted off the valve aperture to open the valve.

valvular ▶ adjective relating to, having, or acting as a valve or valves: valvular heart disease | three pairs of valvular apertures.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from modern Latin valvula (diminutive of Latin valva 'leaf of a door') + -AR[1].

valvulitis /ˌvalvjʊ'lʌɪtɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine inflammation of the valves of the heart.

vambrace /'vambreɪs/ ▶ noun historical a piece of armour for the arm, especially the forearm.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from an Anglo-Norman French shortening of Old French avantbras, from avant 'before' + bras 'arm'. Compare with VAMPLATE. vamoose /və'mu:s/ ▶ verb [no obj.] informal depart hurriedly: we'd better vamoose before we're caught.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Spanish vamos 'let us go'.

vamp[1] ▶ noun 1 the upper front part of a boot or shoe.
2 (in jazz and popular music) a short, simple introductory passage, usually repeated several times until otherwise instructed.
▶ verb 1 [no obj.] repeat a short, simple passage of music: the band was vamping gently behind his busy lead guitar.
2 [with obj.] attach a new upper to (a boot or shoe).
■ (vamp something up) informal repair or improve something: the production values have been vamped up.
– ORIGIN Middle English (denoting the foot of a stocking): shortening of Old French avantpie, from avant 'before' + pie 'foot'. The musical sense of the verb developed from the general sense 'improvise'.

vamp[2] informal ▶ noun a woman who uses sexual attraction to exploit men.
▶ verb [with obj.] blatantly set out to attract: she had not vamped him like some wicked Jezebel.
– DERIVATIVES vampish adjective, vampishly adverb, vampy adjective.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: abbreviation of VAMPIRE.

vampire /'vampʌɪə/ ▶ noun 1 a corpse supposed, in European folklore, to leave its grave at night to drink the blood of the living by biting their necks with long pointed canine teeth.
■ figurative a person who preys ruthlessly on others: the protectionist vampires in the Congress.
2 (also vampire bat) a small bat that feeds on the blood of mammals or birds using its two sharp incisor teeth and anticoagulant saliva, found mainly in tropical America. See also FALSE VAMPIRE.
• Family Desmodontidae (or Phyllostomidae): three species, in particular the common vampire (Desmodus rotundus).
3 (also vampire trap) Theatre a small spring trapdoor used for sudden disappearances from a stage.
– DERIVATIVES vampiric /-'pɪrɪk/ adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from French, from Hungarian vampir, perhaps from Turkish uber 'witch'.

vampirism /'vampʌɪərɪz(ə)m/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the action or practices of a vampire.

vamplate /'vampleɪt/ ▶ noun historical a circular plate on a spear or lance designed to protect the hand.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French vauntplate, from avant 'before' + plate 'thin plate'. Compare with VAMBRACE.

van[1] ▶ noun a covered motor vehicle, typically without side windows, used for transporting goods or people.
■ Brit. an enclosed railway vehicle for conveying something other than passengers. ■ Brit. a caravan.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: shortening of CARAVAN.

van[2] ▶ noun (the van) the foremost part of a company of people moving or preparing to move forwards, especially the foremost division of an advancing military force: in the van were the foremost chiefs and some of the warriors astride horses.
■ figurative the forefront: he was in the van of the movement to encourage the cultivation of wild flowers.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: abbreviation of VANGUARD.

van[3] ▶ noun 1 archaic a winnowing fan.
2 archaic or poetic/literary a bird's wing.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: dialect variant of FAN[1], probably reinforced by Old French van or Latin vannus.

van[4] ▶ noun Tennis, Brit. informal term for ADVANTAGE.
– ORIGIN 1920s: abbreviation.

Van, Lake /van/ a large salt lake in the mountains of eastern Turkey.

vanadate /'vanədeɪt/ ▶ noun Chemistry a salt in which the anion contains both vanadium and oxygen, especially one of the anion VO_4^{3-}.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from VANADIUM + -ATE[1].

vanadinite /və'nadɪnʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a rare reddish-brown mineral consisting of a vanadate and chloride of lead, typically occurring as an oxidation product of lead ores.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from VANADIUM + -ITE[1].

vanadium /və'neɪdɪəm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the chemical element of atomic number 23, a hard grey metal of the transition series, used to make alloy steels. (Symbol: V) – ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: modern Latin, from Old Norse Vanadis (a name of the Scandinavian goddess Freyja).

Van Allen /van 'alən/, James Alfred (b.1914), American physicist. He used balloons and rockets to study cosmic radiation in the upper atmosphere, showing that specific zones of high radiation were the result of charged particles from the solar wind being trapped in two belts around the earth.

Van Allen belt ▶ noun each of two regions of intense radiation partly surrounding the earth at heights of several thousand kilometres.

vanaspati /və'nʌspəˌti:/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a type of thick vegetable oil used in India.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit vanas-pati, literally 'lord of the wood, lord of plants'.

Vanbrugh /'vanbrə/, Sir John (1664–1726), English architect and dramatist. His comedies include The Relapse (1696) and The Provok'd Wife (1697); among his architectural works are Castle Howard in Yorkshire (1702) and Blenheim Palace in Oxfordshire (1705), both produced in collaboration with Nicholas Hawksmoor.

Van Buren /van 'bjʊərən/, Martin (1782–1862), American Democratic statesman, 8th President of the US 1837–41.

vancomycin /ˌvaŋkə'mʌɪsɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a bacterial antibiotic used against resistant strains of streptococcus and staphylococcus.
• This antibiotic is obtained from the bacterium Streptomyces orientalis.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from vanco- (of unknown origin) + -MYCIN.

Vancouver[1] /van'ku:və/ a city and port in British Columbia, SW Canada, situated on the mainland opposite Vancouver Island; pop. 471,840 (1991); metropolitan area pop. 1,602,500. It is the largest city in western Canada and its chief Pacific port.

Vancouver[2] /van'ku:və/, George (1757–98), English navigator. He led an exploration of the coasts of Australia, New Zealand, and Hawaii (1791–2), and later charted much of the west coast of North America between southern Alaska and California.

Vancouver Island a large island off the Pacific coast of Canada, in SW British Columbia. Its capital, Victoria, is the capital of British Columbia. It became a British Crown Colony in 1849, later uniting with British Columbia to join the Dominion of Canada.

V. & A. ▶ abbreviation for Victoria and Albert Museum.

Vanda /'vanda/ Swedish name for VANTAA.

vandal ▶ noun 1 a person who deliberately destroys or damages public or private property: the rear window of the car was smashed by vandals.
2 (Vandal) a member of a Germanic people that ravaged Gaul, Spain, Rome (455 BC), and North Africa in the 4th–5th centuries.
– ORIGIN from Latin Vandalus, of Germanic origin. Sense 1 dates from the mid 17th cent.

vandalism ▶ noun [mass noun] action involving deliberate destruction of or damage to public or private property.
– DERIVATIVES vandalistic adjective, vandalistically adverb.

vandalize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] deliberately destroy or damage (public or private property): stations have been wrecked and vandalized beyond recognition.

van de Graaff generator /ˌvan də 'gra:f/ ▶ noun Physics a machine devised to generate electrostatic charge by means of a vertical endless belt collecting charge from a voltage source and transferring it to a large insulated metal dome, where a high voltage is produced.
– ORIGIN mid 20th cent.: named after Robert Jemison Van de Graaf (1901–67), American physicist.

Vanderbijlpark /'vandəbʌɪlˌpɑ:k/ a steel-manufacturing city in South Africa, in the province of Gauteng, south of Johannesburg; pop. 540,140 (1985) (with Vereeniging).

Vanderbilt /'vandəbɪlt/, Cornelius (1794–1877), American businessman and philanthropist. He amassed a fortune from shipping and railroads, and made an endowment to found Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee (1873).

Van der Hum /ˌvan də 'hʌm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a South African brandy-based liqueur made with naartjies.
– ORIGIN perhaps from a personal name.

Van der Post /ˌvan də 'pɒst/, Sir Laurens (Jan) (1906–96), South African explorer and writer. His books, including Venture to the Interior (1952) and The Lost World of the Kalahari (1958), combine travel writing and descriptions of fauna with philosophical speculation.

van der Waals forces /ˌvan də 'wa:lz, 'va:lz/ ▶ plural noun Chemistry weak, short-range electrostatic attractive forces between uncharged molecules, arising from the interaction of permanent or transient electric dipole moments.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after Johannes van der Waals (1837–1923), Dutch physicist.

van de Velde[1] /ˌvan də ˈvɛldə/ the name of a family of Dutch painters:
- Willem (1611–93); known as Willem van de Velde the Elder. He painted marine subjects and was official artist to the Dutch fleet. He also worked for Charles II.
- Willem (1633–1707), son of Willem the Elder; known as Willem van de Velde the Younger. He was also a notable marine artist who painted for Charles II.
- Adriaen (1636–72); son of Willem the Elder. He painted landscapes, portraits, and biblical and genre scenes.

van de Velde[2] /ˌvan də ˈvɛldə/, Henri (Clemens) (1863–1957), Belgian architect, designer, and teacher, who pioneered the development of art nouveau design and architecture in Europe. His buildings include the Werkbund Theatre in Cologne (1914).

Van Diemen's Land /van ˈdiːmənz/ former name (until 1855) for TASMANIA.

Van Dyck /van ˈdʌɪk/ (also Vandyke), Sir Anthony (1599–1641), Flemish painter. He is famous for his portraits of members of the English court, which determined the course of portraiture in England for more than 200 years.

Vandyke /vanˈdʌɪk/ (also vandyke) ▶ noun 1 a broad lace or linen collar with an edge deeply cut into large points (in imitation of a style frequently depicted in portraits by Sir Anthony Van Dyck), fashionable in the 18th century.
- each of a number of large deep-cut points on the border or fringe of a garment or piece of material.

2 (also Vandyke beard) a neat, pointed beard.

▶ adjective [attrib.] denoting a style of garment or decorative design associated with the portraits of Van Dyck: a Vandyke handkerchief.

Vandyke brown ▶ noun [mass noun] a deep rich brown.

vane ▶ noun a broad blade attached to a rotating axis or wheel which pushes or is pushed by wind or water and forms part of a machine or device such as a windmill, propeller, or turbine.
- short for WEATHERVANE. ■ the flat part on either side of the shaft of a feather. ■ a broad, flat projecting surface designed to guide the motion of a projectile, such as a feather on an arrow or a fin on a torpedo.

– DERIVATIVES vaned adjective [usu. in combination] a three-vaned windmill.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: dialect variant of obsolete fane 'banner', of Germanic origin.

Vänern /ˈvɛɪnən/ a lake in SW Sweden, the largest lake in Sweden and the third largest in Europe.

vanessid /vəˈnɛsɪd/ ▶ noun Entomology a butterfly of a group that includes many of the better known kinds found in temperate regions. Compare with NYMPHALID.
- Subfamily Nymphalinae, family Nymphalidae (formerly the family Vanessidae).

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from modern Latin Vanessidae, from Vanessa (female given name adopted as a genus name).

Van Eyck /van ˈʌɪk/, Jan (*c.*1370–1441), Flemish painter. He made innovative use of oils, bringing greater flexibility, richer and denser colour, and a wider range from light to dark. Notable works: The Adoration of the Lamb (known as the Ghent Altarpiece, 1432) in the church of St Bavon in Ghent and The Arnolfini Marriage (1434).

vang /vaŋ/ ▶ noun Sailing each of two guy ropes running from the end of a gaff to the deck.
- (also boom vang) a fitting used to pull a boat's boom down and help control the shape of the sail.

– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: variant of obsolete fang, denoting a gripping device, from Old Norse fang 'grasp', of Germanic origin.

vanga /ˈvaŋgə/ (also vanga shrike) ▶ noun a shrike-like songbird found in Madagascar.
- Family Vangidae: several genera and species.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: modern Latin (genus name), from Latin, literally 'mattock' (because of the shape of the bill).

Van Gogh /van ˈgɒx, ˈgɒf/, Vincent (Willem) (1853–90), Dutch painter. He is best known for his post-Impressionist work, influenced by contact with Impressionist painting and Japanese woodcuts after he moved to Paris in 1886. His most famous pictures include several studies of sunflowers and A Starry Night (1889). Suffering from severe depression, he cut off part of his own ear and eventually committed suicide.

vanguard ▶ noun a group of people leading the way in new developments or ideas: the experimental spirit of the modernist vanguard.
- a position at the forefront of new developments or ideas: the prototype was in the vanguard of technical development. ■ the foremost part of an advancing army or naval force.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting the foremost part of an army): shortening of Old French avan(t)garde, from avant 'before' + garde 'guard'.

vanilla ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] a substance obtained from vanilla pods or produced artificially and used to flavour sweet foods or to impart a fragrant scent to cosmetic preparations: [as modifier] vanilla ice cream.
- ice cream flavoured with vanilla: four scoops of vanilla with hot fudge sauce. ■ [as modifier] of the colour of vanilla ice cream: a vanilla dress.

2 a tropical climbing orchid which has fragrant flowers and long pod-like fruit.
- Genus Vanilla, family Orchidaceae: many species, in particular V. planifolia, the chief commercial source of vanilla pods.

■ (also vanilla pod) the fruit of this plant which is cured and then either used in cookery or processed to extract an essence which is used for flavour and fragrance.

▶ adjective (also plain vanilla) having no special or extra features; ordinary: it will be able to do tricks that plain vanilla CD-ROMs can't.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Spanish vainilla 'pod', diminutive of vaina 'sheath, pod', from Latin vagina 'sheath'. The spelling change was due to association with French vanille.

vanillin ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a fragrant compound which is the essential constituent of vanilla.
- Alternative name: 3-methoxy-4-hydroxybenzaldehyde; chem. formula: $CH_3OC_6H_3(OH)CHO$.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.; from VANILLA + -IN[1].

vanish ▶ verb [no obj.] 1 disappear suddenly and completely: Moira vanished without trace.
- gradually cease to exist: the environment is under threat—hedgerows and woodlands are vanishing.

2 Mathematics become zero.

– ORIGIN Middle English: shortening of Old French e(s)vaniss-, lengthened stem of e(s)vanir, from Latin evanescere 'die away'.

vanishing cream ▶ noun [mass noun] dated a cream or ointment that leaves no visible trace when rubbed into the skin.

vanishingly ▶ adverb [as submodifier] in such a manner or to such a degree as almost to become invisible, non-existent, or negligible: an event of vanishingly small probability.

vanishing point ▶ noun 1 the point at which receding parallel lines viewed in perspective appear to converge.

2 [in sing.] the point at which something that has been growing smaller or increasingly faint disappears altogether: rates of interest dwindled to vanishing point.

vanitas /ˈvanɪtɑːs/ ▶ noun a still-life painting of a 17th-century Dutch genre containing symbols of death or change as a reminder of their inevitability.

– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'vanity'.

Vanitory unit /ˈvanɪt(ə)ri/ ▶ noun trademark a vanity unit.

– ORIGIN 1950s: Vanitory from VANITY, on the pattern of lavatory.

vanity ▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 [mass noun] excessive pride in or admiration of one's own appearance or achievements: it flattered his vanity to think I was in love with him | [count noun] the personal vanities and ambitions of politicians.
- [as modifier] denoting a person or company publishing works at the author's expense: a vanity press.

2 [mass noun] the quality of being worthless or futile: the vanity of human wishes.

3 N. Amer. a dressing table.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vanite, from Latin vanitas, from vanus 'empty' (see VAIN).

vanity case ▶ noun a small case fitted with a mirror and compartments for make-up.

Vanity Fair the world regarded as a place of frivolity and idle amusement (originally with reference to Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress).

vanity mirror ▶ noun a small mirror used for applying make-up, especially one fitted in a motor vehicle.

vanity plate ▶ noun N. Amer. a vehicle licence plate bearing a distinctive or personalized combination of letters, numbers, or both.

vanity table ▶ noun a dressing table.

vanity unit ▶ noun a unit consisting of a washbasin set into a flat top with cupboards beneath.

van Leyden, Lucas, see LUCAS VAN LEYDEN.

vanquish /ˈvaŋkwɪʃ/ ▶ verb [with obj.] defeat thoroughly: he successfully vanquished his rival.

– DERIVATIVES vanquishable adjective, vanquisher noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vencus, venquis (past participle and past tense of veintre), vainquiss- (lengthened stem of vainquir), from Latin vincere 'conquer'.

Vantaa /ˈvantɑː/ a city in southern Finland; pop. 154,930 (1990). Swedish name VANDA.

vantage /ˈvɑːntɪdʒ/ (usu. vantage point) ▶ noun a place or position affording a good view of something: from my vantage point I could see into the front garden | figurative the past is continuously reinterpreted from the vantage point of the present.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French, shortening of Old French avantage 'advantage'.

Vanuatu /ˌvanuːˈɑːtuː/ a country consisting of a group of islands in the SW Pacific; pop. 156,000 (est. 1991); official languages, Bislama, English, and French; capital, Vila. The islands were administered jointly by Britain and France as the condominium of the New Hebrides. Vanuatu became an independent republic within the Commonwealth in 1980.

– DERIVATIVES Vanuatuan adjective & noun.

vapid /ˈvapɪd/ ▶ adjective offering nothing that is stimulating or challenging: tuneful but vapid musical comedies.

– DERIVATIVES vapidity noun, vapidly adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent. (used originally in description of drinks as 'lacking in flavour'): from Latin vapidus.

vapor ▶ noun US spelling of VAPOUR.

vaporetto /ˌvapəˈrɛtəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. vaporetti /-ti/ or vaporettos) (in Venice) a canal boat (originally a steamboat, now a motor boat) used for public transport.

– ORIGIN Italian, diminutive of vapore 'steam', from Latin vapor.

vaporize (also -ise) ▶ verb convert or be converted into vapour: [with obj.] there is a large current which is sufficient to vaporize carbon | [no obj.] cold gasoline does not vaporize readily.

– DERIVATIVES vaporable adjective, vaporizable adjective, vaporization noun.

vaporizer ▶ noun a device that generates a particular substance in the form of vapour, especially for medicinal inhalation.

vapour (US vapor) ▶ noun [mass noun] a substance diffused or suspended in the air, especially one normally liquid or solid: dense clouds of smoke and toxic vapour | [count noun] petrol vapours.
- [count noun] Physics a gaseous substance that is below its critical temperature, and can therefore be liquefied by pressure alone. Compare with GAS. ■ (the vapours) dated a sudden feeling of faintness or nervousness or a state of depression.

▶ verb [no obj.] talk in a vacuous, boasting, or pompous way: he was vapouring on about the days of his youth.

– DERIVATIVES vaporous adjective, vaporousness noun, vapourish adjective (archaic), vapoury adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, or from Latin vapor 'steam, heat'. The current verb sense dates from the early 17th cent.

vapour barrier ▶ noun a thin layer of impermeable material, typically polythene sheeting, included in building construction to prevent moisture from damaging the fabric of the building.

vapour density ▶ noun Chemistry the density of a particular gas or vapour relative to that of hydrogen at the same pressure and temperature.

vapourer (also vapourer moth) ▶ noun a day-flying tussock moth, the female of which is wingless and lays eggs on the cocoon from which she emerged.

• Genus Orgyia, family Lymantriidae: several species, in particular O. antiqua, which is often seen in towns.

vapour lock ▶ noun an interruption in the flow of a liquid through a fuel line or other pipe as a result of vaporization of the liquid.

vapour pressure ▶ noun Chemistry the pressure of a vapour in contact with its liquid or solid form.

vapour trail ▶ noun a trail of condensed water from an aircraft or rocket at high altitude, seen as a white streak against the sky.

vapourware (US vaporware) ▶ noun [mass noun] Computing, informal software or hardware that has been advertised but is not yet available to buy, either because it is only a concept or because it is still being written or designed.

vaquero /vəˈkɛːrəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) (in Spanish-speaking parts of the USA) a cowboy; a cattle driver.
– ORIGIN Spanish, from vaca 'cow'.

VAR ▶ abbreviation for value-added reseller, a company that adds extra features to products it has bought before selling them on. ■ value at risk, a method of quantifying the risk of holding a financial asset.

var. ▶ abbreviation for variety.

varactor /vəˈraktə/ ▶ noun a semiconductor diode with a capacitance dependent on the applied voltage.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from elements of variable reactor.

Varah /ˈvɑːrə/, (Edward) Chad (b.1911), English clergyman, founder of the Samaritans.

Varanasi /vəˈrɑːnəsi/ a city on the Ganges, in Uttar Pradesh, northern India; pop. 926,000 (1991). It is a holy city and a place of pilgrimage for Hindus, who undergo ritual purification in the Ganges. Former name BENARES.

Varangian /vəˈrandʒɪən/ ▶ noun any of the Scandinavian voyagers who travelled by land and up rivers into Russia in the 9th and 10th centuries AD, establishing the Rurik dynasty and gaining great influence in the Byzantine Empire.
– ORIGIN from medieval Latin Varangus (a name ultimately from Old Norse, probably based on vár 'pledge') + -IAN.

Varangian guard the bodyguard of the later Byzantine emperors, comprising Varangians and later also Anglo-Saxons.

vardo /ˈvɑːdəʊ/ (also varda /ˈvɑːdə/) ▶ noun (pl. vardos or vardas) a gypsy caravan.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Romany.

varec /ˈvarɛk/ ▶ noun [mass noun] seaweed, especially kelp.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from French varec(h), from Old Norse; related to WRECK.

Varese /vəˈreɪzeɪ, -zi/ a town in Lombardy, northern Italy; pop. 87,970 (1990).

Varèse /vaˈrɛz/, Edgar(d) (1883–1965), French-born American composer. His music explored dissonance, unusual orchestration, and (from the 1950s) tape-recording and electronic instruments.

Vargas /ˈvɑːgəs/, Getúlio Dornelles (1883–1954), Brazilian statesman, President 1930–45 and 1951–4. After seizing power he ruled as a virtual dictator until overthrown by a coup. Returned to power after elections in 1951, he later committed suicide after widespread calls for his resignation.

Vargas Llosa /ˌvɑːgəs ˈljəʊsə, ˈjəʊsə/, (Jorge) Mario (Pedro) (b.1936), Peruvian novelist, dramatist, and essayist. Novels include Aunt Julia and the Scriptwriter (1977) and The War of the End of the World (1982).

variable ▶ adjective 1 not consistent or having a fixed pattern; liable to change: the quality of hospital food is highly variable | awards can be for highly variable amounts.
■(of a wind) tending to change direction. ■ Mathematics (of a quantity) able to assume different numerical values. ■ Botany & Zoology (of a species) liable to deviate from the typical colour or form, or to occur in different colours or forms.
2 able to be changed or adapted: the drill has variable speed.
■(of a gear) designed to give varying ratios or speeds.
▶ noun an element, feature, or factor that is liable to vary or change: there are too many variables involved to make any meaningful predictions.
■ Mathematics a quantity which during a calculation is assumed to vary or be capable of varying in value. ■ Computing a data item that may take on more than one value during or between programs. ■ Astronomy short for VARIABLE STAR. ■ (variables) the region of light, variable winds to the north of the NE trade winds or (in the southern hemisphere) between the SE trade winds and the westerlies.
– DERIVATIVES variability noun, variableness noun, variably adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: via Old French from Latin variabilis, from variare (see VARY).

variable cost ▶ noun a cost that varies with the level of output.

variable-geometry ▶ adjective denoting a swing-wing aircraft.

variable star ▶ noun Astronomy a star whose brightness changes, either irregularly or regularly.

variance ▶ noun [mass noun] the fact or quality of being different, divergent, or inconsistent: her light tone was at variance with her sudden trembling.
■the state or fact of disagreeing or quarrelling: they were at variance with all their previous allies. ■ chiefly Law a discrepancy between two statements or documents. ■ US Law an official dispensation from a rule or regulation, typically a building regulation. ■ Statistics a quantity equal to the square of the standard deviation.
– ORIGIN Middle English: via Old French from Latin variantia 'difference', from the verb variare (see VARY).

variant ▶ noun a form or version of something that differs in some respect from other forms of the same thing or from a standard: clinically distinct variants of malaria | [as modifier] a variant spelling.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (as an adjective in the sense 'tending to vary'): from Old French, literally 'varying', present participle of varier (see VARY). The noun dates from the mid 19th cent.

variate /ˈvɛːrɪət/ ▶ noun Statistics a quantity having a numerical value for each member of a group, especially one whose values occur according to a frequency distribution.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin variatus 'diversified', past participle of variare (see VARY).

variation ▶ noun 1 a change or slight difference in condition, amount, or level, typically with certain limits: regional variations in house prices | [mass noun] the figures showed marked variation from year to year.
■Astronomy a deviation of a celestial body from its mean orbit or motion. ■ Mathematics a change in the value of a function due to small changes in the values of its argument or arguments. ■ (also magnetic variation) the angular difference between true north and magnetic north at a particular place. ■ [mass noun] Biology the occurrence of an organism in more than one distinct colour or form.
2 a different or distinct form or version of something: hurling is an Irish variation of hockey.
■Music a version of a theme, modified in melody, rhythm, harmony, or ornamentation, so as to present it in a new but still recognizable form: Elgar's Enigma Variations | figurative variations on the perennial theme of marital discord. ■ Ballet a solo dance as part of a performance.
– DERIVATIVES variational adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting variance or conflict): from Old French, or from Latin variatio(n-), from the verb variare (see VARY).

variationist ▶ noun a person who studies variations in usage among different speakers of the same language.

variceal /ˌvarɪˈsiːəl/ ▶ adjective Zoology & Medicine of, relating to, or involving a varix.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from Latin varix, varic-, on the pattern of words such as corneal and laryngeal.

varicella /ˌvarɪˈsɛlə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine technical term for CHICKENPOX.
■(also varicella-zoster) a herpesvirus that causes chickenpox and shingles; herpes zoster.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: modern Latin, irregular diminutive of VARIOLA.

varices plural form of VARIX.

varicocele /ˈvarɪkə(ʊ)ˌsiːl/ ▶ noun Medicine a mass of varicose veins in the spermatic cord.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Latin varix, varic- 'dilated vein' + -CELE.

varicoloured /ˈvɛːrɪˌkʌləd/ (US varicolored) ▶ adjective consisting of several different colours.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin varius 'diverse' + COLOURED.

varicose /ˈvarɪkəʊs, -kəs, -z/ ▶ adjective [attrib.] affected by a condition causing the swelling and tortuous lengthening of veins, most often in the legs: varicose veins.
– DERIVATIVES varicosed adjective, varicosity noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin varicosus, from varix (see VARIX).

varied ▶ adjective incorporating a number of different types or elements; showing variation or variety: the phenomena were very varied | a long and varied career.
– DERIVATIVES variedly adverb.

variegated /ˈvɛːrɪgeɪtɪd, ˈvɛːrɪə-/ ▶ adjective exhibiting different colours, especially as irregular patches or streaks: variegated yellow bricks.
■Botany (of a plant or foliage) having or consisting of leaves that are edged or patterned in a second colour, especially white as well as green. ■ marked by variety: his variegated and amusing observations.
– DERIVATIVES variegation /-ˈgeɪʃ(ə)n/ noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin variegat- 'made varied' (from the verb variegare, from varius 'diverse') + -ED[2].

varietal /vəˈraɪət(ə)l/ ▶ adjective 1 (of a wine or grape) made from or belonging to a single specified variety of grape.
2 chiefly Botany & Zoology of, relating to, characteristic of, or forming a variety: varietal names.
▶ noun a varietal wine.
– DERIVATIVES varietally adverb.

varietist /vəˈraɪətɪst/ ▶ noun dated a person who enjoys sexual variety.

variety ▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 [mass noun] the quality or state of being different or diverse; the absence of uniformity, sameness, or monotony: it's the variety that makes my job so enjoyable.
■(a variety of) a number or range of things of the same general class that are different or distinct in character or quality: the centre offers a variety of leisure activities. ■ [count noun] a thing which differs in some way from others of the same general class or sort; a type: fifty varieties of fresh and frozen pasta. ■ a form of television or theatre entertainment consisting of a series of different types of act, such as singing, dancing, and comedy: [as modifier] a variety show.
2 Biology a taxonomic category that ranks below subspecies (where present) or species, its members differing from others of the same subspecies or species in minor but permanent or heritable characteristics. Varieties are more often recognized in botany, in which they are designated in the style Apium graveolens var. dulce. Compare with FORM (in sense 3) and SUBSPECIES.
■a cultivated form of a plant. See CULTIVAR. ■ a plant or animal which varies in some trivial respect from its immediate parent or type.
– PHRASES variety is the spice of life proverb new and exciting experiences make life more interesting.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from French variété or Latin varietas, from varius (see VARIOUS).

variety meats ▶ plural noun N. Amer. offal.

variety store ▶ noun N. Amer. a small shop selling a wide range of inexpensive items.

varifocal /ˌvɛːrɪˈfəʊk(ə)l/ ▶ adjective denoting a lens that allows an infinite number of focusing distances for near, intermediate, and far vision.
▶ noun (varifocals) varifocal glasses.

variform /ˈvɛːrɪfɔːm/ ▶ adjective (of a group of things) differing from one another in form: variform languages.
■(of a single thing or a mass) consisting of a variety of forms or things: a variform education.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin varius 'diverse' + -FORM.

varimax /ˈvɛːrɪmaks/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Statistics a method of factor analysis in which uncorrelated factors are sought by a rotation that maximizes the variance of the factor loadings.
– ORIGIN 1950s: blend of VARIANCE and MAXIMUM.

variola /vəˈraɪələ/ ▶ noun Medicine technical term for SMALLPOX.
– DERIVATIVES variolar adjective, variolous adjective (archaic).
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from medieval Latin, literally 'pustule, pock', from Latin varius 'diverse'.

varioloid /ˈvɛːrɪəlɔɪd/ Medicine ▶ adjective resembling smallpox.
▶ noun [mass noun] a mild form of smallpox affecting people who have already had the disease or have been vaccinated against it.

variometer /ˌvɛːrɪˈɒmɪtə/ ▶ noun 1 a device for indicating an aircraft's rate of climb or descent.
2 an inductor whose total inductance can be varied by altering the relative position of two coaxial coils connected in series, or by permeability tuning, and so usable to tune an electric circuit.
3 an instrument for measuring variations in the intensity of the earth's magnetic field.

variorum /ˌvɛːrɪˈɔːrəm/ ▶ adjective (of an edition of an author's works) having notes by various editors or commentators.
■including variant readings from manuscripts or earlier editions.
▶ noun a variorum edition.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: genitive plural of varius 'diverse', from Latin editio cum notis variorum 'edition with notes by various (commentators)'.

various ▶ adjective different from one another; of different kinds or sorts: dresses of various colours | his grievances were many and various.
■having or showing different properties or qualities: their environments are locally various.
▶ determiner & pronoun more than one; individual and separate: [as determiner] various people arrived late | [as pronoun] various of her friends had called.
– DERIVATIVES variousness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin varius 'changing, diverse' + -OUS.

USAGE In standard English the word various is normally used as an adjective and determiner. It is sometimes also used as a pronoun followed by of, as in various of her friends had called. Although this pronoun use is similar to that of words such as several and many (e.g. several of her friends had called), it is sometimes regarded as incorrect.

variously ▶ adverb in several or different ways: his early successes can be variously accounted for.

Variscan /vəˈrɪsk(ə)n/ ▶ adjective Geology another term for HERCYNIAN.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Latin Varisci (the name of a Germanic tribe) + -AN.

varistor /vɛːˈrɪstə, və-/ ▶ noun a semiconductor diode with resistance dependent on the applied voltage.
– ORIGIN 1930s: contraction of varying resistor.

varix /ˈvɛːrɪks/ ▶ noun (pl. varices /ˈvarɪsiːz/) 1 Medicine a varicose vein.
2 Zoology each of the ridges on the shell of a gastropod mollusc, marking a former position of the aperture.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin.

varlet /ˈvɑːlɪt/ ▶ noun historical a man or boy acting as an attendant or servant.
■archaic an unprincipled rogue or rascal.
– DERIVATIVES varletry noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, variant of valet 'attendant' (see VALET). The sense 'rogue' dates from the mid 16th cent.

varmint /ˈvɑːmɪnt/ ▶ noun N. Amer. or dialect, informal a troublesome wild animal, especially a fox.
■a troublesome and mischievous person, especially a child.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: alteration of VERMIN.

Varna /ˈvɑːnə/ a port and resort in eastern Bulgaria, on the western shores of the Black Sea; pop. 320,640 (1990).

varna /ˈvɑːnə/ ▶ noun each of the four Hindu castes, Brahman, Kshatriya, Vaisya, and Sudra.
– ORIGIN Sanskrit, literally 'colour, class'.

varnish ▶ noun [mass noun] resin dissolved in a liquid for applying on wood, metal, or other materials to form a hard, clear, shiny surface when dry.
■short for NAIL VARNISH. ■ [in sing.] archaic an external or superficially attractive appearance of a specific quality: an outward varnish of civilization.
▶ verb [with obj.] apply varnish to: we stripped the floor and varnished it | [with obj. and complement] her toenails were varnished red.
– DERIVATIVES varnisher noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vernis, from medieval Latin veronix 'fragrant resin, sandarac' or medieval Greek berenikē, probably from Berenice, a town in Cyrenaica.

Varro /ˈvarəʊ/, Marcus Terentius (116–27 BC), Roman scholar and satirist. His works covered many subjects, including philosophy, agriculture, the Latin language, and education.

varroa /ˈvarəʊə/ (also varroa mite) ▶ noun a microscopic mite which is a debilitating parasite of the honeybee, causing loss of honey production.
● Varroa jacobsoni, order (or subclass) Acari.
– ORIGIN 1970s: modern Latin, from VARRO (with reference to his work on bee-keeping) + -A[1].

varsity ▶ noun (pl. -ies) Brit. dated or S. African university: he had his hair cut as soon as he got back from varsity.
■[as modifier] Brit. (especially of a sporting event or team) of or relating to a university, especially Oxford or Cambridge: a varsity match. ■ chiefly N. Amer. a sports team representing a university or college.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: shortening of UNIVERSITY, reflecting an archaic pronunciation.

Varuna /ˈvʌrʊnə/ Hinduism one of the gods in the Rig Veda. Originally the sovereign lord of the universe and guardian of cosmic law, he is known in later Hinduism as god of the waters.

varus /ˈvɛːrəs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a deformity involving oblique displacement of part of a limb towards the midline. The opposite of VALGUS.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin, literally 'bent, crooked'.

varve /vɑːv/ ▶ noun Geology a pair of thin layers of clay and silt of contrasting colour and texture which represent the deposit of a single year (summer and winter) in a lake. Such layers can be measured to determine the chronology of glacial sediments.
– DERIVATIVES varved adjective.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.; from Swedish varv 'layer'.

vary ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [no obj.] differ in size, amount, degree, or nature from something else of the same general class: the properties vary in price | [as adj. varying] varying degrees of success.
■change from one condition, form, or state to another: your skin's moisture content varies according to climatic conditions. ■ [with obj.] introduce modifications or changes into (something) so as to make it different or less uniform: he tried to vary his diet.
– DERIVATIVES varyingly adverb.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French varier or Latin variare, from varius 'diverse'.

vas /vas/ ▶ noun (pl. vasa /ˈveɪsə/) Anatomy a vessel or duct.
– DERIVATIVES vasal /ˈveɪs(ə)l/ adjective.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Latin, literally 'vessel'.

Vasa /ˈvɑːsa/ Swedish name for VAASA.

Vasarely /ˌvasəˈrɛli/, Viktor (1908–97), Hungarian-born French painter. A pioneer of op art, he was best known for a style of geometric abstraction that used repeated geometric forms and interacting colours to create visual disorientation.

Vasari /vəˈsɑːri/, Giorgio (1511–74), Italian painter, architect, and biographer. His Lives of the Most Excellent Painters, Sculptors, and Architects (1550, enlarged 1568) laid the basis for later study of art history in the West.

vasbyt /ˈfasbeɪt/ ▶ verb [no obj.] S. African be stoical: I am expected to vasbyt and bite back my tears.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, literally 'bite hard'.

Vasco da Gama /ˈvaskəʊ/ see DA GAMA.

vascular /ˈvaskjʊlə/ ▶ adjective Anatomy, Zoology, & Medicine of, relating to, affecting, or consisting of a vessel or vessels, especially those which carry blood: vascular disease | the vascular system.
■Botany relating to or denoting the plant tissues (xylem and phloem) which conduct water, sap, and nutrients in flowering plants, ferns, and their relatives.
– DERIVATIVES vascularity /-ˈlarɪti/ noun.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from modern Latin vascularis, from Latin vasculum (see VASCULUM).

vascular bundle ▶ noun Botany a strand of conducting vessels in the stem or leaves of a plant, typically with phloem on the outside and xylem on the inside.

vascular cryptogam ▶ noun Botany a plant of the division Pteridophyta, i.e. a fern, horsetail, or clubmoss.

vascular cylinder ▶ noun another term for STELE (in sense 1).

vascularize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] Biology & Anatomy provide (a tissue or structure) with vessels, especially blood vessels; make vascular: [as adj. vascularized] the endocrine glands are highly vascularized tissues.
– DERIVATIVES vascularization noun.

vascular plant ▶ noun Botany a plant that is characterized by the presence of conducting tissue.
● Subkingdom Tracheophyta: divisions Pteridophyta (ferns, horsetails, and clubmosses) and Spermatophyta (cycads, conifers, and flowering plants).

vasculature /ˈvaskjʊlətʃə/ ▶ noun Anatomy the vascular system of a part of the body and its arrangement: diseases affecting the pulmonary vasculature.

vasculitis /ˌvaskjʊˈlaɪtɪs/ ▶ noun (pl. vasculitides /-ˈlaɪtɪdiːz/) [mass noun] Medicine inflammation of a blood vessel or blood vessels.
– DERIVATIVES vasculitic /-ˈlɪtɪk/ adjective.

vasculum /ˈvaskjʊləm/ ▶ noun (pl. vascula /-lə/) Botany a collecting box for plants, typically in the form of a flattened cylindrical metal case with a lengthwise opening, carried by a shoulder strap.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Latin, diminutive of vas 'vessel'.

vas deferens /ˈdɛfərɛnz/ ▶ noun (pl. vasa deferentia /ˌdɛfəˈrɛnʃɪə/) Anatomy the duct which conveys sperm from the testicle to the urethra.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from VAS + Latin deferens 'carrying away', present participle of deferre.

vase ▶ noun a decorative container without handles, typically made of glass or china and used as an ornament or for displaying cut flowers.
– DERIVATIVES vaseful noun (pl. -fuls).
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from French, from Latin vas 'vessel'.

vasectomy /vəˈsɛktəmi/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) the surgical cutting and sealing of part of each vas deferens, typically as a means of sterilization.
– DERIVATIVES vasectomize (also -ise) verb.

vaseline /ˈvasɪliːn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark a type of petroleum jelly used as an ointment and lubricant.
▶ verb [with obj.] cover or smear with this.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: formed irregularly from German Wasser + Greek elaion 'oil' + -INE[4].

vase shell ▶ noun a predatory mollusc of warm seas, with a heavy ribbed shell that has blunt spines and is typically pale with chestnut markings.
● Genus Vasum, family Vasidae, class Gastropoda.

vaso- /ˈveɪzəʊ/ ▶ combining form of or relating to a vessel or vessels, especially blood vessels: vasoconstriction.
– ORIGIN from Latin vas 'vessel'.

vasoactive ▶ adjective Physiology affecting the diameter of blood vessels (and hence blood pressure).

vasoconstriction ▶ noun [mass noun] the constriction of blood vessels, which increases blood pressure.
– DERIVATIVES vasoconstrictive adjective, vasoconstrictor noun.

vasodilation (also vasodilatation /-ˌdaɪleɪˈteɪʃ(ə)n/) ▶ noun the dilatation of blood vessels, which decreases blood pressure.
– DERIVATIVES vasodilator noun, vasodilatory adjective.

vasomotor ▶ adjective [attrib.] causing or relating to the constriction or dilatation of blood vessels.
■denoting a region in the medulla of the brain (the vasomotor centre) which regulates blood pressure by controlling reflex alterations in the heart rate and the diameter of the blood vessels, in response to stimuli from receptors in the circulatory system or from other parts of the brain.

vasopressin /ˌveɪzəʊˈprɛsɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a pituitary hormone which acts to promote the retention of water by the kidneys and increase blood pressure.
– ORIGIN 1920s: from vasopressor 'causing constriction in blood vessels' + -IN[1].

vasovagal /ˌveɪzəʊveɪg(ə)l/ ▶ adjective [attrib.] Medicine relating to or denoting a temporary fall in blood pressure, with pallor, fainting, sweating, and nausea, caused by overactivity of the vagus nerve, especially as a result of stress.

vassal /ˈvas(ə)l/ ▶ noun historical a holder of land by feudal tenure on conditions of homage and allegiance.
■a person or country in a subordinate position to another: [as modifier] a vassal state of the Chinese empire.
– DERIVATIVES vassalage noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: via Old French from medieval Latin vassallus 'retainer', of Celtic origin; compare with VAVASOUR.

vast ▶ adjective of very great extent or quantity; immense: a vast plain full of orchards.
▶ noun archaic an immense space.
– DERIVATIVES vastly adverb, vastness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin vastus 'void, immense'.

vastation /va'steɪʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] poetic/literary the action or process of emptying or purifying someone or something, typicallyviolently or drastically.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin vastatio(n-), from vastare 'lay waste'.

Västerås /ˌvɛstə'rɔʊs/ a port on Lake Mälaren in eastern Sweden; pop. 119,760 (1990).

VAT ▶ abbreviation for value added tax.

vat ▶ noun 1 a large tank or tub used to hold liquid, especially in industry: a vat of hot tar.
2 (also vat dye) a water-insoluble dye, such as indigo, that is applied to a fabric in a reducing bath which converts it to a soluble form, the colour being obtained on subsequent oxidation in the fabric fibres.
▶ verb (vatted, vatting) [with obj.] (often be vatted) place or treat in a vat.
– ORIGIN Middle English: southern and western dialect variant of obsolete fat 'container', of Germanic origin; related to Dutch vat and German Fass.

vatic /'vatɪk/ ▶ adjective poetic/literary describing or predicting what will happen in the future.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin vates 'prophet' + -ic.

Vatican ▶ noun (usu. the Vatican) the palace and official residence of the Pope in Rome.
■ [treated as sing. or pl.] the administrative centre of the Roman Catholic Church.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from French, or from Latin Vaticanus, the name of a hill in Rome.

Vatican City an independent papal state in the city of Rome, the seat of government of the Roman Catholic Church; pop. 1,000 (est. 1991). It covers an area of 44 hectares (109 acres) around St Peter's Basilica and the palace of the Vatican. Having been suspended after the incorporation of the former Papal States into Italy in 1870, the temporal power of the Pope was restored by the Lateran Treaty of 1929.

Vatican Council ▶ noun each of two general councils of the Roman Catholic Church, held in 1869–70 and 1962–5. The first (Vatican I) proclaimed the infallibility of the Pope when speaking ex cathedra; the second (Vatican II) made numerous reforms, abandoning the universal Latin liturgy and acknowledging ecumenism.

vaticinate /va'tɪsɪneɪt/ ▶ verb [no obj.] rare foretell the future.
– DERIVATIVES vaticinal adjective, vaticination noun, vaticinator noun, vaticinatory adjective.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin vaticinat- 'prophesied', from the verb vaticinari, from vates 'prophet'.

VATman ▶ noun (pl. -men) Brit. informal a customs and excise officer who deals with VAT.

Vättern /'vɛt(ə)n/ a large lake in southern Sweden.

vatu /'vatu:/ ▶ noun (pl. same) the basic monetary unit of Vanuatu, equal to 100 centimes.
– ORIGIN Bislama.

Vaud /vəʊ/ a canton on the shores of Lake Geneva in western Switzerland; capital, Lausanne. German name WAADT.

vaudeville /'vɔ:dəvɪl, 'vəʊd-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a type of entertainment popular chiefly in the US in the early 20th century, featuring a mixture of speciality acts such as burlesque comedy and song and dance.
■ [count noun] a stage play on a trivial theme with interspersed songs. ■ [count noun] archaic a satirical or topical song with a refrain.
– DERIVATIVES vaudevillian adjective & noun.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from French, earlier vau de ville (or vire), said to be a name given originally to songs composed by Olivier Basselin, a 15th-cent. fuller born in Vau de Vire in Normandy.

Vaudois[1] /'vəʊdwɑ:/ ▶ adjective of or relating to Vaud, its people, or their dialect of French.
▶ noun (pl. same) 1 a native of Vaud.
2 [mass noun] the French dialect spoken in this region.
– ORIGIN French.

Vaudois[2] /'vəʊdwɑ:/ ▶ noun (pl. same) historical a member of the Waldenses religious sect.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Waldenses.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: French, representing medieval Latin Valdensis (see WALDENSES).

Vaughan[1] /vɔ:n/, Henry (1621–95), Welsh religious writer and metaphysical poet.

Vaughan[2] /vɔ:n/, Sarah (Lois) (1924–90), American jazz singer and pianist. She was notable for her vocal range, her use of vibrato, and her improvisational skills.

Vaughan Williams, Ralph (1872–1958), English composer. His strongly melodic music frequently reflects his interest in Tudor composers and English folk songs. Notable works: Fantasia on a Theme by Thomas Tallis (1910), A London Symphony (1914), and the Mass in G minor (1922).

vault[1] /vɔ:lt/ ▶ noun 1 a roof in the form of an arch or a series of arches, typical of churches and other large, formal buildings.
■ poetic/literary a thing resembling an arched roof, especially the sky: the vault of heaven. ■ Anatomy the arched roof of a cavity, especially that of the skull: the cranial vault.
2 a large room or chamber used for storage, especially an underground one.
■ a secure room in a bank in which valuables are stored. ■ a chamber beneath a church or in a graveyard used for burials.
▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. vaulted] provide (a building or room) with an arched roof or roofs: a vaulted arcade.
■ make (a roof) in the form of a vault: there was a high ceiling, vaulted with cut slate.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French voute, based on Latin volvere 'to roll'.

vault[2] /vɔ:lt/ ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] leap or spring while supporting or propelling oneself with one or both hands or with the help of a pole: he vaulted over the gate.
■ [with obj.] jump over (an obstacle) in such a way: Ryker vaulted the barrier.
▶ noun an act of vaulting.
– DERIVATIVES vaulter noun.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Old French volter 'to turn (a horse), gambol', based on Latin volvere 'to roll'.

vaulting ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 ornamental work in a vaulted roof or ceiling.
2 the action of vaulting over obstacles as a gymnastic or athletic exercise.

vaulting horse ▶ noun a padded wooden block used for vaulting over by gymnasts and athletes.

vaunt /vɔ:nt/ ▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. vaunted] boast about or praise (something), especially excessively: the much vaunted information superhighway.
▶ noun archaic a boast.
– DERIVATIVES vaunter noun, vauntingly adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: the noun a shortening of obsolete avaunt 'boasting, a boast'; the verb (originally in the sense 'use boastful language') from Old French vanter, from late Latin vantare, based on Latin vanus 'vain, empty'.

vavasory /'vavəs(ə)ri/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) historical the estate of a vavasour.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Old French vavasorie or medieval Latin vavasoria (see VAVASOUR).

vavasour /'vavəsʊə/ ▶ noun historical a vassal owing allegiance to a great lord and having other vassals under him.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vavas(s)our, from medieval Latin vavassor, perhaps from vassus vassorum 'vassal of vassals'.

Vavilov /'vavɪlɒf/, Nikolai (Ivanovich) (1887–*c.*1943), Soviet plant geneticist. He amassed a considerable collection of new plants, utilizing their genetic resources for crop improvement.

VC ▶ abbreviation for ■ Vice-Chairman. ■ Vice-Chancellor. ■ Vice-Consul. ■ Victoria Cross.

V-chip ▶ noun a computer chip installed in a television receiver that can be programmed by the user to block or scramble material containing a special code in its signal indicating that it is deemed violent or sexually explicit.

VCR ▶ abbreviation for video cassette recorder.

VD ▶ abbreviation for venereal disease.

VDU ▶ abbreviation for visual display unit.

've informal ▶ abbreviation for have (usually after the pronouns I, you, we, and they): we've tried our best.

veal ▶ noun [mass noun] the flesh of a calf, used as food.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French ve(e)l, from Latin vitellus, diminutive of vitulus 'calf'.

veal crate ▶ noun a partitioned area with restricted light and space in which a calf is reared for slaughter so as to ensure the whiteness of the meat.

Veblen /'vɛblən/, Thorstein (Bunde) (1857–1929), American economist and social scientist. His works include the critique of capitalism The Theory of the Leisure Class (1899) and The Theory of Business Enterprise (1904).

vector /'vɛktə/ ▶ noun 1 Mathematics & Physics a quantity having direction as well as magnitude, especially as determining the position of one point in space relative to another.
■ a matrix with one row or one column. ■ a course to be taken by an aircraft. ■ [as modifier] Computing denoting a type of graphical representation using lines to construct the outlines of objects.
2 an organism, typically a biting insect or tick, that transmits a disease or parasite from one animal or plant to another.
■ Genetics a bacteriophage or plasmid which transfers genetic material into a cell, or from one bacterium to another.
▶ verb [with obj. and adverbial of direction] (often be vectored) direct (an aircraft in flight) to a desired point.
– DERIVATIVES vectorial /-'tɔ:rɪəl/ adjective, vectorially adverb, vectorization noun (only in sense 1 of the noun), vectorize (also -ise) verb (only in sense 1 of the noun).
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin, literally 'carrier', from vehere 'convey'.

vector field ▶ noun Mathematics a function of a space whose value at each point is a vector quantity.

vector processor ▶ noun Computing a processor that is able to process sequences of data with a single instruction.

vector product ▶ noun Mathematics the product of two real vectors in three dimensions which is itself a vector at right angles to both the original vectors. Its magnitude is the product of the magnitudes of the original vectors and the sine of the angle between their directions. Also called CROSS PRODUCT.
• Written as a × b.

vector space ▶ noun Mathematics a space consisting of vectors, together with the associative and commutative operation of addition of vectors, and the associative and distributive operation of multiplication of vectors by scalars.

VED ▶ abbreviation for vehicle excise duty.

Veda /'veɪdə, 'vi:də/ ▶ noun [treated as sing. or pl.] the most ancient Hindu scriptures, written in early Sanskrit and containing hymns, philosophy, and guidance on ritual for the priests of Vedic religion. Believed to have been directly revealed to seers among the early Aryans in India, and preserved by oral tradition, the four chief collections are the Rig Veda, Sama Veda, Yajur Veda, and Atharva Veda.
– ORIGIN Sanskrit, literally '(sacred) knowledge'.

vedalia beetle /vɪ'deɪlɪə/ ▶ noun an Australian ladybird which has been introduced into California and elsewhere to control scale insects.
• Rodolia cardinalis, family Coccinellidae.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: modern Latin Vedalia (former genus name), of unknown origin.

Vedanta /vɪ'dɑ:ntə, -'da-, vɛ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a Hindu philosophy based on the doctrine of the Upanishads, especially in its monistic form.
– DERIVATIVES Vedantic adjective, Vedantist noun.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit vedānta, from veda (see VEDA) + anta 'end'.

VE day ▶ noun the day (8 May) marking the Allied victory in Europe in 1945.
– ORIGIN VE, abbreviation of Victory in Europe.

Vedda /'vɛdə/ ▶ noun a member of an aboriginal people inhabiting the forests of Sri Lanka.
– ORIGIN from Sinhalese vaddā 'hunter'.

vedette /vɪ'dɛt/ ▶ noun 1 historical a mounted sentry positioned beyond an army's outposts to observe the movements of the enemy.
2 chiefly N. Amer. a leading star of stage, screen, or television.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from French, literally

'scout', from an alteration of southern Italian veletta, perhaps based on Spanish velar 'keep watch'.

Vedic /'veɪdɪk, 'viː-/ ▶ adjective of or relating to the Veda or Vedas.

▶ noun [mass noun] the language of the Vedas, an early form of Sanskrit.

– ORIGIN from French védique or German vedisch (see VEDA).

Vedic religion ▶ noun [mass noun] the ancient religion of the Aryan peoples who entered NW India from Persia *c.*2000–1200 BC. It was the precursor of Hinduism, and its beliefs and practices are contained in the Vedas.

Its characteristics included ritual sacrifice to many gods, especially Indra, Varuna, and Agni; social classes (varnas) that formed the basis of the caste system; and the emergence of the priesthood which dominated orthodox Brahmanism from *c.*900 BC. Transition to classical Hinduism began in about the 5th century BC.

vee ▶ noun the letter V.

■ a thing shaped like a V: a vee of geese goes over.

veejay ▶ noun informal, chiefly N. Amer. a person who introduces and plays popular music videos.

– ORIGIN 1980s: representing a pronunciation of VJ, short for video jockey, on the pattern of deejay.

veena /'viːnə/ (also vina) ▶ noun an Indian stringed instrument, with four main and three auxiliary strings. The southern type has a lute-like body; the older northern type has a tubular body and a gourd fitted to each end as a resonator.

– ORIGIN from Sanskrit vīṇā.

veep ▶ noun US informal a vice-president.

– ORIGIN 1940s: from the initials VP.

veer[1] ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] change direction suddenly: an oil tanker that had veered off course.

■ figurative suddenly change an opinion, subject, type of behaviour, etc.: the conversation eventually veered away from theatrical things. ■ (of the wind) change direction clockwise around the points of the compass: the wind veered a point. The opposite of BACK.

▶ noun 1 a sudden change of direction.

2 American Football an offensive play using a modified T-formation with a split backfield, which allows the quarterback the option of passing to the fullback, pitching to a running back, or running with the ball.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from French virer, perhaps from an alteration of Latin gyrare (see GYRATE).

veer[2] ▶ verb [with obj.] Nautical, dated slacken or let out (a rope or cable) in a controlled way.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Middle Dutch vieren.

veery /'vɪəri/ ▶ noun a North American woodland thrush with a brown back and speckled breast.

● Catharus fuscescens, family Turdidae.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: perhaps imitative.

veg[1] /vɛdʒ/ ▶ noun (pl. same) Brit. informal a vegetable or vegetables: meat and two veg.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: abbreviation.

veg[2] /vɛdʒ/ ▶ verb (vegges, vegging, vegged) [no obj.] informal relax to the point of complete inertia: they were vegging out in front of the TV.

– ORIGIN 1920s: abbreviation of VEGETATE.

Vega[1] /'veɪgə, Spanish 'beɣa/, Lope de (1562–1635), Spanish dramatist and poet; full name Lope Felix de Vega Carpio. He is regarded as the founder of Spanish drama.

Vega[2] /'viːgə/ Astronomy the fifth brightest star in the sky, and the brightest in the constellation Lyra, overhead in summer to observers in the northern hemisphere.

– ORIGIN via Spanish or medieval Latin from Arabic, literally 'the falling vulture'.

vega /'veɪgə/ ▶ noun (in Spain and Spanish America) a large plain or valley, typically a fertile and grassy one.

– ORIGIN Spanish and Catalan.

vegan ▶ noun a person who does not eat or use animal products: [as modifier] a vegan diet.

– ORIGIN 1940s: from VEGETARIAN + -AN.

Vegeburger ▶ noun trademark for VEGGIE BURGER.

Vegemite /'vɛdʒɪmaɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Austral./NZ trademark a type of savoury spread made from concentrated yeast extract.

– ORIGIN 1920s: from VEGETABLE, on the pattern of marmite.

vegetable /'vɛdʒtəb(ə)l, 'vɛdʒɪtə-/ ▶ noun 1 a plant or part of a plant used as food, typically as accompaniment to meat or fish, such as a cabbage, potato, turnip, or bean.

2 informal, offensive a person who is incapable of normal mental or physical activity, especially through brain damage.

■ informal a person with a dull or inactive life: I thought I'd sort of flop back and be a vegetable for a bit.

▶ adjective [attrib.] of or relating to vegetables as food: a vegetable garden | vegetable soup.

■ of or relating to plants or plant life, especially as distinct from animal life or mineral substances: vegetable matter.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'growing as a plant'): from Old French, or from late Latin vegetabilis 'animating', from Latin vegetare (see VEGETATE). The noun dates from the late 16th cent.

vegetable butter ▶ noun [mass noun] a vegetable fat with the consistency of butter.

vegetable ivory ▶ noun [mass noun] a hard white material obtained from the endosperm of the ivory nut.

vegetable marrow ▶ noun see MARROW (sense 1).

vegetable oil ▶ noun [mass noun] an oil derived from plants, e.g. rapeseed oil, olive oil, sunflower oil.

vegetable oyster ▶ noun [mass noun] the edible root of salsify, the taste of which is said to resemble that of oysters.

vegetable sheep ▶ noun a New Zealand plant of the daisy family, which has greyish hairy leaves and forms hummocks which look like sheep from a distance.

● Raoulia eximia, family Compositae.

vegetable spaghetti ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. an edible squash of a variety with slightly stringy flesh which when cooked has a texture and appearance like that of spaghetti.

vegetable sponge ▶ noun another term for LOOFAH.

vegetable tallow ▶ noun [mass noun] vegetable fat used as tallow.

vegetal /'vɛdʒɪt(ə)l/ ▶ adjective 1 formal of or relating to plants: a vegetal aroma.

2 [attrib.] Embryology of or relating to that pole of the ovum or embryo that contains the less active cytoplasm, and frequently most of the yolk, in the early stages of development: vegetal cells | the vegetal region.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from medieval Latin vegetalis, from Latin vegetare 'animate'. Sense 2 dates from the early 20th cent.

vegetarian ▶ noun a person who does not eat meat, and sometimes other animal products, especiallyfor moral, religious, or health reasons.

▶ adjective of or relating to the exclusion of meat or other animal products from the diet: a vegetarian restaurant.

– DERIVATIVES vegetarianism noun.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: formed irregularly from VEGETABLE + -ARIAN.

vegetate ▶ verb [no obj.] 1 live or spend a period of time in a dull, inactive, unchallenging way: if she left him there alone, he'd sit in front of the television set and vegetate.

2 dated (of a plant or seed) grow; sprout.

■ [with obj.] cause plants to grow in or cover (a place).

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin vegetat- 'enlivened', from the verb vegetare, from vegetus 'active', from vegere 'be active'.

vegetated ▶ adjective covered with vegetation or plant life: densely vegetated wetlands.

vegetation ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 plants considered collectively, especially those found in a particular area or habitat: the chalk cliffs are mainly sheer with little vegetation.

2 the action or process of vegetating.

– DERIVATIVES vegetational adjective.

– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (in sense 2): from medieval Latin vegetatio(n-) 'power of growth', from the verb vegetare (see VEGETATE).

vegetative /'vɛdʒɪtətɪv, -teɪtɪv/ ▶ adjective 1 Biology of, relating to, or denoting reproduction or propagation achieved by asexual means, either naturally (budding, rhizomes, runners, bulbs, etc.) or artificially (grafting, layering, or taking cuttings): vegetative spores | a vegetative replicating phase.

■ of, relating to, or concerned with growth rather than sexual reproduction: environmental factors trigger the switch from vegetative to floral development.

2 of or relating to vegetation or plant life: diverse vegetative types.

3 Medicine (of a person) alive but comatose and without apparent brain activity or responsiveness. See PERSISTENT VEGETATIVE STATE.

– DERIVATIVES vegetatively adverb, vegetativeness noun.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (in sense 2): from Old French vegetatif, -ive or medieval Latin vegetativus (see VEGETATE).

vegetative cell ▶ noun Botany & Microbiology a cell of a bacterium or unicellular alga that is actively growing rather than forming spores.

veggie (also vegie) ▶ noun & adjective informal 1 another term for VEGETARIAN.

2 chiefly N. Amer. another term for VEGETABLE.

– ORIGIN 1970s: abbreviation.

veggie burger (also trademark Vegeburger) ▶ noun a savoury cake resembling a hamburger but made with vegetable protein, soya, etc., instead of meat.

vehement /'viːɪm(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective showing strong feeling; forceful, passionate, or intense: her voice was low but vehement | vehement criticism.

– DERIVATIVES vehemence noun, vehemently adverb.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (describing pain or temperature, in the sense 'intense, high in degree'): from French véhément or Latin vehement- 'impetuous, violent', perhaps from an unrecorded adjective meaning 'deprived of mind', influenced by vehere 'carry'.

vehicle ▶ noun 1 a thing used for transporting people or goods, especially on land, such as a car, lorry, or cart.

2 a thing used to express, embody, or fulfil something: I use paint as a vehicle for my ideas.

■ a substance that facilitates the use of a drug, pigment, or other material mixed with it. ■ a privately controlled company through which an individual or organization conducts a particular kind of business, especially investment. ■ a film, television programme, song, etc. that is intended to display the leading performer to the best advantage.

– DERIVATIVES vehicular /vɪ'hɪkjʊlə/ adjective (only in sense 1).

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French véhicule or Latin vehiculum, from vehere 'carry'.

veil ▶ noun a piece of fine material worn by women to protect or conceal the face: a white bridal veil.

■ a piece of linen or other fabric forming part of a nun's headdress, resting on the head and shoulders. ■ a thing that conceals, disguises, or obscures something: shrouded in an eerie veil of mist. ■ Botany a membrane which is attached to the immature fruiting body of some toadstools and ruptures in the course of development, either (universal veil) enclosing the whole fruiting body or (partial veil) joining the edges of the cap to the stalk. ■ (in Jewish antiquity) the piece of precious cloth separating the sanctuary from the body of the Temple or the Tabernacle.

▶ verb [with obj.] cover with or as though with a veil: she veiled her face.

■ [usu. as adj. veiled] partially conceal, disguise, or obscure: a thinly veiled threat.

– PHRASES beyond the veil in a mysterious or hidden place or state, especially the unknown state of life after death. draw a veil over avoid discussing or calling attention to (something), especially because it is embarrassing or unpleasant. take the veil become a nun.

– DERIVATIVES veilless adjective.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French veil(e), from Latin vela, plural of velum (see VELUM).

veiling ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the action of wearing or covering someone or something with a veil: the fundamentalist campaign for the veiling of women.

2 a light gauzy fabric used for veils.

vein ▶ noun 1 any of the tubes forming part of the blood circulation system of the body, carrying mainly oxygen-depleted blood towards the heart. Compare with ARTERY.

■ (in general and figurative use) a blood vessel: he felt the adrenalin course through his veins. ■ (in plants) a slender rib running through a leaf or bract, typically dividing or branching, and containing a vascular bundle. ■ (in insects) a hardened branching rib that forms part of the supporting framework of a wing.

consisting of an extension of the tracheal system; a nervure. ■ a streak or stripe of a different colour in wood, marble, cheese, etc. ■ a fracture in rock containing a deposit of minerals or ore and typically having an extensive course underground. ■ figurative a source of a specified quality or other abstract resource: he managed to tap into the thick vein of discontent to his own advantage.

2 [in sing.] a distinctive quality, style, or tendency: he closes his article in a somewhat humorous vein.

– DERIVATIVES veinless adjective, veinlet noun, veinlike adjective & adverb, veiny adjective (veinier, veiniest).

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French veine, from Latin vena. The earliest senses were 'blood vessel' and 'small natural underground channel of water'.

veined ▶ adjective marked with or as if with veins: [in combination] a blue-veined cheese.

veining ▶ noun [mass noun] a pattern of lines, streaks, or veins: the marble's characteristic surface veining.

veinous ▶ adjective having prominent or noticeable veins. Compare with VENOUS.

veinstone ▶ noun another term for GANGUE.

veitchberry /ˈviːtʃb(ə)ri, -bɛri/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a bushy plant which is a hybrid of a raspberry and a blackberry, first produced in 1925.

● Rubus inermis × idaeus, family Rosaceae.

■ the edible fruit of this plant, which resembles a mulberry.

– ORIGIN 1920s: from Veitch, the surname of a family of nurserymen, + BERRY.

Vela /ˈviːlə/ Astronomy a southern constellation (the Sails), lying partly in the Milky Way between Carina and Pyxis and originally part of Argo.

■ [as genitive Velorum /vɪˈlɔːrəm/] used with preceding letter or numeral to designate a star in this constellation: the star Gamma Velorum.

– ORIGIN Latin, plural of velum 'sail'.

vela plural form of VELUM.

velamen /vɪˈleɪmən/ ▶ noun (pl. velamina /-mɪnə/) Botany an outer layer of empty cells in the aerial roots of epiphytic orchids and aroids.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin, from velare 'to cover'.

velar /ˈviːlə/ ▶ adjective 1 of or relating to a veil or velum.

2 Phonetics (of a speech sound) pronounced with the back of the tongue near the soft palate, as in k and g in English.

▶ noun a velar sound.

– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin velaris, from velum (see VELUM).

velaric airstream /vɪˈlarɪk/ ▶ noun Phonetics the creation of an ingressive airstream in the mouth by use of tongue contact with the velum, used to make clicks. Contrasted with PULMONIC AIRSTREAM.

velarium /vɪˈlɛːrɪəm/ ▶ noun (pl. velaria /-rɪə/) a large awning of a type used in ancient Rome to cover a theatre or amphitheatre as a protection against the weather, now more commonly used as an inner ceiling to improve acoustics.

– ORIGIN Latin.

velarization /ˌviːlərʌɪˈzeɪʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Phonetics a secondary articulation involving movement of the back of the tongue towards the velum.

– DERIVATIVES velarize verb.

Velázquez /vɪˈlaskwɪz, Spanish beˈlaskeθ, -kes/, Diego Rodríguez de Silva y (1599–1660), Spanish painter, court painter to Philip IV. His portraits humanized the formal Spanish tradition of idealized figures. Notable works: Pope Innocent X (1650), The Toilet of Venus (known as The Rokeby Venus, *c.*1651), and Las Meninas (*c.*1656).

Velázquez de Cuéllar /deɪ ˈkweɪjɑː, ˈkweɪljɑː, Spanish de ˈkwejar/, Diego (*c.*1465–1524), Spanish conquistador. After sailing with Columbus to the New World in 1493, he began the conquest of Cuba in 1511; he later initiated expeditions to conquer Mexico.

Velcro /ˈvɛlkrəʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark a fastener for clothes or other items, consisting of two strips of thin plastic sheet, one covered with tiny loops and the other with tiny flexible hooks, which adhere when pressed together and can be separated when pulled apart deliberately.

▶ verb [with obj. and adverbial] fasten, join, or fix with such a fastener.

– DERIVATIVES Velcroed adjective.

– ORIGIN 1960s: from French velours croché 'hooked velvet'.

veld /vɛlt/ (also veldt) ▶ noun [mass noun] open, uncultivated country or grassland in southern Africa. It is conventionally divided by altitude into highveld, middleveld, and lowveld.

– ORIGIN Afrikaans, from Dutch, literally 'field'.

Velde, van de[1], Henri, see VAN DE VELDE[2].

Velde, van de[2], Willem and sons, see VAN DE VELDE[1].

veldskoen /ˈfɛltskʊn, ˈfɛls-/ ▶ noun a strong suede or leather shoe or boot.

■ S. African used as a symbol of conservative or reactionary attitudes: [as modifier] he is a veldskoen bitter-ender.

– ORIGIN Afrikaans, literally 'field shoe'.

veleta /vəˈliːtə/ (also valeta) ▶ noun a ballroom dance in triple time, faster than a waltz and with partners side by side.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Spanish, literally 'weathervane'.

veliger /ˈviːlɪdʒə/ ▶ noun Zoology the final larval stage of certain molluscs, having two ciliated flaps for swimming and feeding.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from VELUM + Latin -ger 'bearing'.

velleity /vɛˈliːɪti/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) formal a wish or inclination not strong enough to lead to action: the notion intrigued me, but remained a velleity.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from medieval Latin velleitas, from Latin velle 'to wish'.

Velleius Paterculus /vɛˌleɪəs pəˈtəːkjʊləs/ (*c.*19 BC–*c.*30 AD), Roman historian and soldier. His Roman History, covering the period from the early history of Rome to AD 30, is notable for its eulogistic depiction of Tiberius.

vellum /ˈvɛləm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] fine parchment made originally from the skin of a calf.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French velin, from veel (see VEAL).

velocimeter /ˌvɛlə(ʊ)ˈsɪmɪtə/ ▶ noun an instrument for measuring velocity.

– DERIVATIVES velocimetry noun.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin velox, veloc- 'swift' + -METER.

velocipede /vɪˈlɒsɪpiːd/ ▶ noun historical an early form of bicycle propelled by working pedals on cranks fitted to the front axle.

■ US a child's tricycle.

– DERIVATIVES velocipedist noun.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from French vélocipède, from Latin velox, veloc- 'swift' + pes, ped- 'foot'.

velociraptor /vɪˌlɒsɪˈraptə/ ▶ noun a small dromaeosaurid dinosaur of the late Cretaceous period.

● Genus Velociraptor, family Dromaeosauridae, suborder Theropoda.

– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin velox, veloc- 'swift' + RAPTOR.

velocity /vɪˈlɒsɪti/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) the speed of something in a given direction: the velocities of the emitted particles.

■ (in general use) speed: the tank shot backwards at an incredible velocity. ■ (also velocity of circulation) Economics the rate at which money changes hands within an economy.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from French vélocité or Latin velocitas, from velox, veloc- 'swift'.

velocity profile ▶ noun Physics the variation in velocity along a line at right angles to the general direction of flow.

velodrome /ˈvɛlədrəʊm/ ▶ noun a cycle-racing track, typically with steeply banked curves.

■ a stadium containing such a track.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from French vélodrome, from vélo 'bicycle' + -drome (see -DROME).

velour /vəˈlʊə/ (also velours) ▶ noun [mass noun] a plush woven fabric resembling velvet, chiefly used for soft furnishings and hats.

■ [count noun] dated a hat made of such fabric.

– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from French velours 'velvet', from Old French velour, from Latin villosus 'hairy', from villus (see VELVET).

velouté /vəˈluːteɪ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a sauce made from a roux of butter and flour with chicken, veal, or pork stock.

– ORIGIN French, literally 'velvety'.

velum /ˈviːləm/ ▶ noun (pl. vela /-lə/) chiefly Anatomy, Zoology, & Botany a membrane or membranous structure, typically covering another structure or partly obscuring an opening, in particular:

■ Anatomy the soft palate. ■ Zoology a membrane, typically bordering a cavity, especially in certain molluscs, medusae, and other invertebrates. ■ Botany the veil of a toadstool.

– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Latin, literally 'sail, curtain, covering, veil'.

velvet ▶ noun [mass noun] a closely woven fabric of silk, cotton, or nylon, that has a thick short pile on one side.

■ soft downy skin that covers a deer's antler while it is growing.

– PHRASES on velvet informal, dated in an advantageous or prosperous position.

– DERIVATIVES velveted adjective, velvety adjective.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French veluotte, from velu 'velvety', from medieval Latin villutus, from Latin villus 'tuft, down'.

velvet ant ▶ noun an ant-like velvety-bodied insect that is related to the wasps. The female is wingless and the larvae parasitize the young of bees and wasps in the nest.

● Family Mutillidae, superfamily Scolioidea: numerous species, including the European Mutilla europaea.

velveteen ▶ noun [mass noun] a cotton fabric with a pile resembling velvet.

■ (velveteens) dated trousers made of this fabric.

velvetleaf ▶ noun [mass noun] a Eurasian plant of the mallow family, with large heart-shaped velvety leaves and yellow flowers. It is naturalized in North America, where it has become a serious weed of farmland.

● Abutilon theophrasti, family Malvaceae.

velvet revolution ▶ noun a non-violent political revolution, especially the relatively smooth change from Communism to a Western-style democracy in Czechoslovakia at the end of 1989.

– ORIGIN translating Czech sametová revoluce.

velvet worm ▶ noun an onychophoran.

Ven. ▶ abbreviation for Venerable (as the title of an archdeacon): the Ven. William Davies.

vena cava /ˌviːnə ˈkeɪvə/ ▶ noun (pl. venae cavae /-niː -viː/) a large vein carrying deoxygenated blood into the heart. There are two in humans, the inferior vena cava (carrying blood from the lower body) and the superior vena cava (carrying blood from the head, arms, and upper body).

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Latin, literally 'hollow vein'.

venal /ˈviːn(ə)l/ ▶ adjective showing or motivated by susceptibility to bribery: why should these venal politicians care how they are rated? | their generosity had been at least partly venal.

– DERIVATIVES venality noun, venally adverb.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent. (in the sense 'available for purchase', referring to merchandise or a favour): from Latin venalis, from venum 'thing for sale'.

venation /vɪˈneɪʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biology the arrangement of veins in a leaf or in an insect's wing.

■ the system of venous blood vessels in an animal.

– DERIVATIVES venational adjective.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin vena 'vein' + -ATION.

vend ▶ verb [with obj.] offer (small items, especially food) for sale, either from a stall or from a slot machine: there was a man vending sticky cakes and ices.

■ Law or formal sell (something).

– DERIVATIVES vendible adjective.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (in the sense 'be sold'): from French vendre or Latin vendere 'sell', from venum 'something for sale' + a variant of dare 'give'.

Venda[1] /ˈvɛndə/ a former homeland established in South Africa for the Venda people, now part of Northern Province.

Venda[2] /ˈvɛndə/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Vendas) 1 a member of a people living in Northern Transvaal and southern Zimbabwe.

2 [mass noun] the Bantu language of this people, which has about 600,000 speakers.

▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.

– ORIGIN the stem of Venda Muvenda (in sense 1), Tshivenda (in sense 2).

vendace /'vɛndɪs/ ▶ noun an edible whitefish found in lakes in northern Europe. In Britain it is now confined to two lakes in the English Lake District.
• Coregonus albula, family Salmonidae.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from obsolete French vendese, from a base related to Welsh gwyn 'white'.

vendange /vɑ̃'dɑ̃ʒ, French vɑ̃dɑ̃ʒ/ ▶ noun (pl. pronounced same) (in France) the grape harvest.
– ORIGIN French.

Vendemiaire /vɛn,dɛmɪ'ɛː/ (also Vendémiaire /French vɑ̃demjɛʀ/) ▶ noun the first month of the French Republican calendar (1793–1805), originally running from 22 September to 21 October.
– ORIGIN French, from Latin vindemia 'vintage'.

vender ▶ noun US variant spelling of VENDOR.

vendetta /vɛn'dɛtə/ ▶ noun a blood feud in which the family of a murdered person seeks vengeance on the murderer or the murderer's family.
■ a prolonged bitter quarrel with or campaign against someone: he has accused the British media of pursuing a vendetta against him.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Italian, from Latin vindicta 'vengeance'.

vendeuse /vɒ'dəːz, French vɑ̃døz/ ▶ noun a saleswoman, especially one in a fashionable dress shop.
– ORIGIN French.

vending machine ▶ noun a machine that dispenses small articles such as food, drinks, or cigarettes when a coin or token is inserted.

vendor (US also vender) ▶ noun a person or company offering something for sale, especially a trader in the street: an Italian ice-cream vendor.
■ /also 'vɛndɔː/ Law the seller in a sale, especially of property.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Anglo-Norman French vendour (see VEND).

vendor placing ▶ noun [mass noun] Finance a type of placing used as a method of financing a takeover in which the purchasing company issues its own shares as payment to the company being bought, with the pre-arranged agreement that these shares are then placed with investors in exchange for cash.

vendue /vɛn'djuː/ ▶ noun US & W. Indian a public auction.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: via Dutch from French dialect vendue 'sale', from vendre 'sell'.

veneer /vɪ'nɪə/ ▶ noun a thin decorative covering of fine wood applied to a coarser wood or other material.
■ a layer of wood used to make plywood. ■ [in sing.] an attractive appearance that covers or disguises someone or something's true nature or feelings: her veneer of composure cracked a little.
▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. veneered] cover (something) with a decorative layer of fine wood.
■ cover or disguise (someone or something's true nature) with an attractive appearance.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent. (earlier as fineer): from German furni(e)ren, from Old French fournir 'furnish'.

veneering ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 material used as veneer.
2 the action of covering something with a veneer.

venepuncture /'vɛnɪ,pʌŋ(k)tʃə, 'viːnɪ-/ (chiefly N. Amer. also venipuncture) ▶ noun [mass noun] the puncture of a vein as part of a medical procedure, typically to withdraw a blood sample or for an intravenous injection.
– ORIGIN 1920s: from Latin vena 'vein' + PUNCTURE.

venerable ▶ adjective accorded a great deal of respect, especially because of age, wisdom, or character: a venerable statesman.
■ (in the Anglican Church) a title given to an archdeacon. ■ (in the Roman Catholic Church) a title given to a deceased person who has attained a certain degree of sanctity but has not been fully beatified or canonized.
– DERIVATIVES venerability noun, venerableness noun, venerably adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, or from Latin venerabilis, from the verb venerari (see VENERATE).

venerate /'vɛnəreɪt/ ▶ verb [with obj.] (often be venerated) regard with great respect; revere: Philip of Beverley was venerated as a saint.
– DERIVATIVES veneration noun, venerator noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin venerat- 'adored, revered', from the verb venerari.

venereal /vɪ'nɪərɪəl/ ▶ adjective of or relating to sexual desire or sexual intercourse.
■ of or relating to venereal disease.
– DERIVATIVES venereally adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin venereus (from venus, vener- 'sexual love') + -AL.

venereal disease ▶ noun a disease typically contracted by sexual intercourse with a person already infected; a sexually transmitted disease.

venereology /vɪ,nɪərɪ'ɒlədʒi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the branch of medicine concerned with venereal diseases.
– DERIVATIVES venereological adjective, venereologist noun.

venery[1] /'vɛn(ə)ri/ ▶ noun [mass noun] archaic sexual indulgence.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from medieval Latin veneria, from venus, vener- 'sexual love'.

venery[2] /'vɛn(ə)ri/ ▶ noun [mass noun] archaic hunting.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French venerie, from vener 'to hunt', from Latin venari.

venesection /,vɛnɪ'sɛkʃ(ə)n, 'vɛnɪ-/ ▶ noun another term for PHLEBOTOMY.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from medieval Latin venae sectio(n-) 'cutting of a vein'.

Venetia /vɪ'niːʃə/ a region of NE Italy: capital, Venice. Italian name VENETO /'vɛneto/.
– ORIGIN named after the Veneti, the pre-Roman inhabitants of the region.

Venetian ▶ adjective of or relating to Venice or its people.
▶ noun 1 a native or citizen of Venice.
■ [mass noun] the dialect of Italian spoken in Venice.
2 (venetians) venetian blinds.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French Venicien, assimilated to medieval Latin Venetianus, from Latin Venetia 'Venice'.

venetian blind ▶ noun a window blind consisting of horizontal slats which can be pivoted to control the amount of light that passes through it.

Venetian glass ▶ noun another term for MURANO GLASS.

Venetian red ▶ noun [mass noun] a reddish-brown pigment consisting of ferric oxide.
■ a strong reddish-brown colour.

Venetian window ▶ noun a window with three separate openings, the central one being arched and taller than the others.

Venezia /ve'nɛttsja/ Italian name for VENICE.

Venezuela /,vɛnɪ'zweɪlə, Spanish bene'swela, -θwela/ a republic on the north coast of South America, with a coastline on the Caribbean Sea; pop. 20,191,000 (est. 1991); official language, Spanish; capital, Caracas.

Colonized by the Spanish in the 16th century, Venezuela won its independence in 1821 after a ten-year struggle, but did not finally emerge as a separate nation until its secession from federation with Colombia (1830). It is a major oil-exporting country, with the industry based on the area around Lake Maracaibo in the north-west.

– DERIVATIVES Venezuelan adjective & noun.
– ORIGIN Spanish, literally 'little Venice', named by early explorers when they saw native houses built on stilts over water.

vengeance /'vɛn(d)ʒ(ə)ns/ ▶ noun [mass noun] punishment inflicted or retribution exacted for an injury or wrong.
– PHRASES with a vengeance used to emphasize the degree to which something occurs or is true: her headache was back with a vengeance.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, from venger 'avenge'.

vengeful ▶ adjective seeking to harm someone in return for a perceived injury: a vengeful ex-con.
– DERIVATIVES vengefully adverb, vengefulness noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from obsolete venge 'avenge' (see VENGEANCE), on the pattern of revengeful.

venial /'viːnɪəl/ ▶ adjective Christian Theology denoting a sin that is not regarded as depriving the soul of divine grace. Often contrasted with MORTAL.
■ (of a fault or offence) slight and pardonable.
– DERIVATIVES veniality /-'alɪti/ noun, venially adverb.
– ORIGIN Middle English: via Old French from late Latin venialis, from venia 'forgiveness'.

Venice /'vɛnɪs/ a city in NE Italy, capital of Venetia region; pop. 317,840 (1990). Italian name VENEZIA.

Situated on a lagoon of the Adriatic, it is built on numerous islands that are separated by canals and linked by bridges. It was a powerful republic in the Middle Ages and from the 13th to the 16th centuries a leading sea power, controlling trade to the Levant and ruling parts of the eastern Mediterranean. After the Napoleonic Wars Venice was placed under Austrian rule and was incorporated into a unified Italy in 1866.

venipuncture ▶ noun chiefly N. Amer. variant spelling of VENEPUNCTURE.

venison /'vɛnɪs(ə)n, 'vɛnɪz(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] meat from a deer.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French veneso(u)n, from Latin venatio(n-) 'hunting', from venari 'to hunt'.

Venite /vɪ'nʌɪti, vɪ'niːti, -teɪ/ ▶ noun Psalm 95 used as a canticle in Christian liturgy, chiefly at matins.
– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'come ye', the first word of the psalm.

Venn diagram ▶ noun a diagram representing mathematical or logical sets pictorially as circles or closed curves within an enclosing rectangle (the universal set), common elements of the sets being represented by intersections of the circles.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: named after John Venn (1834–1923), English logician.

vennel /'vɛn(ə)l/ ▶ noun chiefly Scottish a narrow lane or passage between buildings; an alley.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French venele, from medieval Latin venella, diminutive of Latin vena 'vein'.

venogram /'viːnə(ʊ)gram/ ▶ noun Medicine an image produced by venography.

venography /vɪ'nɒgrəfi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine radiography of a vein after injection of a radiopaque fluid.
– DERIVATIVES venographic /,viːnə(ʊ)'grafɪk/ adjective, venographically adverb.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from Latin vena 'vein' + -GRAPHY.

venom ▶ noun [mass noun] poisonous fluid secreted by animals such as snakes and scorpions and typically injected into prey or aggressors by biting or stinging.
■ figurative extreme malice and bitterness shown in someone's attitudes, speech, or actions: his voice was full of venom.
– DERIVATIVES venomed adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French venim, variant of venin, from an alteration of Latin venenum 'poison'.

venomous /'vɛnəməs/ ▶ adjective (of animals, especially snakes, or their parts) secreting venom; capable of injecting venom by means of a bite or sting.
■ figurative (of a person or their behaviour) full of malice or spite: she replied with a venomous glance.
– DERIVATIVES venomously adverb, venomousness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French venimeux, from venim (see VENOM).

venous /'viːnəs/ ▶ adjective of or relating to a vein or the veins.
– DERIVATIVES venosity /vɪ'nɒsɪti/ noun, venously adverb.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin venosus 'venose', from vena 'vein'.

vent[1] ▶ noun an opening that allows air, gas, or liquid to pass out of or into a confined space.
■ [mass noun] figurative release or expression of a strong emotion, energy, etc.: children give vent to their anger in various ways. ■ the opening of a volcano, through which lava and other materials are emitted. ■ chiefly Scottish a flue of a chimney. ■ historical the touch hole of a gun. ■ the anus, especially one in a lower animal such as a fish that serves for both excretion and reproduction.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 give free expression to (a strong emotion): we vent our spleen on drug barons.
2 provide with an outlet for air, gas, or liquid: tumble-dryers must be vented to the outside.
■ discharge or expel (air, gas, or liquid) through an outlet: the plant was isolated and the gas vented. ■ permit air to enter (a beer cask).
– DERIVATIVES ventless adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: partly from French vent 'wind', from Latin ventus, reinforced by French évent, from éventer 'expose to air', based on Latin ventus 'wind'.

vent[2] ▶ noun a slit in a garment, especially in the lower edge of the back of a coat through the seam.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: alteration of dialect fent, from Old French fente 'slit', based on Latin findere 'cleave'.

venter ▶ noun Zoology the underside or abdomen of an animal.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin, literally 'belly'.

ventiduct /'vɛntɪdʌkt/ ▶ noun Architecture an air passage, especially for ventilation.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin ventus 'wind' + ductus 'duct'.

ventifact /'vɛntɪfakt/ ▶ noun Geology a stone shaped by the erosive action of wind-blown sand.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Latin ventus 'wind' + factum, neuter past participle of facere 'make'.

ventil /'vɛntɪl/ ▶ noun Music 1 a valve in a wind instrument.
2 a shutter for regulating the airflow in an organ.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from German, from Italian ventile, from medieval Latin ventile 'sluice', from Latin ventus 'wind'.

ventilate ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 cause air to enter and circulate freely in (a room, building, etc.): [as adj., in combination -ventilated] gas heaters should only ever be used in well-ventilated rooms.
■(of air) purify or freshen (something) by blowing on or through it: a colossus ventilated by the dawn breeze. ■ Medicine subject to artificial respiration. ■ archaic oxygenate (the blood). ■ informal kill (someone) by shooting: I pull out a gun and ventilate her dinner companion.
2 discuss or examine (an opinion, issue, complaint, etc.) in public: he used the club to ventilate an ongoing complaint.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'winnow, scatter'): from Latin ventilat- 'blown, winnowed', from the verb ventilare, from ventus 'wind'. The sense 'cause air to circulate in' dates from the mid 18th cent.

ventilation ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the provision of fresh air to a room, building, etc.
■Medicine the supply of air to the lungs, especially by artificial means.
2 public discussion or examination of an opinion, issue, complaint, etc.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'current of air'): from Old French, or from Latin ventilatio(n-), from the verb ventilare (see VENTILATE). Sense 1 dates from the mid 17th cent.

ventilator ▶ noun 1 an appliance or aperture for ventilating a room or other space.
2 Medicine appliance for artificial respiration; a respirator.

ventilatory /'vɛntɪlə,t(ə)ri/ ▶ adjective Physiology of, relating to, or serving for the provision of air to the lungs or respiratory system.

Ventolin /'vɛntəlɪn/ ▶ noun trademark for SALBUTAMOL.
– ORIGIN 1960s: perhaps from VENTILATE + -OL + -IN[1].

Ventose /vɑ̃'təʊz/ (also Ventôse /French vɑ̃toz/) ▶ noun the sixth month of the French Republican calendar (1793–1805), originally running from 19 February to 20 March.
– ORIGIN French Ventôse, from Latin ventosus 'windy', from ventus 'wind'.

ventouse /'vɛntu:s/ ▶ noun Medicine a vacuum extractor for use in assisting childbirth.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from French, literally 'cupping-glass', based on Latin ventus 'wind'.

ventral ▶ adjective Anatomy, Zoology, & Botany of, on, or relating to the underside of an animal or plant; abdominal: a ventral nerve cord | the ventral part of the head. Compare with DORSAL.
– DERIVATIVES ventrally adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin venter, ventr- 'belly' + -AL.

ventral fin ▶ noun Zoology another term for PELVIC FIN.
■an unpaired fin on the underside of certain fishes. ■ a single vertical fin under the fuselage or tail of an aircraft.

ventre à terre /ˌvɔ̃tr(ə) ɑ: 'tɛ:, French vɑ̃tʀ a tɛʀ/ ▶ adverb at full speed (used especially of a horse's movement or its representation in painting).
– ORIGIN French, literally '(with) belly to the ground'.

ventricle /'vɛntrɪk(ə)l/ ▶ noun Anatomy a hollow part or cavity in an organ, in particular:
■each of the two main chambers of the heart, left and right. ■ each of the four connected fluid-filled cavities in the centre of the brain.
– DERIVATIVES ventricular /-'trɪkjʊlə/ adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin ventriculus, diminutive of venter 'belly'.

ventriculography /vɛnˌtrɪkjʊ'lɒgrəfi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine radiography of the ventricles of the brain with the cerebral fluid replaced by air (pneumoencephalography) or radiopaque material or labelled with a radionuclide.

ventriloquist /vɛn'trɪləkwɪst/ ▶ noun a person who can speak or utter sounds so that they seem to come from somewhere else, especially an entertainer who makes their voice appear to come from a dummy of a person or animal.
– DERIVATIVES ventriloquial /ˌvɛntrɪ'ləʊkwɪəl/ adjective, ventriloquism noun, ventriloquize (also -ise) verb, ventriloquy noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from modern Latin ventriloquium (from Latin venter 'belly' + loqui 'speak') + -IST.

ventrolateral /ˌvɛntrə(ʊ)'latər(ə)l/ ▶ adjective Biology situated towards the junction of the ventral and lateral sides.
– DERIVATIVES ventrolaterally adverb.

ventromedial /ˌvɛntrə(ʊ)'mi:dɪəl/ ▶ adjective Biology situated towards the middle of the ventral side.
– DERIVATIVES ventromedially adverb.

venture ▶ noun a risky or daring journey or undertaking: pioneering ventures into little-known waters.
■a business enterprise involving considerable risk.
▶ verb [no obj., with infinitive or adverbial] dare to do something or go somewhere that may be dangerous or unpleasant: she ventured out into the blizzard.
■dare to do or say something that may be considered audacious (often used as a polite expression of hesitation or apology): may I venture to add a few comments? | I ventured to write to her | [with obj.] he ventured the opinion that Putt was now dangerously insane. ■ [with obj.] expose (something) to the risk of loss: his fortune is ventured in an expedition over which he has no control.
– PHRASES at a venture archaic trusting to chance rather than to previous consideration or preparation: a man drew a bow at a venture. nothing ventured, nothing gained proverb you can't expect to achieve anything if you never take any risks.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'adventure', also 'risk the loss of'): shortening of ADVENTURE.

venture capital ▶ noun [mass noun] capital invested in a project in which there is a substantial element of risk, typically a new or expanding business.
– DERIVATIVES venture capitalist noun.

venturer ▶ noun archaic a person who undertakes or shares in a trading venture.

Venture Scout ▶ noun a member of the Scout Association aged between 16 and 20.

venturesome ▶ adjective willing to take risks or embark on difficult or unusual courses of action.
– DERIVATIVES venturesomely adverb, venturesomeness noun.

Venturi /vɛn'tjʊəri/, Robert (Charles) (b.1925), American architect, pioneer of postmodernist architecture. Among his buildings are the Humanities Classroom Building of the State University of New York (1973) and the Sainsbury Wing of the National Gallery in London (1991).

venturi /vɛn'tjʊəri/ ▶ noun (pl. venturis) a short piece of narrow tube between wider sections for measuring flow rate or exerting suction.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after Giovanni B. Venturi (1746–1822), Italian physicist.

venue /'vɛnju:/ ▶ noun the place where something happens, especially an organized event such as a concert, conference, or sports event: the river could soon be the venue for a powerboat world championship event.
■English Law the county or district within which a criminal or civil case must be heard.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (denoting a thrust or bout in fencing; also in the Law sense): from Old French, literally 'a coming', feminine past participle of venir 'come' from Latin venire.

venule /'vɛnju:l/ ▶ noun Anatomy a very small vein, especially one collecting blood from the capillaries.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin venula, diminutive of vena 'vein'.

Venus 1 Roman Mythology a goddess, worshipped as the goddess of love in classical Rome though apparently a spirit of kitchen gardens in earlier times. Greek equivalent APHRODITE. [ORIGIN: Latin.]
■[as noun a Venus] chiefly poetic/literary a beautiful woman.
2 Astronomy the second planet from the sun in the solar system, the brightest celestial object after the sun and moon and frequently appearing in the twilight sky as the evening or morning star.

> Venus orbits between Mercury and the earth at an average distance of 108 million km from the sun. It is almost equal in size to the earth, with a diameter of 12,104 km, and shows phases similar to the moon. The planet is completely covered by clouds consisting chiefly of sulphuric acid droplets, and no surface detail can be seen by telescope. There is a dense atmosphere of carbon dioxide, which traps the heat of the sun by the greenhouse effect to produce a surface temperature of 460°C. The planet has no natural satellite.

3 (also venus, Venus shell, or (chiefly US) Venus clam) a burrowing marine bivalve mollusc with clearly defined growth lines on the shell.
● Venus, Venerupis, and other genera, family Veneridae.
– DERIVATIVES Venusian /vɪ'nju:zɪən/ adjective & noun.

Venusberg /'vi:nəsbɜ:g/ ▶ noun (in German legend) the court of Venus.

Venus de Milo /də 'mɪləʊ, 'mi:ləʊ/ a classical sculpture of Aphrodite dated to *c.*100 BC. It was discovered on the Greek island of Melos in 1820 and is now in the Louvre in Paris.
– ORIGIN French, 'Venus of Melos'.

Venus flytrap (also Venus's flytrap) ▶ noun a small carnivorous bog plant with hinged leaves that spring shut on and digest insects which land on them. Native to the south-eastern US, it is also kept as an indoor plant.
● Dionaea muscipula, family Droseraceae.

Venus's comb ▶ noun another term for SHEPHERD'S NEEDLE.

Venus's flower basket ▶ noun a slender upright glass sponge with a filmy lattice-like skeleton.
● Genus Euplectella, class Hexactinellida.

Venus's girdle ▶ noun a large, almost transparent comb jelly with a flattened ribbon-like body, living chiefly in warmer seas.
● Genus Cestum, phylum Ctenophora.

Venus's looking glass ▶ noun a blue-flowered plant of the bellflower family, whose shiny brown seeds inside their open capsule supposedly resemble ladies' looking glasses.
● Two species in the family Campanulaceae: Legousia hybrida of Europe, and Triodanis perfoliata of North America.

vera causa /ˌvɛ:rə 'kaʊzə/ ▶ noun (pl. verae causae /ˌvɛ:ri: 'kaʊzi:/) chiefly historical (in Newtonian philosophy) the true cause of a natural phenomenon, by an agency whose existence is independently evidenced.
– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'real cause'.

veracious /və'reɪʃəs/ ▶ adjective formal speaking or representing the truth.
– DERIVATIVES veraciously adverb, veraciousness noun.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Latin verax, verac- (from verus 'true') + -IOUS.

veracity /və'rasɪti/ ▶ noun [mass noun] conformity to facts; accuracy: officials expressed doubts concerning the veracity of the story.
■habitual truthfulness: voters should be concerned about his veracity and character.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French véracité or medieval Latin veracitas, from verax 'speaking truly' (see VERACIOUS).

Veracruz /ˌvɪərə'kru:z, Spanish bera'kruθ, -krus/ 1 a state of east central Mexico, with a long coastline on the Gulf of Mexico; capital, Jalapa Enriquez.
2 a city and port of Mexico, in Veracruz state, on the Gulf of Mexico; pop. 327,520 (1990).

veranda (also verandah) ▶ noun a roofed platform along the outside of a house, level with the ground floor.
■Austral./NZ a roof over the pavement in front of a shop.
– DERIVATIVES verandaed adjective.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Hindi varandā, from Portuguese varanda 'railing, balustrade'.

verapamil /və'rapəmɪl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a synthetic compound which acts as a calcium antagonist and is used to treat angina pectoris and cardiac arrhythmias.

– ORIGIN 1960s: from v(al)er(onitr)il(e) (from VALERIC ACID + NITRILE), with the insertion of -apam- (of unknown origin).

veratrine /'verətri:n, -ɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a poisonous substance consisting of a mixture of alkaloids which occurs in the seeds of sabadilla and related plants.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from French vératrine, from Latin veratrum 'hellebore'.

veratrum /və'reɪtrəm/ ▶ noun (pl. veratrums) a plant of a genus that includes the false helleborines.
● Genus Veratrum, family Liliaceae.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin, literally 'hellebore'.

verb ▶ noun Grammar a word used to describe an action, state, or occurrence, and forming the main part of the predicate of a sentence, such as hear, become, happen.
– DERIVATIVES verbless adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French verbe or Latin verbum 'word, verb'.

verbal ▶ adjective 1 relating to or in the form of words: the root of the problem is visual rather than verbal | verbal abuse.
■spoken rather than written; oral: a verbal agreement. ■ tending to talk a lot: he's very verbal.
2 Grammar of, relating to, or derived from a verb: a verbal adjective.
▶ noun 1 Grammar a word or words functioning as a verb.
■a verbal noun.
2 [mass noun] Brit. informal abuse; insults: I'd go out on the pitch and get verbal from the crowd.
■lengthy meaningless talk; verbiage: the actors give it some verbal about how it's an honour just to be nominated.
3 (verbals) informal the lyrics of a song or the dialogue of a film.
4 (usu. verbals) Brit. informal a verbal statement containing a damaging admission alleged to have been made to the police, and offered as evidence by the prosecution.
▶ verb (verballed, verballing) [with obj.] Brit. informal attribute a damaging statement to (a suspect), especially dishonestly.
– DERIVATIVES verbally adverb.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent. (describing a person who deals with words rather than things): from French, or from late Latin verbalis, from verbum 'word' (see VERB).

USAGE It is sometimes said that the true sense of the adjective verbal is 'of or concerned with words', whether spoken or written (as in verbal abuse), and that it should not be used to mean 'spoken rather than written' (as in a verbal agreement). For this sense, it is said that the adjective oral should be used instead. In practice, however, verbal is well established in this sense and, in certain idiomatic phrases (such as a verbal agreement), cannot be simply replaced by oral.

verbalism ▶ noun [mass noun] concentration on forms of expression rather than content.
■[count noun] a verbal expression. ■ excessive or empty use of language.
– DERIVATIVES verbalist noun, verbalistic adjective.

verbalize (also -ise) ▶ verb 1 [with obj.] express (ideas or feelings) in words, especially by speaking out loud: they are unable to verbalize their real feelings.
2 [no obj.] speak, especially at excessive length and with little real content: the dangers of verbalizing about art.
3 [with obj.] make (a word, especially a noun) into a verb.
– DERIVATIVES verbalizable adjective, verbalization noun, verbalizer noun.

verbal noun ▶ noun Grammar a noun formed as an inflection of a verb and partly sharing its constructions, such as smoking in smoking is forbidden. See -ING[1].

verbascum /və:'baskəm/ ▶ noun a plant of a genus that comprises the mulleins.
● Genus Verbascum, family Scrophulariaceae.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin, literally 'mullein'.

verbatim /və:'beɪtɪm/ ▶ adverb & adjective in exactly the same words as were used originally: [as adv.] subjects were instructed to recall the passage verbatim | [as adj.] your quotations must be verbatim.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from medieval Latin, from Latin verbum 'word'. Compare with LITERATIM.

verbena /və:'bi:nə/ ▶ noun a chiefly American herbaceous plant which bears heads of bright showy flowers, widely cultivated as a garden ornamental.
● Genus Verbena, family Verbenaceae: many species, in particular a group of complex cultivars (V. × hybrida).
– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin, literally 'sacred bough', in medieval Latin 'vervain'.

verblage /'və:blɪdʒ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] speech or writing that uses too many words or excessively technical expressions.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from French, from obsolete verbeier 'to chatter', from verbe 'word' (see VERB).

verbose /və:'bəʊs/ ▶ adjective using or expressed in more words than are needed: much academic language is obscure and verbose.
– DERIVATIVES verbosely adverb, verbosity noun.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Latin verbosus, from verbum 'word'.

verboten /və'bəʊt(ə)n, German fɛɐ'bo:tn/ ▶ adjective forbidden, especially by an authority.
– ORIGIN German.

verb phrase ▶ noun Grammar the part of a sentence containing the verb and any direct or indirect object, but not the subject.

verdant /'və:d(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective (of countryside) green with grass or other rich vegetation.
■of the bright green colour of lush grass: a deep, verdant green.
– DERIVATIVES verdancy noun, verdantly adverb.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: perhaps from Old French verdeant, present participle of verdoier 'be green', based on Latin viridis 'green'.

verd-antique /ˌvə:dan'ti:k/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a green ornamental marble consisting of serpentine with calcite and dolomite.
■verdigris on ancient bronze or copper. ■ a green form of porphyry.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from obsolete French, literally 'antique green'.

Verdelho /və:'dɛlju:, -ljəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) a white grape originally grown in Madeira, now also in Portugal, Sicily, Australia, and South Africa.
■[mass noun] a medium Madeira made from this grape.
– ORIGIN Portuguese.

verderer /'və:d(ə)rə/ ▶ noun Brit. a judicial officer of a royal forest.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Anglo-Norman French, based on Latin viridis 'green'.

Verdi /'vɛ:di, Italian 'verdi/, Giuseppe (Fortunino Francesco) (1813–1901), Italian composer. His many operas, such as La Traviata (1853), Aida (1871), and Otello (1887), emphasize the dramatic element, treating personal stories on a heroic scale and often against backgrounds that reflect his political interests. He is also famous for his Requiem (1874).

Verdicchio /vɛ:'di:kɪəʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a variety of white wine grape grown in the Marche region of Italy.
■a dry white wine made from this grape.
– ORIGIN Italian.

verdict ▶ noun a decision on an issue of fact in a civil or criminal case or an inquest: the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.
■an opinion or judgement: this seems a fair verdict on the tabloids.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French verdit, from Old French veir 'true' (from Latin verus) + dit (from Latin dictum 'saying').

verdigris /'və:dɪgri:, -gri:s/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a bright bluish-green encrustation or patina formed on copper or brass by atmospheric oxidation, consisting of basic copper carbonate.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French verte-gres, earlier vert de Grece 'green of Greece'.

verdigris agaric ▶ noun a toadstool with a slimy blue-green cap and dark brown gills, found in both Eurasia and North America.
● Stropharia aeruginosa, family Strophariaceae, class Hymenomycetes.

verdin /'və:dɪn/ ▶ noun a small songbird with a grey body and yellowish head, found in the semi-deserts of south-western North America.
● Auriparus flaviceps, family Remizidae.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from French, literally 'yellowhammer'.

verditer /'və:dɪtə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a light blue or bluish-green pigment, typically prepared by adding chalk or whiting to a solution of copper nitrate, used in making crayons and as a watercolour.
▶ adjective of this colour.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from Old French verd de terre, literally 'earth green'.

Verdun, Battle of /və:'dʌn, French vɛʀdœ̃/ a long and severe battle in 1916, during the First World War, at the fortified town of Verdun in NE France.

verdure /'və:djə, -jʊə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] lush green vegetation.
■the fresh green colour of such vegetation. ■ poetic/literary a condition of freshness.
– DERIVATIVES verdured adjective, verdurous adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: via French from Old French verd 'green', from Latin viridis.

Vereeniging /fə'ri:nɪkɪŋ, fə'reɪnɪxɪŋ/ a city in South Africa, in the province of Gauteng; pop. 773,590 (1991) (with Vanderbijlpark).

verge[1] ▶ noun an edge or border: they came down to the verge of the lake.
■an extreme limit beyond which something specified will happen: I was on the verge of tears. ■ Brit. a grass edging such as that by the side of a road or path. ■ Architecture an edge of tiles projecting over a gable.
▶ verb [no obj.] (verge on) approach (something) closely; be close or similar to (something): despair verging on the suicidal.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: via Old French from Latin virga 'rod'. The current verb sense dates from the late 18th cent.

verge[2] ▶ noun a wand or rod carried before a bishop or dean as an emblem of office.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin virga 'rod'.

verge[3] ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] incline in a certain direction or towards a particular state: his style verged into the art nouveau school.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (in the sense 'descend (to the horizon)'): from Latin vergere 'to bend, incline'.

vergence ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 Physiology the simultaneous movement of the pupils of the eyes towards or away from one another during focusing.
2 Geology the direction in which a fold is inclined or overturned: a zone of opposing fold vergence.
– ORIGIN 1980s: common element of CONVERGENCE and DIVERGENCE.

verger ▶ noun 1 an official in a church who carries a rod before a bishop or dean as a symbol of office.
2 an officer who carries a rod before a bishop or dean as a symbol of office.
– DERIVATIVES vergership noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in sense 2): from Anglo-Norman French (see VERGE[2]).

Vergil variant spelling of VIRGIL.

verglas /'vɛ:glɑ:/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a thin coating of ice or frozen rain on an exposed surface.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: French, from verre 'glass' + glas (now glace) 'ice'.

veridical /vɪ'rɪdɪk(ə)l/ ▶ adjective formal truthful.
■coinciding with reality: such memories are not necessarily veridical.
– DERIVATIVES veridicality noun, veridically adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin veridicus (from verus 'true' + dicere 'say') + -AL.

veriest ▶ adjective [attrib.] (the veriest) chiefly archaic used to emphasize the degree to which a description applies to someone or something: everyone but the veriest greenhorn knows by now.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: superlative of VERY.

verification ▶ noun [mass noun] the process of establishing the truth, accuracy, or validity of something: the verification of official documents.
■[often as modifier] Philosophy the establishment by empirical means of the validity of a proposition. ■ the process of ensuring that procedures laid down in weapons limitation agreements are followed.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from Old French or from medieval Latin verificatio(n-), from the verb verificare (see VERIFY).

verification principle ▶ noun Philosophy the characteristic doctrine of logical positivism, that a statement which cannot be verified is strictly meaningless.

verify /'vɛrɪfʌɪ/ ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [with obj.] (often be verified) make sure or demonstrate that (something) is true, accurate, or justified: his conclusions have been verified by later experiments | [with clause] 'Can you verify that the guns are licensed?'

■Law swear to or support (a statement) by affidavit.
– DERIVATIVES verifiable adjective, verifiably adverb, verifier noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (as a legal term): from Old French verifier, from medieval Latin verificare, from verus 'true'.

verily ▶ adverb archaic truly; certainly: [sentence adverb] verily these men are mad.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from VERY + -LY[2], suggested by Old French verrai(e)ment.

verisimilitude /ˌvɛrɪsɪˈmɪlɪtjuːd/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the appearance of being true or real: the detail gives the novel some verisimilitude.
– DERIVATIVES verisimilar adjective.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin verisimilitudo, from verisimilis 'probable', from veri (genitive of verus 'true') + similis 'like'.

verismo /vɛˈrɪzməʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] realism in the arts, especially late 19th-century Italian opera.
■this genre of opera, as composed principally by Puccini, Mascagni, and Leoncavallo.
– ORIGIN Italian.

veristic /vɪəˈrɪstɪk/ ▶ adjective (of art or literature) extremely or strictly naturalistic.
– DERIVATIVES verism noun, verist noun & adjective.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin verum (neuter) 'true' or Italian vero 'true' + -IST + -IC.

veritable ▶ adjective [attrib.] used as an intensifier, often to qualify a metaphor: the early 1970s witnessed a veritable price explosion.
– DERIVATIVES veritably adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, from verite 'truth' (see VERITY). Early senses included 'true' and 'speaking the truth', later 'genuine, actual'.

vérité /ˈvɛrɪteɪ, French vɛʀite/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a genre of film, television, and radio programmes emphasizing realism and naturalism.
– ORIGIN French, literally 'truth'.

verity ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a true principle or belief, especially one of fundamental importance: the eternal verities.
■[mass noun] truth: irrefutable, objective verity.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French verite, from Latin veritas, from verus 'true'.

verjuice /ˈvəːdʒuːs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a sour juice obtained from crab apples, unripe grapes, or other fruit, used in cooking and formerly in medicine.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vertjus, from vert 'green' + jus 'juice'.

Verkhneudinsk /ˌvɛːxnjɛˈuːdɪnsk/ former name (until 1934) for ULAN-UDE.

verkrampte /fɛːˈkramptə/ (also verkramp /fɛːˈkramp/) S. African ▶ adjective politically or socially conservative or reactionary, especially as regards apartheid.
▶ noun a person holding bigoted and reactionary views.
– DERIVATIVES verkramptheid noun.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, literally 'narrow, cramped'.

Verlaine /vɛːˈlɛn, French vɛʀlɛn/, Paul (1844–96), French symbolist poet. Notable collections of poetry include Poèmes saturniens (1867), Fêtes galantes (1869), and Romances sans paroles (1874).

verligte /fɛːˈlɪxtə/ (also verlig) S. African ▶ adjective progressive or enlightened, especially as regards apartheid.
▶ noun a person holding progressive and enlightened views.
– DERIVATIVES verligtheid noun.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, literally 'enlightened'.

Vermeer /vəːˈmɪə/, Jan (1632–75), Dutch painter. He generally painted domestic genre scenes, for example The Kitchen-Maid (*c.*1658). His work is distinguished by its clear design and simple form.

vermeil /ˈvəːmeɪl, -mɪl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] [often as modifier] 1 gilded silver or bronze.
2 poetic/literary vermilion.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in sense 2): from Old French (see VERMILION). vermi- ▶ combining form of or relating to a worm or worms, especially parasitic ones: vermiform.

– ORIGIN from Latin vermis 'worm'.

vermian /ˈvəːmɪən/ ▶ adjective 1 poetic/literary relating to or resembling a worm; worm-like.
2 Anatomy of or relating to the vermis of the brain.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin vermis 'worm' + -IAN.

vermicelli /ˌvəːmɪˈtʃɛli, ˌvɛːm-, -ˈsɛli/ ▶ plural noun 1 pasta made in long slender threads.
2 Brit. shreds of chocolate used to decorate cakes or other sweet foods.
– ORIGIN Italian, plural of vermicello, diminutive of verme 'worm', from Latin vermis.

vermicide /ˈvəːmɪsʌɪd/ ▶ noun a substance that is poisonous to worms.

vermicular /vəˈmɪkjʊlə/ ▶ adjective 1 like a worm in form or movement; vermiform.
2 of, denoting, or caused by intestinal worms.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from medieval Latin vermicularis, from Latin vermiculus, diminutive of vermis 'worm'.

vermiculate /vəˈmɪkjʊlət/ ▶ adjective 1 another term for VERMICULAR.
2 another term for VERMICULATED.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin vermiculatus, past participle of vermiculari 'be full of worms' (see VERMICULAR).

vermiculated ▶ adjective 1 (especially of the plumage of a bird) marked with sinuous or wavy lines.
2 archaic worm-eaten.

vermiculite /vəˈmɪkjʊlʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a yellow or brown mineral found as an alteration product of mica and other minerals, and for insulation or as a moisture-retentive medium for growing plants.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin vermiculari 'be full of worms' (because on expansion due to heat, it shoots out forms resembling small worms) + -ITE[1].

vermiform ▶ adjective chiefly Zoology or Anatomy resembling or having the form of a worm.

vermiform appendix ▶ noun technical term for APPENDIX (in sense 1).

vermifuge /ˈvəːmɪfjuːdʒ/ ▶ noun Medicine an anthelmintic medicine.

vermilion /vəˈmɪljən/ (also vermillion) ▶ noun [mass noun] a brilliant red pigment made from mercury sulphide (cinnabar).
■a brilliant red colour: a lateral stripe of vermilion | [as modifier] vermilion streaks of sunset.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vermeillon, from vermeil, from Latin vermiculus, diminutive of vermis 'worm'.

vermin ▶ noun [treated as pl.] wild mammals and birds which are believed to be harmful to crops, farm animals, or game, or which carry disease, e.g. foxes, rodents, and insect pests.
■parasitic worms or insects. ■ figurative people perceived as despicable and as causing problems for the rest of society: the vermin who ransacked her house.
– DERIVATIVES verminous adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English (originally denoting animals such as reptiles and snakes): from Old French, based on Latin vermis 'worm'.

verminate ▶ verb [no obj.] [usu. as adj. verminating] archaic breed or become infested with vermin.
– DERIVATIVES vermination noun.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Latin verminat- 'full of worms', from the verb verminare, from vermis 'worm'.

vermis /ˈvəːmɪs/ ▶ noun Anatomy the rounded and elongated central part of the cerebellum, between the two hemispheres.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin, literally 'worm'.

Vermont /vəˈmɒnt/ a state in the north-eastern US, on the border with Canada; pop. 562,760 (1990); capital, Montpelier. Explored and settled by the French during the 17th and 18th centuries, it became an independent republic in 1777 and the 14th state of the US in 1791.
– DERIVATIVES Vermonter noun.

vermouth /ˈvəːməθ, vəˈmuːθ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a red or white wine flavoured with aromatic herbs, chiefly made in France and Italy and drunk mixed with gin.
– ORIGIN from French vermout, from German Wermut 'wormwood'.

vernaccia /vəˈnatʃə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a variety of wine grape grown in the San Gimignano area of Italy and in Sardinia.
■a strong dry white wine made from this grape.
– ORIGIN Italian.

vernacular /vəˈnakjʊlə/ ▶ noun 1 (usu. the vernacular) the language or dialect spoken by the ordinary people in a particular country or region: he wrote in the vernacular to reach a larger audience.
■[with adj. or noun modifier] informal the terminology used by people belonging to a specified group or engaging in a specialized activity: [mass noun] gardening vernacular.
2 [mass noun] architecture concerned with domestic and functional rather than monumental buildings: buildings in which Gothic merged into farmhouse vernacular.
▶ adjective 1 (of language) spoken as one's mother tongue; not learned or imposed as a second language.
■(of speech or written works) using such a language: vernacular literature.
2 (of architecture) concerned with domestic and functional rather than monumental buildings.
– DERIVATIVES vernacularism noun, vernacularity noun, vernacularize (also -ise) verb, vernacularly adverb.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin vernaculus 'domestic, native' (from verna 'home-born slave') + -AR[1].

vernal /ˈvəːn(ə)l/ ▶ adjective of, in, or appropriate to spring: the vernal freshness of the land.
– DERIVATIVES vernally adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin vernalis, from vernus 'of the spring', from ver 'spring'.

vernal equinox ▶ noun another term for SPRING EQUINOX.
■Astronomy another term for First Point of Aries (see ARIES).

vernal grass (also sweet vernal grass) ▶ noun [mass noun] a sweet-scented Eurasian grass which is sometimes grown as a meadow or hay grass.
● Anthoxanthum odoratum, family Gramineae.

vernalization (also -isation) ▶ noun [mass noun] the cooling of seed during germination in order to accelerate flowering when it is planted.
– DERIVATIVES vernalize (also -ise) verb.
– ORIGIN 1930s: translation of Russian yarovizatsiya.

vernation /vəːˈneɪʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Botany the arrangement of bud scales or young leaves in a leaf bud before it opens. Compare with AESTIVATION.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from modern Latin vernatio(n-), from Latin vernare 'to grow (as in the spring)', from vernus (see VERNAL).

Verne /vəːn/, Jules (1828–1905), French novelist. One of the first writers of science fiction, he often anticipated later scientific and technological developments, as in Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Sea (1870). Other novels include Around the World in Eighty Days (1873).

Verner's Law /ˈvɛːnəz, ˈvəːnəz/ Linguistics the observation that voiceless fricatives in Germanic predicted by Grimm's Law became voiced if the preceding syllable in the corresponding Indo-European word was unstressed.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after Karl A. Verner (1846–96), Danish philologist.

verneuk /fə(r)ˈnjuːk/ ▶ verb [with obj.] S. African informal swindle: it was just a ruse to verneuk them.
– DERIVATIVES verneuker noun.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, from Dutch verneuken.

vernicle /ˈvəːnɪk(ə)l/ ▶ noun another term for VERONICA (in sense 2).
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, alteration of vernique, from medieval Latin veronica.

vernier /ˈvəːnɪə/ ▶ noun a small movable graduated scale for obtaining fractional parts of subdivisions on a fixed main scale of a barometer, sextant, or other measuring instrument.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: named after Pierre Vernier (1580–1637), French mathematician.

vernier engine ▶ noun another term for THRUSTER (on a spacecraft).
– ORIGIN mid 20th cent.: named after P. Vernier (see VERNIER).

vernissage /ˌvɛːnɪˈsɑːʒ/ ▶ noun (pl. pronounced same) a private view of paintings before public exhibition.
– ORIGIN French, literally 'varnishing', originally referring to the day prior to an exhibition when artists were allowed to retouch and varnish hung work.

vernix /ˈvəːnɪks/ ▶ noun (in full vernix caseosa /ˌkeɪsɪˈəʊsə/) [mass noun] a greasy deposit covering the skin of a baby at birth.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from medieval Latin, variant of veronix 'fragrant resin' (see VARNISH).

Verny /'vɛ:ni/ former name (until 1921) for ALMATY.

Vero board /'vɛrəʊ, 'vɪərəʊ/ ▶ noun Brit. trademark a type of board used to make electronic circuits, where some of the electrical connections are formed by strips of copper on the underside of the board.

Verona /və'rəʊnə/ a city on the River Adige, in NE Italy; pop. 258,950 (1990).

veronal /'vɛrən(ə)l/ ▶ noun another term for BARBITONE.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from German, from VERONA + -AL.

Veronese /ˌvɛrə'neɪzeɪ, -zi/, Paolo (*c.*1528–88), Italian painter; born Paolo Caliari. He gained many commissions in Venice, including the painting of frescoes in the Doges' Palace. He is particularly known for his richly coloured feast scenes (for example The Marriage at Cana, 1562).

veronica ▶ noun 1 a herbaceous plant of north temperate regions, typically with upright stems bearing narrow pointed leaves and spikes of blue or purple flowers.

● Genus Veronica, family Scrophulariaceae: many species, including the speedwells.

2 a cloth supposedly impressed with an image of Christ's face. [ORIGIN: see VERONICA, ST.]

■ a picture of Christ's face similar to this.

3 the movement of a matador's cape away from a charging bull. [ORIGIN: said to be by association of the attitude of the matador with the depiction of St Veronica holding out a cloth to Christ (see VERONICA, ST).]

– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from medieval Latin, from the given name Veronica.

Veronica, St /və'rɒnɪkə/ (in the Bible) a woman of Jerusalem who offered her headcloth to Christ on the way to Calvary, to wipe the blood and sweat from his face. The cloth is said to have retained the image of his features.

veronique /ˌvɛrə'ni:k/ ▶ adjective [postpositive] denoting a dish, typically of fish or chicken, prepared or garnished with grapes.

– ORIGIN from the French given name Véronique.

Verrazano-Narrows Bridge /ˌvɛrə'zɑ:nəʊ/ a suspension bridge across New York harbour between Brooklyn and Staten Island, the longest in the world when it was completed in 1964.

– ORIGIN named after Giovanni da Verrazano (1485–1528), Italian explorer.

verre églomisé /vɛ: ˌeɪglɒmi:'zeɪ, French vɛʀ eglɔmize/ ▶ noun [mass noun] glass decorated on the back with engraved gold or silver leaf or paint.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: French, from verre 'glass' + églomisé, from Glomy, the name of an 18th-cent. Parisian picture-framer.

verruca /və'ru:kə/ ▶ noun (pl. verrucae /-ki:, -si:/ or verrucas) a contagious and usually painful wart on the sole of the foot; a plantar wart.

■ (in medical use) a wart of any kind.

– DERIVATIVES verrucose /'vɛrʊkəʊz, və'ru:-/ adjective, verrucous /'vɛrʊkəs, və'ru:-/ adjective.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin.

Versace /vɛ:'sɑ:tʃeɪ, -tʃi, Italian ver'satʃe/, Gianni (1946–97), Italian fashion designer. He was shot dead outside his home in Miami.

Versailles /vɛ:'saɪ/ a palace built for Louis XIV near the town of Versailles, south-west of Paris. It was built around a château belonging to Louis XIII, which was transformed by additions in the grand French classical style.

Versailles, Treaty of 1 a treaty which terminated the War of American Independence in 1783.

2 a treaty signed in 1919 which brought a formal end to the First World War.

The treaty redivided the territory of the defeated Central Powers, restricted Germany's armed forces, and established the League of Nations. It left Germany smarting under what it considered a vindictive settlement while not sufficiently restricting its ability eventually to rearm and seek forcible redress.

versal /'vɜ:s(ə)l/ ▶ adjective of or relating to a style of ornate capital letter used to start a verse, paragraph, etc., in a manuscript, typically built up by inking between pen strokes and with long, rather flat serifs.

▶ noun a versal letter.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin vers- 'turned' + -AL, influenced by VERSE.

versant /'vɜ:s(ə)nt/ ▶ noun a region of land sloping in one general direction.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from French, present participle (used as a noun) of verser 'tilt over', from Latin versare.

versatile ▶ adjective 1 able to adapt or be adapted to many different functions or activities: a versatile sewing machine | he was versatile enough to play on either wing.

2 archaic changeable; inconstant.

– DERIVATIVES versatilely adverb, versatility noun.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (in the sense 'inconstant, fluctuating'): from French, or from Latin versatilis, from versat- 'turned about, revolved', from the verb versare, frequentative of vertere 'to turn'.

vers de société /ˌvɛ də səʊsɪeɪ'teɪ, sɒ-, French vɛʀ də sɔsjete/ ▶ noun [mass noun] verse dealing with topics provided by polite society in a light, witty style.

– ORIGIN French, literally 'verse of society'.

verse ▶ noun [mass noun] writing arranged with a metrical rhythm, typically having a rhyme: a lament in verse | [as modifier] verse drama.

■ [count noun] a group of lines that form a unit in a poem or song; a stanza: the second verse. ■ [count noun] each of the short numbered divisions of a chapter in the Bible or other scripture. ■ [count noun] a versicle. ■ [count noun] archaic a line of poetry. ■ [count noun] a passage in an anthem for a soloist or a small group of voices.

▶ verb [no obj.] archaic speak in or compose verse; versify.

– DERIVATIVES verseless noun.

– ORIGIN Old English fers, from Latin versus 'a turn of the plough, a furrow, a line of writing', from vertere 'to turn'; reinforced in Middle English by Old French vers, from Latin versus.

versed ▶ adjective (versed in) experienced or skilled in; knowledgeable about: a solicitor well versed in employment law.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French versé or Latin versatus, past participle of versari 'be engaged in'.

versed sine ▶ noun Mathematics unity minus cosine.

■ Architecture the rise of an arch of a bridge.

verset /'vɜ:sɪt/ ▶ noun Music a short prelude or interlude for organ.

– ORIGIN Middle English (denoting a versicle): from Old French, diminutive of vers 'verse'.

versicle /'vɜ:sɪk(ə)l/ ▶ noun (usu. versicles) a short sentence said or sung by the minister in a church service, to which the congregation gives a response.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French versicule or Latin versiculus, diminutive of versus (see VERSE).

versicoloured /'vɜ:sɪˌkʌləd/ (US versicolored) ▶ adjective archaic 1 changing from one colour to another in different lights.

2 variegated.

– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin versicolor (from versus 'turned' + color 'colour') + -ED².

versify ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [with obj.] turn into or express in verse: it was never suggested that Wordsworth should simply versify Coleridge's ideas | [as noun versifying] a talent for versifying.

– DERIVATIVES versification noun, versifier noun.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French versifier, from Latin versificare, from versus (see VERSE).

versin /'vɜ:sɪn, -saɪn/ (also versine) ▶ noun Mathematics another term for VERSED SINE.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: abbreviation.

version ▶ noun 1 a particular form of something differing in certain respects from an earlier form or other forms of the same type of thing: a revised version of the paper was produced for a later meeting. | they produce yachts in both standard and master versions.

■ a particular edition or translation of a book or other work: the English version will be published next year. ■ [usu. with modifier] an adaptation of a novel, piece of music, etc. into another medium or style: a film version of a wonderfully funny cult novel. ■ a particular updated edition of a piece of computer software. ■ an account of a matter from a particular person's point of view: he told her his version of events.

2 [mass noun] Medicine the manual turning of a fetus in the womb to make delivery easier.

– DERIVATIVES versional adjective.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'translation'): from French, or from medieval Latin versio(n-), from Latin vertere 'to turn'.

vers libre /vɛ: 'li:br(ə), French vɛʀ libʀ/ ▶ noun another term for FREE VERSE.

– ORIGIN French, literally 'free verse'.

verso /'vɜ:səʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) 1 a left-hand page of an open book, or the back of a loose document. Contrasted with RECTO.

2 the reverse of something such as a coin or painting.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin verso (folio) 'on the turned (leaf)'.

verst /vɜ:st/ ▶ noun a Russian measure of length, about 1.1 km (0.66 mile).

– ORIGIN from Russian versta.

Verstehen /fɛ:'ʃteɪən, German fɛɐ'ʃte:ən/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Sociology empathic understanding of human behaviour.

– ORIGIN German, literally 'understanding'.

versus (abbrev.: v, v., or vs) ▶ preposition against (especially in sporting and legal use): England versus Australia.

■ as opposed to; in contrast to: weighing up the pros and cons of organic versus inorganic produce.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from a medieval Latin use of Latin versus 'towards'.

vert /vɜ:t/ ▶ noun [mass noun] green, as a heraldic tincture: [postpositive] three piles vert.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (as an adjective): via Old French from Latin viridis 'green'.

vertebra /'vɜ:tɪbrə/ ▶ noun (pl. vertebrae /-breɪ, -bri:/) each of the series of small bones forming the backbone, having several projections for articulation and muscle attachment, and a hole through which the spinal cord passes.

In the human spine (or vertebral column) there are seven cervical vertebrae (in the neck), twelve thoracic vertebrae (to which the ribs are attached), and five lumbar vertebrae (in the lower back). In addition, five fused vertebrae form the sacrum, and four the coccyx.

– DERIVATIVES vertebral adjective.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin, from vertere 'to turn'.

vertebral column ▶ noun another term for SPINAL COLUMN.

vertebrate /'vɜ:tɪbrət/ ▶ noun an animal of a large group distinguished by the possession of a backbone or spinal column, including mammals, birds, reptiles, amphibians, and fishes. Compare with INVERTEBRATE.

● Subphylum Vertebrata, phylum Chordata: seven classes.

▶ adjective of or relating to the vertebrates.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin vertebratus 'jointed', from vertebra (see VERTEBRA).

vertex /'vɜ:tɛks/ ▶ noun (pl. vertices /-tɪsi:z/ or vertexes) 1 the highest point; the top or apex.

■ Anatomy the crown of the head.

2 Geometry each angular point of a polygon, polyhedron, or other figure.

■ a meeting point of two lines that form an angle. ■ the point at which an axis meets a curve or surface.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin, 'whirlpool, crown of a head, vertex', from vertere 'to turn'.

vertical ▶ adjective 1 at right angles to a horizontal plane; in a direction, or having an alignment, such that the top is directly above the bottom: the vertical axis | keep your back vertical.

2 archaic denoting a point at the zenith or the highest point of something.

3 Anatomy of or relating to the crown of the head.

4 involving different levels of a hierarchy or progression, in particular:

■ involving all the stages from the production to the sale of a class of goods. ■ (especially of the transmission of disease or genetic traits) passed from one generation to the next.

▶ noun 1 (usu. the vertical) a vertical line or plane: the columns incline several degrees away from the vertical.

2 an upright structure: we remodelled the opening with a simple lintel and unadorned verticals.

3 short for VERTICAL TASTING.

4 the distance between the highest and lowest points of a ski area: the resort claims a vertical of 2100 metres.

– DERIVATIVES verticality noun, verticalize (also -ise) verb, vertically adverb.

– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (in the sense 'directly overhead'): from French, or from late Latin verticalis, from vertex (see VERTEX).

vertical angles ▶ plural noun Mathematics each of the pairs of opposite angles made by two intersecting lines.

vertical fin ▶ noun Zoology any of the unpaired fins in the midline of a fish's body, i.e. a dorsal, anal, or caudal fin.

vertical integration ▶ noun [mass noun] the combination in one firm of two or more stages of production normally operated by separate firms.

vertical market ▶ noun a market comprising all the potential purchasers in a particular occupation or industry.

vertical stabilizer ▶ noun Aeronautics US term for FIN.

vertical tasting ▶ noun a tasting in order of year of several different vintages of a particular wine.

vertical thinking ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly Brit. the solving of problems using conventional logical processes. Contrasted with LATERAL THINKING.

verticillium /ˌvəːtɪˈsɪlɪəm/ ▶ noun a fungus of a genus which includes a number that cause wilt in plants.

• Genus Verticillium, subdivision Deuteromycotina, in particular V. albo-atrum and V. dahliae.

■ [mass noun] wilt caused by such fungi.

– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin verticillus 'whorl of a spindle'.

vertiginous /vəːˈtɪdʒɪnəs/ ▶ adjective causing vertigo, especially by being extremely high or steep: vertiginous drops to the valleys below.

■ relating to or affected by vertigo.

– DERIVATIVES vertiginously adverb.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin vertiginosus, from vertigo 'whirling about' (see VERTIGO).

vertigo /ˈvəːtɪgəʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a sensation of whirling and loss of balance, associated particularly with looking down from a great height, or caused by disease affecting the inner ear or the vestibular nerve; giddiness.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin, 'whirling', from vertere 'to turn'.

vertisol /ˈvəːtɪsɒl/ ▶ noun Soil Science a clayey soil with little organic matter which occurs in regions having distinct wet and dry seasons.

– ORIGIN 1960s: from VERTICAL + Latin solum 'soil'.

vertu ▶ noun variant spelling of VIRTU.

Verulamium /ˌvɛrʊˈleɪmɪəm/ Roman name for ST ALBANS.

vervain /ˈvəːvɛɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a widely distributed herbaceous plant with small blue, white, or purple flowers and a long history of use as a magical and medicinal herb.

• Verbena officinalis, family Verbenaceae.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French verveine, from Latin verbena (see VERBENA).

verve ▶ noun [mass noun] vigour and spirit or enthusiasm: Kollo sings with supreme verve and flexibility.

– ORIGIN late 17th cent. (denoting special talent in writing): from French, 'vigour', earlier 'form of expression', from Latin verba 'words'.

vervet /ˈvəːvɪt/ (also vervet monkey) ▶ noun a common African guenon with greenish-brown upper parts and a black face. Compare with GREEN MONKEY, GRIVET.

• Cercopithecus aethiops, family Cercopithecidae, in particular the race C. a. pygerythrus of southern and eastern Africa.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from French, of unknown origin.

Verviers /ˈvɛːvɪeɪ, French vɛʀvje/ a manufacturing town in eastern Belgium; pop 53,480. (1991).

Verwoerd /fəˈvʊət/, Hendrik (Frensch) (1901–66), South African statesman, Prime Minister 1958–66. As Minister of Bantu Affairs (1950–8) he developed the segregation policy of apartheid. As Premier he banned the ANC and the Pan-Africanist Congress in 1960, following the Sharpeville massacre. He withdrew South Africa from the Commonwealth and declared it a republic in 1961.

Verwoerdian /fəˈvʊədɪən/ ▶ adjective S. African of or relating to grand apartheid, especially as it involved geographically based racial segregation.

very ▶ adverb used for emphasis:

■ in a high degree: very large | very quickly | very much so. ■ [with superlative or own] used to emphasize that the following description applies without qualification: the very best quality | his very own car.

▶ adjective actual; precise (used to emphasize the exact identity of a particular person or thing): those were his very words | he might be phoning her at this very moment | transformed before our very eyes.

■ emphasizing an extreme point in time or space: from the very beginning of the book | at the very back of the skull. ■ with no addition of or contribution from anything else; mere: the very thought of drink made him feel sick. ■ archaic real, genuine: the very God of Heaven.

– PHRASES not very 1 in a low degree: 'Bad news?' 'Not very.' 2 far from being: I'm not very impressed. the very idea! see IDEA. the very same see SAME. very good (or well) an expression of consent.

– ORIGIN Middle English (as an adjective in the sense 'real, genuine'): from Old French verai, based on Latin verus 'true'.

Very light /ˈvɛri, ˈvɪəri/ ▶ noun a flare fired into the air from a pistol for signalling or for temporary illumination.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: named after Edward W. Very (1847–1910), American naval officer.

Very pistol /ˈvɛri, ˈvɪəri/ ▶ noun a hand-held gun used for firing a Very light.

Very Reverend ▶ noun a title given to a dean in the Anglican Church: the Very Reverend James Wilkins.

VESA ▶ abbreviation for Video Electronics Standards Association, a US-based organization that defines formats for displays and buses used in computers.

Vesak /ˈvɛsak/ (also Wesak or Visākha) ▶ noun [mass noun] the most important Buddhist festival, taking place at the full moon when the sun is in the zodiacal sign of Taurus, and commemorating the birth, enlightenment, and death of the Buddha.

■ the month in which this festival occurs.

– ORIGIN Sinhalese vesak, via Pali from Sanskrit vaiśākha, denoting the month April–May.

Vesalius /vɪˈseɪlɪəs/, Andreas (1514–64), Flemish anatomist, the founder of modern anatomy. His major work, De Humani Corporis Fabrica (1543), contained accurate descriptions of human anatomy, but owed much of its great historical impact to the woodcuts of his dissections.

vesical /ˈvɛsɪk(ə)l, ˈviː-/ ▶ adjective Anatomy & Medicine of, relating to, or affecting the urinary bladder: vesical function | the vesical artery.

– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Latin vesica 'bladder' + -AL.

vesicant /ˈvɛsɪkənt, ˈviː-/ ▶ adjective tending to cause blistering.

▶ noun an agent that causes blistering.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from late Latin vesicant- 'forming pustules', from the verb vesicare, from vesica 'bladder'.

vesica piscis /ˌvɛsɪkə ˈpɪskɪs, ˈviː-/ ▶ noun (pl. vesicae /ˈvɛsɪkiː, ˈviː-/) a pointed oval figure used as an architectural feature and as an aureole enclosing figures such as Christ or the Virgin Mary in medieval art. Also called MANDORLA.

– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'fish's bladder'.

vesicate /ˈvɛsɪkeɪt, ˈviː-/ ▶ verb [with obj.] chiefly Medicine raise blisters on.

■ [no obj.] form blisters.

– DERIVATIVES vesication noun, vesicatory adjective & noun.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from late Latin vesicat- 'having pustules', from vesica 'bladder'.

vesicle /ˈvɛsɪk(ə)l, ˈviː-/ ▶ noun a fluid- or air-filled cavity or sac, in particular:

■ Anatomy & Zoology a small fluid-filled bladder, sac, cyst, or vacuole within the body. ■ Botany an air-filled swelling in a plant, especially a seaweed. ■ Geology a small cavity in volcanic rock, produced by gas bubbles. ■ Medicine a small blister full of clear fluid.

– DERIVATIVES vesicular adjective, vesiculated adjective, vesiculation noun.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from French vésicule or Latin vesicula, diminutive of vesica 'bladder'.

vesicoureteric reflux /ˌvɛsɪkəʊjʊərɪˈtɛrɪk, ˈviː-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine flow of urine from the bladder back into the ureters, arising from defective valves and causing a high risk of kidney infection.

– ORIGIN mid 20th cent.: vesicoureteric from Latin vesica 'bladder' + ureteric (see URETER).

Vespasian /vɛˈspeɪʒ(ə)n/ (AD 9–79), Roman emperor 69–79 and founder of the Flavian dynasty; Latin name Titus Flavius Vespasianus. He was acclaimed emperor by the legions in Egypt during the civil wars following the death of Nero and gained control of Italy after the defeat of Vitellius. His reign saw the restoration of financial and military order and the initiation of a public building programme.

vesper ▶ noun evening prayer: [as modifier] vesper service. See also VESPERS.

■ archaic evening. ■ (Vesper) poetic/literary Venus as the evening star.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin vesper 'evening (star)'.

vesper rat ▶ noun an arboreal and nocturnal South American rat which builds nests in trees.

• Genera Nyctomys and Otonyctomys, family Muridae.

vespers ▶ noun a service of evening prayer in the Divine Office of the Western Christian Church (sometimes said earlier in the day).

■ a service of evening prayer in other churches.

– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from Old French vespres 'evensong', from Latin vesperas (accusative plural), on the pattern of matutinas 'matins'.

vesper sparrow ▶ noun a small North American songbird related to the buntings, having streaked brown plumage and known for its evening song.

• Pooecetes gramineus, family Emberizidae (subfamily Emberizidae).

vespertilionid /ˌvɛspətɪlɪˈɒnɪd/ ▶ noun Zoology a bat of a large family (Vespertilionidae) that includes most of the typical insectivorous bats of northern temperate regions.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from modern Latin Vespertilionidae (plural), from Latin vespertilio 'bat'.

vespertine /ˈvɛspətʌɪn, -tɪn/ ▶ adjective technical or poetic/literary of, relating to, occurring, or active in the evening.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin vespertinus, from vesper 'evening'.

Vespucci /vɛˈspuːtʃi/, Amerigo (1451–1512), Italian merchant and explorer. He travelled to the New World, reaching the coast of Venezuela on his first voyage (1499–1500) and exploring the Brazilian coastline in 1501–2. The Latin form of his first name is believed to have given rise to the name of America.

vessel ▶ noun 1 a ship or large boat.

2 a hollow container, especially one used to hold liquid, such as a bowl or cask.

■ (chiefly in or alluding to biblical use) a person, especially regarded as holding or embodying a particular quality: giving honour unto the wife, as unto the weaker vessel.

3 Anatomy & Zoology a duct or canal holding or conveying blood or other fluid. See also BLOOD VESSEL.

■ Botany any of the tubular structures in the vascular system of a plant, serving to conduct water and mineral nutrients from the root.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French vessel(e), from late Latin vascellum, diminutive of vas 'vessel'.

vest ▶ noun 1 Brit. an undergarment worn on the upper part of the body, typically having no sleeves.

2 a similar garment worn on the upper part of the body for a particular purpose or activity: a running vest | a bulletproof vest.

■ US & Austral. a waistcoat or sleeveless jacket. ■ a piece of material showing at the neck of a woman's dress.

▶ verb 1 [with obj.] (usu. be vested in) confer or bestow (power, authority, property, etc.) on someone: executive power is vested in the President.

■ (usu. be vested with) give (someone) the legal right to power, property, etc.: the socialists came to be vested with the power of legislation. ■ [no obj.] (vest in) (of power, property, etc.) come into the possession of: the bankrupt's property vests in his trustee.

2 [no obj.] (of a chorister or member of the clergy) put on vestments.

■ [with obj.] poetic/literary dress (someone): the Speaker vested him with a rich purple robe.

– PHRASES play (or keep) one's cards close to one's vest see CHEST.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (as a verb): from Old French vestu 'clothed', past participle of vestir, from Latin vestire; the noun (early 17th cent., denoting a loose outer garment) from French veste, via Italian from Latin vestis 'garment'.

Vesta 1 Roman Mythology the goddess of the hearth and household. Her temple in Rome contained no image but a fire which was kept constantly burning and was tended by the Vestal Virgins.

2 Astronomy asteroid 4, discovered in 1807. It is the brightest asteroid and the third largest (diameter 501 km), and appears to consist of basaltic rock.

vesta ▶ noun chiefly historical a short wooden or wax match.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from the name of the goddess VESTA.

vestal ▶ adjective of or relating to the Roman goddess Vesta: a vestal temple.
■ poetic/literary chaste; pure.
▶ noun a vestal virgin.
■ poetic/literary a chaste woman, especially a nun.

Vestal Virgin (also vestal virgin) ▶ noun (in ancient Rome) a virgin consecrated to Vesta and vowed to chastity, sharing the charge of maintaining the sacred fire burning on the goddess's altar.

vested interest ▶ noun [usu. in sing.] a personal stake or involvement in an undertaking or state of affairs, especially one with an expectation of financial gain: banks have a vested interest in the growth of their customers.
■ a person or group having such a personal stake or involvement: the problem is that the authorities are a vested interest. ■ Law an interest (usually in land or money held in trust) recognized as belonging to a particular person.

vestee ▶ noun North American term for WAISTCOAT.

Vesterålen /ˈvɛstəˌrɔːlən/ a group of islands of Norway, north of the Arctic Circle.

vestiary /ˈvɛstɪəri/ ▶ adjective poetic/literary of or relating to clothes or dress.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) a room or building in a monastery or other large establishment in which clothes are kept.
– ORIGIN Middle English (denoting a vestry): from Old French vestiarie, from Latin vestiarium (see VESTRY).

vestibular /vɛˈstɪbjʊlə/ ▶ adjective chiefly Anatomy of or relating to a vestibule, particularly that of the inner ear, or more generally to the sense of balance.

vestibule /ˈvɛstɪbjuːl/ ▶ noun 1 an antechamber, hall, or lobby next to the outer door of a building.
■ an enclosed entrance compartment in a railway carriage.
2 Anatomy a chamber or channel communicating with or opening into another, in particular:
■ the central cavity of the labyrinth of the inner ear. ■ the part of the mouth outside the teeth. ■ the space in the vulva into which both the urethra and vagina open.
– DERIVATIVES vestibuled adjective.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (denoting the space in front of the main entrance of a Roman or Greek building): from French, or from Latin vestibulum 'entrance court'.

vestibulocochlear nerve /vɛˌstɪbjʊləʊˈkɒklɪə/ ▶ noun Anatomy each of the eighth pair of cranial nerves, conveying sensory impulses from the organs of hearing and balance in the inner ear to the brain. The vestibulocochlear nerve on each side branches into the vestibular nerve and the cochlear nerve.

vestibulo-ocular reflex /vɛˌstɪbjʊləʊˈɒkjʊlə/ ▶ noun the reflex by which balance is maintained when the visual field is in motion.

vestige /ˈvɛstɪdʒ/ ▶ noun a trace of something that is disappearing or no longer exists: the last vestiges of colonialism.
■ [usu. with negative] the smallest amount (used to emphasize the absence of something): he waited patiently, but without a vestige of sympathy. ■ Biology a part or organ of an organism which has become reduced or functionless in the course of evolution.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from French, from Latin vestigium 'footprint'.

vestigial /vɛˈstɪdʒɪəl, -dʒ(ə)l/ ▶ adjective forming a very small remnant of something that was once much larger or more noticeable: he felt a vestigial flicker of anger from last night.
■ Biology (of an organ or part of the body) degenerate, rudimentary, or atrophied, having become functionless in the course of evolution: the vestigial wings of kiwis are entirely hidden.
– DERIVATIVES vestigially adverb.

vestimentary /ˌvɛstɪˈmɛnt(ə)ri/ ▶ adjective formal of or relating to clothing or dress: lack of vestimentary rigour.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin vestimentum 'clothing' + -ARY[1].

vestimentiferan /ˌvɛstɪmɛnˈtɪfərən/ ▶ noun Zoology a very large marine worm which lives in upright tubes near hydrothermal vents, subsisting on the products of chemoautotrophic bacteria.
● Order Vestimentifera, phylum Pogonophora; sometimes regarded as a separate phylum.
– ORIGIN late 20th cent.: from modern Latin Vestimentifera (from Latin vestimentum 'clothing' + -fer 'bearing') + -AN.

vestiture /ˈvɛstɪtjə, -tʃə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] archaic clothing.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: based on Latin vestire 'clothe'.

Vestmannaeyjar /ˌvɛstmanəˈeɪjɑːr/ Icelandic name for WESTMANN ISLANDS.

vestment ▶ noun (usu. vestments) a chasuble or other robe worn by the clergy or choristers during services.
■ archaic a garment, especially a ceremonial or official robe.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vestiment, from Latin vestimentum, from vestire 'clothe' (see VEST).

vest-pocket ▶ adjective [attrib.] N. Amer. (especially of a reference book) small enough to fit into a pocket: a series of popular vest-pocket dictionaries.
■ very small in size or scale: a vest-pocket park.

vestry ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a room or building attached to a church, used as an office and for changing into ceremonial vestments.
■ a meeting of parishioners, originally in a vestry, for the conduct of parochial business.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: probably from an Anglo-Norman French alteration of Old French vestiarie, from Latin vestiarium.

vestryman ▶ noun (pl. -men) a member of a parochial vestry.

vesture ▶ noun [mass noun] poetic/literary clothing; dress: a man garbed in ancient vesture.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, based on Latin vestire 'clothe'.

vesuvianite /vɪˈsuːvɪənʌɪt/ ▶ noun another term for IDOCRASE.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from VESUVIUS + -AN + -ITE[1].

Vesuvius /vɪˈsuːvɪəs/ an active volcano near Naples, in southern Italy, 1,277 m (4,190 ft) high. A violent eruption in AD 79 buried the towns of Pompeii and Herculaneum.

vet[1] ▶ noun a veterinary surgeon.
▶ verb (vetted, vetting) [with obj.] make a careful and critical examination of (something): proposals for vetting large takeover bids.
■ (often be vetted) Brit. investigate (someone) thoroughly, especially in order to ensure that they are suitable for a job requiring secrecy, loyalty, or trustworthiness: each applicant will be vetted by police | [as noun vetting] the vetting of people who work with children.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent: abbreviation of VETERINARY or VETERINARIAN.

vet[2] ▶ noun N. Amer. informal a veteran.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: abbreviation.

vetch ▶ noun a widely distributed scrambling herbaceous plant of the pea family, which is cultivated as a silage or fodder crop. See also TARE[1].
● Genus Vicia, family Leguminosae: several species, in particular the European common vetch (V. sativa).
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French veche, from Latin vicia.

vetchling ▶ noun a widely distributed scrambling plant related to the vetches, typically having fewer leaflets.
● Genus Lathyrus, family Leguminosae.

veteran ▶ noun a person who has had long experience in a particular field, especially military service: a veteran of two world wars.
■ an ex-serviceman or -servicewoman.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from French vétéran or Latin veteranus, from vetus 'old'.

veteran car ▶ noun Brit. an old style or model of car, specifically one made before 1916, or (strictly) before 1905. Compare with VINTAGE CAR.

Veterans Day ▶ noun (in the US) a public holiday held on the anniversary of the end of the First World War (11 November) to honour US veterans and victims of all wars. It replaced Armistice Day in 1954.

veterinarian /ˌvɛt(ə)rɪˈnɛːrɪən/ ▶ noun North American term for VETERINARY SURGEON.

veterinary /ˈvɛt(ə)rɪn(ə)ri, ˈvɛt(ə)nri/ ▶ adjective of or relating to the diseases, injuries, and treatment of farm and domestic animals: a veterinary nurse.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) dated a veterinary surgeon.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Latin veterinarius, from veterinae 'cattle'.

veterinary surgeon ▶ noun Brit. a person qualified to treat diseased or injured animals.

vetiver /ˈvɛtɪvə/ (also vetivert) ▶ noun [mass noun] a fragrant extract or essential oil obtained from the root of an Indian grass, used in perfumery and aromatherapy.
● The grass is Vetiveria zizanioides, family Gramineae.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from French vétiver, from Tamil veṭṭivēr, from vēr 'root'.

vetkoek /ˈfɛtkʊk/ ▶ noun (pl. same, vetkoeks, or vetkoeke) S. African a small, unsweetened cake of deep-fried dough.
■ [mass noun] deep-fried dough.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, from vet 'fat' + koek 'cake'.

veto /ˈviːtəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -oes) a constitutional right to reject a decision or proposal made by a law-making body: the legislature would have a veto over appointments to key posts.
■ such a rejection. ■ a prohibition: his veto on our drinking after the meal was annoying.
▶ verb (-oes, -oed) [with obj.] exercise a veto against (a decision or proposal made by a law-making body): the president vetoed the bill.
■ refuse to accept or allow: the film star often has a right to veto the pictures used for publicity.
– DERIVATIVES vetoer noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin, literally 'I forbid', used by Roman tribunes of the people when opposing measures of the Senate.

vex ▶ verb [with obj.] make (someone) feel annoyed, frustrated, or worried, especially with trivial matters: the memory of the conversation still vexed him | [as adj. vexing] the most vexing questions for policy-makers.
■ [no obj.] W. Indian be annoyed, irritated, or unhappy. ■ archaic cause distress to: thou shalt not vex a stranger.
▶ adjective chiefly W. Indian angry; annoyed: I ain't vex with you.
– DERIVATIVES vexer noun, vexingly adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French vexer, from Latin vexare 'shake, disturb'.

vexation ▶ noun [mass noun] the state of being annoyed, frustrated, or worried: Jenna bit her lip in vexation.
■ [count noun] something that causes annoyance, frustration, or worry: the new VAT rules have brought vexations in their wake.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, or from Latin vexatio(n-), from vexare (see VEX).

vexatious ▶ adjective causing or tending to cause annoyance, frustration, or worry: the vexatious questions posed by software copyrights.
■ Law denoting an action or the bringer of an action that is brought without sufficient grounds for winning, purely to cause annoyance to the defendant.
– DERIVATIVES vexatiously adverb, vexatiousness noun.

vexed ▶ adjective 1 [attrib.] (of a problem or issue) difficult and much debated; problematic: the vexed question of exactly how much money the government is going to spend.
2 annoyed, frustrated, or worried: I'm very vexed with you!
– DERIVATIVES vexedly adverb.

vexillology /ˌvɛksɪˈlɒlədʒi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the study of flags.
– DERIVATIVES vexillological adjective, vexillologist noun.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from Latin vexillum 'flag' + -LOGY.

vexillum /vɛkˈsɪləm/ ▶ noun (pl. vexilla /-lə/) 1 a Roman military standard or banner, especially one of a maniple. [ORIGIN: Latin, from vehere 'carry'.]
■ a body of troops under such a standard. ■ a flag attached to a bishop's staff. ■ a processional banner or cross.
2 Botany the standard of a papilionaceous flower.
3 Ornithology the vane of a feather.

VFR ▶ abbreviation for visual flight rules, used to regulate the flying and navigating of an aircraft under conditions of good visibility.

VG ▶ abbreviation for ■ very good. ■ Vicar General.

VGA ▶ abbreviation for videographics array, a standard for defining colour display screens for computers.

vgc ▶ abbreviation for very good condition (used in advertisements).

VHF ▶ abbreviation for very high frequency (denoting radio waves of a frequency of *c.*30–300 MHz and a wavelength of *c.*1–10 metres).

VHS trademark ▶ abbreviation for video home system, denoting the video system and tape used by domestic video recorders and some camcorders.

VHS-C trademark ▶ abbreviation for VHS compact, denoting a video system used by some camcorders, which records signals in VHS format on smaller video cassettes.

VI ▶ abbreviation for Virgin Islands.

via ▶ preposition travelling through (a place) en route to a destination: came to Europe via Turkey.
■ by way of; through: most people buy a home with a mortgage via a building society. ■ by means of: a file sent via electronic mail.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Latin, ablative of via 'way, road'.

Via Appia /ˌviːə ˈapɪə, ˌvaɪə/ Latin name for APPIAN WAY.

viable /ˈvaɪəb(ə)l/ ▶ adjective capable of working successfully; feasible: the proposed investment was economically viable.
■ Botany (of a seed or spore) able to germinate. ■ Biology (of a plant, animal, or cell) capable of surviving or living successfully, especially under particular environmental conditions. ■ Medicine (of a fetus or unborn child) able to live after birth.
– DERIVATIVES viability noun, viably adverb.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from French, from vie 'life', from Latin vita.

Via Crucis /ˈkruːtʃɪs/ ▶ noun another term for the way of the Cross (see WAY). [ORIGIN: Latin.]
■ figurative a lengthy and distressing or painful procedure: we embarked on a Via Crucis of tired comic formulae.

via dolorosa /ˌdɒləˈrəʊzə/ ▶ noun (the Via Dolorosa) the route believed to have been taken by Christ through Jerusalem to Calvary.
■ figurative a distressing or painful journey or process: he commenced a via dolorosa to the coast.
– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'painful path'.

viaduct ▶ noun a long bridge-like structure, typically a series of arches, carrying a road or railway across a valley or other low ground.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin via 'way', on the pattern of aqueduct.

vial /ˈvaɪəl/ ▶ noun a small container, typically cylindrical and made of glass, used especially for holding liquid medicines.
– ORIGIN Middle English: alteration of PHIAL.

via media /ˈmiːdɪə, ˈmɛdɪə/ ▶ noun formal a middle way or compromise between extremes: the settlement is a via media between Catholicism and Protestantism.
– ORIGIN Latin.

viand /ˈvaɪənd/ ▶ noun poetic/literary (usu. viands) an item of food: an unlimited assortment of viands.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French viande 'food', from an alteration of Latin vivenda, neuter plural gerundive of vivere 'to live'.

via negativa /ˌneɪgəˈtiːvə/ ▶ noun Theology a way of describing something by saying what it is not, especially denying that any finite concept of attribute can be identified with or used of God or ultimate reality.
– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'negative path'.

viatical settlement /vaɪˈatɪk(ə)l/ ▶ noun an arrangement whereby a person with a terminal illness sells their life insurance policy to a third party for less than its mature value, in order to benefit from the proceeds while alive. See also DEATH FUTURES.
– ORIGIN 1990s: viatical from Latin viaticus 'relating to a journey or departing' + -AL.

viaticum /vaɪˈatɪkəm/ ▶ noun (pl. viatica /-kə/) 1 the Eucharist as given to a person near or in danger of death.
2 archaic a supply of provisions or an official allowance of money for a journey.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin, neuter of viaticus, from via 'road'.

vibe ▶ noun informal 1 (usu. vibes) a person's emotional state or the atmosphere of a place as communicated to and felt by others: we've been picking up some bad vibes on that guy. [ORIGIN: abbreviation of vibrations.]
2 (vibes) another term for VIBRAPHONE.

vibist /ˈvaɪbɪst/ ▶ noun a musician who plays the vibraphone.

vibraculum /vaɪˈbrakjʊləm, vɪ-/ ▶ noun (pl. vibracula /-lə/) Zoology (in some bryozoans) any of a number of modified zooids that bear a long whip-like seta, serving to prevent other organisms from settling on the colony. Compare with AVICULARIUM.
– DERIVATIVES vibracular adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: modern Latin, from Latin vibrare (see VIBRATE).

vibrant ▶ adjective full of energy and enthusiasm: a vibrant cosmopolitan city.
■ quivering; pulsating: Rose was vibrant with anger. ■ (of colour) bright and striking. ■ (of sound) strong or resonating: his vibrant voice.
– DERIVATIVES vibrancy noun, vibrantly adverb.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (in the sense 'moving rapidly, vibrating'): from Latin vibrant- 'shaking to and fro', from the verb vibrare (see VIBRATE).

vibraphone /ˈvaɪbrəfəʊn/ ▶ noun a musical percussion instrument with a double row of tuned metal bars, each above a tubular resonator containing a motor-driven rotating vane, giving a vibrato effect.
– DERIVATIVES vibraphonist noun.
– ORIGIN 1920s: from VIBRATO + -PHONE.

vibrate ▶ verb move or cause to move continuously and rapidly to and fro: [no obj.] the cabin started to vibrate | [with obj.] the bumblebee vibrated its wings for a few seconds.
■ [no obj.] (vibrate with) quiver with (a quality or emotion): his voice vibrated with terror. ■ [no obj.] (of a sound) resonate; continue to be heard: a low rumbling sound that began to vibrate through the car. ■ [no obj.] (of a pendulum) swing to and fro.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'give out (light or sound) as if by vibration'): from Latin vibrat- 'moved to and fro', from the verb vibrare.

vibratile /ˈvaɪbrətaɪl/ ▶ adjective Biology (of cilia, flagella, or other small appendages) capable of or characterized by oscillatory motion.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: alteration of VIBRATORY, on the pattern of words such as pulsatile.

vibration ▶ noun an instance of vibrating: powerful vibrations from an earthquake | [mass noun] the big-capacity engine generated less vibration.
■ Physics an oscillation of the parts of a fluid or an elastic solid whose equilibrium has been disturbed or of an electromagnetic wave. ■ (vibrations) informal a person's emotional state, the atmosphere of a place, or the associations of an object, as communicated to and felt by others.
– DERIVATIVES vibrational adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin vibratio(n-), from the verb vibrare (see VIBRATE).

vibrato /vɪˈbrɑːtəʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Music a rapid, slight variation in pitch in singing or playing some musical instruments, producing a stronger or richer tone. Compare with TREMOLO.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: Italian, past participle of vibrare 'vibrate'.

vibrator ▶ noun a device that vibrates or causes vibration, in particular:
■ a device used for massage or sexual stimulation. ■ a device for compacting concrete before it has set. ■ Music a reed in a reed organ.

vibratory /ˈvaɪbrət(ə)ri, vaɪˈbreɪt(ə)ri/ ▶ adjective of, relating to, or causing vibration.

vibrio /ˈvɪbrɪəʊ, ˈvaɪ-/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) Medicine a water-borne bacterium of a group that includes some pathogenic kinds that cause cholera, gastro-enteritis, and septicaemia.
• Vibrio and related genera; motile Gram-negative bacteria occurring as curved flagellated rods.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin vibrare 'vibrate'.

vibrissae /vaɪˈbrɪsiː/ ▶ plural noun Zoology long stiff hairs growing around the mouth or elsewhere on the face of many mammals, used as organs of touch; whiskers.
■ Ornithology coarse bristle-like feathers growing around the gape of certain insectivorous birds that catch insects in flight.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Latin, literally 'nostril hairs'.

vibrotactile /ˌvaɪbrə(ʊ)ˈtaktθaɪl/ ▶ adjective relating to or involving the perception of vibration through touch.

viburnum /vɪˈbɜːnəm, vaɪ-/ ▶ noun a shrub or small tree of temperate and warm regions, typically bearing flat or rounded clusters of small white flowers.
• Genus Viburnum, family Caprifoliaceae: many species and ornamental hybrids, including the guelder rose and wayfaring tree.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin, 'wayfaring tree'.

Vic. ▶ abbreviation for Victoria.

vicar ▶ noun (in the Church of England) an incumbent of a parish where tithes formerly passed to a chapter or religious house or layman.
■ (in other Anglican Churches) a member of the clergy deputizing for another. ■ (in the Roman Catholic Church) a representative or deputy of a bishop. ■ (in the US Episcopal Church) a clergyman in charge of a chapel. ■ a cleric or choir member appointed to sing certain parts of a cathedral service.
– DERIVATIVES vicarship noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: via Anglo-Norman French from Old French vicaire, from Latin vicarius 'substitute', from vic- 'change, turn, place' (compare with VICE[3]).

vicarage ▶ noun the residence of a vicar.
■ historical the benefice or living of a vicar.

vicar apostolic ▶ noun a Roman Catholic missionary.
■ a titular bishop.

vicar general ▶ noun (pl. vicars general) an Anglican official serving as a deputy or assistant to a bishop or archbishop.
■ (in the Roman Catholic Church) a bishop's representative in matters of jurisdiction or administration.

vicarial /vɪˈkɛːrɪəl, vaɪ-/ ▶ adjective archaic of, relating to, or serving as a vicar.

vicariance /vɪˈkɛːrɪəns, vaɪ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biology the geographical separation of a population, typically by a physical barrier such as a mountain range or river, resulting in a pair of closely related species.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from Latin vicarius 'substitute' + -ANCE.

vicariate /vɪˈkɛːrɪət, vaɪ-/ ▶ noun the office or authority of a vicar.
■ a church or parish ministered to by a vicar.

vicarious /vɪˈkɛːrɪəs, vaɪ-/ ▶ adjective experienced in the imagination through the feelings or actions of another person: this catalogue brings vicarious pleasure in luxury living.
■ acting or done for another: a vicarious atonement.
– DERIVATIVES vicariously adverb, vicariousness noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin vicarius 'substitute' (see VICAR) + -OUS.

Vicar of Christ ▶ noun (in the Roman Catholic Church) a title of the Pope.

vice[1] /vaɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] immoral or wicked behaviour.
■ criminal activities involving prostitution, pornography, or drugs. ■ [count noun] an immoral or wicked personal characteristic. ■ [count noun] a weakness of character or behaviour; a bad habit: cigars happen to be my father's vice. ■ (also stable vice) [count noun] a bad or neurotic habit of stabled horses, typically arising as a result of boredom.
– DERIVATIVES viceless adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: via Old French from Latin vitium.

vice[2] /vaɪs/ (US vise) ▶ noun a metal tool with movable jaws which are used to hold an object firmly in place while work is done on it, typically attached to a workbench.
– DERIVATIVES vice-like adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English (denoting a screw or winch): from Old French vis, from Latin vitis 'vine'.

vice[3] /ˈvaɪsi/ ▶ preposition as a substitute for: the letter was drafted by David Hunt, vice Bevin who was ill.
– ORIGIN Latin, ablative of vic- 'change'.

vice[4] /vaɪs/ ▶ noun informal short for VICE-PRESIDENT, VICE ADMIRAL, etc.

vice- ▶ combining form next in rank to, and typically denoting capacity to deputize for: vice admiral | vice-president.
– ORIGIN from Latin vice 'in place of' (compare with VICE[3]).

vice admiral ▶ noun a high rank of naval officer, above rear admiral and below admiral.

vice anglais /vis ɑ̃glɛ/ ▶ noun [in sing.] chiefly humorous a vice considered characteristic of the English, especially the use of corporal punishment for sexual stimulation.
– ORIGIN French, literally 'English vice'.

vice chamberlain ▶ noun a deputy chamberlain, especially (in the UK) the deputy of the Lord Chamberlain.

vice chancellor ▶ noun a deputy chancellor, especially one of a British university who discharges most of its administrative duties.

vicegerent /vʌɪs'dʒɪər(ə)nt, -'dʒɛ-/ ▶ noun formal a person exercising delegated power on behalf of a sovereign or ruler.
■ a person regarded as an earthly representative of God or a god, especially the Pope.
– DERIVATIVES vicegerency noun (pl. -ies).
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from medieval Latin vicegerent- '(person) holding office', from Latin vic- 'office, place, turn' + gerere 'carry on, hold'.

Vicente /vɪ'sɛnti/, Gil (*c.*1465–*c.*1536), Portuguese dramatist and poet. He is regarded as Portugal's most important dramatist; many of his works were written to commemorate national or court events and include religious dramas, farces, pastoral plays, and satirical comedies.

Vicenza /vɪ'tʃɛntsə/ a city in NE Italy; pop. 109,330 (1990).

vice-president ▶ noun an official or executive ranking below and deputizing for a president.
– DERIVATIVES vice-presidency noun (pl. -ies), vice-presidential adjective.

viceregal ▶ adjective of or relating to a viceroy.

vicereine /'vʌɪsreɪn/ ▶ noun the wife of a viceroy.
■ a female viceroy.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from French, from vice- 'in place of' + reine 'queen'.

vice ring ▶ noun a group of criminals involved in organizing illegal prostitution.

viceroy /'vʌɪsrɔɪ/ ▶ noun a ruler exercising authority in a colony on behalf of a sovereign.
– DERIVATIVES viceroyal adjective, viceroyship noun.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from archaic French, from vice- 'in place of' + roi 'king'.

viceroyalty (also Viceroyalty) ▶ noun (pl. -ies) the office, position, or authority of a viceroy.
■ a territory governed by a viceroy.

vice squad ▶ noun a department or division of a police force that enforces laws against prostitution, drug abuse, illegal gambling, etc.

vice versa /ˌvʌɪs 'və:sə, vʌɪsə/ ▶ adverb with the main items in the preceding statement the other way round: cruise from Cairo to Aswan or vice versa.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin, literally 'in-turned position'.

Vichy /'vi:ʃi/ a town in south central France; pop. 28,050 (1990). A noted spa town, it is the source of an effervescent mineral water.

During the Second World War the town was the headquarters of the regime that was set up after the German occupation of northern France, to administer unoccupied France and the colonies. Never recognized by the Allies, the regime functioned as a puppet government for the Nazis.

vichyssoise /ˌvi:ʃi:'swɑ:z/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a soup made with potatoes, leeks, and cream and typically served chilled.
– ORIGIN French (feminine) 'of Vichy' (see VICHY).

vicinage /'vɪsɪnɪdʒ/ ▶ noun chiefly US another term for VICINITY.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vis(e)nage, from an alteration of Latin vicinus 'neighbour'.

vicinal /'vɪsɪn(ə)l, vɪ'sʌɪn(ə)l/ ▶ adjective rare neighbouring; adjacent.
■ (especially of a railway or road) serving a neighbourhood; local. ■ Chemistry relating to or denoting substituents attached to adjacent atoms in a ring or chain.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French, or from Latin vicinalis, from vicinus 'neighbour'.

vicinity ▶ noun (pl. -ies) the area near or surrounding a particular place: the number of people living in the immediate vicinity was small.
■ [mass noun] archaic proximity in space or relationship: the abundance and vicinity of country seats.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (in the sense 'proximity'): from Latin vicinitas, from vicinus 'neighbour'.

vicious ▶ adjective 1 deliberately cruel or violent: a vicious assault.
■ (of an animal) wild and dangerous to people. ■ figurative serious or dangerous: a vicious flu bug. ■ poetic/literary immoral: every soul on earth, virtuous or vicious, shall perish.
2 archaic (of language or a line of reasoning) imperfect; defective.
– DERIVATIVES viciously adverb, viciousness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'characterized by immorality'): from Old French vicious or Latin vitiosus, from vitium 'vice'.

vicious circle (also vicious cycle) ▶ noun a sequence of reciprocal cause and effect in which two or more elements intensify and aggravate each other, leading inexorably to a worsening of the situation.

vicious spiral ▶ noun Brit. see SPIRAL (sense 2).

vicissitude /vɪ'sɪsɪtju:d, vʌɪ-/ ▶ noun (usu. vicissitudes) a change of circumstances or fortune, typically one that is unwelcome or unpleasant: her husband's sharp vicissitudes of fortune.
■ [mass noun] poetic/literary alternation between opposite or contrasting things: the vicissitude of the seasons.
– DERIVATIVES vicissitudinous /-'tju:dɪnəs/ adjective.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (in the sense 'alternation'): from French, or from Latin vicissitudo, from vicissim 'by turns', from vic- 'turn, change'.

Vicksburg /'vɪksbə:g/ a city on the Mississippi River, in western Mississippi; pop. 20,910 (1990). In 1863, during the American Civil War, it was successfully besieged by Union forces. It was the last Confederate-held outpost on the river and its loss effectively split the secessionist states in half.

Vico /'vi:kəʊ/, Giambattista (1668–1744), Italian philosopher. In Scienza Nuova (1725) he asserted that civilizations are subject to recurring cycles of barbarism, heroism, and reason, accompanied by corresponding cultural, linguistic, and political modes. His historicist approach influenced later philosophers such as Marx.

vicomte /'vi:kɔ̃t, 'vi:kɒmt, French vikɔ̃t/ ▶ noun (pl. pronounced same) a French nobleman corresponding in rank to a British or Irish viscount.
– ORIGIN French.

vicomtesse /ˌvikɔ̃'tɛs, ˌvi:kɒn'tɛs, French vikɔ̃tɛs/ ▶ noun (pl. pronounced same) a French noblewoman corresponding in rank to a British or Irish viscountess.
– ORIGIN French.

victim ▶ noun a person harmed, injured, or killed as a result of a crime, accident, or other event or action.
■ a person who is tricked or duped: the victim of a hoax. ■ a living creature killed as a religious sacrifice.
– PHRASES fall victim to be hurt, killed, damaged, or destroyed by: many streams have fallen victim to the recent drought.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent. (denoting a creature killed as a religious sacrifice): from Latin victima.

victimize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] single (someone) out for cruel or unjust treatment: they are victimized by racism or discriminatory barriers.
– DERIVATIVES victimization noun, victimizer noun.

victimless ▶ adjective used to describe a crime in which there is no injured party.

victimology ▶ noun (pl. -ies) [mass noun] the study of the victims of crime and the psychological effects on them of their experience.
■ the possession of an outlook, arising from real or imagined victimization, which seems to glorify and indulge the state of being a victim.

victim support ▶ noun [mass noun] the provision of advice and counselling to victims of crime.

victor ▶ noun 1 a person who defeats an enemy or opponent in a battle, game, or other competition.
2 a code word representing the letter V, used in radio communication.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French victo(u)r or Latin victor, from vincere 'conquer'.

Victor Emmanuel II (1820–78), ruler of the kingdom of Sardinia 1849–61 and first king of united Italy 1861–78. He hastened the drive towards Italian unification by appointing Cavour as Premier of Piedmont in 1852. After being crowned king of Italy he added Venetia to the kingdom in 1866 and Rome in 1870.

Victor Emmanuel III (1869–1947), last king of Italy 1900–46. He invited Mussolini to form a government in 1922 and lost all political power. After the loss of Sicily to the Allies (1943), he acted to dismiss Mussolini and conclude an armistice.

Victoria[1] /vɪk'tɔ:rɪə/ 1 a state of SE Australia; pop. 4,394,000 (est. 1990); capital, Melbourne. Originally a district of New South Wales, it became a separate colony in 1851 and was federated with the other states of Australia in 1901.
2 a port at the southern tip of Vancouver Island, capital of British Columbia; pop. 262,220 (1991).
3 the capital of the Seychelles, a port on the island of Mahé; pop. 24,000 (est. 1987).
4 the capital of Hong Kong; pop. 590,771 (1981).

Victoria[2] /vɪk'tɔ:rɪə/ (1819–1901), queen of Great Britain and Ireland 1837–1901 and empress of India 1876–1901. She took an active interest in the policies of her ministers, but largely retired from public life after Prince Albert's death in 1861. Her reign was the longest in British history.

Victoria[3] /vɪk'tɔ:rɪə, Spanish bik'torja/, Tomás Luis de (1548–1611), Spanish composer. His music, all of it religious, resembles that of Palestrina in its contrapuntal nature; it includes motets, masses, and hymns.

Victoria[4] /vɪk'tɔ:rɪə/ (also victoria) ▶ noun historical a light four-wheeled horse-drawn carriage with a collapsible hood, seats for two passengers, and an elevated driver's seat in front.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after Queen Victoria (see VICTORIA[2]).

Victoria, Lake the largest lake in Africa, with shores in Uganda, Tanzania, and Kenya, and drained by the Nile. Also called VICTORIA NYANZA.

Victoria and Albert Museum (abbrev.: V & A) a national museum of fine and applied art in South Kensington, London, created in 1852 and having collections principally of pictures, textiles, ceramics, and furniture.

Victoria Cross (abbrev.: VC) ▶ noun a decoration awarded for conspicuous bravery in the Commonwealth armed services, instituted by Queen Victoria in 1856.

Victoria Day ▶ noun (in Canada) the Monday preceding May 24, observed as a national holiday to commemorate the birthday of Queen Victoria.

Victoria de Durango full name for DURANGO.

Victoria Falls a spectacular waterfall 109 m (355 ft) high, on the River Zambezi, on the Zimbabwe–Zambia border. Its native name is Mosi-oa-tunya, 'the smoke that thunders'.

Victoria Island an island in the Canadian Arctic, in the Northwest Territories.

Victoria lily ▶ noun a tropical South American water lily which has gigantic floating leaves with raised sides.
● Genus Victoria, family Nymphaeaceae: two species.

Victorian ▶ adjective of or relating to the reign of Queen Victoria: a Victorian house.
■ of or relating to the attitudes and values of this period, regarded as characterized especially by a stifling and prudish moral earnestness.
▶ noun a person who lived during the Victorian period.
– DERIVATIVES Victorianism noun.

Victoriana ▶ plural noun articles, especially collectors' items, from the Victorian period.
■ matters or attitudes relating to or characteristic of this period.

Victoria Nile the upper part of the White Nile, between Lake Victoria and Lake Albert.

Victoria Nyanza /nɪ'anzə/ another name for Lake Victoria (see VICTORIA, LAKE).

Victoria Peak a mountain on Hong Kong Island, rising to 554 m (1,818 ft).

Victoria plum ▶ noun Brit. a plum of a large red dessert variety.

Victoria sandwich (also Victoria sponge) ▶ noun Brit. a cake consisting of two layers of sponge with a jam filling.

victorious ▶ adjective having won a victory; triumphant: a victorious army | the team defied the odds and emerged victorious.
■ of or characterized by victory: he'd participated in the victorious campaigns of the Franco-Prussian War.
– DERIVATIVES victoriously adverb, victoriousness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Anglo-Norman

French victorious, from Latin victoriosus, from victoria (see VICTORY).

victor ludorum /lu:'dɔ:rəm/ ▶ noun Brit. a boy or man who is the overall champion in a sports competition, especially at a school or college.
– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'victor of the games'.

Victory the flagship of Lord Nelson at the Battle of Trafalgar, launched in 1765. It has been restored, and is now on display in dry dock at Portsmouth.

victory ▶ noun (pl. -ies) an act of defeating an enemy or opponent in a battle, game, or other competition: an election victory | [mass noun] they won their heat and went on to victory in the final.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French victorie, from Latin victoria.

victory bond ▶ noun a bond issued by a government during or immediately after a major war.

victory roll ▶ noun a roll performed by an aircraft as a sign of triumph, typically after a successful mission.

victory sign ▶ noun a signal of triumph or celebration made by holding up the hand with the palm outwards and the first two fingers spread apart to represent the letter V.

victrix /'vɪktrɪks/ ▶ noun (pl. victrices /-trɪsi:z/) rare a female victor or champion.
– ORIGIN Latin, feminine of victor (see VICTOR).

victrix ludorum ▶ noun Brit. a girl or woman who is the overall champion in sports competition, especially at a school or college.
– ORIGIN Latin, feminine of VICTOR LUDORUM.

victual /'vɪt(ə)l/ dated ▶ noun (victuals) food or provisions, typically as prepared for consumption.
▶ verb (victualled, victualling; US victualed, victualing) [with obj.] provide with food or other stores: the ship wasn't even properly victualled.
■ [no obj.] archaic obtain or lay in food or other stores: a voyage of such length, that no ship could victual for. ■ [no obj.] eat: victual with me next Saturday.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vitaille, from late Latin victualia, neuter plural of Latin victualis, from victus 'food'; related to vivere 'to live'. The pronunciation still represents the early spelling vittel; later spelling has been influenced by the Latin form.

victualler /'vɪt(ə)lə/ (US victualer) ▶ noun 1 (also licensed victualler) Brit. a person who is licensed to sell alcoholic liquor.
2 dated a person providing or selling food or other provisions.
■ a ship providing supplies for troops or other ships.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French vitaill(i)er, from vitaille (see VICTUAL).

vicuña /vɪ'kju:njə, -ku:-, vɪ'ku:nə/ ▶ noun a wild relative of the llama, inhabiting mountainous regions of South America and valued for its fine silky wool.
● Vicugna vicugna, family Camelidae.
■ [mass noun] cloth made from this wool or an imitation of it.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Spanish, from Quechua.

vicus /'vaɪkəs, 'vi:kəs/ ▶ noun (pl. vici /'vaɪki:, 'vi:ki:/) the smallest unit of ancient Roman municipal administration, consisting of a village or part of a town.
■ a medieval European township.
– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'group of dwellings'.

Vic-Wells Ballet a ballet company set up by Ninette de Valois, based first at the Old Vic and from 1931 established at Sadler's Wells Theatre. The company later became the Sadler's Wells Ballet which in turn became part of the newly formed Royal Ballet.

vid ▶ noun informal short for VIDEO.

Vidal /vɪ'dɑ:l/, Gore (b.1925), American novelist, dramatist, and essayist; born Eugene Luther Vidal. His novels, many of them satirical comedies, include Williwaw (1946) and Myra Breckenridge (1968).

vide /'vɪdeɪ, 'vi:-, 'vaɪdi/ ▶ verb [with obj., in imperative] see; consult (used as an instruction in a text to refer the reader to a specified passage, book, author, etc., for fuller or further information): vide the comments cited in Schlosser.
– ORIGIN Latin, 'see!', imperative of videre.

videlicet /vɪ'deɪlɪsɛt, vaɪ-, -kɛt/ ▶ adverb more formal term for VIZ.

– ORIGIN Latin, from videre 'to see' + licet 'it is permissible'.

video ▶ noun (pl. -os) [mass noun] the system of recording, reproducing, or broadcasting moving visual images on or from videotape.
■ [count noun] a film or other piece of material recorded on videotape. ■ [count noun] a video cassette: a blank video | [mass noun] the film will soon be released on video. ■ [count noun] a short film made by a pop or rock group to accompany a song when broadcast on television. ■ [count noun] Brit. a video recorder.
▶ verb (-oes, -oed) [with obj.] make a video recording of (something broadcast on television).
■ film (someone or something) with a video camera.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from Latin videre 'to see', on the pattern of audio.

video amplifier ▶ noun a device designed to amplify the wide range of frequencies present in video signals and deliver the signal to the picture tube of a television set.

video camera ▶ noun a camera for recording images on videotape or for transmitting them to a monitor screen.

video card ▶ noun Computing a printed circuit board controlling output to a display screen.

video cassette recorder ▶ noun another term for VIDEO RECORDER.

videoconference ▶ noun an arrangement in which television sets linked to telephone lines are used to enable a group of people in several different locations to communicate with each other in sound and vision.
– DERIVATIVES videoconferencing noun.

video diary ▶ noun a record on videotape of a notable period of someone's life, or of a particular event, made using a camcorder.

videodisc ▶ noun a CD-ROM or other disc used to store visual images.

videofit ▶ noun a picture of someone sought by the police, built up on a computer screen by selecting and combining facial features according to witnesses' descriptions.

video frequency ▶ noun a frequency in the range used for video signals in television.

video game ▶ noun a game played by electronically manipulating images produced by a computer program on a television screen or display.

videogram ▶ noun a pre-recorded video of a commercial film or television programme.

videographics ▶ plural noun visual images produced using computer technology.
■ [treated as sing.] the manipulation of video images using a computer.

videography ▶ noun [mass noun] the process or art of making video films.
– DERIVATIVES videographer noun.

video jockey ▶ noun a person who introduces and plays music videos on television.

video nasty ▶ noun Brit. informal a film on video that contains scenes that are considered to be gratuitously and offensively violent or pornographic.

video-on-demand ▶ noun [mass noun] a system in which viewers choose their own filmed entertainment, by means of a PC or interactive TV system, from a wide available selection.

videophile ▶ noun an enthusiast for or devotee of video recordings or video technology.

videophone ▶ noun a telephone device transmitting and receiving a visual image as well as sound.

video piracy ▶ noun [mass noun] the unauthorized and illegal production and sale of copies of commercial video films.
– DERIVATIVES video pirate noun.

VideoPlus ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark a system for identifying broadcast television programmes by a numerical code which can be input into a video recorder in order to preset recording.

video recorder ▶ noun a device which, when linked to a television set, can be used for recording on and playing videotapes.
– DERIVATIVES video recording noun.

videotape ▶ noun [mass noun] magnetic tape for recording and reproducing visual images and sound.
■ [count noun] a video cassette. ■ a film or other piece of material recorded on videotape.
▶ verb another term for VIDEO: his arrest was videotaped.

videotelephony ▶ noun [mass noun] the transmission of video signals along telephone wires.

videotex (also videotext) ▶ noun [mass noun] an electronic information system such as teletext or viewdata.
– ORIGIN 1970s: from VIDEO + TEXT.

vidicon ▶ noun Electronics a small television camera tube in which the image is formed on a transparent electrode coated with photoconductive material, the current from which varies as it is scanned by a beam of low-speed electrons.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from the initial elements of VIDEO and iconoscope (an early television camera tube).

vidiot /'vɪdɪət/ ▶ noun N. Amer. informal a habitual, undiscriminating watcher of television or videotapes.
– ORIGIN 1960s: blend of VIDEO and IDIOT.

vie /vaɪ/ ▶ verb (vying) [no obj.] compete eagerly with someone in order to do or achieve something: the athletes were vying for a place in the British team.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: probably a shortening of obsolete envy, via Old French from Latin invitare 'challenge'.

vie de Bohème /ˌvi: də bəʊ'ɛm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] (usu. la vie de Bohème) an unconventional or informal way of life, especially as practised by an artist or writer.
– ORIGIN French, literally 'bohemian's life'.

vielle /vɪ'ɛl/ ▶ noun a hurdy-gurdy.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from French, from Old French viele (see VIOL).

Vienna /vɪ'ɛnə/ the capital of Austria, situated in the north-east of the country on the River Danube; pop. 1,533,180 (1991). From 1278 to 1918 it was the seat of the Habsburgs. It has long been a centre of the arts, especially music; Mozart, Beethoven, and the Strauss family were among the great composers who lived and worked there. German name WIEN.
– DERIVATIVES Viennese /vɪə'ni:z/ adjective & noun.

Vienna, Congress of an international conference held 1814–15 to agree the settlement of Europe after the Napoleonic Wars. The guiding principle of the settlement was the restoration and strengthening of hereditary and sometimes despotic rulers; the result was a political stability that lasted for three or four decades.

Vienna Circle a group of empiricist philosophers, scientists, and mathematicians active in Vienna from the 1920s until 1938, including Rudolf Carnap and Kurt Gödel. Their work laid the foundations of logical positivism.

Vienna sausage ▶ noun a small frankfurter made of pork, beef, or veal.

Vienna Secession ▶ noun see SECESSION.

Viennese coffee ▶ noun [mass noun] a blend of coffee flavoured with fig extract.

Viennese waltz ▶ noun a waltz characterized by a slight anticipation of the second beat of the bar and having a romantic quality.
■ a piece of music written in this style.

Vientiane /ˌvjɛn'tjɑ:n/ the capital and chief port of Laos, on the Mekong River; pop. 377,400 (1985).

Vierwaldstättersee /ˌfi:ɐ'valtˌʃtɛtɐˌze:/ German name for Lake Lucerne (see LUCERNE, LAKE).

Vietcong /vjɛt'kɒŋ/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a member of the Communist guerrilla movement in Vietnam which fought the South Vietnamese government forces 1954–75 with the support of the North Vietnamese army and opposed the South Vietnam and US forces in the Vietnam War.
– ORIGIN Vietnamese, literally 'Vietnamese Communist'.

Vietminh /vjɛt'mɪn/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a member of a Communist-dominated nationalist movement, formed in 1941, that fought for Vietnamese independence from French rule. Members of the Vietminh later joined with the Vietcong.
– ORIGIN from Vietnamese Viet-Nam Dôc-Lâp Dông-Minh 'Vietnamese Independence League'.

Vietnam /vjɛt'nam/ a country in SE Asia, with a coastline on the South China Sea; pop. 67,843,000 (est. 1991); official language, Vietnamese; capital, Hanoi.

Traditionally dominated by China, Vietnam came under French influence between 1862 and 1954. After the Second World War the Vietminh defeated the French, who then withdrew. Vietnam was partitioned along the 17th parallel between Communist North Vietnam (capital, Hanoi) and non-Communist South Vietnam (capital, Saigon). The Vietnam War between the North and the US-backed South ended in the victory of the North in 1975 and the reunification of the country under a Communist regime in the following year.

– ORIGIN from Vietnamese Viet, the name of the inhabitants, + nam 'south'.

Vietnamese ▶ adjective of or relating to Vietnam, its people, or their language.

▶ noun (pl. same) 1 a native or national of Vietnam, or a person of Vietnamese descent.

2 [mass noun] the language of Vietnam, spoken by about 60 million people. It probably belongs to the Mon-Khmer group, although much of its vocabulary is derived from Chinese.

Vietnamese pot-bellied pig ▶ noun a pig of a small, dark breed with short legs and a large stomach, sometimes kept as a pet.

Vietnamization (also -isation) ▶ noun [mass noun] (in the Vietnam War) the US policy of withdrawing its troops and transferring the responsibility and direction of the war effort to the government of South Vietnam.

Vietnam War a war between Communist North Vietnam and US-backed South Vietnam.

Since the partition of Vietnam in 1954 the Communist North had attempted to unite the country as a Communist state, fuelling US concern over the possible spread of Communism in SE Asia. After two US destroyers were reportedly fired on in the Gulf of Tonkin in 1964, a US army was sent to Vietnam, supported by contingents from South Korea, Australia, New Zealand, and Thailand, while American aircraft bombed North Vietnamese forces and areas of Cambodia. The Tet Offensive of 1968 damaged US confidence and US forces began to be withdrawn, finally leaving in 1973. The North Vietnamese captured the southern capital Saigon to end the war in 1975.

vieux jeu /vjə: 'ʒə:, French vjø ʒø/ ▶ adjective old-fashioned; hackneyed: a joke that was vieux jeu even in my day.

– ORIGIN French, literally 'old game'.

view ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] the ability to see something or to be seen from a particular place: the end of the tunnel came into view | [count noun] they stood on the bar to get a better view.

■ [count noun] a sight or prospect, typically of attractive natural scenery, that can be taken in by the eye from a particular place: a fine view of the castle. ■ [count noun] a work of art depicting such a sight. ■ [count noun] the visual appearance or an image of something when looked at in a particular way: an aerial view of the military earthworks. ■ [count noun] an inspection of things for sale by prospective purchasers, especially of works of art at an exhibition.

2 a particular way of considering or regarding something; an attitude or opinion: strong political views.

▶ verb 1 [with obj.] look at or inspect (something): the public can view the famous hall with its unique staircase.

■ inspect (a house or other property) with the intention of possibly buying or renting it. ■ watch (something) on television. ■ Hunting see (a fox) break cover.

2 [with obj. and adverbial] regard in a particular light or with a particular attitude: farmers are viewing the rise in rabbit numbers with concern.

– PHRASES in full view clearly visible. in view visible to someone: the youth was keeping him in view. ■ as one's aim or objective: the operation they had in view. ■ in one's mind when forming a judgement: it is important to have in view the position reached at the beginning of the 1970s. in view of because or as a result of. on view (especially of a work of art) being shown or exhibited to the public. ■ easily visible: it is advisable not to leave handbags on view. with a view to with the hope, aim, or intention of.

– DERIVATIVES viewable adjective.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French vieue, feminine past participle of veoir 'see', from Latin videre. The verb dates from the early 16th cent.

viewdata ▶ noun [mass noun] a news and information service in which computer data is sent by a telephone link and displayed on a television screen.

viewer ▶ noun 1 a person who looks at or inspects something.

■ a person watching television or a film.

2 a device for looking at film transparencies or similar photographic images.

viewership ▶ noun [treated as sing. or pl.] the audience for a particular television programme or channel.

viewfinder ▶ noun a device on a camera showing the field of view of the lens, used in framing and focusing the picture.

viewgraph ▶ noun a graph or other data produced as a transparency for projection on to a screen or for transmission during a teleconference.

view halloo ▶ noun a shout given by a hunter on seeing a fox break cover.

viewing ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of inspecting or looking at something: the owner may allow viewing by appointment.

■ the action of watching something on television: it is quite unsuitable for family viewing. ■ [count noun] an opportunity to see something, especially a work of art.

viewless ▶ adjective not having or affording a pleasant sight or prospect.

viewpoint ▶ noun another term for POINT OF VIEW.

viewport ▶ noun a window in a spacecraft or in the conning tower of an oil rig.

■ Computing a framed area on a display screen for viewing information.

viff (also VIFF) Aeronautics, informal ▶ noun [mass noun] a technique used by a vertical take-off aircraft to change direction abruptly by altering the direction of thrust of the aircraft's jet engines.

▶ verb [no obj.] (of a vertical take-off aircraft) change direction in such a way.

– ORIGIN 1970s: acronym from vectoring in forward flight.

vig ▶ noun short for VIGORISH.

viga /'vi:gə/ ▶ noun US a rough-hewn roof timber or rafter, especially in an adobe building.

– ORIGIN Spanish.

Vigée-Lebrun /ˌvi:ʒeɪlə'brə:n, French viʒeləbʀœ̃/, (Marie Louise) Élisabeth (1755–1842), French painter. She is known for her portraits of women and children, especially Marie Antoinette and Lady Hamilton.

vigesimal /vɪ'dʒɛsɪm(ə)l, vʌɪ-/ ▶ adjective rare relating to or based on the number twenty.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin vigesimus (from viginti 'twenty') + -AL.

vigil /'vɪdʒɪl/ ▶ noun 1 a period of keeping awake during the time usually spent asleep, especially to keep watch or pray: my birdwatching vigils lasted for hours | as he lay in a coma the family kept vigil.

■ a stationary, peaceful demonstration in support of a particular cause, typically without speeches.

2 (in the Christian Church) the eve of a festival or holy day as an occasion of religious observance.

■ (vigils) nocturnal devotions.

– ORIGIN Middle English (in sense 2): via Old French from Latin vigilia, from vigil 'awake'.

vigilance ▶ noun [mass noun] the action or state of keeping careful watch for possible danger or difficulties.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from French, or from Latin vigilantia, from vigilare 'keep awake', from vigil (see VIGIL).

vigilance committee ▶ noun US a body of vigilantes.

vigilant ▶ adjective keeping careful watch for possible danger or difficulties: the burglar was spotted by vigilant neighbours.

– DERIVATIVES vigilantly adverb.

– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from Latin vigilant- 'keeping awake', from the verb vigilare, from vigil (see VIGIL).

vigilante /ˌvɪdʒɪ'lanti/ ▶ noun a member of a self-appointed group of citizens who undertake law enforcement in their community without legal authority, typically because the legal agencies are thought to be inadequate.

– DERIVATIVES vigilantism noun.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Spanish, literally 'vigilant'.

vigneron /'vi:njərɔ̃, French viɲ(ə)ʀɔ̃/ ▶ noun a person who cultivates grapes for winemaking.

– ORIGIN French, from vigne 'vine'.

vignette /vi:'njɛt, vɪ-/ ▶ noun 1 a brief evocative description, account, or episode.

2 a small illustration or portrait photograph which fades into its background without a definite border.

■ a small ornamental design filling a space in a book or carving, typically based on foliage.

▶ verb [with obj.] portray (someone) in the style of a vignette.

■ produce (a photograph) in the style of a vignette by softening or shading away the edges of the subject.

– DERIVATIVES vignettist noun.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (in sense 2; also as an architectural term denoting a carved representation of a vine): from French, diminutive of vigne 'vine'.

Vignola /vɪ'njəʊlə/, Giacomo Barozzi da (1507–73), Italian architect. His designs were mannerist in style and include the Palazzo Farnese near Viterbo (1559–73) and the church of Il Gesù in Rome (begun 1568).

Vigny /'vi:nji/, Alfred Victor, Comte de (1797–1863), French poet, novelist, and dramatist. His poetry reveals his faith in 'man's unconquerable mind'. Other works include the play Chatterton (1835).

Vigo[1] /'vi:gəʊ/ a port on the Atlantic in Galicia, NW Spain; pop. 276,570 (1991).

Vigo[2] /'vi:gəʊ/, Jean (1905–34), French film director. His experimental films, which combine lyrical, surrealist, and realist elements, include Zéro de conduite (1933) and L'Atalante (1934).

vigor ▶ noun US spelling of VIGOUR.

vigorish ▶ noun US informal 1 [in sing.] an excessive rate of interest on a loan, typically one from an illegal moneylender.

2 [mass noun] the percentage deducted from a gambler's winnings by the organizers of a game.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: probably from Yiddish, from Russian vyigrysh 'gain, winnings'.

vigoro /'vɪg(ə)rəʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an Australian team ball game combining elements of cricket and baseball, traditionally played by women.

– ORIGIN 1930s: apparently from VIGOROUS.

vigorous ▶ adjective (of a person) strong, healthy, and full of energy.

■ characterized by or involving physical strength, effort, or energy: vigorous aerobic exercise. ■ (of language) forceful: a vigorous denial. ■ (of a plant) growing strongly.

– DERIVATIVES vigorously adverb, vigorousness noun.

– ORIGIN Middle English: via Old French from medieval Latin vigorosus, from Latin vigor (see VIGOUR).

vigour (US vigor) ▶ noun [mass noun] physical strength and good health.

■ effort, energy, and enthusiasm: they set about the new task with vigour. ■ strong, healthy growth of a plant.

– DERIVATIVES vigourless adjective.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, from Latin vigor, from vigere 'be lively'.

vihara /vɪ'hɑ:rə/ ▶ noun a Buddhist temple or monastery.

– ORIGIN Sanskrit.

vihuela /vɪ'(h)weɪlə/ ▶ noun a type of early Spanish stringed musical instrument, in particular:

■ (vihuela de mano /deɪ 'manəʊ/) a type of guitar. ■ (vihuela de arco /deɪ 'ɑ:kəʊ/) a type of viol.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: Spanish.

Vijayawada /ˌvɪdʒʌɪə'wɑ:də/ a city on the Krishna River in Andhra Pradesh, SE India; pop. 701,000 (1991).

Viking[1] /'vʌɪkɪŋ/ ▶ noun any of the Scandinavian seafaring pirates and traders who raided and settled in many parts of NW Europe in the 8th–11th centuries.

▶ adjective of or relating to the Vikings or the period in which they lived.

– ORIGIN from Old Norse víkingr, from vík 'creek' or Old English wīc 'camp, dwelling place'.

Viking[2] /'vʌɪkɪŋ/ a shipping forecast area covering the open sea between southern Norway and the Shetland Islands.

Viking[3] /'vʌɪkɪŋ/ either of two American space probes sent to Mars in 1975, each of which consisted of a lander that conducted experiments on the surface and an orbiter.

Vila /'vi:lə/ (also Port Vila) the capital of Vanuatu, on the SW coast of the island of Efate; pop. 20,000 (1992).

vilayet /vɪ'lɑ:jɛt/ ▶ noun (in Turkey, and formerly in the Ottoman Empire) a major administrative district or province with its own governor.

– ORIGIN Turkish, from Arabic wilāya(t) 'government, administrative district'.

lower edge of the back of a coat through the seam.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: alteration of dialect fent, from Old French fente 'slit', based on Latin findere 'cleave'.

venter ▶ noun Zoology the underside or abdomen of an animal.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin, literally 'belly'.

ventiduct /'vɛntɪdʌkt/ ▶ noun Architecture an air passage, especially for ventilation.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin ventus 'wind' + ductus 'duct'.

ventifact /'vɛntɪfakt/ ▶ noun Geology a stone shaped by the erosive action of wind-blown sand.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Latin ventus 'wind' + factum, neuter past participle of facere 'make'.

ventil /'vɛntɪl/ ▶ noun Music 1 a valve in a wind instrument.
2 a shutter for regulating the airflow in an organ.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from German, from Italian ventile, from medieval Latin ventile 'sluice', from Latin ventus 'wind'.

ventilate ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 cause air to enter and circulate freely in (a room, building, etc.): [as adj., in combination -ventilated] gas heaters should only ever be used in well-ventilated rooms.
■(of air) purify or freshen (something) by blowing on or through it: a colossus ventilated by the dawn breeze. ■ Medicine subject to artificial respiration. ■ archaic oxygenate (the blood). ■ informal kill (someone) by shooting: I pull out a gun and ventilate her dinner companion.
2 discuss or examine (an opinion, issue, complaint, etc.) in public: he used the club to ventilate an ongoing complaint.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'winnow, scatter'): from Latin ventilat- 'blown, winnowed', from the verb ventilare, from ventus 'wind'. The sense 'cause air to circulate in' dates from the mid 18th cent.

ventilation ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the provision of fresh air to a room, building, etc.
■Medicine the supply of air to the lungs, especially by artificial means.
2 public discussion or examination of an opinion, issue, complaint, etc.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'current of air'): from Old French, or from Latin ventilatio(n-), from the verb ventilare (see VENTILATE). Sense 1 dates from the mid 17th cent.

ventilator ▶ noun 1 an appliance or aperture for ventilating a room or other space.
2 Medicine appliance for artificial respiration; a respirator.

ventilatory /'vɛntɪlə,t(ə)ri/ ▶ adjective Physiology of, relating to, or serving for the provision of air to the lungs or respiratory system.

Ventolin /'vɛntəlɪn/ ▶ noun trademark for SALBUTAMOL.
– ORIGIN 1960s: perhaps from VENTILATE + -OL + -IN[1].

Ventose /vɑ̃'təʊz/ (also Ventôse /French vɑ̃toz/) ▶ noun the sixth month of the French Republican calendar (1793–1805), originally running from 19 February to 20 March.
– ORIGIN French Ventôse, from Latin ventosus 'windy', from ventus 'wind'.

ventouse /'vɛntu:s/ ▶ noun Medicine a vacuum extractor for use in assisting childbirth.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from French, literally 'cupping-glass', based on Latin ventus 'wind'.

ventral ▶ adjective Anatomy, Zoology, & Botany of, on, or relating to the underside of an animal or plant; abdominal: a ventral nerve cord | the ventral part of the head. Compare with DORSAL.
– DERIVATIVES ventrally adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin venter, ventr- 'belly' + -AL.

ventral fin ▶ noun Zoology another term for PELVIC FIN.
■an unpaired fin on the underside of certain fishes. ■ a single vertical fin under the fuselage or tail of an aircraft.

ventre à terre /ˌvɒtr(ə) ɑ: 'tɛ:, French vɑ̃tʀ a tɛʀ/ ▶ adverb at full speed (used especially of a horse's movement or its representation in painting).
– ORIGIN French, literally '(with) belly to the ground'.

ventricle /'vɛntrɪk(ə)l/ ▶ noun Anatomy a hollow part or cavity in an organ, in particular:
■each of the two main chambers of the heart, left and right. ■ each of the four connected fluid-filled cavities in the centre of the brain.
– DERIVATIVES ventricular /-'trɪkjʊlə/ adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin ventriculus, diminutive of venter 'belly'.

ventriculography /vɛn,trɪkjʊ'lɒgrəfi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine radiography of the ventricles of the brain with the cerebral fluid replaced by air (pneumoencephalography) or radiopaque material or labelled with a radionuclide.

ventriloquist /vɛn'trɪləkwɪst/ ▶ noun a person who can speak or utter sounds so that they seem to come from somewhere else, especially an entertainer who makes their voice appear to come from a dummy of a person or animal.
– DERIVATIVES ventriloquial /ˌvɛntrɪ'ləʊkwɪəl/ adjective, ventriloquism noun, ventriloquize (also -ise) verb, ventriloquy noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from modern Latin ventriloquium (from Latin venter 'belly' + loqui 'speak') + -IST.

ventrolateral /ˌvɛntrə(ʊ)'latər(ə)l/ ▶ adjective Biology situated towards the junction of the ventral and lateral sides.
– DERIVATIVES ventrolaterally adverb.

ventromedial /ˌvɛntrə(ʊ)'mi:dɪəl/ ▶ adjective Biology situated towards the middle of the ventral side.
– DERIVATIVES ventromedially adverb.

venture ▶ noun a risky or daring journey or undertaking: pioneering ventures into little-known waters.
■a business enterprise involving considerable risk.
▶ verb [no obj., with infinitive or adverbial] dare to do something or go somewhere that may be dangerous or unpleasant: she ventured out into the blizzard.
■dare to do or say something that may be considered audacious (often used as a polite expression of hesitation or apology): may I venture to add a few comments? | I ventured to write to her | [with obj.] he ventured the opinion that Putt was now dangerously insane. ■ [with obj.] expose (something) to the risk of loss: his fortune is ventured in an expedition over which he has no control.
– PHRASES at a venture archaic trusting to chance rather than to previous consideration or preparation: a man drew a bow at a venture. nothing ventured, nothing gained proverb you can't expect to achieve anything if you never take any risks.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'adventure', also 'risk the loss of'): shortening of ADVENTURE.

venture capital ▶ noun [mass noun] capital invested in a project in which there is a substantial element of risk, typically a new or expanding business.
– DERIVATIVES venture capitalist noun.

venturer ▶ noun archaic a person who undertakes or shares in a trading venture.

Venture Scout ▶ noun a member of the Scout Association aged between 16 and 20.

venturesome ▶ adjective willing to take risks or embark on difficult or unusual courses of action.
– DERIVATIVES venturesomely adverb, venturesomeness noun.

Venturi /vɛn'tjʊəri/, Robert (Charles) (b.1925), American architect, pioneer of postmodernist architecture. Among his buildings are the Humanities Classroom Building of the State University of New York (1973) and the Sainsbury Wing of the National Gallery in London (1991).

venturi /vɛn'tjʊəri/ ▶ noun (pl. venturis) a short piece of narrow tube between wider sections for measuring flow rate or exerting suction.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after Giovanni B. Venturi (1746–1822), Italian physicist.

venue /'vɛnju:/ ▶ noun the place where something happens, especially an organized event such as a concert, conference, or sports event: the river could soon be the venue for a powerboat world championship event.
■English Law the county or district within which a criminal or civil case must be heard.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (denoting a thrust or bout in fencing; also in the Law sense): from Old French, literally 'a coming', feminine past participle of venir 'come' from Latin venire.

venule /'vɛnju:l/ ▶ noun Anatomy a very small vein, especially one collecting blood from the capillaries.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin venula, diminutive of vena 'vein'.

Venus 1 Roman Mythology a goddess, worshipped as the goddess of love in classical Rome though apparently a spirit of kitchen gardens in earlier times. Greek equivalent APHRODITE. [ORIGIN: Latin.]
■[as noun a Venus] chiefly poetic/literary a beautiful woman.
2 Astronomy the second planet from the sun in the solar system, the brightest celestial object after the sun and moon and frequently appearing in the twilight sky as the evening or morning star.

Venus orbits between Mercury and the earth at an average distance of 108 million km from the sun. It is almost equal in size to the earth, with a diameter of 12,104 km, and shows phases similar to the moon. The planet is completely covered by clouds consisting chiefly of sulphuric acid droplets, and no surface detail can be seen by telescope. There is a dense atmosphere of carbon dioxide, which traps the heat of the sun by the greenhouse effect to produce a surface temperature of 460°C. The planet has no natural satellite.

3 (also venus, Venus shell, or (chiefly US) Venus clam) a burrowing marine bivalve mollusc with clearly defined growth lines on the shell.
● Venus, Venerupis, and other genera, family Veneridae.
– DERIVATIVES Venusian /vɪ'nju:zɪən/ adjective & noun.

Venusberg /'vi:nəsbə:g/ ▶ noun (in German legend) the court of Venus.

Venus de Milo /də 'mʌɪləʊ, 'mi:ləʊ/ a classical sculpture of Aphrodite dated to *c.*100 BC. It was discovered on the Greek island of Melos in 1820 and is now in the Louvre in Paris.
– ORIGIN French, 'Venus of Melos'.

Venus flytrap (also Venus's flytrap) ▶ noun a small carnivorous bog plant with hinged leaves that spring shut on and digest insects which land on them. Native to the south-eastern US, it is also kept as an indoor plant.
● Dionaea muscipula, family Droseraceae.

Venus's comb ▶ noun another term for SHEPHERD'S NEEDLE.

Venus's flower basket ▶ noun a slender upright glass sponge with a filmy lattice-like skeleton.
● Genus Euplectella, class Hexactinellida.

Venus's girdle ▶ noun a large, almost transparent comb jelly with a flattened ribbon-like body, living chiefly in warmer seas.
● Genus Cestum, phylum Ctenophora.

Venus's looking glass ▶ noun a blue-flowered plant of the bellflower family, whose shiny brown seeds inside their open capsule supposedly resemble ladies' looking glasses.
● Two species in the family Campanulaceae: Legousia hybrida of Europe, and Triodanis perfoliata of North America.

vera causa /ˌvɛ:rə 'kaʊzə/ ▶ noun (pl. verae causae /ˌvɛ:ri: 'kaʊzi:/) chiefly historical (in Newtonian philosophy) the true cause of a natural phenomenon, by an agency whose existence is independently evidenced.
– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'real cause'.

veracious /və'reɪʃəs/ ▶ adjective formal speaking or representing the truth.
– DERIVATIVES veraciously adverb, veraciousness noun.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Latin verax, verac- (from verus 'true') + -IOUS.

veracity /və'rasɪti/ ▶ noun [mass noun] conformity to facts; accuracy: officials expressed doubts concerning the veracity of the story.
■habitual truthfulness: voters should be concerned about his veracity and character.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French véracité or medieval Latin veracitas, from verax 'speaking truly' (see VERACIOUS).

Veracruz /ˌvɪərə'kru:z, Spanish bera'kruθ, -krus/ 1 a state of east central Mexico, with a long coastline on the Gulf of Mexico; capital, Jalapa Enriquez.
2 a city and port of Mexico, in Veracruz state, on the Gulf of Mexico; pop. 327,520 (1990).

veranda (also verandah) ▶ noun a roofed platform along the outside of a house, level with the ground floor.
■Austral./NZ a roof over the pavement in front of a shop.
– DERIVATIVES verandaed adjective.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Hindi varandā, from Portuguese varanda 'railing, balustrade'.

verapamil /və'rapəmɪl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a synthetic compound which acts as a calcium – ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin vindicta 'vengeance' + -IVE.

vin du pays /vã ˌd(j)uː peɪˈiː, French vɛ̃ dy pei/ (also vin de pays) ▶ noun (pl. vins du pays) [mass noun] the third-highest French classification of wine, indicating that the wine meets certain standards including area of production, strength, and quality. ■French wine produced locally.

– ORIGIN French, literally 'wine of the region'.

Vine, Frederick John (b.1939), English geologist. Vine and his colleague Drummond H. Matthews (1931–97) contributed to the theory of plate tectonics, showing that magnetic data from the earth's crust under the Atlantic Ocean provided evidence for sea-floor spreading.

vine ▶ noun a climbing or trailing woody-stemmed plant related to the grapevine.
• Vitis and other genera, family Vitaceae.
■used in names of climbing or trailing plants of other families, e.g. Russian vine. ■ the slender stem of a trailing or climbing plant.

– DERIVATIVES viny adjective.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, from Latin vinea 'vineyard, vine', from vinum 'wine'.

vine dresser ▶ noun a person who prunes, trains, and cultivates vines.

vinegar ▶ noun [mass noun] a sour-tasting liquid containing acetic acid, obtained by fermenting dilute alcoholic liquids, typically wine, cider, or beer, and used as a condiment or for pickling.
■figurative sourness or peevishness of behaviour, character, or speech: her aggrieved tone held a touch of vinegar.

– DERIVATIVES vinegarish adjective, vinegary adjective.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vyn egre, based on Latin vinum 'wine' + acer 'sour'.

vinery ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a greenhouse for grapevines. ■a vineyard.

vineyard ▶ noun a plantation of grapevines, typically producing grapes used in winemaking.
■figurative a sphere of action or labour (in allusion to Matt. 20:1): women professors labouring in feminist vineyards.

vingt-et-un /ˌvãteɪˈəːn, French vɛ̃teœ̃/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the card game pontoon or blackjack.

– ORIGIN French, literally 'twenty-one'.

vinho verde /ˌviːnəʊ ˈvɛːdi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a young Portuguese wine, not allowed to mature.

– ORIGIN Portuguese, literally 'green wine'.

vini- ▶ combining form of or relating to wine: viniculture.

– ORIGIN from Latin vinum 'wine'.

viniculture /ˈvɪnɪˌkʌltʃə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the cultivation of grapevines for winemaking.

– DERIVATIVES vinicultural adjective, viniculturist noun.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin vinum 'wine' + CULTURE, on the pattern of words such as agriculture.

vinification /ˌvɪnɪfɪˈkeɪʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the conversion of grape juice or other vegetable extract into wine by fermentation.

– DERIVATIVES vinify verb (-ies, -ied).

vining /ˈvaɪnɪŋ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the separation of leguminous crops from their vines and pods.
▶ adjective [attrib.] (of a plant) growing as a vine with climbing or trailing woody stems.

vin jaune /vã ˈʒəʊn, French vɛ̃ ʒon/ ▶ noun (pl. vins jaunes) [mass noun] a strong yellowish white wine made in the Jura region of eastern France from the Sauvignon grape.

– ORIGIN French, literally 'yellow wine'.

Vinland the region of the NE coast of North America which was visited in the 11th century by Norsemen led by Leif Ericsson. It was so named from the report that grapevines were found growing there. The exact location is uncertain.

Vinnytsya /ˈviːnɪtsjə/ a city in central Ukraine; pop. 379,000 (1990). Russian name VINNITSA /ˈviːnɪtsə/.

vino /ˈviːnəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) [mass noun] Spanish or Italian wine.
■informal, chiefly Brit. wine, typically that which is cheap or of inferior quality.

– ORIGIN Spanish and Italian, 'wine'.

vino da tavola /da ˈtɑːvɒla/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Italian wine of reasonable quality, suitable for drinking with a meal.

– ORIGIN Italian, literally 'table wine'.

vin ordinaire /vã ˌɔːdɪˈnɛː, French vɛ̃ ɔʀdinɛʀ/ ▶ noun (pl. vins ordinaires) [mass noun] cheap table wine for everyday use.

– ORIGIN French, literally 'ordinary wine'.

vinous /ˈvaɪnəs/ ▶ adjective of, resembling, or associated with wine: a vinous smell.
■fond of or influenced by drinking wine: his vinous companion. ■ of the reddish colour of wine.

– DERIVATIVES vinosity noun, vinously adverb.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin vinum 'wine' + -OUS.

Vinson Massif /ˌvɪns(ə)n maˈsiːf/ the highest mountain range in Antarctica, in Ellsworth Land, rising to 5,140 m (16,863 ft).

vint /vɪnt/ ▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be vinted) produce (wine or another alcoholic drink).

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: back-formation from VINTAGE.

vintage ▶ noun the year or place in which wine, especially wine of high quality, was produced.
■a wine of high quality made from the crop of a single identified district in a good year. ■ [mass noun] poetic/literary wine. ■ the harvesting of grapes for winemaking. ■ the grapes or wine produced in a particular season. ■ the time that something of quality was produced: rifles of various sizes and vintages.
▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting wine of high quality: vintage claret.
■denoting something of high quality, especially something from the past or characteristic of the best period of a person's work: a vintage Sherlock Holmes adventure.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: alteration (influenced by VINTNER) of earlier vendage, from Old French vendange, from Latin vindemia (from vinum 'wine' + demere 'remove').

vintage car ▶ noun Brit. an old style or model of car, specifically one made between 1917 and 1930.

vintage port ▶ noun [mass noun] port of special quality, all of one year, bottled early and aged in the bottle.

vintager ▶ noun a person who harvests grapes.

vintner /ˈvɪntnə/ ▶ noun a wine merchant.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: via Anglo-Latin from Old French vinetier, from medieval Latin vinetarius, from Latin vinetum 'vineyard', from vinum 'wine'.

vinyl /ˈvaɪn(ə)l/ ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] synthetic resin or plastic consisting of polyvinyl chloride or a related polymer, used especially for wallpapers and other covering materials and formerly as the standard material for gramophone records before the introduction of compact discs: fans had to wait almost year before the song eventually appeared on vinyl | [count noun] light-reflecting vinyls can be hung in the usual way.
2 /also ˈvaɪnaɪl, -nɪl/ [as modifier] Chemistry of or denoting the unsaturated hydrocarbon radical $-CH=CH_2$, derived from ethylene by removal of a hydrogen atom: a vinyl group.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin vinum 'wine' + -YL.

vinyl acetate ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a colourless liquid ester used in the production of polyvinyl acetate and other commercially important polymers.
• Chem. formula: $CH_2CHOCOCH_3$.

vinyl chloride ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a colourless toxic gas used in the production of polyvinyl chloride and other commercially important polymers.
• Chem. formula: CH_2CHCl.

viol /ˈvaɪəl/ ▶ noun a musical instrument of the Renaissance and baroque periods, typically six-stringed, held vertically and played with a bow.

– ORIGIN late 15th cent. (originally denoting a violin-like instrument): from Old French viele, from Provençal viola; probably related to FIDDLE.

viola[1] /vɪˈəʊlə/ ▶ noun an instrument of the violin family, larger than the violin and tuned a fifth lower.

– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Italian and Spanish; compare with VIOL.

viola[2] /ˈvaɪələ/ ▶ noun a plant of a genus that includes the pansies and violets.
• Genus Viola, family Violaceae: many species.

– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin, literally 'violet'.

violaceous /ˌvaɪəˈleɪʃəs/ ▶ adjective 1 of a violet colour.
2 Botany of, relating to, or denoting plants of the violet family (Violaceae).

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin violaceus (from viola 'violet') + -OUS.

viola da braccio /vɪˌəʊlə da ˈbrɑːtʃɪəʊ/ ▶ noun an early musical instrument of the violin family (as distinct from a viol), specifically one corresponding to the modern viola.

– ORIGIN Italian, literally 'viol for the arm'.

viola da gamba /ˈgambə/ (also viol da gamba) ▶ noun a viol, specifically a bass viol (corresponding to the modern cello).

– ORIGIN Italian, literally 'viol for the leg'.

viola d'amore /dəˈmɔːreɪ/ ▶ noun a sweet-toned 18th-century musical instrument similar to a viola, but with six or seven strings, and additional sympathetic strings below the fingerboard.

– ORIGIN Italian, literally 'viol of love'.

violate ▶ verb [with obj.] break or fail to comply with (a rule or formal agreement): they violated the terms of a ceasefire.
■fail to respect (someone's peace, privacy, or rights): they denied that human rights were being violated. ■ treat (something sacred) with irreverence or disrespect: he was accused of violating a tomb. ■ rape or sexually assault (someone).

– DERIVATIVES violator noun, violable adjective (rare).

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin violat- 'treated violently', from the verb violare.

violation ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of violating someone or something: the aircraft were in violation of UN resolutions.

violence ▶ noun [mass noun] behaviour involving physical force intended to hurt, damage, or kill someone or something.
■strength of emotion or an unpleasant or destructive natural force: the violence of her own feelings. ■ Law the unlawful exercise of physical force or intimidation by the exhibition of such force.

– PHRASES do violence to damage or adversely affect.

– ORIGIN Middle English: via Old French from Latin violentia, from violent- 'vehement, violent' (see VIOLENT).

violent ▶ adjective using or involving physical force intended to hurt, damage, or kill someone or something: a violent confrontation with riot police.
■(especially of an emotion or unpleasant or destructive natural force) very strong or powerful: violent dislike | the violent eruption killed 1,700 people. ■ (of a colour) vivid. ■ Law involving an unlawful exercise or exhibition of force.

– DERIVATIVES violently adverb.

– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'having a marked or powerful effect'): via Old French from Latin violent- 'vehement, violent'.

violent storm ▶ noun a wind of force 11 on the Beaufort scale (56–63 knots or 103–117 kph).

violet ▶ noun 1 a herbaceous plant of temperate regions, typically having purple, blue, or white five-petalled flowers, one petal of which forms a landing pad for pollinating insects.
• Genus Viola, family Violaceae (the violet family): many species, including the dog violet and sweet violet. See also VIOLA[2].
■used in names of similar-flowered plants of other families, e.g. African violet.
2 [mass noun] a bluish-purple colour seen at the end of the spectrum opposite red.
▶ adjective of a bluish-purple colour.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French violette, diminutive of viole, from Latin viola 'violet'.

violet-ear ▶ noun a tropical American hummingbird with green or brown plumage and a glittering purple patch behind each eye.
• Genus Colibri, family Trochilidae: four species.

violet snail (also violet sea snail) ▶ noun a small marine snail which drifts on the surface of the sea attached to a raft of bubbles. The shell is typically purple-violet and the animal emits a violet fluid when attacked.
• Family Janthinidae, class Gastropoda.

violin ▶ noun a stringed musical instrument of treble pitch, played with a horsehair bow. The classical European violin was developed in the 16th century. It has four strings and a body of characteristic rounded shape, narrowed at the middle and with two f-shaped soundholes.

– DERIVATIVES violinist noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Italian violino, diminutive of viola (see VIOLA[1]).

violist ▶ noun 1 /vɪ'əʊlɪst/ a viola player.
2 /'vʌɪəlɪst/ a viol player.

viologen /vʌɪ'ɒlədʒ(ə)n/ ▶ noun Chemistry any of a series of synthetic compounds related to the weedkiller paraquat, used as redox indicators. They contain heteroaromatic cations of the general formula $(C_5H_4NR)_2^{2+}$.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from VIOLET (because of the purple colour when electrochemically reduced) + -GEN.

violoncello /ˌvʌɪələn'tʃɛləʊ, ˌviːə-/ ▶ noun formal term for CELLO.
– DERIVATIVES violoncellist noun.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: Italian, diminutive of violone (see VIOLONE).

violone /vɪə'ləʊneɪ, -ni/ ▶ noun an early form of double bass, especially a large bass viol.
– ORIGIN Italian, augmentative of viola (see VIOLA[1]).

VIP ▶ abbreviation for ■ Biochemistry vasoactive intestinal polypeptide (or peptide), a substance which acts as a neurotransmitter, especially in the brain and gastrointestinal tract. ■ very important person.

vipassana /vɪ'pasənə/ (also Vipassana) ▶ noun [mass noun] (in Theravada Buddhism) meditation involving concentration on the body or its sensations, or the insight which this provides.
– ORIGIN Pali, literally 'inward vision'.

viper /'vʌɪpə/ ▶ noun a venomous snake with large hinged fangs, typically having a broad head and stout body, with dark patterns on a lighter background.
• Family Viperidae: numerous genera and species. See also PIT VIPER, ADDER[1].
■ a spiteful or treacherous person.
– PHRASES viper in one's bosom a person who betrays those who have helped them.
– DERIVATIVES viperine /-rʌɪn/ adjective, viperish adjective, viperous adjective.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from French vipère or Latin vipera, from vivus 'alive' + parere 'bring forth'.

viperfish ▶ noun (pl. same or -fishes) a small, elongated deep-sea fish that has large jaws with long protruding fangs.
• Family Chauliodontidae: several genera and species.

viper's bugloss ▶ noun a bristly Eurasian plant of the borage family, with pink buds which open to blue flowers. It was formerly used in the treatment of snake bites.
• Echium vulgare, family Boraginaceae.

viper's grass ▶ noun [mass noun] scorzonera, the juice of which was formerly believed to be a remedy for snake bites.

viraemia /vʌɪ'riːmɪə/ (also viremia) ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine the presence of viruses in the blood.
– DERIVATIVES viraemic adjective.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from VIRUS + -AEMIA.

virago /vɪ'rɑːgəʊ, -'reɪgəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os or -oes) a domineering, violent, or bad-tempered woman.
■ archaic a woman of masculine strength or spirit; a female warrior.
– ORIGIN Old English (used only as the name given by Adam to Eve, following the Vulgate), from Latin 'heroic woman, female warrior', from vir 'man'. The current sense dates from late Middle English.

viral /'vʌɪr(ə)l/ ▶ adjective of the nature of, caused by, or relating to a virus or viruses.
– DERIVATIVES virally adverb.

Virchow /'vəːkəʊ, German 'fɪrço/, Rudolf Karl (1821–1902), German physician and pathologist, founder of cellular pathology. He argued that the cell was the basis of life and that diseases were reflected in specific cellular abnormalities. Virchow also stressed the importance of environmental factors in disease.

virelay /'vɪrəleɪ/ ▶ noun a short lyric poem of a type originating in France in the 14th century, consisting of short lines arranged in stanzas with only two rhymes, the end rhyme of one stanza being the chief one of the next.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French virelai.

virement /'vʌɪəm(ə)nt, 'vɪəmɒ̃/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Finance, Brit. the process of transferring items from one financial account to another.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from French, from virer 'to turn'.

viremia ▶ noun variant spelling of VIRAEMIA.

vireo /'vɪrɪəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) a small American songbird, typically having a green or grey back and yellow or white underparts.
• Family Vireonidae (the vireo family): two genera, especially Vireo, and several species. The vireo family also includes the greenlets and pepper-shrikes.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin, perhaps denoting a greenfinch.

virescent /vɪ'rɛs(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective poetic/literary greenish.
– DERIVATIVES virescence noun, virescently adverb.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin virescent- 'turning green', inceptive of virere 'be green'.

virga /'vəːgə/ ▶ noun (pl. virgae /'vəːgiː/) Meteorology a mass of streaks of rain appearing to hang under a cloud and evaporating before reaching the ground.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from Latin, literally 'rod, stripe'.

virgate /'vəːgət/ ▶ noun Brit. historical a varying measure of land, typically 30 acres.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin virgatus, from virga 'rod'.

virger ▶ noun chiefly archaic variant spelling of VERGER.

Virgil /'vəːdʒɪl/ (also Vergil) (70–19 BC), Roman poet; Latin name Publius Vergilius Maro. He wrote three major works: the Eclogues, ten pastoral poems, blending traditional themes of Greek bucolic poetry with contemporary political and literary themes; the Georgics, a didactic poem on farming; and the Aeneid (see AENEID).
– DERIVATIVES Virgilian adjective.

virgin ▶ noun a person, typically a woman, who has never had sexual intercourse.
■ a naive, innocent, or inexperienced person, especially in a particular context: a political virgin.
■ (the Virgin) the mother of Jesus; the Virgin Mary.
■ a woman who has taken a vow to remain a virgin.
■ (the Virgin) the zodiacal sign or constellation Virgo. ■ Entomology a female insect that produces eggs without being fertilized.
▶ adjective 1 [attrib.] being, relating to, or appropriate for a virgin: his virgin bride.
2 not yet used or exploited: acres of virgin forests.
■ (of clay) not yet fired. ■ (of wool) not yet, or only once, spun or woven. ■ (of olive oil) obtained from the first pressing of olives. ■ (of metal) made from ore by smelting.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French virgine, from Latin virgo, virgin-.

virginal ▶ adjective being, relating to, or appropriate for a virgin: virginal shyness.
▶ noun (usu. virginals) an early spinet with the strings parallel to the keyboard, typically rectangular, and popular in 16th and 17th century houses. [ORIGIN: perhaps because usually played by young women (see origin below).]
– DERIVATIVES virginalist noun, virginally adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, or from Latin virginalis, from virgo 'young woman'.

virgin birth ▶ noun 1 (the Virgin Birth) the doctrine of Christ's birth from a mother, Mary, who was a virgin.
2 [mass noun] Zoology parthenogenesis.

virgin comb ▶ noun a honeycomb that has been used only once for honey and never for storing eggs.

virgin honey ▶ noun [mass noun] honey taken from a virgin comb, or drained from the comb without heat or pressure.

Virginia[1] a state of the eastern US, on the Atlantic coast; pop. 6,187,360 (1990); capital, Richmond. It was the site of the first permanent European settlement in North America in 1607, and was named in honour of Elizabeth I, the 'Virgin Queen'. It was one of the original thirteen states of the Union (1788).
– DERIVATIVES Virginian noun & adjective.

Virginia[2] ▶ noun [mass noun] a type of tobacco grown and manufactured in Virginia.
■ [count noun] a cigarette made of such tobacco.
– DERIVATIVES Virginian noun & adjective.

Virginia Beach a city and resort on the Atlantic coast of SE Virginia; pop. 393,000 (1990).

Virginia bluebell ▶ noun a North American woodland plant of the borage family, bearing nodding blue trumpet-shaped flowers.
• Mertensia virginica, family Boraginaceae.

Virginia creeper ▶ noun a North American vine which is chiefly cultivated for its red autumn foliage.
• Genus Parthenocissus, family Vitaceae: several species, in particular P. quinquefolia.

Virginian snakeroot ▶ noun see SNAKEROOT.

Virginia opossum ▶ noun a cat-sized opossum with a greyish body and a white face, widespread throughout North and Central America.
• Didelphis virginiana, family Didelphidae.

Virginia reel ▶ noun a lively North American country dance performed by a number of couples facing each other in parallel lines.

Virginia stock (also Virginian stock) ▶ noun a low-growing sweetly scented Mediterranean plant with white, pink, or lilac flowers.
• Malcolmia maritima, family Cruciferae.

Virgin Islands a group of Caribbean islands at the eastern extremity of the Greater Antilles, divided between British and US administration.

The islands were settled, mainly in the 17th century, by British and Danish sugar planters, who introduced African slaves. The British Virgin Islands consists of about forty islands in the north-east of the group; pop. 16,750 (est. 1991); capital, Road Town (on Tortola). The remaining islands (about fifty) make up the US unincorporated territory of the Virgin Islands; pop. 101,800 (1990); capital, Charlotte Amalie (on St Thomas).

virginity ▶ noun [mass noun] the state of never having had sexual intercourse: I lost my virginity.
■ the state of being naive, innocent, or inexperienced in a particular context: he could claim no political virginity.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French virginite, from Latin virginitas, from virgo (see VIRGIN).

Virgin Mary mother of Jesus (see MARY[1]).

virgin queen ▶ noun 1 an unfertilized queen bee.
2 (the Virgin Queen) Queen Elizabeth I of England, who died unmarried.

virgin's bower ▶ noun a North American clematis.
• Clematis virginiana, family Ranunculaceae.

Virgo /'vəːgəʊ/ 1 Astronomy a large constellation (the Virgin), said to represent a maiden or goddess associated with the harvest. It contains several bright stars, the brightest of which is Spica, and a dense cluster of galaxies.
■ [as genitive Virginis /'vəːdʒɪnɪs/] used with preceding letter or numeral to designate a star in this constellation: the star Gamma Virginis.
2 Astrology the sixth sign of the zodiac, which the sun enters about 23 August.
■ (a Virgo) (pl. -os) a person born when the sun is in this sign.
– DERIVATIVES Virgoan noun & adjective (only in sense 2).
– ORIGIN Latin.

virgo intacta /ˌvəːgəʊ ɪn'taktə/ ▶ noun chiefly Law a girl or woman who has never had sexual intercourse, originally a virgin whose hymen is intact.
– ORIGIN Latin, literally 'untouched virgin'.

virgule /'vəːgjuːl/ ▶ noun another term for SLASH (in sense 2).
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from French, literally 'comma', from Latin virgula, diminutive of virga 'rod'.

viridescent /ˌvɪrɪ'dɛs(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective greenish or becoming green.
– DERIVATIVES viridescence noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from late Latin viridescent- 'becoming green', from the verb viridescere, from Latin viridis 'green'.

viridian /vɪ'rɪdɪən/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a bluish-green pigment consisting of hydrated chromium hydroxide.
■ the bluish-green colour of this.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin viridis 'green' (from virere 'be green') + -IAN.

virile ▶ adjective (of a man) having strength, energy, and a strong sex drive.
■ having or characterized by strength and energy: a strong, virile performance of the Mass.
– DERIVATIVES virility noun.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent. (in the sense 'characteristic of a man'): from French viril or Latin virilis, from vir 'man'.

virilism /'vɪrɪlɪz(ə)m/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine the condition which results from virilization.

virilization /ˌvɪrɪlʌɪ'zeɪʃ(ə)n/ (also -isation) ▶ noun

[mass noun] Medicine the development of male physical characteristics (such as muscle bulk, body hair, and deep voice) in a female or precociously in a boy, typically as a result of excess androgen production.

virilocal /ˌvɪrɪˈləʊk(ə)l/ ▶ adjective another term for PATRILOCAL.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from Latin virilis 'of a man' + LOCAL.

virino /vɪˈriːnəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) Microbiology a hypothetical infectious particle postulated as the cause of scrapie, BSE, and CJD, consisting of non-coding nucleic acid in a protective coat made from host cell proteins. Compare with PRION[2].
– ORIGIN 1970s: from VIRUS + the diminutive suffix -ino.

virion /ˈvɪrɪɒn/ ▶ noun Microbiology the complete, infective form of a virus outside a host cell, with a core of RNA and a capsid.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from VIRUS + -ON.

viroid /ˈvʌɪrɔɪd/ ▶ noun Microbiology an infectious entity affecting plants, smaller than a virus and consisting only of nucleic acid without a protein coat.

virology /vʌɪˈrɒlədʒi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the branch of science that deals with the study of viruses.
– DERIVATIVES virological adjective, virologically adverb, virologist noun.

viropexis /ˌvʌɪrəˈ(ʊ)pɛksɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Microbiology the process by which a virus particle becomes attached to a cell wall and incorporated into the cell by phagocytosis.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from VIRUS + Greek pēxis 'fixing'.

virtu /vəːˈt(j)uː/ (also vertu) ▶ noun [mass noun]
1 knowledge of or expertise in the fine arts.
■curios or objets d'art collectively.
2 poetic/literary the good qualities inherent in a person or thing.
– PHRASES article (or object) of virtu an article that is interesting because of its antiquity, beauty, quality of workmanship, etc.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Italian virtù 'virtue'; the variant vertu is an alteration, as if from French.

virtual /ˈvəːtjʊəl/ ▶ adjective almost or nearly as described, but not completely or according to strict definition: the virtual absence of border controls.
■Computing not physically existing as such but made by software to appear to do so: a virtual computer. See also VIRTUAL REALITY. ■ Optics relating to the points at which rays would meet if produced backwards. ■ Mechanics relating to or denoting infinitesimal displacements of a point in a system. ■ Physics denoting particles or interactions with extremely short lifetimes and (owing to the uncertainty principle) indefinitely great energies, postulated as intermediates in some processes.
– DERIVATIVES virtuality /-jʊˈalɪti/ noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (also in the sense 'possessing certain virtues'): from medieval Latin virtualis, from Latin virtus 'virtue', suggested by late Latin virtuosus.

virtual image ▶ noun Optics an optical image formed from the apparent divergence of light rays from a point, as opposed to an image formed from their actual divergence.

virtually ▶ adverb nearly; almost: virtually all those arrested were accused | the college became virtually bankrupt.
■Computing by means of virtual reality techniques.

virtual memory (also virtual storage) ▶ noun [mass noun] Computing memory that appears to exist as main storage although most of it is supported by data held in secondary storage, transfer between the two being made automatically as required.

virtual reality ▶ noun [mass noun] Computing the computer-generated simulation of a three-dimensional image or environment that can be interacted with in a seemingly real or physical way by a person using special electronic equipment, such as a helmet with a screen inside or gloves fitted with sensors.

virtue /ˈvəːtjuː, -tʃuː/ ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] behaviour showing high moral standards: paragons of virtue.
■[count noun] a quality considered morally good or desirable in a person: patience is a virtue. ■ [count noun] a good or useful quality of a thing: Mike was extolling the virtues of the car | [mass noun] there's no virtue in suffering in silence. ■ [mass noun] archaic virginity or chastity, especially of a woman.
2 (virtues) (in traditional Christian angelology) the seventh highest order of the ninefold celestial hierarchy.
– PHRASES by (or in) virtue of because or as a result of. make a virtue of derive benefit or advantage from submitting to (an unwelcome obligation or unavoidable circumstance).
– DERIVATIVES virtueless adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vertu, from Latin virtus 'valour, merit, moral perfection', from vir 'man'.

virtuoso /ˌvəːtjʊˈəʊzəʊ, -səʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. virtuosi /-si/ or virtuosos) a person highly skilled in music or another artistic pursuit: a celebrated clarinet virtuoso | [as modifier] virtuoso guitar playing.
■a person with a special knowledge of or interest in works of art or curios.
– DERIVATIVES virtuosic adjective, virtuosity noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Italian, literally 'learned, skilful', from late Latin virtuosus (see VIRTUOUS).

virtuous ▶ adjective having or showing high moral standards: she considered herself very virtuous because she neither drank nor smoked.
■archaic (especially of a woman) chaste.
– DERIVATIVES virtuously adverb, virtuousness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vertuous, from late Latin virtuosus, from virtus 'virtue'.

virtuous circle ▶ noun a recurring cycle of events, the result of each one being to increase the beneficial effect of the next.

virulent /ˈvɪrʊl(ə)nt, ˈvɪrjʊ-/ ▶ adjective 1 (of a disease or poison) extremely severe or harmful in its effects.
■(of a pathogen, especially a virus) highly infective.
2 bitterly hostile: a virulent attack on liberalism.
– DERIVATIVES virulence noun, virulently adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (originally describing a poisoned wound): from Latin virulentus, from virus 'poison' (see VIRUS).

virus /ˈvʌɪrəs/ ▶ noun an infective agent that typically consists of a nucleic acid molecule in a protein coat, is too small to be seen by light microscopy, and is able to multiply only within the living cells of a host: [as modifier] a virus infection.
■informal an infection or disease caused by such an agent. ■ figurative a harmful or corrupting influence: the virus of cruelty that is latent in all human beings. ■ (also computer virus) a piece of code which is capable of copying itself and typicallyhas a detrimental effect, such as corrupting the system or destroying data.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting the venom of a snake): from Latin, literally 'slimy liquid, poison'. The earlier medical sense, superseded by the current use as a result of improved scientific understanding, was 'a substance produced in the body as the result of disease, especially one that is capable of infecting others with the same disease'.

Vis. ▶ abbreviation for Viscount.

visa /ˈviːzə/ ▶ noun an endorsement on a passport indicating that the holder is allowed to enter, leave, or stay for a specified period of time in a country.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: via French from Latin visa, past participle (neuter plural) of videre 'to see'.

visage /ˈvɪzɪdʒ/ ▶ noun [usu. in sing.] poetic/literary a person's face, with reference to the form or proportions of the features: an elegant, angular visage.
■a person's facial expression: there was something hidden behind his visage of cheerfulness. ■ figurative the surface of an object presented to view: the moonlit visage of the port's whitewashed buildings.
– DERIVATIVES visaged adjective [in combination] a stern-visaged old man.
– ORIGIN Middle English: via Old French from Latin visus 'sight', from videre 'to see'.

visagiste /ˌviːzɑːˈʒiːst/ ▶ noun a make-up artist.
– ORIGIN French.

Visākha /vɪˈsɑːkə/ ▶ noun variant spelling of VESAK.

Visakhapatnam /vɪˌsɑːkəˈpʌtnəm/ a port on the coast of Andhra Pradesh, in SE India; pop. 750,000 (1991).

vis-à-vis /ˌviːzɑːˈviː, French vizavi/ ▶ preposition in relation to; with regard to: many agencies now have a unit to deal with women's needs vis-à-vis employment.
■as compared with; as opposed to: the advantage for US exports is the value of the dollar vis-à-vis other currencies.
▶ adverb archaic in a position facing a specified or implied subject: he was there vis-à-vis with Miss Arundel.
▶ noun (pl. same) 1 a person or group occupying a corresponding position to that of another person or group in a different area or domain; a counterpart: his admiration for the US armed services extends to their vis-à-vis, the Russian military.
2 a face-to-face meeting: the dreaded vis-à-vis with his boss.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: French, literally 'face to face', from Old French vis 'face'.

Visby /ˈvɪzbi, Swedish ˈviːsbyː/ a port on the west coast of the Swedish island of Gotland, of which it is the capital; pop. 57,110 (1990).

Visc. ▶ abbreviation for Viscount.

viscacha /vɪˈskatʃə/ ▶ noun a large South American burrowing rodent of the chinchilla family, sometimes hunted for its fur and flesh.
● Genera Lagidium and Lagostomus, family Chinchillidae: four species.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: via Spanish from Quechua (h)uiscacha.

viscera /ˈvɪs(ə)rə/ ▶ plural noun (sing. viscus) the internal organs in the main cavities of the body, especially those in the abdomen, e.g. the intestines.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin, plural of viscus (see VISCUS).

visceral ▶ adjective of or relating to the viscera: the visceral nervous system.
■relating to deep inward feelings rather than to the intellect: the voters' visceral fear of change.
– DERIVATIVES viscerally adverb.

viscerotropic /ˌvɪs(ə)rə(ʊ)ˈtrəʊpɪk, -ˈtrɒpɪk/ ▶ adjective (of a micro-organism) tending to attack or affect the viscera.

viscid /ˈvɪsɪd/ ▶ adjective glutinous; sticky: the viscid mucus lining of the intestine.
– DERIVATIVES viscidity noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from late Latin viscidus, from Latin viscum 'birdlime'.

viscoelasticity /ˌvɪskəʊɛlaˈstɪsɪti, -iːla-, -ɪla-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Physics the property of a substance of exhibiting both elastic and viscous behaviour, the application of stress causing temporary deformation if the stress is quickly removed but permanent deformation if it is maintained.
– DERIVATIVES viscoelastic adjective.

viscometer /vɪsˈkɒmɪtə/ ▶ noun an instrument for measuring the viscosity of liquids.
– DERIVATIVES viscometric adjective, viscometrically adverb, viscometry noun.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from late Latin viscosus 'viscous' + -METER.

Visconti /vɪsˈkɒnti/, Luchino (1906–76), Italian film and theatre director; full name Don Luchino Visconti, Conte di Modrone. His films include The Leopard (1963) and Death in Venice (1971). His first film, Obsession (1942), was regarded as the forerunner of neo-realism.

viscose /ˈvɪskəʊz, -kəʊs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a viscous orange-brown solution obtained by treating cellulose with sodium hydroxide and carbon disulphide, used as the basis of manufacturing rayon fibre and transparent cellulose film.
■rayon fabric or fibre made from this.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from late Latin viscosus, from Latin viscus 'birdlime'.

viscosimeter /vɪskəˈsɪmɪtə/ ▶ noun another term for VISCOMETER.

viscosity /vɪˈskɒsɪti/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) [mass noun] the state of being thick, sticky, and semi-fluid in consistency, due to internal friction.
■[count noun] a quantity expressing the magnitude of such friction, as measured by the force per unit area resisting a flow in which parallel layers unit distance apart have unit speed relative to one another.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French viscosite or medieval Latin viscositas, from late Latin viscosus (see VISCOUS).

viscount /ˈvʌɪkaʊnt/ ▶ noun a British nobleman ranking above a baron and below an earl.
– DERIVATIVES viscountcy noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French visconte, from medieval Latin vicecomes, vicecomit- (see VICE-, COUNT[2]).

viscountess /ˈvʌɪkaʊntɪs/ ▶ noun the wife or widow of a viscount.
■a woman holding the rank of viscount in her own right.

viscounty ▶ noun the land under the authority of a particular viscount.

viscous /ˈvɪskəs/ ▶ adjective having a thick, sticky consistency between solid and liquid; having a high viscosity: viscous lava.

– DERIVATIVES viscously adverb, viscousness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French viscous or late Latin viscosus, from Latin viscum 'birdlime'.

viscus /ˈvɪskəs/ singular form of VISCERA.
– ORIGIN Latin.

vise ▶ noun US spelling of VICE[2].

Vishnu /ˈvɪʃnuː/ Hinduism a god, originally a minor Vedic god, now regarded by his worshippers as the supreme deity and saviour, by others as the preserver of the cosmos in a triad with Brahma and Shiva. Vishnu is considered by Hindus to have had nine earthly incarnations or avatars, including Rama, Krishna, and the historical Buddha; the tenth avatar will herald the end of the world.
– DERIVATIVES Vishnuism noun, Vishnuite noun & adjective.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit Viṣṇu.

visibility ▶ noun [mass noun] the state of being able to see or be seen: a reduction in police presence and visibility on the streets.
■the distance one can see as determined by light and weather conditions: visibility was down to 15 yards. ■the degree to which something has attracted general attention; prominence: the issue began to lose its visibility.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from French visibilite or late Latin visibilitas, from Latin visibilis (see VISIBLE).

visible ▶ adjective 1 able to be seen: the church spire is visible from miles away.
■Physics (of light) within the range of wavelengths to which the eye is sensitive. ■able to be perceived or noticed easily: a visible improvement. ■in a position of public prominence: a highly visible member of the royal entourage.
2 of or relating to imports or exports of tangible commodities: the visible trade gap.
▶ noun (visibles) visible imports or exports.
– DERIVATIVES visibleness noun, visibly adverb he was visibly uncomfortable.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, or from Latin visibilis, from videre 'to see'.

Visigoth /ˈvɪzɪgɒθ/ ▶ noun a member of the branch of the Goths who invaded the Roman Empire between the 3rd and 5th centuries AD and ruled much of Spain until overthrown by the Moors in 711.
– DERIVATIVES Visigothic adjective.
– ORIGIN from late Latin Visigothus, the first element possibly meaning 'west' (compare with OSTROGOTH).

vision ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] the faculty or state of being able to see: she had defective vision.
■the ability to think about or plan the future with imagination or wisdom: the organization had lost its vision and direction. ■[count noun] a mental image of what the future will or could be like: a socialist vision of society. ■the images seen on a television screen.
2 an experience of seeing someone or something in a dream or trance, or as a supernatural apparition: the idea came to him in a vision.
■(often visions) a vivid mental image, especially a fanciful one of the future: he had visions of becoming the Elton John of his time. ■a person or sight of unusual beauty.
▶ verb [with obj.] rare imagine.
– DERIVATIVES visional adjective, visionless adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English (denoting a supernatural apparition): via Old French from Latin visio(n-), from videre 'to see'.

visionary ▶ adjective 1 (especially of a person) thinking about or planning the future with imagination or wisdom: a visionary leader.
■archaic (of a scheme or idea) not practical.
2 of, relating to, or able to see visions in a dream or trance, or as a supernatural apparition: a visionary experience.
■archaic existing only in a vision or in the imagination.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) a person with original ideas about what the future will or could be like.
– DERIVATIVES visionariness noun.

vision mixer ▶ noun Brit. a person whose job is to select and manipulate images in television broadcasting or recording.
■a piece of equipment used for this purpose.
– DERIVATIVES vision mixing noun.

vision quest ▶ noun an attempt to achieve a vision of a future guardian spirit, traditionally undertaken at puberty by boys of the Plains Indian peoples, typically through fasting or self-torture.

visit ▶ verb (visited, visiting) [with obj.] 1 go to see and spend time with (someone) socially: I came to visit my grandmother.
■go to see and spend time in (a place) as a tourist. ■stay temporarily with (someone) or at (a place) as a guest: we hope you enjoy your stay and will visit us again | [no obj.] I don't live here—I'm only visiting. ■go to see (someone or something) for a specific purpose, such as to make an inspection or to receive or give professional advice or help: inspectors visit all the hotels. ■[no obj.] (visit with) N. Amer. go to see (someone) socially: he went out to visit with his pals. ■[no obj.] US informal chat: there was nothing to do but visit with one another. ■(chiefly in biblical use) (of God) come to (a person or place) in order to bring comfort or salvation.
2 (often be visited) inflict (something harmful or unpleasant) on someone: the mockery visited upon him by his schoolmates.
■(of something harmful or unpleasant) afflict (someone): they were visited with epidemics of a strange disease. ■archaic punish (a person or a wrongful act): offences were visited with the loss of eyes or ears.
▶ noun an act of going or coming to see a person or place socially, as a tourist, or for some other purpose: a visit to the doctor.
■a temporary stay with a person or at a place. ■US an informal conversation.
– DERIVATIVES visitable adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French visiter or Latin visitare 'go to see', frequentative of visare 'to view', from videre 'to see'.

visitant ▶ noun chiefly poetic/literary a supernatural being or agency; an apparition.
■archaic a visitor or guest. ■Ornithology a visitor.
▶ adjective archaic or poetic/literary paying a visit: the housekeeper was abrupt with the poor visitant niece.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from French, or from Latin visitant- 'going to see', from the verb visitare (see VISIT).

visitation ▶ noun 1 an official or formal visit, in particular:
■(in church use) an official visit of inspection, especially one by a bishop to a church in his diocese. ■a pastoral or charitable visit, especially to the sick or poor. ■the appearance of a divine or supernatural being. ■informal an unwelcome or unduly protracted social visit. ■US a gathering with the family of a deceased person before the funeral. ■[mass noun] US Law a divorced person's right to spend time with their children in the custody of a former spouse.
2 a disaster or difficulty regarded as a divine punishment: a visitation of the plague.
3 (the Visitation) the visit of the Virgin Mary to Elizabeth related in Luke 1:39–56.
■the festival commemorating this on 31 May (formerly 2 July).
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French, or from late Latin visitatio(n-), from the verb visitare (see VISIT).

visitatorial /ˌvɪzɪtəˈtɔːrɪəl/ ▶ adjective another term for VISITORIAL.

visiting ▶ adjective [attrib.] (of a person) on a visit to a person or place: a visiting speaker.
■(of an academic) working for a fixed period of time at another institution: a visiting professor.

visiting card ▶ noun Brit. a card bearing a person's name and address, sent or left in lieu of a formal social or business visit.

visiting fireman ▶ noun US informal an important visitor to a city or organization who is given an official welcome and especially cordial treatment.
■a visitor or tourist who is accorded special attention because they are expected to spend extravagantly.

visitor ▶ noun a person visiting a person or place, especially socially or as a tourist.
■(usu. visitors) a member of a sports team on tour or playing away from home. ■Brit. a person with the right or duty of occasionally inspecting and reporting on a college or other academic institution. ■Ornithology a migratory bird present in a locality for only part of the year.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French visitour, from Old French visiter (see VISIT).

visitorial ▶ adjective of or relating to an official visitor or visitation: visitorial jurisdiction.

visitors' book ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a book in which visitors to a public building write their names and addresses, and sometimes remarks.

Visking /ˈvɪskɪŋ/ (also Visking tubing) ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark a type of seamless cellulose tubing used as a membrane in dialysis and as an edible casing for sausages.
– ORIGIN 1930s: named after the Visking Corporation of Chicago, US.

vis medicatrix naturae /vɪs mɛdɪˌkeɪtrɪks ˈnatʃərʌɪ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the body's natural ability to heal itself.
– ORIGIN Latin, 'the healing power of nature'.

visna /ˈvɪznə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Veterinary Medicine a fatal disease of sheep in which there is progressive demyelination of neurons in the brain and spinal cord, caused by the maedi virus.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from Old Norse, 'to wither'.

visor /ˈvʌɪzə/ (also vizor) ▶ noun a movable part of a helmet that can be pulled down to cover the face.
■a screen for protecting the eyes from unwanted light, especially one at the top of a vehicle windscreen. ■N. Amer. a stiff peak at the front of a cap. ■historical a mask.
– DERIVATIVES visored adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French viser, from Old French vis 'face', from Latin visus (see VISAGE).

Visqueen /ˈvɪskwiːn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark a durable polyethylene sheeting, used in various building applications and in the manufacture of waterproof household articles.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from VISKING, with humorous alteration of -king to -queen.

vista ▶ noun a pleasing view, especially one seen through a long, narrow opening: a vista of church spires.
■a mental view of a succession of remembered or anticipated events: vistas of freedom seemed to open ahead of him.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Italian, literally 'view', from visto 'seen', past participle of vedere 'see', from Latin videre.

vista dome ▶ noun N. Amer. an observation compartment in the roof of a railway carriage.

Vistavision ▶ noun [mass noun] US trademark a form of widescreen cinematography employing standard 35 mm film in such a way as to give a larger projected image using ordinary methods of projection.

Vistula /ˈvɪstjʊlə/ a river in Poland which rises in the Carpathian Mountains and flows 940 km (592 miles) generally northwards, through Cracow and Warsaw, to the Baltic near Gdańsk. Polish name WISŁA.

visual /ˈvɪʒjʊəl, -zj-/ ▶ adjective of or relating to seeing or sight: visual perception.
▶ noun (usu. visuals) a picture, piece of film, or display used to illustrate or accompany something.
– DERIVATIVES visuality noun, visually adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (originally describing a beam imagined to proceed from the eye and make vision possible): from late Latin visualis, from Latin visus 'sight', from videre 'to see'. The current noun sense dates from the 1950s.

visual agnosia ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a condition in which a person can see but cannot recognize or interpret visual information, due to a disorder in the parietal lobes.

visual aid ▶ noun 1 (usu. visual aids) an item of illustrative matter, such as a film, slide, or model, designed to supplement written or spoken information so that it can be understood more easily.
2 a device used to improve vision, such as a magnifying glass or glasses.

visual angle ▶ noun Optics the angle formed at the eye by rays from the extremities of an object viewed.

visual binary ▶ noun Astronomy a binary star of which the components are sufficiently far apart to be resolved by an optical telescope.

visual cortex ▶ noun Anatomy the part of the cerebral cortex that receives and processes sensory nerve impulses from the eyes.

visual display unit (abbrev.: VDU) ▶ noun Computing, chiefly Brit. a device for displaying input signals as characters on a screen, typically incorporating a keyboard.

visual field ▶ noun another term for FIELD OF VISION.

visualize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 form a mental image of; imagine: it is not easy to visualize the future. 2 make (something) visible to the eye: the DNA was visualized by staining with ethidium bromide.

– DERIVATIVES visualizable adjective, visualization noun.

visual purple ▶ noun [mass noun] a purplish-red light-sensitive pigment present in the retinas of humans and many other animal groups.

visual ray ▶ noun Optics an imaginary line representing the path of light from an object to the eye.

visuomotor /ˈvɪʒjʊəˌ(ʊ)məʊtə, -zj-/ ▶ adjective [attrib.] relating to or denoting the coordination of movement and visual perception by the brain.

visuospatial /ˌvɪʒjʊəʊˈspeɪʃ(ə)l, -zj-/ ▶ adjective [attrib.] Psychology relating to or denoting the visual perception of the spatial relationships of objects.

vital ▶ adjective 1 absolutely necessary; essential: secrecy is of vital importance | it is vital that the system is regularly maintained.
■indispensable to the continuance of life: the vital organs.
2 full of energy; lively: a beautiful, vital girl.
3 archaic fatal: the wound is vital.
▶ noun (vitals) the body's important internal organs.
– DERIVATIVES vitally adverb [as submodifier] eating sensibly is vitally important for health.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (describing the animating principle of living beings, also in sense 2): via Old French from Latin vitalis, from vita 'life'. The sense 'essential' dates from the early 17th cent.

vital capacity ▶ noun the greatest volume of air that can be expelled from the lungs after taking the deepest possible breath.

vital force ▶ noun [mass noun] the energy or spirit which animates living creatures; the soul.
■Philosophy (in some theories, particularly that of Bergson) a hypothetical force, independent of physical and chemical forces, regarded as being the causative factor in the evolution and development of living organisms. [ORIGIN: translating French élan vital.] ■ [count noun] a person or thing that gives something vitality and strength: he was a vital force in British music.

vitalism ▶ noun [mass noun] the theory that the origin and phenomena of life are dependent on a force or principle distinct from purely chemical or physical forces.
– DERIVATIVES vitalist noun & adjective, vitalistic adjective.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from French vitalisme, or from VITAL + -ISM.

vitality ▶ noun [mass noun] the state of being strong and active; energy: changes that will give renewed vitality to our democracy.
■the power giving continuance of life, present in all living things: the vitality of seeds.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Latin vitalitas, from vitalis (see VITAL).

vitalize /ˈvʌɪt(ə)lʌɪz/ (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] give strength and energy to: yoga calms and vitalizes body and mind.
– DERIVATIVES vitalization noun.

vital signs ▶ plural noun clinical measurements, specifically pulse rate, temperature, respiration rate, and blood pressure, that indicate the state of a patient's essential body functions.

vital statistics ▶ plural noun 1 quantitative data concerning the population, such as the number of births, marriages, and deaths.
2 informal the measurements of a woman's bust, waist, and hips.

vitamin /ˈvɪtəmɪn, ˈvʌɪt-/ ▶ noun any of a group of organic compounds which are essential for normal growth and nutrition and are required in small quantities in the diet because they cannot be synthesized by the body.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Latin vita 'life' + AMINE, because vitamins were originally thought to contain an amino acid.

vitamin A ▶ noun another term for RETINOL.

vitamin B ▶ noun [mass noun] any of a group of substances (the vitamin B complex) which are essential for the working of certain enzymes in the body and, although not chemically related, are generally found together in the same foods. They include thiamine (vitamin B_1), riboflavin (vitamin B_2), pyridoxine (vitamin B_6), and cyanocobalamin (vitamin B_{12}).

vitamin C ▶ noun another term for ASCORBIC ACID.

vitamin D ▶ noun [mass noun] any of a group of vitamins found in liver and fish oils, essential for the absorption of calcium and the prevention of rickets in children and osteomalacia in adults. They include calciferol (vitamin D_2) and cholecalciferol (vitamin D_3).

vitamin E ▶ noun another term for TOCOPHEROL.

vitamin H ▶ noun chiefly US another term for BIOTIN.

vitaminize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] add vitamins to (food): [as adj. vitaminized] vitaminized biscuits.

vitamin K ▶ noun [mass noun] any of a group of vitamins found mainly in green leaves and essential for the blood-clotting process. They include phylloquinone (vitamin K_1) and menaquinone (vitamin K_2).

vitamin M ▶ noun chiefly US another term for FOLIC ACID.

vitamin P ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly US the bioflavanoids, regarded collectively as a vitamin.

Vitebsk /ˈvʲitʲipsk/ Russian name for VITSEBSK.

vitelli plural form of VITELLUS.

vitellin /vɪˈtɛlɪn, vʌɪ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry the chief protein constituent of egg yolk.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from VITELLUS + -IN[1].

vitelline /vɪˈtɛlʌɪn, vʌɪ-, -lɪn/ ▶ adjective Zoology & Embryology of or relating to the yolk (or yolk sac) of an egg or embryo, or to yolk-producing organs.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'coloured like egg yolk'): from medieval Latin vitellinus, from vitellus (see VITELLUS).

vitelline membrane ▶ noun Embryology a transparent membrane surrounding and secreted by the fertilized ovum, preventing the entry of further spermatozoa.

Vitellius /vɪˈtɛlɪəs/, Aulus (15–69), Roman emperor. He was acclaimed emperor in January 69 by the legions in Germany during the civil wars that followed the death of Nero. He defeated Otho but was killed by the supporters of Vespasian.

vitellogenin /vɪˌtɛlə(ʊ)ˈdʒɛnɪn, ˌvɪt(ə)ləʊˈdʒɛnɪn/ ▶ noun Biochemistry a protein present in the blood, from which the substance of egg yolk is derived.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from VITELLUS + -GEN + -IN[1].

vitello tonnato /vɪˈtɛləʊ tɒˈnɑːtəʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an Italian dish consisting of roast or poached veal served cold in a tuna and anchovy mayonnaise.
– ORIGIN Italian, from vitello 'veal' + tonno 'tuna'.

vitellus /vɪˈtɛləs, vʌɪ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Embryology the yolk of an egg or ovum.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin, literally 'yolk'.

vitiate /ˈvɪʃɪeɪt/ ▶ verb [with obj.] formal spoil or impair the quality or efficiency of: development programmes have been vitiated by the rise in population.
■destroy or impair the legal validity of.
– DERIVATIVES vitiation noun, vitiator noun.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin vitiat- 'impaired', from the verb vitiare, from vitium (see VICE[1]).

viticulture /ˈvɪtɪˌkʌltʃə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the cultivation of grapevines.
■the study of grape cultivation.
– DERIVATIVES viticultural adjective, viticulturist noun.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Latin vitis 'vine' + CULTURE, on the pattern of words such as agriculture.

Viti Levu /ˌviːtiː ˈlɛvuː/ the largest of the Fiji islands. Its chief settlement is Suva.

vitiligo /ˌvɪtɪˈlʌɪgəʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a condition in which the pigment is lost from areas of the skin, causing whitish patches, often with no clear cause. Also called LEUCODERMA.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Latin, literally 'tetter'.

Vitoria /vɪˈtɔːrɪə, Spanish biˈtorja/ a city in NE Spain, capital of the Basque Provinces; pop. 208,570 (1991). In 1813 Wellington defeated a French force there, and thus freed Spain from French domination.

Vitória /vɪˈtɔːrɪə/ a port in eastern Brazil, capital of the state of Espírito Santo; pop. 276,170 (1990).

vitrectomy /vɪˈtrɛktəmi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the surgical operation of removing the vitreous humour from the eyeball.

vitreous /ˈvɪtrɪəs/ ▶ adjective like glass in appearance or physical properties.
■(of a substance) derived from or containing glass: toilet and bidet are made of vitreous china.
– DERIVATIVES vitreousness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin vitreus (from vitrum 'glass') + -OUS.

vitreous humour ▶ noun [mass noun] the transparent jelly-like tissue filling the eyeball behind the lens. Compare with AQUEOUS HUMOUR.

vitrescent /vɪˈtrɛs(ə)nt/ ▶ adjective rare capable of or susceptible to being turned into glass.
– DERIVATIVES vitrescence noun.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Latin vitrum 'glass' + -ESCENT.

vitriform /ˈvɪtrɪfɔːm/ ▶ adjective having the form or appearance of glass.

vitrify /ˈvɪtrɪfʌɪ/ ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [with obj.] (often be vitrified) convert (something) into glass or a glass-like substance, typically by exposure to heat.
– DERIVATIVES vitrifaction /-ˈfakʃ(ə)n/ noun, vitrifiable adjective, vitrification /-fɪˈkeɪʃ(ə)n/ noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from French vitrifier or based on Latin vitrum 'glass'.

vitrine /ˈvɪtriːn/ ▶ noun a glass display case.
– ORIGIN French, from vitre 'glass pane'.

vitriol /ˈvɪtrɪəl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] archaic or poetic/literary sulphuric acid.
■figurative cruel and bitter criticism: her mother's sudden gush of fury and vitriol.
– DERIVATIVES vitriolic adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting the sulphate of various metals): from Old French, or from medieval Latin vitriolum, from Latin vitrum 'glass'.

Vitruvius /vɪˈtruːvɪəs/ (fl. 1st century BC), Roman architect and military engineer; full name Marcus Vitruvius Pollio. He wrote a comprehensive ten-volume treatise on architecture which includes matters such as acoustics and water supply as well as the more obvious aspects of architectural design, decoration, and building.

Vitsebsk /ˈviːtsjɛbsk/ a city in NE Belarus; pop. 356,000 (1990). Russian name VITEBSK.

vitta /ˈvɪtə/ ▶ noun (pl. vittae /ˈvɪtiː/) Zoology a band or stripe of colour.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin, literally 'band, chaplet'.

vittle ▶ noun archaic variant spelling of VICTUAL.

vituperate /vɪˈtjuːpəreɪt, vʌɪ-/ ▶ verb [with obj.] archaic blame or insult (someone) in strong or violent language.
– DERIVATIVES vituperator noun.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin vituperat- 'censured, disparaged', from the verb vituperare, from vitium 'fault' + parare 'prepare'.

vituperation ▶ noun [mass noun] bitter and abusive language: no one else attracted such vituperation from him.

vituperative /vɪˈtjuːp(ə)rətɪv, vʌɪ-/ ▶ adjective bitter and abusive: the criticism soon turned into a vituperative attack.

Vitus, St /ˈvʌɪtəs/ (died c.300), Christian martyr. He was the patron of those who suffered from epilepsy and certain nervous disorders, including St Vitus's dance (Sydenham's chorea). Feast day, 15 June.

viva[1] /ˈvʌɪvə/ Brit. ▶ noun short for VIVA VOCE.
▶ verb (vivas, vivaed /-vəd/ or viva'd, vivaing) [with obj.] (often be vivaed) subject (someone) to an oral examination.

viva[2] /ˈviːvə/ ▶ exclamation long live! (used to express acclaim or support for a specified person or thing): 'Viva Mexico!'
▶ noun a cry of this as a salute or cheer.
– ORIGIN Italian.

vivace /vɪˈvɑːtʃeɪ/ Music ▶ adverb & adjective (especially as a direction) in a lively and brisk manner.
▶ noun a passage or movement marked to be performed in this manner.
– ORIGIN Italian, 'brisk, lively', from Latin vivax, vivac-.

vivacious /vɪˈveɪʃəs, vʌɪ-/ ▶ adjective (especially of a woman) attractively lively and animated.
– DERIVATIVES vivaciously adverb, vivaciousness noun, vivacity noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin vivax, vivac- 'lively, vigorous' (from vivere 'to live') + -IOUS.

Vivaldi /vɪˈvaldi/, Antonio (Lucio) (1678–1741), Italian composer and violinist, one of the most important baroque composers. His feeling for texture and melody is evident in his numerous compositions such as The Four Seasons (concerto, 1725).

vivarium /vʌɪ'vɛːrɪəm, vɪ-/ ▶ noun (pl. vivaria /-rɪə/) an enclosure, container, or structure adapted or prepared for keeping animals under semi-natural conditions for observation or study or as pets; an aquarium or terrarium.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin, literally 'warren, fish pond', from vivus 'living', from vivere 'to live'.

vivat /'vʌɪvat, 'viː-/ ▶ exclamation & noun Latin term for VIVA[2].

viva voce /ˌvʌɪvə 'vəʊtʃeɪ, 'vəʊtʃi/ ▶ adjective (especially of an examination) oral rather than written.
▶ adverb orally rather than in writing.
▶ noun (also viva) Brit. an oral examination, typically for an academic qualification.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from medieval Latin, literally 'with the living voice'.

Vivekananda /ˌvɪveɪkɑː'nʌndə/, Swami (1863–1902), Indian spiritual leader and reformer; born Narendranath Datta. He spread the teachings of the Indian mystic Ramakrishna and introduced Vedantic philosophy to the US and Europe.

vive la difference /ˌviːv lɑː ˌdɪfə'rɒns/ ▶ exclamation chiefly humorous an expression of approval of difference, especially that between the sexes.
– ORIGIN from French vive la différence, literally 'long live the difference'.

viverrid /vɪ'vɛrɪd, vʌɪ-/ ▶ noun Zoology a mammal of the civet family (Viverridae).
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from modern Latin Viverridae, from Latin viverra 'ferret'.

vivers /'vʌɪvəz/ ▶ plural noun Scottish food; provisions.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from French vivres, from vivre 'to live', from Latin vivere.

vivianite /'vɪvɪənʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a mineral consisting of a phosphate of iron which occurs as a secondary mineral in ore deposits. It is colourless when fresh but becomes blue or green with oxidization.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: named after John H. Vivian (1785–1855), British mineralogist, + -ITE[1].

vivid ▶ adjective 1 producing powerful feelings or strong, clear images in the mind: memories of that evening were still vivid | a vivid description.
■(of a colour) intensely deep or bright.
2 archaic (of a person or animal) lively and vigorous.
– DERIVATIVES vividly adverb, vividness noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin vividus, from vivere 'to live'.

vivify /'vɪvɪfʌɪ/ ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [with obj.] enliven or animate: outings vivify learning for children.
– DERIVATIVES vivification /-fɪ'keɪʃ(ə)n/ noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from French vivifier, from late Latin vivificare, from Latin vivus 'living', from vivere 'to live'.

viviparous /vɪ'vɪp(ə)rəs, vʌɪ-/ ▶ adjective Zoology (of an animal) bringing forth live young which have developed inside the body of the parent. Compare with OVIPAROUS and OVOVIVIPAROUS.
■Botany (of a plant) reproducing from buds which form plantlets while still attached to the parent plant, or from seeds which germinate within the fruit.
– DERIVATIVES viviparity /ˌvɪvɪ'parɪti/ noun, viviparously adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin viviparus (from vivus 'alive' + -parus 'bearing') + -OUS.

viviparous lizard ▶ noun a small brownish-grey Eurasian lizard which gives birth to live young which have hatched from eggs inside the female.
• Lacerta vivipara, family Lacertidae. Alternative name: common lizard.

vivisect /'vɪvɪsɛkt, ˌvɪvɪ'sɛkt/ ▶ verb [with obj.] perform vivisection on (an animal) (used only by people who are opposed to the practice).
– DERIVATIVES vivisector noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: back-formation from VIVISECTION.

vivisection ▶ noun [mass noun] the practice of performing operations on live animals for the purpose of experimentation or scientific research (used only by people who are opposed to such work).
■figurative ruthlessly sharp and detailed criticism or analysis: the vivisection of America's seamy underbelly.
– DERIVATIVES vivisectionist noun & adjective.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin vivus 'living', on the pattern of dissection.

vixen ▶ noun a female fox.
■a spiteful or quarrelsome woman.
– DERIVATIVES vixenish adjective – ORIGIN late Middle English fixen, perhaps from the Old English adjective fyxen 'of a fox'. The v- is from the form of the word in southern English dialect.

Viyella /vʌɪ'ɛlə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark a fabric made from a twilled mixture of cotton and wool.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Via Gellia, a valley in Derbyshire where it was first made.

viz. ▶ adverb namely; in other words (used especially to introduce a gloss or explanation): the first music reproducing media, viz., the music box and the player piano.
– ORIGIN abbreviation of VIDELICET, z being a medieval Latin symbol for -et.

vizard /'vɪzəd/ ▶ noun archaic a mask or disguise.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: alteration of VISOR.

vizier /vɪ'zɪə, 'vɪzɪə/ ▶ noun historical a high official in some Muslim countries, especially in Turkey under Ottoman rule.
– DERIVATIVES vizierate /-rət/ noun, vizierial /vɪ'zɪərɪəl/ adjective, viziership noun.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: via Turkish from Arabic wazīr 'caliph's chief counsellor'.

vizor ▶ noun variant spelling of VISOR.

vizsla /'vɪʒlə/ ▶ noun a dog of a breed of golden-brown pointer with large drooping ears.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from the name of a town in Hungary.

VJ ▶ abbreviation for video jockey.

VJ day ▶ noun the day (15 August) in 1945 on which Japan ceased fighting in the Second World War, or the day (2 September) when Japan formally surrendered.
– ORIGIN VJ, abbreviation of Victory over Japan.

Vlach /vlak/ ▶ noun a member of the indigenous population of Romania and Moldova, claiming descent from the inhabitants of the Roman province of Dacia.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people.
– ORIGIN from a Slavic word meaning 'foreigner', from a Germanic word related to Old English Wælisc (see WELSH). Compare with WALLACHIA.

Vladikavkaz /ˌvladɪkaf'kɑːs/ a city in SW Russia, capital of the autonomous republic of North Ossetia; pop. 306,000 (1990). Former names ORDZHONIKIDZE (1931–44 and 1954–93) and DZAUDZHIKAU (1944–54).

Vladimir /'vladɪˌmɪə, vlə'diːmɪə/ a city in European Russia, east of Moscow; pop. 353,000 (1990).

Vladimir I (956–1015), grand prince of Kiev 980–1015; known as Vladimir the Great; canonized as St Vladimir. His marriage to a sister of the Byzantine emperor Basil II resulted in his conversion to Christianity and in Christianity in Russia developing in close association with the Orthodox Church. Feast day, 15 July.

Vladivostok /ˌvladɪ'vɒstɒk/ a city in the extreme south-east of Russia, on the coast of the Sea of Japan, capital of Primorsky; pop. 643,000 (1990). It is the chief port of Russia's Pacific coast.

Vlaminck /vla'maŋk, French vlamɛ̃k/, Maurice de (1876–1958), French painter and writer. With Derain and Matisse he became a leading exponent of fauvism, though later his colour became more subdued.

vlast /vlast/ ▶ noun (pl. vlasti /-ti/) [mass noun] (in countries of the former USSR) political power or authority.
■(the vlasti) members of the government; people holding political power.
– ORIGIN Russian.

vlei /fleɪ, vlʌɪ/ ▶ noun S. African a shallow natural pool of water.
■[mass noun] low-lying, marshy ground, covered with water during the rainy season.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, from Dutch vallei 'valley'.

vlei rat ▶ noun see SWAMP RAT.

VLF ▶ abbreviation for very low frequency (denoting radio waves of frequency 3–30 kHz and wavelength 10–100 km).

Vlissingen /'vlɪsɪŋə(n)/ Dutch name for FLUSHING.

Vlorë /'vlɔːrə/ a port in SW Albania, on the Adriatic coast; pop. 55,800 (1990). Also called VLONA /'vlɔʊnə/, Italian name VALONA.

VLSI Electronics ▶ abbreviation for very large-scale integration, the process of integrating hundreds of thousands of components on a single silicon chip.

Vltava /'vəltəvə/ a river of the Czech Republic, which rises in the Bohemian Forest on the German–Czech border and flows 435 km (270 miles) generally northwards, passing through Prague before joining the Elbe north of the city. German name MOLDAU.

VN ▶ abbreviation for Vietnam (international vehicle registration).

V-neck ▶ noun a neckline of a garment, having straight sides meeting at a point to form a V-shape.
■a garment with a neckline of this type.
– DERIVATIVES V-necked adjective.

VO ▶ abbreviation for (in the UK) Royal Victorian Order.

vobla /'vɒbla/ ▶ noun [mass noun] dried and smoked roach eaten in Russia as a delicacy.
– ORIGIN Russian.

vocable /'vəʊkəb(ə)l/ ▶ noun a word, especially with reference to form rather than meaning.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting a name): from French, or from Latin vocabulum, from vocare 'call'.

vocabulary ▶ noun (pl. -ies) the body of words used in a particular language.
■a part of such a body of words used on a particular occasion or in a particular sphere: the vocabulary of law | [mass noun] the term became part of business vocabulary. ■the body of words known to an individual person: he had a wide vocabulary. ■a list of difficult or unfamiliar words with an explanation of their meanings, accompanying a piece of specialist or foreign-language text. ■a range of artistic or stylistic forms, techniques, or movements: dance companies have their own vocabularies of movement.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (denoting a list of words with definitions or translations): from medieval Latin vocabularius, from Latin vocabulum (see VOCABLE).

vocal ▶ adjective 1 of or relating to the human voice: non-linguistic vocal effects like laughs and sobs.
■Anatomy used in the production of speech sounds: the vocal apparatus.
2 expressing opinions or feelings freely or loudly: he was vocal in condemning the action.
3 (of music) consisting of or incorporating singing.
▶ noun (often vocals) a part of a piece of music that is sung.
■a musical performance involving singing.
– DERIVATIVES vocality noun, vocally adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin vocalis, from vox, voc- (see VOICE). Current senses of the noun date from the 1920s.

vocal cords (also vocal folds) ▶ plural noun folds of membranous tissue which project inwards from the sides of the larynx to form a slit across the glottis in the throat, and whose edges vibrate in the airstream to produce the voice.

vocalese /ˌvəʊkə'liːz/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a style of singing in which singers put words to jazz tunes, especially to previously improvised instrumental solos.

vocalic /və(ʊ)'kalɪk/ ▶ adjective Phonetics of, relating to, or consisting of a vowel or vowels.

vocalise /ˌvəʊkə'liːz, 'vəʊkəliːz/ ▶ noun Music a singing exercise using individual syllables or vowel sounds to develop flexibility and control of pitch and tone.
■a vocal passage consisting of a melody without words: the second movement is in the spirit of a vocalise.

vocalism ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] the use of the voice or vocal organs in speech.
■the skill or art of exercising the voice in singing.
2 Phonetics a vowel sound or articulation.
■a system of vowels used in a given language.

vocalist ▶ noun a singer, typically one who regularly performs with a jazz or pop group.

vocalize /'vəʊk(ə)lʌɪz/ (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] 1 utter (a sound or word): the child vocalizes a number of distinct sounds | [no obj.] a warbler vocalized from a reed bed.
■express (something) with words: Gillie could scarcely vocalize her responses. ■[no obj.] Music sing with several notes to one vowel.

2 Phonetics change (a consonant) to a semivowel or vowel.
3 write (a language such as Hebrew) with vowel points.
– DERIVATIVES vocalization noun, vocalizer noun.

vocal sac ▶ noun Zoology (in many male frogs) a loose fold of skin on each side of the mouth, which can be inflated to produce sound.

vocal score ▶ noun a musical score showing the voice parts in full, but with the accompaniment reduced or omitted.

vocation /və(ʊ)'keɪʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun a strong feeling of suitability for a particular career or occupation: not all of us have a vocation to be nurses or doctors.
■a person's employment or main occupation, especially regarded as particularly worthy and requiring great dedication: her vocation as a poet. ■ a trade or profession.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, or from Latin vocatio(n-), from vocare 'to call'.

vocational ▶ adjective of or relating to an occupation or employment: they supervised prisoners in vocational activities.
■(of education or training) directed at a particular occupation and its skills.
– DERIVATIVES vocationalism noun, vocationalize (also -ise) verb, vocationally adverb.

vocative /'vɒkətɪv/ Grammar ▶ adjective relating to or denoting a case of nouns, pronouns, and adjectives in Latin and other languages, used in addressing or invoking a person or thing.
▶ noun a word in the vocative case.
■(the vocative) the vocative case.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French vocatif, -ive or Latin vocativus, from vocare 'to call'.

vociferate /və(ʊ)'sɪfəreɪt/ ▶ verb [no obj.] shout, complain, or argue loudly or vehemently: he then began to vociferate pretty loudly | [with obj.] he entered, vociferating curses.
– DERIVATIVES vociferant adjective, vociferation noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Latin vociferat- 'exclaimed', from the verb vociferari, from vox 'voice' + ferre 'carry'.

vociferous ▶ adjective (especially of a person or speech) vehement or clamorous: he was a vociferous opponent of the takeover.
– DERIVATIVES vociferously adverb, vociferousness noun.

vocoder /vəʊ'kəʊdə/ ▶ noun a synthesizer that produces sounds from an analysis of speech input.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from VOICE + CODE + -ER[1].

VOD ▶ abbreviation for video-on-demand.

vodka /'vɒdkə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an alcoholic spirit of Russian origin made by distillation of rye, wheat, or potatoes.
– ORIGIN Russian, diminutive of voda 'water'.

vodun /'vəʊduːn/ ▶ noun another term for VOODOO.
– ORIGIN Fon, 'fetish'.

voe /vəʊ/ ▶ noun a small bay or creek in Orkney or Shetland.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Norwegian våg, from Old Norse vágr.

voetsak /'fʊtsak/ ▶ verb [no obj., usu. in imperative] S. African informal go away: voetsak out of here! | [as exclamation] 150,000 rand for a Mercedes? Voetsak!
– ORIGIN South African Dutch, contraction of Dutch voort seg ik! 'away, say I!'.

voetstoots /'fʊtˌstʊəts/ ▶ adverb & adjective S. African Law (of a sale or purchase) without guarantee or warranty; at the buyer's risk: [as adv.] the property is sold voetstoots | [as adj.] auctions are voetstoots deals.
■without reservation or qualification: [as adv.] I'm not entirely in favour of school uniforms voetstoots.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, from the Dutch phrase met de voet te stoten 'to push with the foot'.

vogue ▶ noun [usu. in sing.] the prevailing fashion or style at a particular time: the vogue is to make realistic films.
■[mass noun] general acceptance or favour; popularity: crochet garments are in vogue this season.
▶ adjective [attrib.] popular; fashionable: 'citizenship' was to be the government's vogue word.
– DERIVATIVES voguish adjective.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (in the vogue, denoting the foremost place in popular estimation): from French, from Italian voga 'rowing, fashion', from vogare 'row, go well'.

voice ▶ noun 1 the sound produced in a person's larynx and uttered through the mouth, as speech or song: Meg raised her voice | [mass noun] a worried tone of voice.
■an agency by which a particular point of view is expressed or represented: once the proud voice of middle-class conservatism, the paper had fallen on hard times. ■ [in sing.] the right to express an opinion: the new electoral system gives minority parties a voice. ■ a particular opinion or attitude expressed: a dissenting voice. ■ the ability to speak or sing: she'd lost her voice. ■ (usu. voices) the supposed utterance of a guiding spirit, typically giving instructions or advice. ■ the distinctive tone or style of a literary work or author: she had strained and falsified her literary voice.
2 Music the range of pitch or type of tone with which a person sings, such as soprano or tenor.
■a vocal part in a composition. ■ a constituent part in a fugue. ■ each of the notes or sounds able to be produced simultaneously by a musical instrument (especially an electronic one) or a computer. ■ (in an electronic musical instrument) each of a number of preset or programmable tones.
3 [mass noun] Phonetics sound uttered with resonance of the vocal cords (used in the pronunciation of vowels and certain consonants).
4 Grammar a form or set of forms of a verb showing the relation of the subject to the action: the passive voice.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 express (something) in words: get teachers to voice their opinions on important subjects.
2 [usu. as adj. voiced] Phonetics utter (a speech sound) with resonance of the vocal cords (e.g. b, d, g, v, z).
3 Music regulate the tone quality of (organ pipes).
– PHRASES give voice to allow (a particular emotion, opinion, or point of view) to be expressed. ■ allow (a person or group) to express their emotions, opinion, or point of view. in voice in proper vocal condition for singing or speaking: the soprano is in marvellous voice. with one voice in complete agreement; unanimously.
– DERIVATIVES voiced adjective [in combination] deep-voiced, voicer noun (only in sense 3 of the verb).
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vois, from Latin vox, voc-.

voice box ▶ noun the larynx.

voice channel ▶ noun Telecommunications a channel with a bandwidth sufficiently great to accommodate speech.

voice coil ▶ noun Telecommunications a coil that drives the cone of a loudspeaker according to the signal current flowing in it.
■a similar coil with the converse function in a moving-coil microphone.

voiceful ▶ adjective poetic/literary possessing a voice: the swelling of the voiceful sea.

voiceless ▶ adjective mute; speechless: how could he have remained voiceless in the face of her cruelty?
■not expressed: the air was charged with voiceless currents of thought. ■ (of a person or group) lacking the power or right to express an opinion or exert control over affairs. ■ Phonetics (of a speech sound) uttered without resonance of the vocal cords (e.g. f, k, p, s, t).
– DERIVATIVES voicelessly adverb, voicelessness noun.

voicemail ▶ noun [mass noun] a centralized electronic system which can store messages from telephone callers.

Voice of America an official US radio station founded in 1942, operated by the Board for International Broadcasting, that broadcasts around the world in English and other languages.

voice-over ▶ noun a piece of narration in a film or broadcast, not accompanied by an image of the speaker.
▶ verb [with obj.] narrate (spoken material) for a film or broadcast in this way.

voiceprint ▶ noun a visual record of speech, analysed with respect to frequency, duration, and amplitude.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from the noun VOICE, on the pattern of fingerprint.

voice vote ▶ noun a vote taken by noting the relative strength and volume of calls of aye and no.

void /vɔɪd/ ▶ adjective 1 not valid or legally binding: the contract was void.
■(of speech or action) ineffectual; useless: all the stratagems you've worked out are rendered void.
2 completely empty: void spaces surround the tanks.
■[predic.] (void of) free from; lacking: what were once the masterpieces of literature are now void of meaning. ■ formal (of an office or position) vacant.
3 [predic.] (in bridge and whist) having been dealt no cards in a particular suit.
▶ noun 1 a completely empty space: the black void of space.
■an emptiness caused by the loss of something: the void left by the collapse of the regime. ■ an unfilled space in a wall, building, or structure.
2 (in bridge and whist) a suit in which a player is dealt no cards.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 chiefly US declare that (something) is not valid or legally binding: the Supreme court voided the statute.
2 discharge or drain away (water, gases, etc.).
■chiefly Medicine excrete (waste matter). ■ [usu. as adj. voided] empty or evacuate (a container or space).
– DERIVATIVES voidable adjective, voidness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'unoccupied'): from a dialect variant of Old French vuide; related to Latin vacare 'vacate'; the verb partly a shortening of AVOID, reinforced by Old French voider.

voidance ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of voiding something or the state of being voided: the voidance of exhaust gases.
■[count noun] chiefly Law an annulment of a contract. ■ [count noun] Christian Church a vacancy in a benefice.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French, from the verb voider (see VOID).

voided ▶ adjective Heraldry (of a bearing) having the central area cut away so as to show the field.

voila /vwʌ'lɑː/ ▶ exclamation there it is; there you are: 'Voila!' she said, producing a pair of strappy white sandals.
– ORIGIN French voilà.

voile /vɔɪl, vwɑːl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a thin, semi-transparent fabric of cotton, wool, or silk.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: French, literally 'veil'.

voir dire /ˌvwɑː 'dɪə/ (also voire dire) ▶ noun Law a preliminary examination of a witness by a judge or counsel.
– ORIGIN Law French, from Old French voir 'true' + dire 'say'.

voix celeste /ˌvwʌ sə'lɛst/ ▶ noun French term for VOX ANGELICA.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: French, literally 'heavenly voice'.

Vojvodina /vɔɪ'vɒdɪnə/ a mainly Hungarian-speaking province of northern Serbia, on the Hungarian border; capital, Novi Sad.

vol. ▶ abbreviation for volume.

Volans /'vəʊlənz/ Astronomy an inconspicuous southern constellation (the Flying Fish), between Carina and the south celestial pole.
■[as genitive Volantis /və(ʊ)'lantɪs/] used with preceding letter or numeral to designate a star in this constellation: the star Beta Volantis.
– ORIGIN Latin, from the former name Piscis Volans.

volant /'vəʊlənt/ ▶ adjective Zoology (of an animal) able to fly or glide: newly volant young.
■of, relating to, or characterized by flight: volant ways of life. ■ [usu. postpositive] Heraldry represented as flying: a falcon volant. ■ poetic/literary moving rapidly or lightly: her sails caught a volant wind.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (as a military term in the sense 'capable of rapid movement'): from French, literally 'flying', present participle of voler, from Latin volare 'to fly'.

Volapük /'vɒləˌp(j)uːk/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an artificial language devised in 1879 for universal use by a German cleric, Johann M. Schleyer, and based on extremely modified forms of words from English and Romance languages, with complex inflections.
– ORIGIN from vol representing English world + -a- (as a connective) + pük representing English speak or speech.

volar /'vəʊlə/ ▶ adjective Anatomy relating to the palm of the hand or the sole of the foot.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Latin vola 'hollow of hand or foot' + -AR[1].

volatile /'vɒlətʌɪl/ ▶ adjective 1 (of a substance) easily evaporated at normal temperatures.
2 liable to change rapidly and unpredictably, especially for the worse: the political situation was becoming more volatile.
■(of a person) liable to display rapid changes of emotion. ■ (of a computer's memory) retaining data only as long as there is a power supply connected.
▶ noun (usu. volatiles) a volatile substance.

– DERIVATIVES volatility noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'creature that flies', also, as a collective, 'birds'): from Old French volatil or Latin volatilis, from volare 'to fly'.

volatile oil ▶ noun another term for ESSENTIAL OIL.

volatilize /və'latɪlʌɪz, 'vɒlətɪlʌɪz/ (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] cause (a substance) to evaporate or disperse in vapour.
■ [no obj.] become volatile; evaporate.
– DERIVATIVES volatilizable adjective, volatilization noun.

vol-au-vent /'vɒlə(ʊ)vɒ̃/ ▶ noun a small round case of puff pastry filled with a savoury mixture, typically of meat or fish in a richly flavoured sauce.
– ORIGIN French, literally 'flight in the wind'.

volcanic ▶ adjective of, relating to, or produced by a volcano or volcanoes.
■ figurative (especially of a feeling or emotion) bursting out or liable to burst out violently: the kind of volcanic passion she'd felt last night.
– DERIVATIVES volcanically adverb.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from French volcanique, from volcan (see VOLCANO).

volcanic bomb ▶ noun see BOMB (sense 2).

volcanic glass ▶ noun another term for OBSIDIAN.

volcanicity ▶ noun another term for VOLCANISM.

volcaniclastic /vɒlˌkanɪ'klastɪk/ ▶ adjective Geology relating to or denoting a clastic rock which contains volcanic material.

volcanic neck ▶ noun see NECK (sense 2).

volcanism /'vɒlkənɪz(ə)m/ (also vulcanism) ▶ noun [mass noun] Geology volcanic activity or phenomena.

volcano ▶ noun (pl. -oes or -os) a mountain or hill, typically conical, having a crater or vent through which lava, rock fragments, hot vapour, and gas are or have been erupted from the earth's crust.
■ figurative an intense suppressed emotion; a situation liable to burst out suddenly: what volcano of emotion must have been boiling inside that youngster.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Italian, from Latin Volcanus 'Vulcan'.

volcanology /ˌvɒlkə'nɒlədʒi/ (also vulcanology) ▶ noun [mass noun] the scientific study of volcanoes.
– DERIVATIVES volcanological adjective, volcanologist noun.

vole ▶ noun a small, typically burrowing, mouse-like rodent with a rounded muzzle, found in both Eurasia and North America.
• Subfamily Microtinae (or Arvicolinae), family Muridae: several genera, in particular Microtus, and numerous species.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent. (originally vole-mouse): from Norwegian voll(mus) 'field (mouse)'.

volet /'vɒleɪ/ ▶ noun a panel or wing of a triptych.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from French, literally 'shutter', from voler 'to fly'.

Volga /'vɒlgə/ the longest river in Europe, which rises in NW Russia and flows 3,688 km (2,292 miles) generally eastwards to Kazan, where it turns south-eastwards to the Caspian Sea. It has been dammed at several points to provide hydroelectric power, and is navigable for most of its length.

Volgograd /'vɒlgəgrad/ an industrial city in SW Russia, situated at the junction of the Don and Volga Rivers; pop. 1,005,000 (1990). Former names TSARITSYN (until 1925) and STALINGRAD (1925–61).

volition /və'lɪʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the faculty or power of using one's will: without conscious volition she backed into her office.
– PHRASES of (or by or on) one's own volition voluntarily: they choose to leave early of their own volition.
– DERIVATIVES volitional adjective, volitionally adverb, volitive adjective (formal or technical).
– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (denoting a decision or choice made after deliberation): from French, or from medieval Latin volitio(n-), from volo 'I wish'.

volk /fɔlk/ ▶ noun (pl. volke) S. African a nation; a people.
■ [treated as pl.] people belonging to a particular group or country: English-speaking volk. ■ [treated as pl.] (among Afrikaans-speakers) coloured or black farm workers. ■ [treated as pl.] (die/the volk) the members of the Afrikaner nation.
– ORIGIN Dutch and Afrikaans.

Völkerwanderung /'fœlkəˌvandərʊŋ, German 'fœlkɛʁˌvandərʊŋ/ ▶ noun a migration of peoples, especially that of Germanic and Slavic peoples into Europe from the 2nd to the 11th centuries.
– ORIGIN German, from Völker 'nations' + Wanderung 'migration'.

völkisch /'fəːlkɪs, German 'fœlkɪʃ/ (also volkisch /'fɒlkɪs/) ▶ adjective (of a person or ideology) populist or nationalist, and typically racist: völkisch ideas and traditions.
– ORIGIN German.

volley ▶ noun (pl. -eys) 1 a number of bullets, arrows, or other projectiles discharged at one time: the infantry let off a couple of volleys.
■ a series of utterances directed at someone in quick succession: he unleashed a volley of angry questions.
2 (in sport, especially tennis or soccer) a strike or kick of the ball made before it touches the ground.
▶ verb (-eys, -eyed) [with obj.] (in sport, especially tennis or soccer) strike or kick (the ball) before it touches the ground: he volleyed home the cross.
■ score (a goal) with such a shot. ■ utter or discharge in quick succession: the dog was volleying joyful barks.
– DERIVATIVES volleyer noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from French volée, based on Latin volare 'to fly'.

volleyball ▶ noun [mass noun] a game for two teams, usually of six players, in which a large ball is hit by hand over a high net, the aim being to score points by making the ball reach the ground on the opponent's side of the court.

Vologda /'vɒləgdə/ a city in northern Russia; pop. 286,000 (1990).

Volos /'vɒlɒs/ a port on an inlet of the Aegean Sea, in Thessaly, eastern Greece; pop. 77,190 (1991). Greek name VÓLOS /'vɔlɔs/.

volplane /'vɒlpleɪn/ Aeronautics ▶ noun a controlled dive or downward flight at a steep angle, especially by an aeroplane with the engine shut off.
▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (of an aeroplane) make such a dive or downward flight.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from French vol plané, literally 'glided flight'.

vols ▶ abbreviation for volumes (in sense 1).

Volscian /'vɒlʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun a member of an ancient Italic people who fought the Romans in Latium in the 5th and 4th centuries BC until absorbed into Rome after their final defeat in 304 BC.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Volscians.
– ORIGIN from Latin Volsci (the name of the people) + -AN.

Volstead Act /'vɒlstɪd/ a law which enforced alcohol prohibition in the US from 1920–33.
– ORIGIN named after Andrew J. Volstead (1860–1947), American legislator.

volt[1] /vəʊlt, vɒlt/ (abbrev.: V) ▶ noun the SI unit of electromotive force, the difference of potential that would carry one ampere of current against one ohm resistance.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after A. Volta (see VOLTA[2]).

volt[2] /vɒlt, vəʊlt/ ▶ noun variant spelling of VOLTE.
▶ verb [no obj.] Fencing make a quick movement to avoid a thrust.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from French volter (see VOLTE).

Volta[1] /'vɒltə/ a river of West Africa, which is formed in central Ghana by the junction of its headwaters, the Black Volta, the White Volta, and the Red Volta, which rise in Burkina. At Akosombo in SE Ghana the river has been dammed, creating Lake Volta, one of the world's largest man-made lakes.

Volta[2] /'vɒltə/, Alessandro Giuseppe Antonio Anastasio, Count (1745–1827), Italian physicist. Volta is best known for the voltaic pile or electrochemical battery (1800), the first device to produce a continuous electric current.

voltage ▶ noun Physics an electromotive force or potential difference expressed in volts.

voltage clamp Physiology ▶ noun a constant electrical potential applied to a cell membrane, typically in order to measure ionic currents.
▶ verb (voltage-clamp) [with obj.] apply a voltage clamp to (a membrane, cell, etc.).

voltage divider ▶ noun a series of resistors or capacitors which can be tapped at any intermediate point to produce a specific fraction of the voltage applied between its ends.

Voltaic ▶ adjective & noun another term for GUR.

voltaic /vɒl'teɪɪk/ ▶ adjective of or relating to electricity produced by chemical action in a primary battery; galvanic.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from the name of A. Volta (see VOLTA[2]) + -IC.

Voltaire /vɒl'tɛː, French vɔltɛʀ/ (1694–1778), French writer, dramatist, and poet; pseudonym of François-Marie Arouet. He was a leading figure of the Enlightenment, and frequently came into conflict with the Establishment as a result of his radical views and satirical writings. Notable works: Lettres philosophiques (1734) and the satire Candide (1759).

volte /vɒlt, vəʊlt/ (also volt) ▶ noun 1 Fencing a sudden quick jump or other movement to escape a thrust, especially a swinging round of the rear leg to turn the body sideways.
2 a movement performed in dressage and classical riding, in which a horse describes a circle of 6 yards diameter.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent. (as a fencing term): from French, from Italian volta 'a turn', from volgere 'to turn'. Sense 2 dates from the early 18th cent.

volte-face /vɒlt'fas, -'fɑːs/ ▶ noun an act of turning round so as to face in the opposite direction.
■ an abrupt and complete reversal of attitude, opinion, or position: a remarkable volte-face on taxes.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from French, from Italian voltafaccia, based on Latin volvere 'to roll' + facies 'appearance, face'.

voltmeter ▶ noun an instrument for measuring electric potential in volts.

voluble /'vɒljʊb(ə)l/ ▶ adjective speaking or spoken incessantly and fluently: she was as voluble as her husband was silent.
– DERIVATIVES volubility noun, volubleness noun, volubly adverb.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from French, or from Latin volubilis, from volvere 'to roll'. Earlier use in late Middle English included the senses 'rotating about an axis' and 'having a tendency to change', also meanings of the Latin word.

volume ▶ noun 1 a book forming part of a work or series.
■ a single book or a bound collection of printed sheets. ■ a consecutive sequence of issues of a periodical. ■ historical a scroll of parchment or papyrus containing written matter.
2 [mass noun] the amount of space that a substance or object occupies, or that is enclosed within a container, especially when great: the sewer could not cope with the volume of rainwater | [count noun] a volume of air.
■ the amount or quantity of something, especially when great: changes in the volume of consumer spending. ■ (a volume of/volumes of) a certain, typically large amount of something: the volumes of data handled are vast. ■ fullness or expansive thickness of something, especially of a person's hair.
3 [mass noun] quantity or power of sound; degree of loudness: he turned the volume up on the radio.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (originally denoting a roll of parchment containing written matter): from Old French volum(e), from Latin volumen 'a roll', from volvere 'to roll'. An obsolete meaning 'size or extent (of a book)' gave rise to sense 2.

volumetric /ˌvɒljʊ'mɛtrɪk/ ▶ adjective of or relating to the measurement of volume.
■ (of chemical analysis) based on measuring the volumes of reagents, especially by titration.
– DERIVATIVES volumetrically adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from VOLUME + METRIC[1].

volumetric efficiency ▶ noun the ratio of the volume of fluid actually displaced by a piston or plunger to its swept volume.

voluminous /və'ljuːmɪnəs/ ▶ adjective occupying or containing much space: large in volume, in particular:
■ (of clothing or drapery) loose and ample. ■ (of writing) very lengthy and full. ■ (of a writer) producing many books.
– DERIVATIVES voluminously adverb, voluminousness noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: partly from late Latin voluminosus 'having many coils', partly from Latin volumen, volumin- (see VOLUME).

volumize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] (of a product or styling technique) give body to (hair).
– DERIVATIVES volumizer noun.

voluntarism ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the principle of relying on voluntary action (used especially with reference to the involvement of voluntary organizations in social welfare).

■ historical (especially in the 19th century) the principle that the Church or schools should be independent of the state and supported by voluntary contributions.
2 Philosophy the doctrine that the will is a fundamental or dominant factor in the individual or the universe.
– DERIVATIVES voluntarist noun & adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: formed irregularly from VOLUNTARY.

voluntary ▶ adjective done, given, or acting of one's own free will: we are funded by voluntary contributions.
■ working, done, or maintained without payment: a voluntary helper. ■ Physiology under the conscious control of the brain. ■ Law (of a conveyance or disposition) made without return in money or other consideration.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 an organ solo played before, during, or after a church service.
■ historical a piece of music performed extempore, especially as a prelude to other music, or composed in a free style.
2 (in a competition) a special performance left to the performer's choice.
– DERIVATIVES voluntarily adverb, voluntariness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French volontaire or Latin voluntarius, from voluntas 'will'.

voluntary-aided ▶ adjective (in the UK) denoting a voluntary school, funded mainly by the local authority.

voluntary-controlled ▶ adjective (in the UK) denoting a voluntary school fully funded by the local authority.

voluntaryism /ˈvɒlənt(ə)rɪˌɪz(ə)m/ ▶ noun less common term for VOLUNTARISM (in sense 1).
– DERIVATIVES voluntaryist noun.

voluntary school ▶ noun (in the UK) a school which, though not established by the local education authority, is funded mainly or entirely by it, and which typically encourages a particular set of religious beliefs.

Voluntary Service Overseas (abbrev.: VSO) a British charitable organization founded in 1958 to promote voluntary work in developing countries.

voluntary simplicity ▶ noun [mass noun] a philosophy or way of life that rejects materialism in favour of human and spiritual values, and is characterized by minimal consumption, environmental responsibility, and community cooperation.

volunteer ▶ noun 1 a person who freely offers to take part in an enterprise or undertake a task.
■ a person who works for an organization without being paid. ■ a person who freely enrols for military service rather than being conscripted, especially a member of a force formed by voluntary enrolment and distinct from the regular army. ■ a plant that has not been deliberately planted. ■ Law a person to whom a voluntary conveyance or deposition is made.
▶ verb [no obj.] freely offer to do something: 140 men and women volunteered for redundancy | [with infinitive] I rashly volunteered to be a contestant.
■ [with obj.] offer (help) in such a way: he volunteered his services as a driver for the convoy. ■ [reporting verb] say or suggest something without being asked: [with obj.] it never paid to volunteer information | [with direct speech] 'Her name's Louise,' Christina volunteered. ■ work for an organization without being paid. ■ [with obj.] commit (someone) to a particular undertaking, typically without consulting them: he was volunteered for parachute training by friends.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (as a noun, with military reference): from French volontaire 'voluntary'. The change in the ending was due to association with -EER.

volunteerism ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly N. Amer. the use or involvement of volunteer labour, especially in community services.

Volunteer State informal name for TENNESSEE.

volupté /ˌvɒlʊpˈteɪ, French vɔlypte/ ▶ noun [mass noun] poetic/literary the quality of being voluptuous or sensual.
– ORIGIN French.

voluptuary /vəˈlʌptjʊəri/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a person devoted to luxury and sensual pleasure.
▶ adjective concerned with luxury and sensual pleasure: a voluptuary decade when high living was in style.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin volupt(u)arius, from voluptas 'pleasure'.

voluptuous /vəˈlʌptjʊəs/ ▶ adjective of, relating to, or characterized by luxury or sensual pleasure: long curtains in voluptuous crimson velvet.
■ (of a woman) curvaceous and sexually attractive.
– DERIVATIVES voluptuously adverb, voluptuousness noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French voluptueux or Latin voluptuosus, from voluptas 'pleasure'.

volute /vəˈl(j)uːt/ ▶ noun 1 Architecture a spiral scroll characteristic of Ionic capitals and also used in Corinthian and composite capitals.
2 a deep-water marine mollusc with a thick spiral shell which is colourful and prized by collectors.
• Family Volutidae, class Gastropoda: Voluta and other genera.
▶ adjective forming a spiral curve or curves: spoked wheels with outside volute springs.
– DERIVATIVES voluted adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from French, or from Latin voluta, feminine past participle of volvere 'to roll'.

volution ▶ noun 1 poetic/literary a rolling or revolving motion.
2 a single turn of a spiral or coil.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from late Latin volutio(n-), from Latin volut- 'rolled', from the verb volvere.

volva /ˈvɒlvə/ ▶ noun Botany (in certain fungi) a veil which encloses the fruiting body, often persisting after rupture as a sheath at the base of the stalk.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: modern Latin, from Latin volvere 'to roll, wrap round'.

volvox /ˈvɒlvɒks/ ▶ noun Biology a green single-celled aquatic organism which forms minute free-swimming spherical colonies.
• Genus Volvox, division Chlorophyta (or phylum Chlorophyta, kingdom Protista).
– ORIGIN modern Latin, from Latin volvere 'to roll'.

volvulus /ˈvɒlvjʊləs/ ▶ noun (pl. volvuli /ˈvɒlvjʊlʌɪ, -liː/ or volvuluses) Medicine an obstruction caused by twisting of the stomach or intestine.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: modern or medieval Latin, from Latin volvere 'to roll'.

Volzhsky /ˈvɒlʒski/ an industrial city in SW Russia, on the Volga; pop. 275,000 (1990).

vomer /ˈvəʊmə/ ▶ noun Anatomy the small thin bone separating the left and right nasal cavities in humans and most vertebrates.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin, literally 'ploughshare' (because of the shape).

vomit ▶ verb (vomited, vomiting) [no obj.] eject matter from the stomach through the mouth: the sickly stench made him want to vomit | [with obj.] she used to vomit up her food.
■ [with obj.] emit (something) in an uncontrolled stream or flow: the machine vomited fold after fold of paper.
▶ noun 1 [mass noun] matter vomited from the stomach.
2 archaic an emetic.
– DERIVATIVES vomiter noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French vomite (noun) or Latin vomitus, from vomere 'to vomit'.

vomitorium /ˌvɒmɪˈtɔːrɪəm/ ▶ noun (pl. vomitoria /-rɪə/) 1 each of a series of entrance or exit passages in an ancient Roman amphitheatre or theatre.
2 a place in which, according to popular misconception, the ancient Romans are supposed to have vomited during feasts to make room for more food.
– ORIGIN Latin.

vomitory /ˈvɒmɪt(ə)ri/ ▶ adjective 1 denoting the entrance or exit passages in a theatre or amphitheatre.
2 rare relating to or inducing vomiting.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) another term for VOMITORIUM (in sense 1).
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin vomitorius, based on vomere 'to vomit', partly as an Anglicization of Latin vomitorium (see VOMITORIUM).

vomitous ▶ adjective chiefly N. Amer. nauseating.

vomitus /ˈvɒmɪtəs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly Medicine matter that has been vomited.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Latin.

von Braun see BRAUN[3].

Vonnegut /ˈvɒnɪgət/, Kurt (b.1922), American novelist and short-story writer. His works blend elements of realism, science fiction, fantasy, and satire, and include Slaughterhouse-Five (1969).

von Neumann see NEUMANN.

von Recklinghausen's disease /ˈrɛklɪŋˌhaʊz(ə)nz/ ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 a hereditary disease in which numerous benign tumours develop in various parts of the body, especially the skin and the fibrous sheaths of the nerves. It is a form of neurofibromatosis.
2 a disease in which the bones are weakened as a result of excessive secretion of the parathyroid hormone, leading to bowing and fracture of long bones and sometimes deformities of the chest and spine. Also called osteitis fibrosa cystica.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: named after Friedrich von Recklinghausen (1833–1910), German pathologist.

von Sternberg /ˈstəːnbəːg/, Josef (1894–1969), Austrian-born American film director. His best-known film Der Blaue Engel (1930; The Blue Angel) made Marlene Dietrich an international star.

von Willebrand's disease /ˈwɪləbrand/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine an inherited disorder characterized by a tendency to bleed, caused by deficiency or abnormality of a plasma coagulation factor (von Willebrand factor).
– ORIGIN 1940s: named after Erik A. von Willebrand (1870–1949), Finnish physician.

voodoo ▶ noun [mass noun] a black religious cult practised in the Caribbean and the southern US, combining elements of Roman Catholic ritual with traditional African magical and religious rites, and characterized by sorcery and spirit possession.
■ [count noun] a person skilled in such practice.
▶ verb (voodoos, voodooed) [with obj.] affect (someone) by the practice of such witchcraft.
– DERIVATIVES voodooism noun, voodooist noun.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Louisiana French, from Kwa vodũ.

Voortrekker /ˈfʊə(r),trɛkə(r)/ ▶ noun S. African historical a member of one of the groups of Dutch-speaking people who migrated by wagon from the Cape Colony into the interior from 1836 onwards, in order to live beyond the borders of British rule.
■ a member of an Afrikaner youth movement similar to the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides. ■ a person who explores or initiates new areas of thought and action; a pioneer.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, from Dutch voor 'fore' + trekken 'to travel'.

VOR ▶ abbreviation for visual omnirange, denoting a type of navigation system using a series of radio beacons.

voracious /vəˈreɪʃəs/ ▶ adjective wanting or devouring great quantities of food: he had a voracious appetite.
■ having a very eager approach to an activity: his voracious reading of literature.
– DERIVATIVES voraciously adverb, voraciousness noun, voracity noun.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin vorax, vorac- (from vorare 'devour') + -IOUS.

Vorarlberg /ˈfɔːˌrɑːlbəːg, German ˈfoːɐˌarlbɛrk/ an Alpine state of western Austria; capital, Bregenz.

Voronezh /vəˈrɒnɛʒ/ a city in Russia, south of Moscow; pop. 895,000 (1990).

Voroshilovgrad /ˌvɒrəˈʃiːləfgrad/ former name (1935–58 and 1970–91) for LUHANSK.
– ORIGIN named in honour of Marshal Kliment Voroshilov (1881–1969), Soviet military and political leader.

-vorous /v(ə)rəs/ ▶ combining form feeding on a specified food: carnivorous | herbivorous.
– DERIVATIVES -vora /v(ə)rə/ combining form in corresponding names of groups, -vore /vɔː/ combining form in corresponding names of individuals within such groups.
– ORIGIN from Latin -vorus (from vorare 'devour') + -OUS.

Vorstellung /ˈfɔːˌʃtɛlʊŋ, German ˈfoːɐˌʃtɛlʊŋ/ ▶ noun (pl. Vorstellungen /-ˌʃtɛlʊŋ(ə)n/) Philosophy a mental image or idea produced by prior perception of an object, as in memory or imagination, rather than by actual perception.
– ORIGIN German.

vortex /ˈvɔːtɛks/ ▶ noun (pl. vortexes or vortices /-tɪsiːz/) a mass of whirling fluid, especially a whirlpool or whirlwind.
■ figurative something regarded as a whirling mass: a swirling vortex of emotions.
– DERIVATIVES vortical adjective, vortically adverb, vorticity /vɔːˈtɪsɪti/ noun, vorticose adjective, vorticular /vɔːˈtɪkjʊlə/ adjective.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Latin vortex, vortic-, literally 'eddy', variant of VERTEX.

vorticella /ˌvɔːtɪˈsɛlə/ ▶ noun Zoology a sedentary, single-celled aquatic animal with a contractile stalk and a bell-shaped body bearing a ring of cilia.
• Genus Vorticella, phylum Ciliophora, kingdom Protista.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: modern Latin, diminutive of Latin vortex, vortic- 'eddy'.

Vorticist /ˈvɔːtɪsɪst/ ▶ noun historical a member of a British artistic movement of 1914–15 influenced by cubism and futurism and favouring machine-like forms.
– DERIVATIVES Vorticism noun.
– ORIGIN from Latin vortex, vortic- 'eddy' + -IST.

Vosges /vəʊʒ/ a mountain system of eastern France, in Alsace near the border with Germany.

Vostok /ˈvɒstɒk/ a series of six manned Soviet orbiting spacecraft, the first of which, launched in April 1961, carried the first man in space (Yuri Gagarin).

votary /ˈvəʊt(ə)ri/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a person, such as a monk or nun, who has made vows of dedication to religious service.
■ a devoted follower, adherent, or advocate of someone or something: he was a votary of John Keats.
– DERIVATIVES votarist noun.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin vot- 'vowed' (from the verb vovere) + -ARY[1].

vote ▶ noun a formal indication of a choice between two or more candidates or courses of action, expressed typically through a ballot or a show of hands.
■ an act of expressing such an indication of choice: they are ready to put it to a vote. ■ (the vote) the choice expressed collectively by a body of electors or by a specified group: the nationalist vote in Northern Ireland. ■ (the vote) the right to indicate a choice in an election.
▶ verb [no obj.] give or register a vote: they voted against the resolution | [with complement] I voted Labour.
■ [with obj. and adverbial or complement] cause (someone) to gain or lose a particular post or honour by means of a vote: incompetent judges are voted out of office. ■ [with clause] informal used to express a wish to follow a particular course of action: I vote we have one more game. ■ [with obj.] (of a legislature) grant or confer by vote. ■ [with obj.] (vote something down) reject (something) by means of a vote.
– PHRASES vote of confidence a vote showing that a majority continues to support the policy of a leader or governing body. vote of no confidence (or vote of censure) a vote showing that a majority does not support the policy of a leader or governing body. vote with one's feet informal indicate an opinion by being present or absent or by some other course of action.
– DERIVATIVES voteless adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin votum 'a vow, wish', from vovere 'to vow'. The verb dates from the mid 16th cent.

vote bank ▶ noun (in the Indian subcontinent) a group of people who can be relied upon to vote together in support of the same party.

voter ▶ noun a person who votes or has the right to vote at an election.

voting booth ▶ noun US term for POLLING BOOTH.

voting machine ▶ noun (especially in the US) a machine for the automatic registering of votes.

votive ▶ adjective offered or consecrated in fulfilment of a vow: votive offerings.
▶ noun an object offered in this way, such as a candle used as a vigil light.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Latin votivus, from votum (see VOTE). The original sense was 'expressing a desire', preserved in VOTIVE MASS.

votive Mass ▶ noun (in the Roman Catholic Church) a Mass celebrated for a special purpose or occasion.

Votyak /ˈvɒtjak/ ▶ noun former term for UDMURT (the language).

vouch ▶ verb [no obj.] (vouch for) assert or confirm as a result of one's own experience the truth or accuracy of (something): the explosive used is of my own formulation, and I can vouch for its efficiency.
■ confirm the identity or good character of (someone): he was refused entrance until someone could vouch for him.
– ORIGIN Middle English (as a legal term in the sense 'summon (a person) to court to prove title to property'): from Old French voucher 'summon', based on Latin vocare 'to call'.

voucher /ˈvaʊtʃə/ ▶ noun a small printed piece of paper that entitles the holder to a discount, or that may be exchanged for goods or services.
■ a receipt.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from VOUCH.

vouchsafe ▶ verb [with two objs] (often be vouchsafed) give or grant (something) to (someone) in a gracious or condescending manner: it is a blessing vouchsafed him by heaven.
■ [with obj.] reveal or disclose (information): you'd never vouchsafed that interesting titbit before.
– ORIGIN Middle English: originally as the phrase vouch something safe on someone, i.e. 'warrant the secure conferment of (something on someone)'.

voulu /vuːˈluː, French vuly/ ▶ adjective poetic/literary lacking in spontaneity; contrived.
– ORIGIN French, literally 'wanted, wished', past participle of vouloir.

voussoir /ˈvuːswɑː/ ▶ noun Architecture a wedge-shaped or tapered stone used to construct an arch.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent: via French from popular Latin volsorium, based on Latin volvere 'to roll'. The word, borrowed from Old French, was also used for a time in late Middle English.

Vouvray /ˈvuːvreɪ, French vuvʀe/ ▶ noun [mass noun] dry white wine, either still or sparkling, produced in the Vouvray district of the Loire Valley.
– ORIGIN French.

vow ▶ noun a solemn promise.
■ (vows) a set of such promises committing one to a prescribed role, calling, or course of action, typically to marriage or a monastic career.
▶ verb 1 [reporting verb] solemnly promise to do a specified thing: [with clause] he vowed that his government would not tolerate a repeat of the disorder | [with direct speech] one fan vowed, 'I'll picket every home game'.
2 [with obj.] archaic dedicate to someone or something, especially a deity: I vowed myself to this enterprise.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vou, from Latin votum (see VOTE); the verb from Old French vouer.

vowel ▶ noun a speech sound which is produced by comparatively open configuration of the vocal tract, with vibration of the vocal cords but without audible friction, and which is a unit of the sound system of a language that forms the nucleus of a syllable. Contrasted with CONSONANT.
■ a letter representing such a sound, such as a, e, i, o, u.
– DERIVATIVES vowelled (US voweled) adjective [usu. in combination], vowelless adjective, vowelly adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old French vouel, from Latin vocalis (littera) 'vocal (letter)'.

vowel gradation ▶ noun another term for ABLAUT.

vowel harmony ▶ noun [mass noun] the phenomenon in some languages, e.g. Turkish, for all the vowels in a word to be members of the same sub-class, for example all front vowels or all back vowels.

vowel height ▶ noun [mass noun] Phonetics the degree to which the tongue is raised or lowered in the articulation of a particular vowel.

vowelize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] supply (something such as a Hebrew or shorthand text) with vowel points or signs representing vowels.

vowel point ▶ noun each of a set of marks indicating vowels in writing phonetically explicit text in Semitic languages such as Hebrew and Arabic.

vowel shift ▶ noun Phonetics a phonetic change in a vowel or vowels.
■ (the Great Vowel Shift) a series of changes between medieval and modern English affecting the long vowels of the standard language.

vox angelica /ˌvɒks anˈdʒɛlɪkə/ ▶ noun a soft stop on an organ or harmonium which is tuned slightly sharp to produce a tremolo effect.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from late Latin, literally 'angelic voice'.

voxel /ˈvɒksɛl/ ▶ noun (in computer-based modelling or graphic simulation) each of an array of elements of volume that constitute a notional three-dimensional space, especially each of an array of discrete elements into which a representation of a three-dimensional object is divided.
– ORIGIN 1970s: from the initial letters of VOLUME and ELEMENT, with the insertion of -x- for ease of pronunciation.

vox humana /hjuːˈmɑːnə/ ▶ noun an organ stop with a tone supposedly resembling the' human voice.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Latin, literally 'human voice'.

vox pop ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. informal popular opinion as represented by informal comments from members of the public, especially when broadcast or published: paragraphs of vox pop.
– ORIGIN 1960s: abbreviation of VOX POPULI.

vox populi /ˈpɒpjʊliː, -lʌɪ/ ▶ noun [in sing.] the opinions or beliefs of the majority.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Latin, literally 'the people's voice'.

voyage ▶ noun a long journey involving travel by sea or in space: a six-year voyage to Jupiter | figurative writing a biography is a voyage of discovery.
▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] go on a long journey, typically by sea or in space: he has voyaged through places like Venezuela and Peru.
■ [with obj.] archaic sail over or along (a sea or river).
– DERIVATIVES voyageable adjective (archaic), voyager noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (as a noun denoting a journey): from Old French voiage, from Latin viaticum 'provisions for a journey' (in late Latin 'journey').

Voyager either of two American space probes launched in 1977 to investigate the outer planets. Voyager 1 encountered Jupiter and Saturn, while Voyager 2 reached Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and finally Neptune (1989).

voyageur /ˌvwʌjəˈʒəː, ˌvɔɪə-/ ▶ noun historical (in Canada) a boatman employed by the fur companies in transporting goods and passengers to and from the trading posts on the lakes and rivers.
– ORIGIN French, literally 'voyager', from voyager 'to travel'.

voyeur /vwʌˈjəː, vɔɪ-/ ▶ noun a person who gains sexual pleasure from watching others when they are naked or engaged in sexual activity.
■ a person who enjoys seeing the pain or distress of others.
– DERIVATIVES voyeurism noun, voyeuristic adjective, voyeuristically adverb.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.; from French, from voir 'see'.

VP ▶ abbreviation for Vice-President.

VPL informal ▶ abbreviation for visible panty line.

VR ▶ abbreviation for ■ Queen Victoria. [ORIGIN: abbreviation of Latin Victoria Regina.] ■ variant reading. ■ virtual reality.

VRAM ▶ noun Electronics a type of RAM used in computer display cards.
– ORIGIN 1990s: abbreviation of video RAM.

VRML Computing ▶ abbreviation for virtual reality modelling language.

vroom informal ▶ verb [no obj.] (of an engine in a vehicle) make a roaring sound by being run at very high speed.
■ [with obj.] cause (an engine in a vehicle) to make such a sound in this way. ■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (of a vehicle or its driver) travel at great speed: she still had the car and she would vroom up at midnight.
▶ noun the roaring sound of an engine or motor vehicle.
▶ exclamation used to express or imitate such a sound to suggest speed or acceleration: press the ignition button and vroom!
– ORIGIN 1960s: imitative.

vrouw /vrəʊ/ (also vrow) ▶ noun [usu. as title] chiefly S. African a woman or wife, especially of Dutch origin.
– ORIGIN Dutch.

VS ▶ abbreviation for Veterinary Surgeon.

vs ▶ abbreviation for versus.

V-sign ▶ noun 1 Brit. a sign resembling the letter V made with the first two fingers pointing up and the back of the hand facing outwards, used as a gesture of abuse or contempt.
2 a similar sign made with the palm of the hand facing outwards, used as a symbol or gesture of victory.

VSO ▶ abbreviation for Voluntary Service Overseas.

VSOP ▶ abbreviation for Very Special Old Pale, a kind of brandy.

VT ▶ abbreviation for Vermont (in official postal use).

Vt ▶ abbreviation for Vermont.

VTO ▶ abbreviation for vertical take-off.

VTOL ▶ abbreviation for vertical take-off and landing.

VTR ▶ abbreviation for videotape recorder.

vug /vʌg/ ▶ noun Geology a cavity in rock, lined with mineral crystals.
– DERIVATIVES vuggy adjective, vugular adjective.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Cornish vooga.

Vuillard /ˈvwiːɑː, French vwijaʀ/, (Jean) Édouard (1868–1940), French painter and graphic artist. A member of the Nabi Group, he produced decorative panels, murals, paintings, and lithographs, particularly of domestic interiors and portraits.

Vulcan Roman Mythology the god of fire. Greek equivalent HEPHAESTUS.

Vulcanian /vʌlˈkeɪnɪən/ ▶ adjective Geology relating to or denoting a type of volcanic eruption marked by periodic explosive events.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Vulcano, the name of a volcano in the Lipari Islands, Italy, + -IAN.

vulcanism /ˈvʌlkənɪz(ə)m/ ▶ noun variant spelling of VOLCANISM.

vulcanite /ˈvʌlkənʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] hard, black vulcanized rubber.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from VULCAN + -ITE[1].

vulcanize /ˈvʌlkənʌɪz/ (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] harden (rubber or rubber-like material) by treating it with sulphur at a high temperature.
– DERIVATIVES vulcanizable adjective, vulcanization noun, vulcanizer noun.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent. (in the sense 'throw into a fire'): from VULCAN + -IZE.

vulcanology ▶ noun variant spelling of VOLCANOLOGY.

vulgar ▶ adjective lacking sophistication or good taste; unrefined: a vulgar check suit.
■ making explicit and offensive reference to sex or bodily functions; coarse and rude: a vulgar joke.
■ dated characteristic of or belonging to the masses.
– DERIVATIVES vulgarity noun (pl. -ies), vulgarly adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin vulgaris, from vulgus 'common people'. The original senses were 'used in ordinary calculations' (surviving in VULGAR FRACTION) and 'in ordinary use, used by the people' (surviving in VULGAR TONGUE).

vulgar fraction ▶ noun Brit. a fraction expressed by numerator and denominator, not decimally.

vulgarian /vʌlˈgɛːrɪən/ ▶ noun an unrefined person, especially one with newly acquired power or wealth.

vulgarism ▶ noun a word or expression that is considered inelegant, especially one that makes explicit and offensive reference to sex or bodily functions.
■ archaic an instance of rude or offensive behaviour.

vulgarize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] make less refined: her voice, vulgarized by its accent, was full of caressing tones.
■ make commonplace or less subtle or complex: [as adj. vulgarized] a vulgarized version of the argument.
– DERIVATIVES vulgarization noun.

vulgar Latin ▶ noun [mass noun] informal Latin of classical times.

vulgar tongue ▶ noun (the vulgar tongue) dated the national or vernacular language of a people (used typically to contrast such a language with Latin).

Vulgate /ˈvʌlgeɪt, -gət/ ▶ noun 1 the principal Latin version of the Bible, prepared mainly by St Jerome in the late 4th century, and (as revised in 1592) adopted as the official text for the Roman Catholic Church.
2 (vulgate) [in sing.] formal common or colloquial speech: I required a new, formal language in which to address him, not the vulgate.
– ORIGIN from Latin vulgata (editio(n-)) '(edition) prepared for the public', feminine past participle of vulgare, from vulgus 'common people'.

vuln /vʌln/ ▶ verb [with obj.] Heraldry wound.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: formed irregularly from Latin vulnerare 'to wound'.

vulnerable ▶ adjective exposed to the possibility of being attacked or harmed, either physically or emotionally: we were in a vulnerable position | small fish are vulnerable to predators.
■ Bridge (of a partnership) liable to higher penalties, either by convention or through having won one game towards a rubber.
– DERIVATIVES vulnerability noun (pl. -ies), vulnerableness noun, vulnerably adverb.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from late Latin vulnerabilis, from Latin vulnerare 'to wound', from vulnus 'wound'.

vulnerary /ˈvʌln(ə)rəri/ archaic ▶ adjective (of a drug, plant, etc.) of use in the healing of wounds.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) a medicine of this kind.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Latin vulnerarius, from vulnus 'wound'.

Vulpecula /vʌlˈpɛkjʊlə/ Astronomy an inconspicuous northern constellation (the Fox), lying in the Milky Way between Cygnus and Aquila.
■ (as genitive Vulpeculae /-liː/) used with preceding letter or numeral to designate a star in this constellation: the star Alpha Vulpeculae.
– ORIGIN Latin, diminutive of vulpes 'fox'.

vulpine /ˈvʌlpʌɪn/ ▶ adjective of or relating to a fox or foxes.
■ crafty; cunning: Karl gave a vulpine smile.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Latin vulpinus, from vulpes 'fox'.

vulture /ˈvʌltʃə/ ▶ noun 1 a large bird of prey with the head and neck more or less bare of feathers, feeding chiefly on carrion and reputed to gather with others in anticipation of the death of a sick or injured animal or person.
● Order Accipitriformes: the Old World vultures (family Accipitridae, especially Gyps and Aegypius) and the New World vultures (with the condors in the family Cathartidae).
2 a contemptible person who preys on or exploits others.
– DERIVATIVES vulturine /-rʌɪn/ adjective, vulturish adjective, vulturous adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French vultur, from Latin vulturius.

vulva /ˈvʌlvə/ ▶ noun Anatomy the female external genitals.
■ Zoology the external opening of the vagina or reproductive tract in a female mammal or nematode.
– DERIVATIVES vulval adjective, vulvar adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Latin, literally 'womb'.

vulvitis /vʌlˈvʌɪtɪs/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine inflammation of the vulva.

vv. ▶ abbreviation for ■ verses. ■ volumes.

Vyatka /ˈvjɑːtkə/ an industrial town in north central European Russia, on the Vyatka River; pop. 487,000 (1990). Former name (1934–92) KIROV.

vygie /ˈfeɪxi/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) S. African another term for MESEMBRYANTHEMUM.
– ORIGIN 1920s: from Afrikaans, from Dutch vyg 'fig' + the diminutive suffix -ie.

vying present participle of VIE.

Ww

W[1] (also w) ▶ noun (pl. Ws or W's) 1 the twenty-third letter of the alphabet.
■ denoting the next after V in a set of items, categories, etc.
2 a shape like that of a letter W: [in combination] the W-shaped northern constellation of Cassiopeia.

W[2] ▶ abbreviation for ■ (in tables of sports results) games won. ■ watt(s). ■ West or Western: 104° W | W Europe. ■ Cricket (on scorecards) wicket(s). ■ women's (clothes size).
▶ symbol for ■ the chemical element tungsten. [ORIGIN: from modern Latin wolframium.]

W ▶ abbreviation for ■ weight. ■ Cricket (on scorecards) wide(s). ■ with.

WA ▶ abbreviation for ■ Washington (State) (in official postal use). ■ Western Australia.

Wa /wɑ:/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Was) 1 a member of a hill people living on the borders of China and Burma (Myanmar).
2 [mass noun] the language of this people, belonging to the Mon-Khmer family.
▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting this people or their language.

Waadt /va:t/ German name for VAUD.

Waaf /waf/ ▶ noun (in the UK) a member of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force (1939–48, subsequently reorganized as part of the Women's Royal Air Force).
– ORIGIN acronym.

Waal /vɑ:l/ a river of the south central Netherlands. The most southerly of two major distributaries of the Rhine, it flows for 84 km (52 miles) from the point where the Rhine forks, just west of the border with Germany, to the estuary of the Meuse (Maas) on the North Sea.

wabbit /'wabɪt/ ▶ adjective [predic.] Scottish exhausted; slightly unwell: I'm feeling a bit wabbit.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: of unknown origin.

wabi /'wabi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] (in Japanese art) a quality of austere and serene beauty expressing a mood of spiritual solitude recognized in Zen Buddhist philosophy.
– ORIGIN Japanese, literally 'solitude'.

waboom /'vɑ:boəm/ ▶ noun S. African a protea with large pale yellow flowers and reddish timber.
● Protea nitida, family Proteaceae.
– ORIGIN from South African Dutch wagenboom, literally 'wagon tree', so named by colonists who found the wood suitable for making felloes.

WAC ▶ abbreviation for (in the US) Women's Army Corps.

wack[1] ▶ noun Brit. informal used as a familiar term of address, chiefly in Liverpool.
– ORIGIN 1960s: of unknown origin.

wack[2] informal, chiefly US ▶ noun 1 a crazy or eccentric person.
2 [mass noun] worthless or stupid ideas, work, or talk; rubbish: this track is a load of wack.
▶ adjective bad; inferior: a wack radio station.
– ORIGIN 1930s: probably a back-formation from WACKY.

wacke /'wakə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Geology a sandstone of which the mud matrix in which the grains are embedded amounts to between 15 and 75 per cent of the mass.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from German, from Middle High German wacke 'large stone', Old High German wacko 'pebble'.

wacked ▶ adjective variant spelling of WHACKED.

wacko (also whacko) informal, chiefly N. Amer. ▶ adjective mad; insane: wacko fundamentalists.
▶ noun (pl. -os or -oes) a crazy person.
– ORIGIN 1970s: from WACKY + -O.

wacky (also whacky) ▶ adjective (wackier, wackiest) informal funny or amusing in a slightly odd or peculiar way: a wacky chase movie.
– DERIVATIVES wackily adverb, wackiness noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent. (originally dialect): from the noun WHACK + -Y[1].

wacky baccy ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. informal cannabis.

wad /wɒd/ ▶ noun 1 a lump or bundle of a soft material, used for padding, stuffing, or wiping: a wad of lint-free rag.
■ chiefly historical a disc of felt or another material used to keep powder or shot in place in a gun barrel. ■ a portion of tobacco or another narcotic when used for chewing. ■ Brit., chiefly military slang a bun, cake, sandwich, or other piece of food.
2 a bundle of paper, banknotes, or documents: a wad of A5 paper.
■ informal a large amount of something, especially money: she was working on TV and had wads of money. ■ [mass noun] informal money.
▶ verb (wadded, wadding) [with obj.] [usu. as adj. wadded] 1 compress (a soft material) into a lump or bundle: a knob of wadded lint.
2 line or stuff (a garment or piece of furniture) with wadding: a pair of wadded socks.
■ stop up (an aperture or a gun barrel) with a bundle or lump of soft material: he had something wadded behind his teeth.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (denoting wadding): perhaps related to Dutch watten, French ouate 'padding, cotton wool'.

wada ▶ noun variant spelling of VADA.

wadcutter ▶ noun chiefly US a bullet designed to cut a neat hole in a paper range target.

wadding ▶ noun [mass noun] soft, thick material used to line garments or pack fragile items, especially cotton wool formed into a fleecy layer.
■ a material from which wads for guns are made.

waddle ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] walk with short steps and a clumsy swaying motion: three geese waddled across the road.
▶ noun [in sing.] a waddling gait: I walk with a waddle.
– DERIVATIVES waddler noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: perhaps a frequentative of WADE.

waddy /'wɒdi/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) an Australian Aboriginal's war club.
■ Austral./NZ a club or stick, especially a walking stick.
– ORIGIN from Dharuk wadi 'tree, stick, club'.

Wade[1], George (1673–1748), English soldier. He was responsible for the construction of a network of roads and bridges in the Scottish Highlands to facilitate government control of the Jacobite clans after the 1715 uprising.

Wade[2], (Sarah) Virginia (b.1945), English tennis player. She won many singles titles, including the US Open (1968), the Italian championship (1971), the Australian Open (1972), and Wimbledon (1977).

wade ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial] walk through water or another liquid or soft substance: in the absence of any jetty we waded ashore.
■ [with obj.] walk through (something filled with water): I had waded ditches instead of attempting to find easier crossing places. ■ (wade through) read laboriously through (a long piece of writing). ■ (wade into) informal get involved in (something) vigorously or forcefully: Seb waded into the melee and started to beat off the boys. ■ (wade into) informal attack (someone) physically or in argument: Vincent waded into his father with such anger. ■ (wade in) informal make a vigorous attack or intervention: Nicola waded in and grabbed the baby.
▶ noun [in sing.] an act of wading.
– DERIVATIVES wadable (also wadeable) adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wadan 'move onward', also 'penetrate', from a Germanic word meaning 'go (through)', from an Indo-European root shared by Latin vadere 'go'.

Wade–Giles ▶ noun a system of romanized spelling for transliterating Chinese, devised by the British diplomat Sir Thomas Francis Wade (1818–95), professor of Chinese at Cambridge, and modified by his successor Herbert Allen Giles (1845–1935). It has been largely superseded by Pinyin.

wader ▶ noun 1 a person or animal, especially a bird, that wades, in particular:
■ chiefly Brit. a wading bird of the order Charadriiformes, which comprises the sandpipers, plovers, and their allies. Also called SHOREBIRD, especially in North America. ■ chiefly N. Amer. a wading bird of the order Ciconiiformes, which comprises the herons, storks, and their allies.
2 (waders) high waterproof boots, or a waterproof garment for the legs and body, used especially by anglers when fishing.

wadi /'wɑ:di, 'wɒdi/ (also wady) ▶ noun (pl. wadis or wadies) (in certain Arabic-speaking countries) a valley, ravine, or channel that is dry except in the rainy season.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Arabic wādī.

Wadi Halfa /ˌwɒdɪ 'halfə, ˌwɑ:dɪ/ a town in northern Sudan, on the border with Egypt. It is situated on the Nile at the southern end of Lake Nasser and is the terminus of the railway from Khartoum.

wading pool ▶ noun North American term for PADDLING POOL.

WAF ▶ abbreviation for (in the US) Women in the Air Force.
▶ noun a member of the WAF.

wafer ▶ noun a very thin light crisp sweet biscuit, especially one of a kind eaten with ice cream.
■ a thin disc of unleavened bread used in the Eucharist. ■ (also wafer seal) a disc of red paper stuck on a legal document as a seal. ■ Electronics a very thin slice of a semiconductor crystal used as the substrate for solid-state circuitry. ■ historical a small disc of dried paste formerly used for fastening letters or holding papers together. ■ a round, thin piece of something: a wafer of turf.

▶ verb [with obj.] rare fasten or seal (a letter, document, etc.) with a wafer.
– DERIVATIVES wafery adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from an Anglo-Norman French variant of Old French gaufre (see GOFFER), from Middle Low German wāfel 'waffle'; compare with WAFFLE[2].

wafer-thin ▶ adjective & adverb very thin or thinly: [as adj.] plates of wafer-thin metal | [as adv.] slicing meats wafer-thin.

Waffen SS /'vaf(ə)n/ ▶ noun (the Waffen SS) the combat units of the SS in Nazi Germany during the Second World War.
– ORIGIN German Waffen 'armed'.

waffle[1] informal ▶ verb [no obj.] 1 chiefly Brit. speak or write, especially at great length, without saying anything important or useful: he waffled on about everything that didn't matter.
2 US fail to make up one's mind: Joseph had been waffling over where to go.
▶ noun 1 [mass noun] chiefly Brit. lengthy but trivial or useless talk or writing.
2 US a failure to make up one's mind: his waffle on abortion.
– DERIVATIVES waffler noun, waffly adjective.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent. (originally in the sense 'yap, yelp'): frequentative of dialect waff 'yelp', of imitative origin.

waffle[2] ▶ noun a small crisp batter cake, baked in a waffle iron and eaten hot with butter or syrup.
▶ adjective denoting a style of fine honeycomb weaving or a fabric woven to give a honeycomb effect.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Dutch wafel; compare with WAFER and GOFFER.

waffle iron ▶ noun a utensil, typically consisting of two shallow metal pans hinged together, used for baking waffles.

waft /wɒft, wɑ:ft/ ▶ verb pass or cause to pass easily or gently through or as if through the air: [no obj., with adverbial of direction] the smell of stale fat wafted out from the cafe | [with obj. and adverbial of direction] each breeze would waft pollen round the house.
▶ noun 1 a gentle movement of air.
■ a scent or odour carried on such a movement of air.
2 (also weft) Nautical, historical a knotted ensign, garment, etc. displayed by a ship as a signal. [ORIGIN: Perhaps related to Scots and northern waff 'a signal, waving of something in the hand', a variant of WAVE.]
– ORIGIN early 16th cent. (in the sense 'escort (a ship)'): back-formation from obsolete wafter 'armed convoy vessel', from Low German, Dutch wachter, from wachten 'to guard'. A sense 'convey by water' gave rise to the current use of the verb.

WAG ▶ abbreviation for Gambia (international vehicle registration).
– ORIGIN from West Africa Gambia.

wag[1] ▶ verb (wagged, wagging) (with reference to an animal's tail) move or cause to move rapidly to and fro: [no obj.] his tail began to wag | [with obj.] the dog went out, wagging its tail.
■ [with obj.] move (an upwards-pointing finger) from side to side to signify a warning or reprimand: she wagged a finger at Elinor. ■ [no obj.] (used of a tongue, jaw, or chin, as representing a person) talk, especially in order to gossip or spread rumours: this is a small island and tongues are beginning to wag.
▶ noun a single rapid movement from side to side: a chirpy wag of the head.
– PHRASES how the world wags dated how affairs are going or being conducted. the tail wags the dog see TAIL[1].
– ORIGIN Middle English (as a verb): from the Germanic base of Old English wagian 'to sway'.

wag[2] ▶ noun 1 dated a person who makes facetious jokes.
2 Austral./NZ informal a truant: Boogie plays the wag from school.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (denoting a young man or mischievous boy, also used as a term of endearment to an infant): probably from obsolete waghalter 'person likely to be hanged' (see WAG[1], HALTER).

wage ▶ noun (usu. wages) a fixed regular payment, typicallypaid on a daily or weekly basis, made by an employer to an employee, especially to a manual or unskilled worker: we were struggling to get better wages. Compare with SALARY.
■ (wages) Economics the part of total production that is the return to labour as earned income as distinct from the remuneration received by capital as unearned income. ■ figurative the result or effect of doing something considered wrong or unwise: disasters are the wages of sin.
▶ verb [with obj.] carry on (a war or campaign): it is necessary to destroy their capacity to wage war.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French and Old Northern French, of Germanic origin; related to GAGE[1] and WED.

waged ▶ adjective having or relating to regular paid employment: a larger class of waged workers.

wage drift ▶ noun [mass noun] the tendency for the average level of wages actually paid to rise above wage rates through increases in overtime and other factors.

wager ▶ noun & verb more formal term for BET.
– ORIGIN Middle English (also in the sense 'solemn pledge'): from Anglo-Norman French wageure, from wager 'to wage'.

wager of battle ▶ noun historical a form of trial by which someone's guilt or innocence was decided by personal combat between the parties or their champions.

wager of law ▶ noun historical a form of trial in which the defendant was required to produce witnesses who would swear to his or her innocence.

wages council ▶ noun (in the UK) one of a number of statutory bodies, now abolished, consisting of workers' and employers' representatives responsible for determining wages in particular industries.

wage slave ▶ noun informal a person who is wholly dependent on income from employment, typically employment of an arduous or menial nature.
– DERIVATIVES wage slavery noun.

Wagga Wagga /ˌwɒgə 'wɒgə/ a town on the Murrumbidgee River, in New South Wales, SE Australia; pop. 40,875 (1991).

waggery ▶ noun (pl. -ies) [mass noun] dated waggish behaviour or remarks; jocularity.
■ [count noun] archaic a waggish action or remark.

waggish ▶ adjective dated humorous in a playful, mischievous, or facetious manner: a waggish riposte.
– DERIVATIVES waggishly adverb, waggishness noun.

waggle ▶ verb informal move or cause to move with short quick movements from side to side or up and down: [no obj.] his arm waggled | [with obj.] Mary waggled a glass at them.
■ [with obj.] swing (a golf club) loosely to and fro over the ball before playing a shot.
▶ noun an act of waggling.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: frequentative of WAG[1].

waggle dance ▶ noun a waggling movement performed by a honeybee at the hive or nest, to indicate to other bees the direction and distance of a source of food.

waggler ▶ noun Fishing a type of long float designed to be especially sensitive to movement of the bait, chiefly used in semi-still water.

waggly ▶ adjective moving with quick short movements from side to side or up and down: a waggly tail.

wag-'n-bietjie /'vaxəˌbɪki/ ▶ noun S. African any of a number of shrubs bearing strong curved thorns, in particular:
● a plant related to asparagus (genus Asparagus, family Liliaceae, in particular A. capensis). ● a wait-a-bit.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Afrikaans, literally 'wait a bit'.

Wagner /'vɑ:gnə/, (Wilhelm) Richard (1813–83), German composer. He developed an operatic genre which he called music drama, synthesizing music, drama, verse, legend, and spectacle. Notable works: The Flying Dutchman (opera, 1841), Der Ring des Nibelungen (a cycle of four operas, 1847–74), Tristan and Isolde (music drama, 1859), and the Siegfried Idyll (1870).
– DERIVATIVES Wagnerian adjective & noun.

Wagner tuba ▶ noun a brass instrument of baritone pitch with an oval shape and upward-pointing bell, combining features of the tuba and the French horn and first used in Wagner's Der Ring des Nibelungen.

wagon (Brit. also waggon) ▶ noun 1 a vehicle used for transporting goods or another specified purpose: a timber wagon | a breakdown wagon.
■ a four-wheeled trailer for agricultural use. ■ Brit. a railway freight vehicle; a truck. ■ a light horse-drawn vehicle, especially a covered one used by early settlers in North America and elsewhere. ■ chiefly N. Amer. a wheeled cart or hut used as a food stall. ■ a vehicle like a caravan used by gypsies or circus performers. ■ informal short for STATION WAGON.
– PHRASES hitch one's wagon to a star see HITCH. on the wagon informal teetotal: Agnes was thinking of going on the wagon again.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from Dutch wagen; related to WAIN.

wagoner (Brit. also waggoner) ▶ noun the driver of a horse-drawn wagon.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from Dutch wagenaar, from wagen (see WAGON).

wagonette (Brit. also waggonette) ▶ noun a four-wheeled horse-drawn pleasure vehicle, typically open, with facing side seats and one or two seats arranged crosswise in front.

wagon-lit /ˌvagɔ̃'li:, French vagɔ̃li/ ▶ noun (pl. wagons-lits pronunc. same) a sleeping car on a Continental railway.
– ORIGIN French.

wagonload ▶ noun an amount of something that can be carried in one wagon: a wagonload of food.

wagon-roof (also wagon-vault) ▶ noun another term for BARREL VAULT.

wagon train ▶ noun historical a convoy or train of covered horse-drawn wagons, as used by pioneers or settlers in North America.

wagtail ▶ noun a slender Eurasian and African songbird with a long tail that is frequently wagged up and down, typically living by water. See also WILLY WAGTAIL.
● Family Motacillidae: two genera, in particular Motacilla, and several species.

wah ▶ exclamation Indian used to express admiration or anger.
– ORIGIN from Hindi vāh.

wahey /wə'heɪ/ ▶ exclamation used to express delight, pleasure, or exhilaration.
– ORIGIN 1970s: imitative.

Wahhabi /wə'hɑ:bi/ (also Wahabi) ▶ noun (pl. Wahabis) a member of a strictly orthodox Sunni Muslim sect founded by Muhammad ibn Abd al-Wahhab (1703–92). It advocates a return to the early Islam of the Koran and Sunna, rejecting later innovations; the sect is still the predominant religious force in Saudi Arabia.
– DERIVATIVES Wahhabism noun.

wahine /wɑ:'hi:ni/ ▶ noun NZ a Maori woman or wife.
– ORIGIN Maori.

wahoo[1] /wɑ:'hu:/ ▶ noun 1 (also wahoo elm) a North American elm which yields useful timber. [ORIGIN: perhaps from Creek ahá-hwa 'walnut'.]
● Ulmus alata, family Ulmaceae.
2 a North American spindle tree. [ORIGIN: from Dakota.]
● Genus Euonymus, family Celastraceae: two species.
3 a large predatory tropical marine fish of the mackerel family, prized as a game fish. [ORIGIN: early 20th cent.: of unknown origin.]
● Acanthocybium solanderi, family Scombridae.

wahoo[2] /wɑ:'hu:/ ▶ exclamation N. Amer. another word for YAHOO[2].
– ORIGIN 1940s: probably a natural exclamation.

wah-wah (also wa-wa) ▶ noun [mass noun] a musical effect achieved on brass instruments by alternately applying and removing a mute and on an electric guitar by controlling the output from the amplifier with a pedal.
■ [count noun] a pedal for producing such an effect on an electric guitar.
– ORIGIN 1920s: imitative.

waiata /'wʌɪətə/ ▶ noun a Maori song.
– ORIGIN Maori.

waif ▶ noun a homeless and helpless person, especially a neglected or abandoned child: she is foster-mother to various waifs and strays.
■ an abandoned pet animal.
– DERIVATIVES waifish adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from an Anglo-Norman French variant of Old Northern French gaif, probably of Scandinavian origin. Early use was often in waif and stray, as a legal term denoting a piece of property found and, if unclaimed, falling to the lord of the manor.

Waikato /wʌɪ'kɑ:təʊ/ the longest river of New Zealand, which flows 434 km (270 miles) generally north-westwards from Lake Taupo, at the centre of North Island, to the Tasman Sea.

Waikiki /ˈwʌɪkɪˌkiː/ a Hawaiian beach resort, a suburb of Honolulu, on the island of Oahu, in Hawaii.

wail ▶ noun a prolonged high-pitched cry of pain, grief, or anger: Christopher let out a wail.
■ a sound resembling this: the wail of an air-raid siren.
▶ verb [no obj.] give such a cry of pain, grief, or anger: Tina ran off wailing | [with direct speech] 'But why?' she wailed.
■ make a sound resembling such a cry: the wind wailed and buffeted the timber structure. ■ [with obj.] poetic/literary manifest or feel deep sorrow for; lament: she wailed her wretched life.
– DERIVATIVES wailer noun, wailful adjective (poetic/literary), wailingly adverb.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old Norse; related to WOE.

Wailing Wall a high wall in Jerusalem said to stand on the site of Herod's temple, where Jews traditionally pray and lament on Fridays.

Wain, John (Barrington) (1925–94), English writer and critic. One of the Angry Young Men of the early 1950s, he was later professor of poetry at Oxford (1973–8).

wain ▶ noun archaic a wagon or cart.
■ (the Wain) short for CHARLES'S WAIN.
– ORIGIN Old English wæg(e)n, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wagen and German Wagen, also to WAY and WEIGH[1].

wainscot /ˈweɪnskɒt/ ▶ noun 1 [in sing.] an area of wooden panelling on the lower part of the walls of a room.
■ [mass noun] Brit. historical imported oak of fine quality, used mainly to make panelling.
2 a drab yellowish to brown-coloured European moth.
• Mythimna and other genera, family Noctuidae: several species.
▶ verb (wainscoted, wainscoting or wainscotted, wainscotting) [with obj.] line (a room or wall) with wooden panelling.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Middle Low German wagenschot, apparently from wagen 'wagon' + schot, probably meaning 'partition'. Sense 2 dates from the early 19th cent.

wainscoting (also wainscotting) ▶ noun [mass noun] wooden panelling that lines the lower part of the walls of a room.
■ material for such panelling.

wainwright ▶ noun historical a wagon-builder.

WAIS Computing ▶ abbreviation for wide area information service, designed to provide access to information across a computer network.

waist ▶ noun the part of the human body below the ribs and above the hips.
■ the circumference of this: her waist has reduced from 35 to 28 inches. ■ a narrowing of the trunk of the body at this point: the last time you had a waist was around 1978. ■ the part of a garment encircling or covering the waist. ■ the point at which a garment is shaped so as to narrow between the ribcage and the hips: a jacket with a high waist. ■ US a blouse or bodice. ■ a narrow part in the middle of anything, such as a violin, an hourglass, the body of a wasp, etc. ■ the middle part of a ship, between the forecastle and the quarterdeck.
– DERIVATIVES waisted adjective [in combination] high-waisted, waistless adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: apparently representing an Old English word from the Germanic root of WAX[2].

waistband ▶ noun a strip of cloth forming the waist of a garment such as a skirt or a pair of trousers.

waist cloth ▶ noun a loincloth.

waistcoat /ˈweɪs(t)kəʊt, ˈwɛskɪt/ ▶ noun Brit. a close-fitting waist-length garment, typically having no sleeves or collar and buttoning down the front, worn especially by men over a shirt and under a jacket.

waist-deep (also waist-high) ▶ adjective & adverb of or at a depth to reach the waist: [as adj.] the waist-deep water | [as adv.] Ellwood stood waist-high in the water.
■ of or at a height to reach the waist: [as adj.] a ruin surrounded by waist-high grass and nettles.

waistline ▶ noun an imaginary line around a person's body at the waist, especially with respect to its size: eliminating inches from the waistline.
■ the shaping and position of the waist of a garment.
■ an imaginary line around a car or other vehicle at the level of the bottom of the windows.

wait ▶ verb [no obj.] 1 stay where one is or delay action until a particular time or until something else happens: he did not wait for a reply | Vera did not wait on a Home Office ruling | [with infinitive] Ben stood on the street corner waiting to cross | [with obj.] I had to wait my turn to play.
■ remain in readiness for some purpose: he found the funicular car waiting on the platform. ■ be left until a later time before being dealt with: we shall need a statement later, but that will have to wait. ■ [with obj.] informal defer (a meal) until a person's arrival: he will wait supper for me. ■ [usu. as noun waiting] (of a vehicle) remain parked for a short time at the side of a road: Holmes admitted parking a car in a no-waiting zone. ■ (wait on/upon) await the convenience of: to see the full series, we will have to wait on the BBC.
2 (cannot wait) used to indicate that one is eagerly impatient to do something or for something to happen: I can't wait for tomorrow | [with infinitive] I can't wait to get started again.
3 act as a waiter or waitress, serving food and drink: a local man was employed to wait on them at table | [with obj.] we had to wait tables in the mess hall.
▶ noun 1 [in sing.] a period of waiting: we had a long wait.
2 (waits) Brit. archaic street singers of Christmas carols.
■ historical official bands of musicians maintained by a city or town.
– PHRASES in wait watching for an enemy or potential victim and preparing to attack them: he decided to lie in wait for the thief. wait and see wait to find out what will happen before doing or deciding something. wait for it Brit. informal do not act before the proper moment: patrol—wait for it—halt! you wait used to convey a threat, warning, or promise: you wait until your Dad gets in!
▶ wait on (or upon) 1 act as an attendant to (someone): a maid was appointed to wait on her. ■ archaic pay a respectful visit to. 2 Austral./NZ & N. English informal not do a particular thing until something else happens: wait on, I've an important message for you. ■ be patient.
wait up 1 not go to bed until someone arrives or something happens. 2 N. Amer. go more slowly or stop until someone catches up.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old Northern French waitier, of Germanic origin; related to WAKE[1]. Early senses included 'lie in wait (for)', 'observe carefully', and 'be watchful'.

wait-a-bit (also wait-a-bit thorn) ▶ noun chiefly S. African an African bush with hooked thorns that catch the clothing, in particular an acacia.
– ORIGIN translating Afrikaans WAG-'N-BIETJIE.

Waitangi, Treaty of /wʌɪˈtaŋi/ a treaty signed in 1840 at the settlement of Waitangi in New Zealand, which formed the basis of the British annexation of New Zealand. Subsequent contraventions of the treaty by the British led to the Maori Wars.

Waitangi Day ▶ noun the anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi, celebrated as a public holiday in New Zealand on 6 February since 1960.

waiter ▶ noun 1 a man whose job is to serve customers at their tables in a restaurant.
2 a person who waits for a time, event, or opportunity.
3 a small tray; a salver.

waiting ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the action of staying where one is or delaying action until a particular time or until something else happens.
2 the action or occupation of working as a waiter or waitress.
3 official attendance at court. See also LADY-IN-WAITING.

waiting game ▶ noun a tactic in which one refrains from action for a time in order to act more effectively at a later date or stage: policemen were last night playing a waiting game outside a country cottage.

waiting list ▶ noun a list of people waiting for something, especially housing or admission to a hospital or school.

waiting room ▶ noun a room provided for the use of people who are waiting to be seen by a doctor or dentist or who are waiting in a station for a bus or train.

wait list ▶ noun North American term for WAITING LIST.
▶ verb (wait-list) [with obj.] put (someone) on a waiting list.

waitperson ▶ noun chiefly US a waiter or waitress (used as a neutral alternative).

waitress ▶ noun a woman whose job is to serve customers at their tables in a restaurant.

waitressing ▶ noun [mass noun] the action or occupation of working as a waitress.

waitron ▶ noun US a waiter or waitress (used as a neutral alternative).

waitstaff ▶ noun [treated as sing. or pl.] US waiters and waitresses collectively.

wait state ▶ noun the condition of computer software or hardware being unable to process further instructions while waiting for some event such as the completion of a data transfer.

waive ▶ verb [with obj.] refrain from insisting on or using (a right or claim): he will waive all rights to the money.
■ refrain from applying or enforcing (a rule, restriction, or fee): her tuition fees would be waived.
– ORIGIN Middle English (originally as a legal term relating to removal of the protection of the law): from an Anglo-Norman French variant of Old French gaiver 'allow to become a waif, abandon'.

waiver ▶ noun an act or instance of waiving a right or claim.
■ a document recording such waiving of a right or claim.

Wajda /ˈvʌɪdə/, Andrzej (b.1929), Polish film director. Notable films: Ashes and Diamonds (1958), Man of Iron (1981), and Danton (1983).

waka /ˈwaka/ ▶ noun NZ a traditional Maori canoe.
– ORIGIN Maori.

Wakamba /waˈkambə/ plural form of KAMBA.

wakame /ˈwakameɪ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an edible brown seaweed used, typically in dried form, in Chinese and Japanese cookery.
• Undaria pinnitafida, class Phaeophyceae.
– ORIGIN Japanese.

Wakashan /waˈkaʃ(ə)n/ ▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting a small family of almost extinct American Indian languages of the northern Pacific coast, including Kwakiutl and Nootka.
▶ noun [mass noun] this family of languages.
– ORIGIN from Nootka waukash 'good' (said to have been applied to the people by Captain Cook) + -AN.

wake[1] ▶ verb (past woke or US, dialect, or archaic waked; past participle woken or US, dialect, or archaic waked) 1 emerge or cause to emerge from a state of sleep; stop sleeping: [no obj.] she woke up feeling better | [with obj.] I wake him gently.
■ [no obj.] (wake up to) become alert to or aware of: he needs to wake up to reality. ■ [with obj.] figurative cause (something) to stir or come to life: it wakes desire in others.
2 [with obj.] dialect, chiefly Irish or US hold a vigil beside (someone who has died): we waked Jim last night.
▶ noun 1 a watch or vigil held beside the body of someone who has died, sometimes accompanied by ritual observances including eating and drinking.
2 (wakes) [treated as sing.] chiefly historical (in some parts of the UK) a festival and holiday held annually in a rural parish, originally on the feast day of the patron saint of the church. [ORIGIN: probably from Old Norse vaka.]
– PHRASES wake up and smell the coffee [usu. in imperative] informal, chiefly N. Amer. become aware of the realities of a situation, however unpleasant.
– DERIVATIVES waker noun.
– ORIGIN Old English (recorded only in the past tense wōc), also partly from the weak verb wacian 'remain awake, hold a vigil', of Germanic origin; related to Dutch waken and German wachen; compare with WATCH.

wake[2] ▶ noun a trail of disturbed water or air left by the passage of a ship or aircraft.
■ figurative used to refer to the aftermath or consequences of something: the committee was set up in the wake of the inquiry.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent. (denoting a track made by a person or thing): probably via Middle Low German from Old Norse vǫk, vaka 'hole or opening in ice'.

wakeboarding ▶ noun [mass noun] the sport of riding on a short, wide board resembling a surfboard and performing acrobatic manoeuvres while being towed behind a motor boat.

– DERIVATIVES wakeboard noun.
– ORIGIN 1990s: from WAKE[2], on the pattern of surfboarding.

Wakefield a town in northern England, a unitary council formerly in Yorkshire; pop. 75,840 (1981).

wakeful ▶ adjective (of a person) unable or not needing to sleep: he had been wakeful all night.
■ alert and vigilant. ■ (of a period of time) passed with little or no sleep: wakeful nights.
– DERIVATIVES wakefully adverb, wakefulness noun.

waken ▶ verb poetic/literary term for WAKE[1] (in sense 1).
– ORIGIN Old English wæcnan 'be aroused', of Germanic origin; related to WAKE[1].

wake-robin ▶ noun 1 Brit. another term for CUCKOO PINT.
2 N. Amer. another term for TRILLIUM.

wake-up ▶ noun [in sing.] an instance of a person waking up or being woken up.
– PHRASES be a wake-up Austral./NZ informal be fully alert or aware: I'm a wake-up to you.

wake-up call ▶ noun chiefly N. Amer. a telephone call notifying the person called that a previously agreed time to wake up has arrived.
■ figurative a person or thing that causes people to become fully alert to an unsatisfactory situation and to take action to remedy it: today's statistics will be a wake-up call for the administration.

wakey-wakey ▶ exclamation informal used to rouse or wake someone.
– ORIGIN 1940s: reduplicated extension of the verb WAKE[1].

Wakhan Salient /wə'kɑ:n/ a narrow corridor of land, 300 km in length, in the north-eastern corner of Afghanistan.

waking ▶ noun [mass noun] the state of being awake: he hangs between sleeping and waking.

wakizashi /ˌwakɪ'zaʃi/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a Japanese sword shorter than a katana.
– ORIGIN Japanese, from waki 'side' + sasu 'wear at one's side'.

Waksman /'waksmən/, Selman Abraham (1888–1973), Russian-born American microbiologist. He discovered the antibiotic streptomycin, used especially against tuberculosis. Nobel Prize for Physiology or Medicine (1952).

WAL ▶ abbreviation for Sierra Leone (international vehicle registration).
– ORIGIN from West Africa Leone.

Walachia variant spelling of WALLACHIA.

Waldenses /wɒl'dɛnsi:z/ ▶ plural noun a puritan religious sect based originally in southern France, now chiefly in Italy and America, founded *c.*1170 by Peter Valdes (d.1205), a merchant of Lyons.
– DERIVATIVES Waldensian adjective & noun.

Waldheim /'valdhʌɪm, German 'valthaɪm/, Kurt (b.1918), Austrian diplomat and statesman, President 1986–92. He was Secretary General of the United Nations 1972–81. During the presidential election campaign of 1986 he denied allegations that as an army intelligence officer he had had direct knowledge of Nazi atrocities during the Second World War.

waldo /'wɔ:ldəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -oes) a remote-controlled device for handling objects.
– ORIGIN 1940s: named after Waldo F. Jones, a fictional inventor described by Robert Heinlein in a science-fiction story.

Waldorf salad /'wɔ:ldɔ:f/ ▶ noun a salad made from apples, walnuts, celery, and mayonnaise.
– ORIGIN named after the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York, where it was first served.

waldrapp /'wɔ:ldrap/ ▶ noun an ibis with a bare red head and mainly dark metallic green plumage, now breeding only in Morocco.
● Geronticus eremita, family Threskiornithidae. Alternative names: hermit ibis, bald ibis.
– ORIGIN 1920s: from German, from Wald 'forest' + Rapp, variant of Rabe 'raven'.

Waldsterben /'valtˌʃtɛ:b(ə)n, German 'valtˌʃtɛrbn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] disease and death in forest trees in central Europe as a result of atmospheric pollution.
– ORIGIN 1980s: from German, from Wald 'forest' + Sterben 'death'.

wale ▶ noun 1 a ridge on a textured woven fabric such as corduroy.
2 Nautical a horizontal wooden strip fitted as strengthening to a boat's side.
3 a horizontal band around a woven basket.
– ORIGIN late Old English walu 'stripe, weal'.

wale knot (also wall knot) ▶ noun a knot made at the end of a rope by intertwining strands to prevent unravelling or act as a stopper.

Waler /'weɪlə/ ▶ noun 1 a horse of a typically light breed from Australia, especially from New South Wales.
2 informal a native or inhabitant of Australia, especially New South Wales.

Wales a principality of Great Britain and the United Kingdom, to the west of central England; pop. 2,798,200 (1991); capital, Cardiff. Welsh name CYMRU.

> The Celtic inhabitants of Wales successfully maintained independence against the Anglo-Saxons who settled in England following the withdrawal of the Romans. Norman colonization from England began in the 12th century, and their control over the country was assured by Edward I's conquest (1277–84). Edward began the custom of making the English sovereign's eldest son Prince of Wales. Wales was formally brought into the English legal and parliamentary system by Henry VIII (1536), but has retained a distinct cultural identity. In 1997 a referendum narrowly approved proposals for a Welsh assembly.

Wales, Prince of see PRINCE OF WALES; CHARLES, PRINCE.

Wałęsa /va'wɛnsə/, Lech (b.1943), Polish trade unionist and statesman, President 1990–5. The founder of Solidarity (1980), he was imprisoned 1981–2 after the movement was banned. After Solidarity's landslide victory in the 1989 elections he became President. Nobel Peace Prize (1983).

wali /'wɑ:li:/ ▶ noun the governor of a province in an Arab country.
– ORIGIN from Arabic (al-)wālī.

walk ▶ verb 1 [no obj., usu. with adverbial] move at a regular and fairly slow pace by lifting and setting down each foot in turn, never having both feet off the ground at once: I walked across the lawn | she turned and walked a few paces.
■ use similar movements but of a different part of one's body or a support: he could walk on his hands carrying a plate on one foot. ■ go on foot for recreation and exercise: you can walk in 21,000 acres of mountain and moorland. ■ [with obj.] travel along or over (a route or area) on foot: the police department has encouraged officers to walk the beat. ■ (of a quadruped) proceed with the slowest gait, always having at least two feet on the ground at once. ■ [with obj.] ride (a horse) at this pace: he walked his horse towards her. ■ informal (of a thing) go missing (typically used to suggest that it has been stolen): anything walks if it is not properly secured and locked. ■ N. Amer. informal abandon or suddenly withdraw from a job, commitment, or situation. ■ N. Amer. informal be released from suspicion or from a charge: had any of the others come clean during the trial, he might have walked. ■ used to suggest that someone has achieved a state or position easily or undeservedly: no one has the right to walk straight into a well-paid job for life. ■ (of a ghost) be present and visible: the ghosts of Bannockburn walked abroad. ■ archaic used to describe the way in which someone lives or behaves: walk humbly with your God. ■ Cricket (of a batsman) leave the field without waiting to be given out by the umpire. ■ Baseball reach first base automatically after not hitting at four balls pitched outside the strike zone. ■ [with obj.] Baseball allow or enable (a batter) to do this.
2 [with obj. and adverbial of direction] cause or enable (someone or something) to walk or move as though walking: she walked her fingers over the dresses.
■ guide, accompany, or escort (someone) on foot: he walked her home to her door | figurative a meeting to walk parents through the complaint process. ■ [with obj.] take (a domestic animal, typically a dog) out for exercise: she spotted a man walking his retriever. ■ [with obj.] train and look after (a hound puppy).
▶ noun 1 an act of travelling or an excursion on foot: he was too restless to sleep, so he went out for a walk.
■ [in sing.] used to indicate the time that it will take someone to reach a place on foot or the distance that they must travel: the library is within five minutes' walk. ■ a route recommended or marked out for recreational walking. ■ a path. ■ chiefly Brit. the round followed by a postman. ■ a part of a forest under one keeper. ■ the place where a gamecock is kept. ■ chiefly Brit. a farm where a hound puppy is sent for training and to accustom it to various surroundings.
2 [in sing.] an unhurried rate of movement on foot: they crossed the field at a leisurely walk.
■ the slowest gait of an animal. ■ a person's manner of walking: the spring was back in his walk.
3 Baseball an instance of reaching first base automatically after not hitting at four balls pitched outside the strike zone.
– PHRASES walk all over informal treat in a thoughtless, disrespectful, and exploitative manner: you don't want to let the cops walk all over you. ■ defeat easily. walk before one can run grasp the basic skills before attempting something more difficult. walking encyclopedia (also walking dictionary) informal a person who has an impressive knowledge of facts or words. walk the boards see BOARD. walk it 1 make a journey on foot rather than riding or in a vehicle. 2 informal achieve a victory easily. walk Matilda see MATILDA[2]. walk someone off their feet walk with someone until they are exhausted. walk of life the position within society that someone holds or the part of society to which they belong as a result of their job or social status: the courses attracted people from all walks of life. walk on air see AIR. walk on eggshells be extremely cautious about one's words or actions. walk one's talk chiefly N. Amer. suit one's actions to one's words. walk the plank see PLANK. walk the streets 1 walk freely in a town or city. 2 work as a prostitute. walk the wards dated gain experience as a clinical medical student. win in a walk US win without effort or competition.
– DERIVATIVES walkable adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wealcan 'roll, toss', also 'wander', of Germanic origin. The sense 'move about', and specifically 'go about on foot', arose in Middle English.
▶ walk away easily, casually, or irresponsibly abandon a situation in which one is involved or for which one is responsible.
walk away with informal another way of saying walk off with.
walk in on enter suddenly or unexpectedly. ■ intrude on: he was clearly not expecting her to walk in on him just then.
walk into informal encounter or become involved in through ignorance or carelessness: I had walked into a situation from which there was no escape.
walk off with informal 1 steal. 2 win: the group walked off with a silver medal.
walk something off take exercise on foot in order to undo the effects of a heavy meal.
walk out 1 depart suddenly or angrily. ■ leave one's job suddenly. ■ go on strike. ■ abandon someone or something towards which one has responsibilities: he walked out on his wife. 2 Brit. informal, dated go for walks in courtship: you were walking out with Tom.
walk over 1 informal another way of saying walk all over. 2 traverse (a racecourse) without needing to hurry, because one has no opponents or only inferior ones.
walk up! Brit. used by a showman as an invitation to a circus or other show: walk up and have a look.

walkabout ▶ noun chiefly Brit. an informal stroll among a crowd conducted by an important visitor.
■ Austral. a journey on foot undertaken by an Australian Aboriginal in order to live in the traditional manner.
– PHRASES go walkabout wander around from place to place in a protracted or leisurely way. ■ (of an Australian Aboriginal) wander into the bush away from white society in order to live in the traditional manner.

walkathon ▶ noun informal a long-distance walk organized as a fund-raising event.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from WALK, on the pattern of marathon.

Walker[1], Alice (Malsenior) (b.1944), American writer and critic. Notable novels: The Color Purple (Pulitzer Prize, 1982) and Possessing the Secret of Joy (1992).

Walker[2], John (b.1952), New Zealand athlete. He was the first athlete to run a mile in less than 3 minutes 50 seconds (1975).

walker ▶ noun a person who walks, especially for exercise or enjoyment.
■ a device for helping a baby learn to walk, consisting of a harness set into a frame on wheels. ■ short for WALKING FRAME.

Walker Cup a golf tournament held every two years and played between teams of male amateurs from the US and from Great Britain and Ireland, first held in 1922. The tournament was instituted by George Herbert Walker, a former President of the US Golf Association.

walkies informal ▶ exclamation a command to a dog to prepare for a walk.

▶ noun a spell of walking with a dog.

– PHRASES go (or take a dog) walkies take a dog for a walk. ■ (go walkies) go missing, especially as a result of theft: the fund went walkies.

walkie-talkie ▶ noun a portable two-way radio.

walk-in ▶ adjective 1 (especially of a storage area) large enough to walk into: a walk-in cupboard.

2 (of a service) available for customers or clients without the need for an appointment: a walk-in clinic.

walking bass ▶ noun Music a bass part in 4/4 time in which a note is played on each beat of the bar and which typically moves up and down the scale in small steps.

walking fern ▶ noun a North American fern with long slender tapering fronds that form new plantlets where the tips touch the ground, typically growing on limestone.

● Asplenium (or Camptosorus) rhizophyllus, family Aspleniaceae.

walking frame ▶ noun Brit. a frame used by disabled or infirm people for support while walking, typically made of metal tubing with rubber feet.

walking leaf ▶ noun another term for WALKING FERN.

walking leg ▶ noun Zoology (in certain arthropods, especially crustaceans) a limb used for walking.

walking papers ▶ plural noun informal, chiefly US notice of dismissal from a job: the reporter has been given his walking papers.

walking shoe ▶ noun a sturdy, practical shoe with good treads, suitable for regular or extensive walking.

walking stick ▶ noun 1 a stick with a curved handle used for support when walking.

2 (also walking-stick insect) North American term for STICK INSECT.

walking tour ▶ noun a sightseeing tour made on foot.

walking wounded ▶ plural noun (usu. the walking wounded) people who have been injured in a battle or major accident but who are still able to walk.

Walkman ▶ noun (pl. Walkmans or Walkmen) trademark a type of personal stereo.

walk-on ▶ adjective [attrib.] denoting a small non-speaking part in a play or film.

▶ noun a person who plays such a part.

■ US a sports player with no regular status in a team.

walkout ▶ noun a sudden angry departure, especially as a protest or strike.

walkover ▶ noun an easy victory: they won in a 12–2 walkover.

walk-through ▶ noun 1 an undemanding task.

■ an unchallenging role in a play or other performance. ■ a perfunctory or lacklustre performance.

2 a rough rehearsal of a play, film, or other performance, without an audience or cameras.

■ Computing a product review of software carried out before release.

3 Computing a software model of a building or other object in which the user can simulate walking around or through.

▶ adjective [attrib.] (of a building or other structure) permitting access from either end: a walk-through gallery.

walk-up N. Amer. ▶ adjective (of a building) allowing access to the upper floors by stairs only; having no lift: a walk-up hotel.

■ (of a room or flat) accessed in this way.

▶ noun a building of this kind.

walkway ▶ noun a passage or path for walking along, especially a raised passageway connecting different sections of a building or a wide path in a park or garden.

wall ▶ noun 1 a continuous vertical brick or stone structure that encloses or divides an area of land: a garden wall | farmland traversed by drystone walls.

■ a side of a building or room, typicallyforming part of the building's structure. ■ any high vertical surface or facade, especially one that is imposing in scale: the eastern wall of the valley | figurative a wall of sound. ■ a thing perceived as a protective or restrictive barrier: a wall of silence. ■ Soccer a line of defenders forming a barrier against a free kick taken near the penalty area. ■ short for CLIMBING WALL. ■ Mining the rock enclosing a lode or seam. ■ Anatomy & Zoology the membranous outer layer or lining of an organ or cavity: the wall of the stomach. ■ Biology see CELL WALL. ■ (the Wall) short for BERLIN WALL.

2 another term for WALL BROWN.

▶ verb [with obj.] enclose (an area) within walls, especiallyto protect it or lend it some privacy: housing areas that are walled off from the indigenous population.

■ (wall something up) block or seal a place by building a wall around or across it: one doorway has been walled up. ■ (wall someone/thing in/up) confine or imprison someone or something in a restricted or sealed place: the grey tenements walled in the space completely.

– PHRASES between you and me and the wall see BEDPOST. drive someone up the wall informal make someone very irritated or angry. go to the wall informal 1 (of a business) fail; go out of business. 2 support someone or something, no matter what the cost to oneself: the tendency for poets to go to the wall for their beliefs. hit the wall (of an athlete) experience a sudden loss of energy in a long race. off the wall N. Amer. informal 1 eccentric or unconventional. 2 (of a person) angry: the president was off the wall about the article. 3 (of an accusation) without basis or foundation. walls have ears proverb be careful what you say as people may be eavesdropping. wall-to-wall (of a carpet or other floor covering) fitted to cover an entire floor. ■ informal denoting great extent or number: wall-to-wall customers.

– DERIVATIVES wall-less adjective.

– ORIGIN Old English, from Latin vallum 'rampart', from vallus 'stake'.

wallaby ▶ noun (pl. -ies) an Australasian marsupial that is similar to, but smaller than, a kangaroo.

● Family Macropodidae: several genera and numerous species.

■ (the Wallabies) informal the Australian international rugby union team.

– PHRASES on the wallaby (track) Austral. informal (of a person) unemployed and having no fixed address.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Dharuk walabi or waliba.

Wallace[1], Alfred Russel (1823–1913), English naturalist and a founder of zoogeography. He independently formulated a theory of the origin of species that was very similar to that of Charles Darwin.

Wallace[2], (Richard Horatio) Edgar (1875–1932), English novelist, screenwriter, and dramatist, noted for his crime novels.

Wallace[3], Sir William (*c.*1270–1305), Scottish national hero. He was a leader of Scottish resistance to Edward I, defeating the English army at Stirling in 1297. After Edward's second invasion of Scotland in 1298 Wallace was defeated and subsequently executed.

Wallacea /wɒˈleɪsɪə/ Zoology a zoogeographical area constituting a transition zone between the Oriental and Australian regions, east of Wallace's line. It is generally held to comprise Sulawesi and other islands between the two continental shelves.

– DERIVATIVES Wallacean adjective.

– ORIGIN 1920s: from the name of A. R. Wallace (see WALLACE[1]).

Wallace's line Zoology a hypothetical line, proposed by Alfred Russel Wallace, marking the boundary between the Oriental and Australian zoogeographical regions. Wallace's line is now placed along the continental shelf of SE Asia. To the west of the line Asian mammals predominate, while to the east of it the fauna is dominated by marsupials.

Wallachia /wɒˈleɪkɪə/ (also Walachia) a former principality of SE Europe, between the Danube and the Transylvanian Alps. In 1861 it was united with Moldavia to form Romania.

– DERIVATIVES Wallachian adjective & noun.

– ORIGIN based on a variant of VLACH.

wallah /ˈwɒlə/ ▶ noun [in combination or with modifier] Indian or informal a person concerned or involved with a specified thing or business: a paan-wallah.

■ a native or inhabitant of a specified place: Bombay wallahs.

– ORIGIN from the Hindi suffix -vālā 'doer' (commonly interpreted in the sense 'fellow'), from Sanskrit pālaka 'keeper'.

wallaroo /ˌwɒləˈruː/ ▶ noun a large Australian kangaroo, the female of which is paler than the male.

● Genus Macropus, family Macropodidae: two species, in particular the common wallaroo (M. robustus).

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Dharuk walaru.

Wallasey /ˈwɒləsi/ a town in NW England on the Wirral Peninsula; pop. 62,530 (1981).

wall bar ▶ noun (usu. wall bars) Brit. one of a set of parallel horizontal bars attached to the wall of a gymnasium, on which exercises are performed.

wallboard ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly N. Amer. a type of board made from wood pulp, plaster, or other material, used for covering walls and ceilings.

■ [count noun] a piece of such board.

wall brown ▶ noun a brown Eurasian butterfly with orange markings on the wings, which breeds on grasses.

● Lasiommata megera, subfamily Satyrinae, family Nymphalidae.

wallchart ▶ noun a chart or poster designed for display on a wall as a teaching aid or source of information.

wallcovering ▶ noun [mass noun] material such as wallpaper or textured fabric used as a decorative covering for interior walls.

wallcreeper ▶ noun a Eurasian songbird related to the nuthatches, having mainly grey plumage with broad bright red wings, and living among rocks in mountainous country.

● Tichodroma muraria, family Sittidae (or Tichodromadidae).

wall cress ▶ noun another term for ARABIS.

Wallenberg /ˈvɑːlənbɑːg/, Raoul (1912–?), Swedish diplomat. In 1944 in Budapest he helped many thousands of Jews to escape death by issuing them with Swedish passports. In 1945 he was arrested by Soviet forces and imprisoned in Moscow. Although the Soviet authorities stated that Wallenberg had died in prison in 1947, his fate remains uncertain.

Waller /ˈwɒlə/, Fats (1904–43), American jazz pianist, songwriter, bandleader, and singer; born Thomas Wright Waller. He was the foremost exponent of the New York 'stride school' of piano playing.

wallet ▶ noun a pocket-sized, flat, folding holder for money and plastic cards.

■ archaic a bag for holding provisions, especially when travelling, typically used by pedlars and pilgrims.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting a bag for provisions): probably via Anglo-Norman French from a Germanic word related to WELL[2]. The current sense (originally US) dates from the mid 19th cent.

wall eye ▶ noun 1 an eye with a streaked or opaque white iris.

■ an eye squinting outwards.

2 (walleye) a North American pikeperch with large, opaque silvery eyes. It is a commercially valuable food fish and a popular sporting fish.

● Stizostedion vitreum, family Percidae.

– DERIVATIVES wall-eyed adjective.

– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: back-formation from earlier wall-eyed, from Old Norse vagleygr; related to Icelandic vagl 'film over the eye'.

wallflower ▶ noun 1 a southern European plant with fragrant yellow, orange-red, dark red, or brown flowers, cultivated for its early spring blooming.

● Cheiranthus cheiri, family Cruciferae.

2 informal a person who has no one to dance with or who feels shy, awkward, or excluded at a party.

wall game (also Eton wall game) ▶ noun (in the UK) an early form of football played traditionally at Eton College, in which, in a series of scrimmages, players attempt to take the ball past the opposing team while keeping the ball against a wall.

wall hanging ▶ noun a large decorative piece of fabric or other material to be hung on the wall of a room.

wall-hung ▶ adjective another term for WALL-MOUNTED.

walling ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 a length of wall: it has high perimeter walling.

2 the action of building a wall.

Wallis, Sir Barnes Neville (1887–1979), English inventor. His designs include the bouncing bomb used against the Ruhr dams in Germany in the Second World War.

Wallis and Futuna Islands /fə'tju:nə/ an overseas territory of France comprising two groups of islands to the west of Samoa in the central Pacific; pop. 15,400 (est. 1988); capital, Mata-Utu.

wall knot ▶ noun another term for WALE KNOT.

wall lizard ▶ noun a small brownish-grey Eurasian lizard which typically has black and white bars on the tail, frequently seen on walls and rocks.
• Genus Podarcis, family Lacertidae: several species, in particular P. muralis.

wall-mounted ▶ adjective fixed to a wall.

Wall of Death ▶ noun a fairground sideshow in which a motorcyclist uses gravitational force to ride around the inside walls of a vertical cylinder.

Walloon /wɒ'lu:n/ ▶ noun 1 a member of a people who speak a French dialect and live in southern and eastern Belgium and neighbouring parts of France. Compare with FLEMING[4].
2 [mass noun] the French dialect spoken by this people.
▶ adjective of or concerning the Walloons or their language.
– ORIGIN from French Wallon, from medieval Latin Wallo(n-), from the same Germanic origin as WELSH.

wallop informal ▶ verb (walloped, walloping) [with obj.] strike or hit (someone or something) very hard: they walloped the back of his head with a stick | figurative they were tired of getting walloped with income taxes.
■ heavily defeat (an opponent).
▶ noun 1 a heavy blow or punch.
■ [in sing.] figurative, chiefly US a potent effect: the script packs a wallop.
2 [mass noun] Brit. alcoholic drink, especially beer.
– ORIGIN Middle English (as a noun denoting a horse's gallop): from Old Northern French walop (noun), waloper (verb), perhaps from a Germanic phrase meaning 'run well', from the bases of WELL[1] and LEAP. Compare with GALLOP. From 'gallop' the senses 'bubbling noise of a boiling liquid' and then 'sound of a clumsy movement' arose, leading to the current senses.

walloper ▶ noun informal 1 a person or thing that wallops someone or something.
2 N. English a person or thing that is strikingly big.
■ a blatant lie.
3 Austral. a policeman.

walloping informal ▶ noun [in sing.] a beating: she gave him a good walloping.
▶ adjective [attrib.] large and powerful: a walloping shock.

wallow ▶ verb [no obj.] 1 (chiefly of large mammals) roll about or lie relaxed in mud or water, especially to keep cool, avoid biting insects, or spread scent: there were watering places where buffalo liked to wallow.
■ (of a boat or aircraft) roll from side to side: the small jet wallowed in the sky.
2 (wallow in) (of a person) indulge in an unrestrained way in (something that creates a pleasurable sensation): I was wallowing in the luxury of the hotel | he had been wallowing in self-pity.
▶ noun 1 an act of wallowing: a wallow in nostalgia.
2 an area of mud or shallow water where mammals go to wallow, typically developing into a depression in the ground over long use.
– DERIVATIVES wallower noun.
– ORIGIN Old English walwian 'to roll about', of Germanic origin, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin volvere 'to roll'.

wall painting ▶ noun a painting made directly on a wall, such as a fresco or mural.

wallpaper ▶ noun [mass noun] paper that is pasted in vertical strips over the walls of a room to provide a decorative or textured surface.
■ figurative a thing, especially music, that provides a bland or unvaried background: soothing sonic wallpaper. ■ Computing an optional background pattern or picture on a computer screen.
▶ verb [with obj.] apply wallpaper to (a wall or room).

wall pass ▶ noun Soccer a short pass to a teammate who immediately returns it; a one-two.

wall pepper ▶ noun the yellow stonecrop.

wall plate ▶ noun a timber laid horizontally in or on a wall as a support for a girder, rafter, or joist.

wall plug ▶ noun 1 a fibre or plastic dowel inserted into a drilled hole to provide a gripping base for a screw.
2 an electric socket in a wall.

wall pocket ▶ noun a receptacle for small household items, designed to hang on a wall.
■ a vase having one flat side, designed to be hung on a wall.

wall rock ▶ noun Geology the rock adjacent to or enclosing a vein, hydrothermal ore deposit, fault, or other geological feature.

wall rocket ▶ noun a yellow-flowered European plant which resembles mustard and emits a foul smell when crushed.
• Diplotaxis muralis, family Cruciferae.

wall rue ▶ noun a small delicate spleenwort (fern) which resembles rue, growing on walls and rocks in both Europe and North America and sensitive to atmospheric pollution.
• Asplenium ruta-muraria, family Aspleniaceae.

Wall Street a street at the south end of Manhattan, where the New York Stock Exchange and other leading American financial institutions are located.
■ used allusively to refer to the American money market or financial interests.
– ORIGIN named after a wooden stockade which was built in 1653 around the original Dutch settlement of New Amsterdam.

Wall Street Crash the collapse of prices on the New York Stock Exchange in October 1929, a major factor in the early stages of the Depression.

wall tent ▶ noun N. Amer. a tent with nearly perpendicular sides; a frame tent.

wall unit ▶ noun a piece of furniture having various sections, typically shelves and cupboards, designed to stand against a wall.

wallwasher ▶ noun a lighting fixture designed to illuminate a wall evenly without lighting the floor.

wally ▶ noun (pl. -ies) Brit. informal a silly or inept person.
– ORIGIN 1960s: perhaps a shortened form of the given name Walter. There are many theories of the origin: one story tells of a Wally who became separated from companions at a 1960s pop festival; the name, announced many times over a loudspeaker, was taken up as a chant by the crowd.

walnut ▶ noun 1 the large wrinkled edible seed of a deciduous tree, consisting of two halves contained within a hard shell which is enclosed in a green fruit.
2 (also walnut tree) the tall tree which produces this nut, with compound leaves and valuable ornamental timber that is used chiefly in cabinetmaking and gun stocks.
• Genus Juglans, family Juglandaceae: several species, including the common (or English) walnut (J. regia).
– ORIGIN late Old English walh-hnutu, from a Germanic compound meaning 'foreign nut'.

Walpole[1] /'wɔ:lpəʊl/, Horace, 4th Earl of Orford (1717–97), English writer and Whig politician, son of Sir Robert Walpole. He wrote The Castle of Otranto (1764), one of the first Gothic novels.

Walpole[2] /'wɔ:lpəʊl/, Sir Hugh (Seymour) (1884–1941), British novelist, born in New Zealand. He is best known for The Herries Chronicle (1930–3), a historical sequence set in the Lake District.

Walpole[3] /'wɔ:lpəʊl/, Sir Robert, 1st Earl of Orford (1676–1745), British Whig statesman, First Lord of the Treasury and Chancellor of the Exchequer 1715–17 and 1721–42, father of Horace Walpole. Walpole is generally regarded as the first British Prime Minister, having presided over the cabinet for George I and George II.

Walpurgisnacht /val'pʊrgɪsnaxt/ ▶ noun German for WALPURGIS NIGHT.

Walpurgis night /val'pʊəgɪs/ ▶ noun (in German folklore) the night of April 30 (May Day's eve), when witches meet on the Brocken mountain and hold revels with the Devil.
– ORIGIN named after St Walburga, an English nun who in the 8th cent. helped to convert the Germans to Christianity; her feast day coincided with an ancient pagan festival whose rites were intended to give protection from witchcraft.

Walras' law /'valra:s/ Economics a law stating that the total value of goods and money supplied equals that of goods and money demanded.
– ORIGIN 1940s: named after M. E. Léon Walras (1834–1910), French economist.

walrus ▶ noun a large gregarious marine mammal related to the eared seals, having two large downward-pointing tusks and found in the Arctic Ocean.
• Odobenus rosmarus, the only member of the family Odobenidae.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: probably from Dutch walrus, perhaps by an inversion of elements (influenced by walvis 'whale-fish') of Old Norse hrosshvalr 'horse-whale'.

walrus moustache ▶ noun a long, thick, drooping moustache.

Walsall /'wɔ:lsɔ:l, 'wɒl-/ an industrial town in the Midlands of England; pop. 255,600 (1991).

Walsingham /'wɔ:lsɪŋəm, 'wɒl-/, Sir Francis (c.1530–90), English politician. As Secretary of State to Queen Elizabeth I he developed a spy network that gathered information about Catholic plots against Elizabeth I.

Walter Mitty the hero of a story (by James Thurber) who indulged in extravagant daydreams of his own triumphs.
■ [as noun] [often as modifier] used to refer to a person who fantasizes about a life much more exciting and glamorous than their own life: my client is very much a Walter Mitty character.

Walton[1] /'wɔ:lt(ə)n, 'wɒl-/, Ernest Thomas Sinton (1903–95), Irish physicist. In 1932 he succeeded, with Sir John Cockcroft, in splitting the atom. Nobel Prize for Physics (1951, shared with Cockcroft).

Walton[2] /'wɔ:lt(ə)n, 'wɒl-/, Izaak (1593–1683), English writer. He is chiefly known for The Compleat Angler (1653; largely rewritten, 1655) which combines practical information on fishing with folklore, interspersed with pastoral songs and ballads.

Walton[3] /'wɔ:lt(ə)n, 'wɒl-/, Sir William (Turner) (1902–83), English composer. Notable works: Façade (1921–3, a setting of poems by Edith Sitwell for recitation), the oratorio Belshazzar's Feast (1930–1), and film scores for three Shakespeare plays and the film The Battle of Britain (1969).

waltz /wɔ:l(t)s, wɒl-/ ▶ noun a dance in triple time performed by a couple who as a pair turn rhythmically round and round as they progress around the dance floor.
■ a piece of music written for or in the style of this dance.
▶ verb [no obj.] dance a waltz: I waltzed across the floor with the lieutenant.
■ [with obj. and adverbial of direction] guide (someone) in or as if in a waltz: he waltzed her round the table. ■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] move or act lightly, casually, or inconsiderately: you can't just waltz in and expect to make a mark | it is the third time that he has waltzed off with the coveted award.
– PHRASES waltz Matilda see MATILDA[2].
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from German Walzer, from walzen 'revolve'.

waltzer ▶ noun a person who dances the waltz.
■ a fairground ride in which cars spin round as they are carried round an undulating track.

Walvis Bay /'wɔ:lvɪs/ a port in Namibia; pop. 25,000 (1980). It was administratively an exclave of the former Cape Province, South Africa until it was transferred to Namibia in 1994.

wambenger /'wɒmbɛŋgə/ ▶ noun another term for PHASCOGALE.
– ORIGIN perhaps from Nyungar.

Wampanoag /ˌwɑ:mpə'nəʊəg/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Wampanoags) a member of a confederacy of American Indian peoples of SE Massachusetts.
▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting these people.
– ORIGIN Narragansett, literally 'easterners'.

wampum /'wɒmpəm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] historical a quantity of small cylindrical beads made by North American Indians from shells, strung together and worn as a decorative belt or other decoration or used as money.
– ORIGIN from Algonquian wampumpeag, from wap 'white' + umpe 'string' + the plural suffix -ag.

WAN ▶ abbreviation for ■ Computing wide area network. ■ Nigeria (international vehicle registration). [ORIGIN: from West Africa Nigeria.]

wan /wɒn/ ▶ adjective (of a person's complexion or appearance) pale and giving the impression of illness or exhaustion: she was looking wan and bleary-eyed.

■(of light) pale; weak: the wan dawn light. ■ (of a smile) weak; strained. ■ poetic/literary (of the sea) without lustre; dark and gloomy.
– DERIVATIVES wanly adverb, wanness /'wɒnnɪs/ noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wann 'dark, black', of unknown origin.

wand ▶ noun a long, thin stick or rod, in particular:
■a stick or rod thought to have magic properties, held by a magician, fairy, or conjuror and used in casting spells or performing tricks: the fairy godmother waves her magic wand and grants the heroine's wishes. ■ a staff or rod held as a symbol of office. ■ informal a conductor's baton. ■ a hand-held electronic device which can be passed over a bar code to read the encoded data. ■ a device emitting a laser beam, used especially to create a pointer on a projected image or text. ■ a small stick with a brush at one end used for the application of mascara: a mascara wand. ■ (wands) one of the suits in some tarot packs, corresponding to batons in others.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old Norse vǫndr, probably of Germanic origin and related to WEND and WIND[2].

wander ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] walk or move in a leisurely, casual, or aimless way: he wandered aimlessly through the narrow streets.
■[no obj.] move slowly away from a fixed point or place: please don't wander off again | figurative his attention had wandered. ■ (of a road or river) wind with gentle twists and turns in a particular direction; meander. ■ [with obj.] move or travel slowly through or over (a place or area): she found her wandering the streets. ■ [no obj.] be unfaithful to one's regular sexual partner.
▶ noun an act or instance of wandering: she'd go on wanders like that in her nightgown.
– DERIVATIVES wanderer noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wandrian, of West Germanic origin; related to WEND and WIND[2].

wandering albatross ▶ noun a very large albatross of southern oceans, having white plumage with black wings and a wingspan of up to 3.3 m.
● Diomedea exulans, family Diomedeidae.

wandering Jew ▶ noun 1 a legendary person said to have been condemned by Christ to wander the earth until the second advent.
■a person who never settles down.
2 a tender trailing tradescantia, typically having striped leaves which are suffused with purple.
● Genus Tradescantia, family Commelinaceae: T. albiflora and T. pendula (formerly Zebrina pendula).

wandering sailor ▶ noun either of two creeping plants:
● creeping jenny. ● ivy-leaved toadflax. See TOADFLAX.

Wanderjahr /'vandəjɑ:/ ▶ noun (pl. Wanderjahre) /-rə/ chiefly N. Amer. a year spent travelling abroad, typically immediately before or after a university or college course.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: German, literally 'wander year'.

wanderlust ▶ noun [mass noun] a strong desire to travel: a man consumed by wanderlust.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from German Wanderlust.

wanderoo /ˌwɒndə'ru:/ ▶ noun (in Sri Lanka) a leaf monkey or langur.
● Genus Presbytis, family Cercopithecidae: the purple-faced leaf monkey (P. vetulus), or the hanuman (P. entellus).
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Sinhalese wanderu 'monkey'.

Wandervogel /'vandəˌfəʊgəl, German 'vandɐˌfo:gl/ ▶ noun (pl. Wandervögel /-fə:gəl, German -fø:gl/) a member of a German youth organization founded at the end of the 19th century for the promotion of outdoor activities and folk culture.
■a wanderer, especially someone who travels the world on foot.
– ORIGIN German, literally 'bird of passage'.

wane[1] ▶ verb [no obj.] (of the moon) have a progressively smaller part of its visible surface illuminated, so that it appears to decrease in size.
■(especially of a condition or feeling) decrease in vigour, power, or extent; become weaker: confidence in the dollar waned.
– PHRASES on the wane becoming weaker, less vigorous, or less extensive: the epidemic was on the wane.
– ORIGIN Old English wanian 'lessen', of Germanic origin; related to Latin vanus 'vain'.

wane[2] ▶ noun the amount by which a plank or log is bevelled or falls short of a squared shape.
– DERIVATIVES waney adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from WANE[1].

Wanganui /ˌwɒŋgə'nu:i/ a port in New Zealand, on the west coast of North Island; pop. 41,210 (1991).

wangle informal ▶ verb [with obj.] obtain (something that is desired) by persuading others to comply or by manipulating events: I wangled an invitation to her flat | I think we should be able to wangle it so that you can start tomorrow.
▶ noun an act or an instance of obtaining something in such a way: they regarded the coalition as a wangle.
– DERIVATIVES wangler noun.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent. (first recorded as printers' slang): of unknown origin; perhaps based on the verb WAGGLE.

wank Brit. vulgar slang ▶ verb [no obj.] (typically of a man) masturbate.
▶ noun an act of masturbating.
– ORIGIN 1940s: of unknown origin.
▶ wank oneself/someone off (or wank off) masturbate.

Wankel engine /'waŋk(ə)l, 'vaŋ-/ ▶ noun a rotary internal-combustion engine in which a curvilinear, triangular, eccentrically pivoted piston rotates in an elliptical chamber, forming three combustion spaces that vary in volume as it turns.
– ORIGIN 1960s: named after Felix Wankel (1902–88), German engineer.

wanker ▶ noun Brit. vulgar slang a person who masturbates (used as a term of abuse).

Wankie /'wɑ:ŋki/ former name (until 1982) for HWANGE.

wanna informal ▶ contraction of want to; want a.

wannabe /'wɒnəbi/ ▶ noun informal, derogatory a person who tries to be like someone else or to fit in with a particular group of people: a star-struck wannabe.
– ORIGIN 1980s: representing a pronunciation of want to be.

want ▶ verb 1 [with obj.] have a desire to possess or do (something); wish for: I want an apple | [with infinitive] we want to go to the beach | [with obj. and infinitive] she wanted me to go to her room | [no obj.] I'll give you a lift into town if you want.
■wish to consult or speak to (someone): Tony wants me in the studio. ■ (usu. be wanted) (of the police) desire to question or apprehend (a suspected criminal): he is wanted by the police in connection with an arms theft. ■ desire (someone) sexually: I've wanted you since the first moment I saw you. ■ [with present participle] informal, chiefly Brit. (of a thing) require to be attended to in a specified way: the wheel wants greasing. ■ [with infinitive] informal ought, should, or need to do something: you don't want to believe everything you hear. ■ [no obj.] (want in/into/out/away) informal, chiefly US desire to be in or out of a particular place or situation: if anyone wants out, there's the door.
2 [no obj.] chiefly archaic lack or be short of something desirable or essential: you shall want for nothing while you are with me.
■[with obj.] (chiefly used in expressions of time) be short of or lack (a specified amount or thing): it wanted twenty minutes to midnight | it wants a few minutes of five o'clock.
▶ noun 1 [mass noun] chiefly archaic a lack or deficiency of something: Victorian houses which are in want of repair | it won't be through want of trying.
■the state of being poor and in need of essentials; poverty: freedom from want.
2 a desire for something: the expression of our wants and desires.
– PHRASES for want of because of a lack of (something): for want of a better location we ate our picnic lunch in the cemetery.
– ORIGIN Middle English: the noun from Old Norse vant, neuter of vanr 'lacking'; the verb from Old Norse vanta 'be lacking'. The original notion of 'lack' was early extended to 'need' and from this developed the sense 'desire'.

want ad ▶ noun US informal a classified advertisement in a newspaper or magazine; a small ad.

wanting ▶ adjective [predic.] lacking in a certain required or necessary quality: they weren't wanting in confidence | the English batting technique has been found sadly wanting.
■not existing or supplied; absent: mandibles are wanting in many of these insects. ■ informal deficient in intelligence.

want list (also wants list) ▶ noun a list of stamps, books, recordings, or similar items required by a collector.

wanton ▶ adjective 1 (of a cruel or violent action) deliberate and unprovoked: sheer wanton vandalism.
2 (especially of a woman) sexually immodest or promiscuous.
■poetic/literary growing profusely; luxuriant: where wanton ivy twines. ■ poetic/literary lively; playful: a wanton fawn.
▶ noun archaic a sexually immodest or promiscuous woman.
▶ verb [no obj.] archaic or poetic/literary 1 play; frolic.
2 behave in a sexually immodest or promiscuous way.
– DERIVATIVES wantonly adverb, wantonness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English wantowen 'rebellious, lacking discipline', from wan- 'badly' + Old English togen 'trained' (related to TEAM and TOW[1]).

wapentake /'wɒp(ə)nteɪk, 'wap-/ ▶ noun historical (in the UK) a subdivision of certain northern and midland English counties, corresponding to a hundred in other counties.
– ORIGIN late Old English wǣpen(ge)tæc, from Old Norse vápnatak, from vápn 'weapon' + taka 'take', perhaps with reference to voting in an assembly by a show of weapons.

wapiti /'wɒpɪti/ ▶ noun (pl. wapitis) a red deer of a large race native to North America. Also called ELK in North America.
● Cervus elaphus canadensis, family Cervidae; it is sometimes treated as a separate species (C. canadensis).
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Shawnee, literally 'white rump'.

waqf /vakf/ ▶ noun (pl. same) an endowment made by a Muslim to a religious, educational, or charitable cause.
– ORIGIN from Arabic, literally 'stoppage, immobilization (of ownership of property)', from waqafa 'come to a standstill'.

War. ▶ abbreviation for Warwickshire.

war ▶ noun [mass noun] a state of armed conflict between different nations or states or different groups within a nation or state: Japan declared war on Germany | Iran and Iraq had been at war for six years.
■[count noun] a particular armed conflict: after the war, they emigrated to America. ■ a state of competition, conflict, or hostility between different people or groups: she was at war with her parents | [count noun] a price war among tour operators. ■ a sustained effort to deal with or end a particular unpleasant or undesirable situation or condition: the authorities are waging war against all forms of smuggling | [count noun] a war on drugs.
▶ verb (warred, warring) [no obj.] engage in a war: small states warred against each another | figurative conflicting emotions warred within her.
– PHRASES go to war declare, begin, or see active service in a war. go to the wars archaic serve as a soldier. have been in the wars informal have been hurt or injured. war clouds a threatening situation of instability in international relations: the war clouds were looming. war of attrition a prolonged war or period of conflict during which each side seeks to gradually wear out the other by a series of small-scale actions. war of nerves see NERVE. war of words a prolonged debate conducted by means of the spoken or printed word. war to end all wars a war, especially the First World War, regarded as making subsequent wars unnecessary.
– ORIGIN late Old English werre, from an Anglo-Norman French variant of Old French guerre, from a Germanic base shared by WORSE.

waragi /'warəgi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] (in Uganda) a strong alcoholic drink made from bananas or cassava.
– ORIGIN from Kiswahili wargi.

war artist ▶ noun an artist employed to draw or paint events and situations arising during a war.

waratah /'wɔ:rətɑ:, ˌwɒrə'tɑ:/ ▶ noun an Australian shrub which bears slender leathery leaves and clusters of crimson flowers.
● Genus Telopea, family Proteaceae: several species, in particular T. speciosissima, which is the emblem of New South Wales.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Dharuk warata.

war baby ▶ noun a child born in wartime, especially one fathered illegitimately by a serviceman.

Warbeck /'wɔ:bɛk/, Perkin (1474–99), Flemish claimant to the English throne. In an attempt to overthrow Henry VII, he claimed to be one of the Princes in the Tower. After attempting to begin a revolt he was captured and imprisoned in the Tower of London in 1497 and later executed.

warbird ▶ noun a vintage military aircraft.

warble[1] ▶ verb [no obj.] (of a bird) sing softly and with a succession of constantly changing notes: larks were warbling in the trees.
■ (of a person) sing in a trilling or quavering voice: he warbled in an implausible soprano.
▶ noun a warbling sound or utterance.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (as a noun in the sense 'melody'): from Old Northern French werble (noun), werbler (verb), of Germanic origin; related to WHIRL.

warble[2] ▶ noun a swelling or abscess beneath the skin on the back of cattle, horses, and other mammals, caused by the presence of the larva of a warble fly.
■ the larva causing this.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: of uncertain origin.

warble fly ▶ noun a large fly which lays its eggs on the legs of mammals such as cattle and horses. The larvae migrate internally to the host's back, where they form a small lump with a breathing hole, dropping to the ground later when fully grown.
● Genus Hypoderma, family Oestridae: several species, including the widespread H. bovis.

warbler ▶ noun 1 any of a number of small insectivorous songbirds that typically have a warbling song:
● an Old World bird of the family Sylviidae, which includes the blackcap, whitethroat, and chiffchaff. ● (also wood warbler) N. Amer. a New World bird of the family Parulidae. ● Austral. an Australasian bird of the family Acanthizidae.
2 informal a person who sings in a trilling or quavering voice.

warbonnet ▶ noun an elongated slender fish of the North Pacific that has branched tentacles above the eye, over the back of the head, and at the front of the long dorsal fin.
● Genus Chirolophis, family Stichaeidae: several species.

war bonnet ▶ noun see BONNET (sense 1).

war bride ▶ noun a woman who marries a man whom she met while he was on active service.

Warburg[1] /'wɔ:bə:g, German 'va:ɐbork/, Aby (Moritz) (1866–1929), German art historian. From 1905 he built up a library in Hamburg, dedicated to preserving the classical heritage of Western culture. In 1933 it was transferred to England and housed in the Warburg Institute (part of the University of London).

Warburg[2] /'wɔ:bə:g, German 'va:ɐbork/, Otto Heinrich (1883–1970), German biochemist. He pioneered the use of the techniques of chemistry for biochemical investigations, especially for his work on intracellular respiration. Nobel Prize for Physiology or Medicine (1931); he was prevented by the Nazi regime from accepting a second one in 1944 because of his Jewish ancestry.

war chest ▶ noun a reserve of funds used for fighting a war.
■ a sum of money used for conducting a campaign or business.

war crime ▶ noun an action carried out during the conduct of a war that violates accepted international rules of war.
– DERIVATIVES war criminal noun.

war cry ▶ noun a call made to rally soldiers for battle or to gather together participants in a campaign.

Ward, Mrs Humphry (1851–1920), English writer and anti-suffrage campaigner, niece of Matthew Arnold; née Mary Augusta Arnold. She is best known for several novels dealing with social and religious themes, especially Robert Elsmere (1888). An active opponent of the women's suffrage movement, she became the first president of the Anti-Suffrage League in 1908.

ward ▶ noun 1 a separate room in a hospital, typically one allocated to a particular type of patient: a children's ward | [as modifier] a ward sister.
2 an administrative division of a city or borough that typically elects and is represented by a councillor or councillors.
3 a child or young person under the care and control of a guardian appointed by their parents or a court.
■ [mass noun] archaic guardianship or the state of being subject to a guardian: the ward and care of the Crown.
4 (usu. wards) any of the internal ridges or bars in a lock which prevent the turning of any key which does not have grooves of corresponding form or size.
■ the corresponding grooves in the bit of a key.
5 [mass noun] archaic the action of keeping a lookout for danger: I saw them keeping ward at one of those huge gates.
6 historical an area of ground enclosed by the encircling walls of a fortress or castle.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 archaic guard; protect: it was his duty to ward the king.
2 admit (a patient) to a hospital ward.
– PHRASES ward of court a child or young person for whom a guardian has been appointed by the Court of Chancery or who has become directly subject to the authority of that court.
– DERIVATIVES wardship noun.
– ORIGIN Old English weard (in sense 5, also 'body of guards'), weardian 'keep safe, guard', of Germanic origin; reinforced in Middle English by Old Northern French warde (noun), warder (verb) 'guard'.
▶ ward someone/thing off prevent from harming or affecting one: she put up a hand as if to ward him off.

-ward (also -wards) ▶ suffix added to nouns of place or destination and to adverbs of direction : 1 (usu. -wards) (forming adverbs) towards the specified place or direction: eastwards | homewards.
2 (usu. -ward) (forming adjectives) turned or tending towards: onward | upward.
– ORIGIN Old English -weard, from a Germanic base meaning 'turn'.

war dance ▶ noun a ceremonial dance performed before a battle or to celebrate victory.

warden ▶ noun a person responsible for the supervision of a particular place or thing or for ensuring that regulations associated with it are obeyed: the warden of a local nature reserve | an air-raid warden.
■ Brit. the head of certain schools, colleges, or other institutions. ■ a prison officer. ■ chiefly US a prison governor.
– DERIVATIVES wardenship noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (originally denoting a guardian or protector): from Anglo-Norman French and Old Northern French wardein, variant of Old French guarden 'guardian'.

warder ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a prison guard.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting a watchman or sentinel): from Anglo-Norman French wardere, from Old Northern French warder 'to guard'. The current sense dates from the mid 19th cent.

ward heeler ▶ noun US informal, chiefly derogatory a person who assists in a political campaign by canvassing votes for a party and performing menial tasks for its leaders.

Wardian case /'wɔ:dɪən/ ▶ noun chiefly historical a glass-sided airtight case used for growing ferns or other plants indoors or for transporting living plants over long distances.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: named after Nathaniel B. Ward (1791–1868), the English botanist who invented it.

Wardour Street /'wɔ:də/ ▶ noun 1 used allusively to refer to the British film industry.
2 [as modifier] denoting the pseudo-archaic diction affected by some modern writers of historical novels.
– ORIGIN the name of a street in central London, formerly mainly occupied by dealers in antique furniture, now the site of the central offices of the British film industry.

wardress ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a female prison guard.

wardrobe ▶ noun a large, tall cupboard in which clothes may be hung or stored.
■ a person's entire collection of clothes: her wardrobe is extensive. ■ the costume department or costumes of a theatre or film company: [as modifier] a wardrobe assistant. ■ a department of a royal or noble household in charge of clothing.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'private chamber'): from Old Northern French warderobe, variant of Old French garderobe (see GARDEROBE).

wardrobe mistress ▶ noun a woman in charge of the construction and organization of the costumes in a theatrical company.

wardrobe trunk ▶ noun chiefly US a trunk fitted with rails and shelves for use as a travelling wardrobe.

wardroom ▶ noun a commissioned officers' mess on board a warship.

ward round ▶ noun visits paid by a doctor in a hospital to each of the patients in their care or in a particular ward or wards.

war drum ▶ noun a drum beaten as a summons or an accompaniment to battle.

-wards ▶ suffix variant spelling of -WARD.

ware[1] /wɛ:/ ▶ noun [mass noun] [usu. with adj. or noun modifier] pottery, typically that of a specified type: blue-and-white majolica ware | (wares) Minoan potters produced an astonishing variety of wares.
■ manufactured articles of a specified type: crystal ware | aluminium ware. ■ (wares) articles offered for sale: traders in the street markets displayed their wares.
– ORIGIN Old English waru 'commodities', of Germanic origin, perhaps the same word as Scots ware 'cautiousness', and having the primary sense 'object of care'; related to WARE[3].

ware[2] /wɛ:/ (also 'ware) ▶ verb [in imperative] beware (used as a warning cry, typically in a hunting context).
– ORIGIN Old English warian 'be on one's guard', from a Germanic base meaning 'observe, take care'.

ware[3] /wɛ:/ ▶ adjective [predic.] archaic aware: thou speak'st wiser than thou art ware of.
– ORIGIN Old English wær, from the Germanic base of WARE[2].

ware[4] /'vɑ:rə/ ▶ adjective S. African loyal; genuine.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, 'true'.

warehou /'wɑ:rə,haʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. same) NZ a marine fish of coastal Australasian waters. See SEA BREAM.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Maori.

warehouse /'wɛ:haʊs/ ▶ noun a large building where raw materials or manufactured goods may be stored prior to their export or distribution for sale.
■ a large wholesale or retail store: a discount warehouse.
▶ verb /also -haʊz/ [with obj.] store (goods) in a warehouse.
■ place (imported goods) in a bonded warehouse pending the payment of import duty. ■ US informal place (someone, typically a prisoner or a psychiatric patient) in a large, impersonal institution in which their problems are not satisfactorily addressed.

warehouse club ▶ noun an organization which operates from a large out-of-town store and sells goods in bulk at discounted prices to business and private customers who must first become club members.

warehouseman ▶ noun (pl. -men) a person who is employed in, manages, or owns a warehouse.

warehouse party ▶ noun a large public party with dancing held in a warehouse or similar building, typically organized without official permission.

warehousing ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the practice or process of storing goods in a warehouse.
■ warehouses considered collectively. ■ US informal the practice of placing people, typically prisoners or psychiatric patients, in large, impersonal institutions.
2 Stock Exchange the building up of a holding of shares in a company by buying numerous small lots of shares in the names of nominees, in order to make a takeover bid while remaining anonymous.

war establishment ▶ noun the level of equipment and manning laid down for a military unit in wartime.

warfare ▶ noun [mass noun] engagement in or the activities involved in war or conflict: guerrilla warfare.

warfarin /'wɔ:fərɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a water-soluble compound with anticoagulant properties, used as a rat poison and in the treatment of thrombosis.
● A coumarin derivative; chem. formula: $C_{19}H_{16}O_4$.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from the initial letters of Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation + -arin on the pattern of coumarin.

war game ▶ noun a military exercise carried out to test or improve tactical expertise.
■ a simulated military conflict carried out as a game, leisure activity, or exercise in personal development.
▶ verb [with obj.] (war-game) US engage in (a campaign or course of action) using the strategies of such a military exercise: there seemed to be no point war-gaming an election 15 months away.

– DERIVATIVES war-gamer noun.

war gaming ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of playing a war game as a leisure activity or exercise in personal development.
■ US the action of engaging in a campaign or course of action using the strategies of a military exercise.

war grave ▶ noun a grave of a serviceman who has died on active service, especially one among a number of graves in a site serving as a monument.

warhead ▶ noun the explosive head of a missile, torpedo, or similar weapon.

Warhol /'wɔːhəʊl/, Andy (*c.*1928–87), American painter, graphic artist, and film-maker; born Andrew Warhola. A major exponent of pop art, he achieved fame for a series of silk-screen prints and acrylic paintings of familiar objects (such as Campbell's soup tins) and famous people (such as Marilyn Monroe), treated with objectivity and precision.
– DERIVATIVES Warholian adjective.

warhorse ▶ noun (in historical contexts) a powerful horse ridden in a battle.
■ informal an elderly person such as a soldier, politician, or sports player who has fought many campaigns or contests.

Warka /wə'kɑː/ Arabic name for URUK.

warlike ▶ adjective disposed towards or threatening war: hostile: a warlike clan.
■ (of plans, preparations, or munitions) directed towards or prepared for war.

war loan ▶ noun [mass noun] stock issued by the British government to raise funds at a time of war.

warlock ▶ noun a man who practises witchcraft; a sorcerer.
– ORIGIN Old English wærloga 'traitor, scoundrel, monster', also 'the Devil', from wær 'covenant' + an element related to lēogan 'belie, deny'. From its application to the Devil, the word was transferred in Middle English to a person in league with the devil, and hence a sorcerer. It was chiefly Scots until given wider currency by Sir Walter Scott.

warlord ▶ noun a military commander, especially an aggressive regional commander with individual autonomy.

Warlpiri /'wɔːlpəri/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an Australian Aboriginal language of Northern Territory, with about 2,800 speakers.

warm ▶ adjective 1 of or at a fairly or comfortably high temperature: a warm September evening | [as complement] I walked quickly to keep warm.
■ (of clothes or coverings) made of a material that helps the body to retain heat; suitable for cold weather: a warm winter coat. ■ (of a colour) containing red, yellow, or orange tones: her fair colouring suited soft, warm shades. ■ Hunting (of a scent or trail) fresh; strong. ■ (of a soil) quick to absorb heat or retaining heat.
2 having, showing, or expressive of enthusiasm, affection, or kindness: they exchanged warm, friendly smiles | a warm welcome.
■ archaic characterized by lively or heated disagreement: a warm debate arose. ■ archaic sexually explicit or titillating.
3 [predic.] informal (especially in children's games) close to discovering something or guessing the correct answer: we're getting warmer, sir.
▶ verb make or become warm: [with obj.] I stamped my feet to warm them up | figurative the film warmed our hearts | [no obj.] it's a bit chilly in here, but it'll soon warm up.
■ [with obj.] informal spank (someone's buttocks): I'll warm your bum if you don't come here this instant.
▶ noun 1 (the warm) a warm place or area: stay in the warm, I've made up the fire for you.
■ [in sing.] an act of warming something or oneself: he had a cup of tea and a warm by the kitchen range.
2 short for BRITISH WARM.
– PHRASES keep something warm for someone hold or occupy a place or post until another person is ready to do so. (as) warm as toast pleasantly warm. wrap up warm (or be wrapped up warm) put on (or have on) plenty of clothes to protect oneself against cold weather.
– DERIVATIVES warmer noun [usu. in combination] a towel-warmer, warmish adjective, warmly adverb, warmness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wearm (adjective), werman, wearmian (verb), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch and German warm, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin formus 'warm' and Greek thermos 'hot'.

▶ warm down recover from strenuous physical exertion by doing gentle stretches and exercises.
warm to/towards (or US warm up to/towards) begin to like (someone). ■ become more interested in or enthusiastic about (something): she was warming to her theme.
warm up prepare for physical exertion or a performance by exercising or practising gently beforehand: the band were warming up. ■ (of an engine or electrical appliance) reach a temperature high enough to allow it to operate efficiently. ■ become livelier or more animated: after several more rounds, things began to warm up in the bar.
warm something up (or US over) reheat previously cooked food. ■ amuse or entertain an audience or crowd so as to make them more receptive to the main act.

war machine ▶ noun 1 the military resources of a country organized for waging war.
2 an instrument or weapon of war.

warmblood ▶ noun a horse of a breed that is a cross between an Arab or similar breed and another breed of the draught or pony type.

warm-blooded ▶ adjective 1 relating to or denoting animals (chiefly mammals and birds) which maintain a constant body temperature, typicallyabove that of the surroundings, by metabolic means; homeothermic.
2 ardent; passionate.
– DERIVATIVES warm-bloodedness noun.

warm-down ▶ noun a series of gentle exercises designed to relax the body after strenuous physical exertion.

warmed-up (N. Amer. warmed-over) ▶ adjective 1 (of food or drink) reheated: a warmed-up airline meal.
2 (of a person) ready for physical exertion or a performance having exercised or practised gently; limbered-up.
3 (of an engine, electrical appliance, or musical instrument) operating efficiently having reached a high enough temperature or been prepared in some other way.
4 (of an idea or product) second-hand; stale.

war memorial ▶ noun a monument commemorating those killed in a war.

warm front ▶ noun Meteorology the boundary of an advancing mass of warm air, in particular the leading edge of the warm sector of a low-pressure system.

warm-hearted ▶ adjective (of a person or their actions) sympathetic and kind.
– DERIVATIVES warm-heartedly adverb, warm-heartedness noun.

warming pan ▶ noun historical a wide, flat brass pan on a long handle, filled with hot coals and used for warming a bed.

warmonger /'wɔːmʌŋgə/ ▶ noun a sovereign or political leader or activist who encourages or advocates aggression or warfare towards other nations or groups.
– DERIVATIVES warmongering noun & adjective.

warmth ▶ noun [mass noun] the quality, state, or sensation of being warm; moderate and comfortable heat: the warmth of the sun on her skin.
■ enthusiasm, affection, or kindness: she smiled with real warmth. ■ vehemence or intensity of emotion: 'Of course not,' he snapped, with a warmth that he regretted.

warm-up ▶ noun a period or act of preparation for a match, performance, or exercise session, involving gentle exercise or practice.
■ (warm-ups) N. Amer. a garment worn during light exercise or training; a tracksuit. ■ a period before a stage performance in which the audience is amused or entertained in order to make it more receptive to the main act.

warm work ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 physical action that makes one warm through exertion.
2 archaic dangerous conflict.

warn ▶ verb [reporting verb] inform someone in advance of an impending or possible danger, problem, or other unpleasant situation: [with obj.] his father had warned him of what might happen | [with direct speech] 'He's going to humiliate you,' John warned | [with clause] the union warned that its members were close to going on strike.
■ give someone forceful or cautionary advice about their actions or conduct: [with obj.] he warned the chancellor against raising taxes | [with obj. and infinitive] they warned people not to keep large amounts of cash in their homes | [no obj.] they warned against false optimism.
– PHRASES warn someone off the course Horse Racing prohibit someone who has broken the laws of the Jockey Club from riding or running horses at meetings under the Jockey Club's jurisdiction.
– DERIVATIVES warner noun.
– ORIGIN Old English war(e)nian, wearnian, from a West Germanic base meaning 'be cautious'; compare with WARE[3].

▶ warn someone off tell someone forcefully or threateningly to go or keep away from somewhere. ■ advise someone forcefully against (a particular thing or course of action): he has been warned off booze.

Warner Brothers a US film production company founded in 1923 by the brothers Harry, Jack, Sam, and Albert Warner.

warning ▶ noun a statement or event that indicates a possible or impending danger, problem, or other unpleasant situation: police issued a warning about fake £20 notes | [mass noun] suddenly and without any warning, the army opened fire | [as modifier] a red warning light.
■ [mass noun] cautionary advice: a word of warning—don't park illegally. ■ [mass noun] advance notice of something: she had only had four days' warning before leaving Berlin. ■ an experience or sight that serves as a cautionary example to others: his sad death should be a warning to everyone.
– DERIVATIVES warningly adverb.
– ORIGIN Old English war(e)nung (see WARN, -ING[1]).

warning coloration ▶ noun [mass noun] Zoology conspicuous colouring that warns a predator that an animal is unpalatable or poisonous.

warning track ▶ noun Baseball a strip around the outside of the outfield which warns approaching fielders of the proximity of a wall.

warning triangle ▶ noun a triangular red frame, made of reflective material, carried by motorists to be set up on the road as a danger signal in case of a breakdown or other hazard.

War of 1812 a conflict between the US and the UK (1812–14), prompted by restrictions on US trade resulting from the British blockade of French and allied ports during the Napoleonic Wars, and by British and Canadian support for American Indians trying to resist westward expansion. It was ended by a treaty which restored all conquered territories to their owners before outbreak of war.

War of American Independence see AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE, WAR OF.

War Office a former department of the British government that was in charge of the army (incorporated into the Ministry of Defence in 1964).

War of Jenkins's Ear see JENKINS'S EAR, WAR OF.

warp ▶ verb 1 become or cause to become bent or twisted out of shape, typically as a result of the effects of heat or dampness: [no obj.] wood has a tendency to warp | [with obj.] moisture had warped the box.
■ [with obj.] cause to become abnormal or strange; have a distorting effect on: your judgement has been warped by your obvious dislike of him | [as adj. warped] a warped sense of humour.
2 [with obj. and adverbial of direction] move or tow (a ship) along by hauling on a rope attached to a stationary object ashore.
■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (of a ship) move or be towed in such a way.
3 [with obj.] (in weaving) arrange (yarn) so as to form the warp of a piece of cloth.
4 [with obj.] cover (land) with a deposit of alluvial soil by natural or artificial flooding.
▶ noun 1 a twist or distortion in the shape or form of something: the head of the racket had a curious warp.
■ figurative an abnormality or perversion in a person's character. ■ [as modifier] relating to or denoting (fictional or hypothetical) space travel by means of distorting space-time: the craft possessed warp drive | warp speed.
2 [in sing.] (in weaving) the threads on a loom over and under which other threads (the weft) are passed to make cloth: the warp and weft are the basic constituents of all textiles | figurative rugby is woven into the warp and weft of South African society.
3 a rope attached at one end to a fixed point and used for moving or mooring a ship.
4 [mass noun] archaic alluvial sediment; silt.

– DERIVATIVES warpage noun (usu. in sense 1 of the verb), warper noun.
– ORIGIN Old English weorpan (verb), wearp (noun), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch werpen and German werfen 'to throw'. Early verb senses included 'throw', 'fling open', and 'hit (with a missile)'; the sense 'bend' dates from late Middle English. The noun was originally a term in weaving (see sense 2).

warpaint ▶ noun [mass noun] a pigment or paint traditionally used in some societies, especially those of North American Indians, to decorate the face and body before battle.
■ informal elaborate or excessively applied make-up.

warpath ▶ noun (in phrase on the warpath) in an angry and aggressive state about a conflict or dispute: he intends to go on the warpath with a national campaign to reverse the decision.
– ORIGIN with reference to American Indians heading towards a battle with an enemy.

war pension ▶ noun a pension paid to someone who is disabled or bereaved by war.

warplane ▶ noun an aeroplane designed and equipped to engage in air combat or to drop bombs.

war poet ▶ noun a poet writing at the time of and on the subject of war, especially one on military service during the First World War.

warragal ▶ noun & adjective variant spelling of WARRIGAL.

warrant ▶ noun 1 a document issued by a legal or government official authorizing the police or some other body to make an arrest, search premises, or carry out some other action relating to the administration of justice: magistrates issued a warrant for his arrest | an extradition warrant.
■ a document that entitles the holder to receive goods, money, or services: we'll issue you with a travel warrant. ■ Finance a negotiable security allowing the holder to buy shares at a specified price at or before some future date. ■ [mass noun] [usu. with negative] justification or authority for an action, belief, or feeling: there is no warrant for this assumption.
2 an official certificate of appointment issued to an officer of lower rank than a commissioned officer.
▶ verb [with obj.] justify or necessitate (a certain course of action): there is not enough new evidence to warrant a reference to the Court of Appeal.
■ officially affirm or guarantee: the vendor warrants the accuracy of the report.
– PHRASES I (or I'll) warrant (you) dated used to express the speaker's certainty about a fact or situation: I'll warrant you'll thank me for it in years to come.
– DERIVATIVES warranter noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the senses 'protector' and 'safeguard', also, as a verb, 'keep safe from danger'): from variants of Old French guarant (noun), guarantir (verb), of Germanic origin; compare with GUARANTEE.

warrantable ▶ adjective (of an action or statement) able to be authorized or sanctioned; justifiable: a warrantable assertion.
– DERIVATIVES warrantableness noun, warrantably adverb.

warrant card ▶ noun a document of authorization and identification carried by a police officer.

warrantee ▶ noun Law a person to whom a warranty is given.

warrant officer ▶ noun a rank of officer in the army, RAF, or US navy, below the commissioned officers and above the NCOs.

warrantor /ˈwɒrəntə/ ▶ noun a person or company that provides a warranty.

warranty ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a written guarantee, issued to the purchaser of an article by its manufacturer, promising to repair or replace it if necessary within a specified period of time: the car comes with a three-year warranty | [mass noun] as your machine is under warranty, I suggest getting it checked.
■ (in an insurance contract) an engagement by the insured party that certain statements are true or that certain conditions shall be fulfilled, the breach of it invalidating the policy. ■ [mass noun] [usu. with negative] archaic justification or grounds for an action or belief: you have no warranty for such an audacious doctrine.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French warantie, variant of garantie (see GUARANTY). Early use was as a legal term denoting a covenant annexed to a conveyance of property, in which the vendor affirmed the security of the title.

Warren[1], Earl (1891–1974), American judge. As Chief Justice of the Supreme Court (1953–69) he did much to improve civil liberties and is also remembered for heading the Warren Commission (1964) into the assassination of President Kennedy.

Warren[2], Robert Penn (1905–89), American poet, novelist, and critic. An advocate of New Criticism, he was the first person to win Pulitzer Prizes in both fiction and poetry categories and in 1986 he was made the first American Poet Laureate.

warren ▶ noun (also rabbit warren) a network of interconnecting rabbit burrows.
■ a densely populated or labyrinthine building or district: a warren of narrow gas-lit streets. ■ Brit. historical an enclosed piece of land set aside for breeding game, especially rabbits.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from an Anglo-Norman French and Old Northern French variant of Old French garenne 'game park', of Gaulish origin.

warrener ▶ noun historical a gamekeeper.
■ a person in charge of a rabbit warren, either as owner or on behalf of its owner.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Anglo-Norman French warener, from warenne 'game park'.

warrigal /ˈwɒrɪg(ə)l/ (also warragal) Austral. ▶ noun 1 a dingo dog.
2 a wild or untamed horse.
3 another term for MYALL (in sense 2).
▶ adjective (of a plant) not cultivated: warrigal melons.
■ untamed; undisciplined: half a dozen warrigal knockabout men, proper tearaway types.
– ORIGIN from Dharuk warrigal 'wild dingo'.

warring /ˈwɔːrɪŋ/ ▶ adjective [attrib.] (of two or more people or groups) in conflict with each other: warring factions | a warring couple.

Warrington /ˈwɒrɪŋtən/ an industrial town on the River Mersey in NW England; pop. 82,520 (1981).

warrior ▶ noun (especially in former times) a brave or experienced soldier or fighter.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old Northern French werreior, variant of Old French guerreior, from guerreier 'make war', from guerre 'war'.

Warsaw /ˈwɔːsɔː/ the capital of Poland, on the River Vistula; pop. 1,655,660 (1990). The city suffered severe damage and the loss of 700,000 lives during the Second World War and was almost completely rebuilt. Polish name WARSZAWA /varˈʃava/.

Warsaw Pact a treaty of mutual defence and military aid signed at Warsaw on 14 May 1955 by Communist states of Europe under Soviet influence, in response to the admission of West Germany to NATO. The Pact was dissolved in 1991.

warship ▶ noun a ship equipped with weapons and designed to take part in warfare at sea.

Wars of Religion another term for FRENCH WARS OF RELIGION.

Wars of the Roses the 15th-century English civil wars between the Houses of York and Lancaster, represented by white and red roses respectively, during the reigns of Henry VI, Edward IV, and Richard III. The struggle was largely ended in 1485 by the defeat and death of the Yorkist king Richard III at the Battle of Bosworth and the accession of the Lancastrian Henry Tudor (Henry VII), who united the two houses by marrying Elizabeth, daughter of Edward IV.

wart ▶ noun a small, hard, benign growth on the skin, caused by a virus.
■ any rounded excrescence on the skin of an animal or the surface of a plant. ■ informal an obnoxious or objectionable person. ■ an undesirable or disfiguring feature: few products are without their warts.
– PHRASES warts and all informal including features or qualities that are not appealing or attractive: Philip must learn to accept me, warts and all.
– DERIVATIVES warty adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wearte, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wrat and German Warze.

wart-biter ▶ noun a large mottled green or brown bush cricket that inhabits coarse grassland in Europe.
● Decticus verrucivorous, family Tettigoniidae.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: so named from the reputed former use in Sweden of such crickets to bite off warts.

wart disease ▶ noun [mass noun] a fungal disease of potatoes which produces warty outgrowths on the tubers.
● The fungus is Synchytrium endobioticum, subdivision Mastigomycotina.

warthog ▶ noun an African wild pig with a large head, warty lumps on the face, and curved tusks.
● Phacochoerus aethiopicus, family Suidae.

wartime ▶ noun [mass noun] a period during which a war is taking place.

war-torn ▶ adjective (of a place) racked or devastated by war: a war-torn republic.

wart snake ▶ noun a large aquatic fish-eating snake with coarse-textured scales which give it a file-like appearance, native to SE Asia and Australia. Also called FILE SNAKE.
● Family Achrochordidae and genus Achrochordus: three species, e.g. the Asian wart snake (A. arafurae).

warty newt ▶ noun another term for CRESTED NEWT.

Warwick[1] /ˈwɒrɪk/ the county town of Warwickshire, in central England, on the River Avon; pop. 21,990 (1981).

Warwick[2] /ˈwɒrɪk/, Richard Neville, Earl of (1428–71), English statesman; known as Warwick the Kingmaker. During the Wars of the Roses he fought first on the Yorkist side, helping Edward IV to gain the throne (1461), and then on the Lancastrian side, briefly restoring Henry VI to the throne (1470). Warwick was killed at the battle of Barnet.

Warwickshire a county of central England; county town, Warwick.

wary ▶ adjective (warier, wariest) feeling or showing caution about possible dangers or problems: dogs which have been mistreated often remain very wary of strangers | a wary look.
– DERIVATIVES warily adverb, wariness noun.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from WARE[3] + -Y[1].

was first and third person singular past of BE.

wasabi /wəˈsɑːbi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a Japanese plant with a thick green root which tastes like strong horseradish and is used in cookery, especially in powder or paste form as an accompaniment to raw fish.
● Eutrema wasabi, family Cruciferae.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Japanese.

Wash. ▶ abbreviation for Washington.

wash ▶ verb 1 [with obj.] clean with water and, typically, soap or detergent: Auntie Lou had washed all their clothes | he washed down the woodwork in the kitchen.
■ [no obj.] clean oneself, especially one's hands and face with soap and water. ■ [with obj. and adverbial] remove (a stain or dirt) from something by cleaning with water and detergent: they have to keep washing the mould off the walls | figurative all that hate can't wash away the guilt. ■ [no obj., with adverbial] (of dirt or a stain) be removed in such a way: the dirt on his clothes would easily wash out. ■ [no obj., with adverbial] (of fabric, a garment, or dye) withstand cleaning to a specified degree without shrinking or fading: a linen-mix yarn which washes well. ■ [no obj.] do one's laundry: I need someone to cook and wash for me. ■ (usu. be washed) poetic/literary wet or moisten (something) thoroughly: you are beautiful with your face washed with rain.
2 [with obj. and adverbial of direction] (of flowing water) carry (someone or something) in a particular direction: floods washed away the bridges.
■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] be carried by flowing water: an oil slick washed up on the beaches. ■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (especially of waves) sweep, move, or splash in a particular direction: the sea began to wash along the decks. ■ [with obj.] (usu. be washed) (of a river, sea, or lake) flow through or lap against (a country, coast, etc.): offshore islands washed by warm blue seas. ■ [no obj.] (wash over) (of a feeling) affect (someone) suddenly: a deep feeling of sadness washed over her. ■ [no obj.] (wash over) occur all around without greatly affecting (someone): she allowed the babble of conversation to wash over her. ■ [with obj.] sift metallic particles from (earth or gravel) by running water through it.
3 [with obj.] (usu. be washed) brush with a thin coat of dilute paint or ink: the walls were washed with shades of umber.
■ (wash something with) coat inferior metal with (a film of gold or silver from a solution).
4 [no obj., with negative] informal seem convincing or genuine: charm won't wash with this crew.

▶ noun 1 [usu. in sing.] an act of washing something or an instance of being washed: her hair needs a wash.
■ a quantity of clothes needing to be or just having been washed: she hung out her Tuesday wash. ■ [mass noun] a medicinal or cleansing solution, especially one applied to the skin: antiseptic skin wash.
2 [in sing.] the disturbed water or air behind a moving boat or aircraft or the sound made by this: the wash of a smart motor boat.
■ the surging of water or breaking of waves or the sound made by this: the wash of waves on the pebbled beach.
3 (the Wash) an inlet of the North Sea on the east coast of England between Norfolk and Lincolnshire.
4 a layer of paint or metal spread thinly on a surface: the walls were covered with a pale lemon wash.
5 [mass noun] silt or gravel carried by a stream or river and deposited as sediment.
■ [count noun] a sandbank exposed only at low tide.
6 [mass noun] kitchen slops and other food waste fed to pigs.
7 [mass noun] malt fermenting in preparation for distillation.
8 [in sing.] US informal a situation or result that is of no benefit to either of two opposing sides.
– PHRASES come out in the wash informal be resolved eventually with no lasting harm: he's not happy but he assures me it'll all come out in the wash. in the wash (of clothes, bedlinen, or similar) put aside for washing or in the process of being washed. wash one's dirty linen (or laundry) in public informal discuss or argue about one's personal affairs in public. wash one's hands go to the toilet (used euphemistically). wash one's hands of disclaim responsibility for: the social services washed their hands of his daughter. [ORIGIN: originally with biblical allusion to Matt. 27:24.]
– ORIGIN Old English wæscan (verb), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wassen, German waschen, also to WATER.

▶ wash something down accompany or follow food with a drink: bacon and eggs washed down with a cup of tea.
wash out (or wash someone out) N. Amer. be excluded (or exclude someone) from a course or position after a failure to meet the required standards: a lot of them had washed out of pilot training.
wash something out 1 clean the inside of something with water. 2 wash something, especially a garment, quickly or briefly: I don't have time to wash a blouse out every night. 3 (usu. be washed out) cause an event to be postponed or cancelled because of rain: their match against Australia was washed out. 4 (of a flood or downpour) make a breach in a road.
wash up 1 (also wash something up) chiefly Brit. clean crockery and cutlery after use. 2 US clean one's hands and face.

washable ▶ adjective (especially of fabric or clothes) able to be washed without shrinkage or other damage: washable curtains.
– DERIVATIVES washability noun.

wash-and-wear ▶ adjective (of a garment or fabric) easily washed, drying quickly, and not needing to be ironed.

washbag ▶ noun Brit. a toilet bag.

washbasin ▶ noun a basin, typically fixed to a wall or on a pedestal, used for washing one's hands and face.

washboard ▶ noun 1 a board made of ridged wood or a sheet of corrugated zinc, used when washing clothes as a surface against which to scrub them.
■ a similar board played as a percussion instrument by scraping. ■ [mass noun] chiefly N. Amer. the surface of a worn, uneven road. ■ [as modifier] denoting a man's stomach that is lean and has well-defined muscles.
2 a board fixed along the side of a boat to prevent water from spilling in over the edge.
▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. washboarded] chiefly N. Amer. cause ridges to develop in (a road or road surface): a road left washboarded by winter frost.

wash bottle ▶ noun Chemistry a bottle, typically plastic, with a nozzle for directing a stream of liquid on to something.
■ a bottle containing liquid through which gases are passed for purification.

washcloth ▶ noun N. Amer. a facecloth.

washday ▶ noun a day on which a household's clothes, bedlinen, etc. are washed, especially when the same day each week.

washdown ▶ noun an act of washing someone or something thoroughly, in particular an act of washing oneself completely at a washbasin.
■ [as modifier] denoting a toilet having a flushing system in which the pan is automatically washed down.

wash drawing ▶ noun a picture or sketch made by laying on washes of watercolour, typically in monochrome, over a pen or pencil drawing.

washed out ▶ adjective faded by or as if by sunlight or repeated washing: washed-out jeans.
■ (of a person) pale and tired.

washed-up ▶ adjective deposited by the tide on a shore: washed-up jellyfish.
■ informal no longer effective or successful: a washed-up actress.

washer ▶ noun 1 [usu. with modifier] a person or device that washes something: a glass washer.
■ a washing machine. ■ a windscreen washer. ■ Austral. a facecloth.
2 a small flat ring made of metal, rubber, or plastic fixed under a nut or the head of a bolt to spread the pressure when tightened or between two joining surfaces as a spacer or seal.

washer-dryer ▶ noun a washing machine with an inbuilt tumble-dryer.

washer-up ▶ noun (pl. washers-up) Brit. a person whose job or task it is to wash the crockery, cutlery, and other utensils in a kitchen.

washerwoman ▶ noun (pl. -women) a woman whose occupation is washing clothes.

washery ▶ noun (pl. -ies) (in the mining industry) a place where coal is washed.

washeteria ▶ noun another term for LAUNDERETTE.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from WASH, on the pattern of cafeteria.

wash-hand basin ▶ noun another term for WASHBASIN.

wash-hand stand ▶ noun another term for WASHSTAND.

wash house ▶ noun an outhouse or room in which clothes are washed.

washing ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of washing oneself or laundering clothes, bedlinen, etc.
■ a quantity of clothes, bedlinen, etc. that is to be washed or has just been washed: she took her washing around to the launderette.

washing line ▶ noun a clothes line.

washing machine ▶ noun a machine for washing clothes, bedlinen, etc.

washing powder ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly Brit. detergent in the form of a powder for washing clothes, bedlinen, etc.

washing soda ▶ noun [mass noun] sodium carbonate, used dissolved in water for washing and cleaning.

Washington[1] 1 a state of the north-western US, on the Pacific coast; pop. 4,866,690 (1990); capital, Olympia. It became the 42nd state in 1889.
2 the capital of the US; pop. 606,900 (1990). It is coextensive with the District of Columbia, a federal district on the Potomac River with boundaries on the states of Virginia and Maryland. Founded in 1790, during the presidency of George Washington, it was planned and built as a capital city. Full name WASHINGTON DC.
3 an industrial town in NE England, designated as a new town in 1964; pop. 48,830 (1981).
– DERIVATIVES Washingtonian noun & adjective.

Washington[2], Booker T. (1856–1915), American educationist; full name Booker Taliaferro Washington. A leading commentator for black Americans, Washington established the Tuskegee Institute in Alabama (1881). His support for segregation and his emphasis on black people's vocational skills attracted criticism from other black leaders.

Washington[3], George (1732–99), American general and statesman, 1st President of the US 1789–97. Washington helped win the War of Independence by keeping his army together through the winter at Valley Forge and winning a decisive battle at Yorktown (1781). He chaired the convention at Philadelphia (1787) that drew up the American Constitution and subsequently served two terms as President, following a policy of neutrality in international affairs.

washing-up ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. the process of washing used crockery, cutlery, and other kitchen utensils: they've finished the washing-up.
■ crockery, cutlery, and other kitchen utensils that are to be washed: the sink is full of washing-up.

washland ▶ noun [mass noun] land that is periodically flooded by a river or stream.

wash leather ▶ noun [mass noun] dated chamois or a similar leather.

washout ▶ noun 1 [usu. in sing.] informal an event that is spoiled by constant or heavy rain.
■ a disappointing failure: the film was branded a colossal washout.
2 a breach in a road or railway track caused by flooding.
■ Geology a channel cut into a sedimentary deposit by rushing water and filled with younger material.
3 Medicine the removal of material or a substance from the body or a part of it, either by washing with a fluid, or by allowing it to be eliminated over a period.

washrag ▶ noun US term for FACECLOTH.

washroom ▶ noun N. Amer. a room with washing and toilet facilities.

washstand ▶ noun chiefly historical a piece of furniture designed to hold a jug, bowl, or basin for the purpose of washing one's hands and face.

washtub ▶ noun a large metal tub used for washing clothes and linen.

wash-up ▶ noun 1 an act of washing, especially washing oneself or crockery.
■ Brit. informal a person employed to wash dishes in the kitchen of a restaurant or hotel.
2 informal a debrief or follow-up discussion.

wash-wipe ▶ noun a vehicle's built-in window-cleaning system, comprising windscreen wipers and water bottle.

washy ▶ adjective (washier, washiest) 1 archaic (of food or drink) too watery: washy potatoes.
■ lacking in strength or vigour; insipid: a weak and washy production.
2 (of a colour) having a faded look.
– DERIVATIVES washiness noun.

wasn't ▶ contraction of was not.

Wasp ▶ noun N. Amer. an upper- or middle-class American white Protestant, considered to be a member of the most powerful group in society.
– DERIVATIVES Waspish adjective, Waspy adjective.
– ORIGIN 1960s: acronym from white Anglo-Saxon Protestant.

wasp ▶ noun 1 a social winged insect which has a narrow waist and a sting and is typically yellow with black stripes. It constructs a paper nest from wood pulp and raises the larvae on a diet of insects.
• Family Vespidae, superfamily Vespoidea, order Hymenoptera: several genera, in particular Vespula and Polistes.
2 a solitary winged insect with a narrow waist, mostly distantly related to the social wasps and including many parasitic kinds.
• Several superfamilies in the sections Aculeata (digger, mason, and potter wasps) and Parasitica (parasitic wasps and gall wasps), order Hymenoptera.
– DERIVATIVES wasp-like adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wæfs, wæps, wæsp, of West Germanic origin, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin vespa; perhaps related to WEAVE[1] (from the web-like form of its nest).

wasp beetle ▶ noun a black and yellow longhorn beetle that mimics the appearance and behaviour of a wasp.
• Clytus arietis, family Cerambycidae.

waspie ▶ noun (pl. -ies) dated a woman's corset or belt designed to accentuate a slender waist.
– ORIGIN 1950s: diminutive of wasp from WASP WAIST.

waspish ▶ adjective readily expressing anger or irritation: he had a waspish tongue.
– DERIVATIVES waspishly adverb, waspishness noun.

wasp waist ▶ noun a very narrow or tightly corseted waist.
– DERIVATIVES wasp-waisted adjective.

wassail /'wɒseɪl, 'wɒs(ə)l, 'wa-/ archaic ▶ noun [mass noun] spiced ale or mulled wine drunk during celebrations for Twelfth Night and Christmas Eve.
■ lively and noisy festivities involving the drinking of plentiful amounts of alcohol; revelry.

▶ verb 1 [no obj.] drink plentiful amounts of alcohol and enjoy oneself with others in a noisy, lively way.
■ [with obj.] historical (in SW England) drink to (fruit trees, typically apple trees) in a custom intended to ensure a fruitful crop.
2 go from house to house at Christmas singing carols: here we go a-wassailing.
– DERIVATIVES wassailer noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English wæs hæil 'be in (good) health!': from Old Norse ves heill (compare with HAIL[2]). The drinking formula wassail (and the reply drinkhail 'drink good health') were probably introduced by Danish-speaking inhabitants of England, and then spread, so that by the 12th cent. the usage was considered by the Normans to be characteristic of Englishmen.

wassail bowl (also wassail cup) ▶ noun a large bowl in which wassail was made and from which it was dispensed for the drinking of toasts.

Wassermann test /ˈvɑːsəmən/ ▶ noun Medicine a diagnostic test for syphilis using a specific antibody reaction (the Wassermann reaction) of the patient's blood serum.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: named after August P. Wassermann (1866–1925), German pathologist.

wast /wɒst, wəst/ archaic or dialect second person singular past of BE.

wastage ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the action or process of losing or destroying something by using it carelessly or extravagantly: the wastage of natural resources.
■ the amount of something lost or destroyed in such a way: wastage was cut by 50 per cent.
2 (also natural wastage) the reduction in the size of a workforce as a result of voluntary resignation or retirement rather than enforced redundancy.
■ the number of people leaving a job or further educational establishment before they have completed their training or education.
3 the weakening or deterioration of a part of the body, typically as a result of illness or lack of use: the wastage of muscle tissue.

waste ▶ verb 1 [with obj.] use or expend carelessly, extravagantly, or to no purpose: we can't afford to waste electricity | I don't use the car, so why should I waste precious money on it?
■ (usu. be wasted on) bestow or expend on an unappreciative recipient: her small talk was wasted on this guest. ■ (usu. be wasted) fail to make full or good use of: we're wasted in this job. ■ deliberately dispose of (surplus stock).
2 [no obj.] (of a person or a part of the body) become progressively weaker and more emaciated: she was dying of Aids, visibly wasting away | [as adj. wasting] a wasting disease.
■ [with obj.] archaic cause to do this: these symptoms wasted the patients very much.
3 [with obj.] poetic/literary devastate or ruin (a place): he seized their cattle and wasted their country.
■ N. Amer. informal kill or severely injure (someone).
4 [no obj.] poetic/literary (of time) pass away; be spent: the years were wasting.
▶ adjective [attrib.] 1 (of a material, substance, or by-product) eliminated or discarded as no longer useful or required after the completion of a process: ensure that waste materials are disposed of responsibly | plants produce oxygen as a waste product.
2 (of an area of land, typically in a city or town) not used, cultivated, or built on: a patch of waste ground.
▶ noun 1 an act or instance of using or expending something carelessly, extravagantly, or to no purpose: it's a waste of time trying to argue with him | [mass noun] they had learned to avoid waste.
■ [mass noun] archaic the gradual loss or diminution of something: he was pale and weak from waste of blood.
2 [mass noun] material that is not wanted; the unusable remains or by-products of something: nuclear waste | (wastes) hazardous industrial wastes.
3 (usu. wastes) a large area of barren, typically uninhabited land: the icy wastes of the Antarctic.
4 [mass noun] Law damage to an estate caused by an act or by neglect, especially by a life-tenant.
5 short for WASTE PIPE.
– PHRASES go to waste be unused or expended to no purpose. lay waste to (or lay something (to) waste) completely destroy: a land laid waste by war. waste one's breath see BREATH. waste of space informal a person perceived as useless or incompetent. waste not, want not proverb if you use a commodity or resource carefully and without extravagance you will never be in need. waste words see WORD.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old Northern French wast(e) (noun), waster (verb), based on Latin vastus 'unoccupied, uncultivated'.

wastebasket ▶ noun a waste-paper basket.

waste bin ▶ noun an all-purpose rubbish bin of varying sizes for use either indoors or outdoors.

wasted ▶ adjective 1 used or expended carelessly, extravagantly, or to no purpose: wasted fuel | a wasted opportunity.
■ (of an action) not producing the desired result: I'm sorry you've had a wasted journey.
2 (of a person or a part of the body) weak and emaciated: her wasted arm.
■ informal under the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs: he looked kind of wasted.

waste-disposal unit (also waste disposer) ▶ noun an electrically operated device fitted to the waste pipe of a kitchen sink for grinding up food waste.

wasteful ▶ adjective (of a person, action, or process) using or expending something of value carelessly, extravagantly, or to no purpose: wasteful energy consumption.
– DERIVATIVES wastefully adverb, wastefulness noun.

wastegate ▶ noun a device in a turbocharger which regulates the pressure at which exhaust gases pass to the turbine by opening or closing a vent to the exterior.

wasteland ▶ noun [mass noun] an unused area of land that has become barren or overgrown.
■ a bleak, unattractive, and unused or neglected urban or industrial area: the restoration of industrial wasteland | [count noun] figurative the mid 70s are now seen as something of a cultural wasteland.

waste-paper basket ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a receptacle for small quantities of rubbish.

waste pipe ▶ noun a pipe carrying waste water, such as that from a sink, bath, or shower, to a drain.

waster ▶ noun a wasteful person or thing: you are a great waster of time.
■ informal a person who does little or nothing of value.
■ a discarded piece of defective pottery.

wastrel /ˈweɪstr(ə)l/ ▶ noun 1 poetic/literary a wasteful or good-for-nothing person.
2 archaic a waif; a neglected child.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (denoting a strip of waste land): from the verb WASTE + -REL.

watch ▶ verb 1 [with obj.] look at or observe attentively, typically over a period of time: Lucy watched him go | [no obj.] as she watched, two women came into the garden | [with clause] everyone stopped to watch what was going on.
■ keep under careful or protective observation: a large set of steel doors, watched over by a single guard. ■ secretly follow or spy on: he told me my telephones were tapped and that I was being watched. ■ follow closely or maintain an interest in: the girls watched the development of this relationship with incredulity. ■ exercise care, caution, or restraint about: most women watch their diet during pregnancy | [with clause] you should watch what you say! ■ [no obj.] (watch for) look out or be on the alert for: in spring and summer, watch for kingfishers | watch out for broken glass. ■ [no obj.] [usu. in imperative] (watch out) be careful: credit-card fraud is on the increase, so watch out. ■ (watch it/yourself) [usu. in imperative] informal be careful (used as a warning or threat): if anyone finds out, you're dead meat, so watch it.
2 [no obj.] archaic remain awake for the purpose of religious observance: she watched whole nights in the church.
▶ noun 1 a small timepiece worn typically on a strap on one's wrist.
2 [usu. in sing.] an act or instance of carefully observing someone or something over a period of time: the security forces have been keeping a close watch on our activities.
■ a period of vigil during which a person is stationed to look out for danger or trouble, typically during the night: Murray took the last watch before dawn. ■ a fixed period of duty on a ship, usually lasting four hours. ■ (also starboard or port watch) the officers and crew on duty during one such period. ■ a spell of duty worked by firefighters or police officers; a shift. ■ figurative the period someone spends in a particular role or job. ■ (usu. the watch) historical a watchman or group of watchmen who patrolled and guarded the streets of a town before the introduction of the police force.
3 [in sing.] [with adj.] informal a film or programme considered in terms of its appeal to the public: this movie's an engrossing watch.
– PHRASES be on the watch be carefully looking out for something, especially a possible danger. keep watch stay on the lookout for danger or trouble. watch one's (or someone's) back protect oneself (or someone else) against danger from an unexpected quarter. watch one's mouth see MOUTH. the watches of the night poetic/literary the hours of night, portrayed as a time when one cannot sleep. watch the pennies see PENNY. watch one's step see STEP. watch this space see SPACE. watch the time ensure that one is aware of the time in order to avoid being late. watch the world go by spend time observing other people going about their business.
– DERIVATIVES watcher noun [often in combination] a badger-watcher.
– ORIGIN Old English wæcce 'watchfulness', wæccende 'remaining awake'; related to WAKE[1]. The sense 'small timepiece' probably developed by way of a sense 'alarm device attached to a clock'.

watcha ▶ exclamation variant spelling of WOTCHA[2].

watchable ▶ adjective (of a film or television programme) moderately enjoyable to watch.
– DERIVATIVES watchability noun.

watch cap ▶ noun a close-fitting knitted cap of a kind worn by members of the US Navy in cold weather.

watch case ▶ noun a metal case enclosing the works of a watch.

watch chain ▶ noun a metal chain securing a pocket watch.

Watch Committee ▶ noun historical (in the UK) the committee of a county borough council dealing with policing and public lighting.

watchdog ▶ noun a dog kept to guard private property.
■ a person or group whose occupation or function is to monitor the practices of companies providing a particular service or utility: the consumer watchdog for transport in London.
▶ verb (-dogged, -dogging) [with obj.] maintain surveillance over (a person, activity, or situation): how can we watchdog our investments?

watchfire ▶ noun a fire maintained during the night as a signal or for the use of someone who is on watch.

watchful ▶ adjective watching or observing someone or something closely; alert and vigilant: they attended dances under the watchful eye of their father.
■ archaic wakeful; sleepless.
– DERIVATIVES watchfully adverb, watchfulness noun.

watch glass ▶ noun Brit. a glass disc covering the dial of a watch.
■ a concave glass disc used in a laboratory to hold material for use in experiments.

watching brief ▶ noun Law, Brit. a brief held by a barrister to follow a case on behalf of a client who is not directly involved.
■ an interest in a proceeding in which one is not directly or immediately concerned.

watchkeeper ▶ noun a person who keeps watch or acts as a lookout, especially on board a ship.

watch list ▶ noun a list of individuals, groups, or items that require close surveillance, typically for legal or political reasons.

watchmaker ▶ noun a person who makes and repairs watches and clocks.
– DERIVATIVES watchmaking noun.

watchman ▶ noun (pl. -men) a man employed to look after an empty building, especially at night.
■ historical a member of a body of people employed to keep watch in a town at night.

watchnight ▶ noun a religious service held on New Year's Eve or Christmas Eve.
■ historical a religious service extending over midnight, held on a monthly basis by Wesleyan Methodists.

watch spring ▶ noun a mainspring in a watch.

watchtower ▶ noun a tower built to create an elevated observation point.

watchword ▶ noun a word or phrase expressing a person's or group's core aim or belief: environmental quality will be a watchword for the nineties.

■ archaic a military password.

water ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 a colourless, transparent, odourless, tasteless liquid which forms the seas, lakes, rivers, and rain and is the basis of the fluids of living organisms.
■ this as supplied to houses or commercial establishments through pipes and taps: each bedroom has a washbasin with hot and cold water | [as modifier] water pipes. ■ one of the four elements in ancient and medieval philosophy and in astrology (considered essential to the nature of the signs Cancer, Scorpio, and Pisces): [as modifier] a water sign. ■ (usu. the waters) the water of a mineral spring, typically as used medicinally for bathing in or drinking: you can take the waters at the Pump Room. ■ [with modifier] a solution of a specified substance in water: ammonia water. ■ urine: drinking alcohol will make you need to pass water more often. ■ (waters) the amniotic fluid surrounding a fetus in the womb, especially as discharged in a flow shortly before birth: I think my waters have broken.

Water is a compound of oxygen and hydrogen (chem. formula: H_2O) with highly distinctive physical and chemical properties: it is able to dissolve many other substances; its solid form (ice) is less dense than the liquid form; its boiling point, viscosity, and surface tension are unusually high for its molecular weight, and it is partially dissociated into hydrogen and hydroxyl ions.

2 (the water) a stretch or area of water, such as a river, sea, or lake: the lawns ran down to the water's edge.
■ the surface of such an area of water: she ducked under the water. ■ [as modifier] found in, on, or near such areas of water: a water plant. ■ (waters) the water of a particular sea, river, or lake: the waters of Hudson Bay | figurative the government are taking us into unknown waters with these changes in the legislation. ■ (waters) an area of sea regarded as under the jurisdiction of a particular country: Japanese coastal waters.
3 the quality of transparency and brilliance shown by a diamond or other gem.
4 Finance capital stock which represents a book value greater than the true assets of a company.
▶ verb 1 [with obj.] pour or sprinkle water over (a plant or an area of ground), typically in order to encourage plant growth: I went out to water the geraniums.
■ give a drink of water to (an animal): they stopped to water the horses and to refresh themselves. ■ [no obj.] (of an animal) drink water. ■ (usu. be watered) (of a river) flow through (an area of land): the valley is watered by the River Dee. ■ take a fresh supply of water on board (a ship or steam train): the ship was watered and fresh livestock taken aboard. ■ Finance increase (a company's debt, or nominal capital) by the issue of new shares without a corresponding addition to assets.
2 [no obj.] (of the eyes) become full of moisture or tears: Rory blinked, his eyes watering.
■ (of the mouth) produce saliva, typically in response to the sight or smell of appetizing food: the smell of frying bacon made Hilary's mouth water.
3 [with obj.] dilute or adulterate (a drink, typically an alcoholic one) with water: staff at the club had been watering down the drinks.
■ (water something down) make a statement or proposal less forceful or controversial by changing or leaving out certain details: the army's report of its investigation was considerably watered down.
– PHRASES by water using a ship or boat for travel or transport: at the end of the lake was a small kiosk, accessible only by water. cast one's bread upon the waters see BREAD. like water in great quantities: George was spending money like water. make water (of a ship or boat) take in water through a leak. of the first water (of a diamond or pearl) of the greatest brilliance and transparency. ■ (typically of someone or something perceived as undesirable or annoying) extreme or unsurpassed of their kind: she was a bore of the first water. under water submerged; flooded. the water of life whisky. water off a duck's back see DUCK[1]. water on the brain informal hydrocephalus. water under the bridge (or N. Amer. water over the dam) used to refer to events or situations that are in the past and consequently no longer to be regarded as important or as a source of concern.
– DERIVATIVES waterer noun, waterless adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wæter (noun), wæterian (verb), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch water, German Wasser, from an Indo-European root shared by Russian voda (compare with VODKA), also by Latin unda 'wave' and Greek hudōr 'water'.

water bag ▶ noun a bag made of leather, canvas, or other material, used for carrying water.
water bailiff ▶ noun Brit. 1 an official who enforces fishing laws.
2 historical a customs officer at a port.
water-based ▶ adjective 1 (of a substance or solution) using or having water as a medium or main ingredient: a water-based paint.
2 (of a sporting activity) carried out on water.
water bath ▶ noun Chemistry a container of water heated to a given temperature, used for heating substances placed in smaller containers.
water bear ▶ noun a minute animal with a short plump body and four pairs of stubby legs, living in water or in the film of water on plants such as mosses.
● Phylum Tardigrada.
Water Bearer (the Water Bearer) the zodiacal sign or constellation Aquarius.
waterbed ▶ noun a bed with a water-filled rubber or plastic mattress.
water beetle ▶ noun any of a large number of beetles that live in fresh water.
● Several families, in particular Dytiscidae (the predatory diving beetles) and Hydrophilidae (scavenging beetles).
waterbird ▶ noun a bird that frequents water, especially one that habitually wades or swims in fresh water.
water birth ▶ noun a birth in which the mother spends the final stages of labour in a birthing pool, with delivery taking place either in or out of the water.
water biscuit ▶ noun a thin, crisp unsweetened biscuit made from flour and water.
water blinks ▶ noun see BLINKS.
waterblommetjie /ˈvɑːtə(r),blɒməki/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) South African term for WATER HAWTHORN.
– ORIGIN 1950s: Afrikaans, literally 'little water flower'.
water bloom ▶ noun another term for ALGAL BLOOM.
water boatman ▶ noun 1 (also lesser water boatman) an aquatic bug which spends much of its time on the bottom, using its front legs to sieve food from the water and its hair-fringed rear legs for swimming.
● Family Corixidae, suborder Heteroptera: Corixa, Sigara, and other genera.
2 another term for BACKSWIMMER.
waterbody ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a body of water forming a physiographical feature, for example a sea or a reservoir.
water-bomber ▶ noun Canadian an aircraft used for extinguishing forest fires by dropping water.
water-borne ▶ adjective (of a vehicle or goods) conveyed by, travelling on, or involving travel or transport on water.
■ (of a disease) communicated or propagated by contaminated water.
waterbrash ▶ noun [mass noun] a sudden flow of saliva associated with indigestion.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from WATER + dialect brash 'eruption of fluid from the stomach'.
waterbuck ▶ noun a large African antelope occurring near rivers and lakes in the savannah.
● Kobus ellipsiprymnus, family Bovidae.
water buffalo ▶ noun a large black domesticated buffalo with heavy swept-back horns, used as a beast of burden throughout the tropics.
● Genus Bubalus, family Bovidae: the domesticated B. bubalis, descended from the wild B. arnee, which is confined to remote parts of India and SE Asia.
water butt ▶ noun a large barrel used for catching and storing rainwater.
water calla ▶ noun another term for BOG ARUM.
water cannon ▶ noun a device that ejects a powerful jet of water, typically used to disperse a crowd.
Water Carrier (the Water Carrier) the zodiacal sign or constellation Aquarius.
water chestnut ▶ noun 1 (also Chinese water chestnut) the tuber of a tropical sedge which is widely used in oriental cookery, its white flesh remaining crisp after cooking.
2 the sedge which yields this tuber, which is cultivated in flooded fields in SE Asia.
● Eleocharis tuberosa, family Cyperaceae.
3 (also water caltrop) an aquatic plant with small white flowers, producing an edible rounded seed with two large projecting horns.
● Trapa natans, family Trapaceae.
water clock ▶ noun historical a clock that used the flow of water to measure time.
water closet ▶ noun dated a flush toilet.
■ a room containing such a toilet.
watercock ▶ noun a brown and grey aquatic Asian rail, the male of which develops black plumage and a red frontal shield in the breeding season.
● Gallicrex cinerea, family Rallidae.
watercolour (US watercolor) ▶ noun [mass noun] (also watercolours) artists' paint made with a water-soluble binder such as gum arabic, and thinned with water rather than oil, giving a transparent colour.
■ [count noun] a picture painted with watercolours. ■ the art of painting with watercolours, especially using a technique of producing paler colours by diluting rather than by adding white.
– DERIVATIVES watercolourist noun.
water cooler ▶ noun a dispenser of cooled drinking water, typically used in places of work.
■ [as modifier] US informal denoting the type of informal conversation or socializing among office workers that takes place in the communal area in which such a dispenser is located: a water-cooler conversation.
watercourse ▶ noun a brook, stream, or artificially constructed water channel.
■ the bed along which this flows.
watercraft ▶ noun (pl. same) 1 a boat or other vessel that travels on water.
2 [mass noun] skill in sailing and other activities which take place on water.
watercress ▶ noun [mass noun] a Eurasian cress which grows in running water and whose pungent leaves are used in salad.
● Nasturtium officinale, family Cruciferae.
water cricket ▶ noun a predatory water bug that runs on the surface film of water, related to the pond skater but with shorter legs. Called WATER STRIDER in North America.
● Family Veliidae, suborder Heteroptera: several genera, in particular Velia.
water crowfoot ▶ noun see CROWFOOT.
water cure ▶ noun chiefly historical a session of treatment by hydropathy.
water cycle ▶ noun the cycle of processes by which water circulates between the earth's oceans, atmosphere, and land, involving precipitation as rain and snow, drainage in streams and rivers, and return to the atmosphere by evaporation and transpiration.
water deer (also Chinese water deer) ▶ noun a small deer without antlers, the male having a pair of tusk-like canine teeth, native to China and Korea.
● Hydropotes inermis, family Cervidae.
water diviner ▶ noun Brit. a person who searches for underground water by using a dowsing rod.
waterdog ▶ noun an aquatic North American salamander which is a smaller relative of the mud puppy, typically living in flowing water.
● Genus Necturus, family Proteidae: several species.
water dropwort ▶ noun a widely distributed poisonous plant of the parsley family, which grows in wet habitats.
● Genus Oenanthe, family Umbelliferae: several species, in particular O. crocata of Europe.
water drum ▶ noun 1 a West African instrument played by striking a bowl or gourd floating upside down in a pail of water.
2 an American Indian drum partly filled with water to adjust the pitch and timbre.
watered silk ▶ noun [mass noun] silk that been treated in such a way as to give it a wavy lustrous finish.
waterfall ▶ noun a cascade of water falling from a height, formed when a river or stream flows over a precipice or steep incline.
water fern ▶ noun 1 a small aquatic or semiaquatic fern which is either free-floating or anchored by the roots, found chiefly in tropical and warm countries.
● Families Azollaceae, Marsileaceae and Salviniaceae: many species, in particular the minute floating Azolla filiculoides of tropical America, which has been naturalized elsewhere.

2 an Australian fern with large coarse fronds, typically growing in marshy areas and rainforests.
• Genus Blechnum, family Blechnaceae: several species.

water flea ▶ noun another term for DAPHNIA.

Waterford a county in the south-east of the Republic of Ireland, in the province of Munster; main administrative centre, Dungarvan.
■its county town, a port on an inlet of St George's Channel; pop. 40,345 (1991).

Waterford glass ▶ noun [mass noun] fine clear, colourless flint glassware first manufactured in Waterford in the 18th and 19th centuries.

waterfowl ▶ plural noun ducks, geese, or other large aquatic birds, especially when regarded as game.

waterfront ▶ noun a part of a town that borders the sea or a lake or river.

water garden ▶ noun a garden with pools or a stream, for growing aquatic plants.

water gas ▶ noun [mass noun] a fuel gas consisting mainly of carbon monoxide and hydrogen, made by passing steam over incandescent coke.

Watergate a US political scandal in which an attempt to bug the national headquarters of the Democratic Party (in the Watergate building in Washington DC) led to the resignation of President Nixon (1974).

watergate ▶ noun a gate of a town or castle opening on to a lake, river, or sea.
■archaic a sluice; a floodgate.

water glass ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] a solution of sodium or potassium silicate. It solidifies on exposure to air and is used to make silica gel and for preserving eggs and hardening artificial stone.
2 an instrument for making observations beneath the surface of water, consisting of a bucket with a glass bottom.

water gun ▶ noun N. Amer. a water pistol.

water hammer ▶ noun [mass noun] a knocking noise in a water pipe that occurs when a tap is turned off briskly.

water hawthorn ▶ noun [mass noun] an ornamental water plant with long oval floating leaves and erect aromatic flower spikes, native to the Cape of Good Hope where the flower spikes are used in cooking.
• Aponogeton distachyus, family Aponogetonaceae.

water hemlock ▶ noun a highly poisonous European plant of the parsley family, which grows in ditches and marshy ground. Also called COWBANE.
• Cicuta virosa, family Umbelliferae.

waterhen ▶ noun an aquatic rail, especially a moorhen or related bird.
• Genera Gallinula and Amaurornis, family Rallidae.

waterhole ▶ noun a depression in which water collects, especially one that is regularly drunk from by animals.

Waterhouse, Alfred (1830–1905), English architect. His designs include the Manchester Assize courts (1859) and Town Hall (1869–77), and the Natural History Museum in London (1873–81).

water hyacinth ▶ noun [mass noun] a free-floating tropical American water plant which has been introduced elsewhere as an ornamental and in some warmer regions has become a serious weed of waterways.
• Eichhornia crassipes, family Pontederiaceae.

water ice ▶ noun a dessert consisting of frozen fruit juice or flavoured water and sugar.

watering can ▶ noun a portable water container with a long spout and a detachable perforated cap, used for watering plants.

watering hole ▶ noun a waterhole from which animals regularly drink.
■informal a pub or bar.

watering place ▶ noun a watering hole.
■a spa or seaside resort.

water injection ▶ noun [mass noun] (in the oil industry) the forcing of water into a reservoir formation, in particular as a technique of secondary recovery.

water jacket ▶ noun a casing containing water placed around something to protect it from extremes of temperature.
– DERIVATIVES water-jacketed adjective.

water jump ▶ noun an obstacle in a jumping competition or steeplechase, where a horse must jump over or into water.

water knot ▶ noun a kind of knot used to join two fishing lines.

waterleaf ▶ noun a North American woodland plant with bell-shaped flowers and leaves that appear to be stained with water.
• Genus Hydrophyllum, family Hydrophyllaceae.

water lettuce ▶ noun [mass noun] a tropical aquatic plant of the arum family which forms a floating rosette of leaves.
• Pistia stratiotes, family Araceae.

water level ▶ noun 1 the height reached by the water in a reservoir, river, storage tank, or similar.
■another term for WATER TABLE.
2 an implement which uses water to indicate the horizontal.

water lily ▶ noun an ornamental aquatic plant with large round floating leaves and large, typically cup-shaped, floating flowers.
• Family Nymphaeaceae: several genera and many species, including the Eurasian white water lily (Nymphaea alba, with numerous cultivars), and the widely distributed yellow water lily or brandy-bottle (Nuphar luteum).

waterline ▶ noun 1 the level normally reached by the water on the side of a ship.
■the level reached by the sea or a river visible as a line on a rock face, beach, or riverbank. ■ any of various structural lines of a ship, parallel with the surface of the water, representing the contour of the hull at various heights above the keel.
2 a linear watermark in paper.

waterlogged ▶ adjective saturated with or full of water: the race was called off after parts of the course were found to be waterlogged.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: past participle of the verb waterlog 'make (a ship) unmanageable by flooding', from WATER + the verb LOG[1].

Waterloo, Battle of /ˌwɔːtəˈluː/ a battle fought on 18 June 1815 near the village of Waterloo (in what is now Belgium), in which Napoleon's army was defeated by the British (under the Duke of Wellington) and Prussians. The allied pursuit caused Napoleon's army to disintegrate entirely, ending his bid to return to power.
■[as noun a Waterloo] a decisive defeat or failure: the coach rued the absence of his top player as his team met their Waterloo.

water main ▶ noun the main pipe in a water supply system.

waterman ▶ noun (pl. -men) a boatman.
■an oarsman who has attained a particular level of knowledge or skill.

watermark ▶ noun a faint design made in some paper during manufacture that is visible when held against the light and typically identifies the maker.
▶ verb [with obj.] mark with such a design.

water mass ▶ noun a large body of seawater that is distinguishable by its characteristic temperature and salinity range.

water meadow ▶ noun a meadow that is periodically flooded by a stream or river.

water measurer ▶ noun a long, thin aquatic bug which walks slowly on the surface film of water and spears small prey with its beak.
• Genus Hydrometra, family Hydrometridae, suborder Heteroptera: several species.

watermelon ▶ noun 1 the large melon-like fruit of a plant of the gourd family, with smooth green skin, red pulp, and watery juice.
2 the African plant which yields this fruit.
• Citrullus lanatus, family Cucurbitaceae.

water milfoil ▶ noun see MILFOIL (sense 2).

watermill ▶ noun a mill worked by a waterwheel.

water moccasin ▶ noun another term for COTTONMOUTH.

water nymph ▶ noun (in folklore and classical mythology) a nymph inhabiting or presiding over water, especially a naiad or nereid.

water of crystallization ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry water molecules forming an essential part of the crystal structure of some compounds.

water opossum ▶ noun another term for YAPOK.

water ouzel ▶ noun dialect term for DIPPER (in sense 1).

water parsnip ▶ noun a tall plant of the parsley family which lives in or near water.
• Sium latifolium and Berula erecta, family Umbelliferae.

water pepper ▶ noun a widely distributed plant of the dock family which grows in wet ground, with peppery-tasting leaves and sap which is a skin irritant.
• Genus Polygonum, family Polygonaceae: several species, in particular P. hydropiper.

water pipe ▶ noun 1 a pipe for conveying water.
2 a pipe for smoking tobacco, cannabis, etc., that draws the smoke through water to cool it.

water pipit ▶ noun a dark-coloured European pipit that frequents waterside habitats.
• Anthus spinoletta, family Motacillidae; formerly thought to be conspecific with the rock pipit.

water pistol ▶ noun a toy pistol that shoots a jet of water.

waterplane ▶ noun the horizontal plane which passes through a floating ship on a level with the waterline.

water plantain ▶ noun an aquatic or marshland plant of north temperate regions, with leaves that resemble those of plantains and a tall stem bearing numerous pink flowers.
• Genus Alisma, family Alismataceae.

water polo ▶ noun [mass noun] a seven-a-side game played by swimmers in a pool, with a ball like a football that is thrown into the opponents' net. The game developed in Britain from about 1870.

water power ▶ noun [mass noun] power that is derived from the weight or motion of water, used as a force to drive machinery.
– DERIVATIVES water-powered adjective.

waterproof ▶ adjective impervious to water: a waterproof hat.
■not liable to be washed away by water: waterproof ink.
▶ noun Brit. a garment, especially a coat, that keeps out water.
▶ verb [with obj.] make impervious to water.
– DERIVATIVES waterproofer noun, waterproofness noun.

water purslane ▶ noun a creeping Eurasian plant of damp places and bare ground.
• Lythrum portula, family Lythraceae.

water rail ▶ noun a secretive Eurasian marshbird with dark grey and brown plumage, making loud grunts and squeals in the breeding season.
• Rallus aquaticus, family Rallidae.

water rat ▶ noun a large semiaquatic rat-like rodent.
• Several genera in the family Muridae, in particular Hydromys of Australasia.
■Brit. another term for WATER VOLE.

water rate ▶ noun (usu. water rates) a charge made for the use of a public water supply.

water-repellent ▶ adjective not easily penetrated by water, especially as a result of being treated for such a purpose with a surface coating.

water-resistant ▶ adjective able to resist the penetration of water to some degree but not entirely.
– DERIVATIVES water-resistance noun.

Waters, Muddy (1915–83), American blues singer and guitarist; born McKinley Morganfield. Waters impressed new rhythm-and-blues bands such as the Rolling Stones, who took their name from his 1950 song.

waterscape ▶ noun a landscape in which an expanse of water is a dominant feature.

water scorpion ▶ noun a mainly tropical predatory water bug with grasping forelegs, breathing from the surface via a bristle-like 'tail'.
• Family Nepidae, suborder Heteroptera: several genera and species, including the European Nepa cinerea.

watershed ▶ noun an area or ridge of land that separates waters flowing to different rivers, basins, or seas.
■an event or period marking a turning point in a course of action or state of affairs: these works mark a watershed in the history of music. ■ Brit. the time after which programmes that are regarded as unsuitable for children are broadcast on television.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from WATER + shed in the sense 'ridge of high ground' (related to SHED[2]), suggested by German Wasserscheide.

water shoot ▶ noun a vigorous but unproductive shoot from the trunk, main branch, or root of a tree.

water shrew ▶ noun a large semiaquatic shrew that preys on aquatic invertebrates.
• Four genera, family Soricidae: several species, in particular the Eurasian water shrew (Neomys fodiens) and the American water shrew (Sorex palustris).

waterside ▶ noun the edge of or area adjoining a sea, lake, or river.

waterski ▶ noun (pl. -skis) each of a pair of skis enabling the wearer to skim the surface of the water when towed by a motor boat.
▶ verb [no obj.] skim the surface of water on waterskis.
– DERIVATIVES waterskier noun.

water slide ▶ noun a slide into a swimming pool, typically flowing with water and incorporating a number of twists and turns.

water snake ▶ noun a harmless snake which is a powerful swimmer and spends part of its time in fresh water hunting for prey. Water snakes are found in Africa, Asia, and America.
• Natrix and other genera, family Colubridae: several species.

water softener ▶ noun a device or substance that softens hard water by removing certain minerals.

water soldier ▶ noun an aquatic European plant with slender spiny-toothed leaves in submerged rosettes that rise to the surface at flowering time.
• Stratiotes aloides, family Hydrocharitaceae.

water spider ▶ noun a semiaquatic spider.
• Several species, including the European Argyroneta aquatica (family Argyronetidae), which lives in an underwater dome of silk filled with air. See also RAFT SPIDER.

water splash ▶ noun Brit. a water-filled dip in a road.

water sports ▶ plural noun sports that are carried out on water, such as waterskiing and windsurfing.
■ informal sexual activity involving urination.

waterspout ▶ noun a rotating column of water and spray formed by a whirlwind occurring over the sea or other body of water.

water starwort ▶ noun a widely distributed slender-leaved plant which grows in water or on mud and is sometimes used in aquaria.
• Genus Callitriche, family Callitrichaceae.

water stick insect ▶ noun a very long, slender European water bug related to the water scorpion, which waits motionless in the vegetation for prey to pass.
• Ranatra linearis, family Nepidae, suborder Heteroptera.

water stone ▶ noun a whetstone used with water rather than oil.

water strider ▶ noun North American term for POND SKATER and WATER CRICKET.

water table ▶ noun the level below which the ground is saturated with water.

waterthrush ▶ noun a thrush-like North American warbler related to the ovenbird, found near woodland streams and swamps.
• Genus Seiurus, family Parulidae: two species.

watertight ▶ adjective closely sealed, fastened, or fitted so that no water enters or passes through: a watertight seal.
■ (of an argument or account) unable to be disputed or questioned: their alibis are watertight.

water torture ▶ noun [mass noun] a form of torture in which the victim is exposed to the incessant dripping of water on the head or to the sound of dripping.

water tower ▶ noun a tower supporting an elevated water tank, whose height creates the pressure required to distribute the water through a piped system.

water-tube boiler ▶ noun a form of boiler in which steam is generated by circulating water through tubes exposed to the source of heat (as opposed to the more usual arrangement in which tubes carry hot gases through the water).

water-vascular system ▶ noun Zoology (in an echinoderm) a network of water vessels in the body, the tube feet being operated by hydraulic pressure within the vessels.

water violet ▶ noun an aquatic plant of the primrose family, with lilac flowers and finely divided submerged leaves.
• Hottonia palustris, family Primulaceae.

water vole ▶ noun a large semiaquatic vole which excavates burrows in the banks of rivers.
• Genera Arvicola and Microtus, family Muridae: three species, in particular the European water vole (A. terrestris) and the American water vole (M. richardsoni).

waterway ▶ noun 1 a river, canal, or other route for travel by water.
2 a thick plank at the outer edge of a deck of a boat along which a channel is hollowed for water to run off by.

waterweed ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 any aquatic plant with inconspicuous flowers.
2 a submerged aquatic American plant which is grown in ornamental ponds.
• Genus Elodea, family Hydrocharitaceae: several species, in particular Canadian pondweed.

waterwheel ▶ noun a large wheel driven by flowing water, used to work machinery or to raise water to a higher level.

water wings ▶ plural noun inflated floats that may be fixed to the arms of someone learning to swim to give increased buoyancy.

water witch (also water-witcher) ▶ noun US a water diviner.
– DERIVATIVES water witching noun.

waterworks ▶ plural noun 1 [treated as sing.] an establishment for managing a water supply.
2 informal used to refer to the shedding of tears: 'Don't turn on the waterworks,' he advised.
■ Brit. used as a humorous euphemism for the urinary system.

watery ▶ adjective consisting of, containing, or resembling water: a watery fluid.
■ thin or tasteless as a result of containing too much water: watery coffee. ■ weak; pale: watery sunshine. ■ (of a person's eyes) full of or running with tears. ■ (of the sky) threatening rain.
– DERIVATIVES wateriness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wæterig (see WATER, -Y[1]).

Watford a town in Hertfordshire, SE England; pop. 74,460 (1981).

Watling Street a Roman road (now largely underlying modern roads) running north-westwards across England, from Richborough in Kent through London and St Albans to Wroxeter in Shropshire.

Watson[1], James Dewey (b.1928), American biologist. Together with Francis Crick he proposed a model for the structure of the DNA molecule. He shared the Nobel Prize for Physiology or Medicine with Crick and Maurice Wilkins in 1962.

Watson[2], John Broadus (1878–1958), American psychologist, founder of the school of behaviourism. He held that the role of the psychologist was to discern, through observation and experimentation, the innate behaviour and acquired behaviour in an individual.

Watson-Watt, Sir Robert Alexander (1892–1973), Scottish physicist. He led a team that developed radar into a practical system for locating aircraft; this played a vital role in the Second World War.

Watt, James (1736–1819), Scottish engineer. Among his many innovations he greatly improved the efficiency of the Newcomen steam engine, which was then adopted for a variety of purposes. He also introduced the term horsepower.

watt (abbrev.: W) ▶ noun the SI unit of power, equivalent to one joule per second, corresponding to the rate of energy in an electric circuit where the potential difference is one volt and the current one ampere.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after J. WATT.

wattage ▶ noun an amount of electrical power expressed in watts.
■ the operating power of a lamp or other electrical appliance expressed in watts.

Watteau /ˈwɒtəʊ/, Jean Antoine (1684–1721), French painter, of Flemish descent. An initiator of the rococo style, he is also known for his invention of the fête galante.

watt-hour ▶ noun a measure of electrical energy equivalent to a power consumption of one watt for one hour.

wattle[1] /ˈwɒt(ə)l/ ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] a material for making fences, walls, etc., consisting of rods or stakes interlaced with twigs or branches.
■ [count noun] dialect a wicker hurdle.
2 chiefly Austral. an acacia.
• Genus Acacia, family Leguminosae: many species, including the golden wattle.
▶ verb [with obj.] make, enclose, or fill up with wattle.
– ORIGIN Old English watul, of unknown origin.

wattle[2] /ˈwɒt(ə)l/ ▶ noun a coloured fleshy lobe hanging from the head or neck of the turkey and some other birds.
– DERIVATIVES wattled adjective.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: of unknown origin.

wattle and daub ▶ noun [mass noun] a material formerly or traditionally used in building walls, consisting of a network of interwoven sticks and twigs covered with mud or clay.

wattlebird ▶ noun 1 the largest of the honeyeaters found in Australia, with a wattle hanging from each cheek.
• Genus Anthochaera (and Melidectes), family Meliphagidae: four species.
2 a songbird of a New Zealand family distinguished by wattles hanging from the base of the bill.
• Family Callaeidae: the saddleback and the kokako, together with the extinct huia.

wattle-eye ▶ noun a small African flycatcher with a coloured patch of bare skin around or above the eye, typically having black and white plumage.
• Genus Platysteira, family Platysteiridae (or Monarchidae): several species.

wattmeter ▶ noun a meter for measuring electric power in watts.

Watts[1], George Frederick (1817–1904), English painter and sculptor. He is best known for his portraits of public figures, including Gladstone, Tennyson, and J. S. Mill. He was married to the actress Ellen Terry from 1864 to 1877.

Watts[2], Isaac (1674–1748), English hymn writer and poet, remembered for hymns such as 'O God, Our Help in Ages Past' (1719).

Watusi /wəˈtuːsi/ (also Watutsi /wəˈtʊtsi/) ▶ noun 1 [treated as pl.] the Tutsi people collectively (now dated in English use).
2 an energetic dance popular in the 1960s.
▶ verb [no obj.] dance the Watusi.
– ORIGIN a local name, from the plural prefix wa- + TUTSI.

Waugh /wɔː/, Evelyn (Arthur St John) (1903–66), English novelist. His work was profoundly influenced by his conversion to Roman Catholicism in 1930. Notable works: Decline and Fall (1928); Brideshead Revisited (1945).

waul /wɔːl/ ▶ verb [no obj.] give a loud plaintive cry like that of a cat.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: imitative.

wave ▶ verb 1 [no obj.] move one's hand to and fro in greeting or as a signal: he waved to me from the train.
■ [with obj.] move (one's hand or arm, or something held in one's hand) to and fro: he waved a sheaf of papers in the air. ■ move to and fro with a swaying or undulating motion while remaining fixed to one point: the flag waved in the wind. ■ [with obj.] convey (a greeting or other message) by moving one's hand or something held in it to and fro: we waved our farewells | [with two objs] she waved him goodbye. ■ [with obj. and adverbial of direction] instruct (someone) to move in a particular direction by moving one's hand: he waved her back.
2 [with obj.] style (hair) so that it curls slightly: her hair had been carefully waved for the evening.
■ [no obj.] (of hair) grow with a slight curl: [as adj. waving] thick, waving grey hair sprouted back from his forehead.
▶ noun 1 a long body of water curling into an arched form and breaking on the shore: he was swept out to sea by a freak wave.
■ a ridge of water between two depressions in open water: gulls and cormorants bobbed on the waves. ■ a shape seen as comparable to a breaking wave: a wave of treetops stretched to the horizon. ■ (the waves) poetic/literary the sea. ■ an intense burst of a particular feeling or emotion: horror came over me in waves | a new wave of apprehension assailed her. ■ a sudden occurrence of or increase in a specified phenomenon: a wave of strikes had effectively paralysed the government.
2 a gesture or signal made by moving one's hand to and fro: he gave a little wave and walked off.
3 a slightly curling lock of hair: his hair was drying in unruly waves.
■ a tendency to curl in a person's hair: her hair has a slight natural wave.
4 Physics a periodic disturbance of the particles of a substance which may be propagated without net movement of the particles, such as in the passage of undulating motion, heat, or sound. See also STANDING WAVE and TRAVELLING WAVE.
■ a single curve in the course of this motion. ■ a similar variation of an electromagnetic field in the propagation of light or other radiation through a medium or vacuum.

– PHRASES make waves informal create a significant impression: he has already made waves as a sculptor. ■ cause trouble: I don't want to risk her welfare by making waves.
– DERIVATIVES waveless adjective, wave-like adjective & adverb.
– ORIGIN Old English wafian (verb), from the Germanic base of WAVER; the noun by alteration (influenced by the verb) of Middle English wawe '(sea) wave'.

▶ wave something aside dismiss something as unnecessary or irrelevant: he waved the objection aside and carried on.
wave someone/thing down use one's hand to give a signal to stop to a driver or vehicle.

waveband ▶ noun a range of wavelengths falling between two given limits, used in radio transmission.

wave equation ▶ noun Mathematics a differential equation expressing the properties of motion in waves.

waveform ▶ noun Physics a curve showing the shape of a wave at a given time.

wavefront ▶ noun Physics a surface containing points affected in the same way by a wave at a given time.

wave function ▶ noun Physics a function that satisfies a wave equation and describes the properties of a wave.

waveguide ▶ noun a metal tube or other device confining and conveying microwaves.

wavelength /'weɪvlɛŋθ, -lɛŋkθ/ ▶ noun Physics the distance between successive crests of a wave, especially points in a sound wave or electromagnetic wave. (Symbol: λ)
■ this distance as a distinctive feature of radio waves from a transmitter. ■ figurative a person's ideas and way of thinking, especially as it affects their ability to communicate with others: when we met we hit it off immediately—we're on the same wavelength.

wavelet ▶ noun a small wave of water; a ripple.

wave machine ▶ noun a machine that creates waves in the water in a swimming pool.

wave mechanics ▶ plural noun [treated as sing.] Physics a method of analysis of the behaviour of atomic phenomena with particles represented by wave equations.

wave number ▶ noun Physics the number of waves in a unit distance.

wave packet ▶ noun Physics a group of superposed waves which together form a travelling localized disturbance, especially one described by Schrödinger's equation and regarded as representing a particle.

waver ▶ verb [no obj.] shake with a quivering motion: the flame wavered in the draught.
■ become unsteady or unreliable: his love for her had never wavered. ■ be undecided between two opinions or courses of action; be irresolute: she never wavered from her intention.
– DERIVATIVES waverer noun, waveringly adverb, wavery adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old Norse vafra 'flicker', of Germanic origin. Compare with WAVE.

WAVES ▶ plural noun the women's section of the US Naval Reserve, established in 1942, or, since 1948, of the US Navy.
– ORIGIN acronym from Women Appointed (later Accepted) for Volunteer Emergency Service.

wavetable ▶ noun Computing a file or memory device containing data that represents a sound such as a piece of music.

wave theory ▶ noun Physics, historical the theory that light is propagated through the ether by a wave motion imparted to the ether by the molecular vibrations of the radiant body.

wave train ▶ noun a group of waves of equal or similar wavelengths travelling in the same direction.

wavicle /'weɪvɪk(ə)l/ ▶ noun Physics an entity having characteristic properties of both waves and particles.
– ORIGIN 1920s: blend of WAVE and PARTICLE.

wavy ▶ adjective (wavier, waviest) (of a line or surface) having or consisting of a series of undulating and wave-like curves: she had long, wavy hair.
■ [usu. postpositive] Heraldry divided or edged with a line formed of alternating shallow curves.
– DERIVATIVES wavily adverb, waviness noun.

wa-wa ▶ noun variant spelling of WAH-WAH.

wax[1] ▶ noun [mass noun] a sticky yellowish mouldable substance secreted by honeybees as the material of honeycomb; beeswax.
■ a white translucent material obtained by bleaching and purifying this substance and used for such purposes as making candles, modelling, and as a basis of polishes. ■ [count noun] a figure made of this substance. ■ a similar viscous substance, typically a lipid or hydrocarbon. ■ informal used in reference to gramophone records: he didn't get on wax until 1959.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 cover or treat (something) with wax or a similar substance, typically to polish or protect it: I washed and waxed the floor.
■ remove unwanted hair from (a part of the body) by applying wax and then peeling off the wax and hairs together.
2 informal make a recording of: he waxed a series of tracks that emphasized his lead guitar work.
– DERIVATIVES waxer noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wæx, weax, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch was and German Wachs. The verb dates from late Middle English.

wax[2] ▶ verb [no obj.] (of the moon between new and full) have a progressively larger part of its visible surface illuminated, increasing its apparent size.
■ poetic/literary become larger or stronger: his anger waxed. ■ [with complement] begin to speak or write about something in the specified manner: they waxed lyrical about the old days.
– PHRASES wax and wane undergo alternate increases and decreases: green sentiment has waxed and waned.
– ORIGIN Old English weaxan, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wassen and German wachsen, from an Indo-European root shared by Greek auxanein and Latin augere 'to increase'.

wax[3] ▶ noun [usu. in sing.] Brit. informal, dated a fit of anger: she is in a wax about the delay to the wedding.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: origin uncertain; perhaps from phrases such as wax angry.

waxberry ▶ noun a shrub with berries that have a waxy coating, in particular a bayberry.

waxbill ▶ noun a small finch-like Old World songbird, typically brightly coloured and with a red bill that resembles sealing wax in colour.
● Family Estrildidae (the waxbill family): about three genera, especially Estrilda, and several species. The waxbill family also includes the avadavats, mannikins, cordon-bleu, Java sparrow, zebra finch, etc., many popular as cage birds.

waxcloth (also waxed cloth) ▶ noun [mass noun] cloth that has been impregnated with wax to make it waterproof.
■ cloth that is impregnated with oil for covering floors and tables; oilcloth.

waxed jacket ▶ noun an outdoor jacket made of a fabric that has been impregnated with wax to make it waterproof.

waxed paper ▶ noun [mass noun] paper that has been impregnated with wax to make it waterproof or greaseproof, used especially in cooking and the wrapping of foodstuffs.

waxen ▶ adjective having a smooth, pale, translucent surface or appearance like that of wax: a canopy of waxen, creamy blooms.
■ archaic or poetic/literary made of wax: a waxen effigy.

wax flower ▶ noun a plant bearing flowers with a waxy appearance:
● an Australian shrub with white or pink flowers (genus Eriostemon, family Rutaceae). ● a hoya.

wax light ▶ noun historical a taper or candle made from wax.

wax moth ▶ noun a brownish moth which lays its eggs in beehives. The caterpillars cover the combs with silken tunnels and feed on beeswax.
● Genera Galleria and Achroea, family Pyralidae: several species, in particular G. mellonella.

wax myrtle ▶ noun another term for BAYBERRY.

wax painting ▶ noun another term for ENCAUSTIC.

wax palm ▶ noun either of two South American palm trees from which wax is obtained:
● an Andean palm with a stem coated in a mixture of resin and wax (Ceroxylon alpinum, family Palmae). ● a carnauba.

waxpod ▶ noun a dwarf French bean of a variety with yellow, stringless pods.

wax resist ▶ noun [mass noun] a process similar to batik used in pottery and printing.

wax tree (also Japanese wax tree) ▶ noun an East Asian tree with white berries that produce a wax which is used as a substitute for beeswax.
● Rhus succedanea, family Anacardiaceae.

waxwing ▶ noun a crested Eurasian and American songbird with mainly pinkish-brown plumage, having small tips like red sealing wax to some wing feathers.
● Genus Bombycilla, family Bombycillidae: three species, in particular the (Bohemian)waxwing (B. garrulus).

waxwork ▶ noun a lifelike dummy modelled in wax.
■ (waxworks) [treated as sing.] an exhibition of wax dummies.

waxy[1] ▶ adjective (waxier, waxiest) resembling wax in consistency or appearance: waxy potatoes.
– DERIVATIVES waxily adverb, waxiness noun.

waxy[2] ▶ adjective (waxier, waxiest) Brit. informal, dated angry; bad-tempered.

way /weɪ/ ▶ noun 1 a method, style, or manner of doing something: I hated their way of cooking potatoes with their jackets on | there are two ways of approaching this problem.
■ a person's characteristic or habitual manner of behaviour or expression: it was not his way to wait passively for things to happen. ■ (ways) the customary modes of behaviour or practices of a group: my years of acclimatization to British ways. ■ [in sing.] the typical manner in which something happens or in which someone or something behaves: he was showing off, as is the way with adolescent boys. ■ [in sing.] formal or Scottish a person's occupation or line of business.
2 a road, track, path, or street for travelling along: [in place names] No. 3, Church Way.
■ [usu. in sing.] a course of travel or route taken in order to reach a place: can you tell me the way to Leicester Square? ■ a means of entry or exit from somewhere, such as a door or gate: I nipped out the back way. ■ [in sing.] (also N. Amer. informal ways) a distance travelled or to be travelled; the distance from one place to another: they still had a long way ahead of them | figurative the area's wine industry still has some way to go to full maturity. ■ [in sing.] a period between one point in time and another: September was a long way off. ■ [in sing.] travel or motion along a particular route; the route along which someone or something would travel if unobstructed: Christine tried to follow but Martin blocked her way. ■ [in sing.] a specified direction: we just missed another car coming the other way. ■ (ways) parts into which something divides or is divided: the national vote split three ways. ■ (one's way) used with a verb and adverbial phrase to intensify the force of an action or to denote movement or progress: I shouldered my way to the bar. ■ [mass noun] forward motion or momentum of a ship or boat through water: the dinghy lost way and drifted towards the shore.
3 [in sing.] [with modifier or possessive] informal a particular area or locality: the family's main estate over Maidenhead way.
4 a particular aspect of something; a respect: I have changed in every way.
5 [in sing.] [with adj.] a specified condition or state: the family was in a poor way.
6 (ways) a sloping structure down which a new ship is launched.

▶ adverb informal at or to a considerable distance or extent; far (used before an adverb or preposition for emphasis): his understanding of what constitutes good writing is way off target | my grandchildren are way ahead of others their age.
■ [as submodifier] chiefly N. Amer. much: I was cycling way too fast. ■ [usu. as submodifier] extremely; really (used for emphasis): the guys behind the bar were way cool. [ORIGIN: shortening of AWAY.]

– PHRASES across (Brit. also over) the way nearby, especially on the opposite side of the street. all the way see ALL. be on one's way have started one's journey. ■ [in imperative] ((be) on your way) informal go away: on your way, and stop wasting my time! by a long way by a great amount; by far. by the way 1 incidentally (used to introduce a minor topic not connected with what was being spoken about previously): oh, by the way, while you were away I had a message. 2 during the course of a journey: you will have a fine view of Moray Firth by the way. by way of 1 so as to pass through or across; via: he travelled by way of Canterbury. 2 constituting; as a form of: 'I can't help it,' shouted Tom by way of apology. 3 by means of: non-compliance with the regulations is punishable by way of a fine. come one's way happen or become available to one: he did whatever jobs came his way. find a way discover a means of obtaining one's object. get (or have) one's (own) way get or do what one wants in spite of opposition. give way 1 yield to someone or something: he was not a man to give way to this kind of pressure. ■ (of a support or structure) be unable to carry a load or withstand a force; collapse or break. ■ (give way to) allow oneself to be overcome by or to succumb to (an emotion or impulse): she gave way to a burst of weeping. 2 allow someone or something to be or go first: give way to traffic coming from the right. ■ (give way to) be replaced or superseded by: Alan's discomfort gave way to anger. 3 (of rowers) row hard. go all (or the whole) way continue a course of action to its conclusion. ■ informal have full sexual intercourse with someone. go out of one's way [usu. with infinitive] make a special effort to do something: Mrs Mott went out of her way to be courteous to Sara. go one's own way act independently or as one wishes, especially against contrary advice. go one's way 1 (of events, circumstances, etc.) be favourable to one: I was just hoping things went my way. 2 leave: one by one the staff went their way. go someone's way travel in the same direction as someone: wait for Owen, he's going your way. have it your (own) way [in imperative] informal used to indicate angrily that although one disagrees with something someone has said or proposed, one is not going to argue further: have it your way–we'll go to Princetown. have it both ways see BOTH. have a way with have a particular talent for dealing with or ability in: she's got a way with animals. have a way with one have a charming and persuasive manner. have one's way with humorous have sexual intercourse with (someone) (typically implying that it is against their wishes or better judgement). in more ways than one used to indicate that a statement has more than one meaning: Shelley let her hair down in more ways than one. in a way (or in some ways or in one way) to a certain extent, but not altogether or completely (used to reduce the effect of a statement): in some ways television is more challenging than theatre. in the family way see FAMILY. in the (or one's) way forming an obstacle or hindrance to movement or action: his head was in the way of my view. in the way of another way of saying by way of (sense 2) above. in someone/thing's (own) way if regarded from a particular standpoint appropriate to that person or thing: it's a good enough book in its way. in no way not at all. keep (or stay) out of someone's way avoid someone. know one's way around (or about) be familiar with (an area, procedure, or subject). lead the way go first along a route to show someone the way. ■ be a pioneer in a particular activity. look the other way deliberately avoid seeing or noticing someone or something. no two ways about it see NO. one way and another 1 taking most aspects or considerations into account: its been quite a day one way and another. 2 another way of saying one way or the other below. one way or the other (or one way and another) used to indicate that something is the case for any of various unspecified reasons: one way or another she brought it on herself. ■ by some means: he wants to get rid of me one way or another. ■ whichever of two given alternatives is the case: the question is not yet decided, one way or the other. on the (or one's) way in the course of a journey: I'll tell you on the way home. on the (or its) way about to arrive or happen: there's more snow on the way. ■ informal (of a child) conceived but not yet born. on the (or one's) way out in the process of leaving. ■ informal going out of fashion or favour. ■ informal dying. the other way round (or around; Brit. also about) in the opposite position or direction. ■ the opposite of what is expected or supposed: it was you who sought me out, not the other way round. out of the way 1 (of a place) remote. 2 dealt with or finished: economic recovery will begin once the election is out of the way. ■ (of a person) no longer an obstacle or hindrance to someone's plans: why did Josie want her out of the way? 3 [usu. with negative] unusual, exceptional, or remarkable: he'd seen nothing out of the way. out of one's way not on one's intended route. put someone in the way of dated give someone the opportunity of. that way used euphemistically to indicate that someone is homosexual: he was a bit that way. to someone's (or one's) way of thinking in someone's (or one's) opinion. way back (US also way back when) informal long ago. the way of the Cross 1 the journey of Jesus to the place of his crucifixion. 2 a set of images representing the Stations of the Cross. 3 figurative the suffering and self-sacrifice of a Christian. way of life the typical pattern of behaviour of a person or group: the rural way of life. the way of the world the manner in which people typically behave or things typically happen (used to express one's resignation to it): all those millions of pounds are not going to create many jobs, but that's the way of the world. ways and means the methods and resources at someone's disposal for achieving something: the company is seeking ways and means of safeguarding jobs. way to go N. Amer. informal used to express pleasure, approval, or excitement.

– ORIGIN Old English weg, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch weg and German Weg, from a base meaning 'move, carry'.

-way ▶ suffix equivalent to -WAYS.

wayang /ˈwɑːjaŋ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] (in Indonesia and Malaysia) a theatrical performance employing puppets or human dancers.

■ (also wayang kulit) a Javanese and Balinese shadow puppet play.

– ORIGIN Javanese.

waybill ▶ noun a list of passengers or goods being carried on a vehicle.

waybread ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. archaic the Eurasian common plantain, with broad rounded leaves.

• Plantago major, family Plantaginaceae.

– ORIGIN Old English wegbrǣde (see WAY, BROAD).

wayfarer ▶ noun poetic/literary a person who travels on foot.

– DERIVATIVES wayfaring noun.

wayfaring tree ▶ noun a white-flowered Eurasian shrub which has berries at different stages of ripening (green, red, and black) occurring together, growing chiefly on calcareous soils.

• Viburnum lantana, family Caprifoliaceae.

Wayland the Smith /ˈweɪlənd/ (also Weland) Scandinavian & Anglo-Saxon Mythology a smith with supernatural powers, in English legend supposed to have his forge in a Neolithic chambered tomb (Wayland's Smithy) on the downs in SW Oxfordshire.

waylay ▶ verb (past and past participle waylaid) [with obj.] stop or interrupt (someone) and detain them in conversation or trouble them in some other way: he waylaid me on the stairs.

– DERIVATIVES waylayer noun.

way leave ▶ noun a right of way granted by a landowner, generally in exchange for payment and typically for purposes such as the erection of telegraph wires or laying of pipes.

waymark ▶ noun (also waymarker) a sign forming one of a series used to mark out a route, especially a footpath or bridle path.

▶ verb [with obj.] identify (a route) with such a sign.

Wayne, John (1907–79), American actor; born Marion Michael Morrison. Associated with the film director John Ford from 1930, Wayne became a Hollywood star with Stagecoach (1939) and appeared in classic westerns such as The Searchers (1956) and True Grit (1969), for which he won an Oscar.

way-out ▶ adjective informal regarded as extremely unconventional, unusual, or avant-garde.

waypoint ▶ noun a stopping place on a journey.

■ the computer-checked coordinates of each stage of a flight or sea journey.

-ways ▶ suffix forming adjectives and adverbs of direction or manner: edgeways | lengthways. Compare with -WISE.

wayside ▶ noun the edge of a road.

– PHRASES fall by the wayside fail to persist in an endeavour or undertaking: many readers will fall by the wayside as the terminology becomes more complicated. [ORIGIN: with biblical allusion to Luke 8:5.]

wayside pulpit ▶ noun a board placed outside a place of worship, displaying a religious text or maxim.

way station ▶ noun N. Amer. a stopping point on a journey.

■ a minor station on a railway.

wayward ▶ adjective difficult to control or predict because of unusual or perverse behaviour: her wayward, difficult sister | figurative his wayward emotions.

– DERIVATIVES waywardly adverb, waywardness noun.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: shortening of obsolete awayward 'turned away'; compare with FROWARD.

way-worn ▶ adjective archaic weary with travelling.

wayzgoose /ˈweɪzguːs/ ▶ noun (pl. wayzgooses) Brit. historical an annual summer dinner or outing held by a printing house for its employees.

– ORIGIN mid 18th cent. (earlier waygoose): of unknown origin.

wazir /wəˈzɪə/ ▶ noun another term for VIZIER.

wazzock /ˈwazək/ ▶ noun Brit. informal a stupid or annoying person.

– ORIGIN 1980s: of unknown origin.

Wb ▶ abbreviation for weber(s).

WBA ▶ abbreviation for World Boxing Association.

WBC ▶ abbreviation for World Boxing Council.

W boson ▶ noun another term for W PARTICLE.

WC ▶ abbreviation for ■ Brit. water closet. ■ (of a region) west central.

WCC ▶ abbreviation for World Council of Churches.

we ▶ pronoun [first person plural] 1 used by a speaker to refer to himself or herself and one or more other people considered together: shall we have a drink?

■ used to refer to the speaker together with other people regarded in the same category: nobody knows kids better than we teachers do. ■ people in general: we should eat as varied and well-balanced a diet as possible.

2 used in formal contexts for or by a royal person, or by a writer or editor, to refer to himself or herself: in this section we discuss the reasons.

3 used condescendingly to refer to the person being addressed: how are we today?

– ORIGIN Old English, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wij and German wir.

WEA ▶ abbreviation for (in the UK) Workers' Educational Association.

weak ▶ adjective 1 lacking the power to perform physically demanding tasks; lacking physical strength and energy: she was recovering from flu, and was very weak.

■ lacking political or social power or influence: the central government had grown too weak to impose order | [as plural noun the weak] the new king used his powers to protect the weak. ■ (of a crew, team, or army) containing too few members or members of insufficient quality. ■ (of a faculty or part of the body) not able to fulfil its functions properly: he had a weak stomach. ■ of a low standard; performing or performed badly: the choruses on this recording are weak. ■ not convincing or logically forceful: the argument is an extremely weak one | a weak plot. ■ exerting only a small force: a weak magnetic field.

2 liable to break or give way under pressure; easily damaged: the salamander's tail may be broken off at a weak spot near the base.

■ lacking the force of character to hold to one's own decisions, beliefs, or principles; irresolute. ■ (of a belief, emotion, or attitude) not held or felt with such conviction or intensity as to prevent its being abandoned or dispelled: their commitment to the project is weak. ■ not in a secure financial position: people have no faith in weak banks. ■ (of prices or a market) having a downward tendency.

3 lacking intensity or brightness: a weak light from a single street lamp.

■ (of a liquid or solution) lacking flavour or effectiveness through being heavily diluted: a cup of weak coffee. ■ displaying or characterized by a lack of enthusiasm or energy: she managed a weak, nervous smile. ■ (of features) not striking or strongly marked: his beard covered a weak chin. ■ (of a syllable) unstressed.

4 Grammar denoting a class of verbs in Germanic languages that form the past tense and past participle by addition of a suffix (in English, typically -ed).

5 Physics of, relating to, or denoting the weakest of the known kinds of force between particles, which acts only at distances less than about 10^{-15} cm, is very much weaker than the electromagnetic and the strong interactions, and conserves neither strangeness, parity, nor isospin.

– PHRASES the weaker sex [treated as sing. or pl.] dated, derogatory women regarded collectively. weak at the knees helpless with emotion. the weak link the point at which a system, sequence, or organization is most vulnerable; the least dependable element or member.

– DERIVATIVES weakish adjective.

– ORIGIN Old English wāc 'pliant', 'of little worth', 'not steadfast', reinforced in Middle English by Old Norse veikr, from a Germanic base meaning 'yield, give way'.

weaken ▶ verb make or become weaker in power, resolve, or physical strength: [with obj.] fault lines had weakened and shattered the rocks | [no obj.] his resistance had weakened.
– DERIVATIVES weakener noun.

weak ending ▶ noun Prosody an unstressed syllable in a place at the end of a line of verse that normally receives a stress.

weakfish ▶ noun (pl. same or -fishes) a large slender-bodied marine fish living along the east coast of North America, popular as a food fish and for sport. Also called SEA TROUT.
● Cynoscion regalis, family Sciaenidae.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from obsolete Dutch weekvisch, from week 'soft' + visch 'fish'.

weak interaction ▶ noun Physics interaction at short distances between subatomic particles mediated by the weak force.

weak-kneed ▶ adjective weak and shaky as a result of fear or excitement.
■lacking in resolve or courage; cowardly.

weakling ▶ noun a person or animal that is physically weak and frail.
■an ineffectual or cowardly person.

weakly ▶ adverb in a way that lacks strength or force: she leaned weakly against the wall.
▶ adjective (weaklier, weakliest) sickly; not robust.
– DERIVATIVES weakliness noun.

weak-minded ▶ adjective lacking determination, emotional strength, or intellectual capacity.
– DERIVATIVES weak-mindedness noun.

weakness ▶ noun [mass noun] the state or condition of lacking strength: the country's weakness in international dealings.
■[count noun] a quality or feature regarded as a disadvantage or fault: you must recognize your product's strengths and weaknesses. ■ [count noun] a person or thing that one is unable to resist or likes excessively: you're his one weakness—he should never have met you. ■ [in sing.] (weakness for) a self-indulgent liking for: his weakness for prawn cocktails.

weak sister ▶ noun US informal a weak, ineffectual, or unreliable member of a group.

weal[1] /wi:l/ (also chiefly Medicine wheal) ▶ noun a red, swollen mark left on flesh by a blow or pressure.
■Medicine an area of the skin which is temporarily raised, typically reddened, and usually accompanied by itching.
▶ verb [with obj.] mark with a weal.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: variant of WALE, influenced by obsolete wheal 'suppurate'.

weal[2] /wi:l/ ▶ noun [mass noun] formal that which is best for someone or something: I am holding this trial behind closed doors in the public weal.
– ORIGIN Old English wela 'wealth, well-being', of West Germanic origin; related to WELL[1].

Weald /wi:ld/ a formerly wooded district including parts of Kent, Surrey, and East Sussex.
– ORIGIN Old English, variant of wald (see WOLD).

Weald clay ▶ noun [mass noun] Geology a series of beds of clay, sandstone, limestone, and ironstone, forming the top of the Wealden strata in southern England and containing abundant fossil remains.

Wealden /'wi:ld(ə)n/ ▶ adjective Brit. of or relating to the Weald.
■denoting a style of timber house built in the Weald in the late medieval and Tudor periods. ■ Geology relating to or denoting a series of Lower Cretaceous estuarine and freshwater deposits best exemplified in the Weald.

wealth ▶ noun [mass noun] an abundance of valuable possessions or money: he used his considerable wealth to bribe officials.
■the state of being rich; material prosperity: some people buy boats and cars to display their wealth. ■ plentiful supplies of a particular resource: the country's mineral wealth. ■ [in sing.] a plentiful supply of a particular desirable thing: the tables and maps contain a wealth of information. ■ archaic well-being; prosperity.
– ORIGIN Middle English welthe, from WELL[1] or WEAL[2], on the pattern of health.

wealth tax ▶ noun a tax levied on personal capital.

wealthy ▶ adjective (wealthier, wealthiest) having a great deal of money, resources, or assets; rich: the wealthy nations of the world | [as plural noun the wealthy] the burden of taxation on the wealthy.
– DERIVATIVES wealthily adverb.

wean[1] ▶ verb [with obj.] accustom (an infant or other young mammal) to food other than its mother's milk.
■accustom (someone) to managing without something on which they have become dependent or of which they have become excessively fond: the doctor tried to wean her off the sleeping pills. ■ (be weaned on) be strongly influenced by (something), especially from an early age: I was weaned on a regular diet of Hollywood fantasy.
– ORIGIN Old English wenian, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wennen and German entwöhnen.

wean[2] ▶ noun Scottish & N. English a young child.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: contraction of wee ane 'little one'.

weaner ▶ noun a calf, lamb, or pig weaned during the current year.

weanling ▶ noun a newly weaned animal.

weapon ▶ noun a thing designed or used for inflicting bodily harm or physical damage: nuclear weapons.
■figurative a means of gaining an advantage or defending oneself in a conflict or contest: resignation threats had long been a weapon in his armoury.
– DERIVATIVES weaponed adjective, weaponless adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wǣp(e)n, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wapen and German Waffe.

weaponry ▶ noun [treated as sing. or pl.] weapons regarded collectively.

wear[1] ▶ verb (past wore; past participle worn /wɔ:n/) 1 [with obj.] have on one's body or a part of one's body as clothing, decoration, protection, or for some other purpose: he was wearing a dark suit | firemen wearing breathing apparatus.
■habitually have on one's body or be dressed in: although she was a widow, she didn't wear black. ■ exhibit or present (a particular facial expression or appearance): they wear a frozen smile on their faces. ■ [with obj. and complement or adverbial] have (one's hair or beard) at a specified length or arranged in a specified style: the students wore their hair long. ■ (of a ship) fly (a flag).
2 [with obj. and adverbial or complement] damage, erode, or destroy by friction or use: the track has been worn down in part to bare rock.
■[no obj., with adverbial or complement] undergo such damage, erosion, or destruction: mountains are wearing down with each passing second. ■ [with obj.] form (a hole, path, etc.) by constant friction or use: the water was forced up through holes it had worn.
3 [no obj., with adverbial] withstand continued use or life in a specified way: a carpet-type finish seems to wear well.
■[with obj.] [usu. with negative] Brit. informal tolerate; accept: the environmental health people wouldn't wear it.
4 [no obj.] (wear on) (of a period of time) pass, especially slowly or tediously: as the afternoon wore on he began to look unhappy.
■[with obj.] poetic/literary pass (a period of time) in some activity: spinning long stories, wearing half the day.
▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the wearing of something or the state of being worn as clothing: some new tops for wear in the evening.
2 [with modifier] clothing suitable for a particular purpose or of a particular type: evening wear.
3 damage or deterioration sustained from continuous use: you need to make a deduction for wear and tear on all your belongings.
■the capacity for withstanding continuous use without such damage: old things were relegated to the bedrooms because there was plenty of wear left in them.
– PHRASES in wear being regularly worn. wear one's heart on one's sleeve see HEART. wear oneself to a shadow see SHADOW. wear thin be gradually used up or become less convincing or acceptable: his patience was wearing thin | the joke had started to wear thin. wear the trousers see TROUSERS.
– DERIVATIVES wearability noun, wearable adjective, wearer noun.
– ORIGIN Old English werian, of Germanic origin, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin vestis 'clothing'.
▶ wear someone/thing down overcome someone or something by persistence.
wear off lose effectiveness or intensity.
wear something out (or wear out) 1 use or be used until no longer in good condition or working order: wearing out the stair carpet | the type was used again and again until it wore out. 2 (wear someone/thing out) exhaust or tire someone or something: an hour of this wandering wore out Lampard's patience.

wear[2] ▶ verb (past and past participle wore) [with obj.] Sailing bring (a ship) about by turning its head away from the wind: Shannon gives the order to wear ship. Compare with TACK[1] (in sense 2), GYBE.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: of unknown origin.

wearing ▶ adjective mentally or physically tiring.
– DERIVATIVES wearingly adverb.

wearing course ▶ noun the top layer of a road surface which is worn down by traffic.

wearisome ▶ adjective causing one to feel tired or bored.
– DERIVATIVES wearisomely adverb, wearisomeness noun.

weary ▶ adjective (wearier, weariest) feeling or showing tiredness, especially as a result of excessive exertion or lack of sleep: he gave a long, weary sigh.
■reluctant to see or experience any more of; tired of: she was weary of their constant arguments | [in combination] war-weary Americans. ■ calling for a great amount of energy or endurance; tiring and tedious: the weary journey began again.
▶ verb (-ies, -ied) 1 [with obj.] cause to become tired: she was wearied by her persistent cough.
■[no obj.] (weary of) grow tired of or bored with: she wearied of the sameness of her life.
2 [no obj.] chiefly Scottish be distressed; fret: don't think I'm wearying about not being able to paint any more.
– DERIVATIVES weariless adjective, wearily adverb, weariness noun, wearyingly adverb.
– ORIGIN Old English wērig, wærig, of West Germanic origin.

weasel ▶ noun a small slender carnivorous mammal related to, but smaller than, the stoat.
● Genus Mustela, family Mustelidae (the weasel family): several species, in particular M. nivalis of northern Eurasia and northern North America. The family also includes the polecats, minks, martens, skunks, wolverine, otters, and badgers.
■Irish term for STOAT. ■ figurative, informal a deceitful or treacherous person.
▶ verb (weaselled, weaselling; US weaseled, weaseling) [no obj.] achieve something by use of cunning or deceit: she suspects me of trying to weasel my way into his affections.
■chiefly US behave or talk evasively.
– DERIVATIVES weaselly adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wesle, wesule, of West Germanic origin; related to Dutch wezel and German Wiesel.

weasel-faced ▶ adjective (of a person) having a face with unattractively thin, sharp, or pointed features.

weasel's snout ▶ noun a small wild Eurasian snapdragon with reddish-purple flowers, naturalized in Britain and North America.
● Misopates (formerly Antirrhinum) orontium, family Scrophulariaceae.

weasel words ▶ plural noun words or statements that are intentionally ambiguous or misleading.

weather ▶ noun [mass noun] the state of the atmosphere at a place and time as regards heat, cloudiness, dryness, sunshine, wind, rain, etc.: if the weather's good we can go for a walk.
■cold, wet, and unpleasant or unpredictable atmospheric conditions; the elements: stone walls provide shelter from wind and weather. ■ [as modifier] denoting the side from which the wind is blowing, especially on board a ship; windward: the weather side of the yacht. Contrasted with LEE.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 wear away or change the appearance or texture of (something) by long exposure to the atmosphere: [with obj. and complement] his skin was weathered almost black by his long outdoor life | [as adj. weathered] chemically weathered rock.
■[no obj.] (of rock or other material) be worn away or altered by such processes: the ice sheet preserves specimens that would weather away more quickly in other regions. ■ [usu. as noun weathering] Falconry allow (a hawk) to spend a period perched in the open air.
2 come safely through (a storm).
■withstand (a difficulty or danger): this year has tested industry's ability to weather recession. ■ Sailing (of a ship) get to the windward of (a cape).
3 make (boards or tiles) overlap downwards to keep out rain.
■(in building) slope or bevel (a surface) to throw off rain.

– PHRASES in all weathers in every kind of weather, both good and bad. keep a weather eye on observe very carefully, especially for changes or developments. make heavy weather of informal have unnecessary difficulty in dealing with (a task or problem). [ORIGIN: from the nautical phrase make good or bad weather of it, referring to a ship in a storm.] under the weather informal slightly unwell or in low spirits.
– ORIGIN Old English weder, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch weer and German Wetter, probably also to the noun WIND[1].

weather balloon ▶ noun a balloon equipped with meteorological apparatus which is sent into the atmosphere to provide information about the weather.

weather-beaten ▶ adjective damaged or worn by exposure to the weather: a tiny weather-beaten church.
■(of a person or a person's face) having skin that is lined and tanned or reddened through prolonged time spent outdoors.

weatherboard chiefly Brit. ▶ noun a sloping board attached to the bottom of an outside door to keep out the rain.
■each of a series of horizontal boards nailed to outside walls with edges overlapping to keep out the rain.
▶ verb [with obj.] fit or supply with weatherboards.

weatherboarding ▶ noun [mass noun] weatherboards collectively.

weatherbound ▶ adjective prevented by bad weather from travelling or proceeding with a course of action.

weather chart ▶ noun a map showing the state of the weather over a large area.

weathercock ▶ noun a weathervane in the form of a cockerel.
▶ verb [no obj.] (of a boat or aircraft) tend to turn to head into the wind.

weatherfish ▶ noun (pl. same or -fishes) a yellowish-brown freshwater loach which is reputed to become restless at the approach of stormy weather.
● Genus Misgurnus, family Cobitidae: the European M. fossilis, and the Asian M. anguillicaudatus, which has also been introduced to North America.

weather gage ▶ noun see GAUGE (sense 3).

weathergirl ▶ noun informal a woman who broadcasts a description and forecast of weather conditions.

weather glass ▶ noun dated a barometer.

weather helm ▶ noun [mass noun] Nautical a tendency in a sailing ship to head into the wind if the tiller is released.

weather house ▶ noun a toy hygroscope in the form of a small house with figures of a man and woman standing in two porches, the man coming out of his porch in wet weather and the woman out of hers in dry.

weatherly ▶ adjective Sailing (of a boat) able to sail close to the wind without drifting to leeward.
– DERIVATIVES weatherliness noun.

weatherman ▶ noun (pl. -men) a man who broadcasts a description and forecast of weather conditions.

weather map ▶ noun another term for WEATHER CHART.

weatherproof ▶ adjective resistant to the effects of bad weather, especially rain: the building is structurally sound and weatherproof.
▶ verb [with obj.] make (something) resistant to the effects of bad weather, especially rain.

weather station ▶ noun an observation post where weather conditions and meteorological data are observed and recorded.

weatherstrip ▶ noun a strip of rubber, metal, or other material used to seal the edges of a door or window against rain and wind.
▶ verb (-stripped, -stripping) [with obj.] apply such a strip to (a door or window).
– DERIVATIVES weatherstripping noun.

weatherstruck joint ▶ noun another term for STRUCK JOINT.

weathertight ▶ adjective (of a building) sealed against rain and wind.

weather tile ▶ noun each of a series of overlapping tiles used to cover a wall.

weathervane ▶ noun a revolving pointer to show the direction of the wind, typically mounted on top of a building.

weather-worn ▶ adjective eroded or altered by being exposed to the weather: a weather-worn gravestone.

weave[1] ▶ verb (past wove; past participle woven or wove) [with obj.] form (fabric or a fabric item) by interlacing long threads passing in one direction with others at a right angle to them: linen was woven in the district.
■form (thread) into fabric in this way: some thick mohairs can be difficult to weave. ■ [no obj.] (usu. as noun weaving) make fabric in this way, typically by working at a loom: cotton spinning and weaving was done in mills. ■ (weave something into) include something as an integral part or element of (a woven fabric): a gold pattern was woven into the material. ■ make (basketwork or a wreath) by interlacing rods or flowers. ■ make (a complex story or pattern) from a number of interconnected elements: he weaves colourful, cinematic plots. ■ (weave something into) include an element in (such a story or pattern): interpretative comments are woven into the narrative.
▶ noun [usu. with adj.] a particular style or manner in which something is woven: scarlet cloth of a very fine weave.
– ORIGIN Old English wefan, of Germanic origin, from an Indo-European root shared by Greek huphē 'web' and Sanskrit ūrṇavābhi 'spider', literally 'wool-weaver'. The current noun sense dates from the late 19th cent.

weave[2] ▶ verb [no obj.] twist and turn from side to side while moving somewhere in order to avoid obstructions: he had to weave his way through the crowds.
■take evasive action in an aircraft, typically by moving it from side to side. ■ (of a horse) repeatedly swing the head and forepart of the body from side to side (considered to be a vice).
– PHRASES get weaving Brit. informal set briskly to work; begin action.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: probably from Old Norse veifa 'to wave, brandish'.

weaver ▶ noun 1 a person who weaves fabric.
2 (also weaver bird) a finch-like songbird of tropical Africa and Asia, related to the sparrows and building elaborately woven nests.
● Family Ploceidae: several genera, in particular Ploceus, and numerous species.

weaver ant ▶ noun a tropical ant which builds its nest between leaves that are fastened together using silk secreted by the larvae.
● Genera Oecophylla and Camponotus, family Formicidae.

weaver's knot ▶ noun a sheet bend used for joining threads in weaving.

web ▶ noun 1 a network of fine threads constructed by a spider from fluid secreted by its spinnerets, used to catch its prey.
■a similar filmy network spun by some insect larvae, especially communal caterpillars. ■ figurative a complex system of interconnected elements, especially one perceived as a trap or danger: he found himself caught up in a web of bureaucracy. ■ (the Web) short for WORLD WIDE WEB.
2 a membrane between the toes of a swimming bird or other aquatic animal.
■a thin flat part connecting thicker or more solid parts in machinery.
3 a roll of paper used in a continuous printing process.
■the endless wire mesh in a papermaking machine on which such paper is made.
4 a piece of woven fabric.
▶ verb (webbed, webbing) [no obj., with adverbial] move or hang so as to form a web-like shape: an intricate transportation network webs from coast to coast.
■[with obj.] (usu. be webbed) cover with or as though with a web: she noticed his tanned skin, webbed with fine creases.
– DERIVATIVES web-like adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English web(b) 'woven fabric', of Germanic origin; related to Dutch web, also to WEAVE. Early use of the verb was in the sense 'weave (fabric) on a loom'.

Webb[1], (Gladys) Mary (1881–1927), English novelist. Her novels, such as Gone to Earth (1917) and Precious Bane (1924), are representative of much regional English fiction popular at the beginning of the century.

Webb[2], (Martha) Beatrice (1858–1943) and Sidney (James), Baron Passfield (1859–1947), English socialists, economists, and historians. They were prominent members of the Fabian Society and helped to establish the London School of Economics (1895).

webbed ▶ adjective 1 (of the feet of a swimming bird or other aquatic animal) having the toes connected by a membrane.
■Medicine (of fingers or toes) abnormally united for all or part of their length by a fold of skin.
2 (of a band or strip of tough material) made from webbing or similar fabric: a webbed girth.

webbing ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 strong, closely woven fabric used for making items such as straps and belts, and for supporting the seats of upholstered chairs.
■the system of belts, pouches, and straps worn by a soldier as part of his combat uniform.
2 the part of a baseball glove between the thumb and forefinger.

Weber[1] /ˈveɪbə, German ˈveːbɐ/, Carl Maria (Friedrich Ernst) von (1786–1826), German composer. He is regarded as the founder of the German romantic school of opera. Notable operas: Der Freischütz (1817–21), Euryanthe (1822–3).

Weber[2] /ˈveɪbə, German ˈveːbɐ/, Max (1864–1920), German economist and sociologist, regarded as one of the founders of modern sociology. Notable works: The Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism (1904) and Economy and Society (1922).

Weber[3] /ˈveɪbə, German ˈveːbɐ/, Wilhelm Eduard (1804–91), German physicist. He proposed a unified system for electrical units and determined the ratio between the units of electrostatic and electromagnetic charge.

weber /ˈveɪbə/ (abbrev.: Wb) ▶ noun the SI unit of magnetic flux, causing the electromotive force of one volt in a circuit of one turn when generated or removed in one second.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after W. E. Weber (see WEBER[3]).

Webern /ˈveɪb(ə)n, German ˈveːbɐn/, Anton (Friedrich Ernst) von (1883–1945), Austrian composer, a leading exponent of serialism. His music is marked by its brevity: the atonal Five Pieces for Orchestra (1911–13) lasts under a minute.

web-footed ▶ adjective (of a swimming bird or other aquatic animal) having webbed feet.

webmaster ▶ noun Computing a person who is responsible for a particular server on the World Wide Web.

web offset ▶ noun [mass noun] offset printing on continuous paper fed from a reel.

web page ▶ noun Computing a document connected to the World Wide Web and viewable by anyone with an Internet connection and a browser.

web site ▶ noun Computing a location connected to the Internet that maintains one or more pages on the World Wide Web.

web-spinner ▶ noun a slender mainly tropical insect with a soft brownish body, living under stones or logs in a tunnel of silk produced by glands on the front legs.
● Order Embioptera: several families.

Webster[1], John (*c.*1580–*c.*1625), English dramatist. Notable works: The White Devil (1612) and The Duchess of Malfi (1623), both revenge tragedies.

Webster[2], Noah (1758–1843), American lexicographer. His American Dictionary of the English Language (1828) was the first dictionary to give comprehensive coverage of American usage.

web wheel ▶ noun a wheel with a plate instead of spokes, or one with rim, spokes, and centre made in one piece, as in the balance wheel of a clock or watch.

webwork ▶ noun a mesh or network of links or connecting pieces: a webwork of beams and girders.

webworm ▶ noun N. Amer. a caterpillar which spins a web in which to rest or feed. When present in large numbers it can become a serious pest.
● Loxostega and other genera, family Pyralidae.

Wed. ▶ abbreviation for Wednesday.

wed ▶ verb (wedding; past and past participle wedded or wed) [with obj.] chiefly formal or archaic get married to: he was to wed the king's daughter.
■[no obj.] get married: they wed a week after meeting | (be wed) after a three-month engagement, they were wed in London. ■ give or join in marriage: will you wed your daughter to him? ■ [as adj. wedded] of or concerning marriage: a celebration of 25 years' wedded bliss. ■ combine (two factors or qualities, especially desirable ones): in this album he weds an excellent programme with a distinctive vocal style. ■ (be wedded to) be obstinately attached or devoted to (an activity, belief, or system): the government was wedded to budgetary orthodoxy.

– ORIGIN Old English weddian, from the Germanic base of Scots wed 'a pledge'; related to Latin vas 'surety', also to GAGE[1].

we'd ▶ contraction of we had: we'd already been on board.

■we should or we would: we'd like to make you an offer.

Weddell Sea /'wɛd(ə)l/ an arm of the Atlantic Ocean, off the coast of Antarctica.

– ORIGIN named after the British explorer James Weddell (1787–1834), who visited it in 1823.

Weddell seal ▶ noun a large mottled grey seal with a small head, ranging farther south than any other seal and breeding on the fast ice of Antarctica.

● Leptonychotes weddelli, family Phocidae.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: named after James Weddell (see WEDDELL SEA).

wedding ▶ noun a marriage ceremony, especially considered as including the associated celebrations.

– ORIGIN Old English weddung (see WED, -ING[1]).

wedding band ▶ noun chiefly N. Amer. a wedding ring.

wedding bells ▶ plural noun bells rung to celebrate a wedding (used to allude to the likelihood of marriage between two people): the two were seen going everywhere together, and all her friends could hear wedding bells.

wedding breakfast ▶ noun Brit. a celebratory meal eaten just after a wedding (at any time of day) by the couple and their guests.

wedding cake ▶ noun a rich iced cake, typically in two or more tiers, served at a wedding reception.

■[as modifier] denoting a building or architectural style that is very decorative or ornate: a wedding-cake mansion.

wedding day ▶ noun the day or anniversary of a wedding.

wedding march ▶ noun a piece of march music played at the entrance of the bride or the exit of the couple at a wedding.

wedding night ▶ noun the night after a wedding (especially with reference to its consummation).

wedding ring ▶ noun a ring worn by a married person, given to them by their spouse at their wedding.

wedding tackle ▶ noun another term for TACKLE (in sense 1).

Wedekind /'veɪdəkɪnd, German 'veːdəkɪnt/, Frank (1864–1918), German dramatist. A key figure of expressionist drama, he scandalized contemporary German society with the explicit and sardonic portrayal of sexual awakening in The Awakening of Spring (1891).

wedge[1] ▶ noun a piece of wood, metal, or some other material having one thick end and tapering to a thin edge, that is driven between two objects or parts of an object to secure or separate them.

■an object or piece of something having such a shape: a wedge of cheese. ■ a formation of people or animals with such a shape. ■ a golf club with a low, angled face for maximum loft. ■ a shot made with such a club. ■ a shoe, typically having a fairly high heel, of which the heel and sole form a solid block, with no gap under the instep. ■ a heel of this kind.

▶ verb 1 [with obj.] fix in position using a wedge: [with obj. and complement] the door was wedged open.

2 [with obj. and adverbial] force into a narrow space: she wedged her holdall between two bags.

– PHRASES drive a wedge between separate: the general aimed to drive a wedge between the city and its northern defences. ■ cause disagreement or hostility between: I'm not trying to drive a wedge between you and your father. thin end of the wedge informal an action or procedure of little importance in itself, but likely to lead to more serious developments.

– DERIVATIVES wedge-like adjective.

– ORIGIN Old English wecg (noun), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wig.

wedge[2] ▶ verb [with obj.] prepare (pottery clay) for use by cutting, kneading, and throwing down to homogenize it and remove air pockets.

– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: of unknown origin.

wedgebill ▶ noun an Australian songbird of the logrunner family, with a wedge-shaped bill, long tail, and upright crest.

● Sphenostoma cristatum, family Orthonychidae.

wedge-shaped ▶ adjective 1 (of a solid object) tapering to a thin edge at one end.

2 (of a plane shape) tapering to a point; V-shaped.

wedge shell ▶ noun a marine bivalve mollusc which has a somewhat triangular shell.

● Family Donacidae: Donax and other genera.

wedgie ▶ noun informal a shoe with a wedged heel.

Wedgwood /'wɛdʒwʊd/ ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark ceramic ware made by the English potter Josiah Wedgwood (1730–95) and his successors. Wedgwood is most associated with the powder-blue stoneware pieces with white embossed cameos that first appeared in 1775.

■a powder-blue colour characteristic of this stoneware.

wedlock ▶ noun [mass noun] the state of being married.

– PHRASES born in (or out of) wedlock born of married (or unmarried) parents.

– ORIGIN late Old English wedlāc 'marriage vow', from wed 'pledge' (related to WED) + the suffix -lāc (denoting action).

Wednesday ▶ noun the day of the week before Thursday and following Tuesday: *a report goes before the councillors on Wednesday | they finish early on Wednesdays | [as modifier] on a Wednesday morning.

▶ adverb chiefly N. Amer. on Wednesday: see you Wednesday.

■(Wednesdays) on Wednesdays; each Wednesday: Wednesdays, the jazz DJ hosts a jam session.

– ORIGIN Old English Wōdnesdæg, named after the Germanic god ODIN; translation of late Latin Mercurii dies; compare with Dutch woensdag.

Weds. ▶ abbreviation for Wednesday.

wee[1] ▶ adjective (weer, weest) chiefly Scottish little: when I was just a wee bairn.

– ORIGIN Middle English (originally a noun use in Scots, usually as a little wee 'a little bit'): from Old English wēg(e) (see WEY).

wee[2] informal, chiefly Brit. ▶ noun [in sing.] an act of urinating.

■[mass noun] urine.

▶ verb (wees, weed) [no obj.] urinate.

– ORIGIN 1930s: imitative.

weebill ▶ noun a very small Australian warbler with an olive back, yellow underparts, and a short stubby bill.

● Smicrornis brevirostris, family Acanthizidae.

weed ▶ noun 1 a wild plant growing where it is not wanted and in competition with cultivated plants.

■[mass noun] any wild plant growing in salt or fresh water. ■ [mass noun] informal cannabis. ■ (the weed) informal tobacco. ■ informal a person regarded as contemptibly feeble. ■ informal a leggy, loosely built horse.

▶ verb [with obj.] remove unwanted plants from (an area of ground or the plants cultivated in it): I was weeding a flower bed.

■(weed something out) remove something, especially inferior or unwanted items or members from a group or collection: we must raise the level of research and weed out the poorest work.

– DERIVATIVES weeder noun, weedless adjective.

– ORIGIN Old English wēod (noun), wēodian (verb), of unknown origin; related to Dutch wieden (verb).

weedgrown ▶ adjective overgrown with weeds.

weedicide ▶ noun a chemical weedkiller.

weedkiller ▶ noun a substance used to destroy weeds.

weeds ▶ plural noun short for WIDOW'S WEEDS.

weed whacker ▶ noun chiefly US a strimmer.

weedy ▶ adjective (weedier, weediest) 1 containing or covered with many weeds: a weedy path led to the gate.

■of the nature of or resembling a weed: a weedy species of plant.

2 informal (of a person) thin and physically weak in appearance.

– DERIVATIVES weediness noun.

Wee Free ▶ noun a member of the minority group nicknamed the Wee Free Kirk which stood apart from the Free Church of Scotland when the majority amalgamated with the United Presbyterian Church to form the United Free Church in 1900. The group continued to call itself the Free Church of Scotland after this date.

weejuns /'wiːdʒənz/ ▶ plural noun trademark, chiefly US moccasin-style shoes for casual wear.

– ORIGIN 1950s: a fanciful formation.

week ▶ noun a period of seven days: the course lasts sixteen weeks | he'd cut the grass a week ago.

■the period of seven days generally reckoned from and to midnight on Saturday night: she has an art class twice a week. ■ workdays as opposed to the weekend; the five days from Monday to Friday: I work during the week, so I can only get to this shop on Saturdays. ■ the time spent working in this period: she works a 48-hour week. ■ informal, chiefly Brit. used after the name of a day to indicate that something will happen seven days after that day: the programme will be broadcast on Sunday week.

– PHRASES a week on —— used to state that something is due to happen seven days after the specified day or date: we'll be back a week on Friday. week in, week out every week without exception.

– ORIGIN Old English wice, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch week and German Woche, from a base probably meaning 'sequence, series'.

weekday ▶ noun a day of the week other than Sunday or Saturday.

weekend ▶ noun Saturday and Sunday, especially regarded as a time for leisure: she spent the weekend camping | [as modifier] a weekend break.

▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial] informal spend a weekend somewhere: he was weekending in the country.

weekender ▶ noun a person who spends time in a particular place only at weekends.

■Austral. informal a holiday cottage. ■ a small pleasure boat.

week-long ▶ adjective [attrib.] lasting for a week: a week-long visit to New Zealand.

weekly ▶ adjective [attrib.] done, produced, or occurring once a week: there was a weekly dance on Wednesdays.

■relating to or calculated in terms of a week: the difference in weekly income is £29.10.

▶ adverb once a week: interviews were given weekly.

▶ noun (pl. -ies) a newspaper or periodical issued every week.

weel ▶ adverb, adjective, & exclamation Scottish form of WELL[1].

ween ▶ verb [no obj.] archaic be of the opinion; think or suppose: he, I ween, is no sacred personage.

– ORIGIN Old English wēnan, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wanen 'imagine', German wähnen 'suppose wrongly', also to WISH.

weenie ▶ noun another term for WIENER.

weeny ▶ adjective (weenier, weeniest) informal tiny.

– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from WEE[1], on the pattern of tiny; compare with TEENY.

weep ▶ verb (past and past participle wept) [no obj.] 1 shed tears: a grieving mother wept over the body of her daughter | [with obj.] he wept bitter tears at her cruelty.

■utter or express with tears: [with direct speech] 'No!' she wept. ■ [with obj.] archaic mourn for; shed tears over: a young widow weeping her lost lord.

2 exude liquid: she rubbed one of the sores, making it weep.

▶ noun [in sing.] a fit or spell of shedding tears.

– ORIGIN Old English wēpan (verb), of Germanic origin, probably imitative.

weeper ▶ noun 1 a person who weeps.

■historical a hired mourner at a funeral. ■ a small image of a mourner on a monument. ■ US another term for WEEPIE.

2 (weepers) historical funeral garments, in particular:

■a man's crape hatband worn at funerals. ■ a widow's black crape veil and white cuffs.

weepie (also weepy) ▶ noun (pl. -ies) informal a sentimental or emotional film, novel, or song.

weeping ▶ adjective [attrib.] 1 shedding tears.

■exuding liquid.

2 used in names of tree and shrub varieties with drooping branches, e.g. weeping cherry.

– DERIVATIVES weepingly adverb.

Weeping Cross ▶ noun historical a wayside cross for penitents to pray at.

weeping widow ▶ noun a mushroom which has a buff cap with purplish-black gills that appear to secrete drops of fluid when damp, found commonly in both Eurasia and North America.

• Lacrymaria velutina, family Coprinaceae, class Hymenomycetes.

weeping willow ▶ noun a Eurasian willow with trailing branches and foliage reaching down to the ground, widely grown as an ornamental in waterside settings.
• Genus Salix, family Salicaceae: several species and hybrids, in particular S. × chrysocoma.

weepy ▶ adjective (weepier, weepiest) informal tearful; inclined to weep: a weepy clingy child.
■ sentimental: a weepy made-for-TV movie.
▶ noun variant spelling of WEEPIE.
– DERIVATIVES weepily adverb, weepiness noun.

weever (also weever fish) ▶ noun a small, long-bodied fish with eyes at the top of the head and venomous dorsal spines. It occurs along East Atlantic coasts, typically buried in the sand with just the eyes and spines protruding.
• Family Trachinidae: several genera and species.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: perhaps a transferred use of Old French wivre 'serpent, dragon', from Latin vipera 'viper'.

weevil /'wi:v(ə)l, 'wi:vɪl/ ▶ noun a small beetle with an elongated snout, the larvae of which typically develop inside seeds, stems, or other plant parts. Many are pests of crops or stored foodstuffs.
• Curculionidae and other families in the superfamily Curculionoidea: numerous genera.
■ informal any small insect that damages stored grain.
– DERIVATIVES weevily adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wifel 'beetle', from a Germanic base meaning 'move briskly'.

wee-wee informal, chiefly Brit. ▶ noun a child's word for urine.
▶ verb [no obj.] urinate.
– ORIGIN 1930s: imitative.

w.e.f. Brit. ▶ abbreviation for with effect from: a budget to allocate w.e.f. 1st April.

weft[1] ▶ noun [in sing.] (in weaving) the crosswise threads on a loom over and under which other threads (the warp) are passed to make cloth.
– ORIGIN Old English weft(a), of Germanic origin; related to WEAVE[1].

weft[2] ▶ noun variant spelling of WAFT (in sense 2).

Wegener /'veɪgənə, German 'veːgənɐ/, Alfred Lothar (1880–1930), German meteorologist and geologist. He was the first serious proponent of the theory of continental drift.

Wehrmacht /'veːrmɑːxt, German 'veːɐmaxt/ the German armed forces, especially the army, from 1921 to 1945.
– ORIGIN German, literally 'defensive force'.

Wei /weɪ/ the name of several dynasties which ruled in China, especially that of AD 386–535.

wei ch'i /weɪ 'tʃiː/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a traditional Chinese board game of territorial possession and capture.
– ORIGIN Chinese, from wei 'surround' + ch'i 'chess'.

Weichsel /'vʌɪks(ə)l/ ▶ noun [usu. as modifier] Geology the final Pleistocene glaciation in northern Europe, corresponding to the Devensian of Britain (and possibly the Würm of the Alps).
■ the system of deposits laid down at this time.
– DERIVATIVES Weichselian /vʌɪk'siːlɪən/ adjective & noun.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from the German name of the River Vistula in Poland.

Weifang /weɪ'faŋ/ a city in Shandong province, eastern China; pop. 3,037,500 (1990). Former name WEIHSIEN.

weigela /wʌɪ'dʒiːlə/ ▶ noun an Asian flowering shrub of the honeysuckle family, which has pink, red, or yellow flowers and is a popular ornamental.
• Genus Weigela, family Caprifoliaceae: several species, in particular W. florida.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, named after Christian E. Weigel (1748–1831), German physician.

weigh[1] ▶ verb 1 [with obj.] find out how heavy (someone or something) is, typically using scales: weigh yourself on the day you begin the diet | the vendor weighed the vegetables.
■ have a specified weight: when the twins were born they weighed ten pounds. ■ balance in the hands to guess or as if to guess the weight of: she picked up the brick and weighed it in her right hand. ■ (weigh something out) measure and take from a larger quantity of a substance a portion of a particular weight: she weighed out two ounces of loose tobacco. ■ [no obj.] (weigh on) be depressing or burdensome to: his unhappiness would weigh on my mind so much.
2 assess the nature or importance of, especially with a view to a decision or action: the consequences of the move would need to be very carefully weighed.
■ (weigh something against) compare the importance of one factor with that of (another): they need to weigh benefit against risk. ■ [no obj.] influence a decision or action; be considered important: the evidence weighed heavily against him.
– PHRASES weigh anchor see ANCHOR. weigh one's words carefully choose the way one expresses something.
– DERIVATIVES weighable adjective, weigher noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wegan, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wegen 'weigh', German bewegen 'move', from an Indo-European root shared by Latin vehere 'convey'. Early senses included 'transport from one place to another' and 'raise up'.
▶ weigh someone down be heavy and cumbersome to someone: my waders and fishing gear weighed me down. ■ be oppressive or burdensome to someone: she was weighed down by the responsibility of looking after her sisters.
weigh in (chiefly of a boxer or jockey) be officially weighed before or after a contest: Mason weighed in at 17st 10 lb.
weigh in at informal be of (a specified weight). ■ informal cost (a specified amount).
weigh in with informal make a forceful contribution to a competition or argument by means of: I like to weigh in with a few goals.
weigh into informal join in forcefully or enthusiastically: they weighed into the election campaign. ■ attack physically or verbally: he weighed into the companies for their high costs.
weigh out (of a jockey) be weighed before a race.
weigh someone/thing up carefully assess someone or something: the coach weighed up his team's opponents.

weigh[2] ▶ noun (in phrase under weigh) Nautical another way of saying under way (see UNDER).
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from an erroneous association with weigh anchor (see WEIGH[1]).

weighbridge ▶ noun a machine for weighing vehicles, set into the ground to be driven on to.

weigh-in ▶ noun an official or regular weighing of something or someone, for example of boxers before a fight.

weight ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] a body's relative mass or the quantity of matter contained by it, giving rise to a downward force; the heaviness of a person or thing: he was at least fifteen stone in weight.
■ Physics the force exerted on the mass of a body by a gravitational field. Compare with MASS. ■ the quality of being heavy: as he came upstairs the boards creaked under his weight. ■ [count noun] a unit or system of units used for expressing how much an object or quantity of matter weighs. ■ [count noun] a piece of metal known to weigh a definite amount and used on scales to determine how heavy an object or quantity of a substance is. ■ the amount that a jockey is expected or required to weigh, or the amount that a horse can easily carry. ■ the surface density of cloth, used as a measure of its quality.
2 a heavy object, especially one being lifted or carried.
■ a heavy object used to give an impulse or act as a counterpoise in a mechanism. ■ a heavy object thrown by a shot-putter. ■ (weights) blocks or discs of metal or other heavy material used in weightlifting or weight training.
3 [mass noun] the ability of someone or something to influence decisions or actions: a recommendation by the committee will carry great weight.
■ the importance attached to something: individuals differ in the weight they attach to various aspects of a job. ■ Statistics a factor associated with one of a set of numerical quantities, used to represent its importance relative to the other members of the set.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 hold (something) down by placing a heavy object on top of it: a mug half filled with coffee weighted down a stack of papers.
■ make (something) heavier by attaching a heavy object to it, especiallyso as to make it stay in place: the jugs were covered with muslin veils weighted with coloured beads.
2 attach importance or value to: speaking, reading, and writing should be weighted equally in the assessment.
■ (be weighted) be planned or arranged so as to put a specified person, group, or factor in a position of advantage or disadvantage: the balance of power is weighted in favour of the government. ■ Statistics multiply the components of (an average) by factors to take account of their importance.
3 assign a handicap weight to (a horse).
4 treat (a fabric) with a mineral to make it seem thicker and heavier.
– PHRASES put on (or lose) weight become fatter (or thinner). throw one's weight about (or around) informal be unpleasantly self-assertive. throw one's weight behind informal use one's influence to help support. the weight of the world used in reference to a very heavy burden of worry or responsibility: he continues to carry the weight of the world on his shoulders. be a weight off one's mind come as a great relief after one has been worried. worth one's weight in gold (of a person) exceedingly useful or helpful.
– ORIGIN Old English (ge)wiht, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wicht and German Gewicht. The form of the word has been influenced by WEIGH[1].

weight belt ▶ noun a belt to which weights are attached, designed to help divers stay submerged.

weighted average ▶ noun Statistics an average resulting from the multiplication of each component by a factor reflecting its importance.

weighting ▶ noun [mass noun] allowance or adjustment made in order to take account of special circumstances or compensate for a distorting factor.
■ Brit. an extra amount of wages or salary paid especially to allow for a higher cost of living in a particular area: London weighting of £1,750 is payable. ■ emphasis or priority: they will give due weighting to quality as well as price.

weightless ▶ adjective (of a body, especially in an orbiting spacecraft) not apparently acted on by gravity.
– DERIVATIVES weightlessly adverb, weightlessness noun.

weightlifting ▶ noun [mass noun] the sport or activity of lifting barbells or other heavy weights. There are two standard lifts in modern weightlifting: the single-movement lift from floor to extended position (the snatch), and the two-movement lift from floor to shoulder position, and from shoulders to extended position (the clean and jerk).
– DERIVATIVES weightlifter noun.

weight training ▶ noun [mass noun] physical training that involves lifting weights.

weight-watcher ▶ noun a person who is concerned about their weight, especially one who diets.
– DERIVATIVES weight-watching noun & adjective.
– ORIGIN from the proprietary name Weight Watchers, an organization promoting dietary control as a means of slimming.

weighty ▶ adjective (weightier, weightiest) weighing a great deal; heavy: a weighty candelabra.
■ of great seriousness and importance: he threw off all weighty considerations of state. ■ having a great deal of influence on events or decisions.
– DERIVATIVES weightily adverb, weightiness noun.

Weihsien /weɪ'ʃjɛn/ former name for WEIFANG.

Weil /vʌɪl, French vɛj/, Simone (1909–43), French essayist, philosopher, and mystic. During the Second World War she joined the resistance movement in England and died of tuberculosis while weakened by voluntary starvation in identification with her French compatriots.

Weill /vʌɪl/, Kurt (1900–50), German composer, resident in the US from 1935. He is best known for the operas he wrote with Bertolt Brecht, political satires including The Threepenny Opera (1928).

Weil's disease /vʌɪlz/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a severe, sometimes fatal, form of leptospirosis transmitted by rats via contaminated water.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after H. Adolf Weil (1848–1916), German physician.

Weimar /'vʌɪmɑː, German 'vaɪmar/ a city in Thuringia, central Germany; pop. 59,100 (1991). It was famous in the late 18th and early 19th century for its intellectual and cultural life.

Weimaraner /'vʌɪməˌrɑːnə, 'wʌɪ-/ ▶ noun a dog of a thin-coated, typically grey breed of pointer used as a gun dog.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from German, from WEIMAR in Germany, where the breed was developed.

Weimar Republic the German republic of 1919–

33, so called because its constitution was drawn up at Weimar. The republic was faced with huge reparation costs deriving from the Treaty of Versailles as well as soaring inflation and high unemployment. The 1920s saw a growth in support for right-wing groups and the Republic was eventually overthrown by the Nazi Party of Adolf Hitler.

Weinberg /ˈwʌɪnbəːg/, Steven (b.1933), American theoretical physicist. He devised a theory to unify electromagnetic interactions and the weak forces within the nucleus of an atom, for which he shared the Nobel Prize for Physics in 1979.

Weinstube /ˈvʌɪnˌʃtuːbə, -stuːbə, German ˈvaɪnˌʃtuːbə/ ▶ noun (pl. Weinstuben /-ˌʃtuːb(ə)n, -stuːb(ə)n, German -ˌʃtuːbn/) a small German wine bar or tavern.
– ORIGIN German, literally 'wine room'.

weir ▶ noun a low dam built across a river to raise the level of water upstream or regulate its flow.
■ an enclosure of stakes set in a stream as a trap for fish.
– ORIGIN Old English wer, from werian 'dam up'.

weird ▶ adjective suggesting something supernatural; uncanny: the weird crying of a seal.
■ informal very strange; bizarre: a weird coincidence | all sorts of weird and wonderful characters. ■ archaic connected with fate.
▶ noun archaic, chiefly Scottish a person's destiny.
▶ verb [with obj.] (weird someone out) N. Amer. informal induce a sense of disbelief or alienation in someone.
– DERIVATIVES weirdly adverb, weirdness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wyrd 'destiny', of Germanic origin. The adjective (late Middle English) originally meant 'having the power to control destiny', and was used especially in the Weird Sisters, originally referring to the Fates, later the witches in Shakespeare's Macbeth; the latter use gave rise to the sense 'unearthly' (early 19th cent.).

weirdie (also weirdy) ▶ noun (pl. -ies) another term for WEIRDO.

weirdo ▶ noun (pl. -os) informal a person whose dress or behaviour seems strange or eccentric.

weird sisters ▶ plural noun (usu. the weird sisters) the Fates.
■ witches, especially those in Shakespeare's Macbeth.

Weismann /ˈvʌɪsmən, German ˈvaɪsman/, August Friedrich Leopold (1834–1914), German biologist, one of the founders of modern genetics. He expounded the theory of germ plasm, which ruled out the transmission of acquired characteristics, and suggested that variability in individuals came from the recombination of chromosomes during reproduction.
– DERIVATIVES Weismannism noun, Weismannist noun & adjective.

Weissmuller /ˈwʌɪsˌmʊlə/, Johnny (1904–84), American swimmer and actor; full name John Peter Weissmuller. He won three Olympic gold medals in 1924 and two in 1928. In the 1930s and 1940s he was the star of the Tarzan films.

Weisswurst /ˈvʌɪsvəːst/ (also weisswurst) ▶ noun [mass noun] whitish German sausage made chiefly of veal.
– ORIGIN German, literally 'white sausage'.

Weizmann /ˈvʌɪtsmən, ˈwʌɪzmən/, Chaim (Azriel) (1874–1952), Russian-born Israeli statesman, President 1949–52. He played an important role in persuading the US government to recognize the new state of Israel (1948) and became its first President.

weka /ˈwɛkə/ ▶ noun a large flightless New Zealand rail with heavily built legs and feet.
● Gallirallus australis, family Rallidae.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Maori, imitative of its cry.

Welamo /ˈwɛləməʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Welamos) 1 a member of a people living mainly in SW Ethiopia.
2 [mass noun] the Omotic language of this people.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.

Weland /ˈwɛlənd/ variant of WAYLAND THE SMITH.

welch /wɛltʃ/ ▶ verb variant spelling of WELSH.

welcome ▶ noun an instance or manner of greeting someone: you will receive a warm welcome | [mass noun] he went to meet them with his hand stretched out in welcome.
■ a pleased or approving reaction: the announcement received an immediate welcome from childcare agencies.
▶ exclamation used to greet someone in a glad or friendly way: welcome to the Wildlife Park.*
▶ verb [with obj.] greet (someone arriving) in a glad, polite, or friendly way: hotels should welcome guests in their own language | [as adj. welcoming] a welcoming smile.
■ be glad to entertain (someone) or receive (something): we welcome any comments. ■ react with pleasure or approval to (an event or development): the bank's decision to cut its rates was widely welcomed.
▶ adjective (of a guest or new arrival) gladly received: I'm pleased to see you, lad—you're welcome.
■ very pleasing because much needed or desired: after your walk, the tea room serves a welcome cuppa | the news will be most welcome to those whose jobs will now be safeguarded. ■ [predic., with infinitive] allowed or invited to do a specified thing: we arrange a framework of activities which you are welcome to join. ■ [predic.] (welcome to) used to indicate that one is relieved to be relinquishing the control or possession of something to another: the job is all yours and you're welcome to it!
– PHRASES make someone welcome receive and treat someone hospitably. outstay (or overstay) one's welcome stay as a visitor longer than one is wanted. you are welcome used as a polite response to thanks.
– DERIVATIVES welcomely adverb, welcomeness noun, welcomer noun, welcomingly adverb.
– ORIGIN Old English wilcuma 'a person whose coming is pleasing', wilcumian (verb), from wil- 'desire, pleasure' + cuman 'come'. The first element was later changed to wel- 'well', influenced by Old French bien venu or Old Norse velkominn.

Welcome Wagon ▶ noun N. Amer. trademark a vehicle bringing gifts and samples from local merchants to newcomers in a community.

weld[1] ▶ verb [with obj.] join together (metal pieces or parts) by heating the surfaces to the point of melting with a blowpipe, electric arc, or other means, and uniting them by pressing, hammering, etc.: the truck had spikes welded to the back.
■ forge (an article) by such means. ■ unite (pieces of plastic or other material) by melting or softening of surfaces in contact. ■ figurative cause to combine and form a harmonious or effective whole: cross-curricular themes would weld the curriculum together.
▶ noun a welded joint.
– DERIVATIVES weldability noun, weldable adjective, welder noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (in the sense 'become united'): alteration (probably influenced by the past participle) of WELL[2] in the obsolete sense 'melt or weld (heated metal)'.

weld[2] ▶ noun a widely distributed plant related to mignonette, yielding a yellow dye.
● Reseda luteola, family Resedaceae.
■ [mass noun] the yellow dye made from this plant, which has been used since Neolithic times and was a popular colour for Roman wedding garments.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: related to Dutch wouw, perhaps also to WOLD.

weldmesh ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark wire mesh formed by welding together two series of parallel wires crossing at right angles.

welfare ▶ noun [mass noun] the health, happiness, and fortunes of a person or group: they don't give a damn about the welfare of their families.
■ statutory procedure or social effort designed to promote the basic physical and material well-being of people in need: the protection of rights to education, housing, and welfare. ■ chiefly N. Amer. financial support given for this purpose.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from the adverb WELL[1] + the verb FARE.

welfare state ▶ noun a system whereby the state undertakes to protect the health and well-being of its citizens, especially those in financial or social need, by means of grants, pensions, and other benefits. The foundations for the modern welfare state in the UK were laid by the Beveridge Report of 1942; proposals such as the establishment of a National Health Service and the National Insurance Scheme were implemented by the Labour administration in 1948.
■ a country practising such a system.

welfare to work ▶ noun [mass noun] (in the UK) the government policy of encouraging unemployed people and others receiving state benefits to find a job, for example by paying a fee to their new employers.

welfare work ▶ noun [mass noun] organized effort to promote the basic physical and material well-being of people in need.
– DERIVATIVES welfare worker noun.

welfarism ▶ noun [mass noun] the principles or policies associated with a welfare state.
– DERIVATIVES welfarist noun & adjective.

welkin /ˈwɛlkɪn/ ▶ noun poetic/literary the sky.
■ heaven.
– PHRASES make the welkin ring make a very loud sound: the crew made the welkin ring with its hurrahs.
– ORIGIN Old English wolcen 'cloud, sky', of West Germanic origin; related to Dutch wolk and German Wolke.

Welkom /ˈwɛlkəm, ˈvɛl-/ a town in central South Africa, in Free State; pop. 185,500 (1985).

well[1] ▶ adverb (better, best) 1 in a good or satisfactory way: the whole team played well.
■ in a way that is appropriate to the facts or circumstances: you did well to come and tell me | [as submodifier, in combination] a well-timed exit. ■ so as to have a fortunate outcome: his campaign was not going well. ■ in a kind way: the animals will remain loyal to humans if treated well. ■ with praise or approval: people spoke well of him | the film was quite well reviewed at the time. ■ with equanimity: she took it very well, all things considered. ■ profitably; advantageously: she would marry well or not at all. ■ in a condition of prosperity or comfort: they lived well and were generous with their money. ■ archaic luckily; opportunely: hail fellow, well met.
2 in a thorough manner: add the mustard and lemon juice and mix well.
■ to a great extent or degree (often used for emphasis): the visit had been planned well in advance | [as submodifier, in combination] a well-loved mother. ■ intimately; closely: he knew my father very well. ■ [as submodifier] Brit. informal very; extremely: he was well out of order. ■ [with submodifier] used as an intensifier: I should bloody well hope so.
3 [with modal] very probably; in all likelihood: being short of breath may well be the first sign of asthma.
■ without difficulty: she could well afford to pay for the reception herself. ■ with good reason: 'What are we doing here?' 'You may well ask.'
▶ adjective (better, best) [predic.] 1 in good health; free or recovered from illness: I don't feel very well | it would be some time before Sarah was completely well | [attrib.] informal I am not a well man.
■ in a satisfactory state or position: all is not well in post-Soviet Russia.
2 sensible; advisable: it would be well to know just what this suggestion entails.
▶ exclamation used to express a range of emotions including surprise, anger, resignation, or relief: Well, really! The manners of some people!
■ used when pausing to consider one's next words: well, I suppose I could fit you in at 3.45. ■ used to mark the end of a conversation or activity: well, cheers, Tom—I must fly. ■ used to indicate that one is waiting for an answer or explanation from someone: Well? You promised to tell me all about it.
– PHRASES all's well that ends well see ALL. all very well see ALL. as well 1 in addition; too: the museum provides hours of fun and a few surprises as well | a shop that sold books as well as newspapers. 2 (as well or just as well) with equal reason or an equally good result: I may as well have a look. ■ sensible, appropriate, or desirable: it would be as well to let him go. as well he (or she etc.) might (or may) used to convey the speaker's opinion that a reaction is appropriate or unsurprising: she sounded rather chipper, as well she might, given her bright prospects. be well away Brit. informal having made considerable or easy progress: If we got Terry to do that, we'd be well away. ■ be fast asleep or very drunk. be well out of Brit. informal be fortunate to be no longer involved in (a situation). be well up on (or in) know a great deal about (a particular thing). do well for oneself be successful, typically in material or financial terms. leave (or let) well (US enough) alone refrain from interfering with or trying improve something that is satisfactory or adequate as it is. very well used to express agreement or understanding: oh very well then, come in. (all) well and good used to express acceptance of a first statement before introducing a contradictory or confirming second statement: that's all well and good, but why didn't he phone her to say so? well and truly completely: Leith was well and truly rattled. well enough to a reasonable degree: he liked Isobel well enough, but wouldn't want to make a close friend of her.

– DERIVATIVES wellness noun.

– ORIGIN Old English wel(l), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wel and German wohl; probably also to the verb WILL[1]. Vowel lengthening in Middle English gave rise to the current Scots form WEEL.

USAGE The adverb well is often used in combination with past participles to form adjectival compounds: well adjusted, well intentioned, well known, and so on. As far as hyphenation is concerned, the general stylistic principle is that if the adjectival compound is placed attributively (i.e. it comes before the noun), it should be hyphenated (a well-intentioned remark) but that if it is placed predicatively (i.e. standing alone after the verb), it should not be hyphenated (*her remarks were well intentioned). In this dictionary, the unhyphenated form is generally the only one given, although the hyphenated form may be seen in illustrative examples.

well[2] ▶ noun 1 a shaft sunk into the ground to obtain water, oil, or gas.

■a plentiful source or supply: she could feel a deep well of sympathy and compassion. ■ archaic a water spring or fountain. ■ (Wells) [in place names] a place where there are mineral springs: Tunbridge Wells. ■ short for INKWELL. ■ a depression made to hold liquid: put the flour on a flat surface and make a well to hold the eggs.

2 an enclosed space in the middle of a building, giving room for stairs or a lift, or to allow light or ventilation.

■Brit. the place in a law court where the clerks and ushers sit.

3 Physics a region of minimum potential: a gravity well.

▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial] (of a liquid) rise up to the surface and spill or be about to spill: tears were beginning to well in her eyes.

■(of an emotion) arise and become more intense: all the old bitterness began to well up inside her again.

– ORIGIN Old English wella, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wel and German Welle 'a wave'.

we'll ▶ contraction of we shall; we will.

well adjusted ▶ adjective successfully altered or moved so as to achieve a desired fit, appearance, or result: her eyes were well adjusted to the darkness.

■(of a person) mentally and emotionally stable.

well advised ▶ adjective [with infinitive] sensible; wise: you would be well advised to obtain legal advice.

Welland Canal /ˈwɛlənd/ (also Welland Ship Canal) a canal in southern Canada, 42 km (26 miles) long, linking Lake Erie with Lake Ontario, bypassing Niagara Falls and forming part of the St Lawrence Seaway.

well appointed ▶ adjective (of a building or room) having a high standard of equipment or furnishing.

well behaved ▶ adjective conducting oneself in an appropriate manner: the crowd was very well behaved.

■(of a computer program) communicating with hardware via standard operating system calls rather than directly and therefore able to be used on different machines.

well-being ▶ noun [mass noun] the state of being comfortable, healthy, or happy: an improvement in the patient's well-being.

well born ▶ adjective from a noble or wealthy family.

well bred ▶ adjective having or showing good breeding or manners.

well built ▶ adjective (of a person) large and strong.

■of strong, solid construction: the well-built and massively thick walls.

well conducted ▶ adjective properly organized or carried out: responsible, well-conducted businesses.

■archaic well behaved.

well connected ▶ adjective acquainted with or related to people with prestige or influence.

well covered ▶ adjective Brit. informal slightly plump.

well deck ▶ noun an open space on the main deck of a ship, lying at a lower level between the forecastle and poop.

well disposed ▶ adjective having a positive, sympathetic, or friendly attitude towards someone or something: the company is well disposed to the idea of partnership.

well done ▶ adjective 1 (of a task or undertaking) carried out successfully or satisfactorily: the decoration is very well done | [postpositive] the satisfaction of a job well done.

2 (of meat) thoroughly cooked.

▶ exclamation used to express congratulation or approval: Well done—you've worked very hard!

well dressed ▶ adjective wearing smart or fashionable clothes.

well dressing ▶ noun [mass noun] the decoration of wells with flowers at Whitsuntide, especially in Derbyshire, as an ancient custom originally associated with the belief in water deities.

well earned ▶ adjective fully merited or deserved: a well-earned rest.

well endowed ▶ adjective having plentiful supplies of a resource: the country is well endowed with mineral resources.

■well provided with money; wealthy. ■ informal, humorous (of a man) having large genitals. ■ informal, humorous (of a woman) large-breasted.

Welles /wɛlz/, (George) Orson (1915–85), American film director and actor. His realistic radio dramatization in 1938 of H. G. Wells's The War of the Worlds persuaded many listeners that a Martian invasion was really happening. Notable films: Citizen Kane (1941) and The Third Man (1949).

well favoured (US well favored) ▶ adjective having special advantages, especially good looks.

well fed ▶ adjective having good meals regularly.

well formed ▶ adjective correctly or attractively proportioned or shaped.

■(especially of a sentence or phrase) constructed according to grammatical rules. ■ conforming to the formation rules of a logical system.

well found ▶ adjective (chiefly of a boat) well equipped and maintained.

well founded ▶ adjective (especially of a suspicion or belief) based on good evidence or reasons: their apprehensions were well founded.

well groomed ▶ adjective (especially of a person) clean, tidy, and smart.

well grounded ▶ adjective based on good evidence or reasons.

■having a good training in or knowledge of a subject: boys who are well grounded in traditional academic subjects.

well head ▶ noun 1 the place where a spring comes out of the ground.

2 the structure over a well, typically an oil or gas well.

well heeled ▶ adjective informal wealthy.

well house ▶ noun a small building or room enclosing a well and its apparatus.

well hung ▶ adjective 1 informal (of a man) having large genitals.

2 (of meat or game) hung until sufficiently dry, tender, or high before cooking.

wellie ▶ noun variant spelling of WELLY.

well informed ▶ adjective having or showing much knowledge about a wide range of subjects, or about one particular subject.

Wellington[1] the capital of New Zealand, situated at the southern tip of North Island; pop. 150,300 (1991). It became the capital in 1865, when the seat of government was moved from Auckland.

Wellington[2], Arthur Wellesley, 1st Duke of (1769–1852), British soldier and Tory statesman, Prime Minister 1828–30 and 1834; known as the Iron Duke. He served as commander of the British forces in the Peninsular War (1808–14) and in 1815 defeated Napoleon at the Battle of Waterloo, so ending the Napoleonic Wars.

wellington (also wellington boot) ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a knee-length waterproof rubber or plastic boot.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: named after the 1st Duke of Wellington (see WELLINGTON[2]).

wellingtonia /ˌwɛlɪŋˈtəʊnɪə/ ▶ noun the giant redwood.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: modern Latin, from the former binomial Wellingtonia gigantea (from WELLINGTON[2]).

well intentioned ▶ adjective having or showing good intentions despite a lack of success or fortunate results: well-intentioned advice.

well judged ▶ adjective showing careful consideration or much skill.

well kept ▶ adjective (especially of property) kept clean, tidy, and in good condition.

■(of a secret) not told to anyone or made widely known.

well knit ▶ adjective (of a person) strongly and compactly built.

well known ▶ adjective known widely or thoroughly: a well-known television personality.

well made ▶ adjective strongly or skilfully constructed: a well-made film.

■(of a person) having a good, strong build.

well matched ▶ adjective (of two or more people or items) appropriate for or very similar to each other: a fiercely contested quarter-final between two well-matched sides.

well meaning (also well meant) ▶ adjective well intentioned: well-meaning friends.

well-nigh ▶ adverb chiefly poetic/literary almost: a task that is well-nigh impossible.

well off ▶ adjective wealthy: her family are quite well off.

■in a favourable situation or circumstances: they were well off without her.

well oiled ▶ adjective 1 [predic.] informal drunk.

2 (especially of an organization) operating smoothly: the ruling party's well-oiled political machine.

well pleased ▶ adjective highly gratified or satisfied: Moore paused, well pleased with the effect.

well preserved ▶ adjective (of something old) having remained in good condition.

■(of an old person) showing little sign of ageing.

well rounded ▶ adjective having a pleasing curved shape: the guitar has a well-rounded neck.

■(of a person) plump. ■(of a person) having a personality that is fully developed in all aspects. ■(of a phrase or sentence) carefully composed and balanced.

Wells, H. G. (1866–1946), English novelist; full name Herbert George Wells. He wrote some of the earliest science-fiction novels, such as The War of the Worlds (1898), which combined political satire with warnings about the powers of science.

well set ▶ adjective (of a construction) firmly established; solidly fixed or arranged.

■(also well-set-up) (of a person) strongly built.

Wells, Fargo, & Co. /ˈfɑːgəʊ/ a US transportation company founded in 1852 by the businessmen Henry Wells (1805–78) and William Fargo (1818–81) and others. It carried mail to and from the newly developed West, founded a San Francisco bank, and later ran a stagecoach service.

well spent ▶ adjective (of money or time) usefully or profitably expended: time spent in taking stock is time well spent.

well spoken ▶ adjective (of a person) speaking in an educated and refined manner.

wellspring ▶ noun poetic/literary term for WELL HEAD (in sense 1).

well tempered ▶ adjective (of a person or animal) having a cheerful or emotionally stable disposition.

■(of a process or activity) properly regulated, controlled, or moderated.

well thumbed ▶ adjective (of a book, magazine, etc.) having been read often and bearing marks of frequent handling.

well-to-do ▶ adjective wealthy; prosperous: a well-to-do family.

well travelled (US well traveled) ▶ adjective 1 (of a person) having travelled widely.

2 (of a route) much frequented by travellers.

well tried ▶ adjective having been used often and therefore known to be reliable: well-tried tactics.

well trodden ▶ adjective much frequented by travellers: a well-trodden path.

well turned ▶ adjective 1 (of a compliment, phrase, or verse) elegantly expressed.

2 (especially of an ankle or leg) having an elegant and attractive shape.

well upholstered ▶ adjective (of a chair or sofa) having plenty of padding.

■humorous (of a person) fat.

well used ▶ adjective much used: a well-used route.

■worn or shabby through much use, handling, or wear: a well-used wax jacket.

well-wisher ▶ noun a person who desires happiness or success for another, or who expresses such a desire.

well woman ▶ noun [as modifier] Brit. denoting a clinic or other establishment providing health advice and check-ups for problems specific to women. (Equivalent 'well man' clinics for men are relatively unusual.)

well worn ▶ adjective showing the signs of extensive use or wear: a well-worn leather armchair.
■(of a phrase, idea, or joke) used or repeated so often that it no longer has interest or significance.

well wrought ▶ adjective skilfully constructed or put together: a well-wrought argument.

welly (also wellie) ▶ noun (pl. -ies) Brit. informal 1 short for WELLINGTON.
2 [mass noun] power or vigour: I like big, fat voices with plenty of welly.

wels /wɛls, vɛls/ ▶ noun a large freshwater catfish that occurs from central Europe to central Asia. It has been known to reach a length of 5 m and a weight of over 300 kg. Also called SHEATFISH.
• Silurus glanis, family Siluridae.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from German Wels.

Welsbach /'wɛlzbak, German 'vɛlsbax/, Carl Auer von, see AUER.

Welsh ▶ adjective of or relating to Wales, its people, or their Celtic language.
▶ noun 1 [mass noun] the Celtic language of Wales, spoken by about 500,000 people (mainly bilingual in English). Descended from the Brythonic language spoken in most of Roman Britain, it has been strongly revived after a long decline.
2 [as plural noun the Welsh] the people of Wales collectively.
– DERIVATIVES Welshness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English Welisc, Wælisc, from a Germanic word meaning 'foreigner', from Latin Volcae, the name of a Celtic people.

welsh (also welch) ▶ verb [no obj.] (welsh on) fail to honour (a debt or obligation incurred through a promise or agreement): banks began welshing on their agreement not to convert dollar reserves into gold.
– DERIVATIVES welsher noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: of unknown origin.

Welsh Black ▶ noun an animal of a black-coated breed of cattle developed in North Wales, now generallykept for both meat and milk production.

Welsh corgi ▶ noun see CORGI.

Welsh dragon ▶ noun a red heraldic dragon as the emblem of Wales.

Welsh dresser ▶ noun a piece of wooden furniture with cupboards and drawers in the lower part and open shelves in the upper part.

Welsh harp ▶ noun another term for TRIPLE HARP. Compare with CELTIC HARP.

Welshman ▶ noun (pl. -men) a male native or national of Wales, or a man of Welsh descent.

Welsh mountain pony ▶ noun a small, strong, slender pony of a hardy breed, used as a riding pony or in harness.

Welsh mountain sheep ▶ noun a sheep of a small hardy breed developed in the uplands of Wales.

Welsh onion ▶ noun an Asian onion that forms clusters of slender bulbs which resemble salad (spring) onions. It is the onion most commonly used in SE Asia.
• Allium fistulosum, family Liliaceae (or Alliaceae).
– ORIGIN early 18th cent. (as Welch onion): Welsh from German welsch 'foreign'.

Welsh poppy ▶ noun a yellow- or orange-flowered European poppy of shady rocky places.
• Meconopsis cambrica, family Papaveraceae.

Welsh rarebit (also Welsh rabbit) ▶ noun another term for RAREBIT.

Welsh springer ▶ noun see SPRINGER (sense 1).

Welsh terrier ▶ noun a stocky, rough-coated, typically black-and-tan terrier of a breed with a square muzzle and drop ears.

Welshwoman ▶ noun (pl. -women) a female native or national of Wales, or a woman of Welsh descent.

welt ▶ noun 1 a leather rim sewn round the edge of a shoe upper to which the sole is attached.
■a ribbed, reinforced, or decorative border of a garment or pocket.
2 another term for WEAL[1].
■a heavy blow.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 provide with a welt.
2 strike (someone or something) hard and heavily: I could have welted her.
■[no obj.] develop a raised scar: his lip was beginning to thicken and welt from the blow.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: of unknown origin.

Weltanschauung /'vɛlt anʃaʊʊŋ, German 'vɛlt,anʃaʊʊŋ/ ▶ noun (pl. Weltanschauungen /-(ə)n/) a particular philosophy or view of life; the world view of an individual or group.
– ORIGIN German, from Welt 'world' + Anschauung 'perception'.

welter[1] ▶ verb [no obj.] poetic/literary move in a turbulent fashion: the streams foam and welter.
■lie steeped in blood with no help or care.
▶ noun 1 a large number of items in no order; a confused mass: there's such a welter of conflicting rules.
■a state of general disorder: the attack petered out in a welter of bloody, confused fighting.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'writhe, wallow'): from Middle Dutch, Middle Low German welteren.

welter[2] ▶ noun short for WELTERWEIGHT.

welterweight ▶ noun [mass noun] a weight in boxing and other sports intermediate between lightweight and middleweight. In the amateur boxing scale it ranges from 63.5–67 kg.
■[count noun] a boxer or other competitor of this weight.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: welter of unknown origin.

Weltschmerz /'vɛlt,ʃmɛ:ts, German 'vɛlt,ʃmɛrts/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a feeling of melancholy and world-weariness.
– ORIGIN German, from Welt 'world' + Schmerz 'pain'.

Welty /'wɛlti/, Eudora (b.1909), American novelist, short-story writer, and critic. Welty's novels chiefly focus on life in the South and contain Gothic elements; they include The Optimist's Daughter (1972), which won the Pulitzer Prize.

Wembley Stadium a sports stadium in Wembley, NW London. The FA Cup Final and the England football team's home matches are played there.

wen[1] ▶ noun a boil or other swelling or growth on the skin, especially a sebaceous cyst.
■archaic an outstandingly large or overcrowded city: the great wen of London.
– ORIGIN Old English wen(n), of unknown origin; compare with Low German wehne 'tumour, wart'.

wen[2] (also wyn) ▶ noun a runic letter, used in Old and Middle English, later replaced by w.
– ORIGIN Old English, literally 'joy'; so named because it is the first letter of this word. Compare with sense 3 of THORN and sense 2 of ASH[2].

Wenceslas /'wɛnsɪslas, 'wɛnsəslas/ (also Wenceslaus /-laʊs/) (1361–1419), king of Bohemia (as Wenceslas IV) 1378–1419. He became king of Germany, Holy Roman emperor, and King of Bohemia in the same year, but was deposed by the German Electors in 1400.

Wenceslas, St (also Wenceslaus) (c.907–29), Duke of Bohemia and patron saint of the Czech Republic; also known as Good King Wenceslas. He worked to Christianize the people of Bohemia but was murdered by his brother; he later became venerated as a martyr. Feast day, 28 September.

wench /wɛn(t)ʃ/ ▶ noun archaic or humorous a girl or young woman.
■archaic a prostitute.
▶ verb [no obj.] archaic (of a man) consort with prostitutes.
– DERIVATIVES wencher noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: abbreviation of obsolete wenchel 'child, servant, prostitute'; perhaps related to Old English wancol 'unsteady, inconstant'.

Wen-Chou /wɛn'tʃəʊ/ variant of WENZHOU.

Wend /wɛnd/ ▶ noun another term for SORB.
– ORIGIN from German Wende, of unknown origin.

wend ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial] (wend one's way) go in a specified direction, typically slowly or by an indirect route: they wended their way across the city.
– ORIGIN Old English wendan 'to turn, depart', of Germanic origin; related to Dutch and German wenden, also to WIND[2].

wendigo /'wɛndɪgəʊ/ ▶ noun variant spelling of WINDIGO.

Wendish /'wɛndɪʃ/ ▶ adjective & noun another term for SORBIAN.

Wendy house ▶ noun Brit. a toy house large enough for children to play in.
– ORIGIN named after the house built around Wendy in Barrie's play Peter Pan.

Wensleydale /'wɛnzlɪdeɪl/ ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] a type of white cheese with a crumbly texture.
2 a sheep of a breed with long wool.
– ORIGIN named after Wensleydale in Yorkshire.

went past of GO[1].

wentletrap /'wɛnt(ə)ltrap/ ▶ noun a marine mollusc which has a tall spiral shell with many whorls that are ringed with oblique ridges. Also called STAIRCASE SHELL.
• Family Epitoniidae, class Gastropoda: numerous species, including the European common wentletrap (Clathrus clathrus).
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from Dutch wenteltrap, literally 'winding stair'.

Wenzhou /wɛn'dʒəʊ/ (also Wen-Chou) an industrial city in Zhejiang province, eastern China; pop. 1,650,400 (1990).

wept past and past participle of WEEP.

were second person singular past, plural past, and past subjunctive of BE.

we're ▶ contraction of we are.

weren't ▶ contraction of were not.

werewolf /'wɛ:wʊlf, 'wɪə-, 'wə:-/ ▶ noun (pl. werewolves) (in myth or fiction) a person who changes for periods of time into a wolf, typically when there is a full moon.
– ORIGIN late Old English werewulf; the first element has usually been identified with Old English wer 'man'. In modern use the word has been revived through folklore studies.

werf /vɛrf/ ▶ noun (pl. werfs or werven) S. African a farm homestead and farmyard.
■(in traditional African society) a group of dwellings under the control of one headman. ■ the temporary settlement of a nomadic group.
– ORIGIN from archaic and dialect Dutch, literally 'raised ground on which a house is built'.

Werner[1] /'vɛ:nə, German 'vɛrnɐ/, Abraham Gottlob (1749–1817), German geologist. He was the chief exponent of the theory of Neptunism, eventually shown to be incorrect, and attempted to establish a universal stratigraphic sequence.

Werner[2] /'vɛ:nə, French vɛrnɛr/, Alfred (1866–1919), French-born Swiss chemist. He showed that stereochemistry was general to the whole of chemistry and was a pioneer in the study of coordination compounds. Nobel Prize for Chemistry (1913).

Werner's syndrome /'wə:nəz, 'vɛ:-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a rare hereditary syndrome causing rapid premature ageing, susceptibility to cancer, and other disorders.
– ORIGIN 1930s: named Carl O. Werner (1879–1936), German physician.

Wernicke's area /'wə:nɪkəz, 'vɛ:-/ ▶ noun Anatomy a region of the brain concerned with the comprehension of language, located in the cortex of the dominant temporal lobe. Damage in this area causes Wernicke's aphasia, characterized by superficially fluent, grammatical speech but an inability to use or understand more than the most basic nouns and verbs.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after Karl Wernicke (1848–1905), German neuropsychiatrist.

Wernicke's encephalopathy (also Wernicke's syndrome) ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a neurological disorder caused by thiamine deficiency, typically from chronic alcoholism or persistent vomiting, and marked by mental confusion, abnormal eye movements, and unsteady gait.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after K. Wernicke (see WERNICKE'S AREA).

wert /wə:t/ archaic second person singular past of BE.

Wesak /'vɛsak/ ▶ noun variant spelling of VESAK.

Weser /'veɪzə, German 've:zɐ/ a river of NW Germany, which is formed at the junction of the Werra and Fulda Rivers in Lower Saxony and flows 292 km (182 miles) northwards to the North Sea near Bremerhaven.

Wesker /'wɛskə/, Arnold (b.1932), English dramatist. His writing is associated with the British kitchen-sink drama of the 1950s. Notable plays: Roots (1959) and Chips with Everything (1962).

Wesley /'wɛzli/, John (1703–91), English preacher and co-founder of Methodism. Wesley was a committed Christian evangelist who won many working-class converts, often through open-air preaching. The opposition they encountered from the Church establishment led to the Methodists forming a separate denomination in 1791. His brother Charles (1707–88) was also a founding Methodist, and both wrote many hymns.

Wesleyan ▶ adjective of, relating to, or denoting the teachings of John Wesley or the main branch of the Methodist Church which he founded.
▶ noun a follower of Wesley or adherent of the main Methodist tradition.
– DERIVATIVES Wesleyanism noun.

Wessex the kingdom of the West Saxons, established in Hampshire in the early 6th century and gradually extended by conquest to include much of southern England. The name was revived in the 19th century by Thomas Hardy to designate the south-western counties of England (especially Dorset) in which his novels are set.

West[1], Benjamin (1738–1820), American painter, resident in Britain from 1763. He became historical painter to George III in 1769 and the second president of the Royal Academy in 1792. Notable works: The Death of General Wolfe (1771).

West[2], Mae (1892–1980), American actress and dramatist. She made her name on Broadway in her own comedies Sex (1926) and Diamond Lil (1928), memorable for their spirited approach to sexual matters, before embarking on her successful Hollywood career in the 1930s.

West[3], Dame Rebecca (1892–1983), Irish-born British writer and feminist; born Cicily Isabel Fairfield. She is best remembered for her study of the Nuremberg trials The Meaning of Treason (1949). Other notable works: The Fountain Overflows (novel, 1957).

west ▶ noun (usu. the west) 1 the direction towards the point of the horizon where the sun sets at the equinoxes, on the left-hand side of a person facing north, or the part of the horizon lying in this direction: the evening sun glowed from the west | a patrol aimed to create a diversion to the west of the city.
■the compass point corresponding to this.
2 the western part of the world or of a specified country, region, or town: it will become windy in the west.
■(usu. the West) Europe and its culture seen in contrast to other civilizations. ■(usu. the West) historical the non-Communist states of Europe and North America, contrasted with the former Communist states of eastern Europe. ■(usu. the West) the western part of the United States, especially the states west of the Mississippi.
3 [as name] (West) Bridge the player sitting to the right of North and partnering East.
▶ adjective 1 [attrib.] lying towards, near, or facing the west: the west coast.
■(of a wind) blowing from the west.
2 of or denoting the western part of a specified area, city, or country or its inhabitants: West Africa.
▶ adverb to or towards the west: he faced west and watched the sunset | the accident happened a mile west of Bowes.
– PHRASES go west Brit. informal be killed or lost; meet with disaster.
– ORIGIN Old English, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch and German west, from an Indo-European root shared by Greek hesperos, Latin vesper 'evening'.

West Africa the western part of the African continent, especially the countries bounded by and including Mauritania, Mali, and Niger in the north and Gabon in the south.

West Bank a region west of the River Jordan and north-west of the Dead Sea. It contains Jericho, Hebron, Nablus, Bethlehem, and other settlements. It became part of Jordan in 1948 and was occupied by Israel following the Six Day War of 1967. In 1993 an agreement was signed which granted limited autonomy to the Palestinians, who comprise 97 per cent of its inhabitants; withdrawal of Israeli troops began in 1994.

West Bengal a state in eastern India; capital, Calcutta. It was formed in 1947 from the predominantly Hindu area of former Bengal.

westbound ▶ adjective leading or travelling towards the west: I need a westbound train.

West Bromwich /ˈbrɒmɪtʃ/ an industrial town in the Midlands of England; pop. 154,530 (1981).

West Country the south-western counties of England.

West End the entertainment and shopping area of London to the west of the City.

westering ▶ adjective poetic/literary (especially of the sun) nearing the west.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from the literary verb wester, from WEST.

westerly ▶ adjective & adverb in a westward position or direction: [as adj.] the westerly end of Sunset Boulevard | [as adv.] our plan was to keep westerly.
■(of a wind) blowing from the west: [as adj.] a stiff westerly breeze.
▶ noun (often westerlies) a wind blowing from the west.
■(westerlies) the belt of prevailing westerly winds in medium latitudes in the southern hemisphere.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from obsolete wester 'western' + -LY[1].

western ▶ adjective 1 [attrib.] situated in the west, or directed towards or facing the west: there will be showers in some western areas.
■(of a wind) blowing from the west.
2 (usu. Western) living in or originating from the west, in particular Europe or the United States: Western society.
■of, relating to, or characteristic of the west or its inhabitants: the history of western art. ■ historical of or originating from the non-Communist states of Europe and North America in contrast to the Eastern bloc.
▶ noun a film, television drama, or novel about cowboys in western North America, especially in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.
– DERIVATIVES westernmost adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English westerne (see WEST, -ERN).

Western Australia a state comprising the western part of Australia; pop. 1,642,700 (1990); capital, Perth. It was colonized by the British in 1826, and was federated with the other states of Australia in 1901.

Western blot ▶ noun Biochemistry an adaptation of the Southern blot procedure, used to identify specific amino-acid sequences in proteins.
– ORIGIN suggested by SOUTHERN BLOT.

Western Cape a province of south-western South Africa, formerly part of Cape Province; capital, Cape Town.

Western Church the part of the Christian Church historically originating in the Latin Church of the Western Roman Empire, including the Roman Catholic Church and the Anglican, Lutheran, and Reformed Churches, especially as distinct from the Eastern Orthodox Church.

Western Empire the western part of the Roman Empire, after its division in AD 395.

westerner ▶ noun a native or inhabitant of the west, especially of western Europe or North America.

Western European Union (abbrev.: WEU) an association formed in 1955 from the former Western Union, with the addition of Italy and West Germany, chiefly in order to coordinate defence and promote economic cooperation.

Western Front the zone of fighting in western Europe in the First World War, in which the German army engaged the armies to its west, i.e. France, the UK (and its dominions), and, from 1917, the US. For most of the war the front line stretched from the Vosges mountains in eastern France through Amiens to Ostend in Belgium.

Western Ghats see GHATS.

Western hemisphere the half of the earth containing the Americas.

western hemlock ▶ noun a large coniferous North American tree with flattened needles of two different sizes, grown for pulp and as an ornamental.
• Tsuga heterophylla, family Pinaceae.

Western Isles another name for HEBRIDES.
■an administrative region of Scotland, consisting of the Outer Hebrides; administrative centre, Stornoway.

westernize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be westernized) cause (a country, person, or system) to adopt or be influenced by the cultural, economic, or political systems of Europe and North America: the agreement provided for the legal system to be westernized | [as adj. westernized] the more westernized parts of the city.
■[no obj.] be in the process of adopting or being influenced by the systems of the West: [as adj. westernizing] a westernizing tribe.
– DERIVATIVES westernization noun, westernizer noun.

Western Ocean former term for ATLANTIC OCEAN.

Western Roman Empire see ROMAN EMPIRE.

Western saddle ▶ noun a saddle with a deep seat, high pommel and cantle, and broad stirrups.

Western Sahara a region of NW Africa, on the Atlantic coast between Morocco and Mauritania; pop. 186,500 (est. 1989); capital, La'youn.

The region was formerly an overseas Spanish province, called Spanish Sahara. After the Spanish withdrew in 1976 it was renamed and annexed by Morocco and Mauritania. Mauritania withdrew in 1979 and Morocco extended its control over the entire region. A liberation movement, the Polisario Front, which had launched a guerrilla war against the Spanish in 1973, continued its struggle against Morocco in an attempt to establish an independent Saharawi Arab Democratic Republic; a ceasefire came into effect in 1991.

Western Samoa see SAMOA.

western sandwich ▶ noun N. Amer. a sandwich having an omelette filling containing onion, green pepper, and ham.

western swing ▶ noun [mass noun] a style of country music influenced by jazz, popular in the 1930s.

Western Union an association of West European nations (Belgium, France, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, and the UK) formed in 1948 with similar aims to, and later superseded by, the Western European Union.

Western Wall another name for WAILING WALL.

Western Zhou see ZHOU.

Westfalen /vɛstˈfaːlən/ German name for WESTPHALIA.

West Flanders a province of NW Belgium; capital, Bruges.

West Frisian Islands see FRISIAN ISLANDS.

West Germanic ▶ noun [mass noun] the western group of Germanic languages, comprising High and Low German, Dutch, Frisian, and English.
▶ adjective of or relating to West Germanic.

West Germany see GERMANY.

West Glamorgan a former county of South Wales, formed in 1974 and dissolved in 1996.

West Highland terrier /wɛst ˈhʌɪlənd ˈtɛrɪə/ ▶ noun a dog of a small, short-legged breed of terrier with a white coat and erect ears and tail, developed in the West Highlands.

Westie ▶ noun (pl. -ies) informal a West Highland terrier.

West Indian ▶ noun a native or national of any of the islands of the West Indies.
■a person of West Indian descent.
▶ adjective of or relating to the West Indies or its people.

West Indian satinwood ▶ noun see SATINWOOD.

West Indies a chain of islands extending from the Florida peninsula to the coast of Venezuela, lying between the Caribbean and the Atlantic.

They consist of three main island groups, the Greater and Lesser Antilles and the Bahamas, with Bermuda lying further to the north. Originally inhabited by Arawak and Carib Indians, the islands were visited by Columbus in 1492 and named by him in the belief that he had reached the coast of India.

westing ▶ noun [mass noun] distance travelled or measured westward, especially at sea.
■[count noun] a figure or line representing westward distance on a map.

Westinghouse, George (1846–1914), American engineer. His achievements covered several fields but he is best known for developing vacuum-operated safety brakes and electrically controlled signals for railways. He built up a huge company to manufacture his products.

West Irian another name for IRIAN JAYA.

Westmann Islands /ˈvɛstmən, ˈwɛst-/ a group of fifteen volcanic islands off the south coast of Iceland. Icelandic name VESTMANNAEYJAR.

Westmeath /wɛstˈmiːθ/ a county of the Republic of Ireland, in the province of Leinster; county town, Mullingar.

West Midlands a metropolitan county of central England.

Westminster an inner London borough which contains the Houses of Parliament and many government offices. Full name CITY OF WESTMINSTER.
■used in reference to the British Parliament: Westminster enforced successive cuts in pay.

Westminster, Palace of the building in Westminster in which the British Parliament meets; the Houses of Parliament. The present building, designed by Sir Charles Barry, was formally opened in 1852. The original palace, a royal residence until it was damaged by fire in 1512, was destroyed by a fire in 1834.

Westminster, Statute of a statute of 1931 recognizing the equality of status of the dominions as autonomous communities within the British Empire, and giving their legislatures independence from British control.

Westminster Abbey the collegiate church of St Peter in Westminster, originally the abbey church of a Benedictine monastery. Nearly all the kings and queens of England have been crowned in Westminster Abbey; it is also the burial place of many of England's monarchs and of some of the nation's leading figures.

Westminster Confession a Calvinist doctrinal statement which was issued by the synod appointed to reform the English and Scottish Churches in 1643, and became widely accepted among Presbyterian Churches.

Westmorland /ˈwɛstmələnd/ a former county of NW England. In 1974 it was united with Cumberland and northern parts of Lancashire to form the county of Cumbria.

west-north-west ▶ noun the direction or compass point midway between west and north-west.

Weston-super-Mare /ˌwɛstənˌsuːpəˈmɛː, -ˌsjuːpə-/ a resort in SW England, on the Bristol Channel; pop. 62,260 (1981).

Westphalia /wɛstˈfeɪlɪə/ a former province of NW Germany. Previously a duchy of the archbishop of Cologne, it became a province of Prussia in 1815. In 1946 the major part was incorporated in the state of North Rhine–Westphalia, the northern portion becoming part of Lower Saxony. German name WESTFALEN.
– DERIVATIVES Westphalian adjective & noun.

Westphalia, Treaty of the peace accord (1648) which ended the Thirty Years War, signed simultaneously in Osnabrück and Münster.

West Point (in full West Point Academy) the US Military Academy, founded in 1802, located on the site of a former strategic fort on the west bank of the Hudson River in New York State.

West Saxon ▶ noun 1 a native or inhabitant of the Anglo-Saxon kingdom of Wessex.
2 [mass noun] the dialect of Old English used by the West Saxons.
▶ adjective of or relating to the West Saxons or their dialect.

West Side the western part of any of several North American cities or boroughs, especially the island borough of Manhattan, New York.

west-south-west ▶ noun the direction or compass point midway between west and south-west.

West Sussex a county of SE England; county town, Chichester. It was formed in 1974 from part of the former county of Sussex.

West Virginia a state of the eastern US; pop. 1,793,480 (1990); capital, Charleston. It separated from Virginia during the American Civil War (1861) and became the 35th state of the US in 1863.
– DERIVATIVES West Virginian noun & adjective.

westward ▶ adjective towards the west: the journey covers eight time zones in a westward direction.
▶ adverb (also westwards) in a westerly direction: a track leads westwards through the glen.
▶ noun (the westward) a direction or region towards the west: he sees a light to the westward.
– DERIVATIVES westwardly adverb.

West Yorkshire a metropolitan county of northern England.

wet ▶ adjective (wetter, wettest) 1 covered or saturated with water or another liquid: she followed, slipping on the wet rock.
■(of the weather) rainy: a wet, windy evening. ■(of paint, ink, plaster, or a similar substance) not yet having dried or hardened. ■(of a baby or young child) having urinated in its nappy or underwear. ■involving the use of water or liquid: wet methods of photography. ■ Nautical (of a ship) liable to take in water over her bows or sides.
2 Brit. informal showing a lack of forcefulness or strength of character; feeble: they thought the cadets were a bit wet.
■Conservative with liberal tendencies, especially as regarded by right-wing Conservatives.
3 informal (of a country or region or of its legislation) allowing the free sale of alcoholic drink.
■(of a person) addicted to alcohol.
▶ verb (wetting; past and past participle wet or wetted) [with obj.] cover or touch with liquid; moisten: he wetted a finger and flicked through the pages | [as noun wetting] it was a velvet cap, and a wetting would ruin it.
■(especially of a baby or young child) urinate in or on: while dreaming the child wet the bed. ■(wet oneself) urinate involuntarily. ■ dialect infuse (tea) by pouring on boiling water.
▶ noun 1 [mass noun] liquid that makes something damp: I could feel the wet of his tears.
■(the wet) rainy weather: the race was held in the wet. ■ [count noun] Brit. informal a drink: I took a wet from my bottle.
2 Brit. informal a person lacking forcefulness or strength of character.
■a Conservative with liberal tendencies.
– PHRASES all wet N. Amer. completely wrong. wet the baby's head Brit. informal celebrate a baby's birth with a drink, typically an alcoholic one. wet behind the ears informal lacking experience; immature. wet through (or to the skin) with one's clothes soaked; completely drenched. wet one's whistle informal have a drink.
– DERIVATIVES wetly adverb, wetness noun, wettable adjective, wettish adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wǣt (adjective and noun), wǣtan (verb); related to WATER.

weta /ˈwɛtə/ ▶ noun a large brown wingless insect related to the grasshoppers, with long spiny legs and wood-boring larvae, found only in New Zealand.
• Family Stenopelmatidae: several genera, including Deinacrida (the giant wetas).
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Maori.

wetback ▶ noun US informal, derogatory a Mexican living in the US, especially one who is an illegal immigrant.
– ORIGIN 1920s: so named from the practice of swimming the Rio Grande to reach the US.

wet bar ▶ noun N. Amer. a bar or counter in the home for serving alcoholic drinks.

wet blanket ▶ noun informal a person who spoils other people's fun by failing to join in with or by disapproving of their activities.

wet bulb ▶ noun one of the two thermometers of a psychrometer, the bulb of which is enclosed in wetted material so that water is constantly evaporating from it and cooling the bulb.

wet cell ▶ noun a primary electric cell in which the electrolyte is a liquid.

wet dock ▶ noun a dock in which water is maintained at a level at which a ship is able to float.

wet dream ▶ noun an erotic dream that causes involuntary ejaculation of semen.

wet fish ▶ noun [mass noun] fresh fish, as opposed to fish which has been frozen, cooked, or dried.

wet fly ▶ noun an artificial fishing fly designed to sink below the surface of the water.

wether /ˈwɛðə/ ▶ noun a castrated ram.
– ORIGIN Old English, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch weer and German Widder.

wetland ▶ noun [mass noun] (also wetlands) land consisting of marshes or swamps; saturated land.

wet lease ▶ noun an arrangement covering the hire of an aircraft including the provision of a flight crew and sometimes fuel.
▶ verb (wet-lease) [with obj.] hire (an aircraft) using such an arrangement.

wet look ▶ noun [in sing.] an artificially wet or shiny appearance, in particular one possessed by a clothing fabric or achieved by applying a type of gel to the hair.
▶ adjective (wet-look) having or giving a shiny or wet appearance: her hair was spiky with wet-look gel.

wet nurse ▶ noun chiefly historical a woman employed to suckle another woman's child.
▶ verb (wet-nurse) [with obj.] act as a wet nurse to.
■informal look after (someone) as though they were a helpless infant.

wet pack ▶ noun 1 a session of hydrotherapy in which the body is wrapped in wet cloth.
2 a washbag.

wet plate ▶ noun Photography a sensitized collodion plate exposed in the camera while the collodion is moist.

wet rot ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 a brown fungal rot affecting timber with a high moisture content.
2 (also wet rot fungus) the fungus that causes this.
• Coniophora puteana, family Coniophoraceae, class Hymenomycetes, and other species.

wetsuit ▶ noun a close-fitting rubber garment typically covering the entire body, worn for warmth in water sports or diving.

wetting agent ▶ noun a chemical that can be added to a liquid to reduce its surface tension and make it more effective in spreading over and penetrating surfaces.

wetware ▶ noun [mass noun] human brain cells or thought processes regarded as analogous to, or in contrast with, computer systems.
■(chiefly in science fiction) computer technology in which the brain is linked to artificial systems, or used as a model for artificial systems based on biochemical processes.

WEU ▶ abbreviation for Western European Union.

we've ▶ contraction of we have.

Wexford /ˈwɛksfəd/ a county of the Republic of Ireland, in the south-east in the province of Leinster.
■its county town, a port on the Irish Sea; pop. 9,540 (1991).

wey /weɪ/ ▶ noun a former unit of weight or volume varying with different kinds of goods, e.g. 3 cwt. of cheese.
– ORIGIN Old English wǣg(e), wēg(e) 'balance, weight', of Germanic origin; related to WEIGH[1].

Weyden /ˈveɪd(ə)n/, Rogier van der (*c.*1400–64), Flemish painter; French name Rogier de la Pasture. He was particularly influential in the development of Dutch portrait painting. Notable works: The Last Judgement and The Deposition in the Tomb (both *c.*1450).

Weymouth[1] /ˈweɪməθ/ a resort and port on the coast of Dorset, southern England; pop. 38,400 (1981).

Weymouth[2] /ˈweɪməθ/ ▶ noun (also Weymouth bit) a simple curb bit, used especially in a double bridle.
■(also Weymouth bridle) a double bridle in which the curb bit is a Weymouth bit.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: of unknown origin.

w.f. Printing ▶ abbreviation for wrong fount (used as a proof-reading mark).

WFTU ▶ abbreviation for World Federation of Trade Unions.

Wg Cdr ▶ abbreviation for Wing Commander.

whack informal ▶ verb [with obj.] strike forcefully with a sharp blow: his attacker whacked him on the head | [no obj.] she found a stick to whack at the branches.
■defeat in a contest: [with obj. and complement] the team were whacked six-nil. ■[with obj. and adverbial] put or push (something) roughly or carelessly in a specified place or direction: he whacks a tape into the cassette recorder. ■ US murder: he was whacked while sitting in his car.
▶ noun 1 a sharp or resounding blow.
2 a try or attempt: we decided to take a whack at spotting the decade's trends.
3 Brit. a specified share of or contribution to something: motorists pay a fair whack for the use of the roads through taxes.
– PHRASES out of whack chiefly N. Amer. & Austral. out of order; not working: all their calculations were out of whack. top (or full) whack chiefly Brit. the maximum price or rate: the car has a top whack of 107 mph.
– DERIVATIVES whacker noun.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: imitative, or perhaps an alteration of THWACK.
▶ whack off vulgar slang masturbate.

whacked (also whacked out) ▶ adjective informal, chiefly Brit. completely exhausted: I'm not staying long—I'm whacked.
■ chiefly US under the influence of drugs: a sixteen-year-old whacked out on acid.

whacking Brit. informal ▶ adjective [attrib.] very large: she poured us two whacking drinks | [as submodifier] he dug a whacking great hole.

whacko[1] ▶ exclamation Brit. informal, dated used to express delight and enthusiasm: Home Friday. Whacko!
– ORIGIN 1940s: from the noun WHACK + -O. whacko[2] ▶ adjective & noun (pl. -os) variant spelling of WACKO.

whacky ▶ adjective variant spelling of WACKY.

whale[1] ▶ noun (pl. same or whales) a very large marine mammal with a streamlined hairless body, a horizontal tail fin, and a blowhole on top of the head for breathing.
● Order Cetacea. See BALEEN WHALE and TOOTHED WHALE.
– PHRASES a whale of a —— informal an exceedingly good example of a particular thing: you've been doing a whale of a job. have a whale of a time enjoy oneself very much.
– ORIGIN Old English hwæl, of Germanic origin.

whale[2] ▶ verb [with obj.] informal, chiefly US beat; hit: Dad came upstairs and whaled me | [no obj.] they whaled at the water with their paddles.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: variant of WALE.

whaleback ▶ noun a thing that is shaped like a whale's back, especially an arched structure over the bow or stern part of the deck of a steamer, or a large elongated hill: [as modifier] a whaleback ridge.

whalebird ▶ noun a prion (so called because often found in the vicinity of whales or whaling vessels).

whaleboat ▶ noun a long rowing boat with a bow at either end for easy manoeuvrability, formerly used in whaling.

whalebone ▶ noun [mass noun] an elastic horny substance which grows in a series of thin parallel plates in the upper jaw of some whales and is used by them to strain plankton from the seawater. Also called BALEEN.
■ strips of this substance, much used formerly as stays in corsets and dresses: [as modifier] a whalebone bodice.
■ bone or ivory from a whale or walrus.

whalebone whale ▶ noun another term for BALEEN WHALE.

whale-headed stork ▶ noun an African stork with grey plumage and a very large bill shaped like a clog. Also called SHOEBILL.
● Balaeniceps rex, the only member of the family Balaenicipitidae.

whale oil ▶ noun [mass noun] oil obtained from the blubber of a whale, formerly used in oil lamps or for making soap.

whaler ▶ noun 1 a whaling ship.
■ a seaman engaged in whaling.
2 any of a number of large slender-bodied sharks:
● a shark that typically occurs inshore and is sometimes found in rivers (genus Carcharhinus, family Carcharhinidae), including the Australian C. brachyurus. ● another term for BLUE SHARK.
3 Austral. informal a tramp, especially one who follows the course of a river.

whale shark ▶ noun a very large tropical shark which typically swims close to the surface, where it feeds chiefly on plankton. It is the largest known fish.
● Rhincodon typus, the sole member of the family Rhincodontidae.

whaling ▶ noun [mass noun] the practice or industry of hunting and killing whales for their oil, meat, or whalebone.

wham informal ▶ exclamation used to express the sound of a forcible impact: the bombs landed—wham!—right on target.
■ used to express the idea of a sudden, dramatic, and decisive occurrence: he asked me out for a drink, and—wham!—that was it.
▶ verb (whammed, whamming) [no obj., with adverbial] strike something forcefully: trucks whammed into each other.
■ make a loud sound as of a forceful impact: my heart was whamming away like a drum.
– ORIGIN 1920s: imitative.

wham-bam informal ▶ adjective characterized by quick or violent action: Hollywood wanted a wham-bam end to the plot.
▶ exclamation used to express the idea of a sudden or dramatic occurrence or change of events: Wham-bam!—we were sitting in a wreck at the foot of the cliff.
– PHRASES wham-bam-thank-you-ma'am used in reference to sexual activity conducted roughly and quickly, without tenderness.
– ORIGIN 1950s (as wham-bang): from WHAM + BAM or the verb BANG[1].

whammo ▶ exclamation another word for WHAM.

whammy ▶ noun (pl. -ies) informal an event with a powerful and unpleasant effect; a blow: the third whammy was the degradation of the financial system. See also DOUBLE WHAMMY.
■ chiefly US an evil or unlucky influence: I've come to put the whammy on them.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from the noun WHAM + -Y[1]; associated from the 1950s with the cartoon strip Li'l Abner, in which the hillbilly Evil-Eye Fleegle could 'shoot a whammy' (to put a curse on somebody) by pointing a finger with one eye open, and a 'double whammy' with both eyes open.

whanau /ˈwɑːnaʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. same) NZ an extended family or community of related families who live together in the same area.
– ORIGIN Maori.

whang informal ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial] make or produce a resonant noise: the cheerleader whanged on a tambourine.
■ [no obj.] drive at speed: we whanged round the bend.
■ [with obj.] strike or throw heavily and loudly: he whanged down the receiver.
▶ noun a noisy blow: he gave a whang with his hammer.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent. (in the sense 'strike as if with a thong'): variant of THONG; senses describing noise are imitative.

Whangarei /ˌwaŋgəˈreɪ/ a port on the NE coast of North Island, New Zealand; pop. 44,180 (1991).

whap ▶ verb (whapped, whapping) & noun chiefly US variant spelling of WHOP.

whare /ˈwɒri/ ▶ noun a Maori hut or house.
– ORIGIN Maori.

wharf /wɔːf/ ▶ noun (pl. wharves or wharfs) a level quayside area to which a ship may be moored to load and unload.
– ORIGIN late Old English hwearf, of Germanic origin.

wharfage ▶ noun [mass noun] accommodation provided at a wharf for the loading, unloading, or storage of goods.
■ payment made for such accommodation.

wharfie ▶ noun Austral./NZ informal a person who works at a wharf; a waterside worker or labourer.

wharfinger /ˈwɔːfɪn(d)ʒə/ ▶ noun an owner or keeper of a wharf.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from WHARFAGE + -ER[1].

Wharton /ˈwɔːt(ə)n/, Edith (Newbold) (1862–1937), American novelist and short-story writer, resident in France from 1907. Her novels are concerned with the conflict between social and individual fulfilment. They include The Age of Innocence (1920), which won a Pulitzer Prize.

wharves plural form of WHARF.

what ▶ pronoun 1 [interrogative pronoun] asking for information specifying something: what is your name? | I'm not sure what you mean.
■ asking for repetition of something not heard or confirmation of something not understood: what? I can't hear you | you did what?
2 [relative pronoun] the thing or things that (used in specifying something): what we need is a commitment.
■ (referring to the whole of an amount) whatever: I want to do what I can to make a difference.
3 (in exclamations) emphasizing something surprising or remarkable: what some people do for a crust!
▶ determiner 1 [interrogative determiner] asking for information specifying something: what time is it? | do you know what excuse he gave me?
2 [relative determiner] (referring to the whole of an amount) whatever: he had been robbed of what little money he had.
3 (in exclamations) how great or remarkable: [as determiner] what luck! | [as predeterminer] what a fool she was.
▶ interrogative adverb 1 to what extent?: what does it matter?
2 used to indicate an estimate or approximation: see you, what, about four?
3 informal, dated used for emphasis or to invite agreement: pretty poor show, what?
– PHRASES and (or or) what have you informal and/or anything else similar: for a binder try soup, gravy, cream, or what have you. and what not informal and other similar things. give someone what for see GIVE. what about ——? 1 used when asking for information or an opinion on something: what about the practical angle? 2 used to make a suggestion: what about a walk? what-d'you-call-it (or what's-its name) informal used as a substitute for a name not recalled. what for? informal for what reason? what if ——? 1 what would result if —?: what if nobody shows up? 2 what does it matter if —?: what if our house is a mess? I'm clean. what is more and as an additional point; moreover. what next see NEXT. what of ——? what is the news concerning —? what of it? why should that be considered significant? what's-his (or -its) -name another term for what-d'you-call-it. what say —— ? used to make a suggestion: what say we call a tea break? what's what informal what is useful or important: I'll teach her what's what. what with because of (used typically to introduce several causes of something): what with the drought and the neglect, the garden is in a sad condition.
– ORIGIN Old English hwæt, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wat and German was, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin quod.

whatchamacallit /ˈwɒtʃəməˌkɔːlɪt/ ▶ noun another word for WHATSIT.

whate'er /wɒtˈɛː/ poetic/literary ▶ contraction of whatever.

whatever ▶ relative pronoun & determiner used to emphasize a lack of restriction in referring to any thing or amount, no matter what: [as pronoun] do whatever you like | [as determiner] take whatever action is needed.
■ regardless of what: [as pronoun] you have our support, whatever you decide | [as determiner] whatever decision he made I would support it.
▶ interrogative pronoun used for emphasis instead of 'what' in questions, typically expressing surprise or confusion: whatever is the matter?
▶ adverb 1 [with negative] at all; of any kind (used for emphasis): they received no help whatever.
2 informal no matter what happens: we told him we'd back him whatever.
– PHRASES or whatever informal or anything similar: use chopped herbs, nuts, garlic, or whatever. whatever next see NEXT.

USAGE In the emphatic use (whatever was she thinking of?) whatever is also written as two words. See usage at HOWEVER.

whatnot ▶ noun 1 informal used to refer to an item or items that are not identified but are felt to have something in common with items already named: little flashing digital displays, electric zooms and whatnots | [mass noun] pictures and books and manuscripts and whatnot.
2 a stand with shelves for small objects.

whatsit ▶ noun informal a person or thing whose name one cannot recall, does not know, or does not wish to specify: 'Let's say two o'clock on the whatsit of May?' | he's a right old interfering whatsit.

whatso ▶ pronoun & determiner archaic whatever: [as pronoun] whatso goes into their brain comes out as prose.
– ORIGIN Middle English: reduced form of Old English swā hwæt swā 'so what so'.

whatsoe'er /ˌwɒtsəʊˈɛː/ poetic/literary ▶ contraction of whatsoever.

whatsoever ▶ adverb [with negative] at all (used for emphasis): I have no doubt whatsoever.
▶ determiner & pronoun archaic whatever.

what-you-see-is-what-you-get ▶ adjective see WYSIWYG.

whaup /(h)wɔːp/ ▶ noun chiefly Scottish another term for CURLEW.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: imitative of its cry.

wheal ▶ noun variant spelling of WEAL[1].

wheat ▶ noun [mass noun] a cereal which is the most important kind grown in temperate countries, the grain of which is ground to make flour for bread, pasta, pastry, etc.
● Genus Triticum, family Gramineae: several species, including bread wheat (T. aestivum) and durum wheat, and many distinctive cultivars.
■ the grain of this plant.
– PHRASES separate the wheat from the chaff see CHAFF[1].
– ORIGIN Old English hwæte of Germanic origin; related to Dutch weit, German Weizen, also to WHITE.

wheat belt ▶ noun (the wheat belt) a region where wheat is the chief agricultural product.

wheat bunt ▶ noun see BUNT[2].

wheatear ▶ noun a mainly Eurasian and African songbird related to the chats, with black and buff or black and white plumage and a white rump.
• Genus Oenanthe, family Turdidae: several species, in particular the grey-backed (northern) wheatear (O. oenanthe) of Eurasia and NE Canada.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: apparently from WHITE (assimilated to WHEAT) + ARSE (assimilated to EAR[2]).

wheaten ▶ adjective (especially of bread) made of wheat.
■of a colour resembling that of wheat; a pale yellow-beige.

wheaten terrier ▶ noun a terrier of a breed with a pale golden soft wavy coat.

wheatgerm ▶ noun [mass noun] a nutritious foodstuff of a dry floury consistency consisting of the extracted embryos of grains of wheat.

wheatgrass ▶ noun another term for COUCH[2].

wheatmeal ▶ noun [mass noun] flour made from wheat from which some of the bran and germ has been removed.

Wheatstone /'wi:tstən/, Sir Charles (1802–75), English physicist and inventor. He is best known for his electrical inventions which included an electric clock, the Wheatstone bridge, the rheostat, and with Sir W. F. Cooke, the electric telegraph.

Wheatstone bridge ▶ noun a simple circuit for measuring an unknown resistance by connecting it so as to form a quadrilateral with three known resistances and applying a voltage between a pair of opposite corners.

whee ▶ exclamation used to express delight, excitement, or exhilaration: as the car began to bump down the track he felt a lightening of his spirits—whee!
– ORIGIN natural exclamation: first recorded in English in the 1920s.

wheech /hwi:x, hwi:k/ ▶ verb [with obj.] Scottish snatch or remove (something) quickly: I wheeched the duvet off Gavin's bed.
■[no obj., with adverbial of direction] rush; dash.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: symbolic.

wheedle ▶ verb [no obj.] employ endearments or flattery to persuade someone to do something or give one something: you can contrive to wheedle your way on to a playing field | [with direct speech] 'Please, for my sake,' he wheedled.
■[with obj.] (wheedle someone into doing something) coax or persuade someone to do something. ■ [with obj.] (wheedle something out of) coax or persuade (someone) to say or give something.
– DERIVATIVES wheedler noun, wheedlingly adverb.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: perhaps from German wedeln 'cringe, fawn', from Wedel 'tail, fan'.

wheel ▶ noun 1 a circular object that revolves on an axle and is fixed below a vehicle or other object to enable it to move over the ground.
■a circular object that revolves on an axle and forms part of a machine. ■ (the wheel) used in reference to the cycle of a specified condition or set of events: the final release from the wheel of life. ■ (the wheel) historical a large wheel used as an instrument of punishment or torture, especially by binding someone to it and breaking their limbs: a man sentenced to be broken on the wheel.
2 a machine or structure having a wheel as its essential part.
■(the wheel) a steering wheel (used in reference to driving or steering a vehicle or vessel): his crew know when he wants to take the wheel. ■ a device with a revolving disc or drum used in various games of chance. ■ a system, or a part of a system, regarded as a relentlessly moving machine: the wheels of justice.
3 (wheels) informal a car: she's got wheels now.
4 a thing resembling a wheel in form or function, in particular a cheese made in the form of a shallow disc.
5 an instance of wheeling; a turn or rotation.
6 US informal short for BIG WHEEL (in sense 2).
7 a set of short lines, typically five in number and rhyming, concluding the stanza of a poem.
▶ verb 1 [with obj.] push or pull (a vehicle with wheels): the tea trolley was wheeled out.
■[with obj. and adverbial of direction] carry (someone or something) in or on a vehicle with wheels: a young woman is wheeled into the operating theatre. ■ (wheel something in/on/out) informal produce something that is unimpressive because it has been frequently seen or heard before: the old journalistic arguments have been wheeled out.
2 [no obj.] (of a bird or aircraft) fly in a wide circle or curve: the birds wheeled and dived.
■turn round quickly so as to face another way: Robert wheeled round to see the face of Mr Mafouz. ■ turn or seem to turn on an axis or pivot: the stars wheeled through the sky.
– PHRASES on someone's wheel close behind someone when they are driving or cycling. on wheels 1 by, or travelling by, car or bicycle: a journey on wheels. ■ (of a service) brought to one's home or district; mobile. ■ Brit. informal smoothly: the business ran on wheels. 2 Brit. informal used to emphasize one's distaste or dislike of the person or thing mentioned: she was a bitch on wheels. silly as a wheel Austral. very silly. wheel and deal engage in commercial or political scheming, especially unscrupulously: [as noun wheeling and dealing] the wheeling and dealing of the Wall Street boom years. the wheel of Fortune the wheel which the deity Fortune is fabled to turn as a symbol of random luck or change. wheels within wheels used to indicate that a situation is complicated and affected by secret or indirect influences.
– DERIVATIVES wheeled adjective [in combination] a four-wheeled cart, wheelless adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English hwēol (noun), of Germanic origin, from an Indo-European root shared by Sanskrit cakra 'wheel, circle' and Greek kuklos 'circle'.

wheel and axle ▶ noun a simple lifting machine consisting of a rope which unwinds from a wheel on to a cylindrical drum or shaft joined to the wheel to provide mechanical advantage.

wheel arch ▶ noun an arch-shaped cavity in the body of a vehicle, which houses a wheel.

wheelback ▶ adjective (of a chair) with a back incorporating the design of a wheel.

wheelbarrow ▶ noun a small cart with a single wheel at the front and two supporting legs and two handles at the rear, used typically for carrying loads in building work or gardening.

wheelbase ▶ noun the distance between the front and rear axles of a vehicle: [in combination] a short-wheelbase model.

wheel brace ▶ noun 1 a tool for screwing and unscrewing nuts on the wheel of a vehicle.
2 a hand drill worked by turning a wheel.

wheelchair ▶ noun a chair built on wheels for an invalid or disabled person, either pushed by another person or propelled by the occupant.

wheel clamp ▶ noun a device for immobilizing an illegally parked car.
▶ verb (wheel-clamp) [with obj.] clamp (an illegally parked car) with such a device.

wheel dog ▶ noun the dog harnessed nearest to the sleigh in a dog team.

Wheeler, John Archibald (b.1911), American theoretical physicist. Wheeler worked with Niels Bohr on nuclear fission, and collaborated with Richard Feynman on problems concerning the retarded effects of action at a distance.

wheeler ▶ noun 1 [in combination] a vehicle having a specified number of wheels: a huge sixteen-wheeler truck.
2 a wheelwright.
3 a horse harnessed next to the wheels of a cart and behind a leading horse.

wheeler-dealer (also wheeler and dealer) ▶ noun a person who engages in commercial or political scheming.
– DERIVATIVES wheeler-dealing noun.

wheel horse ▶ noun a horse harnessed nearest the wheels of a vehicle.
■figurative, chiefly US a responsible and hard-working person, especially an experienced and conscientious member of a political party.

wheelhouse ▶ noun 1 a part of a boat or ship serving as a shelter for the person at the wheel.
2 Archaeology a stone-built circular house with inner partition walls radiating like the spokes of a wheel, found in western and northern Scotland and dating chiefly from about 100 BC to AD 100.

wheelie ▶ noun informal a trick or manoeuvre whereby a bicycle or motorcycle is ridden for a short distance with the front wheel raised off the ground.

wheelie bin (also wheely bin) ▶ noun Brit. informal a large refuse bin set on wheels.

wheel lock ▶ noun historical a kind of gunlock having a steel wheel that rubbed against a flint.
■a gun having such a gunlock.

wheelman ▶ noun (pl. -men) chiefly N. Amer. a person who drives a car or takes the wheel of a boat.
■a cyclist.

wheel set ▶ noun a pair of wheels attached to an axle.

wheelsman ▶ noun (pl. -men) N. Amer. a person who steers a ship or boat.

wheelspin ▶ noun [mass noun] rotation of a vehicle's wheels without traction.

wheel well ▶ noun a recess in a vehicle in which a wheel is located.

wheelwright ▶ noun chiefly historical a person who makes or repairs wooden wheels.

wheely bin ▶ noun variant spelling of WHEELIE BIN.

wheen /wi:n/ ▶ noun [in sing.] chiefly Scottish a considerable amount or number: a wheen of pennies.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old English hwēne 'in some degree'.

wheesht /wi:ʃt/ ▶ exclamation variant of WHISHT.

wheeze ▶ verb [no obj.] (of a person) breathe with a whistling or rattling sound in the chest, as a result of obstruction in the air passages: the illness often leaves her wheezing.
■[with obj.] utter with such a sound: he could barely wheeze out his pleas for a handout | [with direct speech] 'Don't worry son,' he wheezed. ■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] walk or move slowly with such a sound: she wheezed up the hill towards them. ■ (of a device) make an irregular rattling or spluttering sound: the engine coughed, wheezed, and shrieked into life.
▶ noun [usu. in sing.] 1 a sound of or as of a person wheezing: I talk with a wheeze.
2 Brit. informal a clever or amusing scheme, idea, or trick: a new wheeze to help farmers.
– DERIVATIVES wheezer noun, wheezingly adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: probably from Old Norse hvæsa 'to hiss'.

wheezy ▶ adjective making the sound of a person wheezing: a wheezy laugh.
– DERIVATIVES wheezily adverb, wheeziness noun.

whelk[1] ▶ noun a predatory marine mollusc with a heavy pointed spiral shell, some kinds of which are edible.
• Family Buccinidae, class Gastropoda: Buccinum and other genera.
– ORIGIN Old English wioloc, weoloc, of unknown origin; the spelling with wh- was perhaps influenced by WHELK[2].

whelk[2] ▶ noun archaic a pimple.
– ORIGIN Old English hwylca, related to hwelian 'suppurate'.

whelm /wɛlm/ archaic or poetic/literary ▶ verb [with obj.] engulf, submerge, or bury (someone or something): a swimmer whelmed in a raging storm.
■[no obj., with adverbial of direction] flow or heap up abundantly: the brook whelmed up from its source.
▶ noun an act or instance of flowing or heaping up abundantly; a surge: the whelm of the tide.
– ORIGIN Middle English: representing an Old English form parallel to hwelfan 'overturn (a vessel)'.

whelp ▶ noun chiefly archaic a puppy.
■a cub. ■ a boy or young man (often as a disparaging form of address). ■ (whelps) a set of projections on the barrel of a capstan or windlass.
▶ verb [with obj.] (of a female dog) give birth to (a puppy): Copper whelped seven puppies | [no obj.] a bitch due to whelp.
– PHRASES in whelp (of a female dog) pregnant.
– ORIGIN Old English hwelp (noun), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch welp and German Welf.

when ▶ interrogative adverb at what time: when did you last see him? | [with prep.] since when have you been interested?
■how soon: when can I see you? ■ in what circumstances: when would such a rule be justifiable?
▶ relative adverb at or on which (referring to a time or circumstance): Saturday is the day when I get my hair done.
▶ conjunction 1 at or during the time that: I loved maths when I was at school.

■after: call me when you've finished. ■ at any time that; whenever: can you spare five minutes when it's convenient?

2 after which; and just then (implying suddenness): he had just drifted off to sleep when the phone rang.

3 in view of the fact that; considering that: why bother to paint it when you can photograph it with the same effect?

4 although; whereas: I'm saying it now when I should have told you long ago.

– ORIGIN Old English hwanne, hwenne; of Germanic origin; related to German wenn 'if', wann 'when'.

whence (also from whence) formal or archaic ▶ interrogative adverb from what place or source: whence does Parliament derive this power?

▶ relative adverb from which; from where: the Ural mountains, whence the ore is procured.

■to the place from which: he will be sent back whence he came. ■ as a consequence of which: whence it followed that the strategies were obsolete.

– ORIGIN Middle English whennes, from earlier whenne (from Old English hwanon, of Germanic origin) + -s[3] (later respelled -ce to denote the unvoiced sound).

USAGE Strictly speaking, whence means 'from what place', as in whence did you come? Thus, the preposition from in from whence did you come? is redundant and its use is considered incorrect by some. The use with from is very common, though (occurring in more than 20 per cent of citations for whence in the British National Corpus), and has been used by reputable writers since the 14th century. It is now broadly accepted in standard English.

whencesoever ▶ relative adverb formal or archaic from whatever place or source.

whene'er /wɛn'ɛ:/ poetic/literary ▶ contraction of whenever.

whenever ▶ conjunction at whatever time; on whatever occasion (emphasizing a lack of restriction): you can ask for help whenever you need it.

■every time that: the springs in the armchair creak whenever I change position.

▶ interrogative adverb used for emphasis instead of 'when' in questions, typically expressing surprise or confusion: whenever shall we get there?

– PHRASES or whenever informal or at any time: if you lay eyes on him, either tonight or tomorrow or whenever, call me straight away.

when-issued ▶ adjective Finance, chiefly US of or relating to trading in securities which have not yet been issued.

whensoe'er /ˌwɛnsəʊ'ɛ:/ poetic/literary ▶ contraction of whensoever.

whensoever ▶ conjunction & adverb formal word for WHENEVER.

whenua /'fɛnu:ə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] NZ land.

– ORIGIN Maori.

where ▶ interrogative adverb in or to what place or position: where do you live? | [with prep.] I wonder where they will take us to.

■in what direction or respect: where does the argument lead? ■ in or from what source: where did you read that? ■ in or to what situation or condition: just where is all this leading us?

▶ relative adverb 1 at, in, or to which (used after reference to a place or situation): I first saw him in Paris, where I lived in the early sixties.

2 the place or situation in which: this is where I live.

■in or to a place or situation in which: sit where I can see you | where people were concerned, his threshold of boredom was low. ■ in or to any place in which; wherever: he was free to go where he liked.

– ORIGIN Old English hwær, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch waar and German wo.

whereabouts ▶ interrogative adverb where or approximately where: whereabouts do you come from?

▶ noun [treated as sing. or pl.] the place where someone or something is: his whereabouts remain secret.

whereafter ▶ relative adverb formal after which: dinner was taken at a long wooden table, whereafter we sipped liqueurs in front of a roaring fire.

whereas ▶ conjunction in contrast or comparison with the fact that: you treat the matter lightly, whereas I myself was never more serious.

■(especially in legal preambles) taking into consideration the fact that.

whereat ▶ relative adverb & conjunction archaic or formal at which: they demanded an equal share in the high command, whereat negotiations broke down.

whereby ▶ relative adverb by which: a system whereby people could vote by telephone.

where'er /wɛ:r'ɛ:/ poetic/literary ▶ contraction of wherever.

wherefore archaic ▶ interrogative adverb for what reason: she took an ill turn, but wherefore I cannot say.

▶ relative adverb & conjunction as a result of which: [as conjunction] truly he cared for me, wherefore I title him with all respect.

– PHRASES whys and wherefores see WHY.

wherefrom ▶ relative adverb archaic from which or from where: one day you may lose this pride of place wherefrom you now dominate.

wherein formal ▶ adverb 1 [relative adverb] in which: the situation wherein the information will eventually be used.

2 [interrogative adverb] in what place or respect?: so wherein lies the difference?

whereof /wɛ:r'ɒv/ ▶ relative adverb formal of what or which: I know whereof I speak.

whereon ▶ relative adverb archaic on which: the cliff side whereon I walked.

wheresoe'er /ˌwɛ:səʊ'ɛ:/ poetic/literary ▶ contraction of wheresoever.

wheresoever ▶ adverb & conjunction formal word for WHEREVER.

whereto /wɛ:'tu:/ ▶ relative adverb archaic or formal to which: young ambition's ladder, whereto the climber-upward turns his face.

whereupon ▶ conjunction immediately after which: he qualified in February, whereupon he was promoted to Sergeant.

wherever ▶ relative adverb in or to whatever place (emphasizing a lack of restriction): meet me wherever you like.

■in all places; regardless of where: it should be available wherever you go to shop.

▶ interrogative adverb used for emphasis instead of 'where' in questions, typically expressing surprise or confusion: wherever can he have gone to?

▶ conjunction in every case when: use wholegrain breakfast cereals wherever possible.

– PHRASES or wherever informal or any similar place: it is bound to have originated in Taiwan or wherever.

USAGE In the emphatic use (wherever can he have got to?) the one-word form wherever may also be written as two words. See usage at HOWEVER.

wherewith ▶ relative adverb formal or archaic with or by which: the instrumental means wherewith the action is performed.

wherewithal ▶ noun [usu. with infinitive] (the wherewithal) the money or other means needed for a particular purpose: they lacked the wherewithal to pay.

wherry /'wɛri/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a light rowing boat used chiefly for carrying passengers.

■Brit. a large light barge.

– DERIVATIVES wherryman noun (pl. -men).

– ORIGIN late Middle English: of unknown origin.

whet /wɛt/ ▶ verb (whetted, whetting) [with obj.] sharpen the blade of (a tool or weapon): her husband is whetting his knife.

■excite or stimulate (someone's desire, interest, or appetite): here's an extract to whet your appetite.

▶ noun archaic a thing that stimulates appetite or desire: he swallowed his two dozen oysters as a whet.

– DERIVATIVES whetter noun (rare).

– ORIGIN Old English hwettan, of Germanic origin; related to German wetzen, based on an adjective meaning 'sharp'.

whether ▶ conjunction expressing a doubt or choice between alternatives: he seemed undecided whether to go or stay | it is still not clear whether or not he realizes.

■expressing an enquiry or investigation (often used in indirect questions): I'll see whether she's at home. ■ indicating that a statement applies whichever of the alternatives mentioned is the case: I'm going whether you like it or not.

– PHRASES whether or no 1 whether or not: the only issue arising would be whether or no the publication was defamatory. 2 archaic in any case: God help us, whether or no!

– ORIGIN Old English hwæther, hwether, of Germanic origin; related to German weder 'neither'.

USAGE On the difference between whether and if, see usage at IF.

whetstone ▶ noun a fine-grained stone used for sharpening cutting tools.

whew /hwju:, fju:/ ▶ exclamation used to express surprise, relief, or a feeling of being very hot or tired: Whew—and I thought it was serious!

– ORIGIN late Middle English: imitative; compare with PHEW.

whey /weɪ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the watery part of milk that remains after the formation of curds.

– ORIGIN Old English hwæg, hweg, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wei.

whey-faced ▶ adjective (of a person) pale, especially as a result of ill health, shock, or fear.

which ▶ interrogative pronoun & determiner asking for information specifying one or more people or things from a definite set: [as pronoun] which are the best varieties of grapes for long keeping? | which of the suspects murdered him?* | [as determiner] which way is the wind blowing?

▶ relative pronoun & determiner used referring to something previously mentioned when introducing a clause giving further information: [as pronoun] a conference in Vienna which ended on Friday | [after prep.] it was a crisis for which he was totally unprepared | [as determiner, after prep.] your claim ought to succeed, in which case the damages will be substantial.

– PHRASES which is which used when two or more people or things are difficult to distinguish from each other: there is no confusion as to which is which.

– ORIGIN Old English hwilc, from the Germanic bases of WHO and ALIKE.

USAGE On the differences between which and that in relative clauses, see usage at THAT.

whichaway US informal or dialect ▶ interrogative adverb 1 in which direction?

2 how? in which way?

▶ relative adverb however; in whatever way.

– PHRASES every whichaway in a disorderly fashion: books are skewed and lounge against one another every whichaway.

whichever ▶ relative determiner & pronoun used to emphasize a lack of restriction in selecting one of a definite set of alternatives: [as determiner] choose whichever brand you prefer | [as pronoun] their pension should be increased annually in line with earnings or prices, whichever is the higher.

■regardless of which: [as determiner] they were in a position to intercept him whichever way he ran | [as pronoun] whichever they choose, we must accept it.

whichsoever ▶ determiner & pronoun archaic whichever: [as pronoun] on any occasion whichsoever it be.

whicker ▶ verb [no obj.] (of a horse) give a soft breathy whinny.

▶ noun a sound of this type.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent. (in the sense 'to snigger, titter'): imitative.

whidah ▶ noun archaic spelling of WHYDAH.

whiff[1] ▶ noun 1 a smell that is only smelt briefly or faintly: I caught a whiff of peachy perfume.

■[in sing.] Brit. informal an unpleasant smell. ■ [in sing.] an act of sniffing or inhaling, typically so as to determine or savour a scent: one whiff of clothing and Fido was off. ■ [in sing.] a trace or hint of something bad, menacing, or exciting: here was a man with a whiff of danger about him.

2 a puff or breath of air or smoke.

3 N. Amer. informal (chiefly in baseball or golf) an unsuccessful attempt to hit the ball.

▶ verb 1 [with obj.] get a brief or faint smell of: he could whiff the slightest reek.

■[no obj.] Brit. informal give off an unpleasant smell.

2 [no obj.] N. Amer. informal (chiefly in baseball or golf) try unsuccessfully to hit the ball.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (originally in the senses 'gust of wind' and 'inhalation of tobacco smoke', also, as a verb, 'blow with a slight gust'): imitative.

whiff[2] ▶ noun another term for MEGRIM[2].

– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: perhaps from WHIFF[1].

whiffle ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (of the wind) blow lightly in a specified direction: as we walked, air began whiffling down off Bald Peak.

■move lightly as if blown by a puff of air: the geese came whiffling down on to the grass. ■ [with obj.] blow or move (something) with or as if with a puff of air: the mouse whiffled its whiskers.

▶ noun 1 a slight movement of air or the sound of such a movement.

2 (also whiffle cut) US informal a very short haircut worn by US soldiers in the Second World War.

– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: frequentative (verb), diminutive (noun) of WHIFF[1].

whiffletree ▶ noun US a swingletree.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: variant of WHIPPLETREE.

whiffy ▶ adjective (whiffier, whiffiest) Brit. informal having an unpleasant smell: whiffy socks.

Whig historical ▶ noun 1 a member of the British reforming and constitutional party that sought the supremacy of Parliament and was eventually succeeded in the 19th century by the Liberal Party.
2 a supporter of the American Revolution.
■ a member of an American political party in the 19th century, succeeded by the Republicans.
3 a 17th-century Scottish Presbyterian.
4 [as modifier] denoting a historian who interprets history as the continuing and inevitable victory of progress over reaction.
– DERIVATIVES Whiggery noun, Whiggish adjective, Whiggism noun.
– ORIGIN probably a shortening of Scots whiggamore, the nickname of 17th-cent. Scottish rebels, from whig 'to drive' + MARE[1].

while ▶ noun 1 a period of time: we chatted for a while | she retired a little while ago.
■ (a while) for some time: can I keep it a while?
2 (the while) at the same time; meanwhile: he starts to draw, talking the while.
■ poetic/literary during the time that: beseeching him, the while his hand she wrung.
▶ conjunction 1 during the time that; at the same time as: nothing much changed while he was away.
2 whereas (indicating a contrast): one person wants out, while the other wants the relationship to continue.
■ in spite of the fact that; although: while I wouldn't recommend a night-time visit, by day the area is full of interest.
▶ relative adverb during which: the period while the animal remains alive.
▶ verb [with obj.] (while time away) pass time in a leisurely manner: a diversion to while away the long afternoons.
▶ preposition N. English until: father will be happy while dinner time.
– PHRASES worth while (or worth one's while) worth the time or effort spent.
– ORIGIN Old English hwīl 'period of time', of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wijl, German Weile; the conjunction is an abbreviation of Old English thā hwīle the 'the while that'.

USAGE 1 On the distinction between worth while and worthwhile, see usage at WORTHWHILE.
2 In dialects of Northern England while is used to mean 'until', as in I waited while six o'clock. This use is not standard English, however.

whiles ▶ conjunction archaic form of WHILE.
– ORIGIN Middle English: originally in adverbs such as somewhiles 'formerly', otherwhiles 'at times'.

while-you-wait ▶ adjective [attrib.] (of a service) performed immediately: a while-you-wait swab test.

whilom /ˈwʌɪləm/ archaic ▶ adverb formerly; in the past: the wistful eyes which whilom glanced down upon the fields.
▶ adjective former; erstwhile: a whilom circus acrobat.
– ORIGIN Old English hwīlum 'at times', dative plural of hwīl (see WHILE).

whilst ▶ conjunction & relative adverb chiefly Brit. while.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from WHILES + -t as in AGAINST.

whim ▶ noun 1 a sudden desire or change of mind, especially one that is unusual or unexplained: she bought it on a whim | [mass noun] he appeared and disappeared at whim.
2 archaic a windlass for raising ore or water from a mine.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: of unknown origin. Sense 2 (mid 18th cent.) is a transferred use.

whimbrel /ˈwɪmbr(ə)l/ ▶ noun a small migratory curlew of northern Eurasia and northern Canada, with a striped crown and a trilling call.
• Numenius phaeopus, family Scolopacidae.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from WHIMPER or synonymous dialect whimp (imitative of the bird's call) + -REL.

whimper ▶ verb [no obj.] (of a person or animal) make a series of low, feeble sounds expressive of fear, pain, or discontent: a child in a bed nearby began to whimper.
■ [with direct speech] say something in a low, feeble voice expressive of such emotions: 'He's not dead, is he?' she whimpered.
▶ noun a low, feeble sound expressive of such emotions: she gave a little whimper of protest.
■ (a whimper) a feeble or anticlimactic tone or ending: their first appearance in the top flight ended with a whimper rather than a bang. [ORIGIN: with allusion to T. S. Eliot's 'This is the way the world ends Not with a bang but a whimper' (Hollow Men, 1925).]
– DERIVATIVES whimperer noun, whimperingly adverb.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from dialect whimp 'to whimper', of imitative origin.

whimsical ▶ adjective 1 playfully quaint or fanciful, especially in an appealing and amusing way: a whimsical sense of humour.
2 acting or behaving in a capricious manner: the whimsical arbitrariness of autocracy.
– DERIVATIVES whimsicality noun, whimsically adverb.

whimsy (also whimsey) ▶ noun (pl. -ies or -eys) [mass noun] playfully quaint or fanciful behaviour or humour: the film is an awkward blend of whimsy and moralizing.
■ [count noun] a whim. ■ [count noun] a thing that is fanciful or odd: the stone carvings and whimsies.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (in the sense 'caprice'): probably based on WHIM-WHAM.

whim-wham ▶ noun archaic a quaint and decorative object; a trinket.
■ a whim: the follies and whim-whams of the metropolis.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: fanciful reduplication.

whin[1] ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly N. English furze; gorse.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: probably of Scandinavian origin; compare with Swedish ven 'bent grass'.

whin[2] (also whinstone) ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. hard, dark basaltic rock such as that of the Whin Sill in Northern England.
– ORIGIN Middle English: of unknown origin.

whinchat /ˈwɪntʃat/ ▶ noun a small Eurasian and North African songbird related to the stonechat, with a brown back and orange-buff underparts.
• Saxicola rubetra, family Turdidae.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from WHIN[1] + CHAT[2].

whine ▶ noun a long, high-pitched complaining cry: the dog gave a small whine.
■ a long, high-pitched unpleasant sound: the whine of the engine. ■ a complaining tone of voice. ■ a feeble or petulant complaint: a constant whine about the quality of public services.
▶ verb [no obj.] give or make a long, high-pitched complaining cry or sound: the dog whined and scratched at the back door.
■ [reporting verb] complain in a feeble or petulant way: [no obj.] the waitress whined about the increased work | [with direct speech] 'What about him?' he whined.
– DERIVATIVES whiner noun, whiningly adverb, whiny adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English hwīnan 'whistle through the air', related to WHINGE. The noun dates from the mid 17th cent.

whinge Brit. informal ▶ verb (whingeing) [no obj.] complain persistently and in a peevish or irritating way: stop whingeing and get on with it!
▶ noun an act of complaining in such a way.
– DERIVATIVES whingeingly adverb, whinger noun, whingy adjective.
– ORIGIN late Old English hwinsian, of Germanic origin; related to German winseln; compare with WHINE.

whinny ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a gentle, high-pitched neigh.
▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [no obj.] (of a horse) make such a sound: the pony whinnied and tossed his head happily.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (as a verb): imitative. The noun dates from the early 19th cent.

whinstone ▶ noun another term for WHIN[2].

whip ▶ noun 1 a strip of leather or length of cord fastened to a handle, used for flogging or beating a person or for urging on an animal.
■ figurative a thing causing mental or physical pain or acting as a stimulus to action: councils are attempting to find new sites under the whip of a powerful agency.
2 a thing or person resembling a whip in form or function: a licorice whip.
■ a slender, unbranched shoot or plant. ■ short for WHIPPER-IN. ■ short for WHIP AERIAL. ■ [with modifier] N. Amer. a scythe for cutting specified crops: a grass whip. ■ a rope-and-pulley hoisting apparatus.
3 an official of a political party appointed to maintain parliamentary discipline among its members, especially so as to ensure attendance and voting in debates.
■ Brit. a written notice from such an official requesting attendance for voting. See also THREE-LINE WHIP. ■ (the whip) Brit. party membership of a Member of Parliament or other elected body: he asked for the whip to be withdrawn from them.
4 [mass noun] a dessert consisting of cream or eggs beaten into a light fluffy mass with fruit, chocolate, or other ingredients.
5 [in sing.] a violent striking or beating movement.
■ a fast movement in a specified direction: cleaning may consist of a quick dust or whip round.
▶ verb (whipped, whipping) [with obj.] 1 beat (a person or animal) with a whip or similar instrument, especially as a punishment or to urge them on.
■ (of a flexible object or rain or wind) strike or beat violently: the wind whipped their faces | [no obj.] ferns and brambles whipped at him. ■ beat (cream, eggs, or other food) into a froth. ■ (whip someone into) urge or rouse someone into (a specified state or position): the radio host whipped his listeners into a frenzy. ■ informal (of a player or team) defeat (a person or team) heavily in a sporting contest.
2 [no obj., with adverbial of direction] move fast or suddenly in a specified direction: I whipped round the corner.
■ [with obj. and adverbial of direction] take out or move (something) fast or suddenly: he whipped out his revolver and shot him.
3 Brit. informal steal (something): the escaper had whipped his overcoat.
4 bind (something) with spirally wound twine.
■ sew or gather (something) with overcast stitches.
– PHRASES the whip hand a position of power or control over someone. whips of Austral./NZ large quantities of: tea with whips of sugar. [ORIGIN: late 19th cent.: from British English dialect whips 'lashings'.] whip someone's ass see ASS[2].
– DERIVATIVES whip-like adjective, whipper noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: probably from Middle Low German and Middle Dutch wippen 'swing, leap, dance', from a Germanic base meaning 'move quickly'. The noun is partly from the verb, reinforced by Middle Low German wippe 'quick movement'.
▶ whip in act as whipper-in.
whip someone up deliberately excite someone into having a strong feeling or reaction: Dad had managed to whip himself up into a fantastic rage.
whip something up 1 cause water, sand, etc., to rise up and be flung about in a violent manner: the sea was whipped up by a force-nine gale. ■ stimulate a particular feeling in someone: we tried hard to whip up interest in the products. 2 make or prepare something, typically something to eat, very quickly.

whip aerial (also whip antenna) ▶ noun an aerial in the form of a long flexible wire or rod with a connection at one end.

whip and tongue grafting ▶ noun [mass noun] a method of grafting in which both stock and scion are cut diagonally and their surfaces are provided with matching tongues which interlock when the graft is tied.

whipbird ▶ noun a long-tailed Australian songbird of the logrunner family, with a call like the crack of a whip.
• Genus Psophodes, family Orthonychidae: two species.

whipcord ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 thin, tough, tightly twisted cord used for making the flexible end part of whips.
2 a closely woven ribbed worsted fabric, used for making garments such as jodhpurs.

whip graft ▶ noun (in horticulture) a simple graft in which both stock and scion are cut diagonally.

whiplash ▶ noun 1 [usu. in sing.] the lashing action of a whip: figurative he cringed before the icy whiplash of Curtis's tongue.
■ the flexible part of a whip or something resembling it.
2 [mass noun] injury caused by a severe jerk to the head, typically in a motor accident.
▶ verb [with obj.] jerk or jolt (someone or something) suddenly, typically so as to cause injury: the force of impact had whiplashed the man's head.
■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] move suddenly and forcefully, like a whip being cracked: he rammed the yacht, sending its necklace of lights whiplashing from the bridge.

whipless ▶ adjective Brit. (of an MP) having formally relinquished, or been deprived of, party membership.

whip pan ▶ noun a camera panning movement fast enough to give a blurred picture.

▶ verb (whip-pan) [no obj.] pan quickly to give a blurred picture.

whipped ▶ adjective 1 [attrib.] having been flogged or beaten with a whip: a whipped dog.

■ [predic.] N. Amer. informal worn out; exhausted.

2 (of cream, eggs, or other food) beaten into a froth.

whipper-in ▶ noun (pl. whippers-in) a huntsman's assistant who brings straying hounds back into the pack.

whippersnapper ▶ noun informal a young and inexperienced person considered to be presumptuous or overconfident.

– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: perhaps representing whipsnapper, expressing noise and unimportance.

whippet ▶ noun a dog of a small slender breed originally produced as a cross between the greyhound and the terrier or spaniel, bred for racing.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: partly from obsolete whippet 'move briskly'.

whipping ▶ noun 1 a thrashing or beating with a whip or similar implement: she saw scars on his back from the whippings | [mass noun] whipping was to be abolished as a punishment

2 [mass noun] cord or twine used to bind or cover a rope.

whipping boy ▶ noun a person who is blamed or punished for the faults or incompetence of others.

– ORIGIN extended use of the original term (mid 17th cent.) denoting a boy educated with a young prince or other royal person and punished instead of him.

whipping cream ▶ noun [mass noun] fairly thick cream containing enough butterfat to make it suitable for whipping.

whipping post ▶ noun historical a post to which offenders were tied in order to be whipped as a public punishment.

whippletree /'wip(ə)ltri:/ ▶ noun archaic term for SWINGLETREE.

– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: apparently from WHIP + TREE.

whippoorwill /'wipəwil/ ▶ noun a North and Central American nightjar with a distinctive call.

● Caprimulgus vociferus, family Caprimulgidae.

– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: imitative of its call.

whippy ▶ adjective flexible; springy: new growths of whippy sapling twigs.

– DERIVATIVES whippiness noun.

whip-round ▶ noun [usu. in sing.] Brit. informal a collection of contributions of money from a group of people for a particular purpose.

whipsaw ▶ noun a saw with a narrow blade and a handle at both ends, used typically by two people.

▶ verb (past participle -sawn or -sawed) [with obj.] US cut with a whipsaw: he was whipsawing lumber.

■ informal subject to two difficult situations or opposing pressures at the same time: the army has been whipsawed by a shrinking budget and a growing pool of recruits. ■ informal compel to do something. ■ (usu. be whipsawed) Stock Exchange, informal subject to a double loss, as when buying a security before the price falls and selling before the price rises.

whip scorpion ▶ noun an arachnid that resembles a scorpion, with stout pincer-like mouthparts and a long slender tail-like appendage, living in leaf litter and under stones in tropical and semi-tropical regions.

● Order Uropygi.

whip snake ▶ noun any of a number of slender fast-moving snakes which often feed on lizards and catch their prey by pursuing it, in particular:

● a harmless snake found in Eurasia, America, and Africa (Coluber and other genera, family Colubridae, including the Eurasian C. viridiflavus). ● a venomous Australian snake (Desmansia and other genera, family Elapidae, including the widespread D. psammophis).

whipstitch ▶ noun an overcast stitch.

▶ verb [with obj.] sew (something) with such stitches.

whipstock ▶ noun the handle of a whip.

whiptail (also whiptail lizard) ▶ noun a slender long-tailed American lizard with an alert manner and a jerky gait.

● Genus Cnemidophorus, family Teiidae: several species.

whiptail wallaby ▶ noun a wallaby with a very long slender tail and a distinctive white facial stripe, native to woodlands of NE Australia. Also called PRETTY-FACE WALLABY.

● Macropus parryi, family Macropodidae.

whipworm ▶ noun a parasitic nematode worm with a stout posterior and slender anterior part, especially one that infests the intestines of domestic animals.

● Genus Trichuris, class Aphasmida (or Adenophorea).

whir ▶ noun & verb variant spelling of WHIRR.

whirl ▶ verb move or cause to move rapidly round and round: [no obj.] leaves whirled in eddies of wind | [with obj.] I whirled her round the dance hall.

■ move or cause to move rapidly: [no obj., with adverbial of direction] Sybil stood waving as they whirled past | [with obj. and adverbial of direction] he was whirled into the bushes. ■ [no obj.] (of the head, mind, or senses) seem to spin round: Kate made her way back to the office, her mind whirling. ■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (of thoughts or mental images) follow each other in bewildering succession: a kaleidoscope of images whirled through her brain.

▶ noun [in sing.] a rapid movement round and round.

■ frantic activity of a specified kind: the event was all part of the mad social whirl. ■ [with adj. or noun modifier] a specified kind of sweet or biscuit with a spiral shape: a hazelnut whirl.

– PHRASES give something a whirl informal give something a try. in a whirl in a state of confusion.

– DERIVATIVES whirler noun, whirlingly adverb.

– ORIGIN Middle English: the verb probably from Old Norse hvirfla 'turn about'; the noun partly from Middle Low German, Middle Dutch wervel 'spindle', or from Old Norse hvirfill 'circle', from a Germanic base meaning 'rotate'.

whirligig ▶ noun 1 a toy that spins round, for example a top or windmill.

■ another term for ROUNDABOUT (in sense 2).

2 [in sing.] a thing regarded as hectic or constantly changing: the whirligig of time.

3 (also whirligig beetle) a small black predatory beetle which swims rapidly in circles on the surface of still or slow-moving water and dives when alarmed.

● Family Gyrinidae: Gyrinus and other genera.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from WHIRL + obsolete gig 'whipping-top'.

whirling dervish ▶ noun see DERVISH.

whirling disease ▶ noun [mass noun] a disease of trout caused by a parasitic protozoan, affecting the balance of the fish and causing it to swim with a whirling motion.

● The protozoan is Myxosoma cerebralis, phylum Sporozoa.

whirlpool ▶ noun a quickly rotating mass of water in a river or sea into which objects may be drawn, typically caused by the meeting of conflicting currents.

■ figurative a turbulent situation from which it is hard to escape: he was drawing her down into an emotional whirlpool. ■ (also whirlpool bath) a heated pool in which hot aerated water is continuously circulated.

whirlwind ▶ noun a column of air moving rapidly round and round in a cylindrical or funnel shape.

■ used in similes and metaphors to describe a very energetic or tumultuous person or process: a whirlwind of activity | [as modifier] a whirlwind romance.

– PHRASES (sow the wind and) reap the whirlwind suffer serious consequences as a result of one's actions. [ORIGIN: with biblical allusion to Hos. 8:7.]

whirlybird ▶ noun informal, chiefly N. Amer. a helicopter.

whirr (also whir) ▶ verb (whirred, whirring) [no obj.] (especially of a machine or a bird's wings) make a low, continuous, regular sound: the ceiling fans whirred in the smoky air.

▶ noun a sound of such a type: the whirr of the projector.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'move with a whirring sound'): probably of Scandinavian origin; compare with WHIRL.

whisht /(h)wiʃt/ (also wheesht, whist) ▶ exclamation chiefly Scottish & Irish hush (used to demand silence): 'Whisht, child. Away and do what you're told.'

– PHRASES hold one's whisht keep silent.

– ORIGIN natural exclamation: first recorded in English in the mid 16th cent.

whisk ▶ verb 1 [with obj. and adverbial of direction] take or move (someone or something) in a particular direction suddenly and quickly: his jacket was whisked away for dry-cleaning.

■ move (something) through the air with a light, sweeping movement: hippopotamuses spread their scents by whisking their tails.

2 [with obj.] beat or stir (a substance, especially cream or eggs) with a light, rapid movement.

▶ noun 1 a utensil for whipping eggs or cream.

2 (also fly whisk) a bunch of grass, twigs, or bristles for removing dust or flies.

3 [in sing.] a brief, rapid action or movement: a whisk round St Basil's cathedral.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: of Scandinavian origin.

whisker ▶ noun 1 a long projecting hair or bristle growing from the face or snout of many mammals.

■ (whiskers) the hair growing on a man's face, especially on his cheeks. ■ a single crystal of a material in the form of a filament with no dislocations.

2 (a whisker) informal a very small amount: they won the election by a whisker.

– PHRASES have (or have grown) whiskers informal (especially of a story) be very old. within a whisker of informal extremely close or near to doing, achieving, or suffering something.

– DERIVATIVES whiskered adjective, whiskery adjective.

– ORIGIN late Middle English (originally denoting a bundle of feathers, twigs, etc., used for whisking): from the verb WHISK + -ER[1].

whiskered bat ▶ noun a small brown myotis bat native to Eurasia.

● Genus Myotis, family Vespertilionidae: several species, in particular the common and widespread M. mystacinus.

whisky ▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 (Irish whiskey) [mass noun] a spirit distilled from malted grain, especially barley or rye.

2 (whiskey) a code word representing the letter W, used in radio communication.

– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: abbreviation of obsolete whiskybae, variant of USQUEBAUGH.

whisky jack ▶ noun N. Amer. informal another term for GREY JAY.

whisky mac ▶ noun a drink consisting of whisky and ginger wine mixed in equal amounts.

whisky sour ▶ noun a drink consisting of whisky mixed with lemon or lime juice.

whisper ▶ verb [no obj.] speak very softly using one's breath rather than one's throat, especially for the sake of secrecy: Alison was whispering in his ear | [with obj.] he managed to whisper a faint goodbye | [with direct speech] 'Are you all right?' he whispered.

■ poetic/literary (of leaves, wind, or water) rustle or murmur softly. ■ (be whispered) be rumoured: it was whispered that he would soon die.

▶ noun a soft or confidential tone of voice; a whispered word or phrase: she spoke in a whisper.

■ poetic/literary a soft rustling or murmuring sound: the thunder of the surf became a muted whisper. ■ a rumour or piece of gossip: whispers of a blossoming romance. ■ [usu. in sing.] a slight trace; a hint: he didn't show even a whisper of interest.

– DERIVATIVES whisperer noun, whispery adjective.

– ORIGIN Old English hwisprian, of Germanic origin; related to German wispeln, from the imitative base of WHISTLE.

whispering campaign ▶ noun a systematic circulation of a rumour, typically in order to damage someone's reputation.

whispering gallery ▶ noun a gallery or dome with acoustic properties such that a faint sound may be heard round its entire circumference.

whist[1] /wist/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a card game, usually for two pairs of players, in which points are scored according to the number of tricks won.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent. (earlier as whisk): perhaps from WHISK (with reference to whisking away the tricks); perhaps associated with WHIST[2].

whist[2] /(h)wist/ ▶ exclamation variant spelling of WHISHT.

whistle ▶ noun 1 a clear, high-pitched sound made by forcing breath through a small hole between partly closed lips, or between one's teeth.

■ a similar sound, especially one made by a bird, machine, or the wind. ■ an instrument used to produce such a sound, especially for giving a signal.

2 Brit. a suit. [ORIGIN: from rhyming slang whistle and flute.]

▶ verb 1 [no obj.] emit a clear, high-pitched sound by forcing breath through a small hole between one's lips or teeth: the audience cheered and whistled.

■express surprise, admiration, or derision by making such a sound: Bob whistled. 'You look beautiful!' he said. ■ [with obj.] produce (a tune) in such a way. ■ (especially of a bird or machine) produce a similar sound: the kettle began to whistle. ■ [no obj., with adverbial] produce such a sound by moving rapidly through the air or a narrow opening: the wind was whistling down the chimney. ■ blow an instrument that makes such a sound, especially as a signal: the referee did not whistle for a foul. ■ [with obj.] (whistle someone/thing up) summon something or someone by making such a sound.

2 (whistle for) wish for or expect (something) in vain: you can go home and whistle for your wages.

– PHRASES blow the whistle on informal bring an illicit activity to an end by informing on the person responsible. (as) clean as a whistle extremely clean or clear. ■ informal free of incriminating evidence: the cops raided the warehouse but the place was clean as a whistle. whistle something down the wind let something go; abandon something. ■ archaic turn a trained hawk loose by casting it off with the wind. whistle in the dark pretend to be unafraid. whistle in the wind try unsuccessfully to influence something that cannot be changed.

– ORIGIN Old English (h)wistlian (verb), (h)wistle (noun), of Germanic origin; imitative and related to Swedish vissla 'to whistle'.

whistle-blower ▶ noun a person who informs on someone engaged in an illicit activity.

Whistler /'wɪslə/, James (Abbott) McNeill (1834–1903), American painter and etcher. Notable works: Arrangement in Grey and Black: The Artist's Mother (portrait, 1872).

whistler ▶ noun 1 a person who whistles.

■an atmospheric radio disturbance heard as a whistle that falls in pitch, caused by lightning.

2 a robust Australasian and Indonesian songbird with a strong and typically hooked bill and a loud melodious call. Also called THICKHEAD.

● Family Pachycephalidae: four genera, in particular Pachycephala, and many species.

3 North American term for HOARY MARMOT.

whistle-stop ▶ adjective [attrib.] very fast and with only brief pauses: a whistle-stop tour of Britain.

▶ noun N. Amer. a small unimportant town on a railway.

■a brief pause in a tour by a politician for an electioneering speech.

whistling duck ▶ noun a long-legged duck with an upright stance and a whistling call, often perching on branches. Also called TREE DUCK.

● Genus Dendrocygna, family Anatidae: several species.

whistling kettle ▶ noun a kettle fitted with a spout that whistles as steam is forced through it when the kettle is boiling.

whistling swan ▶ noun a bird of the North American race of the tundra swan, breeding in northern Canada and overwintering on the coasts of the US.

● Cygnus columbianus columbianus, family Anatidae.

Whit ▶ noun short for WHITSUNTIDE.

▶ adjective of, connected with, or following Whit Sunday: Whit Monday.

whit ▶ noun [in sing.] a very small part or amount: the last whit of warmth was drawn off by the setting sun.

– PHRASES every whit wholly: my mother was fond of her and I shall be every whit as fond. not (or never) a whit not at all: Sara had not changed a whit.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: apparently an alteration of obsolete wight 'small amount'.

Whitby a town on the coast of North Yorkshire, NE England; pop. 13,380 (1981).

Whitby, Synod of a conference held in Whitby in 664 that resolved the differences between the Celtic and Roman forms of Christian worship in England, in particular the method of calculating the date of Easter. King Oswy (612–70) of Northumbria decided in favour of Rome, and England as a result effectively severed the connection with the Celtic Church.

White[1], Gilbert (1720–93), English clergyman and naturalist. He wrote many letters to friends on aspects of natural history in his native village of Selborne, Hampshire; these were published in 1789 as The Natural History and Antiquities of Selborne, which has remained in print ever since.

White[2], Patrick (Victor Martindale) (1912–90), Australian novelist, born in Britain. White's reputation is chiefly based on his two novels The Tree of Man (1955) and Voss (1957). Nobel Prize for Literature (1973).

White[3], T. H. (1906–64), British novelist, born in India; full name Terence Hanbury White. He is best known for the tetralogy The Once and Future King, his reworking of the Arthurian legend that began with The Sword in the Stone (1937).

white ▶ adjective 1 of the colour of milk or fresh snow, due to the reflection of all visible rays of light; the opposite of black: a sheet of white paper.

■approaching such a colour; very pale: her face was white with fear. ■ figurative morally or spiritually pure; innocent and untainted: he is as pure and white as the driven snow. ■ (of a plant) having white flowers or pale-coloured fruit. ■ (of a tree) having light-coloured bark. ■ (of wine) made from white grapes, or dark grapes with the skins removed, and having a yellowish colour. ■ Brit. (of coffee or tea) served with milk or cream. ■ (of glass) transparent; colourless. ■ (of bread) made from a light-coloured, sifted, or bleached flour.

2 (also White) belonging to or denoting a human group having light-coloured skin (chiefly used of peoples of European extraction): a white farming community.

■of or relating to such people: white Australian culture. ■ S. African, historical reserved by law for those classified as white. ■ S. African, offensive impudent or cheeky (used of black people): don't get white with me.

3 historical counter-revolutionary or reactionary. Contrasted with RED (in sense 2).

▶ noun 1 [mass noun] white colour or pigment: garnet-red flowers flecked with white | [count noun] the woodwork was an immaculate white.

■white clothes or material: he was dressed from head to foot in white. ■ (whites) white clothes, especially as worn for playing cricket or tennis, or as naval uniform, or in the context of washing: wash whites separately to avoid them being dulled. ■ white wine. ■ (White) the player of the white pieces in chess or draughts. ■ [count noun] a white thing, in particular the white ball (the cue ball) in snooker or billiards. ■ the outer part (white when cooked) which surrounds the yolk of an egg; the albumen.

2 the visible pale part of the eyeball around the iris.

3 (also White) a member of a light-skinned people, especially one of European extraction.

4 [with modifier] a white or cream butterfly which has dark veins or spots on the wings. It can be a serious crop pest.

● Pieris and other genera, family Pieridae. See also CABBAGE WHITE.

▶ verb [with obj.] archaic paint or turn (something) white: your passion hath whited your face.

– PHRASES bleed someone/thing white drain someone or something of wealth or resources. whited sepulchre poetic/literary a hypocrite. [ORIGIN: with biblical allusion to Matt 23:27.] white man's burden the task which white colonizers believed they had to impose their civilization on the black inhabitants of their colonies. [ORIGIN: from Rudyard Kipling's The White Man's Burden (1899).] whiter than white extremely white. ■ morally beyond reproach.

– DERIVATIVES whitely adverb, whiteness noun, whitish adjective.

– ORIGIN late Old English hwīt, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wit and German weiss, also to WHEAT.

USAGE The term white has been used to refer to the skin colour of Europeans or people of European extraction since the early 17th century. Unlike other labels for skin colour such as red or yellow, white has not been generally used in a derogatory way. In modern contexts there is a growing tendency to prefer to use terms which relate to geographical origin rather than skin colour: hence the current preference in the US for African American rather than black and European rather than white.

▶ white out (of vision) become impaired by exposure to sudden bright light. ■ (of a person) lose colour vision as a prelude to losing consciousness.

white something out 1 obliterate a mistake with white correction fluid. ■ cover one's face or facial blemishes completely with make-up. 2 impair someone's vision with a sudden bright light.

white admiral ▶ noun a butterfly which has dark brown wings bearing a broad white band.

● Subfamily Limenitinae, family Nymphalidae: several genera, in particular Ladoga (including the European L. camilla) and Basilarchia (American species).

white ant ▶ noun another term for TERMITE.

White Army ▶ noun any of the armies which opposed the Bolsheviks during the Russian Civil War of 1918–21.

white arsenic ▶ noun [mass noun] an extremely toxic soluble white solid made by burning arsenic.

● Alternative name: arsenic trioxide; chem. formula: As_2O_3.

whitebait ▶ noun [mass noun] the small silvery-white young of herrings, sprats, and similar marine fish, eaten in numbers as food.

white balance ▶ noun the colour balance on a video camera.

■a control or system for adjusting this.

white bass ▶ noun a North American freshwater bass with dark horizontal stripes.

● Morone chrysops, family Percichthyidae.

white bat ▶ noun a bat with white fur found mainly in Central America.

● Genus Diclidurus, family Emballonuridae (four species, in particular D. virgo, also called GHOST BAT); and Ectophylla alba (family Phyllostomidae).

whitebeam ▶ noun a European tree related to the rowan, with red berries and hairy oval leaves that are white underneath.

● Sorbus aria, family Rosaceae.

white belt ▶ noun a white belt worn by a beginner in judo or karate.

■a person wearing such a belt.

white birch ▶ noun chiefly N. Amer. a birch tree with white bark, especially the paper birch or the European silver birch.

white blood cell ▶ noun less technical term for LEUCOCYTE.

whiteboard ▶ noun a wipeable board with a white surface used for teaching or presentations.

■Computing an area common to several users or applications, where they can exchange information, in particular as handwriting or graphics.

white book ▶ noun a book of rules, standards, or records, especially an official government report, bound in white.

■(White Book) Law (in England and Wales) a book setting out the rules of practice and procedure in the Supreme Court.

white-bread ▶ adjective N. Amer. informal of, belonging to, or representative of the white middle classes; not progressive, radical, or innovative: one of the West's more white-bread political institutions.

white bryony ▶ noun see BRYONY (sense 1).

white cedar ▶ noun 1 a North American tree of the cypress family.

● Thuja and other genera, family Cupressaceae: several species, in particular Thuja occidentalis, which yields timber and medicinal oil.

2 chiefly Austral. the chinaberry.

white cell ▶ noun less technical term for LEUCOCYTE.

white Christmas ▶ noun a Christmas during which there is snow on the ground.

white clover ▶ noun a creeping white-flowered European clover which is an important fodder plant. Also called DUTCH CLOVER.

● Trifolium repens, family Leguminosae.

whitecoat ▶ noun Canadian an infant harp seal, which has whitish fur.

white-collar ▶ adjective of or relating to the work done or those who work in an office or other professional environment.

■denoting non-violent crime committed by white-collar workers, especially fraud.

white currant ▶ noun a cultivated variety of redcurrant with pale edible berries. The berries are insipid and generally used for jams and jellies, in combination with other fruits.

white dwarf ▶ noun Astronomy a small very dense star that is typically the size of a planet. A white dwarf is formed when a low-mass star has exhausted all its central nuclear fuel and lost its outer layers as a planetary nebula.

white elephant ▶ noun a possession that is useless or troublesome, especially one that is expensive to maintain or difficult to dispose of.

– ORIGIN from the story that the kings of Siam gave such animals as a gift to courtiers considered obnoxious, in order to ruin the recipient by the great expense incurred in maintaining the animal.

white ensign ▶ noun a white flag carrying a St

George's cross with the Union Jack in the top corner next to the flagstaff, flown by the Royal and most Commonwealth navies and the Royal Yacht Squadron.

white-eye ▶ noun a small Old World songbird with a ring of white feathers around the eye.
• Family Zosteropidae: several genera, in particular Zosterops, and numerous species.

whiteface ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] white stage make-up.
2 chiefly N. Amer. a Hereford cow or bull.
3 an Australian warbler with a white face.
• Genus Aphelocephala, family Acanthizidae: three species.

White Father ▶ noun 1 a white man regarded by people of a non-white race as having authority over them.
2 a member of the Society of Missionaries of Africa, a Roman Catholic order founded in Algiers in 1868.
– ORIGIN translating French Père Blanc.

white feather ▶ noun a white feather given to someone as a sign that the giver considers them a coward.
– PHRASES show the white feather Brit. dated behave in a cowardly fashion.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: with reference to a white feather in the tail of a game bird, being a mark of bad breeding.

white finger ▶ noun informal term for RAYNAUD'S DISEASE.

white fir ▶ noun a silver fir.
• Genus Abies, family Pinaceae: several species, in particular Abies concolor.

whitefish ▶ noun (pl. same or -fishes) a mainly freshwater fish of the salmon family, widely used as food.
• Coregonus and other genera, family Salmonidae: several species. See CISCO, HOUTING, POWAN, and VENDACE.

white fish ▶ noun [mass noun] fish with pale flesh, such as plaice, halibut, cod, and haddock. Compare with RED FISH.

white flag ▶ noun a white flag or cloth used as a symbol of surrender, truce, or a desire to parley.

white flour ▶ noun [mass noun] fine wheat flour, typically bleached, from which most of the bran and germ have been removed.

whitefly ▶ noun (pl. same or -flies) a minute winged bug covered with powdery white wax, damaging plants by feeding on the sap and coating them with honeydew.
• Family Aleyrodidae, suborder Homoptera: numerous genera and species white-footed mouse ▶ noun a common deer mouse with white feet, found in the US and Mexico.

• Peromyscus leucopus, family Muridae.

whitefront (also white-fronted goose) ▶ noun a migratory goose with mainly grey plumage and a white forehead, breeding in northern Eurasia and North America.
• Genus Anser, family Anatidae: two species.

white gold ▶ noun [mass noun] a silver-coloured alloy of gold with nickel, platinum, or another metal.

white goods ▶ plural noun 1 large electrical goods used domestically such as refrigerators and washing machines, typically white in colour. Compare with BROWN GOODS.
2 archaic domestic linen.

Whitehall a street in Westminster, London, in which many government offices are located.
■ used as an allusive reference to the British Civil Service. ■ used as an allusive reference to the British government, its offices, or its policy: a pledge was given by Whitehall to protect British troops in Bosnia.

Whitehead, Alfred North (1861–1947), English philosopher and mathematician. He is remembered chiefly for Principia Mathematica (1910–13), on which he collaborated with his pupil Bertrand Russell. However, he was concerned to explain more generally the connections between mathematics, theoretical science, and ordinary experience.

whitehead ▶ noun 1 informal a pale or white-topped pustule on the skin.
2 a small New Zealand songbird with a white head and underparts, found only on North Island.
• Mohoua albicilla, family Pachycephalidae (or Acanthizidae).

white heat ▶ noun [mass noun] the temperature or state of something that is so hot that it emits white light.
■ [in sing.] figurative a state of intense passion or activity.

white hole ▶ noun Astronomy a hypothetical celestial object which expands outwards from a space–time singularity and emits energy, in the manner of a time-reversed black hole.

white hope ▶ noun a person expected to bring much success to a team or organization: the great white hope of the Tory Left.

Whitehorse the capital of Yukon Territory in NW Canada; pop. 21,650 (1991). Situated on the Alaska Highway, it is the centre of a copper-mining and fur-trapping region.

white horses ▶ plural noun white-crested waves at sea.

white-hot ▶ adjective at white heat: a shower of white-hot embers.

White House (the White house) 1 the official residence of the US president in Washington DC.
■ the US president, presidency, or government: the White House denounced the charge.
2 the Russian parliament building.

white information ▶ noun [mass noun] positive information about a person's creditworthiness held by a bank or similar institution.

white knight ▶ noun a person or thing that comes to someone's aid.
■ a person or company making an acceptable counter offer for a company facing a hostile takeover bid.

white-knuckle ▶ adjective [attrib.] (especially of a fairground ride) designed to cause excitement or tension.
– ORIGIN 1970s: with reference to the effect caused by gripping tightly to steady oneself.

white-knuckled ▶ adjective informal (of a person) showing signs of extreme tension due to fear or anger.

white-label ▶ adjective denoting a musical recording for which the fully printed commercial label is not yet available, and which has been supplied with a plain white label before general release for promotional purposes.
▶ noun (white label) a recording released in such a way.

White Lady ▶ noun a cocktail made with gin, orange liqueur, and lemon juice.

white land ▶ noun [mass noun] open land not designated for development or change of use, or on which development is not allowed.

white lead ▶ noun [mass noun] a white pigment consisting of a mixture of lead carbonate and lead hydroxide.

white lie ▶ noun a harmless or trivial lie, especially one told to avoid hurting someone's feelings.

white light ▶ noun [mass noun] apparently colourless light, for example ordinary daylight. It contains all the wavelengths of the visible spectrum at equal intensity.

white lightning ▶ noun [mass noun] US illicit home-made whiskey, typically colourless and distilled from corn.

white lime ▶ noun [mass noun] lime mixed with water as a coating for walls; whitewash.

white list ▶ noun informal a list of people or products viewed with approval.

white magic ▶ noun [mass noun] magic used only for good purposes.
– DERIVATIVES white magician noun.

white matter ▶ noun [mass noun] the paler tissue of the brain and spinal cord, consisting mainly of nerve fibres with their myelin sheaths. Compare with GREY MATTER.

white meat ▶ noun [mass noun] pale meat such as poultry, veal, and rabbit. Often contrasted with RED MEAT.

white metal ▶ noun [mass noun] a white or silvery alloy, especially a tin-based alloy used for the surfaces of bearings.

white meter ▶ noun a meter for measuring the off-peak consumption of electricity.

white mouse ▶ noun an albino form of the house mouse, widely bred as a pet and laboratory animal.

whiten ▶ verb make or become white: [with obj.] snow whitened the mountain tops | [no obj.] she gripped the handle until her knuckles whitened.
– DERIVATIVES whitener noun.

white night ▶ noun 1 a sleepless night. [ORIGIN: translating French nuit blanche.] 2 a night when it is never properly dark, as in high latitudes in summer.

White Nile the name for the main, western branch of the Nile between the Ugandan–Sudanese border and its confluence with the Blue Nile at Khartoum.

white noise ▶ noun [mass noun] Physics noise containing many frequencies with equal intensities.

white oil ▶ noun a colourless petroleum distillate, especially liquid paraffin, used medicinally and in the food and plastic industries.

white-out ▶ noun 1 a dense blizzard, especially in polar regions.
■ a weather condition in which the features and horizon of snow-covered country are indistinguishable due to uniform light diffusion.
2 [mass noun] white correction fluid for covering typing or writing mistakes.
3 a loss of colour vision due to rapid acceleration, often prior to a loss of consciousness.

White Paper ▶ noun (in the UK) a government report giving information or proposals on an issue.

white park cattle ▶ noun see PARK CATTLE.

white pepper ▶ noun [mass noun] the husked ripe or unripe berries of the pepper (see PEPPER sense 1), typically ground and used as a condiment.

white phosphorus ▶ noun see PHOSPHORUS.

white pine ▶ noun any of a number of coniferous trees with whitish timber, in particular:
• a North American tree which yields high-quality timber that is valued for intricate work (Pinus strobus, family Pinaceae). • NZ the kahikatea.

white pointer ▶ noun another term for GREAT WHITE SHARK.

white poplar ▶ noun a Eurasian poplar with lobed leaves that are white underneath and grey-green above. Also called ABELE.
• Populus alba, family Salicaceae.

white pudding ▶ noun [mass noun] a kind of sausage made of oatmeal and suet.

white rhinoceros ▶ noun a very large two-horned African rhinoceros with broad lips.
• Ceratotherium simum, family Rhinocerotidae.

white rose ▶ noun the emblem of Yorkshire or the House of York.

White Russia another name for BELARUS.

White Russian ▶ noun a Belorussian.
■ an opponent of the Bolsheviks during the Russian Civil War.
▶ adjective Belorussian.
■ of or relating to the opponents of the Bolsheviks.

white sage ▶ noun see SAGE[1] (sense 2).

white sale ▶ noun a shop's sale of household linen.

white sandalwood ▶ noun see SANDALWOOD.

White Sands an area of white gypsum salt flats in central New Mexico, designated a national monument in 1933. It is surrounded by a large missile-testing range, which, in 1945, was the site of the detonation of the first nuclear weapon.

white sauce ▶ noun [mass noun] a sauce of flour, melted butter, and milk or cream.

White Sea an inlet of the Barents Sea on the coast of NW Russia.

white sea bass ▶ noun see SEA BASS.

white shark ▶ noun see GREAT WHITE SHARK.

white sheep ▶ noun another term for DALL SHEEP.

white-shoe ▶ adjective US informal denoting a company, especially a law firm, owned and run by members of the WASP elite, generally regarded as cautious and conservative.
– ORIGIN with reference to the white shoes fashionable among Ivy League college students in the 1950s.

white slave ▶ noun a woman tricked or forced into prostitution, typically one taken to a foreign country for this purpose.
– DERIVATIVES white slaver noun, white slavery noun.

whitesmith ▶ noun a person who makes articles out of metal, especially tin.
■ a polisher or finisher of metal goods.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from WHITE (denoting 'white iron', i.e. tin) + SMITH.

white snakeroot ▶ noun see SNAKEROOT.

white spirit ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. a volatile colourless liquid distilled from petroleum, used as a paint thinner and solvent.

white sugar ▶ noun [mass noun] purified sugar.

white-tailed deer (US also whitetail) ▶ noun a reddish to greyish American deer with white on the belly and the underside of the tail.
• Odocoileus virginianus, family Cervidae.

whitethorn ▶ noun the hawthorn.

whitethroat ▶ noun a migratory Eurasian and North African warbler with a grey head and white throat.
• Genus Sylvia, family Sylviidae: three species, in particular the common S. communis.

white tie ▶ noun a white bow tie worn by men as part of full evening dress.
■ [mass noun] full evening dress with a white bow tie: he was wearing immaculate white tie and tails.
▶ adjective (of an event) requiring full evening dress to be worn, including a white bow tie.

white-toothed shrew ▶ noun an aggressive shrew with white teeth, native to Eurasia and Africa.
• Genus Crocidura, family Soricidae: numerous species. The pygmy white-toothed shrew (C. etruscus) is the smallest known terrestrial mammal.

white trash ▶ noun [mass noun] N. Amer. derogatory poor white people, especially those living in the southern US.

white truffle ▶ noun an underground fungus eaten in Europe as a delicacy. Also called TARTUFO.
• Tuber magnatum, family Tuberaceae, subdivision Ascomycotina. Alternative name: Piedmont truffle.

white vitriol ▶ noun [mass noun] archaic crystalline zinc sulphate.

whitewall ▶ noun 1 (also whitewall tyre) a tyre with a white stripe round the outside, or a white side wall.
2 [as modifier] N. Amer. denoting a haircut in which the sides of the head are shaved and the top and back are left longer.

whitewash ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] a solution of lime and water or of whiting, size, and water, used for painting walls white.
■ [in sing.] a deliberate concealment of someone's mistakes or faults in order to clear their name.
2 a victory by the same side in every game of a series.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 [usu. as adj. whitewashed] paint (a wall, building, or room) with whitewash.
■ try to clear (someone or their name) by deliberately concealing their mistakes or faults: his wife must have wanted to whitewash his reputation. ■ deliberately conceal (someone's mistakes or faults): this is not to whitewash the actual political practice of the government.
2 defeat (an opponent) in every game of a series.
[ORIGIN: originally US, extension of whitewash 'to clear of liability for debts' (relating to bankruptcy).]
– DERIVATIVES whitewasher noun.

white water ▶ noun [mass noun] [often as modifier] fast shallow stretches of water in a river: white-water rafting.

white wedding ▶ noun Brit. a traditional wedding at which the bride wears a formal white dress.

white whale ▶ noun another term for BELUGA (in sense 1).

white willow ▶ noun a Eurasian streamside willow which has narrow leaves with silky white hairs on both sides, and the bark of which contains salicin.
• Salix alba, family Salicaceae.

white-winged chough ▶ noun see CHOUGH (sense 2).

white witch ▶ noun a person, typically a woman, who practises magic for altruistic purposes.

whitewood ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] light-coloured wood, especially when made up into furniture and ready for staining, varnishing, or painting.
2 chiefly N. Amer. any of a number of trees which yield pale timber, in particular:
• a silver fir (Abies alba, family Pinaceae). • a basswood. • the tulip tree.

whitework ▶ noun [mass noun] embroidery worked in white thread on a white ground.

white worm ▶ noun a burrowing marine bristle worm which is bluish-white with iridescent pink shading and a grey dorsal line.
• Nephtys hombergi, family Nephtyidae.

whitey ▶ noun (pl. -eys) informal, derogatory used by black people to refer to a white person.
■ [in sing.] white people collectively: her ambitions are thwarted by whitey in publishing.
▶ adjective [usu. in combination] with a whitish tinge: a whitey-grey colour.

whither archaic or poetic/literary ▶ interrogative adverb to what place or state: whither are we bound? | they asked people whither they would emigrate.
■ what is the likely future of: whither modern architecture?
▶ relative adverb to which (with reference to a place): the barbecue had been set up by the lake, whither Matthew and Sara were conducted.
■ to whatever place; wherever: we could drive whither we pleased.
– ORIGIN Old English hwider, from the Germanic base of WHICH; compare with HITHER and THITHER.

whithersoever ▶ relative adverb archaic wherever: she was free to drift whithersoever she chose.

whiting[1] ▶ noun (pl. same) 1 a slender-bodied marine fish of the cod family, which lives in shallow European waters and is a commercially important food fish.
• Merlangius merlangus, family Gadidae.
2 [usu. with modifier] any of a number of similar marine fishes, in particular:
• a fish of the Indo-Pacific (family Sillaginidae), including the commercially important Sillaginoides punctatus of Australia.
• the northern kingfish of eastern North America.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Middle Dutch wijting, from wijt 'white'.

whiting[2] ▶ noun [mass noun] ground chalk used for purposes such as whitewashing and cleaning metal plate.

Whitlam /'wɪtləm/, (Edward) Gough (b.1916), Australian Labor statesman, Prime Minister 1972–5. Whitlam ended compulsory military service and relaxed the immigration laws. In 1975 he refused to call a general election and became the first elected Prime Minister to be dismissed by the British Crown.

whitleather ▶ noun [mass noun] leather that has been prepared by dressing with alum and salt so as to retain its natural colour.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from WHITE + LEATHER.

Whitley Council /'wɪtli/ ▶ noun a negotiating body for discussing and settling matters of industrial relations, pay and conditions, and related issues.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: named after John H. Whitley (1866–1935), chairman of a committee (1916) which recommended such bodies.

whitlow /'wɪtləʊ/ ▶ noun an abscess in the soft tissue near a fingernail or toenail.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (also as whitflaw, -flow), apparently from WHITE + FLAW[1] in the sense 'crack', but perhaps related to Dutch fijt 'whitlow'.

whitlow-grass ▶ noun [mass noun] a dwarf European plant with a rosette of leaves at the base of a low flowering stem, growing widely on rocks and walls. It was formerly believed to cure whitlows.
• Genus Erophila, family Cruciferae: several species, in particular E. verna.

Whitman, Walt (1819–92), American poet. In 1855 he published the free verse collection Leaves of Grass, incorporating 'I Sing the Body Electric' and 'Song of Myself'; eight further editions followed in Whitman's lifetime.

Whitney, Eli (1765–1825), American inventor. He conceived the idea of mass-producing interchangeable parts. This he applied in his fulfilment of a contract (1797) to supply muskets.

Whitney, Mount a mountain in the Sierra Nevada in California. Rising to 4,418 m (14,495 ft), it is the highest peak in the continental US outside Alaska.

Whitsun /'wɪts(ə)n/ ▶ noun Whitsuntide.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from WHIT SUNDAY, reduced as if from Whitsun Day.

Whit Sunday ▶ noun the seventh Sunday after Easter, a Christian festival commemorating the descent of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost (Acts 2). Also called PENTECOST.
– ORIGIN late Old English Hwīta Sunnandæg, literally 'white Sunday', probably with reference to the white robes of those newly baptized at Pentecost.

Whitsuntide /'wɪts(ə)ntʌɪd/ ▶ noun the weekend or week including Whit Sunday.

Whittier /'wɪtɪə/, John Greenleaf (1807–92), American poet and abolitionist. He is best known for his poems on rural themes, especially 'Snow-Bound' (1866).

Whittington, Dick (d.1423), English merchant and Lord Mayor of London; full name Sir Richard Whittington. Whittington was a mercer who became Lord Mayor three times (1397–8; 1406–7; 1419–20). The legend of his early life as a poor orphan was first recorded in 1605.

Whittle, Sir Frank (1907–96), English aeronautical engineer, test pilot, and inventor of the jet aircraft engine. He took out the first patent for a turbojet engine in 1930 and in 1941 the first flight using Whittle's jet engine was made.

whittle ▶ verb [with obj.] carve (wood) into an object by repeatedly cutting small slices from it.
■ carve (an object) from wood in this way. ■ (whittle something away/down) reduce something in size, amount, or extent by a gradual series of steps: the shortlist of fifteen was whittled down to five | [no obj.] the censors had whittled away at the racy dialogue.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from dialect whittle 'knife'.

Whitworth ▶ noun [as modifier] denoting a standard series of screw threads in imperial sizes.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from the name of Sir Joseph Whitworth (1803–1887), English engineer.

whiz-bang (also whizz-bang) informal ▶ noun (especially during the First World War) a low-velocity shell.
■ chiefly N. Amer. a resounding success: Dan was a whiz-bang at mechanical things.
▶ adjective chiefly N. Amer. lively or sensational; fast-paced: a whizz-bang publicity campaign.

whizz (also whiz) ▶ verb (whizzed, whizzing) 1 [no obj., with adverbial of direction] move quickly through the air with a whistling or whooshing sound: the Iraqi missiles whizzed past | figurative the weeks whizzed by.
■ (whizz through) do or deal with quickly: Audrey would whizz through a few chores in the shop. ■ [with obj. and adverbial of direction] cause (someone or something) to move or go fast: Derek had whizzed them round the factory. ■ [with obj.] cause to rotate in a machine, especially a food processor: whiz the mixture to a smooth paste.
2 [no obj.] informal urinate.
▶ noun 1 a whistling or whooshing sound made by something moving fast through the air.
■ [in sing.] informal a fast movement or tour: a quick whizz around the research-and-development facility.
2 (also wiz) informal a person who is extremely clever at something: fancy yourself as a whizz at puzzles? [ORIGIN: early 20th cent.: influenced by WIZARD.]
3 N. Amer. informal an act of urinating.
4 [mass noun] Brit. informal amphetamines.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: imitative.

whizz-kid (also whiz-kid) ▶ noun informal a young person who is outstandingly skilful or successful at something: a computer whizz-kid.

whizzo (also wizzo) ▶ adjective [often as exclamation] informal, dated excellent.

whizzy ▶ adjective technologically innovative or advanced: boggle your eyes at the whizzy visuals.

WHO ▶ abbreviation for World Health Organization.

who ▶ pronoun 1 [interrogative pronoun] what or which person or people: who is that woman? | I wonder who that letter was from.
2 [relative pronoun] used to introduce a clause giving further information about a person or people previously mentioned: Joan Fontaine plays the mouse who married the playboy.
■ archaic the person that; whoever: who holds the sea, perforce doth hold the land.
– PHRASES as who should say archaic as if to say: he meekly bowed to him, as who should say 'Proceed.' who am I (or are you, is he, etc.) to do something what right or authority do I (or you, he, etc.) have to do something: who am I to object? who goes there? see GO[1].
– ORIGIN Old English hwā, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wie and German wer.

USAGE 1 A continuing debate in English usage is the question of when to use who and when to use whom. According to formal grammar, who forms the subjective case and so should be used in subject position in a sentence, as in who decided this? The form whom, on the other hand, forms the objective case and so should be used in object position in a sentence, as in whom do you think we should support?; to whom do you wish to speak? Although there are some speakers who still use who and whom according to the rules of formal grammar as stated here, there are many more who rarely use whom at all; its use has retreated steadily and is now largely restricted to formal contexts. The normal practice in modern English is to use who instead of whom (and, where applicable, to put the preposition at the end of the sentence): who do you wish to speak to?; who do you think we should support? Such uses are today broadly accepted in standard English. In the British National Corpus, for example, who is around fifteen times more frequently used for the objective case than whom.

2 On the use of who and that in relative clauses see usage at THAT.

whoa /wəʊ/ ▶ exclamation used as a command to a horse to make it stop or slow down.
■ informal used as a greeting, to express surprise or interest, or to command attention: whoa, that's huge!
– ORIGIN late Middle English: variant of HO[2].

who'd ▶ contraction of ■ who had: some Americans who'd arrived after lunch. ■ who would: he knew many of the people who'd be there.

whodunnit (US whodunit) ▶ noun informal a story or play about a murder in which the identity of the murderer is not revealed until the end.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from who done it?, non-standard form of who did it?

whoe'er /huːˈɛː/ poetic/literary ▶ contraction of whoever.

whoever ▶ relative pronoun the person or people who; any person who: whoever wins should be guaranteed an Olympic place.
■ regardless of who: come out, whoever you are.
▶ interrogative pronoun used for emphasis instead of 'who' in questions, typically expressing surprise or confusion: whoever would want to make up something like that?

USAGE In the emphatic use (whoever does he think he is?) whoever is also written as two words. See usage at HOWEVER.

whole ▶ adjective 1 [attrib.] all of; entire: he spent the whole day walking | she wasn't telling the whole truth.
■ used to emphasize a large extent or number: disputes on a whole range of issues.
2 in an unbroken or undamaged state; in one piece: owls usually swallow their prey whole.
■ [attrib.] (of milk, blood, or other substances) with no part removed. ■ [predic.] healthy: all people should be whole in body, mind, and spirit.
▶ noun 1 a thing that is complete in itself: the subjects of the curriculum form a coherent whole.
2 (the whole) all of something: the effects will last for the whole of his life.
▶ adverb [as submodifier] informal used to emphasize the novelty or distinctness of something: the man who's given a whole new meaning to the term 'cowboy'.
– PHRASES as a whole as a single unit and not as separate parts; in general: a healthy economy is in the best interests of society as a whole. in whole entirely or fully: a number of stone churches survive in whole or in part. in the whole (wide) world anywhere; of all: he was the nicest person in the whole world. on the whole taking everything into account; in general. the whole nine yards informal, chiefly N. Amer. everything possible or available: send in the troops, aircraft, nuclear submarine experts, the whole nine yards.
– DERIVATIVES wholeness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English hāl, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch heel and German heil, also to HAIL[2]. The spelling with wh- (reflecting a dialect pronunciation with w-) first appeared in the 15th cent.

whole cloth ▶ noun [mass noun] cloth of the full size as manufactured, as distinguished from a piece cut off for a garment or other item.
– PHRASES out of (the) whole cloth N. Amer. informal totally false: she created conspiracy theories out of the whole cloth.

wholefood ▶ noun [mass noun] (also wholefoods) Brit. food that has been processed or refined as little as possible and is free from additives or other artificial substances.

wholegrain ▶ adjective made with or containing whole unprocessed grains of something: wholegrain mustard.

wholehearted ▶ adjective showing or characterized by complete sincerity and commitment: you have my wholehearted support.
– DERIVATIVES wholeheartedly adverb, wholeheartedness noun.

whole-life ▶ adjective [attrib.] relating to or denoting a life insurance policy that pays a specified amount only on the death of the person insured.

wholemeal Brit. ▶ adjective denoting flour or bread made from whole grains of wheat, including the husk or outer layer.
▶ noun [mass noun] wholemeal bread or flour.

whole note ▶ noun Music, chiefly N. Amer. a semibreve.

whole number ▶ noun a number without fractions; an integer.

wholesale ▶ noun [mass noun] the selling of goods in large quantities to be retailed by others.
▶ adverb being sold in such a way: bottles from this region sell wholesale at about £72 a case.
■ on a large scale: the safety clauses seem to have been taken wholesale from union documents.
▶ adjective done on a large scale; extensive: the wholesale destruction of Iraqi communications.
▶ verb [with obj.] sell (goods) in large quantities at low prices to be retailed by others.
– DERIVATIVES wholesaler noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: originally as by whole sale 'in large quantities'.

wholescale ▶ adjective another term for WHOLESALE.

wholesome ▶ adjective conducive to or suggestive of good health and physical well-being: the food is plentiful and very wholesome.
■ conducive to or promoting moral well-being: good wholesome fun.
– DERIVATIVES wholesomely adverb, wholesomeness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: probably already in Old English (see WHOLE, -SOME[1]).

whole step ▶ noun Music an interval of a (whole) tone.

whole-time ▶ adjective & adverb another term for FULL-TIME.
– DERIVATIVES whole-timer noun.

whole-tone scale ▶ noun Music a scale consisting entirely of intervals of a tone, with no semitones.

wholewheat ▶ noun [mass noun] [usu. as modifier] whole grains of wheat including the husk or outer layer: wholewheat pasta.

wholism ▶ noun variant spelling of HOLISM.

wholly /ˈhəʊlli, ˈhəʊli/ ▶ adverb entirely; fully: she found herself given over wholly to sensation | [as submodifier] the distinction is not wholly clear.
– ORIGIN Middle English: probably already in Old English (see WHOLE, -LY[2]).

wholly-owned ▶ adjective denoting a company all of whose shares are owned by another company.

whom ▶ pronoun used instead of 'who' as the object of a verb or preposition: [interrogative pronoun] whom did he marry? | [relative pronoun] her mother, in whom she confided, said it wasn't easy for her.

USAGE On the use of who and whom, see usage at WHO.

whomever ▶ pronoun chiefly formal or poetic/literary used instead of 'whoever' as the object of a verb or preposition: I'll sing whatever I like to whomever I like.

whomp /wɒmp/ informal ▶ verb [with obj.] strike heavily; thump: whomp the club head on the ground | [no obj.] giant comet chunks whomped into Jupiter.
■ defeat decisively: that was our last fight and I whomped him good.
▶ noun a dull heavy sound.
▶ whomp something up N. Amer. produce something quickly: I might whomp up a couple of gallons of spaghetti sauce.
– ORIGIN 1920s: imitative.

whomso ▶ pronoun archaic used instead of 'whoso' as the object of a verb or preposition: whomso thou meetest, say thou this to each.

whomsoever ▶ relative pronoun formal used instead of 'whosoever' as the object of a verb or preposition: they supported his right to marry whomsoever he chose.

whoomph /wʊm(p)f/ (also whoomp /wʊmp/) ▶ noun a sudden loud sound, such as that made by a muffled or distant explosion: the distant whoomph of anti-aircraft shells bursting.
– ORIGIN 1950s: imitative.

whoop /huːp, wuːp/ ▶ noun 1 a loud cry of joy or excitement.
■ a hooting cry or sound: the whoop of fast-approaching sirens. ■ a long rasping indrawn breath, typically of someone with whooping cough.
2 (in motorcycling or cycling) a bump or dip on an off-road racetrack or rally course.
▶ verb [no obj.] give or make a whoop: all at once they were whooping with laughter.
– PHRASES not give (or care) a whoop US informal, dated be totally indifferent. whoop it up informal enjoy oneself or celebrate in a noisy way. ■ US create or stir up excitement or enthusiasm.
– ORIGIN Middle English: probably imitative.

whoopee informal ▶ exclamation /wʊˈpiː/ expressing wild excitement or joy.
▶ noun /ˈwʊpi/ [mass noun] wild revelry: hours of parades and whoopee.
■ [count noun] dated a wild party.
– PHRASES make whoopee 1 celebrate wildly. 2 have sexual intercourse.

whoopee cushion ▶ noun a rubber cushion that makes a sound like the breaking of wind when someone sits on it.

whooper /ˈhuːpə, ˈw-/ (also whooper swan) ▶ noun a large migratory swan with a black and yellow bill and a loud trumpeting call, breeding in northern Eurasia and Greenland.
• Cygnus cygnus, family Anatidae.

whooping cough /ˈhuːpɪŋ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a contagious bacterial disease chiefly affecting children, characterized by convulsive coughs followed by a whoop. Also called PERTUSSIS.
• The organism responsible is Bordetella pertussis, a Gram-negative bacterium intermediate between a coccus and a bacillus.

whooping crane /ˈhuːpɪŋ, ˈw-/ ▶ noun a large mainly white crane with a trumpeting call, breeding in central Canada and now endangered.
• Grus americana, family Gruidae.

whoops (also whoops-a-daisy) ▶ exclamation informal expressing mild dismay or regret (used when someone has had an accident or made a mistake): Whoops! I nearly dropped it.
– ORIGIN 1920s: probably an alteration of UPSY-DAISY; compare with OOPS.

whoopsie /ˈwʊpsi, ˈwuː-/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) Brit. informal used euphemistically to refer to a piece of excrement.

whoosh /wʊʃ, wuːʃ/ (also woosh) ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] move quickly or suddenly with a rushing sound: a train whooshed by | [as adj. whooshing] there was a loud whooshing noise.
■ [with obj. and adverbial or complement] move (something) in such a way: he whooshed the curtains open.
▶ noun a sudden movement accompanied by a rushing sound: there was a big whoosh of air.
▶ exclamation used to imitate such a movement and sound.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: imitative.

whop /wɒp/ (chiefly US also whap) informal ▶ verb (whopped, whopping) [with obj.] hit hard: Smith whopped him on the nose.
▶ noun a heavy blow or the sound of such a blow.
■ the regular pulsing sound of a helicopter rotor.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'take or put sharply'): variant of dialect wap 'strike', of unknown origin.

whopper ▶ noun informal a thing that is extremely or unusually large: the novel is a 1,079 page whopper.
■ a gross or blatant lie.

whopping ▶ adjective informal very large: a whopping £74 million loss | [as submodifier] a whopping great lie.

whore ▶ noun derogatory a prostitute.
■ a promiscuous woman.
▶ verb [no obj.] (of a woman) work as a prostitute: she spent her life whoring for dangerous men.
■ [often as noun whoring] (of a man) use the services of prostitutes: he lived by night, indulging in his two hobbies, whoring and eating. ■ debase oneself by doing something for unworthy motives, typically to make money: he had never whored after money.
– PHRASES the Whore of Babylon derogatory the Roman Catholic Church. [ORIGIN: with biblical allusion to Rev. 17:1, 5, etc.).]

– ORIGIN late Old English hōre, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch hoer and German Hure, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin carus 'dear'.

whoredom ▶ noun [mass noun] dated prostitution or other promiscuous sexual activity.

whorehouse ▶ noun informal a brothel.

whoremaster ▶ noun archaic a whoremonger.

whoremonger ▶ noun archaic a person who has dealings with prostitutes, especially a sexually promiscuous man.

whoreson /'hɔ:s(ə)n/ ▶ noun archaic an unpleasant or greatly disliked person.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from WHORE + SON, suggested by Anglo-Norman French fiz a putain.

Whorf /wɔ:f/, Benjamin Lee (1897–1941), American linguist and insurance worker, known for his contribution to the Sapir-Whorf hypothesis. A student of linguistics in his spare time, Whorf studied Hopi and other American Indian languages and attended Edward Sapir's courses at Yale.

whorish /'hɔ:rɪʃ/ ▶ adjective belonging to or characteristic of a prostitute.
– DERIVATIVES whorishly adverb, whorishness noun.

whorl /wɔ:l, wə:l/ ▶ noun a coil or ring, in particular:
■ Zoology each of the turns or convolutions in the shell of a gastropod or ammonoid mollusc. ■ Botany a set of leaves, flowers, or branches springing from the stem at the same level and encircling it. ■ Botany (in a flower) each of the sets of organs, especially the petals and sepals, arranged concentrically round the receptacle. ■ a complete circle in a fingerprint. ■ chiefly historical a small wheel or pulley in a spinning wheel, spinning machine, or spindle.
▶ verb [no obj.] poetic/literary spiral or move in a twisted and convoluted fashion: the dances are kinetic kaleidoscopes where steps whorl into wildness.
– DERIVATIVES whorled adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting a small flywheel): apparently a variant of WHIRL, influenced by Old English wharve 'whorl of a spindle'.

whortleberry /'wə:t(ə)l,b(ə)ri, -'bɛri/ ▶ noun a bilberry.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: dialect variant of Middle English hurtleberry, of unknown origin.

who's ▶ contraction of ■ who is: who's that? ■ who has: who's done the reading?

USAGE A common written mistake is to confuse who's with whose. The form who's represents a contraction of 'who is' or 'who has', while whose is a possessive pronoun or determiner used in questions, as in whose is this? or whose turn is it?

whose ▶ interrogative possessive determiner & pronoun belonging to or associated with which person: [as determiner] whose round is it? | [as pronoun] a Mini was parked at the kerb and Juliet wondered whose it was.
▶ relative possessive determiner of whom or which (used to indicate that the following noun belongs to or is associated with the person or thing mentioned in the previous clause): he's a man whose opinion I respect.
– ORIGIN Old English hwæs, genitive of hwā 'who' and hwæt 'what'.

whosesoever ▶ relative pronoun & determiner formal whoever's: [as determiner] the story will have been told you by your fathers, whosesoever sons you are.

whosever ▶ relative pronoun & determiner rare belonging to or associated with whichever person; whoever's: [as pronoun] the choice, whosever it was, is interesting | [as determiner] she dialled whosever number she could still remember.

whoso ▶ pronoun archaic term for WHOEVER: whoso took such things into account was a fool.
– ORIGIN Middle English: shortening Old English swā hwā swā 'so who so'.

whosoever ▶ pronoun formal term for WHOEVER: a belief that whosoever steals will be blinded.

who's who ▶ noun a list or directory of facts about notable people.

wh-question ▶ noun a question in English introduced by a wh-word, that requires information in answer, rather than yes or no.

whump /wʌmp, wʊmp/ ▶ noun [usu. in sing.] a dull thudding sound: the horse fell with a great whump.
▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial] make such a sound: he pitched a snowball that whumped into the car.
■ [with obj.] strike (something) heavily with such a sound: she began whumping him on his lower back.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: imitative.

whup /wʌp/ ▶ verb (whupped, whupping) [with obj.] informal, chiefly N. Amer. beat; thrash: they would whup him and send him home.
■ defeat convincingly: if you lined up our guys against the 49ers, they'd get whupped.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: variant of WHIP.

wh-word ▶ noun Grammar any of a class of English words used to introduce questions and relative clauses. The main wh-words are why, who, which, what, where, when, and how.

why ▶ interrogative adverb for what reason or purpose: why did he do it?
■ [with negative] used to make or agree to a suggestion: why don't I give you a lift?
▶ relative adverb (with reference to a reason) on account of which; for which: the reason why flu jabs need repeating every year is that the virus changes.
■ the reason for which: each has faced similar hardships, and perhaps that is why they are friends.
▶ exclamation 1 expressing surprise or indignation: Why, that's absurd!
2 used to add emphasis to a response: 'You think so?' 'Why, yes.'
▶ noun (pl. whys) a reason or explanation: the whys and wherefores of these procedures need to be explained to students.
– PHRASES why so? for what reason or purpose?
– ORIGIN Old English hwī, hwȳ 'by what cause', instrumental case of hwæt 'what', of Germanic origin.

Whyalla /wʌɪ'alə/ a steel-manufacturing town on the coast of South Australia, on the Spencer Gulf; pop. 25,525 (1991).

whydah /'wɪdə/ (also whyda) ▶ noun an African weaver bird, the male of which has a black back and a very long black tail used in display flight.
● Genus Vidua, family Ploceidae: several species.
■ another term for WIDOWBIRD.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent. (originally widow-bird): alteration by association with Whidah (now Ouidah), a town in Benin.

Whymper /'wɪmpə/, Edward (1840–1911), English mountaineer. After seven attempts he finally succeeded in climbing the Matterhorn in 1865, but on the way down four of his fellow climbers fell to their deaths.

WI ▶ abbreviation for ■ West Indies. ■ Wisconsin (in official postal use). ■ Brit. Women's Institute.

wibble ▶ verb [no obj.] informal 1 another term for WOBBLE: his chin was wibbling over the edge of his violin.
2 speak or write, especially at great length, without saying anything important or useful: why was he allowed to wibble on about the game?
– DERIVATIVES wibbly adjective.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: independent usage of the first element of the reduplication wibble-wobble.

Wicca /'wɪkə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the religious cult of modern witchcraft, especially an initiatory tradition founded in England in the mid 20th century and claiming its origins in pre-Christian pagan religions.
– DERIVATIVES Wiccan adjective & noun.
– ORIGIN representing Old English wicca 'witch'.

Wichita /'wɪtʃɪtɔ:/ a city in southern Kansas, on the River Arkansas; pop. 304,000 (1990).

wick[1] ▶ noun a strip of porous material up which liquid fuel is drawn by capillary action to the flame in a candle, lamp, or lighter.
■ Medicine a gauze strip inserted in a wound to drain it.
▶ verb [with obj.] absorb or draw off (liquid) by capillary action: these excellent socks will wick away the sweat | [no obj.] synthetics with hollow fibres that wick well.
– PHRASES dip one's wick vulgar slang (of a man) have sexual intercourse. get on someone's wick Brit. informal annoy someone.
– ORIGIN Old English wēoce, of West Germanic origin; related to Dutch wiek and German Wieche 'wick yarn'.

wick[2] ▶ noun 1 [in place names] a town, hamlet, or district: Hampton Wick | Warwick.
2 dialect a dairy farm.
– ORIGIN Old English wīc 'dwelling place', probably based on Latin vicus 'street, village'.

wick[3] ▶ adjective N. English quick, lively, or active: Martha's approaching her century and as wick as a flea.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: variant of QUICK.

wicked ▶ adjective (wickeder, wickedest) evil or morally wrong: a wicked and unscrupulous politician.
■ intended to or capable of harming someone or something: he should be punished for his wicked driving. ■ informal extremely unpleasant: despite the sun, the wind outside was wicked. ■ playfully mischievous: Ben has a wicked sense of humour. ■ informal excellent; wonderful. Sophie makes wicked cakes.
– PHRASES no rest (or peace) for the wicked humorous the speaker's heavy workload or lack of tranquillity is due to their sinful life. [ORIGIN: with biblical allusion to Isa. 48:22, 57:21.]
– DERIVATIVES wickedly adverb, wickedness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: probably from Old English wicca 'witch' + -ED[1].

wicker ▶ noun [mass noun] pliable twigs, typically of willow, plaited or woven to make items such as furniture and baskets: [as modifier] a wicker chair.
– ORIGIN Middle English: of Scandinavian origin; compare with Swedish viker 'willow'; related to vika 'to bend'.

wickerwork ▶ noun [mass noun] wicker.
■ furniture or other items made of wicker.

wicket ▶ noun 1 Cricket each of the sets of three stumps with two bails across the top at either end of the pitch, defended by a batsman.
■ the prepared strip of ground between these two sets of stumps. ■ the dismissal of a batsman; each of ten dismissals regarded as marking a division of a side's innings: Darlington won by four wickets.
2 (also wicket door or wicket gate) a small door or gate, especially one beside or in a larger one.
■ US an opening in a door or wall, often fitted with glass or a grille and used for selling tickets or a similar purpose. ■ US a croquet hoop.
– PHRASES at the wicket Cricket 1 batting: the batsman remained at the wicket. 2 by the wicketkeeper: he was caught at the wicket chasing a wide one. keep wicket Cricket be a wicketkeeper. lose a wicket Cricket (of a fielding side) have a batsman dismissed. a sticky wicket Cricket a pitch that has been drying after rain and is difficult to bat on. ■ [in sing.] informal a tricky or awkward situation: I might be on a sticky wicket if I used that line. over the wicket Cricket (referring to which side of the wicket a bowler runs when bowling) to the left of the wicket if a right-handed bowler and the right of the wicket if a left-handed bowler. round the wicket Cricket (referring to which side of the wicket a bowler runs when bowling) to the right of the wicket if a right-handed bowler and the left of the wicket if a left-handed bowler. take a wicket Cricket (of a bowler or a fielding side) dismiss a batsman.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'small door or grille'): from Anglo-Norman French and Old Northern French wiket; origin uncertain, usually referred to the Germanic root of Old Norse vīkja 'to turn, move'. Cricket senses date from the late 17th cent.

wicketkeeper ▶ noun Cricket a fielder stationed close behind a batsman's wicket and typically equipped with gloves and pads.
– DERIVATIVES wicketkeeping noun.

wickiup /'wɪkɪʌp/ ▶ noun an American Indian hut consisting of an oval frame covered with brushwood or grass.
– ORIGIN Algonquian.

Wicklow /'wɪkləʊ/ a county of the Republic of Ireland, in the east, in the province of Leinster.
■ its county town, on the Irish Sea; pop. 5,850 (1991).

widdershins /'wɪdəʃɪnz/ (also withershins) ▶ adverb chiefly Scottish in a direction contrary to the sun's course, considered as unlucky; anticlockwise.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from Middle Low German weddersins, from Middle High German widersinnes, from wider 'against' + sin 'direction'; the second element was associated with Scots sin 'sun'.

widdle informal ▶ verb [no obj.] urinate.
▶ noun an act of urinating.
■ [mass noun] urine.
– ORIGIN 1950s: alteration of PIDDLE.

wide ▶ adjective (wider, widest) 1 of great or more than average width: a wide road.
■ (after a measurement and in questions) from side to side: it measures 15 cm long by 12 cm wide | how wide do you think this house is? ■ open to the full extent: wide eyes. ■ considerable: tax revenues have undershot Treasury projections by a wide margin.

2 including a great variety of people or things: a wide range of opinion.
■spread among a large number of people or over a large area: wider share ownership. ■ [in combination] extending over the whole of: an industry-wide trend.
3 at a considerable or specified distance from a point or mark: the ball was wide of the leg stump.
■(especially in soccer) at or near the side of the field: he played in a wide left position.
▶ adverb 1 to the full extent: his eyes opened wide.
2 far from a particular point or mark: he hit the safety fence after a local rider inside him drifted wide.
■(especially in football) at or near the side of the field: he will play wide on the right.
▶ noun Cricket a ball that is judged to be too wide of the stumps for the batsman to play, for which an extra is awarded to the batting side.
– PHRASES give someone/thing a wide berth see BERTH. wide awake fully awake. wide of the mark a long way away from an intended target. ■ inaccurate: Dickie's memory is somewhat wide of the mark. wide open 1 stretching over an outdoor expanse: the wide open spaces of Montana. 2 offering a great variety of opportunities: suddenly the whole world was wide open to her. 3 (of a contest) of which the outcome is not predictable. 4 vulnerable, especially to attack.
– DERIVATIVES wideness noun, widish adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wīd 'spacious, extensive', wīde 'over a large area', of Germanic origin.

wide-angle ▶ adjective (of a lens) having a short focal length and hence a field covering a wide angle.

wide area network (abbrev.: WAN) ▶ noun a computer network in which the computers connected may be far apart, generally having a radius of more than 1 km.

wideawake ▶ noun a soft felt hat with a low crown and wide brim.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: punningly so named, because the hat does not have a nap.

wide ball ▶ noun Cricket another term for WIDE.

wide-band ▶ adjective (of a radio, or other device or activity involving broadcasting) having or using a wide band of frequencies or wavelengths.

widebody (also wide-bodied) ▶ adjective [attrib.] having a wide body, in particular:
■(of a large jet aeroplane) having a wide fuselage. ■ chiefly US (of a tennis racket) having a wide head.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) 1 a large jet aeroplane with a wide fuselage.
2 US a tennis racket with a wide head.
3 US informal a large, heavily built person, especially one who plays a team sport.

wide boy ▶ noun Brit. informal a man involved in petty criminal activities.

wide-eyed ▶ adjective having one's eyes wide open in amazement.
■figurative innocent: people think of Pinocchio as the wide-eyed, sweet-voiced puppet.
▶ adverb with one's eyes wide open in amazement: we looked at each other wide-eyed.

widely ▶ adverb 1 over a wide area or at a wide interval: he smiled widely and held out a hand | a tall man with widely spaced eyes.
■to a large degree in nature or character (used to describe considerable variation or difference): lending policies vary widely between different banks | [as submodifier] people in widely different circumstances.
2 over a large area or range; extensively: Deborah has travelled widely | [as submodifier] she was widely read.
■by many people or in many places: credit cards are widely accepted.

widen ▶ verb make or become wider: [with obj.] the incentive to dredge and widen the river | [no obj.] his grin widened | the lane widened out into a small clearing.
– DERIVATIVES widener noun.

wideout ▶ noun a wide receiver.

wide-ranging ▶ adjective covering an extensive range: a wide-ranging discussion.

wide receiver ▶ noun American Football an offensive player positioned away from the line, used primarily as a pass receiver.

widescreen ▶ adjective [attrib.] designed with or for a screen presenting a wide field of vision in relation to its height: a widescreen TV.
▶ noun a cinema or television screen presenting a wide field of vision in relation to its height.
■[mass noun] a film format presenting a wide field of vision in relation to height.

widespread ▶ adjective found or distributed over a large area or number of people: there was widespread support for the war.

widgeon ▶ noun variant spelling of WIGEON.

widger /ˈwɪdʒə/ ▶ noun a spatula used in gardening to transplant seedlings.
– ORIGIN 1950s: a word from a nonsense definition used in a series of memory tests.

widget /ˈwɪdʒɪt/ ▶ noun informal a gadget or mechanical device, in particular:
■Computing a component of a user interface which operates in a particular way. ■ (in some beer cans) a plastic device which introduces nitrogen into the beer, giving it a creamy head in imitation of draught beer.
– ORIGIN 1930s (originally US): perhaps an alteration of GADGET.

Widnes /ˈwɪdnɪs/ a town on the River Mersey in Cheshire, NW England; pop. 55,930 (1981).

widow ▶ noun 1 a woman who has lost her husband by death and has not married again.
■[with modifier] humorous a woman whose husband is often away participating in a specified sport or activity: my wife has been a golf widow for the last 30 years.
2 Printing a last word or short last line of a paragraph falling at the top of a page or column and considered undesirable.
3 a widowbird.
▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. widowed] make into a widow or widower: she had to care for her widowed mother.
– ORIGIN Old English widewe, from an Indo-European root meaning 'be empty'; compare with Sanskrit vidh 'be destitute', Latin viduus 'bereft, widowed', and Greek ētheos 'unmarried man'.

widowbird ▶ noun an African weaver bird, the male of which has mainly black plumage and typically a long tail used in leaping displays.
● Genus Euplectes, family Ploceidae: several species.
■another term for WHYDAH.

widower ▶ noun a man who has lost his wife by death and has not married again.

widow finch ▶ noun S. African an indigobird or a widowbird.

widowhood ▶ noun [mass noun] the state or period of being a widow or widower.

widow-maker ▶ noun informal a thing with the potential to kill men.
■Canadian a dead branch caught precariously high in a tree which may fall on a person below.

widow's cruse ▶ noun [in sing.] an apparently small supply that proves inexhaustible.
– ORIGIN with biblical allusion to 1 Kings 17:10–16.

widow's mite ▶ noun a small monetary contribution from someone who is poor.
– ORIGIN with biblical allusion to Mark 12:43.

widow's peak ▶ noun a V-shaped growth of hair towards the centre of the forehead, especially one left by a receding hairline in a man.

widow's walk ▶ noun N. Amer. a railed or balustraded platform built on a roof, originally in early New England houses, typically for providing an unimpeded view of the sea.
– ORIGIN 1930s: with reference to its use as a viewpoint for the hoped-for return of a seafaring husband.

widow's weeds ▶ plural noun black clothes worn by a widow in mourning.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent. (earlier as mourning weeds): weeds (obsolete in the general sense 'garments') is from Old English wǣd(e), of Germanic origin.

width /wɪtθ, wɪdθ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the measurement or extent of something from side to side; the lesser of two or the least of three dimensions of a body: the yard was about seven feet in width | [count noun] the shoe comes in a variety of widths.
■[count noun] a piece of something at its full extent from side to side: a single width of hardboard. ■ [count noun] the sideways extent of a swimming pool as a measure of the distance swum. ■ the quality of covering or accepting a broad range of things; scope: the width of experience required for these positions.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from WIDE + -TH², on the pattern of breadth (replacing wideness).

widthways (also widthwise) ▶ adverb in a direction parallel with a thing's width: fold the pastry in half widthways.

wield ▶ verb [with obj.] hold and use (a weapon or tool): a masked raider wielding a handgun.
■have and be able to use (power or influence): faction leaders wielded enormous influence within the party.
– DERIVATIVES wielder noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wealdan, wieldan 'govern, subdue, direct', of Germanic origin; related to German walten.

wieldy ▶ adjective (wieldier, wieldiest) easily controlled or handled: the beefy Bentley is far from wieldy.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: back-formation from UNWIELDY.

Wien /viːn/ German name for VIENNA.

Wiener /ˈwiːnə/, Norbert (1894–1964), American mathematician. He is best known for establishing the science of cybernetics in the late 1940s. Wiener made major contributions to the study of stochastic processes, integral equations, harmonic analysis, and related fields.

wiener /ˈwiːnə/ (also informal weenie, wienie /ˈwiːni/) ▶ noun N. Amer. 1 a frankfurter or similar sausage.
2 vulgar slang a man's penis.
■informal a stupid, boring, or contemptible person.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: abbreviation of German Wienerwurst 'Vienna sausage'.

Wiener schnitzel ▶ noun [mass noun] a dish consisting of a thin slice of veal that is breaded, fried, and garnished.
– ORIGIN from German, literally 'Vienna cutlet'.

Wiesbaden /ˈviːzbɑːd(ə)n, German ˈviːsbaːdn/ a city in western Germany, the capital of the state of Hesse, situated on the Rhine opposite Mainz; pop. 264,020 (1991). It has been a popular spa town since Roman times.

Wiesel /ˈwiːz(ə)l/, Elie (b.1928), Romanian-born American human rights campaigner, novelist, and academic; full name Eliezer Wiesel. A survivor of Auschwitz and Buchenwald, Wiesel became an authority on the Holocaust, documenting and publicizing Nazi war crimes. Nobel Peace Prize (1986).

Wiesenthal /ˈviːz(ə)ntɑːl/, Simon (b.1908), Austrian Jewish investigator of Nazi war crimes. After spending three years in concentration camps he began a campaign to bring Nazi war criminals to justice, tracing some 1,000 unprosecuted criminals including Adolf Eichmann.

wife ▶ noun (pl. wives) a married woman considered in relation to her husband.
■[with modifier] the wife of a man with a specified occupation: a clergy wife. ■ archaic or dialect a woman, especially an old or uneducated one.
– PHRASES take a woman to wife archaic marry a woman.
– DERIVATIVES wifehood noun, wifeless adjective, wife-like adjective, wifeliness noun, wifely adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wīf 'woman', of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wijf and German Weib.

wife-swapping ▶ noun [mass noun] informal the practice within a group of married couples of exchanging sexual partners on a casual basis.

wifey ▶ noun (pl. -eys) informal a condescending way of referring to a man's wife.

Wiffle ball ▶ noun US trademark a light perforated ball used in a type of baseball.
■[mass noun] a game played with such a ball.
– ORIGIN 1950s: Wiffle, variant of WHIFFLE.

wifie ▶ noun (pl. -ies) Scottish a woman.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: diminutive of WIFE.

wig¹ ▶ noun a covering for the head made of real or artificial hair, typically worn by judges and barristers in law courts or by people trying to conceal their baldness.
– DERIVATIVES wigged adjective, wigless adjective.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: shortening of PERIWIG.

wig² ▶ verb (wigged, wigging) [with obj.] Brit. informal, dated rebuke (someone) severely: I had often occasion to wig him for getting drunk.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: apparently from WIG¹, perhaps from BIGWIG and associated with a rebuke given by a person in authority.
▶ wig out informal, chiefly US become deliriously excited; go completely wild.

Wigan /ˈwɪg(ə)n/ a town in NW England, near Manchester; pop. 88,900 (1981).

wigeon /ˈwɪdʒ(ə)n/ (also widgeon) ▶ noun a dabbling duck with mainly reddish-brown and grey plumage, the male having a whistling call.
● Genus Anas, family Anatidae: three species, in particular the European wigeon (A. penelope) and the American wigeon (A. americana).

– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: perhaps of imitative origin and suggested by PIGEON[1].

wigging ▶ noun Brit. informal, dated a severe rebuke.

wiggle ▶ verb move or cause to move up and down or from side to side with small rapid movements: [with obj.] Vi wiggled her toes | [no obj.] my tooth was wiggling about.
▶ noun a movement of such a kind: a slight wiggle of the hips.
■ a deviation in a line: a wiggle on a chart.
– PHRASES get a wiggle on US informal get moving; hurry.
– DERIVATIVES wiggly adjective (wigglier, wiggliest).
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Middle Low German and Middle Dutch wiggelen (frequentative).

wiggler ▶ noun a person or thing that wiggles or causes something to wiggle.
■ Physics a magnet designed to make a beam of particles in an accelerator follow a sinusoidal path, in order to increase the amount of radiation they produce.

wiggy ▶ adjective (wiggier, wiggiest) informal, chiefly N. Amer. emotionally uncontrolled or weird: Arkansas has its wiggy side.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from US slang wig out (see WIG[2]).

Wight a shipping forecast area covering the English Channel roughly between the Strait of Dover and the meridian of Poole.

wight ▶ noun [usu. with adj.] archaic or dialect a person of a specified kind, especially one regarded as unfortunate: he always was an unlucky wight.
■ poetic/literary a spirit, ghost, or other supernatural being.
– ORIGIN Old English wiht 'thing, creature', of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wicht 'little child' and German Wicht 'creature'.

Wight, Isle of see ISLE OF WIGHT.

Wigtownshire /ˈwɪgtənʃɪə, -ʃə/ a former county of SW Scotland. It became a part of the region of Dumfries and Galloway in 1975.

wig tree ▶ noun the smoke tree.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: so named because of its hair-like arrangement of flowers.

wigwag ▶ verb (wigwagged, wigwagging) [no obj.] US informal move to and fro: the wipers were wigwagging to keep the windscreen clear.
■ signal by waving an arm, flag, light, or other object: Ned furiously wigwagged at her.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: reduplication of WAG[1].

wigwam ▶ noun a dome-shaped hut or tent made by fastening mats, skins, or bark over a framework of poles, used by some North American Indian peoples.
■ a pyramidal framework of poles used to support runner beans, sweet peas, and other climbing plants.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Ojibwa wigwaum, Algonquian wikiwam 'their house'.

Wilberforce /ˈwɪlbəfɔːs/, William (1759–1833), English politician and social reformer. He was a prominent campaigner for the abolition of the slave trade, his efforts resulting in its outlawing in the British West Indies (1807) and in the 1833 Slavery Abolition Act.

wilco ▶ exclamation expressing compliance or agreement, especially acceptance of instructions received by radio.
– ORIGIN 1940s (originally in military use): abbreviation of will comply.

Wilcox, Ella Wheeler (1850–1919), American poet, novelist, and short-story writer. She wrote many volumes of romantic verse, the most successful one being Poems of Passion (1883).

Wilcoxon test /ˈwɪlkɒks(ə)n/ ▶ noun another term for SIGNED-RANK TEST.
– ORIGIN 1960s: named after Frank Wilcoxon (1892–1965), Irish statistician.

wild ▶ adjective 1 (of an animal or plant) living or growing in the natural environment; not domesticated or cultivated.
■ (of people) not civilized; barbarous: the wild tribes from the north. ■ (of scenery or a region) desolate-looking: the wild coastline of Cape Wrath.
2 uncontrolled or unrestrained, especially in pursuit of pleasure: she went through a wild phase of drunken parties and desperate affairs.
■ haphazard, especially rashly so: a wild guess. ■ extravagant or unreasonable; fanciful: who, even in their wildest dreams, could have anticipated such a victory? ■ stormy: the wild sea. ■ informal very enthusiastic or excited: I'm not wild about the music. ■ informal very angry. ■ (of looks, appearance, etc.) indicating distraction: her wild eyes were darting back and forth. ■ (of a playing card) deemed to have any value, suit, colour, or other property in a game at the discretion of the player holding it. See also WILD CARD.
▶ noun (the wild) a natural state or uncultivated or uninhabited region: kiwis are virtually extinct in the wild.
■ (the wilds) a remote uninhabited or sparsely inhabited area: he spent a year in the wilds of Canada.
▶ verb [with obj.] W. Indian treat (someone or something) harshly, so that they become untrusting or nervous.
– PHRASES run wild (of an animal, plant, or person) grow or develop without restraint or discipline: these horses have been running wild since they were born | figurative her imagination had run wild. wild and woolly uncouth in appearance or behaviour.
– DERIVATIVES wildish adjective, wildly adverb, wildness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wilde, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch and German wild.

wild arum ▶ noun another term for CUCKOO PINT.

wild boar ▶ noun see BOAR (sense 1).

wild card ▶ noun a playing card that can have any value, suit, colour, or other property in a game at the discretion of the player holding it.
■ a person or thing whose influence is unpredictable or whose qualities are uncertain. ■ Computing a character that will match any character or sequence of characters in a search. ■ an opportunity to enter a sports competition without having to take part in qualifying matches or be ranked at a particular level. ■ a player or team given such an opportunity.

wildcat ▶ noun 1 a small native Eurasian and African cat that is typically grey with black markings and a bushy tail, noted for its ferocity.
• Felis silvestris, family Felidae, the African race of which is believed to be the ancestor of the domestic cat.
■ any of the smaller members of the cat family, especially (N. Amer.) the bobcat. ■ a hot-tempered or ferocious person, typically a woman.
2 an exploratory oil well.
▶ adjective [attrib.] (of a strike) sudden and unofficial: legislation to curb wildcat strikes.
■ commercially unsound or risky.
▶ verb [no obj.] US prospect for oil.

wildcatter ▶ noun US a prospector who sinks exploratory oil wells.

wild-caught ▶ adjective (of an animal) taken from the wild rather than bred from captive stock.

wild cherry ▶ noun another term for GEAN.

wild dagga ▶ noun [mass noun] S. African a preparation of a southern African plant of the mint family, used similarly to cannabis.
• The plant is Leonotis leonurus, family Labiatae.

wild dog ▶ noun a wild member of the dog family, especially the hunting dog of Africa, the dhole of India, or the dingo of Australia.

wild duck ▶ noun another term for MALLARD.

Wilde, Oscar (Fingal O'Flahertie Wills) (1854–1900), Irish dramatist, novelist, poet, and wit. His advocacy of 'art for art's sake' is evident in his only novel, The Picture of Dorian Gray (1890). As a dramatist he achieved success with the comedies Lady Windermere's Fan (1892) and The Importance of Being Earnest (1895). Wilde was imprisoned (1895–7) for homosexual offences and died in exile.

wildebeest /ˈwɪldəbiːst, ˈvɪ-/ ▶ noun (pl. same or wildebeests) another term for GNU.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Afrikaans, literally 'wild beast'.

Wilder[1] /ˈwʌɪldə/, Billy (b.1906), Austrian-born American film director and screenwriter; born Samuel Wilder. He earned recognition as a writer-director with the film noir classic Double Indemnity (1944). Other films include The Apartment (1960), which won three Oscars.

Wilder[2] /ˈwʌɪldə/, Thornton (Niven) (1897–1975), American novelist and dramatist. He won several Pulitzer Prizes. Notable works: The Bridge of San Luis Rey (novel, 1927) and Our Town (play, 1938).

wilder /ˈwɪldə/ ▶ verb [with obj.] archaic cause to lose one's way; lead or drive astray: unknowne Lands, where we have wildered ourselves.
■ perplex; bewilder: the sad Queen, wildered of thought.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: origin uncertain; perhaps based on WILDERNESS.

wilderness ▶ noun [usu. in sing.] an uncultivated, uninhabited, and inhospitable region.
■ a neglected or abandoned area of a garden or town. ■ figurative a position of disfavour, especially in a political context: the man who led the Labour Party out of the wilderness | [as modifier] his wilderness years.
– PHRASES a voice in the wilderness an unheeded advocate of reform (see Matt. 3:3 etc.).
– ORIGIN Old English wildēornes 'land inhabited only by wild animals', from wild dēor 'wild deer' + -NESS.

wild-eyed ▶ adjective (of a person or animal) with an expression of panic or desperation in the eyes.
■ figurative emotionally volatile, typically fearful or desperate: wild-eyed manic depressives.

wildfire ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] historical a combustible liquid such as Greek fire that was readily ignited and difficult to extinguish, used especially in warfare.
2 less common term for WILL-O'-THE-WISP.
– PHRASES spread like wildfire spread with great speed: the news had spread like wildfire.

wild flower ▶ noun a flower of an uncultivated variety or a flower growing freely without human intervention.

wildfowl ▶ plural noun game birds, especially aquatic ones; waterfowl.

wild garlic ▶ noun another term for RAMSONS.

wild ginger ▶ noun [mass noun] a North American plant with an aromatic root which is used as a ginger substitute.
• Asarum canadense, family Aristolochiaceae.

wild goose chase ▶ noun a foolish and hopeless search for or pursuit of something unattainable.

wild horse ▶ noun a domestic horse that has returned to the wild, or that is allowed to live under natural conditions; a feral horse.
■ a horse that has not been broken in. ■ a wild animal of the horse family.
– PHRASES wild horses wouldn't —— used to convey that nothing could persuade or force someone to do something: wild horses wouldn't have kept me away.

wild hyacinth ▶ noun Scottish term for BLUEBELL (in sense 1).

wilding[1] /ˈwʌɪldɪŋ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] US informal the activity by a gang of youths of going on a protracted and violent rampage in a public place, attacking or mugging people at random.
– ORIGIN 1980s: from the adjective WILD + -ING[1].

wilding[2] /ˈwʌɪldɪŋ/ (also wildling /-lɪŋ/) ▶ noun a wild plant, especially an apple tree descended from cultivated varieties, or its fruit.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from the adjective WILD + -ING[3].

wildlife ▶ noun [mass noun] wild animals collectively; the native fauna (and sometimes flora) of a region.

wildlife park ▶ noun see PARK (sense 1).

wild man ▶ noun a man with a fierce or wildly unruly nature.
■ the image of a primitive or uncivilized man as a symbol of the wild side of human nature or of seasonal fertility. ■ a supposed manlike animal such as a yeti.

wild man of the woods ▶ noun dated an orang-utan.
– ORIGIN translating the Malay word for the animal.

wild mustard ▶ noun [mass noun] charlock.

wild oat ▶ noun an Old World grass which is related to the cultivated oat and is commonly found as a weed of other cereals.
• Avena fatua, family Gramineae.
– PHRASES sow one's wild oats see OAT.

wild pitch Baseball ▶ noun a pitch which is not hit by the batter and cannot be stopped by the catcher, enabling a base-runner to advance.
▶ verb (wild-pitch) [with obj.] enable (a base-runner) to advance by making such a pitch.

wild rice ▶ noun [mass noun] a tall aquatic American grass related to rice, with edible grains that are traditionally eaten by American Indians.
• Zizania aquatica, family Gramineae.

wild service tree ▶ noun see SERVICE TREE.

wild silk ▶ noun [mass noun] coarse silk produced by wild silkworms, especially tussore.

wild type ▶ noun [mass noun] Genetics a strain, gene, or characteristic which prevails among individuals in natural conditions, as distinct from an atypical mutant type.

wild water ▶ noun another term for WHITE WATER.

Wild West the western US in a time of lawlessness in its early history. The Wild West was the last of a succession of frontiers formed as settlers moved gradually further west. The frontier was officially declared closed in 1890.

wildwood ▶ noun chiefly poetic/literary an uncultivated wood or forest that has been allowed to grow naturally.

wile ▶ noun (wiles) devious or cunning stratagems employed in manipulating or persuading someone to do what one wants.

▶ verb [with obj.] 1 archaic lure; entice: she could be neither driven nor wiled into the parish kirk.

2 (wile time away) another way of saying while time away. See WHILE.

– ORIGIN Middle English: perhaps from an Old Norse word related to vél 'craft'.

wilful (US also willful) ▶ adjective (of an immoral or illegal act or omission) intentional; deliberate: wilful acts of damage.

■ having or showing a stubborn and determined intention to do as one wants, regardless of the consequences or effects: the pettish, wilful side of him.

– DERIVATIVES wilfully adverb, wilfulness noun.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from the noun WILL[2] + -FUL.

wilga /'wɪlgə/ ▶ noun a small white-flowering Australian tree which is resistant to drought and a valuable source of fodder.

• Geijera parviflora, family Rutaceae.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Wiradhuri wilgar.

Wilhelm I /'vɪlhɛlm/ (1797–1888), king of Prussia 1861–88 and emperor of Germany 1871–88. He became the first emperor of Germany after Prussia's victory against France in 1871. The latter part of his reign was marked by the rise of German socialism, to which he responded with harsh, repressive measures.

Wilhelm II /'vɪlhɛlm/ (1859–1941), emperor of Germany 1888–1918, grandson of Wilhelm I and also of Queen Victoria; known as Kaiser Wilhelm. After forcing Bismarck to resign in 1890 he proved unable to exercise a strong or consistent influence over German policies. He was vilified by Allied propaganda as the author of the First World War. In 1918 he abdicated and went into exile.

Wilhelmina /ˌwɪlə'mi:nə/, (1880–1962), queen of the Netherlands 1890–1948. During the Second World War she maintained a government in exile in London, and through frequent radio broadcasts became a symbol of resistance to the Dutch people. She returned to the Netherlands in 1945.

Wilhelmshaven /'vɪlhɛlmzˌhɑ:v(ə)n/ a port and resort in NW Germany, on the North Sea; pop. 91,150 (1991). It was a major naval base until 1945.

Wilkes Land /wɪlks/ a region of Antarctica with a coast on the Indian Ocean. It is claimed by Australia.

– ORIGIN named after the American naval officer Charles Wilkes (1798–1877), who sighted and surveyed it between 1838 and 1842.

Wilkie, Sir David (1785–1841), Scottish painter. He made his name with the painting Village Politicians (1806). His style contributed to the growing prestige of genre painting.

Wilkins, Maurice Hugh Frederick (b.1916), New Zealand-born British biochemist and molecular biologist. From X-ray diffraction analysis of DNA, he and his colleague Rosalind Franklin confirmed the double helix structure proposed by Francis Crick and James Watson in 1953. Nobel Prize for Physiology or Medicine (1962, shared with Crick and Watson).

will[1] ▶ modal verb (3rd sing. present will; past would)

1 expressing the future tense: you will regret it when you are older.

■ expressing a strong intention or assertion about the future: come what may, I will succeed.

2 expressing inevitable events: accidents will happen.

3 expressing a request: will you stop here, please.

■ expressing desire, consent, or willingness: will you have a cognac?

4 expressing facts about ability or capacity: a rock so light that it will float on water | your tank will hold about 26 gallons.

5 expressing habitual behaviour: she will dance for hours.

■ (pronounced stressing 'will') indicating annoyance about the habitual behaviour described: he will keep intruding.

6 expressing probability or expectation about something in the present: they will be miles away by now.

– PHRASES will do informal expressing willingness to carry out a request or suggestion: 'Might be best to check.' 'Righty-ho, will do.'

– ORIGIN Old English wyllan, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch willen, German wollen, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin velle 'will, wish'.

USAGE On the differences in use between will and shall, see usage at SHALL.

will[2] ▶ noun 1 [usu. in sing.] the faculty by which a person decides on and initiates action: she has an iron will | a battle of wills between children and their parents | [mass noun] an act of will.

■ (also will power) [mass noun] control deliberately exerted to do something or to restrain one's own impulses: a stupendous effort of will. ■ a deliberate or fixed desire or intention: *Jane had not wanted them to stay against their will | [with infinitive] the will to live. ■ the thing that one desires or ordains: the disaster was God's will.

2 a legal document containing instructions as to what should be done with one's money and property after one's death.

▶ verb [with obj.] 1 chiefly formal or poetic/literary intend, desire, or wish (something) to happen: he was doing what the saint willed | [with clause] marijuana, dope, grass—call it what you will.

■ [with obj. and infinitive] make or try to make (someone) do something or (something) happen by the exercise of mental powers: reluctantly he willed himself to turn and go back | she stared into the fog, willing it to clear.

2 (will something to) bequeath something to (someone) by the terms of one's will.

■ [with clause] leave specified instructions in one's will: he willed that his body should be given to the hospital.

– PHRASES at will at whatever time or in whatever way one pleases: it can be moulded and shaped at will | he was shoved around at will. have a will of one's own have a wilful character. have one's will archaic obtain what one wants. if you will said when politely inviting a listener or reader to do something or when using an unusual or fanciful term: imagine, if you will, a typical silversmith's shop. where there's a will there's a way proverb determination will overcome any obstacle. with the best will in the world however good one's intentions (used to imply that success in a particular undertaking is unlikely although desired). with a will energetically and resolutely.

– DERIVATIVES willed adjective [in combination] I'm strong-willed, willer noun.

– ORIGIN Old English willa (noun), willian (verb), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wil, German Wille (nouns), also to WILL[1] and the adverb WELL[1].

Willard /'wɪlɑ:d/, Emma (1787–1870), American educational reformer. She founded a boarding school in Vermont (1814) to teach subjects not then available to women, such as mathematics and philosophy.

willemite /'wɪləmʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a mineral, typically greenish-yellow and fluorescent, consisting of a silicate of zinc.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from the name of Willem I (1772–1843), king of the Netherlands, + -ITE[1].

Willemstad /'wɪləmstɑ:t, 'vɪl-/ the capital of the Netherlands Antilles, situated on the SW coast of the island of Curaçao; pop. 50,000 (est. 1993).

willet /'wɪlɪt/ ▶ noun (pl. same or willets) a large North American sandpiper.

• Catoptrophorus semipalmatus, family Scolopacidae.

– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: imitative of its call, pill-will-willet.

willful ▶ adjective US variant spelling of WILFUL.

William the name of two kings of England and two of Great Britain and Ireland:

■ William I (*c.*1027–87), reigned 1066–87, the first Norman king of England; known as William the Conqueror. He invaded England and defeated Harold II at the Battle of Hastings (1066). He introduced Norman institutions and customs (including feudalism) and instigated the Domesday Book.

■ William II (*c.*1060–1100), son of William I, reigned 1087–1100; known as William Rufus. William crushed rebellions in 1088 and 1095 and also campaigned against his brother Robert, Duke of Normandy (1089–96), ultimately acquiring the duchy. He was killed by an arrow while out hunting.

■ William III (1650–1702), grandson of Charles I, husband of Mary II, reigned 1689–1702; known as William of Orange. In 1688 he deposed James II at the invitation of disaffected politicians and, having accepted the Declaration of Rights, was crowned along with his wife Mary.

■ William IV (1765–1837), son of George III, reigned 1830–7; known as the Sailor King. Having served in the Royal Navy, he came to the throne after the death of his brother George IV. In 1834 he intervened in political affairs by imposing the Conservative Robert Peel as Prime Minister, despite a Whig majority in Parliament.

William I[1] (1143–1214), grandson of David I, king of Scotland 1165–1214; known as William the Lion. He attempted to reassert Scottish independence but was forced to pay homage to Henry II of England after being captured by him in 1174.

William I[2] (1533–84), prince of the House of Orange, first stadtholder (chief magistrate) of the United Provinces of the Netherlands 1572–84; known as William the Silent. He led a revolt against Spain from 1568 and was assassinated by a Spanish agent.

William of Occam /'ɒkəm/ (also Ockham) (*c.*1285–1349), English philosopher and Franciscan friar. A defender of nominalism, he is known for the maxim called 'Occam's razor'.

William of Orange, William III of Great Britain and Ireland (see WILLIAM).

William Rufus, William II of England (see WILLIAM).

Williams[1], Hank (1923–53), American country singer and songwriter; born Hiram King Williams. Williams had the first of many country hits, 'Lovesick Blues', in 1949; 'Your Cheatin' Heart' (recorded 1952) was released after his sudden death.

Williams[2], John (Christopher) (b.1941), Australian guitarist and composer. He made his name as a recitalist, noted for an eclectic repertoire that includes both classical and popular music.

Williams[3], J. P. R. (b.1949), Welsh rugby union player; full name John Peter Rhys Williams. One of the leading fullbacks of the 1970s, Williams played for his country and for the British Lions.

Williams[4], Tennessee (1911–83), American dramatist; born Thomas Lanier Williams. He achieved success with The Glass Menagerie (1944) and A Streetcar Named Desire (1947), which deal with the tragedy of vulnerable heroines living in fragile fantasy worlds shattered by brutal reality. Other notable works: Cat on a Hot Tin Roof (1955) and The Night of the Iguana (1962).

Williams[5], William Carlos (1883–1963), American poet, essayist, novelist, and short-story writer. His poetry is characterized by avoidance of emotional content and the use of American vernacular. Collections include Spring and All (1923).

Williams[6] ▶ noun a dessert pear of an early green variety.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: named after its first distributor in England.

Williamsburg /'wɪljəmzbə:g/ a city in SE Virginia, between the James and York Rivers; pop. 11,530 (1990). It was the state capital of Virginia from 1699, when it was renamed in honour of William III, until 1799, when Richmond became the capital.

Williamson, Henry (1895–1977), English novelist. His works include Tarka the Otter (1927) and the fifteen-volume semi-autobiographical sequence A Chronicle of Ancient Sunlight (1951–69).

William the Conqueror, William I of England (see WILLIAM).

willie ▶ noun variant spelling of WILLY.

willies ▶ plural noun (the willies) informal a strong feeling of nervous discomfort: that room gave him the willies.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent. (originally US): of unknown origin.

willie wagtail (also willy wagtail) ▶ noun Austral. a common Australian monarch flycatcher with striking black and white plumage.

• Rhipidura leucophrys, family Monarchidae. Alternative name: black and white fantail.
■ Brit. informal the pied wagtail.

willing ▶ adjective [often with infinitive] ready, eager, or prepared to do something: he was quite willing to compromise.
■ given or done readily: willing and prompt obedience.
– PHRASES show willing see SHOW.
– DERIVATIVES willingly adverb, willingness noun.

williwaw /ˈwɪlɪwɔː/ ▶ noun a sudden violent squall blowing offshore from a mountainous coast.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: of unknown origin.

will-o'-the-wisp ▶ noun a phosphorescent light seen hovering or floating at night on marshy ground, thought to result from the combustion of natural gases.
■ figurative a person or thing that is difficult or impossible to find, reach, or catch.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: originally as Will with the wisp, the sense of wisp being 'handful of (lighted) hay'.

willow (also willow tree) ▶ noun a tree or shrub of temperate climates which typically has narrow leaves, bears catkins, and grows near water. Its pliant branches yield osiers for basketry, and the timber has various uses.
• Genus Salix, family Salicaceae: many species.
– ORIGIN Old English welig, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wilg.

willow grouse ▶ noun a common Eurasian and North American grouse with reddish-brown and white plumage, turning mainly white in winter.
• Lagopus lagopus, family Tetraonidae (or Phasianidae). See also RED GROUSE.

willowherb ▶ noun a plant of temperate regions that typically has willow-like leaves and pink or pale purple flowers.
• Epilobium and related genera, family Onagraceae: many species, including the common great hairy willowherb (E. hirsutum) of Eurasia, and the rosebay.

willow pattern ▶ noun a conventional design representing a Chinese scene in blue on white pottery, typically showing three figures on a bridge, with a willow tree and two birds above: [as modifier] a willow-pattern plate.

willow ptarmigan ▶ noun North American term for WILLOW GROUSE.

willow tit ▶ noun a Eurasian tit (songbird) with mainly grey-brown plumage, a dull black cap, and white cheeks.
• Parus montanus, family Paridae.

willow warbler ▶ noun a small migratory Eurasian leaf warbler with mainly drab plumage and a tuneful song.
• Genus Phylloscopus, family Sylviidae: several species, in particular the common and widespread P. trochilus.

willowware ▶ noun chiefly US pottery with a willow-pattern design.

willow wren ▶ noun Brit. another term for WILLOW WARBLER.

willowy ▶ adjective 1 bordered, shaded, or covered by willows: willowy meadow land.
2 (of a person) tall, slim, and lithe.

will power ▶ noun see WILL[2] (sense 1).

Wills, William John (1834–61), English explorer. In 1860 he was a member, with two others, of Robert Burke's expedition to cross Australia from south to north, but he died of starvation on the return journey.

willy (also willie) ▶ noun (pl. -ies) Brit. informal a penis.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: pet form of the given name William.

willy-nilly ▶ adverb 1 whether one likes it or not: he would be forced to collaborate willy-nilly.
2 without direction or planning; haphazardly: politicians expanded spending programmes willy-nilly.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: later spelling of will I, nill I 'I am willing, I am unwilling'.

willy wagtail ▶ noun variant spelling of WILLIE WAGTAIL.

willy-willy ▶ noun (pl. -ies) Austral./NZ a whirlwind or dust storm.
– ORIGIN from Yindjibarndi (an Aboriginal language of western Australia).

Wilms' tumour /wɪlmz, vɪlmz/ ▶ noun a malignant tumour of the kidney, of a type that occurs in young children.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: named after Max Wilms (1867–1918), German surgeon.

Wilson[1], Sir Angus (Frank Johnstone) (1913–91), English novelist and short-story writer. His works display his satiric wit, acute social observation, and a love of the macabre and the farcical. Notable novels: The Old Men at the Zoo (1961).

Wilson[2], Charles Thomson Rees (1869–1959), Scottish physicist. He is chiefly remembered for inventing the cloud chamber, which became a major tool of particle physicists. Nobel Prize for Physics (1927).

Wilson[3], Edmund (1895–1972), American critic, essayist, and short-story writer. He is remembered chiefly for works of literary and social criticism which include Patriotic Gore: Studies in the Literature of the American Civil War (1962).

Wilson[4], Edward Osborne (b.1929), American social biologist. He has worked principally on social insects, extrapolating his findings to the social behaviour of other animals including humans. Notable works: Sociobiology: the New Synthesis (1975).

Wilson[5], (James) Harold, Baron Wilson of Rievaulx (1916–95), British Labour statesman, Prime Minister 1964–70 and 1974–6. In both terms of office he faced severe economic problems. His government introduced a number of social reforms, including comprehensive schooling, and renegotiated Britain's terms of entry into the European Economic Community, which was confirmed after a referendum in 1975.

Wilson[6], John Tuzo (1908–93), Canadian geophysicist. Wilson was a pioneer in the study of plate tectonics, introducing the term plate in this context and identifying transform faults.

Wilson[7], (Thomas) Woodrow (1856–1924), American Democratic statesman, 28th President of the US 1913–21. He eventually took America into First World War in 1917 and played a leading role in the peace negotiations and the formation of the League of Nations. Nobel Peace Prize (1919).

wilt[1] ▶ verb [no obj.] (of a plant, leaf, or flower) become limp through heat, loss of water, or disease; droop.
■ (of a person) lose one's energy or vigour. ■ [with obj.] leave (mown grass or a forage crop) in the open to dry partially before being collected for silage.
▶ noun [mass noun] [usu. with modifier] any of a number of fungal or bacterial diseases of plants characterized by wilting of the foliage.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent. (originally dialect): perhaps an alteration of dialect welk 'lose freshness', of Low German origin.

wilt[2] archaic second person singular of WILL[1].

Wilton ▶ noun a woven carpet resembling a Brussels carpet but with a velvet pile.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Wilton, the name of a town in southern England, noted for the manufacture of carpets.

Wilts. ▶ abbreviation for Wiltshire.

Wiltshire a county of southern England; county town, Trowbridge.

wily /ˈwaɪli/ ▶ adjective (wilier, wiliest) skilled at gaining an advantage, especially deceitfully: his wily opponents.
– DERIVATIVES wilily adverb, wiliness noun.

Wimbledon /ˈwɪmb(ə)ldən/ an annual international tennis championship on grass for individual players and pairs, held at the headquarters of the All England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club in the London suburb of Wimbledon. Now one of the world's major tennis championships, it has been played since 1877.

wimmin ▶ plural noun non-standard spelling of 'women' adopted by some feminists to avoid the word ending -men.

WIMP[1] ▶ noun [often as modifier] Computing a set of software features and hardware devices (such as windows, icons, mice, and pull-down menus) designed to simplify or demystify computing operations for the user.
– ORIGIN 1980s: acronym.

WIMP[2] ▶ noun Physics a hypothetical subatomic particle of large mass which interacts only weakly with ordinary matter, postulated as a constituent of the dark matter of the universe.
– ORIGIN 1980s: acronym from weakly interacting massive particle.

wimp informal ▶ noun a weak and cowardly or unadventurous person.
▶ verb [no obj.] (wimp out) withdraw from a course of action or a stated position in a way that is seen as feeble or cowardly.
– DERIVATIVES wimpish adjective, wimpishly adverb, wimpishness noun, wimpy adjective.
– ORIGIN 1920s: origin uncertain, perhaps from WHIMPER.

wimple ▶ noun a cloth headdress covering the head, neck, and the sides of the face, formerly worn by women and still worn by some nuns.
– DERIVATIVES wimpled adjective.
– ORIGIN late Old English wimpel, of Germanic origin; related to German Wimpel 'pennon, streamer'.

Wimshurst machine /ˈwɪmzhəːst/ ▶ noun a device for generating an electric charge by turning glass discs in opposite directions (now used mainly for demonstration purposes in schools).
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after James Wimshurst (1832–1903), English engineer.

win ▶ verb (winning; past and past participle won) [with obj.] 1 be successful or victorious in (a contest or conflict): the government is winning the battle against inflation | [no obj.] a determination to win | [with complement] Sunderland won 2–1.
2 acquire or secure as a result of a contest, conflict, bet, or other endeavour: there are hundreds of prizes to be won | [with two objs] the sort of play that won them the World Cup so brilliantly.
■ gain (a person's attention, support, or love), typically gradually or by effort: you will find it difficult to win back their attention. ■ (win someone over) gain the support or favour of someone by action or persuasion: her sense of humour had won him over at once. ■ [no obj.] (win out/through) manage to succeed or achieve something by effort: a determination to win through against all the odds. ■ archaic manage to reach (a place) by effort: many lived to win the great cave. ■ obtain (ore) from a mine.
3 dry (hay) by exposure to the air.
▶ noun a successful result in a contest, conflict, bet, or other endeavour; a victory: a win against France.
– PHRASES one can't win informal said when someone feels that no course of action open to them will bring success or please people. win the day be victorious in battle, sport, or argument. win or lose whether one succeeds or fails: win or lose, the important thing for him is to set a good example to his side. win (or earn) one's spurs historical gain a knighthood by an act of bravery. ■ informal gain one's first distinction or honours. you can't win them all (or win some, lose some) informal said to express consolation or resignation after failure in a contest.
– DERIVATIVES winless adjective, winnable adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English winnan 'strive, contend' also 'subdue and take possession of, acquire', of Germanic origin.

wince[1] ▶ verb [no obj.] give a slight involuntary grimace or shrinking movement of the body out of pain or distress: he winced at the disgust in her voice.
▶ noun [in sing.] a slight grimace or shrinking movement caused by pain or distress.
– DERIVATIVES wincer noun, wincingly adverb.
– ORIGIN Middle English (originally in the sense 'kick restlessly from pain or impatience'): from an Anglo-Norman French variant of Old French guenchir 'turn aside'.

wince[2] ▶ noun Brit. a roller for moving textile fabric through a dyeing vat.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent. (in the sense 'winch'): variant of WINCH.

wincey ▶ noun (pl. -eys) [mass noun] Brit. a strong, lightweight twilled fabric, typically made of a mixture of wool with cotton or linen.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: apparently an alteration of woolsey in LINSEY-WOOLSEY.

winceyette /ˌwɪnsɪˈɛt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. a lightweight napped flannelette, used especially for nightclothes and undergarments.

winch ▶ noun 1 a hauling or lifting device consisting of a rope or chain winding around a horizontal rotating drum, turned by a crank or by motor or other power source; a windlass.
■ Brit. the reel of a fishing rod. ■ another term for WINCE[2].
2 the crank of a wheel or axle.
▶ verb [with obj.] hoist or haul with a winch.

– DERIVATIVES wincher noun.
– ORIGIN late Old English wince 'reel, pulley', of Germanic origin; related to the verb WINK. The verb dates from the early 16th cent.

Winchester[1] /ˈwɪntʃɪstə/ a city in southern England, the county town of Hampshire; pop. 35,660 (1981). Known to the Romans as Venta Belgarum, it became capital of the West Saxon kingdom of Wessex in 519. It is the site of Winchester College, the oldest public school in England, founded by the bishop of Winchester William of Wykeham (1324–1404) in 1382.

Winchester[2] /ˈwɪntʃɪstə/ ▶ noun 1 (also Winchester rifle) trademark a breech-loading side-action repeating rifle. [ORIGIN: named after Oliver F. Winchester (1810–80), the American manufacturer of the rifle.] 2 (in full Winchester disk or drive) Computing a disk drive in a sealed unit containing a high-capacity hard disk and the read-write heads. [ORIGIN: so named because its original numerical designation corresponded to the calibre of the rifle (see sense 1).]

winchester ▶ noun Brit. a large cylindrical bottle for holding liquids.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: originally applied to containers holding a bushel, gallon, or quart, according to an obsolete system of measurement with standards kept at Winchester (see WINCHESTER[1]).

Winckelmann /ˈvɪŋk(ə)lman/, Johann (Joachim) (1717–68), German archaeologist and art historian, born in Prussia. He took part in the excavations at Pompeii and Herculaneum and his best-known work, History of the Art of Antiquity (1764), was particularly influential in popularizing the art and culture of ancient Greece.

wind[1] /wɪnd/ ▶ noun 1 the perceptible natural movement of the air, especially in the form of a current of air blowing from a particular direction: the wind howled about the building | an easterly wind | [mass noun] gusts of wind.
■ [mass noun] [as modifier] relating to or denoting energy obtained from harnessing the wind with windmills or wind turbines. ■ used to suggest something very fast, unrestrained, or changeable: run like the wind | she could be as free and easy as the wind. ■ used in reference to an influence or tendency that cannot be resisted: a wind of change. ■ used in reference to an impending situation: he had seen which way the wind was blowing. ■ the rush of air caused by a fast-moving body. ■ a scent carried by the wind, indicating the presence or proximity of an animal or person.
2 [mass noun] breath as needed in physical exertion or in speech.
■ the power of breathing without difficulty while running or making a similar continuous effort: he waited while Jez got his wind back.
3 [mass noun] Brit. air swallowed while eating or gas generated in the stomach and intestines by digestion.
■ empty, pompous, or boastful talk; meaningless rhetoric.
4 [mass noun] air or breath used for sounding an organ or a wind instrument.
■ (also winds) [treated as sing. or pl.] wind instruments, or specifically woodwind instruments, forming a band or a section of an orchestra: these passages are most suitable for wind alone | [as modifier] wind players.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 (often be winded) cause (someone) to have difficulty breathing because of exertion or a blow to the stomach: the fall nearly winded him.
2 Brit. make (a baby) bring up wind after feeding by patting its back: Paddy's wife handed him their six-month-old daughter to be winded.
3 detect the presence of (a person or animal) by scent: the birds could not have seen us or winded us.
4 /waɪnd/ (past and past participle winded or wound /waʊnd/) poetic/literary sound (a bugle or call) by blowing: but scarce again his horn he wound.
– PHRASES before the wind Sailing with the wind blowing from astern. get wind of informal begin to suspect that (something) is happening; hear a rumour of: Mortimer got wind of a plot being hatched. [ORIGIN: referring originally to the scent of game in hunting.] it's an ill wind that blows nobody any good proverb few things are so bad that no one profits from them. off the wind Sailing with the wind on the quarter. on a wind Sailing against a wind on either bow. put (or have) the wind up Brit. informal alarm or frighten (or be alarmed or frightened): he was trying to put the wind up him with stories of how hard teaching was. sail close to (or near) the wind 1 Sailing sail as nearly against the wind as is consistent with using its force. 2 informal verge on indecency, dishonesty, or disaster. take the wind out of someone's sails frustrate someone by unexpectedly anticipating an action or remark. to the wind(s) (or the four winds) in all directions: my little flock scatters to the four winds. ■ so as to be abandoned or neglected: I threw my friends' advice to the winds. [ORIGIN: from 'And fear of death deliver to the winds' (Milton's Paradise Lost).]
– DERIVATIVES windless adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wind and German Wind, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin ventus.

wind[2] /waɪnd/ ▶ verb (past and past participle wound /waʊnd/) 1 [no obj., with adverbial of direction] move in or take a twisting or spiral course: the path wound among olive trees.
2 [with obj. and adverbial] pass (something) around a thing or person so as to encircle or enfold: he wound a towel around his midriff.
■ repeatedly twist or coil (a length of something) around itself or a core: Anne wound the wool into a ball. ■ [no obj., with adverbial] be twisted or coiled in such a way: large vines wound round every tree. ■ wrap or surround (a core) with a coiled length of something: devices wound with copper wire.
3 [with obj.] make (a clock or other device, typically one operated by clockwork) operate by turning a key or handle: he wound up the clock every Saturday night | she was winding the gramophone.
■ turn (a key or handle) repeatedly round and round: I wound the handle as fast as I could. ■ [with obj. and adverbial of direction] cause (an audio or video tape or a film) to move back or forwards to a desired point: I forgot how to wind the film on. ■ [with obj. and adverbial of direction] hoist or draw (something) with a windlass, winch, or similar device.
▶ noun 1 a twist or turn in a course.
2 a single turn made when winding.
– ORIGIN Old English windan 'go rapidly', 'twine', of Germanic origin; related to WANDER and WEND.
▶ wind down (of a mechanism, especially one operated by clockwork) gradually lose power. ■ informal (of a person) relax after stress or excitement. ■ (also wind something down) draw or bring gradually to a close: business began to wind down as people awaited the new regime.
wind up informal 1 arrive or end up in a specified state, situation, or place: Kevin winds up in New York. 2 another way of saying wind something up (in sense 2): he wound up by attacking Nonconformists.
wind someone up 1 Brit. informal tease or irritate someone: she's only winding me up. 2 (usu. be wound up) make tense or angry: he was clearly wound up and frantic about his daughter.
wind something up 1 arrange the affairs of and dissolve a company: the company has since been wound up. 2 gradually or finally bring an activity to a conclusion: the experiments had to be wound up because the funding stopped. 3 informal increase the tension, intensity, or power of something: he wound up the engine.

windage ▶ noun [mass noun] the air resistance of a moving object, such as a vessel or a rotating machine part, or the force of the wind on a stationary object.
■ the effect of the wind in deflecting a missile such as a bullet.

Windaus /ˈvɪndaʊs/, Adolf (1876–1959), German organic chemist. He did pioneering work on the chemistry and structure of steroids and their derivatives, notably cholesterol. He also investigated the D vitamins and vitamin B_1, and discovered histamine. Nobel Prize for Chemistry (1928).

windbag ▶ noun informal, derogatory a person who talks at length but says little of any value.
– DERIVATIVES windbaggery noun.

wind band ▶ noun a group of musicians playing mainly woodwind instruments.

windbound ▶ adjective (of a sailing ship) unable to sail because of extreme or contrary winds.

windbreak ▶ noun a thing, such as a row of trees or a fence, wall, or screen, that provides shelter or protection from the wind.

windbreaker ▶ noun US trademark another term for WINDCHEATER.

windburn ▶ noun [mass noun] reddening and soreness of the skin caused by prolonged exposure to the wind.
– DERIVATIVES windburned (also windburnt) adjective.

windcheater ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a wind-resistant jacket with a close-fitting neck, waistband, and cuffs.

windchest ▶ noun a chest or box in an organ which receives wind from the bellows and admits it to the pipes or reeds.

wind chill ▶ noun [mass noun] the cooling effect of wind blowing on a surface.

wind chimes ▶ plural noun a decorative arrangement of small pieces of glass, metal, or shell suspended from a frame, typically hung near a door or window so as make a tinkling sound in the draught.

wind-down ▶ noun [in sing.] a gradual lessening of activity, intensity, or scale as something comes to an end: the wind-down of space exploration.

winder /ˈwaɪndə/ ▶ noun a device or mechanism used to wind something, especially something such as a watch or clock or the film in a camera.

Windermere /ˈwɪndəmɪə/ a lake in Cumbria, in the south-eastern part of the Lake District. At about 17 km (10 miles) in length, it is the largest lake in England. The town of Windermere lies on its eastern shores.

windfall ▶ noun an apple or other fruit blown down from a tree or bush by the wind.
■ a piece of unexpected good fortune, typically one that involves receiving a large amount of money: [as modifier] windfall profits.

windfall tax (also windfall profits tax) ▶ noun a tax levied on an unforeseen or unexpectedly large profit, especially one regarded to be excessive or unfairly obtained.

wind farm ▶ noun an area of land with a group of energy-producing windmills or wind turbines.

windflower ▶ noun an anemone.

windgall ▶ noun a small painless swelling just above the fetlock of a horse, caused by inflammation of the tendon sheath.

wind gap ▶ noun a valley cut through a ridge by erosion by a river which no longer follows a course through the valley.

wind gauge ▶ noun an anemometer.

wind harp ▶ noun another term for AEOLIAN HARP.

Windhoek /ˈwɪnthʊk, ˈvɪnt-/ the capital of Namibia, situated in the centre of the country; pop. 58,600 (1992). It was the capital of the former German protectorate of South West Africa from 1892 until 1919, emerging as capital of independent Namibia in 1990.

windhover ▶ noun dialect a kestrel.

Windies ▶ plural noun informal West Indians, especially the West Indian cricket team.

windigo /ˈwɪndɪgəʊ/ (also wendigo) ▶ noun (pl. -os or -oes) (in the folklore of the northern Algonquian Indians) a cannibalistic giant; a person who has been transformed into a monster by the consumption of human flesh.
– ORIGIN from Ojibwa wintiko.

winding /ˈwaɪndɪŋ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of winding something or of moving in a twisting or spiral course.
■ (windings) twisting movements: the windings of the stream. ■ [count noun] an electrical conductor that is wound round a magnetic material, especially one encircling part of the stator or rotor of an electric motor or generator or forming part of a transformer. ■ (windings) things that wind or are wound round something.
▶ adjective following a twisting or spiral course: our bedroom was at the top of a winding staircase.

winding engine ▶ noun a powered winch or similar machine used for hauling or hoisting heavy loads.

winding sheet ▶ noun a sheet in which a corpse is wrapped for burial; a shroud.

wind instrument ▶ noun a musical instrument in which sound is produced by the vibration of air, typically by the player blowing into the instrument.
■ a woodwind instrument as distinct from a brass instrument.

windjammer ▶ noun 1 historical a merchant sailing ship.
2 US another term for WINDCHEATER.

windlass ▶ noun a winch, especially one on a ship or in a harbour.
▶ verb [with obj.] haul or lift (something) with a windlass.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: probably an alteration of obsolete windas, via Anglo-Norman French from Old Norse vindáss, literally 'winding pole'.

wind load (also wind loading) ▶ noun Engineering the force on a structure arising from the impact of wind on it.

wind machine ▶ noun a machine used in the theatre or in film-making for producing a blast of air or imitating the sound of wind.
■a wind-driven turbine for pro ·ucing electricity.

windmill ▶ noun a building with sails or vanes that turn in the wind and generate power to grind corn into flour.
■a similar structure used to generate electricity or draw water. ■ Brit. a toy consisting of a stick with curved vanes attached that turn in the wind. ■ a propeller, especially one used formerly on an autogiro.
▶ verb [with obj.] move (one's arms) around in a circle in a manner suggestive of the rotating sails or vanes of a windmill.
■[no obj.] (of one's arms) move in such a way. ■ [no obj.] (of the propeller or rotor of an aircraft, or the aircraft itself) spin unpowered.
– PHRASES fling (or throw) one's cap over the windmill(s) dated act recklessly or unconventionally. tilt at windmills see TILT.

window ▶ noun 1 an opening in the wall or roof of a building or vehicle that is fitted with glass in a frame to admit light or air and allow people to see out.
■a pane of glass filling such an opening: thieves smashed a window and took £600. ■ an opening in a wall or screen through which customers are served in a bank, ticket office, or similar building. ■ a space behind the window of a shop where goods are displayed for sale: [as modifier] beautiful window displays.
2 a thing resembling such an opening in form or function, in particular:
■a transparent panel on an envelope to show an address. ■ Computing a framed area on a display screen for viewing information. ■ (window on/into/to) a means of observing and learning about: television is a window on the world. ■ Physics a range of electromagnetic wavelengths for which a medium (especially the atmosphere) is transparent.
3 an interval or opportunity for action: the parliamentary recess offers a good window for a bid.
■an interval during which atmospheric and astronomical circumstances are suitable for the launch of a spacecraft.
4 [mass noun] strips of metal foil dispersed in the air to obstruct radar detection. [ORIGIN: military code word.]
– PHRASES go out (of) the window informal (of a plan or pattern or behaviour) no longer exist; disappear. window of opportunity a favourable opportunity for doing something that must be seized immediately if it is not to be missed. window of vulnerability an opportunity to attack something that is at risk (especially as a cold war claim that America's land-based missiles were easy targets for a Soviet first strike). windows of the soul organs of sense, especially the eyes.
– DERIVATIVES windowless adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Old Norse vindauga, from vindr 'wind' + auga 'eye'.

window box ▶ noun a long narrow box in which flowers and other plants are grown, placed on an outside window sill.

window cleaner ▶ noun a person who is employed to clean windows.
■[mass noun] a substance used for cleaning windows.

window dressing ▶ noun [mass noun] the arrangement of an attractive display in a shop window.
■an adroit but superficial or actually misleading presentation of something, designed to create a favourable impression: the government's effort has amounted to little more than window dressing.

windowed ▶ adjective 1 having a window or windows for admitting light or air: [in combination] a row of bay-windowed houses.
2 Computing having or using framed areas on a display screen for viewing information.

window frame ▶ noun a supporting frame for the glass of a window.

windowing ▶ noun [mass noun] Computing the use of windows for the simultaneous display of more than one item on a screen.

window ledge ▶ noun another term for WINDOW SILL.

windowpane ▶ noun 1 a pane of glass in a window.
2 a broad flatfish with numerous dark spots, found in the western Atlantic. Also called SAND DAB.
• Scophthalmus aquosus, family Scophthalmidae (or Bothidae).

Windows ▶ plural noun [treated as sing.] trademark a GUI operating system for personal computers.

window seat ▶ noun a seat below a window, especially one in a bay or alcove.
■a seat next to a window in an aircraft, train, or other vehicle.

window-shop ▶ verb [no obj.] look at the goods displayed in shop windows, especially without intending to buy anything: [as noun window-shopping] window-shopping is the favourite pastime of all New Yorkers.
– DERIVATIVES window-shopper noun.

window sill ▶ noun a ledge or sill forming the bottom part of a window.

window tax ▶ noun Brit. historical a tax on windows or similar openings that was abolished in 1851.

wind pack ▶ noun [mass noun] snow which has been compacted by the wind.

windpipe ▶ noun the air passage from the throat to the lungs; the trachea.

wind rock ▶ noun [mass noun] damage to the roots of young plants, caused by the movement of the stem in the wind.

wind rose ▶ noun a diagram showing the relative frequency of wind directions at a place.

windrow ▶ noun a long line of raked hay, corn sheaves, or peats laid out to dry in the wind.
■N. Amer. a long line of material heaped up by the wind.

windsail ▶ noun historical a long wide tube or funnel of sailcloth used to convey air to the lower parts of a ship.

Windscale former name (1947–81) for SELLAFIELD.

wind scorpion ▶ noun another term for SUN SPIDER.

windscreen ▶ noun Brit. a glass screen at the front of a motor vehicle.

windscreen wiper (N. Amer. windshield wiper) ▶ noun a power-operated device for keeping a windscreen clear of rain, typically with a rubber blade on an arm that moves in an arc.

wind shear ▶ noun [mass noun] variation in wind velocity occurring along a direction at right angles to the wind's direction and tending to exert a turning force.

windshield ▶ noun North American term for WINDSCREEN.

windslab ▶ noun [mass noun] a thick crust formed on the surface of soft snow by the wind, of a kind liable to slip and create an avalanche.

windsock ▶ noun a light, flexible cylinder or cone mounted on a mast to show the direction and strength of the wind, especially at an airfield.

Windsor[1] 1 a town in southern England, on the River Thames opposite Eton; pop. 31,540 (1981).
2 an industrial city and port in Ontario, southern Canada, on Lake Ontario opposite the US city of Detroit; pop. 223,240 (1991).

Windsor[2] the name of the British royal family since 1917. Previously Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, it was changed in response to anti-German feeling in the First World War.

Windsor, Duke of the title conferred on Edward VIII on his abdication in 1936.

Windsor Castle a royal residence at Windsor, founded by William the Conqueror on the site of an earlier fortress and extended by his successors, particularly Edward III. The castle was severely damaged by fire in 1992.

Windsor chair ▶ noun a wooden dining chair with a semicircular back supported by upright rods.

Windsor knot ▶ noun a large, loose triangular knot in a necktie, produced by making extra turns when tying.

Windsor tie ▶ noun dated, chiefly US a wide silk bias-cut necktie, tied in a loose double knot.

wind sprint ▶ noun Athletics a form of exercise involving moving from a walk or slow run to a faster run and repeatedly reversing the process.

windstorm ▶ noun chiefly N. Amer. a storm with very strong wind but little or no rain or snow; a gale.

wind-sucking ▶ noun [mass noun] (in a horse) habitual behaviour involving repeated arching of the neck and sucking in and swallowing air, often accompanied by a grunting sound.

windsurfer ▶ noun a person who takes part in windsurfing.
■(trademark in the US) a sailboard.

windsurfing ▶ noun [mass noun] the sport or pastime of riding on water on a sailboard.
– DERIVATIVES windsurf verb.

windswept ▶ adjective 1 (of a place) exposed to strong winds: the windswept moors.
2 (of a person or their appearance) untidy after being exposed to the wind: his windswept hair.

wind tunnel ▶ noun a tunnel-like apparatus for producing an airstream of known velocity past models of aircraft, buildings, etc., in order to investigate flow or the effect of wind on the full-size object.
■an open space through which strong winds are channelled by surrounding tall buildings.

wind turbine ▶ noun a turbine having a large vaned wheel rotated by the wind to generate electricity.

wind-up ▶ noun 1 Brit. informal an attempt to tease or irritate someone.
2 an act of concluding or finishing something: a company wind-up.
3 Baseball the motions of a pitcher preparing to pitch the ball.

windward ▶ adjective & adverb facing the wind or on the side facing the wind: [as adj.] the windward side of the boat. Contrasted with LEEWARD.
▶ noun [mass noun] the side or direction from which the wind is blowing: he had beaten to windward across St Austell Bay.
– PHRASES to windward of dated in an advantageous position in relation to: I happen to have got to windward of the young woman.

Windward Islands a group of islands in the eastern Caribbean. Constituting the southern part of the Lesser Antilles, they include Martinique, Dominica, St Lucia, Barbados, St Vincent and the Grenadines, and Grenada. Their name refers to their position further upwind, in terms of the prevailing south-easterly winds, than the Leeward Islands.

windy[1] /ˈwɪndi/ ▶ adjective (windier, windiest) 1 (of weather, a period of time, or a place) marked by or exposed to strong winds: a very windy day.
■resembling the wind in sound or force: Pratt's sigh was windy.
2 Brit. suffering from, marked by, or causing an accumulation of gas in the alimentary canal.
■informal using or expressed in many words that sound impressive but mean little: the way to save time in an exam is by omitting windy phrases.
3 [predic.] Brit. informal (of a person) nervous or anxious about something.
– DERIVATIVES windily adverb, windiness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English windig (see WIND[1], -Y[1]).

windy[2] /ˈwʌɪndi/ ▶ adjective (of a road or river) following a curving or twisting course.

wine[1] ▶ noun [mass noun] an alcoholic drink made from fermented grape juice.
■[with modifier] an alcoholic drink made from the fermented juice of specified other fruits or plants: a glass of elderflower wine. ■ short for WINE RED.
▶ verb [with obj.] (wine and dine someone) entertain someone by offering them drinks or a meal: members of Congress have been lavishly wined and dined by lobbyists for years.
■[no obj.] (of a person) take part in such entertainment: we wined and dined with Edwin's and Bernard's friends.
– PHRASES good wine needs no bush proverb there's no need to advertise or boast about something of good quality as people will always discover its merits. wine, women, and song the hedonistic life of drinking, sexual pleasure, and carefree entertainment proverbially required by men. [ORIGIN: proverbial; compare with the anonymous couplet (found in the Luther room at Wartburg) Wer nicht liebt Wein, Weib und Gesang Der bleibt ein Narr sein Leben lang 'Who loves not wine, woman, and song, He is a fool his whole life long'.]

– DERIVATIVES winey (also winy) adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wīn, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wijn, German Wein, based on Latin vinum.

wine[2] ▶ verb [no obj.] W. Indian dance with rhythmic gyratory movements of the pelvic region: the crowd jumped and wined and churned the field into mud.
– ORIGIN from WIND[2], influenced by TWINE.

wine bar ▶ noun a bar or small restaurant where wine is the main drink available.

wineberry ▶ noun 1 a bristly deciduous shrub native to China and Japan, producing scarlet berries used in cookery.
• Rubus phoenicolasius, family Rosaceae.
■ the fruit of this bush.
2 another term for MAKO[2].

winebibber ▶ noun archaic or poetic/literary a habitual drinker of alcohol.
– DERIVATIVES winebibbing noun & adjective.

wine bottle ▶ noun a glass bottle for wine, the standard size holding 75 cl or 26⅔ fl. oz.

wine box ▶ noun a square carton of wine with a dispensing tap.

wine cellar ▶ noun a cellar in which wine is stored.
■ a stock of wine.

wine glass ▶ noun a glass with a stem and foot, used for drinking wine.
– DERIVATIVES wineglassful noun (pl. -fuls).

winegrower ▶ noun a cultivator of grapes for wine.

wine gum ▶ noun a small coloured fruit-flavoured sweet made with gelatin.

wine list ▶ noun a list of the wines available in a restaurant:
■ a restaurant's selection or stock or wines.

winemaker ▶ noun a producer of wine; a winegrower.

winemaking ▶ noun [mass noun] the production of wine.

wine of origin ▶ noun (in South Africa) an official designation on wine-bottle labels, indicating that the wine has been certified as originating from a recognized region or estate and also as being of a particular cultivar or vintage.

wine press ▶ noun a press in which grapes are squeezed in making wine.

wine red ▶ noun [mass noun] a dark red colour like that of red wine.

wine route ▶ noun (in South Africa) a touring route taking in several wine farms which are within easy driving distance of one another and are open to the public for wine tasting and the sale of wine.

winery ▶ noun (pl. -ies) chiefly US an establishment where wine is made.

Winesap ▶ noun a large red American apple, used for cooking and as a dessert apple.

wineskin ▶ noun an animal skin sewn up and used to hold wine.

wine tasting ▶ noun an event at which people taste and compare a number of wines.
■ [mass noun] the action of judging the quality of wine by tasting it.
– DERIVATIVES wine taster noun.

wine vinegar ▶ noun [mass noun] vinegar made from wine rather than malt.

wine waiter ▶ noun Brit. a waiter responsible for serving wine.

wing ▶ noun 1 any of a number of specialized paired appendages that enable some animals to fly, in particular:
■ (in a bird) a modified forelimb that bears large feathers. ■ (in a bat or pterosaur) a modified forelimb with skin stretched between or behind the fingers. ■ (in most insects) each of two or four flat extensions of the thoracic cuticle, either transparent or covered in scales. ■ the meat on the wing bone of a bird used as food. ■ (usu. wings) figurative power or means of flight or rapid motion: time flies by on wings.
2 a rigid horizontal structure that projects from both sides of an aircraft and supports it in the air.
■ (wings) a pilot's certificate of ability to fly a plane, indicated by a badge representing a pair of wings: Michael earned his wings as a commercial pilot.
3 a part that projects, in particular:
■ Brit. a raised part of the body of a car or other vehicle above the wheel. ■ [usu. with adj. or noun modifier] a part of a large building, especially one that projects from the main part: the maternity wing at South Cleveland Hospital. ■ Anatomy a lateral part or projection of an organ or structure. ■ Botany a thin membranous appendage of a fruit or seed that is dispersed by the wind.
4 a group within a political party or other organization that holds particular views or has a particular function: Sinn Fein, the political wing of the IRA.
5 a side area, or a person or activity associated with that area, in particular:
■ (the wings) the sides of a theatre stage out of view of the audience. ■ (in soccer, rugby, and hockey) the part of the field close to the sidelines. ■ (also wing forward) an attacking player positioned near to one of the sidelines. ■ a flank of a battle array.
6 an air force unit of several squadrons or groups.
▶ verb 1 [no obj., with adverbial of direction] travel on wings or by aircraft; fly: George satisfied his keen urge to fly by winging homewards with the Royal Air Force.
■ move, travel, or be sent quickly, as if flying: the prize will be winging its way to you soon. ■ [with obj. and adverbial of direction] send or convey (something) quickly, as if by air: just jot down the title on a postcard and wing it to us. ■ [with obj.] archaic enable (someone or something) to fly or move rapidly: the convent was at some distance, but fear would wing her steps.
2 [with obj.] shoot (a bird) in the wing, so as to prevent flight without causing death: one bird was winged for every bird killed.
■ wound (someone) superficially, especially in the arm or shoulder.
3 (wing it) informal speak or act without preparation; improvise: a little boning up puts you ahead of the job-seekers who try to wing it. [ORIGIN: from theatrical slang, originally meaning 'to play a role without properly knowing the text' (either by relying on a prompter in the wings or by studying the part in the wings between scenes).]
– PHRASES in the wings ready to do something or to be used at the appropriate time: older councillors were replaced by technocrats waiting in the wings. on the wing (of a bird) in flight. on a wing and a prayer with only the slightest chance of success. on wings used suggest happiness by reference to the light movement or feeling of flying: 'I'm on wings,' she admitted. 'It's wonderful seeing the palace brightened up.' spread (or stretch or try) one's wings extend one's activities and interests or start new ones. take wing (of a bird, insect, or other winged creature) fly away. ■ depart swiftly; flee: Louise took wing for America. under one's wing in or into one's protective care.
– DERIVATIVES wingless adjective, wing-like adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English (originally in the plural): from Old Norse vængir, plural of vængr.

wing back ▶ noun Soccer a player who plays in a wide position on the field, taking part both in attack and defence.

wingbeat ▶ noun one complete set of motions of a wing in flying.

wing case ▶ noun each of a pair of modified toughened forewings which cover the functional wings in certain insects, especially an elytron of a beetle.

wing chair ▶ noun a high-backed armchair with side pieces projecting from the back, originally in order to protect the sitter from drafts.

wing chun /wɪŋ 'tʃʊn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a simplified form of kung fu used principally as a system of self-defence.
– ORIGIN Chinese, apparently from Yim Wing Chun (fl. mid 18th cent.) by whom the system was developed.

Wingco ▶ noun (pl. -os) military slang short for WING COMMANDER.

wing collar ▶ noun a high stiff shirt collar with turned-down corners.

wing commander ▶ noun a rank of officer in the RAF, above squadron leader and below group captain.

wing covert ▶ noun (in a bird's wing) each of the smaller feathers covering the bases of the flight feathers.

wing dam ▶ noun a dam or barrier built into a stream to deflect the current.

wingding ▶ noun informal, chiefly N. Amer. a lively event or party.
– ORIGIN 1920s (in the sense 'spasm, seizure', especially one associated with drug-taking): of unknown origin.

winged ▶ adjective 1 having wings for flight: the earliest winged insects.
2 having one or more lateral parts, appendages, or projections: her winged spectacles.

winged bean ▶ noun a tropical Asian pea plant which has four-sided pods with longitudinal flanges. The entire pod and the roots are edible.
• Psophocarpus tetragonolobus, family Leguminosae.

Winged Victory ▶ noun a winged statue of Nike, the Greek goddess of victory, especially the Nike of Samothrace (*c.*200 BC) preserved in the Louvre in Paris.

winged words ▶ plural noun poetic/literary highly apposite or significant words.

winger ▶ noun 1 an attacking player on the wing in soccer, hockey, and other sports.
2 [in combination] a member of a specified political wing: a left-winger.

wing forward ▶ noun see WING (in sense 5 of the noun).

wing half ▶ noun Soccer, dated a halfback positioned towards the right or left side of the field.

winglet ▶ noun a little wing.
■ a vertical projection on the tip of an aircraft wing for reducing drag.

wingman ▶ noun (pl. -men) 1 a pilot whose aircraft is positioned behind and outside the leading aircraft in a formation.
2 another term for WINGER (in sense 1).

wing mirror ▶ noun a rear-view mirror projecting from the side of a motor vehicle.

wing nut ▶ noun 1 a nut with a pair of projections for the fingers to turn it on a screw.
2 an Asian tree of the walnut family, with a deeply fissured trunk, compound leaves, and characteristic broad-winged nutlets.
• Genus Pterocarya, family Juglandaceae.

wingover ▶ noun a manoeuvre in which an aircraft turns at the top of a steep climb and flies back along its original path.

wing oyster ▶ noun an edible marine bivalve mollusc with a flattened fragile shell, the hinge of which bears wing-like projections.
• Family Pteridae: Pteria and other genera.

wing sail ▶ noun a rigid or semi-rigid structure similar to an aircraft wing fixed vertically on a boat to provide thrust from the action of the wind.

wing shooting ▶ noun [mass noun] the shooting of birds in flight.

wingspan (also wingspread) ▶ noun the maximum extent across the wings of an aircraft, bird, or other flying animal, measured from tip to tip.

wingstroke ▶ noun another term for WINGBEAT.

wing tip ▶ noun the tip of the wing of an aircraft, bird, or other animal.
■ (also wingtip shoe) N. Amer. a shoe with a toecap having a backward extending point and curving sides, resembling the shape of a wing.

wing walking ▶ noun [mass noun] acrobatic stunts performed on the wings of an airborne aircraft as a public entertainment.

wink ▶ verb [no obj.] close and open one eye quickly, typically to indicate that something is a joke or a secret or as a signal of affection or greeting: he winked at Nicole as he passed.
■ (wink at) pretend not to notice (something bad or illegal): the authorities winked at their illegal trade. ■ (of a bright object or a light) shine or flash intermittently.
▶ noun an act of closing and opening one eye quickly, typically as a signal: Barney gave him a knowing wink.
– PHRASES as easy as winking informal very easy or easily. in the wink of an eye (or in a wink) very quickly. not sleep (or get) a wink (or not get a wink of sleep) not sleep at all.
– ORIGIN Old English wincian 'close the eyes', of Germanic origin; related to German winken 'to wave', also to WINCE[1].

winkle ▶ noun 1 a small herbivorous shore-dwelling mollusc with a spiral shell. Also called PERIWINKLE[2].
• Family Littorinidae, class Gastropoda: many genera and species, including the common and edible Littorina littorea.
2 informal a child's term for a penis.
▶ verb [with obj.] (winkle something out) chiefly Brit. extract or obtain something with difficulty: I swore I wasn't going to tell her, but she winkled it all out of me.
– DERIVATIVES winkler noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: shortening of PERIWINKLE[2].

winkle-picker ▶ noun Brit. informal a shoe with a long pointed toe, popular in the 1950s.

Winnebago /ˌwɪnəˈbeɪgəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. same or -os) 1 a member of an American Indian people formerly living in eastern Wisconsin and now mainly in southern Wisconsin and Nebraska.
2 [mass noun] the Siouan language of this people, now with few speakers.
3 (pl. -os) US trademark a motor vehicle with living accommodation used when travelling long distances or camping.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Winnebago people or their language.
– ORIGIN Algonquian, literally 'person of the dirty water', referring to the muddy Fox River.

winner /ˈwɪnə/ ▶ noun a person or thing that wins something: a Nobel Prize winner.
■ a goal or shot that wins a match or point. ■ Bridge a card that can be relied on to win a trick. ■ informal a thing that is a success or is likely to be successful: the changes failed to make the soap opera a winner.
– PHRASES be on (or on to) a winner be following a course or plan that is likely to bring rewards.

winning /ˈwɪnɪŋ/ ▶ adjective 1 [attrib.] gaining, resulting in, or relating to victory in a contest or competition: a winning streak.
2 attractive; endearing: a winning smile.
▶ noun (winnings) money won, especially by gambling: he went to collect his winnings.
– DERIVATIVES winningly adverb (only in sense 2 of the adjective).

winningest ▶ adjective US informal having achieved the most success in competition: the winningest coach in pro-football history.

winning post ▶ noun a post marking the end of a race.

Winnipeg /ˈwɪnɪpɛg/ the capital of Manitoba, situated in the south of the province at the confluence of the Assiniboine and Red Rivers, to the south of Lake Winnipeg; pop. 612,770 (1991). First settled as a French trading post in 1738, it became a trading post of the Hudson's Bay Company in 1821. It grew rapidly after the arrival of the railway in 1881.

Winnipeg, Lake a large lake in the province of Manitoba in Canada, to the north of the city of Winnipeg. Fed by the Saskatchewan, Winnipeg, and Red Rivers from the east and south, the lake is drained by the Nelson River, which flows north-eastwards to Hudson Bay.

winnow ▶ verb 1 [with obj.] blow a current of air through (grain) in order to remove the chaff.
■ remove (chaff) from grain: women winnow the chaff from piles of unhusked rice. ■ reduce the number in a set of (people or things) gradually until only the best ones are left: the contenders had been winnowed to five. ■ find or identify (a valuable or useful part of something): amidst this welter of confusing signals, it's difficult to winnow out the truth. ■ identify and remove (the least valuable or useful people or things): guidelines that would help winnow out those not fit to be soldiers.
2 [no obj.] poetic/literary (of the wind) blow: the autumn wind winnowing its way through the grass.
■ [with obj.] (of a bird) fan (the air) with wings.
– DERIVATIVES winnower noun.
– ORIGIN Old English windwian, from wind (see WIND[1]).

wino ▶ noun (pl. -os) informal a person who drinks excessive amounts of cheap wine or other alcohol, especially one who is homeless.

winsome ▶ adjective attractive or appealing in appearance or character: a winsome smile.
– DERIVATIVES winsomely adverb, winsomeness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wynsum, from wyn 'joy' + -SOME[1].

winter ▶ noun the coldest season of the year, in the northern hemisphere from December to February and in the southern hemisphere from June to August: the tree has a good crop of berries in winter | [as modifier] the winter months.
■ Astronomy the period from the winter solstice to the vernal equinox. ■ (winters) poetic/literary years: he seemed a hundred winters old.
▶ adjective [attrib.] (of fruit) ripening late in the year: a winter apple.
■ (of wheat or other crops) sown in autumn for harvesting the following year.
▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of place] (especially of a bird) spend the winter in a particular place: birds wintering in the Channel.
■ [with obj.] keep or feed (plants or cattle) during winter.
– DERIVATIVES winterer noun, winterless adjective, winterly adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch winter and German Winter, probably also to WET.

winter aconite ▶ noun see ACONITE (sense 2).

winterberry ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a North American holly with toothed, non-prickly leaves and berries which persist through the winter.
• Genus Ilex, family Aquifoliaceae: several species, in particular I. verticillata.

winterbourne ▶ noun Brit. a stream, typically on chalk or limestone, which flows only after wet weather.
– ORIGIN Old English winterburna (see WINTER, BURN[2]).

winter cherry ▶ noun a plant of the nightshade family, with cherry-like fruit which ripens in winter.
• Several species in the family Solanaceae, in particular Solanum capsicastrum, which is grown as a pot plant, and the Chinese lantern plant.

winter count ▶ noun a pictorial record or chronicle of the events of each year, kept by various North American Indian peoples.

winter cress ▶ noun a bitter-tasting cress of north temperate regions.
• Genus Barbarea, family Cruciferae: several species, in particular B. vulgaris.

winter flounder ▶ noun a common flatfish of the western Atlantic, having cryptic grey-brown coloration and popular as food in winter in North America.
• Pseudopleuronectes americanus, family Pleuronectidae.

winter garden ▶ noun a garden of plants, such as evergreens, that flourish in winter.
■ a conservatory in which flowers and other plants are grown in winter.

wintergreen ▶ noun 1 a North American plant from which a pungent oil is obtained:
• the checkerberry or a related shrub whose leaves produce oil.
• a birch tree whose bark produces oil (Betula lenta, family Betulaceae).
■ (also oil of wintergreen) [mass noun] a pungent oil containing methyl salicylate, now obtained from this birch tree or made synthetically, used medicinally and as a flavouring.
2 a low-growing plant of acid soils in north temperate regions, with spikes of white bell-shaped flowers.
• Pyrola and other genera, family Pyrolaceae.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: the plants so named because of remaining green in winter, suggested by Dutch wintergroen, German Wintergrün.

Winterhalter /ˈvɪntəˌhaltə, German ˈvɪntɐˌhaltɐ/, Franz Xavier (1806–73), German painter. He painted many portraits of European royalty and aristocracy.

winter heliotrope ▶ noun a plant of the daisy family, which produces fragrant lilac flowers in winter.
• Petasites fragrans, family Compositae.

winterize (also -ise) ▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be winterized) chiefly N. Amer. adapt or prepare (something, especially a house) for use in cold weather: the house was winterized to extend the period of time it could be let.
– DERIVATIVES winterization noun.

winter jasmine ▶ noun a yellow-flowered Chinese jasmine which blooms during the winter.
• Jasminum nudiflorum, family Oleaceae.

winter moth ▶ noun a moth that emerges in the winter, the female of which has only vestigial wings. It was formerly a major pest of fruit trees.
• Several species in the family Geometridae, in particular Operophtera brumata.

Winter Olympics an international contest of winter sports held every four years at a two year interval from the summer games. They have been held separately from the main games since 1924.

Winter Palace the former Russian imperial residence in St Petersburg, stormed in the Revolution of 1917 and later used as a museum and art gallery.

winter quarters ▶ plural noun accommodation for the winter, especially for soldiers.

winter sleep ▶ noun [mass noun] hibernation.

winter solstice ▶ noun the solstice at midwinter, at the time of the shortest day, about 22 December in the northern hemisphere and 21 June in the southern hemisphere.
■ Astronomy the solstice in December.

winter sports ▶ plural noun sports performed on snow or ice, such as skiing and ice skating.

winter squash ▶ noun a squash which has a hard rind and may be stored.
• Cultivars of Cucurbita moschata and C. maxima, family Cucurbitaceae.

wintersweet ▶ noun a deciduous Chinese shrub which produces heavily scented yellow flowers in winter before the leaves appear.
• Chimonanthus praecox, family Calycanthaceae.

Winterthur /ˈvɪntəˌtʊə, German ˈvɪntɐˌtuːɐ/ an industrial town in northern Switzerland; pop. 85,680 (1990).

winter-tide ▶ noun poetic/literary term for WINTERTIME.

wintertime /ˈwɪntətʌɪm/ ▶ noun the season or period of winter.

Winter War the war between the USSR and Finland in 1939–40. Heavily outnumbered by invading Soviet troops, the Finns were defeated and forced to cede western Karelia to the Soviet Union. Also called RUSSO-FINNISH WAR.

wintry (also wintery) ▶ adjective (wintrier, wintriest) characteristic of winter, especially in feeling or looking very cold and bleak: a wintry landscape.
– DERIVATIVES wintrily adverb, wintriness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wintrig (see WINTER, -Y[1]).

win-win ▶ adjective [attrib.] of or denoting a situation in which each party benefits in some way: we are aiming for a win-win situation.

WIP ▶ abbreviation for work in progress (chiefly in business and financial contexts).

wipe ▶ verb [with obj.] clean or dry (something) by rubbing its surface with a cloth, a piece of paper, or one's hand: Paulie wiped his face with a handkerchief | he wiped down the kitchen wall.
■ [with obj. and adverbial] remove (dirt or moisture) from something by rubbing its surface with a cloth, a piece of paper, or one's hand: she wiped away a tear. ■ clean (something) by rubbing it against a surface: the man wiped his hands on his hips. ■ [with obj. and adverbial] spread (a liquid) over a surface by rubbing: gently wipe the lotion over the eyelids. ■ [with obj. and adverbial] figurative remove or eliminate (something) completely: things have happened to wipe the smile off Kate's face. ■ erase (data) from a magnetic medium. ■ pass (a swipe card) over the electronic device that reads it. ■ pass (a light pen) over a bar code. ■ Austral./NZ informal reject or dismiss (a person or idea): you can wipe that idea, if that's what you're thinking.
▶ noun 1 an act of wiping.
2 a piece of disposable absorbent cloth, especially one treated with a cleansing agent, for wiping something clean.
3 a cinematographic effect in which an existing picture seems to be wiped out by a new one as the boundary between them moves across the screen.
– PHRASES wipe someone's eye Brit. informal, dated get the better of someone. wipe the floor with informal inflict a humiliating defeat on: they wiped the floor with us in a 3–0 win. wipe the slate clean forgive or forget past faults or offences; make a fresh start.
– DERIVATIVES wipeable adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wīpian, of Germanic origin; related to WHIP.
▶ wipe something off subtract an amount from a value or debt: the crash wiped 24 per cent off stock prices.
wipe out informal be capsized by a wave while surfing. ■ N. Amer. fall over or off a vehicle.
wipe someone out 1 kill a large number of people: the plague had wiped out whole villages. 2 (usu. be wiped out) ruin someone financially. 3 informal exhaust or intoxicate someone.

wipe something out eliminate something completely: their life savings were wiped out.

wipe-out ▶ noun informal an instance of complete destruction: a nuclear wipe-out.

■a fall from a surfboard. ■ the obliteration of one radio signal by another.

wiper ▶ noun 1 a windscreen wiper.

2 an electrical contact which moves across a surface.

3 a cam or tappet.

WIPO ▶ abbreviation for World Intellectual Property Organization.

Wiradhuri /wɪ'radʒəri/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an Aboriginal language of SE Australia, now extinct.

wire ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] metal drawn out into the form of a thin flexible thread or rod.

■[count noun] a piece of such metal. ■a length or quantity of wire used, for example, for fencing or to carry an electric current. ■an electronic listening device that can be concealed on a person.

2 informal a telegram or cablegram.

▶ verb [with obj.] 1 install electric circuits or wires in: wiring a plug | electricians wired up searchlights.

■connect (someone or something) to a piece of electronic equipment: a microphone wired to a loudspeaker.

2 provide, fasten, or reinforce with wires: they wired his jaw.

3 informal, chiefly US send a telegram or cablegram to: she wired her friend for advice.

■[with two objs] send (money) to (someone) by means of a telegram or cablegram: he was expecting a friend in Australia to wire him $1,500.

4 snare (an animal) with wire.

5 (usu. be wired) Croquet obstruct (a ball, shot, or player) by a hoop.

– PHRASES by wire by telegraph. down to the wire informal used to denote a situation whose outcome is not decided until the very last minute: it was probable that the test of nerves would go down to the wire. get one's wires crossed see CROSS. under the wire N. Amer. informal at the last possible opportunity; just in time.

– DERIVATIVES wirer noun.

– ORIGIN Old English wīr; of Germanic origin, probably from the base of Latin viere 'plait, weave'.

wire brush ▶ noun a brush with tough wire bristles for cleaning hard surfaces.

■a brush with wire strands, used on cymbals to produce a soft metallic sound.

▶ verb (wire-brush) [with obj.] clean (something) with a wire brush.

wire cloth ▶ noun [mass noun] cloth woven from wire.

wire-cutter ▶ noun (usu. wire-cutters) a tool for cutting wire.

wired ▶ adjective informal 1 making use of computers and information technology to transfer or receive information, especially by means of the Internet: the economic arguments for getting your business wired.

2 [predic.] in a nervous, tense, or edgy state: not much sleep lately—I'm a little wired.

■under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

wire-draw ▶ verb (past -drew; past participle -drawn) [with obj.] [often as noun wire-drawing] draw out (metal) into wire by passing it through a series of holes of diminishing diameter in a steel plate.

■figurative, archaic refine (an argument or idea) excessively, in such a way that it becomes strained or forced.

– DERIVATIVES wire-drawer noun.

wireframe ▶ noun Computing a skeletal three dimensional model in which only lines and vertices are represented.

wire fraud ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly US financial fraud involving the use of telecommunications or information technology.

wire gauge ▶ noun a gauge for measuring the diameter of wire.

■the diameter of wire; any of a series of standard sizes in which wire is made.

wire gauze ▶ noun [mass noun] a stiff gauze woven from wire.

wire grass ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly N. Amer. & Austral. a grass with tough wiry stems.

• Genera Aristida and Poa, family Gramineae: several species, including the European P. compressa, which has become naturalized in North America.

wire-guided ▶ adjective (of a missile) directed by means of electrical signals transmitted along fine connecting wires which uncoil during the missile's flight.

wire-haired ▶ adjective (especially of a dog breed) having stiff or wiry hair: a wire-haired terrier.

wireless ▶ noun dated, chiefly Brit. 1 (also wireless set) a radio receiving set.

2 [mass noun] broadcasting or telegraphy using radio signals.

▶ adjective lacking or not requiring wires.

wireline ▶ noun 1 a telegraph or telephone wire.

2 (in the oil industry) a cable for lowering and raising tools and other equipment in a well shaft.

■an electric cable used to connect measuring devices in an oil well with indicating or recording instruments at the surface.

wireman ▶ noun (pl. -men) 1 chiefly US an installer or repairer of electric wiring.

2 a journalist working for a news agency.

wire mattress ▶ noun a mattress supported by wires stretched in a frame.

wirepuller ▶ noun N. Amer. informal a person, especially a politician, who exerts control or influence from behind the scenes.

– DERIVATIVES wirepulling noun.

wire rope ▶ noun a length of rope made from wires twisted together as strands.

wire service ▶ noun chiefly N. Amer. a news agency that supplies syndicated news by wire to newspapers, radio, and television stations.

wire stripper ▶ noun a tool for removing the insulation from electric wires.

wiretapping ▶ noun [mass noun] the practice of connecting a listening device to a telephone line to monitor conversations secretly.

– DERIVATIVES wiretap noun & verb, wiretapper noun.

wire-walker ▶ noun an acrobat who walks along and performs feats on a tightrope.

wire wheel ▶ noun a wheel on a car, especially a sports car, having narrow metal spokes.

wire wool ▶ noun Brit. another term for STEEL WOOL.

wireworm ▶ noun the worm-like larva of a click beetle. Many wireworms feed on the underground parts of plants and can cause damage to arable and other crops.

wiring ▶ noun [mass noun] a system of wires providing electric circuits for a device or building.

■the installation of this. ■ informal the structure of the nervous system or brain perceived as determining a basic or innate pattern of behaviour.

Wirral /'wɪrəl/ a peninsula on the coast of NW England, between the estuaries of the Rivers Dee and Mersey. Full name THE WIRRAL PENINSULA.

Wirtschaftswunder /'vɪətʃafts,vʊndə, German 'vɪrtʃafts,vʊndə/ ▶ noun an economic miracle, especially the economic recovery of the Federal Republic of West Germany after the Second World War.

– ORIGIN German.

Wirtshaus /'vɪətshaʊs, German 'vɪrtshaʊs/ ▶ noun (pl. Wirtshäuser /-hɔɪzə, German -hɔyzɐ/) a hostel or inn in a German-speaking country.

– ORIGIN German, literally 'house of the innkeeper'.

wiry ▶ adjective (wirier, wiriest) resembling wire in form and texture: his wiry black hair.

■(of a person) lean, tough, and sinewy: Bernadette was a small, wiry woman.

– DERIVATIVES wirily adverb, wiriness noun.

Wis. ▶ abbreviation for Wisconsin.

wis ▶ verb (wisses, wissed, wissing) [no obj.] archaic know well: and, you wis, Lord Julian is a hasty man.

– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: originally in I wis, alteration of the obsolete adverb iwis 'certainly', erroneously interpreted as 'I know' (associated with wist, past tense of WIT[2]).

Wisconsin[1] /wɪs'kɒnsɪn/ a state in the northern US, bordering on Lakes Superior (in the north-west) and Michigan (in the east); pop. 4,891,770 (1990); capital, Madison. Ceded to Britain by the French in 1763 and acquired by the US in 1783 as part of the former Northwest Territory, it became the 30th state of the US in 1848.

– DERIVATIVES Wisconsinite noun.

Wisconsin[2] /wɪs'kɒnsɪn/ ▶ noun [usu. as modifier] Geology the last (or last two) of the Pleistocene glaciations of North America, approximating to the Weichsel of northern Europe.

■the system of deposits laid down at this time.

Wisd. ▶ abbreviation for (in biblical references) Wisdom of Solomon (Apocrypha).

Wisden /'wɪzdən/, John (1826–84), English cricketer. He is remembered as the publisher of Wisden Cricketers' Almanack, an annual publication which first appeared in 1864.

wisdom ▶ noun [mass noun] the quality of having experience, knowledge, and good judgement; the quality of being wise.

■the soundness of an action or decision with regard to the application of such experience, knowledge, and good judgement: some questioned the wisdom of building the dam so close to an active volcano. ■ the body of knowledge and principles that develops within a specified society or period: oriental wisdom.

– PHRASES in someone's wisdom used ironically to suggest that an action is not well judged: in their wisdom they decided to dispense with him.

– ORIGIN Old English wīsdōm (see WISE[1], -DOM).

wisdom literature ▶ noun [mass noun] the biblical books of Job, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, Song of Songs, Wisdom of Solomon, and Ecclesiasticus collectively.

■similar works, especially from the ancient Near East, containing proverbial sayings and practical maxims.

Wisdom of Solomon a book of the Apocrypha ascribed to Solomon and containing a meditation on wisdom. The book is thought actually to date from about 1st century BC to the 1st century AD.

wisdom tooth ▶ noun each of the four hindmost molars in humans which usually appear at about the age of twenty.

wise[1] ▶ adjective having or showing experience, knowledge, and good judgement: she seems kind and wise | a wise precaution.

■responding sensibly or shrewdly to a particular situation: it would be wise to discuss the matter with the chairman of the committee. ■ [predic.] having knowledge in a specified subject: he is wise in the ways of haute couture. ■ [predic.] (wise to) informal alert to or aware of: at seven she was already wise to the police.

– PHRASES be wise after the event understand and assess an event or situation only after its implications have become obvious. be none (or not any) the wiser know no more than before.

– DERIVATIVES wisely adverb.

– ORIGIN Old English wīs, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wijs and German weise, also to WIT[2].

▶ wise up (often in imperative) informal become alert to or aware of something: wise up to the flavours of North Africa.

wise[2] ▶ noun archaic the manner or extent of something: he did it this wise.

– PHRASES in no wise not at all.

– ORIGIN Old English wīse, of Germanic origin; related to WIT[2].

-wise ▶ suffix forming adjectives and adverbs of manner or respect such as clockwise, otherwise. Compare with -WAYS.

■informal with respect to; concerning: security-wise, there are few problems.

– ORIGIN from WISE[2].

USAGE In modern English the suffix -wise is attached to nouns to form a sentence adverb meaning 'concerning or with respect to', as in confidence-wise, tax-wise, price-wise, time-wise, news-wise, and culture-wise. The suffix is very productive and widely used in modern English but most of the words so formed are considered inelegant or not good English style.

wiseacre /'wʌɪzeɪkə/ ▶ noun a person with an affectation of wisdom or knowledge, regarded with scorn or irritation by others; a know-all.

– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Middle Dutch wijsseggher 'soothsayer', probably from the Germanic base of WIT[2]. The assimilation to ACRE remains unexplained.

wisecrack informal ▶ noun a clever and pithy spoken witticism.

▶ verb [no obj.] make a wisecrack: [as noun wisecracking] his warmth, boisterousness, and constant wisecracking.

– DERIVATIVES wisecracker noun.

wise guy informal ▶ noun 1 a person who speaks and behaves as if they know more than others.

2 US a member of the Mafia.

wise man ▶ noun a man versed in magic, witchcraft, or astrology. See also THREE WISE MEN.

wisenheimer /'wʌɪz(ə)nˌhʌɪmə/ ▶ noun US informal a person who behaves in an irritatingly smug or arrogant fashion, typically by making clever remarks and displaying their knowledge.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from WISE + the suffix -(n)heimer found in surnames such as Oppenheimer.

wisent /'wi:z(ə)nt/ ▶ noun the European bison. See BISON.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from German; related to BISON.

wise saw ▶ noun a proverbial saying.

wise woman ▶ noun chiefly historical a woman considered to be knowledgeable in matters such as herbal healing, magic charms, or other traditional lore.

wish ▶ verb [no obj.] feel or express a strong desire or hope for something that is not easily attainable; want something that cannot or probably will not happen: we wished for peace | [with clause] he wished that he had practised the routines.
■ silently invoke such a hope or desire, especially in a ritualized way: I closed my eyes and wished. ■ [with infinitive] feel or express a desire to do something: they wish to become involved. ■ [with obj. and infinitive] ask (someone) to do something or that (something) be done: I wish it to be clearly understood. ■ [with two objs] express a desire for (the success or good fortune) of (someone): they wish her every success. ■ [with obj.] (wish something on) hope that something unpleasant will happen to: I would not wish it on the vilest soul.
▶ noun a desire or hope for something to happen: the union has reiterated its wish for an agreement | [with infinitive] it is their wish to continue organizing similar exhibitions.
■ (usu. wishes) an expression of such a desire, typically in the form of a request or instruction: she must carry out her late father's wishes. ■ an invocation or recitation of a hope or desire: he makes a wish. ■ (usu. wishes) an expression of a desire for someone's success or good fortune: they had received kindness and good wishes from total strangers. ■ a thing or event that is or has been desired; an object of desire: the petitioners eventually got their wish.
– PHRASES if wishes were horses, beggars would ride proverb if you could achieve your aims simply by wishing for them, life would be very easy. wish someone well feel or express a desire for someone's well-being. the wish is father to the thought proverb we believe a thing because we wish it to be true.
– DERIVATIVES wisher noun [in combination] an ill-wisher.
– ORIGIN Old English wȳscan, of Germanic origin; related to German wünschen, also to WEEN and WONT.

USAGE Is it more correct to say I wish I were rich or I wish I was rich? On the question of the use of the subjunctive mood, see usage at SUBJUNCTIVE.

wishbone ▶ noun 1 a forked bone (the furcula) between the neck and breast of a bird. According to a popular custom, this bone from a cooked bird is broken by two people, the holder of the longer portion that results being entitled to make a wish.
2 an object of similar shape, in particular:
■ a forked element in the suspension of a motor vehicle or aircraft, typically attached to a wheel at one end with the two arms hinged to the chassis. ■ Sailing a boom in two halves which curve outwards around a sail and meet aft of it.

wish book ▶ noun N. Amer. informal a mail-order catalogue.

wishful ▶ adjective having or expressing a desire or hope for something to happen.
■ expressing or containing a desire or hope for something impractical or unfeasible: without resources the proposed measures were merely wishful thinking.
– DERIVATIVES wishfully adverb, wishfulness noun.

wish-fulfilment ▶ noun [mass noun] the satisfying of unconscious desires in dreams or fantasies.

wishing well ▶ noun a well into which one drops a coin and makes a wish.

wish list ▶ noun a list of desired things or occurrences.

wish-wash ▶ noun [mass noun] informal a weak or watery drink: one pot of wish-wash called 'tea'.
■ insipid or excessively sentimental talk or writing: this isn't just emotional wish-wash.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: reduplication of WASH.

wishy-washy ▶ adjective (of drink or liquid food such as soup) weak; watery.
■ feeble or insipid in quality or character; lacking strength or boldness: wishy-washy liberalism.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: reduplication of WASHY.

Wisła /'viswa/ Polish name for VISTULA.

wisp ▶ noun a small thin or twisted bunch, piece, or amount of something: wisps of smoke rose into the air.
■ a small bunch of hay or straw used for drying or grooming a horse. ■ a small thin person, typically a child: a fourteen-year-old wisp of a girl.
– DERIVATIVES wispily adverb, wispiness noun, wispy adjective (wispier, wispiest).
– ORIGIN Middle English: origin uncertain; perhaps related to WHISK.

Wissenschaft /'vɪs(ə)nʃaft/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the systematic pursuit of knowledge, learning, and scholarship (especially as contrasted with its application).
– ORIGIN German, literally 'knowledge'.

wist past and past participle of WIT².

Wistar rat /'wɪstə, 'wɪstɑ:/ ▶ noun Biology & Medicine a rat of a strain developed for laboratory purposes.
– ORIGIN 1930s: named after the Wistar Institute of Anatomy and Biology, Philadelphia, US.

wisteria /wɪ'stɪərɪə/ (also wistaria /-'steːrɪə/) ▶ noun a climbing shrub of the pea family, with hanging clusters of pale bluish-lilac flowers. Native to East Asia and North America, ornamental varieties are widely grown on walls and pergolas.
● Genus Wisteria, family Leguminosae: several species.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, named after Caspar Wistar (or Wister) (1761–1818), American anatomist.

wistful ▶ adjective having or showing a feeling of vague or regretful longing: a wistful smile.
– DERIVATIVES wistfully adverb, wistfulness noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: apparently from obsolete wistly 'intently', influenced by WISHFUL.

wit¹ ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 mental sharpness and inventiveness; keen intelligence: he does not lack perception or native wit.
■ (wits) the intelligence required for normal activity; basic human intelligence: he needed all his wits to figure out the way back.
2 a natural aptitude for using words and ideas in a quick and inventive way to create humour: his caustic wit cuts through the humbug.
■ [count noun] a person who has such an aptitude: she is such a wit.
– PHRASES be at one's wits' end be overwhelmed with difficulties and at a loss as to what to do next. be frightened (or scared) out of one's wits be extremely frightened; be immobilized by fear. gather (or collect) one's wits allow oneself to think calmly and clearly in a demanding situation. have (or keep) one's wits about one be constantly alert and vigilant. live by one's wits earn money by clever and sometimes dishonest means, having no regular employment. pit one's wits against compete with (someone or something).
– DERIVATIVES witted adjective [in combination] slow-witted.
– ORIGIN Old English wit(t), gewit(t), denoting the mind as the seat of consciousness, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch weet and German Witz, also to WIT².

wit² ▶ verb (wot, witting; past and past participle wist) [no obj.] 1 archaic have knowledge: I addressed a few words to the lady you wot of | [with obj.] I wot that but too well.
2 (to wit) that is to say (used to make clearer or more specific something already said or referred to): the textbooks show an irritating parochialism, to wit an almost total exclusion of papers not in English.
– ORIGIN Old English witan, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch weten and German wissen, from an Indo-European root shared by Sanskrit veda 'knowledge' and Latin videre 'see'.

witan /'wɪtən/ ▶ noun another term for WITENAGEMOT.
– ORIGIN representing the Old English plural of wita 'wise man'.

witblits /'vətblɪts/ ▶ noun S. African a type of raw spirits, especially one that has been illicitly distilled, in particular:
■ a raw brandy made from peaches and other fruit. ■ a colourless spirit made from grapes left from winemaking.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, from wit 'white' + blits 'lightning'.

witch ▶ noun 1 a woman thought to have evil magic powers. Witches are popularly depicted as wearing a black cloak and pointed hat, and flying on a broomstick.
■ a follower or practitioner of modern witchcraft; a Wiccan priest or priestess. ■ informal an ugly or unpleasant old woman; a hag. ■ a girl or woman capable of enchanting or bewitching a man.
2 an edible North Atlantic flatfish which is of some commercial value.
● Glyptocephalus cynoglossus, family Pleuronectidae.
▶ verb [with obj.] (of a witch) cast an evil spell on: Mrs Mucharski had somehow witched the house.
■ (of a girl or woman) enchant (a man): she witched Jake.
– PHRASES as cold as (or colder than) a witch's tit informal very cold.
– DERIVATIVES witchlike adjective, witchy adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wicca (masculine), wicce (feminine), wiccian (verb); current senses of the verb are probably a shortening of BEWITCH.

witch ball ▶ noun a ball of decorated, typically coloured or silvered blown glass, originally used as a charm against witchcraft.

witchcraft ▶ noun [mass noun] the practice of magic, especially black magic; the use of spells and the invocation of spirits. See also WICCA.

witch doctor ▶ noun (among tribal peoples) a magician credited with powers of healing, divination, and protection against the magic of others.

witch elm ▶ noun variant spelling of WYCH ELM.

witchery ▶ noun [mass noun] the practice of magic: warding off evil spirits and acts of witchery.
■ compelling power exercised by beauty, eloquence, or other attractive or fascinating qualities.

witches' broom ▶ noun [mass noun] dense twiggy growth in a tree caused by infection with fungus (especially rusts), mites, or viruses.

witches' butter ▶ noun [mass noun] a black gelatinous European fungus which forms folded cup-like masses on dead wood.
● Exidia plana, family Tremellaceae, class Hymenomycetes.

witches' sabbath ▶ noun see SABBATH (sense 2).

witchetty /'wɪtʃɪti/ (also witchetty grub) ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a large whitish wood-eating larva of a beetle or moth, eaten as food by some Aboriginals.
– ORIGIN from Adnyamathanha wityu 'hooked stick (for extracting grubs)' + varti 'grub'.

witch grass ▶ noun [mass noun] a tough creeping grass that can become an invasive weed:
● couch grass. ● (also old witch grass) a North American grass (Panicum capillare, family Gramineae).

witch hazel (also wych hazel) ▶ noun a shrub with fragrant yellow flowers which is widely grown as an ornamental. American species flower in autumn and Asian species in winter.
● Genus Hamamelis, family Hamamelidaceae: several species, especially H. virginiana, which is the source of the lotion.
■ [mass noun] an astringent lotion made from the bark and leaves of this plant.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: witch, variant of wych (see WYCH ELM).

witch-hunt ▶ noun historical a search for and subsequent persecution of a supposed witch.
■ informal a campaign directed against a person or group holding unorthodox or unpopular views.
– DERIVATIVES witch-hunting noun.

witching ▶ noun [mass noun] the practice of witchcraft.
– PHRASES the witching hour midnight (with reference to the belief that witches are active and magic takes place at that time). [ORIGIN: with allusion to the witching time of night from Shakespeare's Hamlet (III. ii. 377).]

witchweed ▶ noun [mass noun] a small parasitic plant which attaches itself to the roots of other plants. Native to the Old World tropics and southern Africa, it can cause serious damage to crops such as maize and sugar.
● Genus Striga, family Scrophulariaceae.

witenagemot /'wɪt(ə)nəgɪˌməʊt/ ▶ noun historical an Anglo-Saxon national council or parliament. Also called WITAN.
– ORIGIN Old English, from witena, genitive plural of wita 'wise man' + gemōt 'meeting' (compare with MOOT).

with ▶ preposition 1 accompanied by (another person or thing): a nice steak with a bottle of red wine.
■ in the same direction as: marine mammals generally swim with the current. ■ along with (with reference to time): wisdom comes with age.

2 possessing (something) as a feature or accompaniment: a flower-sprigged blouse with a white collar.

■marked by or wearing: a tall dark man with a scar on one cheek | a small man with thick glasses.

3 indicating the instrument used to perform an action: cut it with a knife | treatment with acid before analysis.

■indicating the material used for some purpose: fill the bowl with water.

4 in opposition to: a row broke out with another man.

5 indicating the manner or attitude of the person doing something: with great reluctance.

6 indicating responsibility: leave it with me.

7 in relation to: my father will be angry with me.

8 employed by: she's with the Inland Revenue now.

■using the services of: I bank with the TSB.

9 affected by (a particular fact or condition): with no hope | in bed with lumbago.

■indicating the cause of an action or condition: trembling with fear | the paper was yellow with age.

10 indicating separation or removal from something: to part with one's dearest possessions | their jobs could be dispensed with.

– PHRASES away (or off or out etc.) with used in exhortations to take or send someone or something away, in, out, etc.: off with his head. be with someone 1 agree with or support someone: we're all with you on this one. 2 informal follow someone's meaning: I'm not with you. with it informal 1 knowledgeable about and following modern ideas and fashions: a young, with-it film buyer. 2 [usu. with negative] alert and comprehending: I'm not really with it this morning. 3 in addition; besides: he seems a decent lad, and clever with it. with that at that point; immediately after saying or doing something dramatic: with that, she flounced out of the room.

– ORIGIN Old English, probably a shortening of a Germanic preposition related to obsolete English wither 'adverse, opposite'.

withal /wɪ'ðɔ:l/ archaic ▶ adverb in addition; as a further factor or consideration: the whole is light and portable, and ornamental withal.

■all the same; nevertheless (used when adding something that contrasts with a previous comment): she gave him a grateful smile, but rueful withal.

▶ preposition with (used at the end of a clause): we sat with little to nourish ourselves withal but vile water.

– ORIGIN Middle English: originally as with all.

withdraw ▶ verb (past -drew; past participle -drawn) 1 [with obj.] remove or take away (something) from a particular place or position: slowly Ruth withdrew her hand from his.

■take back or away (something bestowed, proposed, or used): the party threatened to withdraw its support for the government. ■ take (money) out of an account: normally you can withdraw up to £50 in cash. ■ say that (a statement one has made) is untrue or unjustified: he failed to withdraw his remarks and apologize. ■ [no obj.] (of a man) practise coitus interruptus.

2 [no obj.] leave or come back from a place, especially a war zone: Iraqi forces withdrew from Kuwait.

■[with obj.] cause (someone) to leave or come back from a place, especially a war zone: both countries agreed to withdraw their troops. ■ no longer participate in an activity or be a member of a team or organization: his rival withdrew from the race on the second lap. ■ depart to another room or place, especially in search of quiet or privacy. ■ retreat from contact or communication with other people: he went silent and withdrew into himself. ■ [with obj.] remove (a child) from class for remedial teaching.

3 [no obj.] cease to take an addictive drug: for the cocaine user, it is possible to withdraw without medication.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from the prefix with- 'away' + the verb DRAW.

withdrawal ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of withdrawing something: the withdrawal of legal aid.

■[count noun] an act of taking money out of an account. ■ the action of ceasing to participate in an activity: Italy's withdrawal from NATO. ■ the process of ceasing to take an addictive drug.

– PHRASES withdrawal symptoms the unpleasant physical reaction that accompanies the process of ceasing to take an addictive drug.

withdrawing room ▶ noun archaic term for DRAWING ROOM.

withdrawn past participle of WITHDRAW. ▶ adjective not wanting to communicate with other people: a disorder characterized by withdrawn and fearful behaviour.

withe /wɪθ, wɪð, waɪð/ ▶ noun variant spelling of WITHY.

wither ▶ verb 1 [no obj.] (of a plant) become dry and shrivelled: the grass had withered to an unappealing brown | [as adj. withered] withered leaves.

■(of a person, limb, or the skin) become shrunken or wrinkled from age or disease: [as adj. withered] a girl with a withered arm. ■ cease to flourish; fall into decay or decline: programmes would wither away if they did not command local support. ■ (wither away) (of the state in Marxist theory) cease to exist because no longer necessary after the dictatorship of the proletariat has implemented the necessary changes in society.

2 [with obj.] cause harm or damage to: a business that can wither the hardiest ego.

■mortify (someone) with a scornful look or manner: his clipped tone withered Sylvester.

– PHRASES wither on the vine fail to be implemented or dealt with because of neglect or inaction.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: apparently a variant of WEATHER, ultimately differentiated for certain senses.

withering ▶ adjective 1 intended to make someone feel mortified or humiliated: a withering look.

2 (of heat) intense; scorching.

▶ noun [mass noun] the action of becoming dry and shrivelled.

■the action of declining or decaying: the withering of the PLO's revolutionary threat.

– DERIVATIVES witheringly adverb (usu. in sense 1 of the adjective).

witherite /'wɪðəraɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a rare white mineral consisting of barium carbonate, occurring especially in veins of galena.

– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from the name of William Withering (1741–99), the English physician and scientist who first described it, + -ITE[1].

withers ▶ plural noun the highest part of a horse's back, lying at the base of the neck above the shoulders. The height of a horse is measured to the withers.

– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: apparently a reduced form of widersome, from obsolete wither- 'against, contrary' (as the part that resists the strain of the collar) + a second element of obscure origin.

withershins /'wɪðəʃɪnz/ ▶ adverb variant spelling of WIDDERSHINS.

withhold ▶ verb (past and past participle -held) [with obj.] refuse to give (something that is due to or is desired by another): the name of the dead man is being withheld | [as noun withholding] the withholding of consent to treatment.

■suppress or hold back (an emotion or reaction).

– DERIVATIVES withholder noun.

– ORIGIN Middle English: from the prefix with- 'away' + the verb HOLD[1].

withholding tax ▶ noun a tax deducted at source, especially one levied by some countries on interest or dividends paid to a person resident outside that country.

within ▶ preposition inside (something): the spread of fire within the building.

■inside the range of (an area or boundary): property located within the green belt. ■ inside the range of (a specified action or perception): within reach. ■ not further off than (used with distances): he lives within a few miles of Oxford. ■ occurring inside (a particular period of time): sold out within two hours | 33% offended again within two years of being released. ■ inside the bounds set by (a concept, argument, etc.): full cooperation within the terms of the treaty.

▶ adverb inside; indoors: enquire within.

■internally or inwardly: beauty coming from within.

– PHRASES within doors indoors.

– ORIGIN late Old English withinnan 'on the inside' without ▶ preposition 1 in the absence of: he went to Sweden without her.

■not having the use or benefit of: the first person to make the ascent without oxygen. ■ [often with verbal noun] in circumstances in which the action mentioned does not happen: they sat looking at each other without speaking.

2 archaic or poetic/literary outside: the barbarians without the gates.

▶ adverb archaic or poetic/literary outside: the enemy without.

▶ conjunction archaic or dialect without it being the case that: he won't be able to go without we know it.

■unless: I'd never have known you without you spoke to me.

– PHRASES do without see DO[1]. go without see GO[1].

– ORIGIN Old English withūtan 'on the outside'.

with-profits ▶ adjective Brit. (of an insurance policy) allowing the holder to receive a share of the profits made by the company, typically in the form of a bonus.

withstand ▶ verb (past and past participle -stood) [with obj.] remain undamaged or unaffected by; resist: the structure had been designed to withstand winds of more than 100 mph.

■offer strong resistance or opposition to (someone or something).

– DERIVATIVES withstander noun.

– ORIGIN Old English withstandan, from the prefix with- 'against' + the verb STAND.

withy /'wɪði/ (also withe) ▶ noun (pl. withies or withes) a tough flexible branch of an osier or other willow, used for tying, binding, or basketry.

■another term for OSIER.

– ORIGIN Old English withig, of Germanic origin; related to German Weide.

witless ▶ adjective foolish; stupid: a witless retort.

■[as complement] to such an extent that one cannot think clearly or rationally: I was scared witless.

– DERIVATIVES witlessly adverb, witlessness noun.

– ORIGIN Old English witlēas 'crazy, dazed' (see WIT[1], -LESS).

witling ▶ noun archaic, usu. derogatory a person who considers themselves to be witty.

witloof /'wɪtlu:f/ ▶ noun [mass noun] chicory of a broad-leaved variety grown for blanching.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Dutch, literally 'white leaf'.

witness ▶ noun 1 a person who sees an event, typically a crime or accident, take place: police are appealing for witnesses to the accident | I was witness to one of the most amazing comebacks in sprinting history.

■a person giving sworn testimony to a court of law or the police. ■ a person who is present at the signing of a document and signs it themselves to confirm this.

2 [mass noun] evidence; proof: the memorial service was witness to the wide circle of his interest.

■used to refer to confirmation or evidence given by signature, under oath, or otherwise: in witness thereof, the parties sign this document. ■ open profession of one's religious faith through words or actions: he told us of faithful Christian witness by many in his country. ■ (also witness mark) [count noun] a line or remnant of an original surface on a workpiece to show how much material has been removed or the shape of the original outline.

▶ verb 1 [with obj.] see (an event, typically a crime or accident) take place: staff who witnessed the murder.

■have knowledge of (an event or change) from personal observation or experience: what we are witnessing is the birth of a dangerously liberal orthodoxy. ■ (of a time, place, or other context) be the setting in which (a particular event) takes place: the 1980s witnessed an unprecedented increase in the scope of the electronic media. ■ be present as someone signs (a document) or gives (their signature) to a document and sign it oneself to confirm this: the clerk witnessed her signature. ■ [in imperative] look at (used to introduce a fact illustrating a preceding statement): the nuclear family is a vulnerable institution—witness the rates of marital breakdown.

2 [no obj.] (witness to) give or serve as evidence of; testify to: his writings witness to an inner toughness.

■(of a person) openly profess one's religious faith in: one of the purposes of his coming was to nerve the disciples to witness to Jesus.

– PHRASES as God is my witness (or God be my witness) an invocation of God as confirmation of the truth of a statement: God be my witness, sir, I didn't! call someone or something to witness archaic appeal or refer to someone or something for confirmation or evidence of something.

– ORIGIN Old English witnes (see WIT[1], -NESS).

witness box (US witness stand) ▶ noun Law the place in a court where a witness stands to give evidence.

Wittenberg /'vɪt(ə)nbə:g, German 'vɪtnbɛrk/ a town in eastern Germany, on the River Elbe north-east of Leipzig; pop. 87,000 (1991). It was the scene in 1517 of Martin Luther's campaign against the Roman Catholic Church, which was a major factor in the rise of the Reformation.

witter ▶ verb [no obj.] Brit. informal speak at length about trivial matters: she'd been wittering on about Jennifer and her illness.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent. (originally Scots and dialect): probably imitative.

Wittgenstein /ˈvɪtgənstʌɪn/, Ludwig (Josef Johann) (1889–1951), British philosopher, born in Austria. His two major works, Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus (1921) and Philosophical Investigations (1953), examine language and its relationship to the world.

witticism ▶ noun a witty remark.
– ORIGIN 1677: coined by Dryden from WITTY, on the pattern of criticism.

witting ▶ adjective done in full awareness or consciousness; deliberate: the witting and unwitting complicity of the institutions.
■(of a person) conscious or aware of the full facts of a situation: there is no proof that the Chinese were witting accomplices.
– DERIVATIVES wittingly adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from WIT[2] + -ING[2].

wittol /ˈwɪt(ə)l/ ▶ noun archaic a man who is aware and tolerant of his wife's infidelity; an acquiescent cuckold.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: apparently from WIT[2] + the last syllable (with the loss of -d) of CUCKOLD.

witty ▶ adjective (wittier, wittiest) showing or characterized by quick and inventive verbal humour: a witty remark | Marlowe was charming and witty.
– DERIVATIVES wittily adverb, wittiness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wit(t)ig 'having wisdom' (see WIT[1], -Y[1]).

Witwatersrand /wɪtˈwɔːtəzˌrand/ (the Witwatersrand) a region of South Africa, around the city of Johannesburg. Consisting of a series of parallel rocky ridges, it forms a watershed between the Vaal and Olifant Rivers. The region contains rich gold deposits, first discovered in 1886. Also called THE RAND.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, literally 'ridge of white waters'.

wivern ▶ noun archaic spelling of WYVERN.

wives plural form of WIFE.

wiz ▶ noun variant spelling of WHIZZ (in sense 2).

wizard ▶ noun 1 a man who has magical powers, especially in legends and fairy tales.
■a person who is very skilled in a particular field or activity: a financial wizard.
2 Computing a help feature of a software package that automates complex tasks by asking the user a series of easy-to-answer questions.
▶ adjective informal, dated, chiefly Brit. wonderful; excellent.
– DERIVATIVES wizardly adjective (only in sense 1 of the noun).
– ORIGIN late Middle English (in the sense 'philosopher, sage'): from WISE[1] + -ARD.

wizardry ▶ noun [mass noun] the art or practice of magic: Merlin used his powers of wizardry for good.
■great skill in a particular area of activity: Pless's wizardry with a bat. ■ the product of such skill: the car is full of hi-tech wizardry.

wizen ▶ adjective archaic variant of WIZENED.

wizened /ˈwɪz(ə)nd/ ▶ adjective shrivelled or wrinkled with age: a wizened, weather-beaten old man.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: past participle of archaic wizen 'shrivel', of Germanic origin.

wizzo ▶ adjective variant spelling of WHIZZO.

wk ▶ abbreviation for week: 75 mg per day for 3 wks.

Władysław II /vwadˈiswaf/ see LADISLAUS II.

WLTM ▶ abbreviation for would like to meet (used in lonely hearts advertisements).

Wm ▶ abbreviation for William.

WMO ▶ abbreviation for World Meteorological Organization.

WNW ▶ abbreviation for west-north-west.

WO ▶ abbreviation for Warrant Officer.

wo ▶ exclamation variant spelling of WHOA.

woad /wəʊd/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a yellow-flowered European plant of the cabbage family. It was formerly widely grown in Britain as a source of blue dye, which was extracted from the leaves after they had been dried, powdered, and fermented.
● Isatis tinctoria, family Cruciferae.
■the dye obtained from this plant, now superseded by synthetic products.
– ORIGIN Old English wād, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wede and German Waid.

wobbegong /ˈwɒbɪgɒŋ/ (also wobbegon) ▶ noun a brown Australian carpet shark with pale markings, living in shallow waters around reefs.
● Orectolobus maculatus, family Orectolobidae.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: probably from a New South Wales Aboriginal language.

wobble ▶ verb [no obj.] move unsteadily from side to side: the table wobbles where the leg is too short.
■[with obj.] cause to move in such a way. ■ [with adverbial of direction] move in such a way in a particular direction: they wobble around on their bikes. ■ (of the voice) tremble; quaver: her voice wobbled dangerously, but she brought it under control. ■ figurative hesitate or waver between different courses of action; vacillate: the President wobbled on Bosnia.
▶ noun an unsteady movement from side to side.
■a tremble or quaver in the voice. ■ a moment of hesitation or vacillation.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent. (earlier as wabble): of Germanic origin; compare with Old Norse vafla 'waver'; related to the verb WAVE.

wobble-board ▶ noun Austral. a piece of fibreboard used as a musical instrument, which, when held in both hands and flexed, produces a low, rhythmic booming sound.

wobbler ▶ noun 1 a person or thing that wobbles.
■(in angling) a lure that wobbles and does not spin.
2 another term for WOBBLY: Mum threw a wobbler.

Wobblies ▶ plural noun popular name for members of INDUSTRIAL WORKERS OF THE WORLD.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: of unknown origin.

wobbly ▶ adjective (wobblier, wobbliest) tending to move unsteadily from side to side: the car had a wobbly wheel.
■(of a person or their legs) weak and unsteady from illness, tiredness, or anxiety. ■ (of a person, action or state) uncertain, wavering, or insecure: the evening gets off to a wobbly start. ■ (of a speaker, singer, or voice) having a tendency to move out of tone or slightly vary in pitch. ■ (of a line or handwriting) not straight or regular; shaky.
▶ noun [in sing.] Brit. informal a fit of temper or panic: my daughter threw a wobbly when I wouldn't let her play.
■(the wobblies) a fit of panic: the driver was having an attack of the wobblies.
– DERIVATIVES wobbliness noun.

Wodehouse /ˈwʊdhaʊs/, Sir P. G. (1881–1975), English writer; full name Pelham Grenville Wodehouse. His best-known works are humorous stories of the upper-class world of Bertie Wooster and his valet Jeeves, the first of which appeared in 1917.

Woden /ˈwəʊd(ə)n/ another name for ODIN.

wodge ▶ noun Brit. informal a large piece or amount of something: he slapped a wodge of notes down on the counter.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: alteration of WEDGE[1].

woe ▶ noun often humorous great sorrow or distress: the Everton tale of woe continued.
■(woes) things that cause sorrow or distress; troubles: to add to his woes, customers have been spending less.
– PHRASES woe betide someone (or woe to someone) used humorously to warn someone that they will be in trouble if they do a specified thing: woe betide anyone wearing the wrong colour! woe is me! an ironical or humorous exclamation of sorrow or distress.
– ORIGIN natural exclamation of lament: recorded as wā in Old English and found in several Germanic languages.

woebegone /ˈwəʊbɪgɒn/ ▶ adjective sad or miserable in appearance: don't look so woebegone, Joanna.
– ORIGIN Middle English (in the sense 'afflicted with grief'): from WOE + begone 'surrounded' (past participle of obsolete bego 'go around, beset').

woeful ▶ adjective characterized by, expressive of, or causing sorrow or misery: her face was woeful.
■very bad; deplorable: the remark was enough to establish his woeful ignorance about the theatre.
– DERIVATIVES woefully adverb [as submodifier] the police response was woefully inadequate, woefulness noun.

wog[1] ▶ noun Brit. offensive a person who is not white.
– ORIGIN 1920s: of unknown origin.

wog[2] ▶ noun Austral. informal an illness or infection, typically a minor one: a flu wog struck.
– ORIGIN 1930s: of unknown origin.

woggle ▶ noun a loop or ring of leather or cord through which the ends of a Scout's neckerchief are threaded.
– ORIGIN 1930s: of unknown origin.

Wöhler /ˈvəːlə, German ˈvøːlɐ/, Friedrich (1800–82), German chemist. His synthesis of urea from ammonium cyanate in 1828 demonstrated that organic compounds could be made from inorganic compounds. He was also the first to isolate the elements aluminium and beryllium.

wok ▶ noun a bowl-shaped frying pan used typically in Chinese cookery.
– ORIGIN Chinese (Cantonese dialect).

woke past of WAKE[1].

woken past participle of WAKE[1].

Woking /ˈwəʊkɪŋ/ a town in Surrey, SE England; pop. 81,770 (1981).

wold /wəʊld/ ▶ noun [often in place names] (usu. wolds) (in Britain) a piece of high, open, uncultivated land or moor: the Lincolnshire Wolds.
– ORIGIN Old English wald 'wooded upland', of Germanic origin; perhaps related to WILD. Compare with WEALD.

Wolf /vɒlf/, Hugo (Philipp Jakob) (1860–1903), Austrian composer. He is chiefly known as a composer of lieder, some of which are settings of Goethe and Heinrich Heine.

wolf ▶ noun (pl. wolves) 1 a wild carnivorous mammal which is the largest member of the dog family, living and hunting in packs. It is native to both Eurasia and North America, but is much persecuted and has been widely exterminated.
● Canis lupus, family Canidae; it is the chief ancestor of the domestic dog.
■used in names of similar or related mammals, e.g. maned wolf, Tasmanian wolf.
2 used in similes and metaphors to refer to a rapacious, ferocious, or voracious person or thing.
■informal a man who habitually seduces women. ■ N. Amer. informal a homosexual who habitually seduces men or adopts an active role with a partner.
3 a harsh or out-of-tune effect produced when playing particular notes or intervals on a musical instrument, caused either by the instrument's construction or by divergence from equal temperament.
▶ verb [with obj.] devour (food) greedily: he wolfed down his breakfast.
– PHRASES cry wolf call for help when it is not needed, with the effect that one is not believed when one really does need help. [ORIGIN: with allusion to the fable of the shepherd boy who deluded people with false cries of 'Wolf!'.] hold (or have) a wolf by the ears be in a precarious position. keep the wolf from the door have enough money to avert hunger or starvation (used hyperbolically): I work part-time to pay the mortgage and keep the wolf from the door. throw someone to the wolves leave someone to be roughly treated or criticized without trying to help or defend them. a wolf in sheep's clothing a person or thing that appears friendly or harmless but is really hostile. [ORIGIN: with biblical allusion to Matt. 7:15.]
– DERIVATIVES wolfish adjective, wolfishly adverb, wolf-like adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wulf, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wolf and German Wolf, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin lupus and Greek lukos. The verb dates from the mid 19th cent.

Wolf Cub ▶ noun chiefly Brit. former term for CUB SCOUT.

Wolfe[1], James (1727–59), British general. One of the leaders of the expedition sent to seize French Canada, he commanded the attack on the French capital, Quebec (1759). He was fatally wounded while leading his troops to victory on the Plains of Abraham, the scene of the battle which led to British control of Canada.

Wolfe[2], Thomas (Clayton) (1900–38), American novelist. His intense, romantic works, including his first, autobiographical novel Look Homeward Angel (1929), dwell idealistically on America.

Wolfe[3], Tom (b.1931), American writer; born Thomas Kennerley Wolfe Jr. Having been a news reporter for the Washington Post and the Herald Tribune, he examined contemporary American culture in The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test (1968) and the novel The Bonfire of the Vanities (1988).

Wolfenden Report /ˈwʊlf(ə)nd(ə)n/ a study produced in 1957 by the Committee on Homosexual Offences and Prostitution in Britain which recommended the legalization of homosexual relations between consenting adults.

wolf fish ▶ noun a large long-bodied marine fish with a long-based dorsal fin and sharp doglike teeth, which lives in deep waters of the northern hemisphere. Also called CATFISH, SEA WOLF.
• Family Anarhichadidae: several genera and species, including the edible Anarhichas lupus.

wolfhound ▶ noun a dog of a large breed originally used to hunt wolves.

wolf pack ▶ noun a group of people or things that operate as a hunting and attacking pack, in particular a group of attacking submarines or aircraft.

wolfram /'wolfrəm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] tungsten or its ore, especially as a commercial commodity.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from German, assumed to be a miners' term, perhaps from Wolf 'wolf' + Middle High German rām 'soot', probably originally a pejorative term referring to the ore's inferiority to tin, with which it occurred.

wolframite ▶ noun [mass noun] a black or brown mineral which is the chief ore of tungsten. It consists of a tungstate of iron and manganese.

wolfsbane /'wolfsbeɪn/ ▶ noun a northern European aconite.
• Genus Aconitum, family Ranunculaceae: several species, in particular the purple-flowered A. lycoctonum.

Wolfsburg /'vɒlfsbɜːg/ an industrial city on the Mittelland Canal in Lower Saxony, NW Germany; pop. 128,995 (1991).

wolfskin /'wolfskɪn/ ▶ noun the skin or pelt of a wolf.

wolf snake ▶ noun a harmless Old World snake with long upper teeth:
• a small nocturnal African snake (genus Lycophidion, family Colubridae), including the Cape wolf snake (L. capense).
• a medium-sized Asian snake (genus Ophites (formerly Lycodon), family Colubridae), including the common wolf snake or carpet snake (O. aulicus).

Wolfson /'wolfs(ə)n/, Sir Isaac (1897–1991), Scottish businessman and philanthropist. He established the Wolfson Foundation in 1955 for promoting and funding medical research and education. Colleges in both Oxford and Cambridge now bear his name.

wolf spider ▶ noun a fast-moving ground spider which runs after and springs on its prey.
• Family Lycosidae, order Araneae.

wolf whistle ▶ noun a whistle with a rising and falling pitch, directed towards someone to express sexual attraction or admiration.
▶ verb (wolf-whistle) [with obj.] whistle in such a way at: fans wolf-whistled her as she took off her jacket | [no obj.] they wolf-whistled at me.

Wollaston /'wolast(ə)n/, William Hyde (1766–1828), English chemist and physicist. He discovered palladium and rhodium, and pioneered techniques in powder metallurgy. Wollaston also demonstrated that static and current electricity were the same, invented a kind of slide rule for use in chemistry, and was the first to observe the dark lines in the solar spectrum.

wollastonite /'wolastənaɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a white or greyish mineral typically occurring in tabular masses in metamorphosed limestone. It is a silicate of calcium and is used as a source of rock wool.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from the name of W. H. Wollaston (see WOLLASTON) + -ITE[1].

Wollongong /'wolangɒŋ/ a city on the coast of New South Wales, SE Australia; pop. 211,420 (1991).

Wollstonecraft /'wolstən krɑːft/, Mary (1759–97), English writer and feminist, of Irish descent. Her best-known work, A Vindication of the Rights of Woman (1792), defied assumptions about male supremacy and championed educational equality for women. In 1797 she married William Godwin and died shortly after giving birth to their daughter Mary Shelley.

Wolof /'wəʊlɒf/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Wolofs) 1 a member of a people living in Senegal and Gambia. 2 [mass noun] the Niger–Congo language of this people, which has about 2 million speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Wolof or their language.
– ORIGIN the name in Wolof.

Wolsey /'wolzi/, Thomas (*c.*1474–1530), English prelate and statesman; known as Cardinal Wolsey. Wolsey dominated foreign and domestic policy in the early part of Henry VIII's reign, but incurred royal displeasure through his failure to secure the papal dispensation necessary for Henry's divorce from Catherine of Aragon. He was arrested on a charge of treason and died on his way to trial.

Wolstonian /wʊl'stəʊnɪən/ ▶ adjective Geology of, relating to, or denoting the penultimate Pleistocene glaciation in Britain, identified with the Saale of northern Europe (and perhaps the Riss of the Alps).
■ [as noun the Wolstonian] the Wolstonian glaciation or the system of deposits laid down during it.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from Wolston, the name of a village in Warwickshire, + -IAN.

Wolverhampton /ˌwʊlvə'hampt(ə)n/ an industrial city in the Midlands, north-west of Birmingham; pop. 239,800 (1991).

wolverine /'wʊlvəriːn/ ▶ noun a heavily built short-legged carnivorous mammal with a long brown coat and a bushy tail, native to the tundra and forests of arctic and subarctic regions.
• Gulo gulo, family Mustelidae.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent. (earlier as wolvering): formed obscurely from wolv-, plural stem of WOLF.

Wolverine State informal name for MICHIGAN.

wolves plural form of WOLF.

woma /'wəʊmə/ ▶ noun a brownish-grey Australian python found in sandy desert areas.
• Aspidites ramsayi, family Pythonidae.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from Diyari (an Aboriginal language of South Australia).

woman ▶ noun (pl. women) an adult human female. ■ a female worker or employee. ■ a wife, girlfriend, or lover: he wondered whether Billy had his woman with him. ■ [with modifier] a female person associated with a particular place, activity, or occupation: a young Clacton woman. ■ [in sing.] female adults in general: woman is intuitive. ■ a female who is paid to clean someone's house and carry out general domestic duties. ■ a peremptory form of address to a woman: don't be daft, woman.
– PHRASES be one's own woman see OWN. the little woman a condescending way of referring to a man's wife. my good woman Brit. dated a patronizing form of address to a woman: you're mistaken, my good woman. woman of letters a female scholar or author. woman of the streets dated used euphemistically to refer to a prostitute. woman of the world see WORLD. woman to woman in a direct and frank way between two women.
– DERIVATIVES womanless adjective, womanlike adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wīfmon, -man (see WIFE, MAN), a formation peculiar to English, the ancient word being WIFE.

-woman ▶ combining form in nouns denoting: ■ a female of a specified nationality: Englishwoman. ■ a woman of specified origin or place of abode: Yorkshirewoman. ■ a woman belonging to a distinct specified group: laywoman. ■ a woman having a specified occupation or professional status: chairwoman | saleswoman. ■ a woman skilled in or associated with a specified activity, especially a craft or sport: needlewoman | oarswoman.

womanhood ▶ noun [mass noun] the state or condition of being a woman: she was on the very brink of womanhood. ■ the qualities considered to be natural to or characteristic of a woman: Mary was cultivated as an ideal of womanhood. ■ women considered collectively: half of Britain's womanhood is dress size 14 and over.

womanish ▶ adjective derogatory suitable to or characteristic of a woman: he confused introspection with womanish indecision. ■ (of a man) effeminate; unmanly: Burden thought him a weak womanish fool.
– DERIVATIVES womanishly adverb, womanishness noun.

womanism ▶ noun [mass noun] a form of feminism that acknowledges women's natural contribution to society (used by some in distinction to the term feminism and its association with white women).
– DERIVATIVES womanist noun.

womanize (also -ise) ▶ verb [no obj.] (of a man) engage in numerous casual sexual affairs with women (used to express disapproval): [as noun womanizing] there were rumours that his womanizing had now become intolerable.
– DERIVATIVES womanizer noun.

womankind ▶ noun [mass noun] women considered collectively: she said she acted for womankind in bringing a sexual harassment claim against him.

womanly ▶ adjective relating to or having the characteristics of a woman or women: her smooth, womanly skin. ■ (of a girl's or woman's body) fully developed and curvaceous: I've got a womanly figure.
– DERIVATIVES womanliness noun.

woman of the bedchamber ▶ noun (in the UK) a female attendant to the queen or queen mother, ranking in the royal household below lady of the bedchamber.

womb ▶ noun the organ in the lower body of a woman or female mammal where offspring are conceived and in which they gestate before birth; the uterus.
– DERIVATIVES womb-like adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wamb, womb, of Germanic origin.

wombat /'wɒmbat/ ▶ noun a burrowing plant-eating Australian marsupial which resembles a small bear with short legs.
• Family Vombatidae: two genera and three species, in particular the common wombat (Vombatus ursinus).
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Dharuk.

women plural form of WOMAN.

womenfolk ▶ plural noun the women of a particular family or community considered collectively.

Women's Institute (abbrev.: WI) ▶ noun an organization of women, especially in rural areas, who meet regularly and participate in crafts, cultural activities, and social work. Now worldwide, it was first set up in Ontario, Canada, in 1897, and in Britain in 1915.

women's lib ▶ noun informal short for WOMEN'S LIBERATION.
– DERIVATIVES women's libber noun.

women's liberation ▶ noun [mass noun] the liberation of women from inequalities and subservient status in relation to men, and from attitudes causing these (now generally replaced by the term feminism).

women's movement ▶ noun a broad movement campaigning for women's liberation and rights.

women's page ▶ noun a page of a newspaper or magazine devoted to topics intended to be of special interest to women.

women's rights ▶ plural noun rights that promote a position of legal and social equality of women with men.

women's studies ▶ plural noun [usu. treated as sing.] academic courses in sociology, history, literature, and psychology which focus on the roles, experiences, and achievements of women in society.

women's suffrage ▶ noun [mass noun] the right of women to vote.

womenswear ▶ noun [mass noun] clothing for women.

women's work ▶ noun [mass noun] work traditionally and historically undertaken by women, especially tasks of a domestic nature such as cooking, needlework, and child rearing.

womyn /'wɪmɪn/ ▶ plural noun non-standard spelling of 'women' adopted by some feminists in order to avoid the word ending -men.

won[1] past and past participle of WIN.

won[2] /wɒn/ ▶ noun (pl. same) the basic monetary unit of North and South Korea, equal to 100 jun in North Korea and 100 jeon in South Korea.
– ORIGIN from Korean wǎn.

Wonder, Stevie (b.1950), American singer, songwriter, and musician; born Steveland Judkins Morris. His repertoire has included soul, rock, funk, and romantic ballads, as heard on albums such as Innervisions (1973). He has been blind since birth.

wonder ▶ noun [mass noun] a feeling of surprise mingled with admiration, caused by something beautiful, unexpected, unfamiliar, or inexplicable: he had stood in front of it, observing the intricacy of the ironwork with the wonder of a child. ■ the quality of a person or thing that causes such a feeling: Athens was a place of wonder and beauty. ■ [count noun] a strange or remarkable person, thing, or event: the electric tramcar was looked upon as the wonder of the age. ■ [as modifier] having remarkable properties or abilities: a wonder drug. ■ [in sing.] a surprising event or situation: it is a wonder that losses are not much greater.

▶ verb [no obj.] 1 desire or be curious to know something: how many times have I written that, I wonder? | [with clause] I can't help wondering how Georgina's feeling.
■ [with clause] used to express a polite question or request: I wonder whether you have thought more about it? ■ feel doubt: even hereditary peers are inclined to wonder about the legitimacy of the place.
2 feel admiration and amazement; marvel: people stood by and wondered at such bravery | [as adj. wondering] a wondering look on her face.
■ be surprised: if I feel compassion for her, it is not to be wondered at.
– PHRASES I shouldn't wonder informal I think it likely. no (or little or small) wonder it is not surprising: it is little wonder that the fax machine is so popular. nine days' (or seven-day or one-day) wonder something that attracts enthusiastic interest for a short while but is then ignored or forgotten. wonders will never cease an exclamation of great surprise at something pleasing. work (or do) wonders have a very beneficial effect on someone or something: a good night's sleep can work wonders for mind and body.
– DERIVATIVES wonderer noun, wonderingly adverb.
– ORIGIN Old English wundor (noun), wundrian (verb), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wonder and German Wunder, of unknown ultimate origin.

wonderful ▶ adjective inspiring delight, pleasure, or admiration; extremely good; marvellous: they all think she's wonderful | the climate was wonderful all the year round.
– DERIVATIVES wonderfully adverb [as submodifier] the bed was wonderfully comfortable, wonderfulness noun.
– ORIGIN late Old English wunderfull (see WONDER, -FUL).

wonderland ▶ noun a land or place full of wonderful things: London was a wonderland of historical sites, museums, theatres, shops, and entertainment.

wonderment ▶ noun [mass noun] a state of awed admiration or respect: Corbett shook his head in silent wonderment.

wonder-of-the-world ▶ noun W. Indian a succulent plant which forms plantlets in notches in the leaf margins under dry conditions. It originated in Madagascar and is used medicinally.
● Bryophyllum pinnatum, family Crassulaceae.

wonderstruck ▶ adjective (of a person) experiencing a sudden feeling of awed delight or wonder.

wonder-worker ▶ noun a person who performs miracles or wonders.
– DERIVATIVES wonder-working adjective.

wondrous ▶ adjective poetic/literary inspiring a feeling of wonder or delight; marvellous: this wondrous city.
▶ adverb [as submodifier] archaic marvellously; wonderfully: she is grown wondrous pretty.
– DERIVATIVES wondrously adverb, wondrousness noun.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: alteration of obsolete wonders (adjective and adverb), genitive of WONDER, on the pattern of marvellous.

wonga /ˈwɒŋgə, ˈvɒŋgə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. informal money: you want to earn a lot more wonga.
– ORIGIN 1980s: perhaps from Romany wongar 'coal', also 'money'.

wonk ▶ noun 1 N. Amer. informal, derogatory a studious or hard-working person: any kid with an interest in science was a wonk.
■ a person who takes an excessive interest in minor details of political policy: he is a policy wonk in tune with a younger generation of voters.
2 Nautical slang an incompetent or inexperienced sailor, especially a naval cadet.
– ORIGIN 1920s: of unknown origin.

wonky ▶ adjective (wonkier, wonkiest) Brit. informal crooked; off-centre; askew: you have a wonky nose and a crooked mouth.
■ (of a thing) unsteady; shaky: they sat drinking, perched on the wonky stools. ■ faulty: your sense of judgement is a bit wonky at the moment.
– DERIVATIVES wonkily adverb, wonkiness noun.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: fanciful formation.

wont /wəʊnt/ ▶ adjective [predic., with infinitive] poetic/literary (of a person) in the habit of doing something; accustomed: he was wont to arise at 5.30 every morning.
▶ noun (one's wont) formal or humorous one's customary behaviour in a particular situation: Constance, as was her wont, had paid her little attention.
▶ verb (3rd sing. present wonts or wont; past and past participle wont or wonted) archaic make or be or become accustomed: [with obj.] wont thy heart to thoughts hereof | [no obj., with infinitive] sons wont to nurse their Parents in old age.
– ORIGIN Old English gewunod, past participle of wunian, 'dwell, be accustomed', of Germanic origin.

won't ▶ contraction of will not.

wonted /ˈwəʊntɪd/ ▶ adjective poetic/literary habitual; usual: the place had sunk back into its wonted quiet.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from WONT.

wonton /wɒnˈtɒn/ ▶ noun (in Chinese cookery) a small round dumpling or roll with a savoury filling, usually eaten boiled in soup.
– ORIGIN from Chinese (Cantonese dialect) wān t'ān.

woo ▶ verb (woos, wooed) [with obj.] try to gain the love of (someone, typically a woman), especially with a view to marriage: he wooed her with quotes from Shakespeare.
■ seek the favour, support, or custom of: pop stars are being wooed by film companies eager to sign them up.
– DERIVATIVES wooable adjective, wooer noun.
– ORIGIN late Old English wōgian (intransitive), āwōgian (transitive), of unknown origin.

Wood[1], Mrs Henry (1814–87), English novelist; née Ellen Price. Her ingenious and sensational plots about murders, thefts, and forgeries make her one of the forerunners of the modern detective novelist. Notable works: East Lynne (1861).

Wood[2], Sir Henry (Joseph) (1869–1944), English conductor. In 1895 he instituted the first of the Promenade Concerts, which he conducted every year until he died. He arranged the Fantasia on British Sea Songs (including 'Rule, Britannia') which remains a regular feature of the last night of the promenade concert season.

Wood[3], Natalie (1938–81), American actress. She played the vulnerable adolescent heroine of Rebel Without A Cause (1955), and similar roles in Cry in the Night (1956), West Side Story (1961), and Inside Daisy Clover (1966).

wood ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] the hard fibrous material that forms the main substance of the trunk or branches of a tree or shrub.
■ such material when cut and used as timber or fuel: a large table made of dark, polished wood | [count noun] best quality woods were used for joinery. ■ (the wood) wooden barrels used for storing alcoholic drinks: wines from the wood. ■ [count noun] a golf club with a wooden or other head that is relatively broad from face to back (often with a numeral indicating the degree to which the face is angled to loft the ball). ■ [count noun] a shot made with such a club. ■ another term for BOWL[2] (in sense 1).
2 (also woods) an area of land, smaller than a forest, that is covered with growing trees: a thick hedge divided the wood from the field | a long walk in the woods.
– PHRASES cannot see the wood (or N. Amer. the forest) for the trees fail to grasp the main issue because of over-attention to details. out of the wood (or woods) out of danger or difficulty. touch (or chiefly N. Amer. knock on) wood said in order to prevent a confident statement from bringing bad luck: I haven't been banned yet, touch wood. [ORIGIN: with reference to the custom of touching something wooden to ward off bad luck.]
– DERIVATIVES woodless adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wudu, from a Germanic word related to Welsh gwŷdd 'trees'.

wood alcohol ▶ noun [mass noun] crude methanol made by distillation from wood.

wood-and-iron ▶ adjective S. African (of a building) consisting of a wooden frame and corrugated iron walls and roof.

wood anemone ▶ noun a spring-flowering Eurasian anemone with pink-tinged white flowers, growing in woodland and shady places.
● Anemone nemorosa, family Ranunculaceae.

wood ant ▶ noun a large reddish-brown European ant found chiefly in woodland, living in nest mounds which it defends by spraying formic acid at the attacker.
● Formica rufa, family Formicidae.

wood avens ▶ noun a yellow-flowered Eurasian plant which favours damp shady habitats. Also called HERB BENNET.
● Geum urbanum, family Rosaceae.

woodbine ▶ noun [mass noun] either of two climbing plants:
● Brit. the common honeysuckle. ● US Virginia creeper.

woodblock ▶ noun a block of wood, especially one forming part of a floor.
■ a block of wood from which woodcut prints are made. ■ a print made in such a way. ■ a hollow wooden block used as a percussion instrument.

woodcarving ▶ noun [mass noun] the action or skill of carving wood to make functional or ornamental objects.
■ [count noun] an object made in this way.
– DERIVATIVES woodcarver noun.

woodchat (also woodchat shrike) ▶ noun a shrike of southern Europe, North Africa, and the Middle East, having black and white plumage with a chestnut head.
● Lanius senator, family Laniidae.

woodchip ▶ noun a chip of wood.
■ (also woodchip paper) [mass noun] chiefly Brit. wallpaper with woodchips embedded in it to give a grainy surface texture.

woodchuck ▶ noun a North American marmot with a heavy body and short legs.
● Marmota monax, family Sciuridae.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: alteration (by association with WOOD) of an American Indian name; compare with Cree wuchak, otchock.

woodcock ▶ noun (pl. same) a woodland bird of the sandpiper family, with a long bill, brown camouflaged plumage, and a distinctive display flight.
● Genus Scolopax, family Scolopacidae: several species, in particular the Eurasian woodcock (S. rusticola), which is sometimes regarded as a game bird.

woodcraft ▶ noun [mass noun] chiefly N. Amer. 1 skill in woodwork.
2 knowledge of woodland, especially with reference to camping and other outdoor pursuits.

woodcut ▶ noun a print of a type made from a design cut in a block of wood, formerly widely used for illustrations in books. Compare with WOOD ENGRAVING.
■ [mass noun] the technique of making such prints.

woodcutter ▶ noun 1 a person who cuts down trees or branches, especially for fuel.
2 a person who makes woodcuts.
– DERIVATIVES woodcutting noun.

wood duck ▶ noun a tree-nesting North American duck, the male of which has brightly coloured plumage. Also called CAROLINA DUCK.
● Aix sponsa, family Anatidae.

wooded ▶ adjective (of an area of land) covered with woods or many trees: a wooded valley.
■ another term for WOODEN.

wooden ▶ adjective 1 made of wood: a wooden spoon | she closed the heavy wooden door.
2 like or characteristic of wood: a kind of dull wooden sound.
■ stiff and awkward in movement or manner: she is one of the most wooden actresses of all time.
– DERIVATIVES woodenly adverb (only in sense 2), woodenness noun (only in sense 2).

wood engraving ▶ noun a print made from a finely detailed design cut into the end grain of a block of wood. Compare with WOODCUT.
■ [mass noun] the technique of making such prints.
– DERIVATIVES wood engraver noun.

wooden-head ▶ noun informal a stupid person.
– DERIVATIVES wooden-headed adjective, wooden-headedness noun.

wooden spoon ▶ noun a spoon made of wood and used especially in cooking.
■ chiefly Brit. a real or imaginary prize given in fun to the person who is last in a race or competition. [ORIGIN: originally a spoon given to the candidate coming last in the Cambridge mathematical tripos.]

woodentop ▶ noun informal, derogatory 1 a uniformed policeman.
2 a soldier belonging to the Guards.

wood fibre ▶ noun [mass noun] fibre obtained from wood and used especially in the manufacture of paper.

woodgrain ▶ noun a pattern of fibres seen in a cut surface of wood.

■ [as modifier] denoting a surface or finish imitating such a pattern: the doors are available in woodgrain finish.

woodgrouse ▶ noun a grouse that frequents woodland, especially a capercaillie, spruce grouse, or willow grouse.

wood hedgehog ▶ noun another term for HEDGEHOG FUNGUS.

wood-hoopoe ▶ noun a long-tailed African bird with a long slender downcurved bill and blackish plumage with a blue or green gloss.
• Genus Phoeniculus, family Phoeniculidae: several species.

wood ibis ▶ noun 1 a stork with a slightly downcurved bill and a bare face or head, found in America and Africa. Also called WOOD STORK.
• Genus Mycteria, family Ciconiidae: the black-faced M. americana of America, and the red-faced M. ibis of Africa.
2 (crested wood ibis) a mainly brown ibis with a greenish crest, found only in Madagascar.
• Lophotibis cristata, family Threskiornithidae.

woodland ▶ noun [mass noun] (also woodlands) land covered with trees: large areas of ancient woodland.

woodlander ▶ noun an inhabitant of woodland.

woodlark ▶ noun a small European and North African lark with a short tail and melodious song, frequenting open ground with scattered trees.
• Lullula arborea, family Alaudidae.

woodlouse ▶ noun (pl. woodlice) a small terrestrial crustacean with a greyish segmented body and seven pairs of legs, living in damp habitats.
• Oniscus and other genera, order Isopoda.

woodman ▶ noun (pl. -men) chiefly historical a person working in woodland, especially a forester or woodcutter.

wood mouse ▶ noun a dark brown Eurasian mouse with a long tail and large eyes. Also called FIELD MOUSE.
• Genus Apodemus, family Muridae: several species, in particular the widespread A. sylvaticus.

wood mushroom ▶ noun an edible mushroom with a white cap and brown gills, smelling strongly of aniseed and found in woodland in both Eurasia and North America.
• Agaricus silvicola, family Agaricaceae, class Hymenomycetes.

woodnote ▶ noun poetic/literary a natural and untrained musical note resembling the song of a bird.

wood nymph ▶ noun 1 (in folklore and classical mythology) a nymph inhabiting woodland, especially a dryad or hamadryad.
2 a brown American butterfly of grassy habitats and light woodland, with large eyespots on the forewings and smaller ones on the hindwings.
• Genus Cercyonis, subfamily Satyrinae, family Nymphalidae: several species.

woodpecker ▶ noun a bird with a strong bill and a stiff tail, which climbs tree trunks to find insects and drums on dead wood to mark territory.
• Family Picidae (the woodpecker family): many genera and numerous species. The woodpecker family also includes the wrynecks, piculets, flickers, and sapsuckers.

wood pigeon ▶ noun a large Eurasian and African pigeon with mainly grey plumage, using wing claps in display flight.
• Genus Columba, family Columbidae: several species, in particular the widespread C. palumbus (also called RINGDOVE).

woodpile ▶ noun a stack of wood stored for fuel.

wood pulp ▶ noun [mass noun] wood fibre reduced chemically or mechanically to pulp and used in the manufacture of paper.

woodrat ▶ noun 1 a rat-like rodent that accumulates a mound of sticks and debris in the nest hole, native to North and Central America. Also called PACK RAT.
• Neotoma and other genera, family Muridae: many species.
2 (usu. wood rat) a forest-dwelling rat found in southern Asia.
• Rattus, Cremnomys, and other genera, family Muridae.

woodruff (also sweet woodruff) ▶ noun a white-flowered Eurasian plant with whorled leaves, smelling of new-mown hay when dried or crushed.
• Galium odoratum, family Rubiaceae.
– ORIGIN Old English wuduruфe, from wudu 'wood' + an element of unknown meaning.

Woodruff key ▶ noun a key whose cross section is part circular, to fit into a curved keyway in a shaft, and part rectangular, used chiefly in machinery.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after the Woodruff Manufacturing Company, Hartford, Connecticut, US.

woodrush ▶ noun a grass-like plant that typically has long flat leaves fringed with long hairs.
• Genus Luzula, family Juncaceae: many species.

wood sage ▶ noun a yellow-flowered European plant of the mint family, growing in dry shady places.
• Teucrium scorodonia, family Labiatae.

woodscrew ▶ noun a tapering metal screw with a sharp point.

woodshed ▶ noun a shed where wood for fuel is stored.
– PHRASES something nasty in the woodshed Brit. informal a shocking or distasteful thing that has been kept secret. take someone to the woodshed US informal, dated reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly.

woodsia /ˈwʊdzɪə/ ▶ noun a small tufted fern that grows among rocks in mountains in temperate and cool regions.
• Genus Woodsia, family Woodsiaceae.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, named after Joseph Woods (1776–1864), English architect and botanist.

wood slave ▶ noun W. Indian a Central American gecko with a tail that is swollen at the base, often found living in houses. It is widely regarded, falsely, as deadly.
• Thecadactylus rapicauda, family Gekkonidae.

woodsman ▶ noun (pl. -men) a person living or working in woodland, especially a forester, hunter, or woodcutter.

woodsmoke ▶ noun [mass noun] the smoke from a wood fire.

wood sorrel ▶ noun a creeping Eurasian woodland plant, with clover-like leaves and pink or white flowers that are typically streaked with purple.
• Oxalis acetosella, family Oxalidaceae.

wood spirit ▶ noun another term for WOOD ALCOHOL.

wood stain ▶ noun a commercially produced substance for colouring wood.

woodstar ▶ noun a very small American hummingbird found in tropical forests, with a green back and typically a red or purple throat.
• Family Trochilidae: several genera and species.

Woodstock a small town in New York State, situated in the south-east near Albany. It gave its name in the summer of 1969 to a huge rock festival held some 96 km (60 miles) to the south-west.

wood stork ▶ noun another term for WOOD IBIS (in sense 1).

woodswallow ▶ noun a long-winged Australasian and South Asian bird related to the Australian butcher-birds, feeding on insects in flight.
• Family Artamidae and genus Artamus: several species.

woodsy ▶ adjective N. Amer. of, relating to, or characteristic of wood or woodland: trails through woodsy countryside | the woodsy smells of cedar and pine.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: formed irregularly from WOOD (differentiated from woody).

wood thrush ▶ noun a thrush of eastern North America, with a brown back, a dark-spotted white breast, and a loud liquid song.
• Hylocichla mustelina, family Turdidae.

wood tick ▶ noun a North American tick which infests wild and domestic animals, often found clinging to plants and responsible for transmitting spotted fever.
• Genus Dermacentor, family Ixodidae, in particular D. andersoni.

woodturning ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of shaping wood with a lathe.
– DERIVATIVES woodturner noun.

wood warbler ▶ noun a migratory European leaf warbler found in woodland, with plaintive calls and a trilling song.
• Phylloscopus sibilatrix, family Sylviidae.
■ any New World warbler of the family Parulidae.

Woodward, Robert Burns (1917–79), American organic chemist. He was the first to synthesize quinine, cholesterol, chlorophyll, and vitamin B_{12}, and with the Polish-born American chemist Roald Hoffmann (b.1937) discovered symmetry-based rules governing the course of rearrangement reactions involving cyclic intermediates. Nobel Prize for Chemistry (1965).

woodwasp ▶ noun another term for HORNTAIL.

woodwind ▶ noun [treated as sing. or pl.] wind instruments other than brass instruments forming a section of an orchestra, including flutes, oboes, clarinets, and bassoons: striking passages for woodwind and brass.

wood wool ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. a mass of fine soft wood shavings, typically used as a packing material.

wood woolly foot ▶ noun see WOOLLY FOOT.

woodwork ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the wooden parts of a room or building, such as window frames or doors: the woodwork was painted blue.
■ (the woodwork) informal the wooden frame of a goal.
2 Brit. the activity or skill of making things from wood: he taught woodwork at night school.
– PHRASES come out of the woodwork (of an unpleasant person or thing) emerge from obscurity; be revealed.
– DERIVATIVES woodworker noun.

woodworking ▶ noun another term for WOODWORK (in sense 2).

woodworm ▶ noun the wood-boring larva of the furniture beetle.
■ [mass noun] the damaged condition of wood resulting from infestation with this larva.

woody ▶ adjective (woodier, woodiest) (of an area of land) covered with trees: a woody dale.
■ made of, resembling, or suggestive of wood: cut out the woody central core before boiling. ■ Botany (of a plant or its stem) of the nature of or consisting of wood; lignified.
– DERIVATIVES woodiness noun.

woodyard ▶ noun a yard where wood is chopped or stored.

woody nightshade ▶ noun see NIGHTSHADE.

woof[1] /wʊf/ ▶ noun the barking sound made by a dog.
▶ verb 1 [no obj.] (of a dog) bark: the dog started to woof.
■ US black slang say something in an ostentatious or aggressive manner: mister, you weren't just woofing—you can cook.
2 another term for WOLF: Mike and Coleman were woofing down fried eggs and hash browns.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: imitative.

woof[2] /wu:f/ ▶ noun another term for WEFT.
– ORIGIN Old English ōwef, a compound from the base of WEAVE[1]; Middle English oof later became woof by association with WARP in the phrase warp and woof.

woofer /ˈwu:fə, ˈwʊfə/ ▶ noun a loudspeaker designed to reproduce low frequencies.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from the verb WOOF[1] + -ER[1].

woofter /ˈwʊftə, ˈwu:ftə/ ▶ noun Brit. informal, derogatory an effeminate or homosexual man.
– ORIGIN 1970s: alteration of POOFTER.

wool ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the fine soft curly or wavy hair forming the coat of a sheep, goat, or similar animal, especially when shorn and prepared for use in making cloth or yarn.
■ yarn or textile fibre made from such hair.
2 a thing resembling such hair in form or texture, in particular:
■ [with modifier] the soft underfur or down of some other mammals: beaver wool. ■ [with modifier] a metal or mineral made into a mass of fine fibres: lead wool.
– PHRASES pull the wool over someone's eyes deceive someone by telling untruths.
– DERIVATIVES wool-like adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wull, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wol and German Wolle, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin lana 'wool', vellus 'fleece'.

wool clip ▶ noun [mass noun] the total quantity of wool shorn from a particular flock or in a particular area in the course of a year.

Woolf /wʊlf/, (Adeline) Virginia (1882–1941), English novelist, essayist, and critic; born Adeline Virginia Stephen. A member of the Bloomsbury Group, she gained recognition with Jacob's Room (1922). Subsequent novels, such as Mrs Dalloway (1925) and To the Lighthouse (1927), characterized by their poetic Impressionism, established her as an exponent of modernism.

wool-gathering ▶ noun [mass noun] indulgence in aimless thought or dreamy imagining; absent-mindedness: a vacant daze that leads to formless wool-gathering.
– DERIVATIVES wool-gather verb.

wool grower ▶ noun a breeder of sheep for wool.

woollen (US woolen) ▶ adjective [attrib.] of or relating to the production of wool: the woollen industry | a woollen mill.
■ made wholly or partly of wool: thick woollen blankets.
▶ noun (usu. woollens) an article of clothing made of wool.
– ORIGIN late Old English wullen (see WOOL, -EN[2]).

Woolley, Sir (Charles) Leonard (1880–1960), English archaeologist. He directed a British–American excavation of the Sumerian city of Ur (1922–34) which uncovered rich royal tombs and thousands of clay tablets.

woolly ▶ adjective (woollier, woolliest) 1 made of wool: a red woolly hat.
■ (of an animal, plant, or part) bearing or naturally covered with wool or hair resembling wool. ■ resembling wool in texture or appearance: woolly wisps of cloud.
2 vague or confused in expression or character: woolly thinking.
■ (of a sound) indistinct or distorted: an opaque and woolly recording.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) informal 1 (usu. woollies) chiefly Brit. a garment made of wool, especially a pullover.
2 Austral. a sheep.
– DERIVATIVES woolliness noun (only in sense 2 of the adjective).

woolly bear ▶ noun 1 a large hairy caterpillar, especially that of a tiger moth.
2 the small hairy larva of a carpet beetle or museum beetle, which is destructive to carpets and zoological collections.

woollybutt ▶ noun an Australian eucalyptus with thick fibrous bark.
• Several species in the genus Eucalyptus, family Myrtaceae.

woolly foot (also wood woolly foot) ▶ noun a yellowish-brown toadstool with a slender stem, the base of which bears long woolly hairs, found commonly in woodland in both Eurasia and North America.
• Collybia peronata, family Tricholomataceae, class Hymenomycetes.

woolly mammoth ▶ noun a mammoth that was adapted to the cold periods of the Pleistocene, with a long shaggy coat, small ears, and a thick layer of fat. Individuals are sometimes found frozen in the permafrost of Siberia.
• Mammuthus primigenius, family Elephantidae.

woolly rhinoceros ▶ noun an extinct two-horned Eurasian rhinoceros that was adapted to the cold periods of the Pleistocene, with a long woolly coat.
• Genus Coelodonta, family Rhinocerotidae.

woolly spider monkey ▶ noun a large spider monkey with long thin limbs and tail, dense woolly fur, and a large protruding belly, native to the rainforests of SE Brazil.
• Brachyteles arachnoides, family Cebidae.

woolman ▶ noun (pl. -men) chiefly historical a wool merchant or dealer.

Woolmark ▶ noun an international quality symbol for wool instituted by the International Wool Secretariat.

woolpack ▶ noun historical a bale of wool.

Woolsack ▶ noun (in the UK) the Lord Chancellor's wool-stuffed seat in the House of Lords. It is said to have been adopted in Edward III's reign as a reminder to the Lords of the importance to England of the wool trade.
■ (the woolsack) the position of Lord Chancellor.

woolshed ▶ noun Austral./NZ a large shed for shearing and baling wool.

wool-sorters' disease ▶ noun see ANTHRAX.

wool-stapler ▶ noun archaic a person who buys wool from a producer, grades it, and sells it to a manufacturer.

wool work ▶ noun [mass noun] needlework executed in wool on a canvas foundation.

Woolworth, Frank Winfield (1852–1919), American businessman. He opened his first shop selling low-priced goods in 1879 and from this built a large international chain of stores.

Woomera /ˈwuːm(ə)rə/ a town in central South Australia, the site of a vast military testing ground used in the 1950s for nuclear tests and since the 1960s for tracking space satellites.

woomera /ˈwuːm(ə)rə/ ▶ noun Austral. an Aboriginal stick used to throw a dart or spear more forcibly.
– ORIGIN from Dharuk wamara.

woomph /wuːmf, womf/ ▶ adverb & exclamation used to imitate a sound like that of a sudden blow or impact accompanied by an expulsion of air.

woonerf /ˈvuːnəːf/ ▶ noun (pl. woonerven /-əːv(ə)n/ or woonerfs) a road in which devices for reducing or slowing the flow of traffic have been installed.
– ORIGIN 1970s: from Dutch, from wonen 'reside' + erf 'premises, ground'.

woopie /ˈwuːpi, ˈwopi/ (also woopy) ▶ noun (pl. -ies) informal, chiefly N. Amer. an affluent retired person able to pursue an active lifestyle.
– ORIGIN 1980s: elaboration of the acronym from well-off older person.

Woop Woop /ˈwop wop/ ▶ noun Austral./NZ informal a humorous name for a remote outback town or district.
– ORIGIN 1920s: mock Aboriginal.

woosh ▶ verb, noun, exclamation, & adverb variant spelling of WHOOSH.

woozy ▶ adjective (woozier, wooziest) informal unsteady, dizzy, or dazed: I still felt woozy from all the pills.
– DERIVATIVES woozily adverb, wooziness noun.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: of unknown origin.

wop ▶ noun offensive an Italian or other southern European.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent. (originally US): origin uncertain, perhaps from Italian guappo 'bold, showy', from Spanish guapo 'dandy'.

Worcester[1] /ˈwʊstə/ a cathedral city in western England, on the River Severn, the administrative centre of Worcestershire; pop. 81,000 (1991). It was the scene in 1651, during the English Civil War, of a battle in which Oliver Cromwell defeated a Scottish army under Charles II. It has been a centre of porcelain manufacture since 1751.

Worcester[2] /ˈwʊstə/ (also Royal Worcester) ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark porcelain made at Worcester in a factory founded in 1751.

Worcester sauce (also Worcestershire sauce) ▶ noun [mass noun] a pungent sauce containing soy sauce and vinegar, first made in Worcester.

Worcestershire a county of west central England, part of Hereford and Worcester between 1974 and 1998.

Worcs. ▶ abbreviation for Worcestershire.

word ▶ noun a single distinct meaningful element of speech or writing, used with others (or sometimes alone) to form a sentence and typically shown with a space on either side when written or printed.
■ a single distinct conceptual unit of language, comprising inflected and variant forms. ■ (usu. words) something that someone says or writes; a remark or piece of information: his grandfather's words had been meant kindly | a word of warning. ■ [mass noun] speech as distinct from action: he conforms in word and deed to the values of a society that he rejects. ■ [with negative] (a word) even the smallest amount of something spoken or written: don't believe a word of it. ■ (one's word) a person's account of the truth, especially when it differs from that of another person: in court it would have been his word against mine. ■ (one's word) a promise or assurance: everything will be taken care of—you have my word. ■ (words) the text or spoken part of a play, opera, or other performed piece; a script: he had to learn his words. ■ (words) angry talk: her father would have had words with her about that. ■ [mass noun] a message; news: I was afraid to leave Edinburgh in case there was word from the War Office. ■ a command, password, or motto: someone gave me the word to start playing. ■ a basic unit of data in a computer, typically 16 or 32 bits long.
▶ verb [with obj.] choose and use particular words in order to say or write (something): he words his request in a particularly ironic way | [as adj., with submodifier] (worded) a strongly worded letter of protest.
– PHRASES at a word as soon as requested: ready to leave again at a word. be as good as one's word do what one has promised to do. have a word speak briefly to someone: I'll just have a word with him. have a word in someone's ear speak to someone privately and discreetly, especially to give them a warning. in other words expressed in a different way; that is to say. in so many words [often with negative] in the way mentioned: I haven't told him in so many words, but he'd understand. in a word briefly. keep one's word do what one has promised. a man/woman of his/her word a person who keeps their promises. (on/upon) my word an exclamation of surprise or emphasis: my word, you were here quickly! of few words taciturn: he's a man of few words. put something into words express something in speech or writing: he felt a vague disappointment which he couldn't put into words. put words into someone's mouth falsely or inaccurately report what someone has said. ■ prompt or encourage someone to say something that they may not otherwise have said. take someone at their word interpret a person's words literally or exactly, especially by believing them or doing as they suggest. take the words out of someone's mouth say what someone else was about to say. take someone's word (for it) believe what someone says or writes without checking for oneself. too —— for words informal extremely —: going around by the road was too tedious for words. waste words 1 talk in vain. 2 talk at length. the Word (of God) 1 the Bible, or a part of it. 2 Jesus Christ (see LOGOS). word for word in exactly the same or, when translated, exactly equivalent words. word of honour a solemn promise: I'll be good to you always, I give you my word of honour. word of mouth spoken language; informal or unofficial discourse. the word on the street informal a rumour or piece of information currently being circulated. words fail me used to express one's disbelief or dismay. a word to the wise a hint or brief explanation given, that being all that is required.
– DERIVATIVES wordage noun, wordless adjective, wordlessly adverb, wordlessness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch woord and German Wort, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin verbum 'word'.
▶ word up [as imperative] black English listen: word up, my brother, you got me high as a kite.

-word ▶ combining form denoting a slang word, or one that may be offensive or have a negative connotation, specified by the word's first letter: the F-word.

word association ▶ noun [mass noun] the spontaneous and unreflective production of other words in response to a given word, as a game, a prompt to creative thought or memory, or a technique in psychiatric evaluation.

word blindness ▶ noun less technical term for ALEXIA, or (less accurately) for DYSLEXIA.

wordbook ▶ noun a study book containing lists of words and meanings or other related information.

word break (also word division) ▶ noun Printing a point at which a word is split between two lines of text by means of a hyphen.

word class ▶ noun a category of words of similar form or function; a part of speech.

word deafness ▶ noun [mass noun] an inability to identify spoken words, resulting from a brain defect such as Wernicke's aphasia.

word game ▶ noun a game involving the making or selection of words.

wording ▶ noun [mass noun] the words used to express something; the way in which something is expressed: the standard form of wording for a consent letter.

word length ▶ noun [mass noun] Computing the number of bits in a word.

word order ▶ noun the sequence of words in a sentence, especially as governed by grammatical rules and as affecting meaning.

word-perfect ▶ adjective (of an actor or speaker) knowing by heart the words for one's part or speech.

word picture ▶ noun a vivid description in writing.

wordplay ▶ noun [mass noun] the witty exploitation of the meanings and ambiguities of words, especially in puns.

word problem ▶ noun Mathematics the problem of determining whether two different products are equal, or two sequences of operations are equivalent.

word processing ▶ noun [mass noun] the production, storage, and manipulation of text on a word processor.
– DERIVATIVES word-process verb.

word processor ▶ noun a purpose-built computer or program for storing, manipulating, and formatting text entered from a keyboard and providing a printout.

word salad ▶ noun [mass noun] a confused or unintelligible mixture of seemingly random words and phrases, specifically (in psychiatry) as a form of speech indicative of advanced schizophrenia.

wordsearch ▶ noun a puzzle consisting of letters arranged in a grid, containing several hidden words written in any direction.

wordsmith ▶ noun a skilled user of words.

word square ▶ noun a puzzle requiring the discovery of a set of words of equal length written one under another to read the same down as across, e.g. too old ode.

Wordsworth[1], Dorothy (1771–1855), English diarist, sister of William Wordsworth. Her Grasmere Journal (1800–3) documents her intense response to nature.

Wordsworth[2], William (1770–1850), English poet. Much of his work was inspired by the Lake District. His Lyrical Ballads (1798), which was composed with Coleridge and included 'Tintern Abbey', was a landmark in romanticism. Other notable poems: 'I Wandered Lonely as a Cloud' (sonnet, 1815) and The Prelude (1850). He was appointed Poet Laureate in 1843.

word wrap ▶ noun [mass noun] a feature on a word processor that automatically moves a word that is too long to fit on a line to the beginning of the next line.

wordy ▶ adjective (wordier, wordiest) using or expressed in rather too many words: a wordy and repetitive account.

■ archaic consisting of words: on the publication of Worcester's dictionary, a wordy war arose.

– DERIVATIVES wordily adverb, wordiness noun.

– ORIGIN Old English wordig (see WORD, -Y[1]).

wore[1] past of WEAR[1].

wore[2] past and past participle of WEAR[2].

work ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 activity involving mental or physical effort done in order to achieve a purpose or result: he was tired after a day's work in the fields.

■ [in combination or with modifier] (works) chiefly Brit. operations of building or repair: extra costs caused by additional building works. ■ (works) [treated as sing.] chiefly Brit. a place or premises for industrial activity, typically manufacturing: [with modifier] he found a job in the locomotive works.

2 such activity as a means of earning income; employment: I'm still looking for work.

■ the place where one engages in such activity: I was returning home from work on a packed subway. ■ the period of time spent during the day engaged in such activity: he was going to the theatre after work. ■ [count noun] W. Indian a job: I decided to get a work.

3 a task or tasks to be undertaken; something a person or thing has to do: they made sure the work was progressing smoothly.

■ the materials for this: she frequently took work home with her. ■ (works) Theology good or moral deeds: the Clapham sect was concerned with works rather than with faith.

4 something done or made: her work hangs in all the main American collections.

■ the result of the action of a specified person or thing: the bombing had been the work of a German-based cell. ■ [count noun] a literary or musical composition or other piece of fine art: a work of fiction. ■ (works) all such pieces by a particular author, composer, or artist, regarded collectively: the works of Schubert fill several feet of shelf space. ■ a piece of embroidery, sewing, or knitting, typically made using a specified stitch or method. ■ [count noun] (usu. works) Military a defensive structure.

5 (works) the operative part of a clock or other machine: she could almost hear the tick of its works.

6 Physics the exertion of force overcoming resistance or producing molecular change.

7 (the works) informal everything needed, desired, or expected: the heavens put on a show: sheet lightning, hailstones, the works.

▶ verb (past and past participle worked or archaic wrought) [no obj.] 1 be engaged in physical or mental activity in order to achieve a purpose or result, especially in one's job; do work: an engineer who had been working on a design for a more efficient wing | new contracts forcing employees to work longer hours.

■ be employed, typically in a specified occupation or field: Taylor has worked in education for 17 years. ■ [with obj.] W. Indian be engaged in (a particular occupation): I worked fireman on ships. ■ (work in) (of an artist) produce articles or pictures using (a particular material or medium): he works in clay over a very strong frame. ■ [with obj.] produce (an article or design) using a specified material or sewing stitch: the castle itself is worked in tent stitch. ■ [with obj.] set to or keep at work: Jane is working you too hard. ■ [with obj.] cultivate (land) or extract materials from (a mine or quarry): contracts and leases to work the mines. ■ [with obj.] practise one's occupation or operate in or at (a particular place): I worked a few clubs and so forth. ■ make efforts to achieve something; campaign: an organization working for a better life for people diagnosed or treated as having mental illness.

2 (of a machine or system) operate or function, especially properly or effectively: his cell phone doesn't work unless he goes to a high point.

■ (of a machine or a part of it) run; go through regular motions: it's designed to go into a special 'rest' state when it's not working. ■ (especially of a person's features) move violently or convulsively: hair wild, mouth working furiously. ■ [with obj.] cause (a device or machine) to operate: teaching customers how to work a VCR. ■ (of a plan or method) have the desired result or effect: the desperate ploy had worked. ■ [with obj.] bring about; produce as a result: with a dash of blusher here and there, you can work miracles. ■ [with obj.] informal arrange or contrive: the chairman was prepared to work it for Phillip if he was interested. ■ (work on/upon) exert influence or use one's persuasive power on (someone or their feelings): she worked upon the sympathy of her associates. ■ [with obj.] use one's persuasive power to stir the emotions of (a person or group of people): the born politician's art of working a crowd.

3 [with obj. and adverbial or complement] bring (a material or mixture) to a desired shape or consistency by hammering, kneading, or some other method: work the mixture into a paste with your hands.

■ bring into a specified state, especially an emotional state: Harold had worked himself into a minor rage.

4 move or cause to move gradually or with difficulty into another position, typically by means of constant movement or pressure: [with obj. and adverbial or complement] comb from tip to root, working out the knots at the end | [no obj., with adverbial or complement] its stanchion bases were already working loose.

■ [with adverbial] Sailing make progress to windward, with repeated tacking: trying to work to windward in light airs.

– PHRASES at work engaged in work. ■ in action: researchers were convinced that one infectious agent was at work. give someone the works informal 1 tell someone everything. 2 treat someone harshly. ■ kill someone. have one's work cut out be faced with a hard or lengthy task. in the works chiefly N. Amer. being planned, worked on, or produced. set to work (or set someone to work) begin or cause to begin work. a spanner (or N. Amer. monkey wrench) in the works a person or thing that prevents the successful implementation of a plan. the work of —— a task occupying a specified amount of time: it was the work of a moment to discover the tiny stab wound. work one's ass (butt, etc.) off vulgar slang work extremely hard. work one's fingers to the bone see BONE. work to rule chiefly Brit. (typically as a form of industrial action) follow official working rules and hours exactly in order to reduce output and efficiency. ■ a form of industrial action of this type. work one's passage pay for one's journey on a ship with work instead of money. work one's way through university (or college, etc.) obtain the money for educational fees or one's maintenance as a student by working. work one's will on/upon accomplish one's purpose on: she set a coiffeur to work his will on her hair. work wonders see WONDER.

– DERIVATIVES workless adjective.

– ORIGIN Old English weorc (noun), wyrcan (verb), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch werk and German Werk, from an Indo-European root shared by Greek ergon.

▶ work something in include or incorporate something, typically in something spoken or written.

work something off 1 discharge a debt by working. 2 reduce or get rid of something by work or activity: one of those gimmicks for working off aggression.

work out 1 (of an equation) be capable of being solved. ■ (work out at) be calculated at: the losses work out at $2.94 a share. 2 have a good or specified result: things don't always work out that way. 3 engage in vigorous physical exercise or training, typically at a gym.

work someone out understand someone's character.

work something out 1 solve a sum or determine an amount by calculation. ■ solve or find the answer to something: I couldn't work out whether it was a band playing or a record. 2 plan or devise something in detail: work out a seating plan. 3 poetic/literary accomplish or attain something with difficulty: malicious fates are bent on working out an ill intent. 4 (usu. be worked out) work a mine until it is exhausted of minerals. 5 another way of saying work something off above.

work someone over informal treat someone with violence; beat someone severely: the coppers had worked him over a little just for the fun of it.

work to follow or operate within the constraints of (a plan or system): working to tight deadlines.

work up to proceed gradually towards (something more advanced or intense): the course starts with landing technique, working up to jumps from an enclosed platform.

work someone up (often get worked up) gradually bring someone, especially oneself, to a state of intense excitement, anger, or anxiety: he got all worked up and started shouting and swearing.

work something up 1 bring something gradually to a more complete or satisfactory state: painters were accustomed to working up compositions from drawings. 2 develop or produce by activity or effort: despite the cold, George had already worked up a fair sweat.

-work ▶ combining form denoting things or parts made of a specified material or with specified tools: silverwork | fretwork.

■ denoting a mechanism or structure of a specified kind: bridgework | clockwork. ■ denoting ornamentation of a specified kind, or articles having such ornamentation: knotwork.

workable ▶ adjective 1 able to be worked, fashioned, or manipulated: more flour and salt can be added until they make a workable dough.

2 capable of producing the desired effect or result; practicable; feasible: a workable peace settlement.

– DERIVATIVES workability noun, workably adverb.

workaday ▶ adjective of or relating to work or one's job.

■ not special, unusual, or interesting in any way; ordinary: your humble workaday PC.

workaholic ▶ noun informal a person who compulsively works excessively hard and unusually long hours.

– DERIVATIVES workaholism noun.

workalike ▶ noun Computing a computer which is able to use the software of another specified machine without special modification.

■ a piece of software identical in function to another software package.

workaround ▶ noun Computing a method for overcoming a problem or limitation in a program or system.

work-basket (also work-bag) ▶ noun a basket (or bag) used for storing sewing materials.

workbench ▶ noun a bench at which carpentry or other mechanical or practical work is done.

workboat ▶ noun a boat used for carrying out various kinds of work such as fishing or transporting freight.

workbook ▶ noun a student's book containing instruction and exercises relating to a particular subject.

workbox ▶ noun a portable box used for storing or holding tools and materials for activities such as sewing.

work camp ▶ noun a camp at which community work is done, especially by young volunteers.

■ another term for LABOUR CAMP.

workday ▶ noun a day on which one works: Saturdays were workdays for him.

worker ▶ noun 1 a person or animal that works, in particular:

■ [with adj. or noun modifier] a person who does a specified type of work: a farm worker. ■ an employee, especially one who does manual or non-executive work. ■ (workers) used in Marxist or leftist contexts to refer to the working class. ■ [with adj.] a person who works in a specified way: she's a good worker. ■ informal a person who works hard: I got a reputation for being a worker. ■ (in social insects such as bees, wasps, ants, and termites) a neuter or undeveloped female which is usually the most numerous caste and does the basic work of the colony.

2 a creator or producer of a specified thing: he was a bogus worker of miracles.

worker priest ▶ noun a Roman Catholic or Anglican priest who engages part-time in ordinary secular work.

work ethic ▶ noun [in sing.] the principle that hard work is intrinsically virtuous or worthy of reward. See also PROTESTANT ETHIC.

work experience ▶ noun [mass noun] short-term experience of employment, typically arranged for older pupils by schools.

workfare ▶ noun [mass noun] a welfare system which requires some work or attendance for training from those receiving benefits.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from WORK + a shortened form of WELFARE.

workflow ▶ noun the sequence of industrial, administrative, or other processes through which a piece of work passes from initiation to completion.

workforce ▶ noun [treated as sing. or pl.] the people engaged in or available for work, either in a country or area or in a particular firm or industry.

work function ▶ noun Physics the minimum quantity of energy which is required to remove an electron to infinity from the surface of a given solid, usually a metal. (Symbol: φ) work group ▶ noun a group within a workforce who normally work together.

■ Computing a group of this type who share data via a local network. ■ a small group of trainees, formed to practise or develop a skill.

work-harden ▶ verb [with obj.] [often as noun work-hardening] Metallurgy toughen (a metal) as a result of cold-working.

workhorse ▶ noun a horse used for work on a farm.
■ a person or machine that dependably performs hard work over a long period of time: the aircraft was the standard workhorse of Soviet medium-haul routes.

workhouse ▶ noun 1 historical (in the UK) a public institution in which the destitute of a parish received board and lodging in return for work.
2 US a prison in which petty offenders are expected to work.

working ▶ adjective [attrib.] 1 having paid employment: the size of the working population.
■ engaged in manual labour: the vote is no longer sufficient protection for the working man. ■ relating to, suitable for, or for the purpose of work: improvements in living and working conditions. ■ (of an animal) used in farming, hunting, or for guard duties; not kept as a pet or for show. ■ (of something possessed) sufficient to work with: they have a working knowledge of contract law. ■ (of a theory, definition, or title) used as the basis for work or argument and likely to be developed, adapted, or improved later: the working hypothesis is tested and refined through discussion.
2 functioning or able to function: the mill still has a working waterwheel.
■ (of parts of a machine) moving and causing a machine to operate: the working parts of a digital watch.
▶ noun 1 [mass noun] the action of doing work.
■ the action of extracting minerals from a mine: opencast working arouses considerable opposition. ■ [count noun] (usu. workings) a mine or a part of a mine from which minerals are being extracted. ■ [count noun] a scheduled duty or trip performed by a locomotive, train, bus, or other vehicle: locomotive 37418 is often seen on this working.
2 (workings) the way in which a machine, organization, or system operates: we will be less secretive about the workings of government.
■ the record of the successive calculations made in solving a mathematical problem: show details of workings, where appropriate, in your answer book.

working capital ▶ noun [mass noun] Finance the capital of a business which is used in its day-to-day trading operations, calculated as the current assets minus the current liabilities. Also called NET CURRENT ASSETS.

working class ▶ noun [treated as sing. or pl.] the social group consisting of people who are employed for wages, especially in manual or industrial work: the housing needs of the working classes.
▶ adjective of, relating to, or characteristic of people belonging to such a group: a working-class community.

working day ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a day on which one usually works; a workday.
■ the part of the day devoted or allotted to work: a long working day.

working drawing ▶ noun a scale drawing which serves as a guide for the construction or manufacture of something such as a building or machine.

working girl ▶ noun informal a woman who goes out to work rather than remaining at home.
■ used euphemistically to refer to a prostitute.

working load ▶ noun the maximum load that a machine or other structure is designed to bear.

working memory ▶ noun Psychology the part of short-term memory which is concerned with immediate conscious perceptual and linguistic processing.
■ Computing an area of high-speed memory used to store programs or data currently in use.

working party (also working group) ▶ noun Brit. a committee or group appointed to study and report on a particular question and make recommendations based on its findings.

working storage ▶ noun [mass noun] Computing a part of a computer's memory that is used by a program for the storage of intermediate results or other temporary items.

Workington a port on the coast of Cumbria, NW England; pop. 26,120 (1981).

workload ▶ noun the amount of work to be done by someone or something: he had been given three deputies to ease his workload.

workman ▶ noun (pl. -men) a man employed to do manual labour.
■ [with adj.] a person with specified skill in a job or craft: you check it through, like all good workmen do.
– PHRASES a bad workman always blames his tools proverb a person who has done something badly will seek to lay the blame on their equipment rather than admit their own lack of skill.

workmanlike ▶ adjective showing efficient competence: a steady, workmanlike approach.

workmanship ▶ noun [mass noun] the degree of skill with which a product is made or a job done: cracks on the M25 were caused by poor workmanship.

workmate ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a person with whom one works.

work of art ▶ noun a creative product with strong imaginative or aesthetic appeal.

workout ▶ noun a session of vigorous physical exercise or training.

workpeople ▶ plural noun Brit. people in paid employment, especially in manual or industrial labour.

work permit ▶ noun an official document giving a foreigner permission to take a job in a country.

workpiece ▶ noun an object being worked on with a tool or machine.

workplace ▶ noun a place where people work, such as an office or factory.

work rate ▶ noun the rate at which work is done.
■ the amount of energy that is expended in sport or physical exercise.

work release ▶ noun [mass noun] leave of absence from prison by day enabling a prisoner to continue in normal employment.

workroom ▶ noun a room for working in, especially one equipped for a particular kind of work.

works council ▶ noun chiefly Brit. a group of employees representing a workforce in discussions with their employers.

worksheet ▶ noun 1 a paper listing questions or tasks for students.
2 a paper for recording work done or in progress.
■ Computing a data file created and used by a spreadsheet program, which takes the form of a matrix of cells when displayed.

workshop ▶ noun 1 a room or building in which goods are manufactured or repaired.
2 a meeting at which a group of people engage in intensive discussion and activity on a particular subject or project.
▶ verb [with obj.] present a performance of (a dramatic work), using intensive group discussion and improvisation in order to explore aspects of the production prior to formal staging: the play was workshopped briefly at the Shaw Festival.

work-shy ▶ adjective (of a person) lazy and disinclined to work.

worksite ▶ noun an area where an industry is located or where work takes place.

workspace ▶ noun [mass noun] space in which to work: the kitchen is all white, with maximum workspace.
■ [count noun] an area rented or sold for commercial purposes. ■ [count noun] Computing a memory storage facility for temporary use.

workstation ▶ noun 1 a general purpose computer with a higher performance level than a personal computer.
2 an area where work of a particular nature is carried out, such as a specific location on a manufacturing assembly line.

work study ▶ noun [mass noun] (in business or industry) a system of assessing methods of working so as to achieve the maximum output and efficiency.

work surface ▶ noun another term for WORKTOP.

worktop ▶ noun Brit. a flat surface for working on, especially in a kitchen.

workweek ▶ noun N. Amer. the total number of hours or days worked in a week: we need a shorter workweek and protected benefits for contract workers.

world ▶ noun 1 (usu. the world) the earth, together with all of its countries, peoples, and natural features: he was doing his bit to save the world.
■ (the world) all of the people, societies, and institutions on the earth: [as modifier] world affairs. ■ [as modifier] denoting one of the most important or influential people or things of its class: they had been brought up to regard Britain as a world power. ■ another planet like the earth: the possibility of life on other worlds.
2 a part or aspect of human life or of the natural features of the earth, in particular:
■ a region or group of countries: the English-speaking world. ■ a period of history: the ancient world. ■ a group of living things: the animal world. ■ the people, places, and activities to do with a particular thing: they were a legend in the world of British theatre. ■ human and social interaction: he has almost completely withdrawn from the world | how inexperienced she is in the ways of the world. ■ (one's world) a person's life and activities: he felt his whole world had collapsed. ■ [in sing.] a stage of human life, either mortal or after death: in this world and the next. ■ secular interests and affairs: parents are not viewed as the primary educators of their own children, either in the world or in the church.
– PHRASES be not long for this world have only a short time to live. the best of both (or all possible) worlds the benefits of widely differing situations, enjoyed at the same time. bring someone into the world give birth to or assist at the birth of someone. come into the world be born. come up (or go down) in the world rise (or drop) in status, especially by becoming richer (or poorer). in the world used for emphasis in questions, especially to express astonishment or disbelief: why in the world did you not reveal yourself sooner? look for all the world like look precisely like (used for emphasis): fossil imprints that look for all the world like motorcycle tracks. man (or woman) of the world a person who is experienced in the ways of sophisticated society. not do something for the world not do something whatever the inducement: I wouldn't miss it for the world. out of this world informal extremely enjoyable or impressive: a herb and lemon dressing that's out of this world. see the world travel widely and gain wide experience. think the world of have a very high regard for (someone): I thought the world of my father. the world and his wife Brit. a large number of people; everybody: now all the world and his wife seems to have heard of them. the world, the flesh, and the devil all forms of temptation to sin. a (or the) world of a very great deal of: there's a world of difference between being alone and being lonely. (all) the world over everywhere on the earth. worlds apart very different or distant.
– ORIGIN Old English w(e)oruld, from a Germanic compound meaning 'age of man'; related to Dutch wereld and German Welt.

World Bank an international banking organization established to control the distribution of economic aid between member nations, and to make loans to them in times of financial crisis. See also INTERNATIONAL BANK FOR RECONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT.

world-beater ▶ noun a person or thing that is better than all others in its field.

world-class ▶ adjective (of a person, thing, or activity) of or among the best in the world.

World Council of Churches (abbrev.: WCC) an association established in 1948 to promote unity among the many different Christian Churches. Its member Churches number over 300, and include virtually all Christian traditions except Roman Catholicism and Unitarianism. Its headquarters are in Geneva.

World Cup ▶ noun a competition between teams from several countries in a sport, in particular an international soccer tournament held every four years.
■ a trophy awarded for such a competition.

world English ▶ noun [mass noun] the English language including all of its regional varieties, such as North American, Australian, New Zealand, and South African English.
■ a basic form of English, consisting of features common to all regional varieties.

world fair (also world's fair) ▶ noun an international exhibition of the industrial, scientific, technological, and artistic achievements of the participating nations.

world-famous ▶ adjective known throughout the world: the world-famous tenor José Carreras.

World Federation of Trade Unions (abbrev.: WFTU) an association of trade unions founded in 1945, with headquarters in Prague. In 1949 most of the representatives from non-Communist countries withdrew and founded the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions; the WFTU is now composed largely of groups from developing countries.

World Health Organization (abbrev.: WHO) an agency of the United Nations, established in 1948 to promote health and control communicable diseases. It assists in the efforts of member governments, and pursues biomedical research through some 500 collaborating research centres throughout the world. Its headquarters are in Geneva.

World Heritage Site ▶ noun a natural or man-made site, area, or structure recognized as being of outstanding international importance and therefore as deserving special protection. Sites are nominated to and designated by the World Heritage Convention (an organization of UNESCO).

World Intellectual Property Organization (abbrev.: WIPO) an organization, established in 1967 and an agency of the United Nations from 1974, for cooperation between governments in matters concerning patents, trademarks, and copyright, and the transfer of technology between countries. Its headquarters are in Geneva.

world language ▶ noun a language known or spoken in many countries: English is now the world language.
■ an artificial language for international use: there have been attempts to introduce a standard world language.

world line ▶ noun Physics a curve in space-time joining the positions of a particle throughout its existence.

worldling ▶ noun a cosmopolitan and sophisticated person.

worldly ▶ adjective (worldlier, worldliest) of or concerned with material values or ordinary life rather than a spiritual existence: his ambitions for worldly success.
■ (of a person) experienced and sophisticated.
– PHRASES worldly goods (or possessions or wealth) everything that someone owns.
– DERIVATIVES worldliness noun.
– ORIGIN Old English woruldlic (see WORLD, -LY[1]).

worldly-wise ▶ adjective prepared by experience for life's difficulties; not easily shocked or deceived: Lisa was sufficiently worldly-wise to understand the situation.
– DERIVATIVES worldly wisdom noun.

World Meteorological Organization (abbrev.: WMO) an agency of the United Nations, established in 1950 with the aim of facilitating worldwide cooperation in meteorological observations, research, and services. Its headquarters are in Geneva.

world music ▶ noun [mass noun] traditional music from the developing world.
■ Western popular music incorporating elements of such music.

world order ▶ noun a system controlling events in the world, especially a set of arrangements established internationally for preserving global political stability.

world power ▶ noun a country that has significant influence in international affairs.

world-ranking ▶ adjective (of a creative artist, sports player, or other person in the public eye) among the best in the world.

World Series the professional championship for major league baseball, played at the end of the season between the champions of the American League and the National League. It was first played in 1903.

World Service a service of the British Broadcasting Corporation that transmits radio programmes in English and over thirty other languages around the world twenty-four hours a day. A worldwide television station was established in 1991 on a similar basis.

world's fair ▶ noun see WORLD FAIR.

world-shaking ▶ adjective (in hyperbolic use) of supreme importance or having a momentous effect: a world-shaking announcement.

world soul ▶ noun Philosophy the immanent cause or principle of life, order, consciousness, and self-awareness in the physical world.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: translating German Weltgeist.

World Trade Center a complex of buildings in New York featuring twin skyscrapers 110 storeys high, designed by Minoru Yamasaki and completed in 1972.

World Trade Organization (abbrev.: WTO) an international body founded in 1995 to promote international trade and economic development by reducing tariffs and other restrictions.

world view ▶ noun a particular philosophy of life or conception of the world: a Christian world view revolves around the battle of good and evil.

world war ▶ noun a war involving many large nations in all different parts of the world. The name is commonly given to the wars of 1914–18 and 1939–45, although only the second of these was truly global. See FIRST WORLD WAR, SECOND WORLD WAR.

World War I another term for FIRST WORLD WAR.

World War II another term for SECOND WORLD WAR.

world-weary ▶ adjective feeling or indicating feelings of weariness, boredom, or cynicism as a result of long experience of life: a tired and slightly world-weary voice.
– DERIVATIVES world-weariness noun.

worldwide ▶ adjective extending or reaching throughout the world: worldwide sales of television rights.
▶ adverb throughout the world: she travels worldwide as a consultant.

World Wide Fund for Nature (abbrev.: WWF) an international organization established (as the World Wildlife Fund) in 1961 to raise funds for projects including the conservation of endangered species or of valuable habitats. Its headquarters are in Gland, Switzerland.

World Wide Web Computing a widely used information system on the Internet, which provides facilities for documents to be connected to other documents by hypertext links, enabling the user to search for information by moving from one document to another.

WORM ▶ abbreviation for write-once read-many, denoting a type of computer memory device.

worm ▶ noun 1 any of a number of creeping or burrowing invertebrate animals with long slender soft bodies and no limbs.
• Phyla Annelida (segmented worms), Nematoda (roundworms), and Platyhelminthes (flatworms), and up to twelve minor phyla.
■ short for EARTHWORM. ■ (worms) intestinal or other internal parasites. ■ used in names of long slender insect larvae, especially those in fruit or wood, e.g. army worm, woodworm. ■ used in names of other animals that resemble worms in some way, e.g. slow-worm, shipworm. ■ a maggot supposed to eat dead bodies buried in the ground: food for worms. ■ Computing a self-replicating program able to propagate itself across a network, typically having a detrimental effect.
2 informal a weak or despicable person (used as a general term of contempt).
3 a helical device or component, in particular:
■ the threaded cylinder in a worm gear. ■ the coiled pipe of a still in which the vapour is cooled and condensed.
▶ verb 1 [no obj., with adverbial of direction] move with difficulty by crawling or wriggling: I wormed my way along the roadside ditch.
■ (worm one's way into) insinuate one's way into: the educated dealers may later worm their way into stockbroking. ■ [with obj. and adverbial of direction] move (something) into a confined space by wriggling it: I wormed my right hand between my body and the earth. ■ (worm something out of) obtain information from (someone) by cunning persistence: I did manage to worm a few details out of him.
2 [with obj.] treat (an animal) with a preparation designed to expel parasitic worms.
3 [with obj.] Nautical, archaic make (a rope) smooth by winding thread between the strands.
– PHRASES (even) a worm will turn proverb (even) a meek person will resist or retaliate if pushed too far.
– DERIVATIVES worm-like adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wyrm (noun), of Germanic origin; related to Latin vermis 'worm' and Greek rhomox 'woodworm'.

worm cast (also worm casting) ▶ noun a convoluted mass of soil, mud, or sand thrown up by an earthworm or lugworm on the surface after passing through the worm's body.

worm-charming ▶ noun [mass noun] the sport of enticing worms from their burrows.
– DERIVATIVES worm-charmer noun.

worm-eaten ▶ adjective (of organic tissue) eaten into by worms: a worm-eaten corpse.
■ (of wood or a wooden object) full of holes made by woodworm.

wormer ▶ noun a substance administered to animals or birds to expel parasitic worms.

wormery ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a container, typically with transparent walls, in which worms are kept for study or bred to be used in making compost or as bait for fishing.

wormfish ▶ noun (pl. same or -fishes) a small elongated or eel-like marine fish of warm shallow waters.
• Microdesmus and other genera, family Microdesmidae.

worm-fishing ▶ noun [mass noun] the activity or practice of angling with worms for bait.

worm gear ▶ noun a mechanical arrangement consisting of a toothed wheel worked by a short revolving cylinder (worm) bearing a screw thread.

worm grass ▶ noun [mass noun] W. Indian American wormseed.

wormhole ▶ noun a hole made by a burrowing insect larva or worm in wood, fruit, books, or other materials.
■ Physics a hypothetical connection between widely separated regions of space-time.

worm lizard ▶ noun 1 a subterranean burrowing reptile which resembles an earthworm, being blind, apparently segmented, and typically without limbs.
• Suborder Amphisbaenia, order Squamata: four families and numerous species.
2 a legless lizard.

Worms /wəːmz, German vɔrms/ an industrial town in western Germany, on the Rhine north-west of Mannheim; pop. 77,430 (1991). It was the scene in 1521 of the condemnation of Martin Luther's teaching, at the Diet of Worms.

Worms, Diet of see DIET OF WORMS.

wormseed ▶ noun [mass noun] a plant whose seeds have anthelmintic properties:
• (also Levant wormseed) santonica. • (also American wormseed) an American plant of the goosefoot family (Chenopodium ambrosioides, family Chenopodiaceae).

worm's-eye view ▶ noun a view as seen from below or from a humble position: being assigned to General Secretariat provided a worm's-eye view of international diplomacy.

worm shell ▶ noun 1 a marine mollusc with a shell that forms loose irregular coils, giving it a worm-like appearance.

• Family Vermetidae, class Gastropoda: Vermetus and other genera, including the European giant worm shell (V. gigas).
2 the twisted calcareous tube of a sedentary marine bristle worm, typically attached to a stone or mollusc shell.
• The worms belong to Serpula and other genera, class Polychaeta.

worm snake ▶ noun 1 a small harmless North American snake which resembles an earthworm.
• Carphophis amoena, family Colubridae.
2 another term for BLIND SNAKE.

worm tube ▶ noun the calcareous or sandy tube of some sedentary marine worms, such as fan worms.

wormwheel ▶ noun the wheel of a worm gear.

wormwood ▶ noun 1 a woody shrub with a bitter aromatic taste, used as an ingredient of vermouth and absinthe and in medicine.
• Genus Artemisia, family Compositae: several species, in particular the Eurasian A. absinthium.
2 [mass noun] figurative a state or source of bitterness or grief.
– ORIGIN Old English wermōd. The change in spelling in late Middle English was due to association with WORM and WOOD. Compare with VERMOUTH.

wormy ▶ adjective (wormier, wormiest) 1 (of organic tissue) infested with or eaten into by worms: the prisoners received wormy vegetables.
■(of wood or a wooden object) full of holes made by woodworm.
2 informal (of a person) weak, abject, or revolting.
– DERIVATIVES worminess noun.

worn past participle of WEAR[1]. ▶ adjective damaged and shabby as a result of much use: his knees were encased in worn plus fours.
■very tired: his face looked worn and old.

worn out ▶ adjective 1 (of a person or animal) extremely tired; exhausted: you look worn out.
2 damaged or shabby to the point of being no longer usable: worn-out shoes.
■(of an idea, method, or system) used so often or existing for so long as to be considered valueless: he portrayed the Tories as the party of worn-out ideas.

worriment ▶ noun US archaic or humorous term for WORRY.

worrisome ▶ adjective chiefly N. Amer. causing anxiety or concern: a worrisome problem.
– DERIVATIVES worrisomely adverb.

worrit /'wʌrɪt/ ▶ verb (worrited, worriting) & noun Brit. archaic another term for WORRY.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: apparently an alteration of WORRY.

worry ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) 1 [no obj.] give way to anxiety or unease; allow one's mind to dwell on difficulty or troubles: he worried about his soldier sons in the war | [with clause] I began to worry whether I had done the right thing.
■[with obj.] cause to feel anxiety or concern: there was no need to worry her | I've been worrying myself sick over my mother | [with obj. and clause] he is worried that we are not sustaining high employment | [as adj. worrying] the level of inflation has improved but remains worrying. ■ [as adj. worried] expressing anxiety: there was a worried frown on his face. ■ [with obj.] cause annoyance to: the noise never really stops, but it doesn't worry me.
2 [with obj.] (of a dog or other carnivorous animal) tear at or pull about with the teeth: I found my dog contentedly worrying a bone.
■(of a dog) chase and attack (livestock, especially sheep). ■ [no obj.] (worry at) pull at or fiddle with repeatedly: he began to worry at the knot in the cord.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) [mass noun] a state of anxiety and uncertainty over actual or potential problems: her son had been a constant source of worry to her.
■[count noun] a source of anxiety: the idea is to secure peace of mind for people whose greatest worry is fear of attack.
– PHRASES not to worry informal used to reassure someone by telling them that a situation is not serious: not to worry—no harm done.
– DERIVATIVES worriedly adverb, worrier noun, worryingly adverb [as submodifier] trade deficits are worryingly large.
– ORIGIN Old English wyrgan 'strangle', of West Germanic origin. In Middle English the original sense of the verb gave rise to the meaning 'seize by the throat and tear', later figuratively 'harass', whence 'cause anxiety to' (early 19th century, the date also of the noun).
▶ worry something out discover or devise the solution to a problem or answer to a question by persistent thought: children should be allowed to pause in their reading to worry out a meaning.

worry beads ▶ plural noun a string of beads that one fingers and moves in order to calm oneself.

worryguts ▶ noun informal a person who tends to dwell unduly on difficulty or troubles.

worrywart ▶ noun North American term for WORRYGUTS.

wors /vɔ:s/ ▶ noun [mass noun] S. African sausage.
– ORIGIN Afrikaans, from Dutch worst 'sausage'.

worse ▶ adjective 1 of poorer quality or lower standard; less good or desirable: the accommodation was awful and the food was worse.
■more serious or severe: the movement made the pain worse. ■ more reprehensible or evil: it is worse to intend harm than to be indifferent. ■ [predic. or as complement] in a less satisfactory or pleasant condition; more ill or unhappy: he felt worse, and groped his way back to bed.
▶ adverb less well or skilfully: the more famous I became the worse I painted.
■more seriously or severely: the others had been drunk too, worse than herself. ■ [sentence adverb] used to introduce a statement of circumstances felt by the speaker to be more serious or undesirable than others already mentioned: The system will find it hard to sort out property disputes. Even worse, the law will discourage foreign investment.
▶ noun [mass noun] a more serious or unpleasant event or circumstance: the small department was already stretched to the limit, but worse was to follow.
■(the worse) a less good, favourable, or pleasant condition: the weather changed for the worse.
– PHRASES none the worse for not adversely affected by: we were none the worse for our terrible experience. ■ not to be considered inferior on account of: she was non-academic and none the worse for that. or worse used to suggest a possibility that is still more serious or unpleasant than one already considered, but that the speaker does not wish or need to specify: the child might be born blind or worse. so much the worse for —— used to suggest that a problem, failure, or other unfortunate event or situation is the fault of the person specified and that the speaker does not feel any great concern about it: if they were daft enough to believe it, so much the worse for them. the worse for drink rather drunk: he was somewhat the worse for drink at his farewell party. the worse for wear informal 1 damaged by use or weather over time; battered and shabby. 2 (of a person) feeling rather unwell, especially as a result of drinking too much alcohol. worse luck see LUCK. worse off in a less advantageous position; less fortunate or prosperous.
– ORIGIN Old English wyrsa, wiersa (adjective), wiers (adverb), of Germanic origin; related to WAR.

worsen ▶ verb make or become worse: [no obj.] her condition worsened on the flight | [with obj.] arguing actually worsens the problem | [as adj. worsening] Romania's rapidly worsening economic situation.

worship ▶ noun [mass noun] the feeling or expression of reverence and adoration for a deity: worship of the Mother Goddess | ancestor worship.
■the acts or rites that make up a formal expression of reverence for a deity; a religious ceremony or ceremonies: the church was opened for public worship. ■ adoration or devotion comparable to religious homage, shown towards a person or principle: Krushchev threw the worship of Stalin overboard. ■ archaic honour given to someone in recognition of their merit. ■ [as title] (His/Your Worship) chiefly Brit. used in addressing or referring to an important or high-ranking person, especially a magistrate or mayor: we were soon joined by His Worship the Mayor.
▶ verb (worshipped, worshipping; US also worshiped, worshiping) [with obj.] show reverence and adoration for (a deity); honour with religious rites: the Maya built jungle pyramids to worship their gods.
■treat (someone or something) with the reverence and adoration appropriate to a deity: she adores her sons and they worship her. ■ [no obj.] take part in a religious ceremony: he went to the cathedral because he chose to worship in a spiritually inspiring building.
– DERIVATIVES worshipper (US also worshiper) noun.
– ORIGIN Old English weorthscipe 'worthiness, acknowledgement of worth' (see WORTH, -SHIP).

worshipful ▶ adjective feeling or showing reverence and adoration: her voice was full of worshipful admiration.
■archaic entitled to honour or respect. ■ (Worshipful) Brit. used in titles given to justices of the peace and to certain old companies or their officers: the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths.
– DERIVATIVES worshipfully adverb, worshipfulness noun.

worst ▶ adjective of the poorest quality or the lowest standard: the speech was the worst he had ever made.
■least pleasant, desirable, or tolerable: they were to stay in the worst conditions imaginable. ■ most severe, serious, or dangerous: at least 32 people died in Australia's worst bus accident. ■ least suitable or advantageous: the worst time to take out a bond is when rates are low but rise suddenly.
▶ adverb most severely or seriously: manufacturing and mining are the industries worst affected by falling employment.
■least well, skilfully, or pleasingly: he was voted the worst dressed celebrity. ■ [sentence adverb] used to introduce the fact or circumstance that the speaker considers most serious or unpleasant: her mother had rejected her, and worst of all, her adoptive father turned out to be a cheat and a deceiver.
▶ noun the most serious or unpleasant thing that could happen: when I saw the ambulance outside her front door, I began to fear the worst.
■the most serious, dangerous, or unpleasant part or stage of something: there are signs that the recession is past its worst.
▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be worsted) get the better of; defeat: this was not the time for a deep discussion—she was tired and she would be worsted.
– PHRASES at its (or someone's) worst in the most unpleasant, unimpressive, or unattractive state of which someone or something is capable: nothing's working at the moment, so I suppose you've seen us at our worst. ■ at the most severe or serious point or level: harsh lines appeared in his face when his rheumatism was at its worst. at worst (or the worst) in the most serious case: at worst the injury could mean months in hospital. ■ under the most unfavourable interpretation: the cabinet's reaction to the crisis was at best ineffective and at worst irresponsible. be one's own worst enemy see ENEMY. do one's worst do as much damage as one can (often used to express defiance in the face of threats): let them do their worst—he would never surrender. get (or have) the worst of it be in the least advantageous or successful position; suffer the most. if the worst comes to the worst if the most serious or difficult circumstances arise.
– ORIGIN Old English wierresta, wyrresta (adjective), wierst, wyrst (adverb), of Germanic origin; related to WORSE.

worst-case ▶ adjective (of a projected development) characterized by the worst of the possible foreseeable circumstances: in the worst-case scenario, coastal resorts and communities face disaster.

worsted /'wʊstɪd/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a fine smooth yarn spun from combed long-staple wool.
■fabric made from such yarn, having a close-textured surface with no nap: [as modifier] a worsted suit.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from Worstead, the name of a parish in Norfolk, England.

wort /wə:t/ ▶ noun 1 [in combination] used in names of plants and herbs, especially those used formerly as food or medicinally, e.g. butterwort, lungwort, woundwort.
■archaic such a plant or herb.
2 [mass noun] the sweet infusion of ground malt or other grain before fermentation, used to produce beer and distilled malt liquors.
– ORIGIN Old English wyrt, of Germanic origin; related to ROOT[1].

Worth, Charles Frederick (1825–95), English couturier, resident in France from 1845. Regarded as the founder of Parisian haute couture, he is noted for designing gowns with crinolines and for introducing the bustle.

worth ▶ adjective [predic.] equivalent in value to the sum or item specified: jewellery worth £450 was taken.
■sufficiently good, important, or interesting to justify a specified action; deserving to be treated or regarded in the way specified: the museums in the district are well worth a visit. ■ used to suggest that the specified course of action may be advisable: the company's service schemes are worth checking out. ■ having income or property amounting to a specified sum: she is worth £10 million.
▶ noun [mass noun] the value equivalent to that of someone or something under consideration; the level at which someone or something deserves to be valued or rated: they had to listen to every piece of gossip and judge its worth.

■an amount of a commodity equivalent to a specified sum of money: he admitted stealing 10,000 pounds' worth of computer systems. ■ the amount that could be achieved or produced in a specified time: the companies have debts greater than two years' worth of their sales. ■ high value or merit: he is noble, and gains his position by showing his inner worth.
– PHRASES for all someone is worth informal 1 as energetically or enthusiastically as someone can: he thumps the drums for all he's worth. 2 so as to obtain everything one can from someone: the youths milked him for all he was worth and then disappeared. for what it is worth used to present a comment, suggestion, or opinion without making a claim as to its importance or validity: for what it's worth, she's very highly thought of abroad. worth it informal sufficiently good, enjoyable, or successful to repay any effort, trouble, or expense: it requires a bit of patience to learn, bit it's well worth it. worth one's salt see SALT. worth one's while (or worth while) see WHILE.
– ORIGIN Old English w(e)orth (adjective and noun), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch waard and German wert.

Worthing /'wəːðɪŋ/ a town on the south coast of England, in West Sussex; pop. 92,050 (1980).

worthless ▶ adjective having no real value or use: that promise is worthless.
■(of a person) having no good qualities; deserving contempt: Joan had been deserted by a worthless husband.
– DERIVATIVES worthlessly adverb, worthlessness noun.

worthwhile ▶ adjective worth the time, money, or effort spent; of value or importance: extra lighting would make a worthwhile contribution to road safety.
– DERIVATIVES worthwhileness noun.

USAGE When the adjective worthwhile is used attributively (i.e. before the noun) it is always written as one word: a worthwhile cause. However, when it is used predicatively (i.e. it stands alone and comes after the verb) it may be written as either one or two words: we didn't think it was worthwhile/ worth while.

worthy ▶ adjective (worthier, worthiest) deserving effort, attention, or respect: generous donations to worthy causes.
■showing or characterized by good intent but lacking in humour or imagination: worthy but tedious advice. ■ having or showing the qualities or abilities that merit recognition in a specified way: issues worthy of further consideration. ■ good enough; suitable: no composer was considered worthy of the name until he had written an opera.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) often derogatory or humorous a person notable or important in a particular sphere: schools governed by local worthies.
– DERIVATIVES worthily adverb, worthiness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: from WORTH + -Y[1].

-worthy ▶ combining form deserving of a specified thing: newsworthy.
■suitable or fit for a specified thing: roadworthy.
– ORIGIN from WORTHY.

wot[1] ▶ pronoun, determiner, & interrogative adverb non-standard spelling of WHAT, chiefly representing informal or humorous use.

wot[2] second person singular present of WIT[2].

Wotan /'wəʊtɑːn/ another name for ODIN.

wotcha[1] (also wotcher) ▶ exclamation Brit. informal used as a friendly or humorous greeting: wotcha, Dunc—thanks for turning out.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: corruption of what cheer?

wotcha[2] (also watcha) ▶ exclamation non-standard contraction of:
■what are you: hey, watcha gonna do? ■ what have you: wotcha got this hammer for then? ■ what do you: wotcha want to make a mess like that for?

would ▶ modal verb (3rd sing. present would) 1 past of WILL[1], in various senses: he said he would be away for a couple of days | he wanted out, but she wouldn't leave | the windows would not close.
2 (expressing the conditional mood) indicating the consequence of an imagined event or situation: he would lose his job if he were identified.
■(I would) used to give advice: I wouldn't drink that if I were you.
3 expressing a desire or inclination: I would love to work in America | would you like some water?
4 expressing a polite request: would you pour the wine, please?
■expressing willingness or consent: who would live here?
5 expressing a conjecture, opinion, or hope: I would imagine that they'll want to keep it | I guess some people would consider it brutal | I would have to agree.
6 chiefly derogatory used to make a comment about behaviour that is typical: they would say that, wouldn't they?
7 [with clause] poetic/literary expressing a wish or regret: would that he had lived to finish it.
– ORIGIN Old English wolde, past of wyllan (see WILL[1]).

USAGE On the differences in use between would and should, see usage at SHOULD.

would-be often derogatory ▶ adjective [attrib.] desiring or aspiring to be a specified type of person: a would-be actress who dresses up as Marilyn Monroe.
▶ noun informal a person who desires or aspires to be a particular type: a seemingly endless queue of journalists and would-bes formed.

wouldn't ▶ contraction of would not.
– PHRASES I wouldn't know informal used to indicate that one can't be expected to know the answer to someone's question or to comment on a matter: 'It was a lot better than last year's dance.' 'I wouldn't know about that.'

wouldst archaic second person singular of WOULD.

Woulfe bottle /wʊlf/ ▶ noun Chemistry a glass bottle with two or more necks, used for passing gases through liquids.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: named after Peter Woulfe (*c.*1727–1803), English chemist.

wound[1] /wuːnd/ ▶ noun an injury to living tissue caused by a cut, blow, or other impact, typically one in which the skin is cut or broken.
■an injury to a person's feelings or reputation: the new crisis has opened old wounds.
▶ verb [with obj.] (often be wounded) inflict an injury on (someone): the sergeant was seriously wounded | [as adj. wounded] a wounded soldier.
■injure (a person's feelings): you really wounded his pride when you turned him down | [as adj. wounded] her wounded feelings.
– DERIVATIVES woundingly adverb, woundless adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English wund (noun), wundian (verb), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wond and German Wunde, of unknown ultimate origin.

wound[2] past and past participle of WIND[2].

Wounded Knee, Battle of the last major confrontation (1890) between the US Army and American Indians, at the village of Wounded Knee on a reservation in South Dakota. More than 300 largely unarmed Sioux men, women, and children were massacred. A civil rights protest at the site in 1973 led to clashes with the authorities.

woundwort ▶ noun a hairy Eurasian plant resembling a dead-nettle, formerly used in the treatment of wounds.
● Genus Stachys, family Labiatae: several species.

wove past of WEAVE[1].

woven past participle of WEAVE[1]. ▶ adjective (of fabric) formed by interlacing long threads passing in one direction with others at a right angle to them: women in striped, woven shawls.
■(of basketwork or a wreath) made by interlacing items such as cane, stems, flowers, or leaves. ■ [with submodifier] (of a complex story or pattern) made in a specified way from a number of interconnected elements: a neatly woven tale of intrigue in academia.

wove paper ▶ noun [mass noun] paper made on a wire-gauze mesh so as to have a uniform unlined surface. Compare with LAID PAPER.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: wove, variant of WOVEN.

wow[1] informal ▶ exclamation (also wowee) expressing astonishment or admiration: 'Wow!' he cried enthusiastically.
▶ noun a sensational success: your play's a wow.
▶ verb [with obj.] impress and excite (someone) greatly: they wowed audiences on their recent British tour.
– ORIGIN natural exclamation: first recorded in Scots in the early 16th cent.

wow[2] ▶ noun [mass noun] slow pitch fluctuation in sound reproduction, perceptible in long notes. Compare with FLUTTER (sense 1).
– ORIGIN mid 20th cent.: imitative.

wowser /'waʊzə/ ▶ noun Austral./NZ informal a person who is publicly critical of others and the pleasures they seek; a killjoy.
■a teetotaller.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: of obscure origin.

woylie /'wɔɪli/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a nocturnal rat-kangaroo that has a tail with a black crest of hair and a bushy tip, which it uses to carry nest material.
● Bettongia penicillata, family Potoroidae. Alternative name: brush-tailed bettong.
– ORIGIN 1920s: probably from an Aboriginal word of Western Australia.

WP ▶ abbreviation for word processing or word processor.

w.p. ▶ abbreviation for weather permitting: I hope to arrive in London that evening (w.p.).

W particle ▶ noun Physics a heavy charged elementary particle considered to transmit the weak interaction between other elementary particles.
– ORIGIN W, the initial letter of weak.

wpb ▶ abbreviation for waste-paper basket.

WPC ▶ abbreviation for (in the UK) woman police constable: WPC Larkin described the incident.

wpm ▶ abbreviation for words per minute (used after a number to indicate typing speed).

WRAC ▶ abbreviation for Women's Royal Army Corps (in the UK, until 1993).

wrack[1] ▶ verb variant spelling of RACK[1].

USAGE On the complicated relationship between wrack and rack, see usage at RACK[1].

wrack[2] ▶ noun [mass noun] any of a number of coarse brown seaweeds which grow on the shoreline, frequently each kind forming a distinct band in relation to high- and low-water marks. Many have air bladders for buoyancy.
● Genera Fucus, Ascophyllum, and Pelvetia, class Phaeophyceae.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: apparently from WRACK[4]; compare with VAREC.

wrack[3] (also rack) ▶ noun a mass of high, thick, fast-moving cloud: there was a thin moon, a wrack of cloud.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: variant of RACK[5].

wrack[4] ▶ noun archaic or dialect a wrecked ship; a shipwreck.
■[mass noun] wreckage.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Middle Dutch wrak; related to WREAK and WRECK.

WRAF ▶ abbreviation for Women's Royal Air Force (in the UK, until 1994).

wraith /reɪθ/ ▶ noun a ghost or ghostlike image of someone, especially one seen shortly before or after their death.
■used in similes and metaphors to describe a pale, thin, or insubstantial person or thing: heart attacks had reduced his mother to a wraith. ■ poetic/literary a wisp or faint trace of something: a sea breeze was sending a grey wraith of smoke up the slopes.
– DERIVATIVES wraithlike adjective.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent. (originally Scots): of unknown origin.

Wrangel Island /'raŋg(ə)l/ an island in the East Siberian Sea, off the coast of NE Russia. It was named after the Russian admiral and explorer Baron Ferdinand Wrangel (1794–1870).

wrangle ▶ noun a dispute or argument, typically one that is long and complicated: an insurance wrangle is holding up compensation payments.
▶ verb 1 [no obj.] have such a dispute or argument: [as noun wrangling] weeks of political wrangling.
2 [with obj.] US round up, herd, or take charge of (livestock): the horses were wrangled early.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: compare with Low German wrangeln, frequentative of wrangen 'to struggle'; related to WRING.

wrangler ▶ noun 1 US a person in charge of horses or other livestock on a ranch.
2 a person engaging in a lengthy and complicated quarrel or dispute.
3 (at Cambridge University) a person placed in the first class of the mathematical tripos.

wrap ▶ verb (wrapped, wrapping) 1 [with obj.] cover or enclose (someone or something) in paper or soft material: he wrapped up the Christmas presents | Leonora wrapped herself in a large white bath towel.
■clasp; embrace: she wrapped him in her arms.
2 [with obj.] (wrap something round/around) arrange paper or soft material round (someone or something), typically as a covering or for warmth or protection: wrap the bandage around the injured limb.

■ place an arm, finger, or leg round (someone or something): he wrapped an arm around her waist. ■ informal crash a vehicle into (a stationary object): Richard wrapped his car around a telegraph pole.
3 [with obj.] Computing cause (a word or unit of text) to be carried over to a new line automatically as the margin is reached, or to fit around embedded features such as pictures.
■ [no obj.] (of a word or unit or text) be carried over in such a way.
4 [no obj.] informal finish filming or recording: we wrapped on schedule three days later.
▶ noun 1 a loose outer garment or piece of material.
■ [as modifier] denoting a garment having one part overlapping another; wrap-around: a wrap skirt. ■ [mass noun] paper or soft material used for wrapping: plastic food wrap. ■ (usu. wraps) figurative a veil of secrecy maintained about something, especially a new project: details of the police operation are being kept under wraps. ■ Brit. informal a small packet of a powdered illegal drug.
2 [usu. in sing.] informal the end of a session of filming or recording: right, it's a wrap.
– PHRASES be wrapped up in be so engrossed or absorbed in (something) that one does not notice other people or things.
– ORIGIN Middle English: of unknown origin.
▶ wrap up (or wrap someone up) 1 put on (or dress someone in) warm clothes: wrap up warm | Tim was well wrapped up against the weather. 2 (also wrap it up) [in imperative] Brit. informal be quiet; stop talking or making a noise.
wrap something up complete or conclude a discussion or agreement: they hope to wrap up negotiations within sixty days. ■ win a game or competition: Australia wrapped up the series 4–0.

wrap-around ▶ adjective [attrib.] curving or extending round at the edges or sides: a wrap-around windscreen.
■ (also wrap-over) (of a garment) having one part overlapping another and fastened loosely: a wrap-around skirt.
▶ noun 1 (also wrap-over) a wrap-around garment.
2 (wraparound) Computing a facility by which a linear sequence of memory locations or screen positions is treated as a continuous circular series.

wrapped past participle of WRAP. ▶ adjective Austral. informal overjoyed; delighted: the new minister declared that he was wrapped. [ORIGIN: 1960s: blend of wrapped (up) 'engrossed' and RAPT.]

wrapper ▶ noun 1 a piece of paper, plastic, or foil covering and protecting something sold.
■ a cover enclosing a newspaper or magazine for posting. ■ the dust jacket of a book. ■ chiefly US a tobacco leaf of superior quality enclosing a cigar.
2 chiefly US a loose robe or gown.

wrapping ▶ noun [mass noun] paper or soft material used to cover or enclose someone or something: she took the cellophane wrapping off the box.

wrapping paper ▶ noun [mass noun] strong or decorative paper for wrapping parcels or presents.

wrap-up N. Amer. ▶ noun a summary or résumé, in particular:
■ a review of a sporting event. ■ an overview of the products of one company or in one field.
▶ adjective serving to summarize, complete, or conclude something: 200 campaign volunteers celebrated during wrap-up festivities.

wrasse /ras/ ▶ noun (pl. same or wrasses) a marine fish with thick lips and strong teeth, typically brightly coloured with marked differences between the male and female.
● Family Labridae: numerous genera and species.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Cornish wrah; related to Welsh gwrach, literally 'old woman'.

wrath /rɒθ, rɔ:θ/ ▶ noun extreme anger (chiefly used for humorous or rhetorical effect): he hid his pipe for fear of incurring his father's wrath.
– ORIGIN Old English wræththu, from wrāth (see WROTH).

wrathful ▶ adjective poetic/literary full of or characterized by intense anger: natural calamities seemed to be the work of a wrathful deity.
– DERIVATIVES wrathfully adverb, wrathfulness noun.

wrathy ▶ adjective N. Amer. informal, dated another term for WRATHFUL.

wreak ▶ verb [with obj.] cause (a large amount of damage or harm): torrential rainstorms wreaked havoc yesterday | the environmental damage wreaked by ninety years of phosphate mining.
■ inflict (vengeance): he was determined to wreak his revenge on the girl who had rejected him. ■ archaic avenge (someone who has been wronged): grant me some knight to wreak me for my son.
– DERIVATIVES wreaker noun.
– ORIGIN Old English wrecan 'drive (out), avenge', of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wreken and German rächen; compare with WRACK[4], WRECK, and WRETCH.

USAGE In the phrase wrought havoc, as in they wrought havoc on the countryside, wrought is an archaic past tense of work and is not, as is sometimes assumed, a past tense of wreak.

wreath ▶ noun (pl. wreaths /ri:ðz, ri:θs/) 1 an arrangement of flowers, leaves, or stems fastened in a ring and used for decoration or for laying on a grave.
■ a carved representation of such a wreath. ■ a similar ring made of or resembling soft, twisted material: a gold wreath. ■ Heraldry a representation of such a ring below a crest (especially where it joins a helmet). ■ a curl or ring of smoke or cloud: wreaths of mist swirled up into the cold air.
2 archaic, chiefly Scottish a snowdrift.
– ORIGIN Old English writha, related to WRITHE.

wreathe /ri:ð/ ▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be wreathed) cover, surround, or encircle (something): he sits wreathed in smoke | his face was wreathed in smiles.
■ [with obj. and adverbial of direction] poetic/literary twist or entwine (something flexible) round or over something: shall I once more wreathe my arms about Antonio's neck? ■ form (flowers, leaves, or stems) into a wreath. ■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (especially of smoke) move with a curling motion: he watched the smoke wreathe into the night air.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: partly a back-formation from archaic wrethen, past participle of WRITHE, reinforced by WREATH.

wreck ▶ noun the destruction of a ship at sea; a shipwreck: the survivors of the wreck.
■ a ship destroyed in such a way: the salvaging of treasure from wrecks. ■ [mass noun] Law goods brought ashore by the sea from a wreck: the profits of wreck. ■ something, especially a vehicle or building, that has been badly damaged or destroyed: the plane was reduced to a smouldering wreck | figurative the wreck of their marriage. ■ the disorganized remains of something that has suffered damage or destruction. ■ N. Amer. a road or rail crash: a train wreck. ■ a person whose physical or mental health or strength has failed: the scandal left the family emotional wrecks.
▶ verb [with obj.] (usu. be wrecked) cause the destruction of (a ship) by sinking or breaking up: he was drowned when his ship was wrecked.
■ involve (someone) in such a wreck: sailors who had the misfortune to be wrecked on these coasts. ■ [no obj.] [usu. as noun wrecking] chiefly historical cause the destruction of a ship in order to steal the cargo: the locals reverted to the age-old practice of wrecking. ■ [no obj.] archaic suffer or undergo shipwreck. ■ destroy or severely damage (a structure, vehicle, or similar): the blast wrecked 100 houses. ■ spoil completely: an eye injury wrecked his chances of a professional career. ■ [no obj.] [usu. as noun wrecking] chiefly N. Amer. engage in breaking up badly damaged vehicles, demolishing old buildings, or similar activities to obtain usable spares or scrap.
– ORIGIN Middle English (as a legal term denoting wreckage washed ashore): from Anglo-Norman French wrec, from the base of Old Norse reka 'to drive'; related to WREAK.

wreckage ▶ noun [mass noun] the remains of something that has been badly damaged or destroyed: firemen had to cut him free from the wreckage of the car.

wrecked ▶ adjective 1 having been wrecked: an old wrecked barge lay upside down | a wrecked marriage.
2 informal drunk: they got wrecked on tequila.

wrecker ▶ noun a person or thing that wrecks, damages, or destroys something: [in combination] she was cast as a home-wrecker.
■ chiefly N. Amer. a person who breaks up damaged vehicles, demolishes old buildings, salvages wrecked ships, etc. to obtain usable spares or scrap. ■ N. Amer. a recovery vehicle. ■ chiefly historical a person on the shore who tries to bring about a shipwreck in order to plunder or profit from the wreckage.

wreckfish ▶ noun (pl. same or -fishes) a large heavy-bodied fish of warm Atlantic waters, the young of which are often found associated with driftwood or wreckage.
● Polyprion americanus, family Serranidae.

wrecking ball ▶ noun a heavy metal ball swung from a crane into a building to demolish it.

Wrecsam /'rɛksam/ Welsh name for WREXHAM.

Wren[1], Sir Christopher (1632–1723), English architect. Following the Fire of London (1666) Wren was responsible for the design of the new St Paul's Cathedral (1675–1711) and many of the city's churches. Other works include the Greenwich Observatory (1675) and a partial rebuilding of Hampton Court (1689–94).

Wren[2], P. C. (1885–1941), English novelist; full name Percival Christopher Wren. He is best known for his romantic adventure stories dealing with life in the French Foreign Legion, the first of which was Beau Geste (1924).

Wren[3] ▶ noun (in the UK) a member of the former Women's Royal Naval Service.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: originally in the plural, from the abbreviation WRNS.

wren ▶ noun 1 a small short-winged songbird found chiefly in the New World.
● Family Troglodytidae: many genera and numerous species, in particular the very small Troglodytes troglodytes (North American name: winter wren), which has a short cocked tail and is the only wren that occurs the Old World.
2 [usu. with modifier] any of a number of small songbirds that resemble the true wrens in size or appearance:
● Brit. a small warbler or kinglet, e.g. willow-wren, golden-crested wren. ● Austral. a bird of the family Maluridae or Acanthizidae. See EMU-WREN, FAIRY WREN. ● NZ a bird of the family Xenicidae. ● a Central or South American bird of the families Formicariidae, Polioptilidae, etc., e.g. ant-wren.
– ORIGIN Old English wrenna, of Germanic origin.

wrench ▶ noun 1 [usu. in sing.] a sudden violent twist or pull: with a wrench Tony wriggled free.
■ figurative an act of leaving someone or something that causes sadness or distress: it will be a real wrench to leave after eight years.
2 an adjustable tool like a spanner, used for gripping and turning nuts or bolts.
3 Mechanics a combination of a couple with a force along its axis.
▶ verb [with obj.] pull or twist (someone or something) suddenly and violently: Casey grabbed the gun and wrenched it from my hand | [with obj. and complement] she wrenched herself free of his grip | [no obj.] figurative the betrayal wrenched at her heart.
■ injure (a part of the body) as a result of a sudden twisting movement: she slipped and wrenched her ankle. ■ turn (something, especially a nut or bolt) with a wrench. ■ archaic distort to fit a particular theory or interpretation: to wrench our Bible to make it fit a misconception of facts.
– ORIGIN late Old English wrencan 'twist', of unknown origin.

wrench fault ▶ noun another term for STRIKE-SLIP FAULT.

wrentit ▶ noun a long-tailed North American songbird that is the only American member of the babbler family, with dark plumage.
● Chamaea fasciata, family Timaliidae.

wrest /rɛst/ ▶ verb [with obj.] forcibly pull (something) from a person's grasp: Leila tried to wrest her arm from his hold.
■ take (something, especially power or control) from someone or something else after considerable effort or difficulty: they wanted to allow people to wrest control of their lives from impersonal bureaucracies. ■ archaic distort the meaning or interpretation of (something) to suit one's own interests or views: you appear convinced of my guilt, and wrest every reply I have made.
▶ noun archaic a key for tuning a harp or piano.
– ORIGIN Old English wræstan 'twist, tighten', of Germanic origin; related to Danish vriste, also to WRIST.

wrestle ▶ verb [no obj.] take part in a fight, either as sport or in earnest, that involves grappling with one's opponent and trying to throw or force them to the ground: as the policeman wrestled with the gunman a shot rang out.
■ [with obj. and adverbial] force (someone) into a particular position or place by fighting in such a way: the security guards wrestled them to the ground. ■ figurative struggle with a difficulty or problem: for over a year David wrestled with a guilty conscience. ■ [with obj. and adverbial] move or manipulate (something) in a specified way with difficulty and some physical effort: she wrestled the keys out of the ignition.

▶ noun [in sing.] a wrestling bout or contest: a wrestle to the death.
■ a hard struggle: a lifelong wrestle with depression.
– DERIVATIVES wrestler noun.
– ORIGIN Old English, frequentative of wræstan 'wrest'.

wrestling ▶ noun [mass noun] the sport or activity of grappling with an opponent and trying to throw or hold them down on the ground, typically according to a code of rules.

Popular in ancient Egypt, China, and Greece, wrestling was introduced to the Olympic Games in 704 BC; many of the holds and throws used now are the same as those of antiquity. The two main competition styles are Graeco-Roman (in which holds below the waist are prohibited) and freestyle, which has become a popular televised sport. See also SUMO.

wrest pin ▶ noun a pin to which the strings of a piano or harpsichord are attached.

wrest plank (also wrest block) ▶ noun the part of a piano or harpsichord holding the wrest pins.

wretch ▶ noun an unfortunate or unhappy person: can the poor wretch's corpse tell us anything?
■ informal a despicable or contemptible person: ungrateful wretches.
– ORIGIN Old English wrecca (also in the sense 'banished person'), of West Germanic origin; related to German Recke 'warrior, hero', also to the verb WREAK.

wretched ▶ adjective (wretcheder, wretchedest) (of a person) in a very unhappy or unfortunate state: I felt so wretched because I thought I might never see you again.
■ of poor quality; very bad: the wretched conditions of the slums. ■ used to express anger or annoyance: she disliked the wretched man intensely.
– DERIVATIVES wretchedly adverb [as submodifier] a wretchedly poor country, wretchedness noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English: formed irregularly from WRETCH + -ED[1].

Wrexham /ˈrɛksəm/ a mining and industrial town in NE Wales; pop. 40,930 (1981). Welsh name WRECSAM.

wriggle ▶ verb [no obj.] twist and turn with quick writhing movements: she kicked and wriggled but he held her firmly.
■ [with obj.] cause to move in such a way: she wriggled her bare, brown toes. ■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] move in a particular direction with wriggling movements: Susie wriggled out of her clothes. ■ (wriggle out of) avoid (something) by devious means: don't try and wriggle out of your contract.
▶ noun [in sing.] a wriggling movement: she gave an impatient little wriggle.
– DERIVATIVES wriggler noun, wriggly adjective.
– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from Middle Low German wriggelen, frequentative of wriggen 'twist, turn'.

Wright[1], Billy (1924–94), English footballer; full name William Ambrose Wright. A wing-half and latterly a defender, he was the first player to make more than a hundred appearances for his country (105 altogether, ninety as captain).

Wright[2], Frank Lloyd (1869–1959), American architect. His 'prairie-style' houses revolutionized American domestic architecture. Notable buildings include the Kaufmann House, which incorporated a waterfall, in Pennsylvania (1935–9) and the Guggenheim Museum of Art in New York (1956–9).

Wright[3], Orville (1871–1948) and Wilbur (1867–1912), American aviation pioneers. In 1903 the Wright brothers were the first to make brief powered sustained and controlled flights in an aeroplane, which they had designed and built themselves. They were also the first to make and fly a fully practical powered aeroplane (1905) and passenger-carrying aeroplane (1908).

wright ▶ noun archaic a maker or builder.
■ Scottish & N. English a carpenter or joiner.
– ORIGIN Old English wryhta, wyrhta, of West Germanic origin; related to WORK.

wring ▶ verb (past and past participle wrung /rʌŋ/) [with obj.] squeeze and twist (something) to force liquid from it: she wrung the cloth out in the sink.
■ [with obj. and adverbial] extract (liquid) by squeezing and twisting something: I wrung out the excess water. ■ break (an animal's neck) by twisting it forcibly. ■ squeeze (someone's hand) tightly, especially with sincere emotion. ■ [with obj. and adverbial] obtain (something) with difficulty or effort: few concessions were wrung from the government. ■ cause pain or distress to: the letter must have wrung her heart.
▶ noun [in sing.] an act of squeezing or twisting something.
– PHRASES wring one's hands clasp and twist one's hands together as a gesture of great distress, especially when one is powerless to change the situation.
– ORIGIN Old English wringan (verb), of West Germanic origin; related to Dutch wringen, also to WRONG.

wringer ▶ noun a device such as a mangle for wringing water from wet clothes, mops, or other objects.
– PHRASES put someone through the wringer (or the mangle) informal subject someone to a very stressful experience, especially a severe interrogation.

wringing ▶ adjective extremely wet; soaked: the sweat was worse though—he was wringing | [as submodifier] my jacket's wringing wet!
▶ noun [mass noun] the action of wringing something.

wrinkle ▶ noun 1 a slight line or fold in something, especially fabric or the skin of the face.
■ informal a minor difficulty; a snag: the organizers have the wrinkles pretty well ironed out.
2 informal a clever innovation, or useful piece of information or advice: learning the wrinkles from someone more experienced saves time.
▶ verb [with obj.] [often as adj. wrinkled] make or cause lines or folds in (something, especially fabric or the skin): Dotty's wrinkled stockings.
■ grimace and cause wrinkles on (a part of the face): he sniffed and wrinkled his nose. ■ [no obj.] form or become marked with lines or folds: her brow wrinkled.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: origin obscure, possibly a back-formation from the Old English past participle gewrinclod 'sinuous' (of which no infinitive is recorded).

wrinkly ▶ adjective (wrinklier, wrinkliest) having many lines or folds: he's old and wrinkly.
▶ noun (also wrinklie) (pl. -ies) Brit. informal, humorous or derogatory an old person: none of the wrinklies looked pleased to see their visitors.

wrist ▶ noun 1 the joint connecting the hand with the forearm. See also CARPUS.
■ the equivalent joint (the carpal joint) in the foreleg of a quadruped or the wing of a bird. ■ the part of a garment covering the wrist; a cuff.
2 (also wrist pin) (in a machine) a stud projecting from a crank as an attachment for a connecting rod.
– ORIGIN Old English, of Germanic origin, probably from the base of WRITHE.

wristband ▶ noun a strip of material worn round the wrist, in particular:
■ a small strap or bracelet, especially one used for identity purposes or as a fashion item. ■ a strip of absorbent material worn during sport or strenuous exercise to soak up sweat. ■ the cuff of a shirt or blouse.

wrist-drop ▶ noun [mass noun] paralysis of the muscles which normally raise the hand at the wrist and extend the fingers, typically caused by nerve damage.

wristlet ▶ noun a band or bracelet worn on the wrist, typically as an ornament.

wrist pin ▶ noun another term for WRIST (in sense 2).

wristwatch ▶ noun a watch worn on a strap round the wrist.

wristwork ▶ noun [mass noun] the action of working the hand without moving the arm, especially in fencing and ball games.

wristy ▶ adjective Cricket & Tennis (of a stroke) performed using a pronounced movement of the wrist: he uses a fast, wristy swing to hit his forehand.

writ[1] ▶ noun a form of written command in the name of a court or other legal authority to act, or abstain from acting, in some way.
■ chiefly Brit. a Crown document summoning a peer to Parliament or ordering the election of a member or members of Parliament. ■ (one's writ) one's power to enforce compliance or submission; one's authority: you have business here which is out of my writ and competence.
– PHRASES one's writ runs one has authority of a specified extent or kind: Whitewall is the one area where his writ runs.
– ORIGIN Old English, as a general term denoting written matter, from the Germanic base of WRITE.

writ[2] ▶ verb archaic past participle of WRITE.
– PHRASES writ large clear and obvious: the unspoken question writ large upon Rose's face. ■ in a stark or exaggerated form: bribing people by way of tax allowances is the paternalistic state writ large.

write ▶ verb (past wrote; past participle written) [with obj.] 1 mark (letters, words, or other symbols) on a surface, typically paper, with a pen, pencil, or similar implement: he wrote his name on the paper | Alice wrote down the address | [no obj.] he wrote very neatly in blue ink.
■ [no obj.] have the ability to mark coherent letters or words in this way: he couldn't read or write. ■ fill out or complete (a sheet, cheque, or similar) in this way: he had to write a cheque for £800. ■ Canadian & S. African take (an exam or test): I wrote Prof. Weldon's Middle English exam last week. ■ [no obj.] write in a cursive hand, as opposed to printing individual letters.
2 compose, write, and send (a letter) to someone: I wrote a letter to Alison | [with two objs] I wrote him a short letter | [no obj.] he wrote almost every day.
■ chiefly N. Amer. write and send a letter to (someone): Mother wrote me and told me about poor Simon's death. ■ [no obj.] (write in) write to an organization, especially a broadcasting station, with a question, suggestion, or opinion: write in with your query.
3 compose (a text or work) for written or printed reproduction or publication; put into literary form and set down in writing: I didn't know you wrote poetry | [no obj.] he wrote under a pseudonym | he had written about the beauty of Andalucia.
■ compose (a musical work): he has written a song specifically for her. ■ (write someone into/out of) add or remove a character to or from (a long-running story or series). ■ archaic describe in writing: if I could write the beauty of your eyes.
4 [with obj. and adverbial] Computing enter (data) into a specified storage medium or location in store.
5 underwrite (an insurance policy).
– PHRASES be nothing to write home about informal be very mediocre or unexceptional. be (or have something) written all over one (or one's face) informal used to convey that the presence of a particular quality or feeling is clearly revealed by a person's expression: guilt was written all over his face. be written in stone see STONE. (and) that's all she wrote N. Amer. informal used to convey that there is or was nothing more to be said about a matter: we were arguing about who should pay the bill, but he pulled out a couple of hundreds and that's all she wrote.
– DERIVATIVES writable adjective.
– ORIGIN Old English writan 'score, form (letters) by carving, write', of Germanic origin; related to German reissen 'sketch, drag'.
▶ write something down reduce the nominal value of stock or goods.
write someone in chiefly US (when voting) add the name of someone not on the original list of candidates and vote for them.
write something off 1 (write someone/thing off) dismiss someone or something as insignificant: they were written off as a bunch of no-hopers. 2 cancel the record of a bad debt; acknowledge the loss of or failure to recover an asset: he urged the banks to write off debt owed by poorer countries. ■ Brit. damage a vehicle so badly that it cannot be repaired or is not worth repairing.
write something up write a full or formal account of something: I was too tired to write up my notes. ■ make entries to bring a diary or similar record up to date: he wrote up a work journal which has never been published.

write-back ▶ noun [mass noun] Finance the process of restoring to profit a provision for bad or doubtful debts previously made against profits and no longer required.

write-down ▶ noun Finance a reduction in the estimated or nominal value of an asset.

write-in ▶ noun 1 US a vote cast for an unlisted candidate by writing their name on a ballot paper: the results showed 70 blank ballots and 770 write-ins.
■ a candidate for whom votes are cast in such a way.
2 a demonstration of public opinion in the form of mass letters of protest: the Blackpool Evening Gazette has launched a write-in.

write-off ▶ noun 1 a vehicle, aircraft, or other object that is too badly damaged to be repaired.
■ a worthless or ineffectual person or thing: the Morning Star was a write-off, its credibility rating below zero.

2 Finance a cancellation from an account of a bad debt or worthless asset.

write-once ▶ adjective Computing denoting a memory or storage device, typically an optical one, on which data, once written, cannot be modified.

write-protect ▶ verb [with obj.] Computing protect (a disk) from accidental writing or erasure, as by removing the cover from a notch in casing.
▶ adjective denoting a notch or other device which fulfils this function.

writer ▶ noun a person who has written a particular text: the writer of the letter.
■ a person who writes books, stories, or articles as a job or regular occupation: the distinguished travel writer Freya Stark. ■ [with adj.] a person who writes in a specified way: Dickens was a prolific writer. ■ a composer of musical works: a writer of military music. ■ Computing a device that writes data to a storage medium. ■ [with adj.] a person who has a specified kind of handwriting: neat writers. ■ Brit. historical a scribe. ■ Brit. archaic a clerk, especially in the navy or in government offices.
– PHRASES writer's block the condition of being unable to think of what to write or how to proceed with writing. writer's cramp pain or stiffness in the hand caused by excessive writing.
– ORIGIN Old English writere (see WRITE).

writer-in-residence ▶ noun (pl. writers-in-residence) a writer holding a temporary residential post in an academic establishment, in order to share his or her professional insights.

writerly ▶ adjective of or characteristic of a professional author: the mixture of writerly craft and stamina which Greene had.
■ consciously literary: novels as tricksy and writerly as those of Robbe-Grillet.

writer to the Signet ▶ noun historical (in Scotland) a senior solicitor conducting cases in the Court of Session.
– ORIGIN originally a clerk in the Secretary of State's office who prepared writs for the royal Signet.

write-up ▶ noun a full written account.
■ a newspaper or magazine article giving the author's opinion of a recent event, performance, or product.

writhe /rʌɪð/ ▶ verb [no obj.] make continual twisting, squirming movements or contortions of the body: he writhed in agony on the ground.
■ [with obj.] cause to move in such a way: a snake writhing its body in a sinuous movement. ■ (writhe in/with/at) respond with great emotional or physical discomfort to (a violent or unpleasant feeling or thought): she bit her lip, writhing in suppressed fury.
▶ noun rare a twisting, squirming movement.
– ORIGIN Old English wrīthan 'make into coils, plait, fasten with a cord', of Germanic origin; related to WREATHE.

writhen /ˈrɪð(ə)n/ (also wrythen) ▶ adjective 1 poetic/literary twisted or contorted out of normal shape or form.
2 (of antique glass or silver) having spirally twisted ornamentation.
– ORIGIN Old English in the sense 'plaited, entwined', archaic past participle of WRITHE.

writing ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 the activity or skill of marking coherent words on paper and composing text: parents want schools to concentrate on reading, writing, and arithmetic.
■ the activity or occupation of composing text for publication: she made a decent living from writing.
2 written work, especially with regard to its style or quality: the writing is straightforward and accessible.
■ (writings) books, stories, articles, or other written works: he was introduced to the writings of Gertrude Stein. ■ (the Writings) the Hagiographa.
3 a sequence of letters, words, or symbols marked on paper or some other surface: a leather product with gold writing on it.
■ handwriting: his writing looked crabbed.
– PHRASES in writing in written form, especially as proof of an agreement or grievance: he asked them to put their complaints in writing. the writing (or N. Amer. handwriting) is on the wall there are clear signs that something unpleasant or unwelcome is going to happen: the writing was on the wall for the old system. [ORIGIN: with biblical allusion to Dan. 5:5, 25–8.]

writing case ▶ noun a portable case for holding writing materials and paper.

writing desk ▶ noun a piece of furniture with a surface for writing on and with drawers and other compartments for pens and paper.

writing pad ▶ noun a pad of paper for writing on.

writing paper ▶ noun [mass noun] paper of good quality used for writing, especially letter-writing.

writ of execution ▶ noun Law a judicial order that a judgement be enforced.

writ of summons ▶ noun Law (in England and Wales) a writ by which an action is started in the High Court.

written past participle of WRITE.

WRNS historical ▶ abbreviation for (in the UK) Women's Royal Naval Service.

Wroclaw /ˈvrɒtswɑːf/ an industrial city on the Oder River in western Poland; pop. 643,220 (1990). Held by the Habsburgs from the 16th century, it was taken by Prussia in 1741. It passed to Poland in 1945. German name BRESLAU.

wrong ▶ adjective 1 not correct or true: that is the wrong answer.
■ [predic.] mistaken: I was wrong about him being on the yacht that evening. ■ unsuitable or undesirable: they asked all the wrong questions. ■ [predic.] in a bad or abnormal condition: amiss: something was wrong with the pump.
2 unjust, dishonest, or immoral: they were wrong to take the law into their own hands | it was wrong of me to write you such an angry note.
▶ adverb in an unsuitable or undesirable manner or direction: what am I doing wrong?
■ with an incorrect result: she guessed wrong.
▶ noun an unjust, dishonest, or immoral action: I have done you a great wrong.
▶ verb [with obj.] act unjustly or dishonestly towards (someone): please forgive me these things and the people I have wronged.
■ mistakenly attribute bad motives to; misrepresent: perhaps I wrong him.
– PHRASES get someone wrong misunderstand someone, especially by falsely imputing malice. get (hold of) the wrong end of the stick misunderstand something. go down the wrong way (of food) enter the windpipe instead of the gullet. go wrong develop in an undesirable way. in the wrong responsible for a quarrel, mistake, or offence. the wrong way round in the opposite of the normal or desirable orientation, direction, or sequence. two wrongs don't make a right proverb the fact that someone has done something unjust or dishonest is no justification for acting in a similar way.
– DERIVATIVES wronger noun, wrongly adverb, wrongness noun.
– ORIGIN late Old English wrang, from Old Norse rangr 'awry, unjust'; related to WRING.

wrongdoing ▶ noun [mass noun] illegal or dishonest behaviour: the head of the bank has denied any wrongdoing.
– DERIVATIVES wrongdoer noun.

wrong-foot ▶ verb [with obj.] Brit. (in a game) play so as to catch (an opponent) off balance: Cook wrong-footed the defence with a low free kick.
■ put (someone) in a difficult or embarrassing situation by saying or doing something that they do not expect: an announcement regarded as an attempt to wrong-foot the opposition.

wrongful ▶ adjective (of an act) not fair, just, or legal: he is suing the police for wrongful arrest.
– DERIVATIVES wrongfully adverb, wrongfulness noun.

wrong-headed ▶ adjective having or showing bad judgement; misguided: this approach is both wrong-headed and naive.
– DERIVATIVES wrong-headedly adverb, wrong-headedness noun.

wrong side ▶ noun the reverse side of a fabric.
– PHRASES born on the wrong side of the blanket see BLANKET. get out of bed on the wrong side see BED. on the wrong side of 1 out of favour with: she knew not to get on the wrong side of him. 2 somewhat more than (a specified age): he cheerfully admits he is the wrong side of fifty. on the wrong side of the tracks see TRACK[1]. wrong side out inside out.

wrong'un ▶ noun Brit. informal 1 a person of bad character.
2 Cricket another term for GOOGLY.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: contraction of wrong one.

wrot /rɒt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] timber with one or more surfaces planed smooth.
– ORIGIN 1930s: alteration of WROUGHT.

wrote past tense of WRITE.

wroth /rəʊθ, rɒθ/ ▶ adjective archaic angry: Sir Leicester is majestically wroth.
– ORIGIN Old English wrāth, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch wreed 'cruel', also to WRITHE.

wrought /rɔːt/ ▶ adjective (of metals) beaten out or shaped by hammering.
– ORIGIN Middle English: archaic past and past participle of WORK.

wrought iron ▶ noun [mass noun] a tough malleable form of iron suitable for forging or rolling rather than casting, obtained by puddling pig iron while molten. It is nearly pure but contains some slag in the form of filaments.

wrought up ▶ adjective [predic.] upset and anxious: she didn't get too wrought up about things.

wrung past and past participle of WRING.

WRVS ▶ abbreviation for (in the UK) Women's Royal Voluntary Service.

wry /rʌɪ/ ▶ adjective (wryer, wryest or wrier, wriest) 1 using or expressing dry, especially mocking, humour: a wry smile | wry comments.
2 (of a person's face or features) twisted into an expression of disgust, disappointment, or annoyance.
■ archaic (of the neck or features) distorted or turned to one side.
– DERIVATIVES wryly adverb, wryness noun.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent. (in the sense 'contorted'): from Old English wrīgian 'tend, incline', in Middle English 'deviate, swerve, contort'.

wrybill ▶ noun a small New Zealand plover with grey and white plumage and a bill that bends to the right.
● Anarhynchus frontalis, family Charadriidae.

wrymouth ▶ noun an elongated marine fish with a long-based spiny dorsal fin and an oblique mouth that is almost vertical. It occurs in the NW Atlantic and the North Pacific.
● Family Cryptacanthodidae: several genera and species.

wryneck ▶ noun 1 an Old World bird of the woodpecker family, with brown camouflaged plumage and a habit of twisting and writhing the neck when disturbed.
● Genus Jynx, family Picidae: two species, in particular the northern wryneck (J. torquilla) of Eurasia.
2 another term for TORTICOLLIS.

wrythen ▶ adjective variant spelling of WRITHEN.

WSW ▶ abbreviation for west-south-west.

wt ▶ abbreviation for weight.

WTO ▶ abbreviation for World Trade Organization.

Wu /wuː/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a dialect of Chinese spoken in Jiangsu and Zhejiang provinces and the city of Shanghai. It has an estimated 80 million speakers.
– ORIGIN the name in Chinese.

wuff /wʌf/ ▶ noun a dog's low suppressed bark.
▶ verb [no obj.] (of a dog) give such a bark.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: imitative.

Wuhan /wuːˈhan/ a port in eastern China, the capital of Hubei province; pop. 3,710,000 (1990). Situated at the confluence of the Han and the Yangtze Rivers, it is a conurbation consisting of three adjacent towns (Hankow, Hanyang, and Wuchang), administered jointly since 1950.

Wu-hsi variant of WUXI.

wulfenite /ˈwʊlfənʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an orange-yellow mineral consisting of a molybdate of lead, typically occurring as tabular crystals.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from the name of F. X. von Wulfen (1728–1805), Austrian scientist, + -ITE[1].

Wulfila /ˈwʊlfɪlə/ variant spelling of ULFILAS.

Wunderkammer /ˈvʊndəˌkamə, German ˈvʊndɐˌkamɐ/ ▶ noun (pl. Wunderkammern /-ˌkaməːn, German -ˌkaməɐn/) a place where a collection of curiosities and rarities is exhibited.
– ORIGIN German, literally 'wonder chamber'.

wunderkind /ˈvʊndəkɪnd,/ ▶ noun (pl. wunderkinds or wunderkinder /-kɪndə/) a person who achieves great success when relatively young.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from German, from Wunder 'wonder' + Kind 'child'.

Wundt /vʊnt/, Wilhelm (1832–1920), German psychologist. He was the founder of psychology as a separate discipline, establishing a laboratory devoted to its study.

wunnerful ▶ adjective non-standard spelling of WONDERFUL, representing US or dialect pronunciation.

Wuppertal /ˈvʊpətɑːl, German ˈvʊpɐtaːl/ an industrial city in western Germany, in North Rhine-Westphalia north-east of Düsseldorf; pop. 385,460 (1991).

Wurlitzer /ˈwəːlɪtsə/ ▶ noun trademark a large pipe organ or electric organ, especially one used in the cinemas of the 1930s.
– ORIGIN named after Rudolf Wurlitzer (1831–1914), the German-born American instrument-maker who founded the manufacturing company.

Würm /vʊəm/ ▶ noun [usu. as modifier] Geology the final Pleistocene glaciation in the Alps, possibly corresponding to the Weichsel of northern Europe. ■ the system of deposits laid down at this time.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: the former name of the Starnberger See, a lake in Bavaria.

wurst /vəːst, vʊəst, w-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] German or Austrian sausage.
– ORIGIN from German Wurst.

wurtzite /ˈwʊətsʌɪt, ˈwəːt-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a mineral consisting of zinc sulphide, typically occurring as brownish-black pyramidal crystals.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from the name of Charles A. Wurtz (1817–84), French chemist, + -ITE[1].

Würzburg /ˈvʊətsbəːg, German ˈvʏrtsbʊrk/ an industrial city on the River Main in Bavaria, southern Germany; pop. 128,500 (1991).

wushu /wuːˈʃuː/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the Chinese martial arts.
– ORIGIN from Chinese wǔshù, from wǔ 'military' + shù 'art'.

wuss /wʊs/ ▶ noun informal a weak or ineffectual person (often used as a general term of abuse).
– DERIVATIVES wussy noun (pl. -ies) & adjective.
– ORIGIN late 20th cent. (originally North American slang): of unknown origin.

Wuxi /wuːˈʃiː/ (also Wu-hsi) a city on the Grand Canal in Jiangsu province, eastern China; pop. 930,000 (est. 1990).

wuz /wʌz/ ▶ verb non-standard spelling of WAS, representing dialect or informal pronunciation.

WV ▶ abbreviation for West Virginia (in official postal use).

W.Va ▶ abbreviation for West Virginia.

WWF ▶ abbreviation for ■ World Wide Fund for Nature. ■ World Wrestling Federation.

WWI ▶ abbreviation for World War I.

WWII ▶ abbreviation for World War II.

WWW ▶ abbreviation for World Wide Web.

WY ▶ abbreviation for Wyoming (in official postal use).

Wyandot /ˈwʌɪəndɒt/ (also Wyandotte) ▶ noun 1 a member of an American Indian community formed by Huron-speaking peoples, originally in Ontario, now living mainly in Oklahoma and Quebec.
2 [mass noun] the extinct Iroquoian language of this people.
3 (usu. Wyandotte) a domestic chicken of a medium-sized American breed.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Wyandot people or their language.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from French Ouendat, from Huron Wendat.

Wyatt[1] /ˈwʌɪət/, James (1746–1813), English architect. He was both a neoclassicist and a leading figure in the Gothic revival, the latter seen most notably in his design for Fonthill Abbey in Wiltshire (1796–1807).

Wyatt[2] /ˈwʌɪət/, Sir Thomas (1503–42), English poet. He went to Italy (1527) as a diplomat in the service of Henry VIII; this visit probably stimulated his translation of Petrarch. His work also includes sonnets, rondeaux, songs for the lute, and satires.

wych elm /wɪtʃ/ (also witch elm) ▶ noun a European elm with large rough leaves, chiefly growing in woodland or near flowing water.
• Ulmus glabra, family Ulmaceae.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: wych, used in names of trees with pliant branches, from Old English wic(e), apparently from a Germanic root meaning 'bend'; related to WEAK.

Wycherley /ˈwɪtʃəli/, William (*c.*1640–1716), English dramatist. His Restoration comedies are characterized by their acute examination of sexual morality and marriage conventions. Notable works: The Country Wife (1675).

wych hazel ▶ noun variant spelling of WITCH HAZEL.

Wyclif /ˈwɪklɪf/ (also Wycliffe), John (*c.*1330–84), English religious reformer. He criticized the wealth and power of the Church and upheld the Bible as the sole guide for doctrine; his teachings were disseminated by itinerant preachers and are regarded as precursors of the Reformation. Wyclif instituted the first English translation of the complete Bible. His followers were known as Lollards.

Wye a river which rises in the mountains of western Wales and flows 208 km (132 miles) generally south-eastwards, entering the Severn estuary at Chepstow. In its lower reaches it forms part of the border between Wales and England.

wye ▶ noun a support or other structure shaped like a Y, in particular:
■ N. Amer. a triangle of railway track, used for turning locomotives or trains. ■ (in plumbing) a short pipe with a branch joining it at an acute angle.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: the letter Y represented as a word.

Wykehamist /ˈwɪkəmɪst/ ▶ noun a past or present member of Winchester College.
▶ adjective of or relating to Winchester College.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from modern Latin Wykehamista, from the name of William of Wykeham (1324–1404), bishop of Winchester and founder of the college.

wyn /wɪn/ ▶ noun variant spelling of WEN[2].

wynd /wʌɪnd/ ▶ noun Scottish & N. English a narrow street or alley: [as name] Friars Wynd.
– ORIGIN Middle English: apparently from the stem of the verb WIND[2].

Wyndham /ˈwɪndəm/, John (1903–69), English writer of science fiction; pseudonym of John Wyndham Parkes Lucas Beynon Harris. His fiction often examines the psychological impact of catastrophe. Notable novels: The Day of the Triffids (1951), The Chrysalids (1955), and The Midwich Cuckoos (1957).

Wynette /wɪˈnɛt/, Tammy (1942–98), American country singer; born Tammy Wynette Pugh. Her unique lamenting voice brought her success with songs such as 'Apartment No. 9' (1966) and 'Stand by Your Man' (1968).

Wyo. ▶ abbreviation for Wyoming.

Wyoming /wʌɪˈəʊmɪŋ/ a state in the west central US; pop. 453,590 (1990); capital, Cheyenne. Acquired as part of the Louisiana Purchase in 1803, it became the 44th state of the US in 1890.
– DERIVATIVES Wyomingite noun.

WYSIWYG /ˈwɪzɪwɪg/ (also wysiwyg) ▶ adjective Computing denoting the representation of text on-screen in a form exactly corresponding to its appearance on a printout.
– ORIGIN 1980s: acronym from what you see is what you get.

wyvern /ˈwʌɪv(ə)n/ ▶ noun Heraldry a winged two-legged dragon with a barbed tail.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (denoting a viper): from Old French wivre, from Latin vipera.

Xx

X[1] (also x) ▶ noun (pl. Xs or X's) 1 the twenty-fourth letter of the alphabet.
■ denoting the next after W in a set of items, categories, etc. ■ denoting an unknown or unspecified person or thing: there is nothing in the data to tell us whether X causes Y or Y causes X. ■ (x) (used in describing play in bridge) denoting an unspecified card other than an honour. ■ (usu. x) the first unknown quantity in an algebraic expression, usually the independent variable. [ORIGIN: the introduction of x, y, and z as symbols of unknown quantities is due to Descartes (Géométrie, 1637), who took z as the first unknown and then proceeded backwards in the alphabet.] ■ (usu. x) denoting the principal or horizontal axis in a system of coordinates: [in combination] the x-axis.
2 a cross-shaped written symbol, in particular:
■ used to indicate a position on a map or diagram. ■ used to indicate a mistake or incorrect answer. ■ used in a letter or message to symbolize a kiss. ■ used to indicate one's vote on a ballot paper. ■ used in place of the signature of a person who cannot write.
3 a shape like that of a letter X: two wires in the form of an X | [in combination] an X-shaped cross.
4 the Roman numeral for ten.

X[2] ▶ symbol for films classified as suitable for adults only (replaced in the UK in 1983 by 18, and in the US in 1990 by NC-17).

-x ▶ suffix forming the plural of many nouns ending in -u taken from French: tableaux.
– ORIGIN from French.

X-acto knife /ɪg'zaktəʊ/ ▶ noun N. Amer. trademark a utility knife with a very sharp replaceable blade.
– ORIGIN 1940s: respelling of the adjective EXACT + -O.

Xanadu /'zanədu:/ ▶ noun (pl. Xanadus) used to convey an impression of a place as almost unattainably luxurious or beautiful: three architects and a planner combine to create a Xanadu.
– ORIGIN alteration of Shang-tu, the name of an ancient city in SE Mongolia, as portrayed in Coleridge's poem Kubla Khan (1816).

Xanax /'zanaks/ ▶ noun trademark for ALPRAZOLAM.

Xankändi /ˌxɑ:nkən'di:/ the capital of Nagorno-Karabakh in southern Azerbaijan; pop. 58,000 (1990). Russian name STEPANAKERT.

xanthan gum /'zanθan/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a substance produced by bacterial fermentation or synthetically and used in foods as a gelling agent and thickener. It is polysaccharide composed of glucose, mannose, and glucuronic acid.
– ORIGIN 1960s: from the modern Latin name of the bacterium Xanthomonas campestris + -AN.

xanthene /'zanθi:n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a yellowish crystalline compound, whose molecule contains two benzene rings joined by a methylene group and an oxygen atom, and whose derivatives include brilliant, often fluorescent dyes such as fluorescein and rhodamines.
● Chem. formula: $C_{13}H_{10}O$.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek xanthos 'yellow' + -ENE.

Xanthian Marbles /'zanθɪən/ sculptures found in 1838 at the site of the ancient Lycian town of Xanthus (now in Turkey), which are now in the British Museum. The figures are Assyrian in character and are believed to have been executed before 500 BC.

xanthic acid /'zanθɪk/ ▶ noun Chemistry an organic acid containing the group —OCS_2H, examples of which are typically reactive solids.
– DERIVATIVES xanthate /'zanθeɪt/ noun.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: xanthic from Greek xanthos 'yellow' + -IC.

xanthine /'zanθi:n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a crystalline compound found in blood and urine which is an intermediate in the metabolic breakdown of nucleic acids to uric acid.
● A purine derivative; chem. formula: $C_5H_4N_4O_2$.
■ [count noun] any of the derivatives of this, including caffeine and related alkaloids.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from xanthic (from Greek xanthos 'yellow' + -IC) + -INE[4].

Xanthippe /zan'θɪpi/ (also Xantippe /-'tɪpi/) (5th century BC), wife of the philosopher Socrates. Her allegedly bad-tempered behaviour towards her husband has made her proverbial as a shrew.

xanthoma /zan'θəʊmə/ ▶ noun (pl. xanthomas or xanthomata /-mətə/) Medicine an irregular yellow patch or nodule on the skin, caused by deposition of lipids.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Greek xanthos 'yellow' + -IC + -OMA.

xanthophyll /'zanθə(ʊ)fɪl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a yellow or brown carotenoid plant pigment which causes the autumn colours of leaves.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Greek xanthos 'yellow' + phullon 'leaf'.

Xavier, St Francis /'zavɪə, 'zeɪv-/ (1506–52), Spanish Catholic missionary; known as the Apostle of the Indies. One of the original seven Jesuits, from 1540 he travelled to southern India, Sri Lanka, Malacca, the Moluccas, and Japan, making thousands of converts. Feast day, 3 December.

X chromosome ▶ noun Genetics (in humans and other mammals) a sex chromosome, two of which are normally present in female cells (designated XX) and only one in male cells (designated XY). Compare with Y CHROMOSOME.

xd ▶ abbreviation for ex dividend.

Xe ▶ symbol for the chemical element xenon.

xebec /'zi:bɛk/ (also zebec) ▶ noun historical a small three-masted Mediterranean sailing ship with lateen and square sails.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: alteration (influenced by Spanish xabeque) of French chebec, via Italian from Arabic šabbāk.

Xenakis /zɛ'nɑ:kɪs/, Iannis (b.1922), French composer and architect, of Greek descent. He is noted for his use of electronic and aleatory techniques in music.

Xenarthra /zɛ'nɑ:θrə/ Zoology an order of mammals that comprises the edentates. Also called EDENTATA.
– DERIVATIVES xenarthran noun & adjective.
– ORIGIN modern Latin (plural), from XENO- 'strange' + Greek arthron 'joint' (because of the peculiar accessory articulations in the vertebrae).

xeno- ▶ combining form relating to a foreigner or foreigners: xenophobia.
■ other; different in origin: xenograft.
– ORIGIN from Greek xenos 'stranger, foreigner', (adjective) 'strange'.

xenobiotic /ˌzɛnə(ʊ)bʌɪ'ɒtɪk/ ▶ adjective relating to or denoting a substance, typically a synthetic chemical, that is foreign to the body or to an ecological system.
▶ noun (usu. xenobiotics) a substance of this kind.

xenocryst /'zɛnə(ʊ)krɪst/ ▶ noun Geology a crystal in an igneous rock which is not derived from the original magma.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from XENO- 'foreign' + CRYSTAL.

xenogamy /zɛ'nɒgəmi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Botany fertilization of a flower by pollen from a flower on a genetically different plant. Compare with GEITONOGAMY.
– DERIVATIVES xenogamous adjective.

xenogeneic /ˌzɛnə(ʊ)dʒɪ'ni:ɪk, -'neɪɪk/ ▶ adjective Immunology denoting, relating to, or involving tissues or cells belonging to individuals of different species. Compare with ALLOGENEIC.

xenograft ▶ noun a tissue graft or organ transplant from a donor of a different species from the recipient.

xenolith /'zɛnə(ʊ)lɪθ/ ▶ noun Geology a piece of rock within an igneous mass which is not derived from the original magma but has been introduced from elsewhere, especially the surrounding country rock.

xenon /'zɛnɒn, 'zi:-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the chemical element of atomic number 54, a member of the noble gas series. It is obtained by distillation of liquid air, and is used in some specialized electric lamps. (Symbol: Xe) – ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek, neuter of xenos 'strange'.

Xenophanes /zɛ'nɒfəni:z/ (*c.*570–*c.*480 BC), Greek philosopher. A member of the Eleatic school, he argued for a form of pantheism, criticizing belief in anthropomorphic gods.

xenophobia ▶ noun [mass noun] intense or irrational dislike or fear of people from other countries.
– DERIVATIVES xenophobe noun, xenophobic adjective.

Xenophon /'zɛnəfə(ə)n/ (*c.*435–*c.*354 BC), Greek historian, writer, and military leader. From 401 he fought with Cyrus the Younger against Artaxerxes II, and led an army of 10,000 Greek mercenaries in their retreat of about 1,500 km (900 miles) after Cyrus was killed; the campaign and retreat are recorded in the Anabasis. Other notable writings include the Hellenica, a history of Greece.

Xenopus /'zɛnəpəs/ ▶ noun the African clawed toad, much used in embryological research and formerly in pregnancy testing, as it produces eggs in response to substances in the urine of a pregnant woman.
● Xenopus laevis, family Pipidae.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: modern Latin, from XENO- 'strange' + Greek pous 'foot'.

xenotime /'zɛnə(ʊ)tʌɪm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a yellowish-brown mineral which occurs in some igneous rocks and consists of a phosphate of yttrium and other rare-earth elements.

• Composition: native yttrium phosphate.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from XENO-, apparently erroneously for Greek kenos 'vain, empty', + timē 'honour' (because it was wrongly supposed to contain a new metal).

xenotransplantation ▶ noun [mass noun] the process of grafting or transplanting organs or tissues between members of different species.
– DERIVATIVES xenotransplant noun.

xeric /ˈzɪərɪk, ˈzɛ-/ ▶ adjective Ecology (of an environment or habitat) containing little moisture; very dry. Compare with HYDRIC and MESIC[1].
– ORIGIN 1920s: from XERO- 'dry' + -IC.

xeriscape /ˈzɪərɪskeɪp, ˈzɛ-/ chiefly US ▶ noun [mass noun] a style of landscape design requiring little or no irrigation or other maintenance, used in arid regions.
■ [count noun] a garden or landscape created in such a style.
▶ verb [with obj.] landscape (an area) in such a style.
– ORIGIN 1980s: from XERIC + -SCAPE.

xero- /ˈzɪərəʊ, ˈzɛrəʊ/ ▶ combining form dry: xeroderma | xerophyte.
– ORIGIN from Greek xēros 'dry'.

xeroderma /ˌzɪərə(ʊ)ˈdəːmə, ˌzɛ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] any of various diseases characterized by extreme dryness of the skin, especially a mild form of ichthyosis.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: modern Latin, from XERO- 'dry' + Greek derma 'skin'.

xeroderma pigmentosum /ˌpɪgmɛnˈtəʊsəm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a rare hereditary defect of the enzyme system that repairs DNA after damage from ultraviolet rays, resulting in extreme sensitivity to sunlight and a tendency to develop skin cancer.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: pigmentosum, neuter of Latin pigmentosus 'pigmented'.

xerography ▶ noun [mass noun] a dry copying process in which black or coloured powder adheres to parts of a surface remaining electrically charged after being exposed to light from an image of the document to be copied.
– DERIVATIVES xerographic adjective, xerographically adverb.

xerophilous /zɪəˈrɒfɪləs, zɛ-/ ▶ adjective Botany & Zoology (of a plant or animal) adapted to a very dry climate or habitat, or to conditions where moisture is scarce.
– DERIVATIVES xerophile noun.

xerophthalmia /ˌzɪərɒfˈθalmɪə, ˌzɛ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine abnormal dryness of the conjunctiva and cornea of the eye, with inflammation and ridge formation, typically associated with vitamin A deficiency.

xerophyte /ˈzɪərə(ʊ)fʌɪt, ˈzɛ-/ ▶ noun Botany a plant which needs very little water.
– DERIVATIVES xerophytic adjective.

Xerox /ˈzɪərɒks, ˈzɛ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] trademark a xerographic copying process.
■ [count noun] a copy made using such a process. ■ [count noun] a machine for copying by xerography.
▶ verb (xerox) [with obj.] copy (a document) by such a process.
– ORIGIN 1950s: an invented name, based on XEROGRAPHY.

Xerxes I /ˈzəːksɪːz/ (*c.*519–465 BC), son of Darius I, king of Persia 486–465. His invasion of Greece achieved victories in 480 at Artemisium and Thermopylae, but defeats at Salamis (480) and Plataea (479) forced him to withdraw.

x-height ▶ noun the height of a lower-case x, considered characteristic of a given typeface or script.

Xhosa /ˈkəʊsə, ˈkɔːsə/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Xhosas) 1 a member of a South African people traditionally living in the Eastern Cape Province. They form the second largest ethnic group in South Africa after the Zulus.
2 [mass noun] the Bantu language of this people, related to Zulu and spoken by about 6 million people.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN from the stem of Xhosa umXhosa (plural amaXhosa).

xi /ksʌɪ, gzʌɪ, sʌɪ, zʌɪ/ ▶ noun the fourteenth letter of the Greek alphabet (Ξ, ξ), transliterated as 'x'.
■ (Xi) [followed by Latin genitive] Astronomy the fourteenth star in a specified constellation: Xi Cygni.
– ORIGIN Greek.

Xiamen /ʃɑːˈmɛn/ (also Hsia-men) a port in Fujian province, SE China; pop. 639,400 (1990). Also called AMOY.

Xian /ʃiːˈan/ (also Hsian or Sian) an industrial city in central China, capital of Shaanxi province; pop. 2,710,000 (1990). The city has been inhabited since the 11th century BC, having previously been the capital of the Han, Sui, and Tang dynasties. Former names CHANGAN, SIKING.

Xiang /ʃiːˈaŋ/ (also Hsiang) ▶ noun [mass noun] a dialect of Chinese spoken by about 36 million people, mainly in Hunan province.

Ximenes de Cisneros variant spelling of JIMÉNEZ DE CISNEROS.

Xingtai /ʃɪŋˈtʌɪ/ a city in NE China, situated to the south of Shijiazhuang in the province of Hebei; pop. 1,167,000 (1986).

Xingú /ʃɪŋˈguː/ a South American river, which rises in the Mato Grosso of western Brazil and flows 1,979 km (1,230 miles) generally northwards to join the Amazon delta.

Xining /ʃiːˈnɪŋ/ (also Hsining or Sining) a city in north central China, capital of Qinghai province; pop. 697,700 (1990).

Xinjiang /ʃɪnˈdʒjaŋ/ (also Sinkiang) an autonomous region of NW China, on the border with Mongolia and Kazakhstan; pop. 15,156,000 (1990); capital, Urumqi.

-xion ▶ suffix forming nouns such as fluxion.
– ORIGIN from Latin participial stems (see also -ION).

xiphisternum /ˌzɪfɪˈstəːnəm/ ▶ noun Anatomy the lowest part of the sternum; the xiphoid process.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Greek xiphos 'sword' + STERNUM.

xiphoid process /ˈzɪfɔɪd/ (also xiphoid cartilage) ▶ noun Anatomy the cartilaginous section at the lower end of the sternum, which is not attached to any ribs, and gradually ossifies during adult life.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent. (as xiphoid cartilage): xiphoid from Greek xiphoeidēs, from xiphos 'sword'.

X-irradiation ▶ noun [mass noun] irradiation with X-rays.

Xizang /ʃiːˈzaŋ/ Chinese name for TIBET.

XL ▶ abbreviation for extra large (as a clothes size).

Xmas /ˈkrɪsməs, ˈɛksməs/ ▶ noun informal term for CHRISTMAS.
– ORIGIN X representing the initial chi of Greek Khristos 'Christ'.

XMS ▶ abbreviation for extended memory system, a system for increasing the amount of memory available to a personal computer.

xoanon /ˈzəʊənɒn/ ▶ noun (pl. xoana /-nə/) (in ancient Greece) a primitive wooden image of a deity.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from Greek; related to xein 'carve'.

XOR ▶ noun another term for EXCLUSIVE OR.

X-rated ▶ adjective pornographic or indecent: there was some X-rated humour.
■ historical (of a film) given an X classification (see X[2]).

X-ray ▶ noun 1 an electromagnetic wave of high energy and very short wavelength (between ultraviolet light and gamma rays), which is able to pass through many materials opaque to light.
■ [as modifier] informal denoting an apparent or supposed faculty for seeing beyond an outward form: you didn't need X-ray eyes to know what was going on.
2 a photographic or digital image of the internal composition of something, especially a part of the body, produced by X-rays being passed through it and being absorbed to different degrees by different materials.
■ an act of photographing someone or something in this way: he will have an X-ray today | [mass noun] would you send her for X-ray?
3 a code word representing the letter X, used in radio communication.
▶ verb [with obj.] photograph or examine with X-rays: luggage bound for the hold is X-rayed.
– ORIGIN translation of German X-Strahlen (plural), from X- (because, when discovered in 1895, the nature of the rays was unknown) + Strahl 'ray'.

X-ray astronomy ▶ noun [mass noun] the branch of astronomy concerned with the detection and measurement of high-energy electromagnetic radiation emitted by celestial objects.

X-ray crystallography ▶ noun [mass noun] the study of crystals and their structure by means of the diffraction of X-rays by the regularly spaced atoms of crystalline materials.

X-ray fish ▶ noun a small almost transparent freshwater fish with an opaque body cavity. Native to South America, it is popular in aquaria.
• Pristella riddlei, family Characidae.

X-ray tube ▶ noun Physics a device for generating X-rays by accelerating electrons to high energies and causing them to strike a metal target from which the X-rays are emitted.

xu /suː/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a monetary unit of Vietnam, equal to one hundredth of a dong.
– ORIGIN Vietnamese, from French sou.

Xuzhou /ʃuːˈdʒəʊ/ (also Hsu-chou, Suchow) a city in Jiangsu province, eastern China; pop. 910,000 (est. 1990). Former name (1912–45) TONGSHAN.

xylem /ˈzʌɪləm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Botany the vascular tissue in plants which conducts water and dissolved nutrients upwards from the root and also helps to form the woody element in the stem. Compare with PHLOEM.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek xulon 'wood' + the passive suffix -ēma.

xylene /ˈzʌɪliːn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a volatile liquid hydrocarbon obtained by distilling wood, coal tar, or petroleum, and used in fuels and solvents, and in chemical synthesis.
• Alternative name: dimethylbenzene; chem. formula: $C_6H_4(CH_3)_2$; three isomers.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from XYLO- 'of wood' + -ENE.

xylitol /ˈzʌɪlɪtɒl/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a sweet-tasting crystalline alcohol derived from xylose, present in some plant tissues and used as an artificial sweetener in foods.
• Chem. formula: $CH_2OH(CHOH)_3CH_2OH$.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from XYLOSE + -ITE[1] + -OL.

xylo- /ˈzʌɪləʊ/ ▶ combining form of or relating to wood: xylophagous | xylophone.
– ORIGIN from Greek xulon 'wood'.

xylography /zʌɪˈlɒgrəfi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] rare the art of making woodcuts or wood engravings, especially by a relatively primitive technique.
– DERIVATIVES xylographic adjective.

xylophagous /zʌɪˈlɒfəgəs/ ▶ adjective Zoology (especially of an insect larva or mollusc) feeding on or boring into wood.

xylophone ▶ noun a musical instrument played by striking a row of wooden bars of graduated length with one or more small wooden or plastic beaters.
– DERIVATIVES xylophonic adjective, xylophonist noun /zʌɪˈlɒfənɪst/.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from XYLO- 'of wood' + -PHONE.

xylose /ˈzʌɪləʊz, -s/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a sugar of the pentose class which occurs widely in plants, especially as a component of hemicelluloses.

xystus /ˈzɪstəs/ ▶ noun (pl. xysti /-tʌɪ/) 1 (in ancient Greece) a long portico used by athletes for exercise.
2 (in ancient Rome) a garden walk or terrace.
– ORIGIN Latin, from Greek xustos 'smooth', from xuein 'to scrape'.

Yy

Y[1] (also y) ▶ noun (pl. Ys or Y's) 1 the twenty-fifth letter of the alphabet.
■ denoting the next after X in a set of items, categories, etc. ■ denoting a second unknown or unspecified person or thing: the claim that chemical X causes birth defect Y. ■ (usu. y) the second unknown quantity in an algebraic expression, usually the dependent variable. [ORIGIN: the introduction of x, y, and z as symbols of unknown quantities is due to Descartes (see X[1]).] ■ (usu. y) denoting the secondary or vertical axis in a system of coordinates: [in combination] the y-axis.
2 (Y) a shape like that of a capital Y: [in combination] rows of tiny Y-shaped motifs.

Y[2] ▶ abbreviation for ■ yen: Y140. ■ N. Amer. informal a YMCA or YWCA hostel: Scott was living at the Y.
▶ symbol for the chemical element yttrium.

y ▶ abbreviation for year(s): orbital period (Pluto): 248.5y.

-y[1] ▶ suffix forming adjectives: 1 (from nouns and adjectives) full of; having the quality of: messy | milky | mousy.
■ with depreciatory reference: boozy | tinny.
2 (from verbs) inclined to; apt to: sticky.
– ORIGIN Old English -ig, of Germanic origin.

-y[2] (also -ey or -ie) ▶ suffix forming diminutive nouns, pet names, etc.: aunty | Tommy | nightie.
■ forming verbs: shinny.
– ORIGIN Middle English: originally Scots.

-y[3] ▶ suffix forming nouns: 1 denoting a state, condition, or quality: honesty | jealousy | orthodoxy.
2 denoting an action or its result: blasphemy | victory.
– ORIGIN from French -ie, from Latin -ia, -ium, or Greek -eia, -ia.

ya /jə, jɑ/ ▶ pronoun & possessive determiner non-standard spelling of YOU or YOUR, used to represent informal or US pronunciation.

yaar /jɑː/ ▶ noun Indian informal a friendly form of address.
– ORIGIN via Hindi from Arabic yar.

yabber ▶ verb [no obj.] informal chatter.
– ORIGIN probably from Wuywurung (an Aboriginal language).

yabby (also yabbie) ▶ noun (pl. -ies) Austral. a small freshwater crayfish.
● Genus Charax, infraorder Astacidea, in particular the common C. destructor.
■ another term for NIPPER (in sense 4).
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Wemba-wemba (an Aboriginal language).

yacht /jɒt/ ▶ noun a medium-sized sailing boat equipped for cruising or racing.
■ [with modifier] a powered boat or small ship equipped for cruising, typically for private or official use: a steam yacht.
▶ verb [no obj.] race or cruise in a yacht.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: from early modern Dutch jaghte, from jaghtschip 'fast pirate ship', from jag(h)t 'hunting' + schip 'ship'.

yachtie ▶ noun informal a yachtsman or yachtswoman.

yachting ▶ noun [mass noun] the sport or pastime of racing or sailing in yachts.

yachtsman ▶ noun (pl. -men) a man who sails yachts.

yachtswoman ▶ noun (pl. -women) a woman who sails yachts.

yack ▶ noun & verb variant spelling of YAK[2].

yacker ▶ noun variant spelling of YAKKA.

yackety-yak ▶ noun & verb another term for YAK[2].
– ORIGIN 1950s: imitative.

yaffle ▶ noun dialect another term for GREEN WOODPECKER.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: imitative of its call.

Yafo /ˈjɑːfɔː/ Hebrew name for JAFFA[1].

yag ▶ noun a synthetic crystal of yttrium aluminium garnet, used in certain lasers and as an imitation diamond in jewellery.
– ORIGIN 1960s: acronym from ytrium aluminium garnet.

yagé /ˈjɑːʒeɪ/ ▶ noun another term for AYAHUASCA.
– ORIGIN 1920s: from American Spanish.

Yagi antenna /ˈjɑːgi/ (also Yagi aerial) ▶ noun a highly directional radio aerial made of several short rods mounted across an insulating support and transmitting or receiving a narrow band of frequencies.
– ORIGIN 1940s: named after Hidetsugu Yagi (1886–1976), Japanese engineer.

yagna /ˈjʌgnəː, -nɪə/ ▶ noun variant spelling of YAJNA.

yah[1] ▶ exclamation yes (used in representations of upper-class speech): we can go right now, ok, yah.

yah[2] ▶ exclamation expressing derision: yah, you missed!
– ORIGIN natural exclamation: first recorded in English in the early 17th cent.

yah[3] ▶ pronoun non-standard spelling of YOU, used in representing informal or dialectal speech.

yahoo[1] /ˈjɑːhuː, jəˈhuː/ ▶ noun informal a rude, noisy, or violent person.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: from the name of an imaginary race of brutish creatures in Swift's Gulliver's Travels (1726).

yahoo[2] /jɑːˈhuː, jɑ-/ ▶ exclamation expressing great joy or excitement: yahoo—my plan worked!
– ORIGIN natural exclamation: first recorded in English in the 1970s.

yahrzeit /ˈjɑːtsʌɪt/ ▶ noun (among Jews) the anniversary of someone's death, especially a parent's.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: Yiddish, literally 'anniversary time'.

Yahweh /ˈjɑːweɪ/ (also Yahveh /-veɪ/) ▶ noun a form of the Hebrew name of God used in the Bible. The name came to be regarded by Jews (*c.*300 BC) as too sacred to be spoken, and the vowel sounds are uncertain.
– ORIGIN from Hebrew YHWH with added vowels; compare with JEHOVAH.

Yahwist /ˈjɑːwɪst/ (also Yahvist /-vɪst/) ▶ noun the postulated author or authors of parts of the first six books of the Bible, in which God is regularly named Yahweh. Compare with ELOHIST.

yajna /ˈjʌgnəː, -nɪə/ (also yagna) ▶ noun Hinduism a ritual sacrifice with a specific objective.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit yajña 'worship, sacrifice'.

Yajur Véda /jʌdʒʊə ˈveɪdə, -ˈviːdə/ Hinduism one of the four Vedas, based on a collection of sacrificial formulae in early Sanskrit used in the Vedic religion by the priest in charge of sacrificial ritual.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit yajus 'sacrificial formula' and VEDA.

yak[1] ▶ noun a large domesticated wild ox with shaggy hair, humped shoulders, and large horns, used in Tibet as a pack animal and for its milk, meat, and hide.
● Genus Bos, family Bovidae; the domesticated B. grunniens, descended from the wild B. mutus, which is still found rarely at high altitude.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Tibetan gyag.

yak[2] (also yack or yackety-yak) informal ▶ noun [in sing.] a trivial or unduly persistent conversation.
▶ verb (yakked, yakking) [no obj.] talk at length about trivial or boring subjects.
– ORIGIN 1950s: imitative.

yakitori /jakɪˈtɔːri/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a Japanese dish of chicken pieces grilled on a skewer.
– ORIGIN Japanese, from yaki 'grilling, toasting' + tori 'bird'.

yakka /ˈjakə/ (also yacker) ▶ noun [mass noun] Austral./NZ informal work, especially of a strenuous physical kind.
– ORIGIN from Jagara (an Aboriginal language of Queensland) yaga 'to work'.

Yakut /jaˈkʊt/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Yakuts) 1 a member of an indigenous people living in scattered settlements in northern Siberia.
2 [mass noun] the Turkic language of this people, which has some 300,000 speakers spread over 2 million square miles.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN via Russian from Yakut.

Yakutia /jaˈkʊtɪə/ an autonomous republic in eastern Russia; pop. 1,081,000 (1989); capital, Yakutsk. It is the coldest inhabited region of the world, with 40 per cent of its territory lying to the north of the Arctic Circle. Official name REPUBLIC OF SAKHA.

Yakutsk /jaˈkʊtsk/ a city in eastern Russia, on the Lena River, capital of the republic of Yakutia; pop. 187,000 (1990).

yakuza /jəˈkuːzə/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a Japanese gangster or racketeer.
– ORIGIN Japanese, from ya 'eight' + ku 'nine' + za 'three', referring to the worst hand in a gambling game.

Yale ▶ noun [often as modifier] trademark a type of lock with a latch bolt and a flat key with a serrated edge.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: named after Linus Yale Jr (1821–68), the American locksmith who invented the mechanism it uses.

Yale University a university at New Haven, Connecticut, one of the most prestigious in the US. It was founded in 1701.

Yalie /ˈjeɪli/ ▶ noun (pl. -ies) US informal a student or graduate of Yale University.

y'all /jɔːl/ ▶ contraction of you-all.

Yalta Conference /ˈjaltə/ a meeting between the Allied leaders Churchill, Roosevelt, and Stalin in February 1945 at Yalta, a Crimean port on the Black Sea. The leaders planned the final stages of the Second World War and agreed the subsequent territorial division of Europe.

Yalu /ˈjɑːluː/ a river of eastern Asia, which rises in the mountains of Jilin province in NE China and flows about 800 km (500 miles) generally south-westwards to the Yellow Sea, forming most of the border between China and North Korea.

yam ▶ noun 1 the edible starchy tuber of a climbing plant, widely distributed in tropical and sub-tropical countries.
2 the plant which yields this tuber.
● Genus Dioscorea, family Dioscoreaceae: many species.
3 N. Amer. a sweet potato.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Portuguese inhame or obsolete Spanish iñame, probably of West African origin.

Yama /ˈjɑmə/ (in Hindu mythology) the first man to die. He became the guardian, judge, and ruler of the dead, and is represented as carrying a noose and riding a buffalo.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit yama 'restraint' (from yam 'restrain').

Yamamoto /ˌjɑməˈməʊtəʊ/, Isoroku (1884–1943), Japanese admiral. As Commander-in-Chief of the Combined Fleet (air and naval forces) from 1939, he was responsible for planning the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor (1941).

Yamasaki /ˌjɑməˈsɑːki/, Minoru (1912–86), American architect. He designed the influential barrel-vaulted St Louis Municipal Airport Terminal (1956) and the World Trade Center in New York (1972).

Yamato-e /jəˈmatəʊˌeɪ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a style of decorative painting in Japan during the 12th and early 13th centuries, characterized by strong colour and flowing lines.
– ORIGIN Japanese, from Yamato 'Japan' + e 'picture'.

yam bean ▶ noun a Central American climbing plant of the pea family, which has been cultivated for its edible tubers (jicama) since pre-Columbian times.
● Pachyrhizus erosus, family Leguminosae.

yammer informal or dialect ▶ noun [mass noun] loud and sustained or repetitive noise: the yammer of their animated conversation | the yammer of enemy fire.
▶ verb [no obj.] make a loud repetitive noise.
■ talk volubly.
– DERIVATIVES yammerer noun.
– ORIGIN late Middle English (as a verb meaning 'lament, cry out'): alteration of earlier yomer, from Old English geōmrian 'to lament', suggested by Middle Dutch jammeren.

Yamoussoukro /ˌjɑmuːˈsuːkrəʊ/ the capital of the Ivory Coast; pop. 120,000 (est. 1986). It was designated as capital in 1983, replacing Abidjan.

Yamuna /ˈjʌmʊnə/ Hindi name for JUMNA.

Yancheng /jɑnˈtʃɛŋ/ (also Yen-cheng) a city in Jiangsu province, eastern China; pop. 1,265,000 (1986).

yandy Austral. ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [with obj.] separate (grass seed or a mineral) from the surrounding refuse by shaking it in a special shallow dish.
▶ noun (pl. -ies) a shallow dish used for such a process.
– ORIGIN from an Aboriginal word.

yang ▶ noun (in Chinese philosophy) the active male principle of the universe, characterized as male and creative and associated with heaven, heat, and light. Contrasted with YIN.
– ORIGIN from Chinese yáng 'male genitals', 'sun', 'positive'.

Yangon /jɑŋˈgɒn/ Burmese name for RANGOON.

Yangshao /jɑŋˈʃɑʊ/ ▶ noun [usu. as modifier] Archaeology a Neolithic civilization of northern China, dated to *c.*5000–2700 BC and preceding the Longshan period. It is marked by pottery painted with naturalistic designs of fish and human faces and abstract patterns of triangles, spirals, arcs, and dots.
– ORIGIN named after Yang Shao Cun, the first settlement of this period to be excavated (1921).

Yangtze /ˈjaŋtsi/ the principal river of China, which rises as the Jinsha in the Tibetan highlands and flows 6,380 km (3,964 miles) southwards then generally eastwards through central China, entering the East China Sea at Shanghai. Also called CHANG JIANG.

Yank ▶ noun informal 1 often derogatory a person who lives in, or is from, the US.
2 US another term for YANKEE (in sense 2).

yank informal ▶ verb [with obj.] pull with a jerk: her hair was yanked, and she screamed | [with obj. and adverbial] he yanked her to her feet | [no obj.] Liz yanked at her arm.
▶ noun [in sing.] a sudden hard pull: one of the other girls gave her ponytail a yank.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent. (as a Scots word in the sense 'sudden sharp blow'): of unknown origin.

Yankee ▶ noun informal 1 often derogatory another term for YANK (in sense 1).
2 US an inhabitant of New England or one of the northern states.
■ historical a Federal soldier in the Civil War.
3 a bet on four or more horses to win (or be placed) in different races.
4 (also Yankee jib) Sailing a large jib set forward of a staysail in light winds.
5 used in radio communication as a code word representing the letter Y.
– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: origin uncertain; recorded in the late 17th cent. as a nickname; perhaps from Dutch Janke, diminutive of Jan 'John'.

Yankee Doodle ▶ noun 1 (also Yankee Doodle Dandy) a song popular during the War of American Independence, now regarded as a national song.
2 another term for YANKEE (in senses 1 and 2).

Yanomami /ˌjɑnəˈmɑːmi/ (also Yanomamö /-ˌmɑːməʊ/) ▶ noun (pl. same) 1 a member of an American Indian people living mainly in the forests of southern Venezuela and northern Brazil.
2 [mass noun] either of the two related languages of this people.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN the name in Yanomami, literally 'people'.

Yanqui /ˈjaŋki/ ▶ noun variant spelling of YANKEE, typically used in Latin American contexts.

Yantai /janˈtʌɪ/ (also Yen-tai) a port on the Yellow Sea in Shandong province, eastern China; pop. 3,204,600 (1990). Former name (3rd century BC–15th century) CHEFOO.

yantra /ˈjantrə/ ▶ noun a geometrical diagram, or any object, used as an aid to meditation in tantric worship.
– ORIGIN Sanskrit, literally 'device for holding or fastening'.

Yao[1] /jaʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. same) 1 a member of an East African people living to the east and south of Lake Nyasa.
2 [mass noun] the Bantu language of this people, with over a million speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN the local name.

Yao[2] /jaʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. same) 1 a member of a mountain-dwelling people of the Guangxi, Hunan, Yunnan, Guangdong, and Guizhou provinces of China.
2 [mass noun] the language of this people. Also called MIEN.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN from Chinese Yáo, literally 'precious jade'.

Yaoundé /jɑˈʊndeɪ/ the capital of Cameroon; pop. 800,000 (est. 1992).

yap ▶ verb (yapped, yapping) [no obj.] give a sharp, shrill bark: the dachshunds yapped at his heels.
■ informal talk at length in an irritating manner.
▶ noun a sharp, shrill bark.
– DERIVATIVES yapper noun.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent. (denoting a dog that yaps): imitative.

yapok /ˈjapɒk/ ▶ noun a semiaquatic carnivorous opossum with dark-banded grey fur and webbed hind feet, native to tropical America. Also called WATER OPOSSUM.
● Chironectes minimus, family Didelphidae.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Oyapock, the name of a north Brazilian river.

yapp ▶ noun [mass noun] Brit. a form of bookbinding with a limp leather cover projecting to fold over the edges of the leaves, typically used for bibles.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after William Yapp, a London bookseller, for whom this style of binding was first made (*c.*1860).

yappy ▶ adjective (yappier, yappiest) informal (of a dog) inclined to bark in a sharp, shrill way.
■ inclined to talk foolishly or at length.

Yaqui /ˈjaki/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Yaquis) 1 a member of an American Indian people of NW Mexico and Arizona.
2 [mass noun] the Uto-Aztecan language of this people.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN Spanish, from earlier Hiaquis, from Yaqui Hiaki.

yarak /ˈjarak/ ▶ noun (in phrase in yarak) (of a trained hawk) fit and in a proper condition for hunting.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: perhaps from Persian yārakī 'strength, ability' or from Turkish yarağ 'readiness'.

yarborough /ˈjɑːb(ə)rə/ ▶ noun (in bridge or whist) a hand with no card above a nine.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: named after the Earl of Yarborough (died 1897), said to have bet 1000 to 1 against its occurrence.

yard[1] ▶ noun 1 (abbrev.: yd) a unit of linear measure equal to 3 feet (0.9144 metre).
■ (yards of) informal a great length: yards and yards of fine lace. ■ a square or cubic yard, especially of sand or other building materials.
2 a cylindrical spar, tapering to each end, slung across a ship's mast for a sail to hang from.
3 US informal one hundred dollars; a one hundred dollar note.
– PHRASES by the yard in large numbers or quantities: golf continues to inspire books by the yard.
– ORIGIN Old English gerd (in sense 2), of West Germanic origin; related to Dutch gard 'twig, rod' and German Gerte.

yard[2] ▶ noun 1 chiefly Brit. a piece of uncultivated ground adjoining a building, typically one enclosed by walls or other buildings.
■ an area of land used for a particular purpose or business: a builder's yard. ■ N. Amer. the garden of a house. ■ S. African a plot of land, or the grounds of a building, accommodating a number of small rooms which are let out as living space.
2 W. Indian a house and the land attached.
■ a residential compound in an urban area comprising a number of small rented dwellings around a shared open area. ■ (Yard) (especially among expatriate Jamaicans) home; Jamaica.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 N. Amer. store or transport (wood) in or to a timber yard.
2 put (farm animals) into an enclosure: sheep should be yarded even in the spring.
■ [no obj.] (of moose) gather as a herd for the winter.
– PHRASES the -Yard Brit. informal term for SCOTLAND YARD.
– ORIGIN Old English geard 'building, home, region', from a Germanic base related to Russian gorod 'town'. Compare with GARDEN and ORCHARD.

yardage ▶ noun 1 a distance or length measured in yards: the caddie was working out yardages from tee to green.
2 [mass noun] archaic the use of a yard for storage or the keeping of animals, or payment for such use.

yardang /ˈjɑːdaŋ/ ▶ noun a sharp irregular ridge of sand lying in the direction of the prevailing wind in exposed desert regions, formed by the wind erosion of adjacent material which is less resistant.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Turkish, ablative of yar 'steep bank'.

yardarm ▶ noun the outer extremity of a ship's yard.
– PHRASES the sun is over the yardarm dated used to refer to the time of day when it is permissible to begin drinking.

yardbird ▶ noun US informal 1 a new military recruit, especially one assigned to menial tasks.
2 a convict.
– ORIGIN 1940s: perhaps suggested by JAILBIRD.

Yardie /ˈjɑːdi/ informal ▶ noun (among Jamaicans) a fellow Jamaican.
■ (in the UK) a member of a Jamaican or West Indian gang of criminals.
▶ adjective [attrib.] of or characteristic of Jamaicans.
– ORIGIN 1980s: from Jamaican English, literally 'house, home'.

yardman ▶ noun (pl. -men) 1 a person working in a railway or timber yard.
2 US a person who does various outdoor jobs.

yard of ale ▶ noun Brit. the amount of beer (typically two to three pints) held by a narrow glass about a yard high.
■ a glass of this kind.

yard sale ▶ noun N. Amer. a sale of miscellaneous second-hand items held in the garden of a private house.

yardstick ▶ noun a measuring rod a yard long, typically divided into inches.
■ a standard used for comparison: league tables are not the only yardstick of schools' performance.

yare /jɛː/ ▶ adjective US (of a ship) moving lightly and easily; easily manageable.
– ORIGIN Old English gearu 'prepared, ready', of Germanic origin; related to Dutch gaar 'done, dressed' and German gar 'ready'.

yarmulke /ˈjɑːmʊlkə/ (also yarmulka) ▶ noun a skullcap worn in public by Orthodox Jewish men or during prayer by other Jewish men.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from Yiddish yarmolke.

yarn ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] spun thread used for knitting, weaving, or sewing.
2 informal a long or rambling story, especially one that is implausible.
■ Austral./NZ a chat.
▶ verb [no obj.] informal tell a long or implausible story: they were yarning about local legends and superstitions.
■ Austral./NZ chat; talk: he sat yarning to his mother.
– PHRASES spin a yarn see SPIN.
– ORIGIN Old English gearn; of Germanic origin, related to Dutch garen.

yarn-dyed ▶ adjective (of fabric) dyed as yarn, before being woven.

Yaroslavl /ˈjɑːrəsˌlɑːv(ə)l/ a port in European Russia, on the River Volga north-east of Nizhni Novgorod; pop. 636,000 (1990).

yarraman /ˈjarəmən/ ▶ noun (pl. yarramans or yarramen /-mɛn/) Austral. a horse.
– ORIGIN probably from an Aboriginal root meaning 'teeth'.

yarran /ˈjarən/ ▶ noun a small Australian acacia with durable scented timber.
● Acacia omalophylla, family Leguminosae.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Kamilaroi (and related languages) yarraan.

yarrow ▶ noun a Eurasian plant with feathery leaves and heads of small white or pale pink aromatic flowers, which has long been used in herbal medicine. Also called MILFOIL.
● Achillea millefolium, family Compositae.
– ORIGIN Old English gearwe, of West Germanic origin; related to Dutch gerwe.

yashmak /ˈjaʃmak/ ▶ noun a veil concealing all of the face except the eyes, worn by some Muslim women in public.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: via Arabic from Turkish.

yataghan /ˈjatəgan/ ▶ noun chiefly historical a sword without a guard and typically with a double-curved blade, used in Muslim countries.
– ORIGIN from Turkish yatağan.

Yates's correction ▶ noun Statistics a correction for the discreteness of the data that is made in the chi-square test when the number of cases in any class is small and there is one degree of freedom.
– ORIGIN 1930s: named after Frank Yates (1902–94), English statistician.

yatra /ˈjɑːtrɑː/ ▶ noun Indian a procession or pilgrimage, especially one with a religious purpose.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit yātrā 'journey', from yā 'go'.

yatter informal ▶ verb [no obj.] talk incessantly; chatter.
▶ noun [mass noun] incessant talk.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: imitative, perhaps suggested by YAMMER and CHATTER.

yaupon /ˈjɔːpɒn/ (also yaupon holly) ▶ noun a North American holly, the leaves of which have emetic properties and were formerly used as a tea by American Indians.
● Ilex vomitoria, family Aquifoliaceae.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: a North American Indian word.

yautia /jaʊˈtiːə/ ▶ noun a tropical American plant of the arum family which is cultivated for its edible tubers.
● Genus Xanthosoma, family Araceae: several species, in particular the tannia.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: American Spanish, from Maya yaaj 'wound, poison' + té 'mouth' with reference to its caustic properties.

yaw ▶ verb [no obj.] (of a moving ship or aircraft) twist or oscillate about a vertical axis: [with adverbial of direction] the jet yawed sharply to the right.
▶ noun [mass noun] twisting or oscillation of a moving ship or aircraft about a vertical axis.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: of unknown origin.

yawl ▶ noun a two-masted fore-and-aft-rigged sailing boat with the mizzenmast stepped far aft so that the mizzen boom overhangs the stern.
■ historical a ship's jolly boat with four or six oars.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from Middle Low German jolle or Dutch jol, of unknown origin; compare with JOLLY[2].

yawn ▶ verb [no obj.] involuntarily open one's mouth wide and inhale deeply due to tiredness or boredom: he began yawning and looking at his watch.
■ [usu. as adj. yawning] be wide open: a yawning chasm.
▶ noun a reflex act of opening one's mouth wide and inhaling deeply due to tiredness or boredom.
■ informal a thing that is considered boring or tedious: a long period of your life is a yawn to everyone.
– DERIVATIVES yawningly adverb.
– ORIGIN Old English geonian, of Germanic origin, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin hiare and Greek khainein. Current noun senses date from the early 18th cent.

yawner ▶ noun informal a thing that is considered extremely boring: the game was a real yawner.

yawp ▶ noun a harsh or hoarse cry or yelp.
■ [mass noun] N. Amer. foolish or noisy talk.
▶ verb [no obj.] shout or exclaim hoarsely.
■ N. Amer. talk foolishly or noisily.
– DERIVATIVES yawper noun.
– ORIGIN Middle English (as a verb): imitative. The noun dates from the early 19th cent.

yaws ▶ plural noun [treated as sing.] a contagious disease of tropical countries, caused by a bacterium that enters skin abrasions and gives rise to small crusted lesions which may develop into deep ulcers. Also called FRAMBOESIA.
● The bacterium is the spirochaete Treponema pallidum subsp. pertenue.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: probably from Carib yaya, from a South American Indian language.

yay[1] /jeɪ/ ▶ exclamation informal expressing triumph, approval, or encouragement: Yay! Great, Julie!
– ORIGIN 1960s: perhaps an alteration of YEAH.

yay[2] /jeɪ/ (also yea) ▶ adverb informal, chiefly N. Amer. (with adjectives of measure) so; to this extent: I knew him when he was yay big.
■ to a considerable degree; much: yay later.
– ORIGIN 1960s: probably a variant of the adverb YEA[1].

Yayoi /ˈjɑːjɔɪ/ ▶ noun [usu. as modifier] Archaeology a Japanese culture following the Jomon period and dated to *c.*300 BC–AD 300. It was marked by the introduction of rice cultivation, and the appearance of large burial mounds has suggested the emergence of an increasingly powerful ruling class.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: Japanese, the name of a street in Tokyo where its characteristic pottery (chiefly wheel-made) was first discovered.

Yb ▶ symbol for the chemical element ytterbium.

Y chromosome ▶ noun Genetics (in humans and other mammals) a sex chromosome which is normally present only in male cells, which are designated XY. Compare with X CHROMOSOME.

yclept /ɪˈklɛpt/ ▶ adjective [predic.] archaic or humorous by the name of: a lady yclept Eleanora.
– ORIGIN Old English gecleopod, past participle of cleopian 'call', of Germanic origin.

yd ▶ abbreviation for yard (measure).

ye[1] ▶ pronoun [second person plural] archaic or dialect plural form of THOU[1]: gather ye rosebuds, while ye may.
– PHRASES ye gods! an exclamation of astonishment.
– ORIGIN Old English gē, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch gij and German ihr.

USAGE The history of the use of ye is complex. In the earliest period it was used only as the plural subjective form. In the 13th century it came to be used in the singular, equivalent to thou. In the 15th century, when you had become the dominant subjective form, ye came to be used as an objective singular and plural (equivalent to thee and you). Various uses survive in modern dialects.

ye[2] ▶ determiner pseudo-archaic term for THE: Ye Olde Cock Tavern.
– ORIGIN graphic variant; in late Middle English þ (see THORN) came to be written identically with y, so that the could be written ye. This spelling (usually y^{e}) was kept as a convenient abbreviation in handwriting down to the 19th cent., and in printers' types during the 15th and 16th cents., but it was never pronounced as 'ye'.

yea[1] archaic or formal ▶ adverb yes: she has the right to say yea or nay.
■ used for emphasis, especially to introduce a stronger or more accurate word than one just used: he was full, yea, crammed with anxieties.
▶ noun an affirmative answer: the British government would give the final yea or nay.
■ (in the US Congress) an affirmative vote.
– ORIGIN Old English gēa, gē, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch and German ja.

yea[2] ▶ adverb variant spelling of YAY[2].

Yeager /ˈjeɪgə/, Chuck (b.1923), American pilot; full name Charles Elwood Yeager. He became the first person to break the sound barrier when he piloted the Bell X-1 rocket research aircraft at high altitude to a level-flight speed of 670 mph in 1947.

yeah (also yeh) ▶ exclamation & noun non-standard spelling of YES, representing informal pronunciation.

yean /jiːn/ ▶ verb [with obj.] archaic (of a sheep or goat) give birth to (a lamb or kid).
– ORIGIN late Middle English: perhaps representing an Old English verb related to ēanian 'to lamb'.

year /jɪə, jɜː/ ▶ noun 1 the time taken by the earth to make one revolution around the sun.

The length of the year depends on the manner of calculation. For ordinary purposes the important period is the tropical year (also called astronomical year, equinoctial year, or solar year) which is the time between successive spring or autumn equinoxes, or winter or summer solstices, roughly 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, and 46 seconds in length. This period thus marks the regular cycle of the seasons. See also SIDEREAL YEAR, ANOMALISTIC YEAR.

2 (also calendar year or civil year) the period of 365 days (or 366 days in leap years) starting from the first of January, used for reckoning time in ordinary affairs.
■ a period of the same length as this starting at any point: the year starting July 1. ■ [with adj.] such a period regarded in terms of the quality of produce, typically wine: single-vineyard wine of a good year. ■ a similar period used for reckoning time according to other calendars: the Muslim year.
3 (one's years) one's age or time of life: she had a composure well beyond her years.
4 (years) informal a very long time; ages: it's going to take years to put that right.
5 a set of students grouped together as being of roughly similar ages, mostly entering a school or college in the same academic year: most of the girls in my year were leaving school at the end of the term.
– PHRASES in the year of grace (or Our Lord) —— in the year —— AD: he was murdered in the year of grace 1618. [ORIGIN: year of grace, suggested by medieval Latin anno gratiae, used by chroniclers.] —— of the year a person or thing chosen as outstanding in a specified field or of a specified kind in a particular year: the sports personality of the year. put years on (or take years off) someone make someone feel or look older (or younger). a year and a day the period specified in some legal matters to ensure the completion of a full year. the year dot see DOT[1]. year in, year out continuously or repeatedly over a period of years: they rented the same bungalow year in, year out.
– ORIGIN Old English gē(a)r, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch jaar and German Jahr, from an Indo-European root shared by Greek hōra 'season'.

yearbook ▶ noun an annual publication giving current information and listing events or aspects of the previous year, especially in a particular field: The Rugby Union Yearbook.
■ N. Amer. a book containing photographs of the senior class in a school or university and details of school activities in the previous year.

year class ▶ noun Zoology the individual animals of a particular species (especially a fish) that were born in any one year.

year end ▶ noun the end of the financial year.

yearling ▶ noun an animal (especially a sheep, calf, or foal) a year old, or in its second year.
■ a racehorse in the calendar year after its year of foaling.
▶ adjective [attrib.] 1 having lived or existed for a year; a year old: a yearling calf.

■of or relating to an animal that is a year old: the yearling market.

2 Finance denoting a bond issued by a local authority and redeemable after one year.

year-long ▶ adjective [attrib.] lasting for or throughout a year: his year-long battle with lung cancer.

yearly ▶ adjective & adverb happening or produced once a year or every year: [as adj.] yearly visits to Africa | [as adv.] rent was paid yearly.

– ORIGIN Old English gēarlic (see YEAR, -LY[1]).

yearn /jɔ:n/ ▶ verb [no obj.] have an intense feeling of loss or lack and longing for something: [with infinitive] they yearned to go home | [as noun yearning] he felt a yearning for the mountains.

■archaic be filled with compassion or warm feeling: no fellow spirit yearned towards her.

– DERIVATIVES yearner noun, yearningly adverb.

– ORIGIN Old English giernan, from a Germanic base meaning 'eager'.

year-on-year ▶ adjective (of figures, prices, etc.) as compared with the corresponding ones from a year earlier.

year-round ▶ adjective happening or continuing throughout the year: an indoor pool for year-round use.

years of discretion ▶ plural noun another term for AGE OF DISCRETION.

yeast ▶ noun [mass noun] a microscopic fungus consisting of single oval cells that reproduce by budding, and capable of converting sugar into alcohol and carbon dioxide.

● Genus Saccharomyces, subdivision Ascomycotina.

■a greyish-yellow preparation of this obtained chiefly from fermented beer, used as a fermenting agent, to raise bread dough, and as a food supplement. ■ [count noun] Biology any unicellular fungus that reproduces vegetatively by budding or fission, including forms such as candida that can cause disease.

– DERIVATIVES yeast-like adjective.

– ORIGIN Old English, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch gist and German Gischt 'froth, yeast', from an Indo-European root shared by Greek zein 'to boil'.

yeasty ▶ adjective (yeastier, yeastiest) of, resembling, or containing yeast: the yeasty smell of rising dough.

■figurative characterized by or producing upheaval or agitation; in a state of turbulence, typically a creative or productive one: the yeasty days of yesterday's revolution.

– DERIVATIVES yeastily adverb, yeastiness noun.

Yeats /jeɪts/, W. B. (1865–1939), Irish poet and dramatist; full name William Butler Yeats. His play The Countess Cathleen (1892) and his collection of stories The Celtic Twilight (1893) stimulated Ireland's theatrical, cultural, and literary revival. Notable poetry: The Tower (1928), containing 'Sailing to Byzantium' and 'Leda and the Swan', and The Winding Stair (1929). Nobel Prize for Literature (1923).

yech /jɛx, jɛk/ (also yecch) ▶ exclamation informal expressing aversion or disgust.

– DERIVATIVES yechy adjective.

– ORIGIN 1960s: imitative; compare with YUCK.

yeehaw (also yeehah) ▶ exclamation N. Amer. an expression of enthusiasm or exuberance, typically associated with cowboys or rural inhabitants of the southern US.

– ORIGIN natural exclamation: first recorded in American English in the 1970s.

yegg ▶ noun US informal a burglar or safe-breaker.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: of unknown origin.

yeh ▶ exclamation variant spelling of YEAH.

▶ pronoun non-standard spelling of YOU, used to represent various accents or dialects: are yeh all right, lads?

Yekaterinburg /jɛˌkatəˈri:nbə:g/ (also Ekaterinburg) an industrial city in central Russia, in the eastern foothills of the Urals; pop. 1,372,000 (1990). Former name (1924–91) SVERDLOVSK.

– ORIGIN named in honour of Ekaterina, the wife of Peter the Great, who founded the city in 1721.

Yekaterinodar /jəˌkatəˈri:nəˌdɑ:/ (also Ekaterinodar) former name (until 1922) for KRASNODAR.

Yekaterinoslav /jəˌkatəˈri:nəˌslɑ:f/ (also Ekaterinoslav) former name (1787–1926) for DNIPROPETROVSK.

Yelizavetpol /jəˌli:zəˈvjɛtpɒl/ (also Elizavetpol) former Russian name (1804–1918) for GĀNCĀ.

yell ▶ noun a loud, sharp cry, especially of pain, surprise, or delight; a shout.

■US an organized cheer, especially one used to support a sports team. ■ Brit. informal, dated an extremely amusing person or thing.

▶ verb [no obj.] give a loud, sharp cry: you heard me losing my temper and yelling at her.

– ORIGIN Old English g(i)ellan (verb), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch gillen and German gellen.

yellow ▶ adjective 1 of the colour between green and orange in the spectrum, a primary subtractive colour complementary to blue; coloured like ripe lemons or egg yolks: curly yellow hair.

■offensive having a naturally yellowish or olive skin (as used to describe Chinese or Japanese people). ■ denoting a warning of danger which is thought to be near but not actually imminent: he put Camp Visoko on yellow alert.

2 informal cowardly: he'd better get back there quick and prove he's not yellow.

■archaic showing jealousy or suspicion.

3 (of a book or newspaper) unscrupulously sensational: he based his judgement on headlines and yellow journalism.

▶ noun 1 [mass noun] yellow colour or pigment: the craft detonated in a blaze of red and yellow | [count noun] painted in vivid blues and yellows.

■yellow clothes or material: everyone dresses in yellow.

2 a yellow ball or piece in a game or sport, especially the yellow ball in snooker.

3 [with modifier] a moth or butterfly that is predominantly yellow in colour, in particular:

● a butterfly related to the brimstones and sulphurs (Eurema, Colias, and other genera, family Pieridae). See also CLOUDED YELLOW. ● a small European moth (several species in the family Geometridae).

4 (yellows) any of a number of plant diseases in which the leaves turn yellow, typically caused by viruses and transmitted by insects.

▶ verb [no obj.] become a yellow colour, especially with age: the cream paint was beginning to yellow | [as adj. yellowing] yellowing lace curtains | [as adj. yellowed] a yellowed newspaper cutting.

– PHRASES the yellow peril offensive the political or military threat regarded as being posed by the Chinese or by the peoples of SE Asia.

– DERIVATIVES yellowish adjective, yellowly adverb, yellowness noun, yellowy adjective.

– ORIGIN Old English geolu, geolo, of West Germanic origin; related to Dutch geel and German gelb, also to GOLD.

yellow archangel ▶ noun see ARCHANGEL (sense 2).

yellow arsenic ▶ noun another term for ORPIMENT.

yellowback ▶ noun historical a cheap novel in a yellow board binding.

yellow-belly ▶ noun informal 1 a coward.

2 any of number of animals with yellow underparts.

– DERIVATIVES yellow-bellied adjective.

yellow bile ▶ noun historical another term for CHOLER.

yellowbill ▶ noun any of a number of birds with yellow bills:

● the African yellow-billed duck (Anas undulata, family Anatidae). ● the African yellow-billed cuckoo (Ceuthmochares aereus, family Cuculidae). ● N. Amer. the black scoter (Melanitta nigra, family Anatidae).

Yellow Book an illustrated literary periodical published quarterly in the UK between 1894 and 1897, associated with the Aesthetic Movement. Often controversial, it contained contributions from writers including Max Beerbohm, Henry James, Edmund Gosse, Arnold Bennett, and H. G. Wells. The art editor was Aubrey Beardsley.

– ORIGIN so named because of its distinctive yellow binding.

yellow bunting ▶ noun another term for YELLOWHAMMER.

yellowcake ▶ noun [mass noun] impure uranium oxide obtained during processing of uranium ore.

– ORIGIN 1950s; so named because it is obtained as a yellow precipitate.

yellow card ▶ noun (in soccer and some other games) a yellow card shown by the referee to a player being cautioned. Compare with RED CARD.

▶ verb (yellow-card) [with obj.] (of the referee) caution (a player) by showing them a yellow card.

yellow dog ▶ noun N. Amer. 1 a dog, typically a mongrel, with yellowish fur.

2 informal a contemptible person or thing.

yellow earth ▶ noun [mass noun] a yellowish loess occurring in northern China.

yellow fever ▶ noun [mass noun] a tropical virus disease affecting the liver and kidneys, causing fever and jaundice and often fatal. It is transmitted by mosquitoes.

yellowfin (also yellowfin tuna) ▶ noun a widely distributed, commercially important tuna that has yellow anal and dorsal fins.

● Thunnus albacares, family Scombridae.

yellow flag ▶ noun 1 a ship's yellow or quarantine flag (denoting the letter Q), indicating a request for customs clearance when flown alone.

■Motor Racing a yellow flag used to signal to drivers that there is a hazard such as oil or a crashed car ahead.

2 a yellow-flowered iris which grows by water and in marshy places, native to Europe.

● Iris pseudacorus, family Iridaceae.

yellow ground ▶ noun [mass noun] Geology kimberlite that is exposed at the surface and has become yellow as a result of atmospheric oxidation.

yellowhammer ▶ noun a common Eurasian bunting, the male of which has a yellow head, neck, and breast.

● Emberiza citrinella, family Emberizidae (subfamily Emberizinae).

– ORIGIN mid 16th cent.: -hammer is perhaps from Old English amore (a kind of bird), possibly conflated with hama 'feathers'.

Yellowhammer State informal name for ALABAMA.

yellowhead ▶ noun a rare New Zealand songbird with a yellow head and underparts, found only on South Island.

● Mohoua ochrocephala, family Pachycephalidae (or Acanthizidae).

yellow jack ▶ noun archaic term for YELLOW FEVER.

yellow jacket ▶ noun N. Amer. informal a wasp or hornet.

yellow jasmine ▶ noun an ornamental climbing shrub with fragrant yellow flowers, native to the south-eastern US. Its rhizome yields the drug gelsemium.

● Gelsemium sempervirens, family Loganiaceae.

yellow jersey ▶ noun (in a cycling race involving stages) a yellow jersey worn each day by the rider who is ahead on time over the whole race to that point, and presented to the rider with the shortest overall time at the finish of the race.

Yellowknife /ˈjɛləʊnʌɪf/ the capital of the Northwest Territories in Canada, on the north shore of the Great Slave Lake; pop. 11,860 (1991).

yellowlegs ▶ noun a migratory sandpiper that resembles the greenshank but has yellowish legs, breeding in northern Canada.

● Genus Tringa, family Scolopacidae: two species.

yellow line ▶ noun (in the UK) a line painted along the side of the road in yellow to denote parking restrictions.

yellow metal ▶ noun [mass noun] a form of brass containing about 60 parts copper and 40 parts zinc, with a little lead.

Yellow Pages ▶ plural noun (trademark in the UK) a telephone directory, or a section of one, printed on yellow paper and listing businesses and other organizations according to the goods or services they offer.

yellow pepper ▶ noun a yellow variety of the sweet pepper.

yellow poplar ▶ noun North American term for TULIP TREE.

yellow rain ▶ noun [mass noun] a yellow substance reported as falling in SE Asia, alleged to be a chemical warfare agent but now believed to consist of bee droppings.

yellow rattle ▶ noun a partly parasitic yellow-flowered plant whose ripe seeds are shed into a pouch which rattles when shaken, found in both Europe and eastern North America.

● Rhinanthus minor, family Scrophulariaceae.

Yellow River the second largest river in China, which rises in the mountains of west central China and flows over 4,830 km (3,000 miles) in a huge semicircle before entering the gulf of Bo Hai. Chinese name HUANG HO.

Yellow Sea an arm of the East China Sea, separating the Korean peninsula from the east coast of China. Chinese name HUANG HAI.

yellow spot ▶ noun the region of greatest visual acuity around the fovea of the eye; the macula lutea (see MACULA).

yellow stainer (also yellow-staining mushroom) ▶ noun an inedible European mushroom with a whitish cap and purplish-brown gills, the flesh having an unpleasant smell and staining yellow when cut or bruised.
• Agaricus xanthodermus, family Agaricaceae, class Hymenomycetes.

Yellowstone National Park a national park in NW Wyoming and Montana. It contains Old Faithful, a geyser which erupts every 45 to 80 minutes to a height of about one hundred feet.

yellow-tail ▶ noun 1 (also yellow-tail moth) a white tussock moth with a tuft of yellow hairs on the tip of the abdomen. The caterpillars have irritant hairs and can be a pest of fruit trees.
• Euproctis similis, family Lymantriidae.
2 (usu. yellowtail) (pl. same or yellowtails) a marine fish which has yellow coloration on the tail, especially a fish of the jack family.
• Several species, especially of the genus Seriola, family Carangidae.

yellowthroat ▶ noun a small American warbler with a bright yellow throat.
• Genus Geothlypis, family Parulidae: several species.

yellow underwing ▶ noun an underwing moth which has yellow hindwings that are yellow with a black terminal band.
• Noctua and other genera, family Noctuidae: several species, including the large yellow underwing (N. pronuba), the larva of which is a destructive cutworm.

yellow-wood ▶ noun any of a number of trees which have yellowish timber or yield a yellow dye, in particular:
• a North American tree of the pea family (Cladrastis lutea, family Leguminosae). • a podocarp tree.

yellow-wort ▶ noun a European plant of the gentian family, with yellow flowers and paired leaves that are joined around the stem, growing in calcareous grassland.
• Blackstonia perfoliata, family Gentianaceae.

yelp ▶ noun a short sharp cry, especially of pain or alarm: she uttered a yelp as she bumped into a table.
▶ verb [no obj.] utter such a cry: my dogs were yelping as if badly hurt.
– DERIVATIVES yelper noun.
– ORIGIN Old English g(i)elpan (verb) 'to boast', from a Germanic imitative base. From late Middle English 'cry or sing with a loud voice' the current sense arose in the 16th cent.

Yeltsin /ˈjɛltsɪn/, Boris (Nikolaevich) (b.1931), Russian statesman, President of the Russian Federation since 1991. Impatient with the slow pace of Gorbachev's reforms, Yeltsin resigned from the Communist Party after becoming President of the Russian Soviet Federative Socialist Republic in 1990. As President of the independent Russian Federation he faced opposition to his reforms and in 1993 survived an attempted coup, but was re-elected in 1996.

Yemen /ˈjɛmən/ a country in the south and south-west of the Arabian peninsula; pop. 12,533,000 (est. 1991); official language, Arabic; capital, Sana'a.

An Islamic country since the mid 7th century, Yemen was part of the Ottoman Empire from the 16th century. It came under increasing British influence in the 19th century, and the port of Aden was developed as a British military base. After the Second World War civil war between royalist and republican forces ended with British withdrawal and the partition of the country (1967). South Yemen declared itself independent as the People's Democratic Republic of Yemen, the North becoming the Yemen Arab Republic. In 1990 the countries reunited to form the Republic of Yemen; in 1994 the South briefly seceded but was defeated in a short civil war.

– DERIVATIVES Yemeni adjective & noun.

Yemenite ▶ noun another term for Yemeni (see YEMEN).
■ a Jew who was, or whose ancestors were, formerly resident in Yemen.
▶ adjective of or relating to Yemeni Arabs or Jews.
– ORIGIN from Arabic yamanī 'Yemeni' + -ITE[1].

yen[1] ▶ noun (pl. same) the basic monetary unit of Japan.
– ORIGIN from Japanese en 'round'.

yen[2] informal ▶ noun [in sing.] a longing or yearning: [with infinitive] she always had a yen to be a writer.
▶ verb (yenned, yenning) [no obj.] feel a longing or yearning: it's no use yenning for the old simplicities.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent. (in the sense 'craving (of a drug addict) for a drug'): from Chinese yǎn.

Yen-cheng /jɛnˈtʃɛŋ/ variant of YANCHENG.

Yenisei /jɛnɪˈseɪ/ a river in Siberia, which rises in the mountains on the Mongolian border and flows 4,106 km (2,566 miles) generally northwards to the Arctic coast, emptying into the Kara Sea.

yenta /ˈyɛntə/ ▶ noun N. Amer. 1 a woman who is a gossip or busybody.
2 a vulgar person.
– ORIGIN 1920s: Yiddish, originally a given name.

Yen-tai /jɛnˈtaɪ/ variant of YANTAI.

yeoman /ˈjəʊmən/ ▶ noun (pl. -men) 1 historical a man holding and cultivating a small landed estate; a freeholder.
■ a person qualified for certain duties and rights, such as to serve on juries and vote for the knight of the shire, by virtue of possessing free land of an annual value of 40 shillings.
2 historical a servant in a royal or noble household, ranking between a sergeant and a groom or a squire and a page.
3 Brit. a member of the yeomanry force.
4 (also yeoman of signals) (in the Royal and other Commonwealth navies) a petty officer concerned with signalling.
■ a petty officer in the US navy performing clerical duties on board ship.
– PHRASES yeoman service efficient or useful help in need.
– DERIVATIVES yeomanly adjective.
– ORIGIN Middle English: probably from YOUNG + MAN.

Yeoman of the Guard ▶ noun a member of the British sovereign's bodyguard, first established by Henry VII, now having only ceremonial duties and wearing Tudor dress as uniform. Also called BEEFEATER.
■ used erroneously to refer to a Yeoman Warder.

yeomanry ▶ noun [treated as sing. or pl.] historical a group of men who held and cultivated small landed estates.
■ (in Britain) a volunteer cavalry force raised from such a group (1794–1908).

Yeoman Usher ▶ noun (in the UK) the deputy of Black Rod.

Yeoman Warder ▶ noun a warder at the Tower of London. Also called BEEFEATER.

yeow ▶ exclamation used to express pain or shock.
– ORIGIN natural exclamation: first recorded in American English in the 1920s.

yep (also yup) ▶ exclamation & noun non-standard spelling of YES, representing informal pronunciation.

yer /jə/ ▶ pronoun non-standard spelling of YOU, used in representing dialectal speech.
▶ possessive determiner non-standard spelling of YOUR, used in representing dialectal speech.
▶ contraction of you are, used in representing dialectal speech.

-yer ▶ suffix variant spelling of -IER especially after w (as in lawyer, sawyer).

yerba /ˈjɜːbə/ (also yerba maté /ˈmateɪ/) ▶ noun another term for MATÉ.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Spanish, literally 'herb'.

yerba buena /ˈbweɪnə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a trailing aromatic herb with whitish or lilac flowers, related to savory. Native to the western US, it has been used medicinally and as a local tea.
• Satureja douglasii, family Labiatae.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Spanish, literally 'good herb'.

Yerevan /jɛrɪˈvan/ (also Erevan) the capital of Armenia; pop. 1,202,000 (1990).

yes ▶ exclamation 1 used to give an affirmative response: 'Do you understand?' 'Yes.'
■ expressing agreement with a positive statement just made: 'That was a grand evening.' 'Yes, it was.'
■ expressing contradiction of a negative statement: 'You don't want to go.' 'Yes, I do.'
2 used as a response to someone addressing one or otherwise trying to attract one's attention: 'Oh, Mr Lawrence.' 'Yes?'
3 used to question a remark or ask for more detail about it: 'It should be easy to check.' 'Oh yes? How?'
■ asked at the end of a statement to indicate the expectation of agreement: you think I perhaps killed Westbourne, yes?
4 encouraging someone to continue speaking: 'When you bought those photographs ...' 'Yes?'
5 expressing delight: plenty to eat, including hot hamburger sandwiches (yes!).
▶ noun (pl. yeses or yesses) an affirmative answer or decision, especially in voting: answering with assured and ardent yeses.
– PHRASES yes and no partly and partly not: 'Did it come as a surprise to you?' 'Yes and no.'
– ORIGIN Old English gēse, gīse, probably from an unrecorded phrase meaning 'may it be so'.

yeshiva /jəˈʃiːvə/ ▶ noun an Orthodox Jewish college or seminary.
– ORIGIN from Hebrew yĕšībāh.

yes-man ▶ noun (pl. -men) informal a weak person who always agrees with their political leader or their superior at work.

yessir /ˈjɛsə, jɛsˈsɜː/ informal ▶ exclamation used to express assent, especially to a superior: 'Do you understand me?' 'Yessir!'
■ N. Amer. used to express emphatic affirmation: yessir the food was cheap.
▶ verb [with obj.] defer to (someone) as a superior, or indicate agreement to (someone): you're used to people yessirring you left and right.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: alteration of yes sir.

yessum /ˈjɛsəm/ ▶ exclamation US dated, chiefly black English used as a polite form of assent addressed to a woman: 'You feel all right?' she asked. 'Yessum.'
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: alteration of yes ma'am.

yester- ▶ combining form poetic/literary or archaic of yesterday: yestereve.
– ORIGIN Old English geostran, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch gisteren and German gestern 'yesterday', from an Indo-European root shared by Latin heri and Greek khthes.

yesterday ▶ adverb on the day before today: he returned to a hero's welcome yesterday.
■ in the recent past: everything seems to have been built yesterday.
▶ noun the day before today: yesterday was Tuesday.
■ the recent past: yesterday's best-sellers.
– PHRASES yesterday morning (or afternoon etc.) in the morning (or afternoon etc.) of yesterday. yesterday's man a man, especially a politician, whose career is finished or past its peak. yesterday's news a person or thing that is no longer of interest.
– ORIGIN Old English giestran dæg (see YESTER-, DAY).

yesteryear ▶ noun poetic/literary last year or the recent past, especially as nostalgically recalled: the snows of yesteryear have gone.

yet ▶ adverb 1 up until the present or a specified or implied time; by now or then: I haven't told anyone else yet | aren't you ready to go yet? | I have yet to be convinced | [with superlative] the congress was widely acclaimed as the best yet.
■ [with negative] as soon as the present or a specified or implied time: wait, don't go yet. ■ from now into the future for a specified length of time: I hope to continue for some time yet. ■ referring to something that will or may happen in the future: further research may yet explain the enigma | I know she's alive and I'll find her yet.
2 still; even (used to emphasize increase or repetition): snow, snow, and yet more snow | yet another diet book | the rations were reduced yet again.
3 nevertheless; in spite of that: every week she gets worse, and yet it could go on for years.
▶ conjunction but at the same time; but nevertheless: the path was dark, yet I slowly found my way.
– PHRASES as yet see AS[1]. nor yet and also not.
– ORIGIN Old English gīet(a), of unknown origin.

yeti /ˈjɛti/ ▶ noun a large hairy creature resembling a human or bear, said to live in the highest part of the Himalayas.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from Tibetan yeh-teh 'little manlike animal'.

yeuch /jɪəx, jɪˈəːx, jɪːʌx/ ▶ exclamation informal expressing disgust or strong distaste.
– ORIGIN 1970s: imitative.

Yevtushenko /jɛftʊˈʃɛŋkəʊ/, Yevgeni (Aleksandrovich) (b.1933), Russian poet. Third Snow

(1955) and Zima Junction (1956) were regarded as encapsulating the feelings and aspirations of the post-Stalin generation, and he incurred official hostility because of the outspoken nature of some of his poetry, notably Babi Yar (1961).

yew ▶ noun (also yew tree) a coniferous tree which has red berry-like fruits, and most parts of which are highly poisonous. Yews are linked with folklore and superstition and can live to a great age; the timber is used in cabinetmaking and (formerly) to make longbows.
• Genus Taxus, family Taxaceae: several species, in particular T. baccata of Europe.
– ORIGIN Old English tw, ēow, of Germanic origin.

yez ▶ pronoun non-standard spelling of YOUSE, used in representing dialectal speech.

Y-fronts ▶ plural noun Brit. trademark men's or boys' underpants with a branching seam at the front in the shape of an upside-down Y.

Yggdrasil /ˈɪgdrəsɪl/ Scandinavian Mythology a huge ash tree located at the centre of the earth, with three roots, one extending to Niflheim (the underworld), one to Jotunheim (land of the giants), and one to Asgard (land of the gods).
– ORIGIN from Old Norse yg(g)drasill, apparently from Yggr 'Odin' + drasill 'horse'.

YHA ▶ abbreviation for (in the UK) Youth Hostels Association.

yi ▶ pronoun non-standard spelling of YOU, used in representing Scottish speech.

Yichun /jiːˈtʃʊn/ (also I-chun) a city in Heilongjiang province, NE China; pop. 882,200 (1990).

Yid ▶ noun informal, offensive a Jew.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: back-formation from YIDDISH.

Yiddish /ˈjɪdɪʃ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a language used by Jews in central and eastern Europe before the Holocaust. It was originally a German dialect with words from Hebrew and several modern languages, and still has some 200,000 speakers, mainly in the US, Israel, and Russia.
▶ adjective of or relating to this language.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Yiddish yidish (daytsh) 'Jewish German'.

Yiddisher ▶ noun a person speaking Yiddish.

Yiddishism ▶ noun 1 a Yiddish word or idiom, especially one adopted into another language.
2 [mass noun] advocacy of Yiddish culture.
– DERIVATIVES Yiddishist noun (only in sense 2).

Yiddishkeit /ˈjɪdɪʃˌkaɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the quality of being Jewish; the Jewish way of life or its customs and practices.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Yiddish yidishkeyt.

yield ▶ verb 1 [with obj.] produce or provide (a natural, agricultural, or industrial product): the land yields grapes and tobacco.
■(of an action or process) produce or deliver (a result or gain): this method yields the same results. ■(of a financial or commercial process or transaction) generate (a specified financial return): such investments yield direct cash returns.
2 [no obj.] give way to arguments, demands, or pressure: the Western powers now yielded when they should have resisted | he yielded to the demands of his partners.
■[with obj.] relinquish possession of (something); give (something) up: they might yield up their secrets | they are forced to yield ground. ■[with obj.] cease to argue about: I yielded the point. ■give right of way to other traffic. ■(of a mass or structure) give way under force or pressure: he reeled into the house as the door yielded.
▶ noun the full amount of an agricultural or industrial product: the milk yield was poor.
■a financial return: an annual dividend yield of 20 per cent.
– DERIVATIVES yielder noun (usu. in sense 1).
– ORIGIN Old English g(i)eldan 'pay, repay', of Germanic origin. The senses 'produce, bear' and 'surrender' arose in Middle English.

yield curve ▶ noun Finance a curve on a graph in which the yield of fixed-interest securities is plotted against the length of time they have to run to maturity.

yield gap ▶ noun Finance the difference between the return on government-issued securities and that on ordinary shares.

yielding ▶ adjective 1 (of a substance or object) giving way under pressure; not hard or rigid: she dropped on to the yielding cushions.
■(of a person) complying with the requests or desires of others: a gentle, yielding person.
2 [in combination] giving a product or generating a financial return of a specified amount: higher-yielding wheat.
– DERIVATIVES yieldingly adverb.

yield point ▶ noun Physics the stress beyond which a material becomes plastic.

yield strength ▶ noun Physics (in materials that do not exhibit a well-defined yield point) the stress at which a specific amount of plastic deformation is produced, usually taken as 0.2 per cent of the unstressed length.

yield stress ▶ noun Physics the value of stress at a yield point or at the yield strength.

yikes ▶ exclamation informal expressing shock and alarm, often for humorous effect: I had a dip in the 40 degree pool (yikes!).
– ORIGIN 1970s: of unknown origin; compare with YOICKS.

yin ▶ noun (in Chinese philosophy) the passive female principle of the universe, characterized as female and sustaining and associated with earth, dark, and cold. Contrasted with YANG.
– ORIGIN from Chinese yīn 'feminine', 'moon', 'shade'.

Yinchuan /jɪnˈtʃwan/ the capital of Ningxia, an autonomous region of China, on the Yellow River; pop. 658,000 (est. 1986).

yip /jɪp/ ▶ noun a short, sharp cry or yelp, especially of excitement or delight.
▶ verb (yipped, yipping) [no obj.] give such a cry or yelp.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent. (originally US): imitative.

yippee ▶ exclamation expressing wild excitement or delight.
– ORIGIN natural exclamation: first recorded in American English in the 1920s.

yippie ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a member of a group of politically active hippies, originally in the US.
– ORIGIN 1960s: acronym from Youth International Party + the suffix -ie, suggested by HIPPY[1].

yips ▶ plural noun (the yips) informal extreme nervousness causing a golfer to miss easy putts.
– ORIGIN mid 20th cent.: of unknown origin.

Yishuv /jɪˈʃuːv, ˈjɪʃʊv/ the Jewish community or settlement in Palestine during the 19th century and until the formation of the state of Israel in 1948.
– ORIGIN from Hebrew yiššûḇ 'settlement'.

Yizkor /ˈjɪzkə/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Yizkors) a memorial service held by Jews on certain holy days for deceased relatives or martyrs.
– ORIGIN from Hebrew yizkōr, literally 'may (God) remember'.

-yl ▶ suffix Chemistry forming names of radicals: hydroxyl | phenyl.
– ORIGIN from Greek hulē 'wood, material'.

ylang-ylang /ˌiːlaŋˈiːlaŋ/ (also ilang-ilang) ▶ noun 1 [mass noun] a sweet-scented essential oil obtained from the flowers of a tropical tree, used in perfumery and aromatherapy.
2 the yellow-flowered tree, native to Malaya and the Philippines, from which this oil is obtained.
• Cananga odorata, family Annonaceae.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Tagalog ilang-ilang.

ylem /ˈiːlɛm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Astronomy (in the big bang theory) the primordial matter of the universe, originally conceived as composed of neutrons at high temperature and density.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from late Latin hylem (accusative) 'matter'.

ylid /ˈɪlɪd/ (also ylide /ˈɪlaɪd/) ▶ noun Chemistry a compound have an uncharged molecule containing a negatively charged carbon atom directly bonded to a positively charged atom of sulphur, phosphorus, nitrogen, or another element.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from -YL + -IDE.

YMCA ▶ noun a welfare movement with branches all over the world that began in London in 1844.
■a hostel run by this association.
– ORIGIN abbreviation of Young Men's Christian Association.

Ymir /ˈiːmə/ Scandinavian Mythology the primeval giant from whose body the gods created the world.

-yne ▶ suffix Chemistry forming names of unsaturated compounds containing a triple bond: ethyne.
– ORIGIN alteration of -INE[4].

Ynys Môn /ˌənɪs ˈmɔːn/ Welsh name for ANGLESEY.

yo[1] ▶ exclamation informal used to greet someone, attract their attention, or express excitement.
– ORIGIN natural exclamation: first recorded in late Middle English.

yo[2] ▶ pronoun non-standard spelling of YOU, used to represent black English.
▶ possessive determiner non-standard spelling of YOUR, used to represent black English.

yob ▶ noun Brit. informal a rude, noisy, and aggressive young man.
– DERIVATIVES yobbish adjective, yobbishly adverb, yobbishness noun, yobby adjective.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: back slang for BOY.

yobbery ▶ noun [mass noun] behaviour characteristic of a yob: yobbery seems to have replaced wit in politics.

yobbo ▶ noun (pl. -os or -oes) Brit. informal another term for YOB.

yock (also yok) ▶ noun US informal a laugh, especially a loud hearty one.
– ORIGIN 1930s (theatrical slang): probably imitative.

yocto- /ˈjɒktəʊ/ ▶ combining form (used in units of measurement) denoting a factor of 10^{-24}: yoctojoule.
– ORIGIN adapted from OCTO-, on the pattern of combining forms such as peta- and exa-.

yod /jɒd/ ▶ noun 1 the tenth and smallest letter of the Hebrew alphabet.
2 Phonetics the semivowel or glide /j/.
3 Astrology another term for FINGER OF GOD.
– ORIGIN from Hebrew yōḏ; related to yaḏ 'hand'.

yodel /ˈjəʊd(ə)l/ ▶ verb (yodelled, yodelling; US yodeled, yodeling) [no obj.] practise a form or singing or calling marked by rapid alternation between the normal voice and falsetto.
▶ noun a song, melody, or call delivered in such a way.
– DERIVATIVES yodeller noun.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from German jodeln.

yoga ▶ noun [mass noun] a Hindu spiritual and ascetic discipline, a part of which, including breath control, simple meditation, and the adoption of specific bodily postures, is widely practised for health and relaxation.

The yoga widely known in the West is based on hatha yoga, which forms one aspect of the ancient Hindu system of religious and ascetic observance and meditation, the highest form of which is raja yoga and the ultimate aim of which is spiritual purification and self-understanding leading to samadhi or union with the divine.

– DERIVATIVES yogic adjective.
– ORIGIN Sanskrit, literally 'union'.

yogh /jɒg/ ▶ noun a Middle English letter (ȝ) used mainly where modern English has gh and y.
– ORIGIN Middle English: of unknown origin.

yogi ▶ noun (pl. yogis) a person who is proficient in yoga.
– ORIGIN from Sanskrit yogī, from yoga (see YOGA).

yogic flying ▶ noun [mass noun] a technique used chiefly by Transcendental Meditation practitioners which involves thrusting oneself off the ground while in the lotus position.

yogurt /ˈjɒgət, ˈjəʊ-/ (also yoghurt or yoghourt) ▶ noun [mass noun] a semi-solid sourish food prepared from milk fermented by added bacteria.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Turkish yoğurt.

Yogyakarta /jɒgjəˈkɑːtə/ (also Jogjakarta) a city in south central Java, Indonesia; pop. 412,000 (1990). It was formerly the capital of Indonesia (1945–9).

yo-heave-ho ▶ exclamation & noun another term for HEAVE-HO.

yohimbe /jəʊˈhɪmbeɪ/ ▶ noun a tropical West African tree from which the drug yohimbine is obtained.
• Pausinystalia johimbe, family Rubiaceae.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: a local word.

yohimbine /jəʊˈhɪmbiːn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chemistry a toxic crystalline compound obtained from the bark of the yohimbe tree, used as an adrenergic blocking agent and also as an aphrodisiac in the treatment of impotence.
• An alkaloid; chem. formula: $C_{21}H_{26}O_3N_2$.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from YOHIMBE + -INE[4].

yo-ho-ho (also yo-he) ▶ exclamation 1 dated used to attract attention.

2 Nautical, archaic a seaman's chant used while hauling ropes or performing other strenuous work.

yolcks /jɒlks/ ▶ exclamation used by fox-hunters to urge on the hounds.

– ORIGIN mid 18th cent.: of unknown origin.

yok ▶ noun variant spelling of YOCK.

yoke ▶ noun 1 a wooden crosspiece that is fastened over the necks of two animals and attached to the plough or cart that they are to pull.

■ (pl. same or yokes) a pair of animals coupled together in such a way: a yoke of oxen. ■ archaic the amount of land that one pair of oxen could plough in a day. ■ a frame fitting over the neck and shoulders of a person, used for carrying pails or baskets. ■ used of something that is regarded as oppressive or burdensome: the yoke of imperialism. ■ used of something that represents a bond between two parties: the yoke of marriage.

2 something resembling or likened to such a crosspiece, in particular:

■ a part of a garment that fits over the shoulders and to which the main part of the garment is attached, typically in gathers or pleats. ■ the crossbar of a rudder, to whose ends ropes are fastened. ■ a bar of soft iron between the poles of an electromagnet. ■ (in ancient Rome) an arch of three spears under which a defeated army was made to march. ■ chiefly N. Amer. a control lever in an aircraft.

▶ verb [with obj.] put a yoke on (a pair of animals); couple or attach with or to a yoke: a plough drawn by a camel and donkey yoked together | figurative Hong Kong's dollar has been yoked to America's.

– ORIGIN Old English geoc (noun), geocian (verb), of Germanic origin; related to Dutch juk, German Joch, from an Indo-European root shared by Latin jugum and Greek zugon, also by Latin jungere 'to join'.

yokel ▶ noun an uneducated and unsophisticated person from the countryside.

– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: perhaps figuratively from dialect yokel 'green woodpecker'.

Yokohama /jəʊkəʊ'hɑ:mə/ a seaport on the island of Honshu, Japan; pop. 3,220,000 (1990). It is a major port and the second largest city in Japan.

yokozuna /jəʊkə'zu:nə/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a grand champion sumo wrestler.

– ORIGIN Japanese, from yoko 'crosswise' + tsuna 'rope' (originally denoting a kind of belt presented to the champion).

yolk /jəʊk/ ▶ noun the yellow internal part of a bird's egg, which is surrounded by the white, is rich in protein and fat, and nourishes the developing embryo.

■ [mass noun] Zoology the corresponding part in the ovum or larva of all egg-laying vertebrates and many invertebrates.

– DERIVATIVES yolked adjective [also in combination], yolkless adjective, yolky adjective.

– ORIGIN Old English geol(o)ca, from geolu 'yellow'.

yolk sac ▶ noun Zoology a membranous sac containing yolk attached to the embryos of reptiles and birds and the larvae of some fishes.

■ a sac lacking yolk in the early embryo of a mammal.

Yom Kippur /jɒm 'kɪpə, kɪ'pʊə/ ▶ noun the most solemn religious fast of the Jewish year, the last of the ten days of penitence that begin with Rosh Hashana (the Jewish New Year). Also called DAY OF ATONEMENT.

– ORIGIN Hebrew.

Yom Kippur War the Israeli name for the Arab–Israeli conflict in 1973. Arab name OCTOBER WAR.

> The war lasted for less than three weeks; it started on the festival of Yom Kippur (in that year, 6 October) when Egypt and Syria simultaneously attacked Israeli forces from the south and north respectively. The Syrians were repulsed and the Egyptians were surrounded. A ceasefire followed and disengagement agreements over the Suez area were signed in 1974 and 1975.

yomp Brit. informal ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] (of a soldier) march with heavy equipment over difficult terrain: squaddies yomping over the hills.

▶ noun a march of such a kind: a 60 km yomp.

– ORIGIN 1980s: of unknown origin.

yon poetic/literary or dialect ▶ determiner & adverb yonder; that: [as determiner] there's some big ranches yon side of the Sierra.

▶ pronoun yonder person or thing: what do you make of yon?

– PHRASES hither and yon another term for HITHER AND THITHER.

– ORIGIN Old English geon, of Germanic origin; related to German jener 'that one'.

yonder ▶ adverb archaic or dialect at some distance in the direction indicated; over there: there's a ford south of here, about nine miles yonder.

▶ determiner archaic or dialect that or those (used to refer to something situated at a distance): what light through yonder window breaks?

▶ noun (the yonder) the far distance: attempting to fly off into the wide blue yonder.

– ORIGIN Middle English: of Germanic origin; related to Dutch ginder 'over there', also to YON.

yoni /'jəʊni/ ▶ noun (pl. yonis) Hinduism the vulva, especially as a symbol of divine procreative energy conventionally represented by a circular stone. Compare with LINGAM.

– ORIGIN Sanskrit, literally 'source, womb, female genitals'.

yonks ▶ plural noun Brit. informal a very long time: I haven't seen him for yonks.

– ORIGIN 1960s: origin unknown; perhaps related to donkey's years (see DONKEY).

yoof ▶ noun non-standard spelling of YOUTH, used humorously or ironically to refer to young people collectively: [as modifier] yoof culture.

yoo-hoo ▶ exclamation a call used to attract attention to one's arrival or presence: Yoo-hoo!—Is anyone there?

▶ verb [no obj.] (of a person) make such a call.

– ORIGIN natural exclamation: first recorded in English in the 1920s.

yore ▶ noun (in phrase of yore) poetic/literary of long ago or former times (used in nostalgic or mock-nostalgic recollection): a great empire in days of yore.

– ORIGIN Old English geāra, geāre, of unknown origin.

York a city in northern England, on the River Ouse, a unitary council formerly in Yorkshire; pop. 100,600 (1991). The Romans occupied the site, known as Eboracum, from AD 71 until about AD 400; in AD 867 it was taken by the Vikings. It is the seat of the Archbishop of York and is noted for its magnificent cathedral, York Minster.

– ORIGIN from Danish Jorvik.

york ▶ verb [with obj.] Cricket (of a bowler) bowl out (a batsman) with a ball that pitches under the bat.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: back-formation from YORKER.

York, Archbishop of ▶ noun the archbishop of the northern province of the Church of England. The office carries the title of Primate of England.

York, Cape a cape extending into the Torres Strait at the north-east tip of Australia, in Queensland.

York, House of the English royal house which ruled England from 1461 (Edward IV) until the defeat and death of Richard III in 1485, with a short break in 1470–1 (the restoration of Henry VI).

> Descended from Edmund of Langley (1341–1402), 1st Duke of York and 5th son of Edward III, the House of York fought the Wars of the Roses with the House of Lancaster, both houses being branches of the Plantagenet line. Lancaster eventually prevailed, through their descendants, the Tudors, but the houses were united when the victorious Henry VII married Elizabeth, the eldest daughter of Edward IV (1486).

yorker ▶ noun Cricket a ball bowled so that it pitches immediately under the bat.

– ORIGIN probably from YORK, suggesting its introduction by Yorkshire players.

Yorkie ▶ noun (pl. -ies) informal Yorkshire terrier.

Yorkist historical ▶ noun an adherent or a supporter of the House of York, especially in the Wars of the Roses.

▶ adjective of or relating to the House of York: the town rallied itself to the Yorkist cause.

Yorks. ▶ abbreviation for Yorkshire.

Yorkshire a former county of northern England, traditionally divided into East, West, and North Ridings. Since 1996 the northern part of the area has formed the county of North Yorkshire, while the rest of the Yorkshire area consists of unitary councils.

– DERIVATIVES Yorkshireman noun (pl. -men), Yorkshirewoman noun (pl. -women).

Yorkshire fog ▶ noun [mass noun] a common pasture grass with soft downy leaves, native to Eurasia.

● Holcus lanatus, family Gramineae.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: fog from FOG[2].

Yorkshire pudding ▶ noun [mass noun] a baked batter pudding typically eaten with roast beef.

Yorkshire terrier ▶ noun a dog of a small long-haired blue-grey and tan breed of terrier.

Yoruba /'jɒrʊbə/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Yorubas) 1 a member of an African people of SW Nigeria and Benin.

2 [mass noun] the language of this people, which belongs to the Kwa group. It is an official language of Nigeria, with over 16 million speakers.

▶ adjective of or relating to the Yoruba or their language.

– ORIGIN the name in Yoruba.

Yorvik /'jɔ:vɪk/ (also Jorvik) Viking name for YORK.

Yosemite National Park /jə(ʊ)'sɛmɪti/ a national park in the Sierra Nevada in central California. It includes Yosemite Valley, with its sheer granite cliffs and Yosemite Falls, the highest waterfall in the US.

Yoshkar-Ola /jaʃ,kɑ:rə'lɑ:/ the capital of the republic of Mari El, in Russia; pop. 246,000 (1990).

yotta- /'jɒtə/ ▶ combining form (used in units of measurement) denoting a factor of 10^{24}: yottameter.

– ORIGIN apparently adapted from Italian otto 'eight' (see also YOCTO-).

you ▶ pronoun [second person singular or plural] 1 used to refer to the person or people that the speaker is addressing: are you listening? | I love you.

■ used to refer to the person being addressed together with other people regarded in the same class: you Americans. ■ used in exclamations to address one or more people: you fools | hey, you!

2 used to refer to any person in general: after a while, you get used to it.

– PHRASES you and yours you together with your family and close friends. you-know-who (or you-know-what) used to refer to someone (or something) known to the hearer without specifying their identity: the minister was later to be sacked by you-know-who.

– ORIGIN Old English ēow, accusative and dative of gē (see YE[1]), of West Germanic origin; related to Dutch u and German euch. During the 14th cent. you began to replace YE[1], THOU[1], and THEE; by the 17th cent. it had become the ordinary second person pronoun for any number and case.

you-all (also y'all) ▶ pronoun US informal you (used to refer to more than one person): how are you-all?

you'd ▶ contraction of ■ you had: you'd better remember it. ■ you would: I was afraid you'd ask me that.

you'll ▶ contraction of you will; you shall: you'll find many exciting features.

Young[1], Brigham (1801–77), American Mormon leader. He succeeded Joseph Smith as the leader of the Mormons in 1844, and established their headquarters at Salt Lake City, Utah.

Young[2], Neil (Percival) (b.1945), Canadian singer, songwriter, and guitarist. He performs both solo and with his group Crazy Horse, combining plaintive acoustic material with distinctively distorted electric-guitar playing. Notable albums: Harvest (1972).

Young[3], Thomas (1773–1829), English physicist, physician, and Egyptologist. His major work in physics concerned the wave theory of light. He also played a major part in the deciphering of the Rosetta Stone.

young ▶ adjective (younger, youngest) having lived or existed for only a short time: a young girl | [as plural noun the young] the young are amazingly resilient.

■ not as old as the norm or as would be expected: more people were dying young. ■ [attrib.] relating to, characteristic of, or consisting of young people: young love | the Young Communist League. ■ immature or inexperienced: she's very young for her age. ■ having the qualities popularly associated with young people, such as enthusiasm and optimism: all those who are young at heart. ■ (the Younger) used to denote the younger of two people of the same name: Pitt the Younger. ■ (younger) [postpositive] Scottish denoting the heir of a landed commoner: Hugh Magnus Macleod, younger of Macleod.

▶ noun [treated as pl.] offspring, especially of an animal before or soon after birth: this species carries its young.

– DERIVATIVES youngish adjective.

– ORIGIN Old English g(e)ong, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch jong and German jung, also to YOUTH; from an Indo-European root shared by Latin juvenis.

young adult offender ▶ noun Law (in the UK) a criminal between 18 and 20 years of age.

youngberry ▶ noun (pl. -ies) a bramble of a variety which bears large edible reddish-black fruit. First cultivated in the US, it is believed to be a hybrid of a dewberry.
– ORIGIN 1920s: named after B. M. Young (fl. 1905), the American horticulturalist who first raised it.

younger hand ▶ noun (in card games for two players, e.g. piquet) the player who receives a complete hand after the other, i.e. the dealer.

young fustic ▶ noun the smoke tree.

young gun ▶ noun informal a young man perceived as assertive and aggressively self-confident.

Young Italy a movement founded by Giuseppe Mazzini in 1831 to work towards a united Italian republic. In the 1830s and 1840s the movement plotted against the Italian governments. It failed to gain popular support but was nevertheless a significant stimulus to the Risorgimento.

young lady ▶ noun a woman who is not far advanced in life; a girl.
■ a form of address used by an adult to a girl, often in anger: I don't know what's got into you, young lady. ■ dated a girlfriend.

youngling ▶ noun poetic/literary a young person or animal.

young man ▶ noun a man who is not far advanced in life; a boy.
■ a form of address used by an adult to a boy, often in anger: don't waste my time, young man. ■ dated a boyfriend.

young offender ▶ noun Law (in the UK) a criminal between 14 and 17 years of age.
■ (in Canada) a criminal between 12 and 17 years of age.

young offender institution ▶ noun Law (in the UK) an institution for the detention of criminals between the ages of 14 and 20, replacing the former detention centres and youth custody centres.

young person ▶ noun Law (in the UK) a person generally between 14 and 17 years of age.

Young Pretender see STUART[1].

Young's modulus ▶ noun Physics a measure of elasticity, equal to the ratio of the stress acting on a substance to the strain produced.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: named after T. Young (see YOUNG[1]).

youngster ▶ noun a child, young person, or young animal.

youngstock ▶ noun [usu. treated as pl.] young farm animals.

Young Turk ▶ noun a member of a revolutionary party in the Ottoman Empire who carried out the revolution of 1908 and deposed the sultan Abdul Hamid II.
■ a young person eager for radical change to the established order.

young 'un ▶ noun informal a youngster.

younker /ˈjʌŋkə/ ▶ noun dated a youngster.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent. (denoting a young nobleman): from Middle Dutch jonckher, from jonc 'young' + hēre 'lord'. Compare with JUNKER.

your /jɔː, jʊə/ ▶ possessive determiner 1 belonging to or associated with the person or people that the speaker is addressing: what is your name?
2 belonging to or associated with any person in general: the sight is enough to break your heart.
■ informal used to denote someone or something that is familiar or typical of its kind: I'm just your average man in the street | she is one of your chatty types.
3 (Your) used when addressing the holder of certain titles: Your Majesty | Your Excellency.
– ORIGIN Old English ēower, genitive of gē (see YE[1]), of Germanic origin; related to German euer.

Yourcenar /ˈjʊəsənɑː, French jurs(ə)naʀ/, Marguerite (1903–87), French writer. Many of her novels are meticulous historical reconstructions, including Mémoires d'Hadrian (1951). Her interest in male homosexuality is reflected in the novel Alexis ou le Traité du vain combat (1929).

you're /jɔː, jə, jʊə/ ▶ contraction of you are: you're an angel, Deb!

yourn /jɔːn, jʊən/ ▶ possessive pronoun regional or archaic form of YOURS.

yours ▶ possessive pronoun 1 used to refer to a thing or things belonging to or associated with the person or people that the speaker is addressing: the choice is yours | it's no business of yours.
■ (chiefly in commercial use) your letter: Mr Smythe has sent me yours of the 15th inst. regarding the vacancy.
2 used in formulas ending a letter: Yours sincerely, John Watson | Yours, Jim Lindsay.
– PHRASES up yours see UP. you and yours see YOU. yours truly see TRULY.

yourself ▶ pronoun [second person singular] (pl. yourselves) 1 [reflexive] used to refer to the person being addressed as the object of a verb or preposition when they are also the subject of the clause: help yourselves, boys | see for yourself.
2 [emphatic] you personally (used to emphasize the person being addressed): you're going to have to do it yourself.
– PHRASES (not) be yourself see be oneself, not be oneself at BE. by yourself see by oneself at BY. how's yourself? informal how are you? (used especially after answering a similar enquiry).

youse /juːz/ (also yous) ▶ pronoun dialect you (usually more than one person).

youth ▶ noun (pl. youths) 1 [in sing.] the period between childhood and adult age: he had been a keen sportsman in his youth.
■ [mass noun] the state or quality of being young, especially as associated with vigour, freshness, or immaturity: she imagined her youth and beauty fading. ■ an early stage in the development of something: this publishing sector is no longer in its youth.
2 [treated as sing. or pl.] young people considered as a group: black youth has experienced high levels of racial discrimination | [as modifier] youth culture.
■ [count noun] a young man: he was attacked by a gang of youths.
– ORIGIN Old English geoguth, of Germanic origin; related to Dutch jeugd, German Jugend, also to YOUNG.

youth club (also youth centre) ▶ noun a place or organization providing leisure activities for young people.

youth court ▶ noun a court of law responsible for the trial of young offenders, (in the UK) replacing the former juvenile courts.

youth custody centre ▶ noun Law (formerly in the UK) a centre for the detention of criminals between the ages of 15 and 20 for periods exceeding four months, replaced by young offender institutions.

youthful ▶ adjective young or seeming young: people aspiring to remain youthful.
■ typical or characteristic of young people: youthful enthusiasm.
– DERIVATIVES youthfully adverb, youthfulness noun.

youth hostel ▶ noun a place providing cheap accommodation aimed mainly at young people on walking or cycling tours.
▶ verb (youth-hostel) [no obj.] travel around, staying the night in such places: we went youth-hostelling together.
– DERIVATIVES youth-hosteller noun.

Youth Training Scheme a government-sponsored scheme introduced in Britain in 1983 to offer job experience and training for unemployed school-leavers.

you've ▶ contraction of you have: you've changed.

yow /jaʊ/ ▶ pronoun non-standard spelling of YOU, used to represent speech in various dialects.

yowl /jaʊl/ ▶ noun a loud wailing cry, especially one of pain or distress.
▶ verb [no obj.] make such a cry: he yowled as he touched one of the hot plates.
– ORIGIN Middle English: imitative.

yo-yo (trademark in the UK) ▶ noun (pl. -os) a toy consisting of a pair of joined discs with a deep groove between them in which string is attached and wound, which can be spun alternately downward and upward by its weight and momentum as the string unwinds and rewinds.
■ [often as modifier] a thing that repeatedly falls and rises again: the yo-yo syndrome of repeatedly losing weight and gaining it again. ■ informal, chiefly N. Amer. a stupid, insane, or unpredictable person.
▶ verb (-oes, -oed) [no obj., usu. with adverbial of direction] move up and down; fluctuate: popularity polls yo-yo up and down with the flow of events.
■ [with obj.] manipulate or manoeuvre (someone or something): I don't want the job if it means he gets to yo-yo me around.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: of unknown origin.

Ypres /ˈiːpr(ə), French ipʀ/ a town in NW Belgium, near the border with France, in the province of West Flanders; pop. 35,235 (1990). Ypres was the scene of some of the bitterest fighting of the First World War (see YPRES, BATTLE OF). Flemish name IEPER.

Ypres, Battle of each of three battles on the Western Front near Ypres during the First World War in 1914, 1915, and 1917. See also PASSCHENDAELE, BATTLE OF.

yr ▶ abbreviation for ■ year or years. ■ younger. ■ your.

yrs ▶ abbreviation for ■ years. ■ yours (as a formula ending a letter).

Yr Wyddfa /ər ˈwɪðva/ Welsh name for SNOWDON.

YT ▶ abbreviation for Yukon Territory (in official postal use).

YTS ▶ abbreviation for Youth Training Scheme.

ytterbium /ɪˈtəːbɪəm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the chemical element of atomic number 70, a silvery-white metal of the lanthanide series. (Symbol: Yb) – ORIGIN late 19th cent.: modern Latin, from Ytterby, the name of a Swedish quarry where it was first found.

yttrium /ˈɪtrɪəm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the chemical element of atomic number 39, a greyish-white metal generally included among the rare-earth elements. (Symbol: Y) – ORIGIN early 19th cent.: modern Latin, from Ytterby (see YTTERBIUM).

Yuan /jʊˈɑːn/ a dynasty that ruled China AD 1279–1368, established by the Mongols under Kublai Khan. It preceded the Ming dynasty.

yuan /jʊˈɑːn/ ▶ noun (pl. same) the basic monetary unit of China, equal to 10 jiao or 100 fen.
– ORIGIN Chinese, literally 'round'; compare with YEN[1].

Yuan Jiang /jʊˌɑːn ˈdʒjaŋ/ Chinese name for RED RIVER (in sense 1).

yuca /ˈjuːkə/ ▶ noun chiefly US another term for CASSAVA.
– ORIGIN Carib.

Yucatán /jʊkəˈtɑːn/ a state of SE Mexico, at the northern tip of the Yucatán Peninsula; capital, Mérida.
– ORIGIN adapted from a Maya name for the language of the Mayan Indians of Oaxaca, Mexico.

Yucatán Peninsula a peninsula in southern Mexico, lying between the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea.

Yucatec /ˈjuːkətɛk/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Yucatecs) 1 a member of an American Indian people of the Yucatán peninsula in eastern Mexico.
■ informal a native or inhabitant of the peninsula or the state of Yucatán.
2 [mass noun] the Mayan language of the Yucatec people, with about 500,000 speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Yucatec or their language.
– DERIVATIVES Yucatecan adjective.
– ORIGIN from Spanish yucateco.

yucca /ˈjʌkə/ ▶ noun a plant of the agave family with sword-like leaves and spikes of white bell-shaped flowers that are dependent upon the yucca moth for fertilization, native to warm regions of North America and Mexico. Also called ADAM'S NEEDLE.
● Genus Yucca, family Agavaceae: many species, including the Spanish bayonet.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (denoting cassava): from Carib.

yucca moth ▶ noun a small white American moth which lays its eggs in the ovary of a yucca plant. While doing so it deposits a ball of pollen on the stigma, thereby fertilizing the seeds on which the larvae feed.
● Genus Tegeticula, family Incurvariidae: several species, in particular T. yuccasella.

yuck (also yuk) informal ▶ exclamation used to express strong distaste or disgust: 'Raw herrings! Yuck!'
▶ noun [mass noun] something messy or disgusting: I can't bear the sight of blood and yuck.
– ORIGIN 1960s (originally US): imitative.

yucky (also yukky) ▶ adjective (yuckier, yuckiest) informal messy or disgusting: yucky green-grey slushy cabbage.

Yue /jʊˈeɪ, jʊˈeɪ/ ▶ noun another term for CANTONESE (the language) yuga /'juːgə/ ▶ noun Hinduism any of the four ages of the life of the world.

– ORIGIN Sanskrit.

Yugoslav /'juːgə(ʊ)slɑːv, juːgə(ʊ)'slɑːv/ ▶ noun a native or national of Yugoslavia or its former constituent republics, or a person of Yugoslav descent.
▶ adjective of or relating to Yugoslavia, its former constituent republics, or its people.
– ORIGIN from Austrian German Jugoslav, from Serbo-Croat jug 'south' + SLAV.

Yugoslavia /juːgə(ʊ)'slɑːvɪə/ a federation of states in SE Europe, in the Balkans.

> The country was formed as the Kingdom of Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes in the peace settlements at the end of the First World War. It comprised Serbia, Montenegro, and the former South Slavic provinces of the Austro-Hungarian empire, and assumed the name of Yugoslavia in 1929; its capital was Belgrade. After the Second World War, during which Yugoslavia was invaded by Germany, the country emerged as a non-aligned Communist federal republic under Marshal Tito. In 1990 Communist rule was formally ended. Four of the six constituent republics (Slovenia, Croatia, Bosnia–Herzegovina, and Macedonia) then seceded amid serious civil and ethnic conflict. The two remaining republics, Serbia and Montenegro, declared a new federal republic of Yugoslavia in 1992.

– DERIVATIVES Yugoslavian adjective & noun.

yuh /jə/ ▶ pronoun non-standard spelling of YOU, used in representing black English speech.
▶ possessive determiner non-standard spelling of YOUR, used in representing black English speech.

Yuit /'juːɪt/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Yuits) & adjective another term for YUPIK.
– ORIGIN Siberian Yupik, literally 'people'.

yuk ▶ exclamation & noun variant spelling of YUCK.

yukata /jʊ'kata/ ▶ noun (pl. same or yukatas) a light cotton kimono.
– ORIGIN Japanese, from yu 'hot water' (because originally worn indoors after a bath) + kata(bira) 'light kimono'.

yukky ▶ adjective variant spelling of YUCKY.

Yukon /'juːkɒn/ a river of NW North America, which rises in Yukon Territory, NW Canada, and flows 3,020 km (1,870 miles) westwards through central Alaska to the Bering Sea.

Yukon stove ▶ noun a lightweight portable stove consisting of a small metal box divided into firebox and oven.

Yukon Territory a territory of NW Canada, on the border with Alaska; pop. 26,900 (1991); capital, Whitehorse. The population increased briefly during the Klondike gold rush (1897–9).

yulan /'juːlən/ ▶ noun a Chinese magnolia with showy white flowers.
• Magnolia heptapeta, family Magnoliaceae.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from Chinese yùlán, from yù 'gem' + lán 'plant'.

Yule ▶ noun archaic term for CHRISTMAS.
– ORIGIN Old English gēol(a) 'Christmas Day'; compare with Old Norse jól, originally applied to a heathen festival lasting twelve days, later to Christmas.

yule log ▶ noun a large log traditionally burnt in the hearth on Christmas Eve.
■ a log-shaped chocolate cake eaten at Christmas.

Yuletide ▶ noun archaic term for CHRISTMAS.

Yuma /'juːmə/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Yumas) a member of an American Indian people living mainly in SW Arizona.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people.
– ORIGIN from Pima yumi.

Yuman ▶ noun [mass noun] the language of the Yuma people, belonging to the Hokan group and nearly extinct.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Yuma people or their language.
– ORIGIN from YUMA + -AN.

yummy ▶ adjective (yummier, yummiest) informal (of food) delicious: yummy cream cakes.
■ highly attractive and desirable: I scooped up this yummy young man.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from YUM-YUM + -Y[1].

yum-yum (also yum) informal ▶ exclamation used to express pleasure at eating, or at the prospect of eating, a particular food.
▶ adjective (of food) delicious.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: imitative.

Yunnan /juː'nan/ a province of SW China, on the border with Vietnam, Laos, and Burma; capital, Kunming.

yup[1] ▶ exclamation & noun variant spelling of YEP.

yup[2] ▶ noun short for YUPPIE.

Yupik /'juːpɪk/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Yupiks) 1 a member of an Eskimo people of Siberia, the Aleutian Islands, and Alaska.
2 [mass noun] any of the languages of this people, a division of the Eskimo-Aleut family, with around 3,000 speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their languages.
– ORIGIN from Alaskan Yupik Yup'ik 'real person'.

yuppie (also yuppy) ▶ noun (pl. -ies) informal, derogatory a well-paid young middle-class professional who works in a city job and has a luxurious lifestyle.
– DERIVATIVES yuppiedom noun.
– ORIGIN 1980s: elaboration of the acronym from young urban professional.

yuppie flu (also yuppie disease) ▶ noun informal derogatory term for CHRONIC FATIGUE SYNDROME.

yuppify ▶ verb (-ies, -ied) [with obj.] informal, derogatory make more affluent and upmarket in keeping with the taste and lifestyle of yuppies: Kreuzberg is slowly being yuppified with smart little eating places.
– DERIVATIVES yuppification noun.

yurt /jʊət, jɜːt/ ▶ noun a circular tent of felt or skins on a collapsible framework, used by nomads in Mongolia, Siberia, and Turkey.
– ORIGIN from Russian yurta, via French or German from Turkic jurt.

yus /jʌs/ ▶ exclamation & noun non-standard spelling of YES, used in representing dialectal speech.

Yuzovka /juːzɔfkə/ former name (1872–1924) for DONETSK.
– ORIGIN named in honour of John Hughes (1814–89), a Welshman who established its first ironworks.

YV ▶ abbreviation for Venezuela (international vehicle registration).

YWCA ▶ noun a welfare movement with branches in many countries that began in Britain in 1855.
■ a hostel run by this association.
– ORIGIN abbreviation of Young Women's Christian Association.

Zz

Z[1] /zɛd, US zi:/ (also z) ▶ noun (pl. Zs or Z's) 1 the twenty-sixth letter of the alphabet.
■ denoting the next after Y in a set of items, categories, etc. ■ denoting a third unknown or unspecified person or thing: X sold a car to Y (a car dealer) who in turn sold it to Z (a finance company). ■ (usu. z) the third unknown quantity in an algebraic expression. [ORIGIN: the introduction of x, y, and z as symbols of unknown quantities is due to Descartes (see X[1]).] ■ (usu. z) denoting the third axis in a three-dimensional system of coordinates: [in combination] the z-axis.
2 a shape like that of a capital Z: [in combination] the same old Z-shaped crack in the paving stone.
3 used in repeated form to represent the sound of buzzing or snoring.
– PHRASES catch some (or a few) Zs informal, chiefly N. Amer. get some sleep.

Z[2] ▶ abbreviation for Zambia (international vehicle registration).
▶ symbol for Chemistry atomic number.

ZA ▶ abbreviation for South Africa (international vehicle registration).
– ORIGIN from Afrikaans Zuid Afrika.

zabaglione /ˌzabaˈljəʊni/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an Italian sweet made of whipped and heated egg yolks, sugar, and Marsala wine, served hot or cold.
– ORIGIN Italian.

Zabrze /ˈzɑːbʒə/ an industrial and mining city in Upper Silesia, southern Poland; pop. 205,000 (1990). From 1915 to 1945 it was a German city bearing the name Hindenburg, after the Field Marshal.

Zacatecas /ˌzakəˈteɪkəs, Spanish sakaˈtekas, θaka-/ a state of north central Mexico.
■ its capital, a silver-mining city situated at an altitude of 2,500 m (8,200 ft); pop. 165,000 (1980).

zaffre /ˈzafə/ (also zaffer) ▶ noun [mass noun] impure cobalt oxide, formerly used to make smalt and blue enamels.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Italian zaffera or French safre.

zaftig /ˈzaftɪg/ (also zoftig) ▶ adjective N. Amer. informal (of a woman) having a full, rounded figure; plump.
– ORIGIN 1930s: Yiddish, from German saftig 'juicy'.

zag ▶ noun a sharp change of direction in a zigzag course: we travelled in a series of zigs and zags.
▶ verb (zagged, zagging) [no obj.] make a sharp change of direction: a long path zigged and zagged through the woods.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: shortening of ZIGZAG.

Zagazig /ˈzagəzɪg/ (also Zaqaziq) a city in the Nile delta, northern Egypt; pop. 279,000 (1991).

Zagreb /ˈzɑːgrɛb/ the capital of Croatia; pop. 706,700 (1991).

Zagros Mountains /ˈzagrɒs/ a range of mountains in western Iran, rising to 4,548 m (14,921 ft) at Zard Kuh. Most of Iran's oilfields lie along the western foothills.

zaibatsu /zʌɪˈbatsuː/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a large Japanese business conglomerate.
– ORIGIN Japanese, from zai 'wealth' + batsu 'clique'.

Zaire /zʌɪˈɪə/ (also Zaïre) a large equatorial country in central Africa with a short coastline on the Atlantic Ocean; pop. 38,473,000 (est. 1991); languages, French (official), Kongo, Lingala, Swahili, and other languages; capital, Kinshasa. Official name (from 1997) DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF CONGO.

Zaire is a former Belgian colony, which was known as the Congo Free State (1885–1908) and the Belgian Congo (1908–60). Independence in 1960 was followed by civil war and UN intervention. General Mobutu seized control in a coup in 1965, changing the name of the country from the Republic of the Congo to Zaire in 1971, and remained in power until he was overthrown in 1997 by Laurent Kabila, who changed the country's name again. The country experienced a huge influx of refugees following the violence in Rwanda in 1994.

– DERIVATIVES Zairean /-ˈɪərɪən/ (also Zairian) adjective & noun.

zaire /zʌɪˈɪə/ ▶ noun (pl. same) the basic monetary unit of Zaire (Democratic Republic of Congo), equal to 100 makuta.
– ORIGIN from Zaire, a local name for the Congo River in central Africa.

Zaire River a major river of central Africa, which rises as the Lualaba in northern Zaire and flows 4,630 km (2,880 miles) westwards, then south-westwards to form the border between the Congo and Zaire, before emptying into the Atlantic. Also called the CONGO.

zakat /zəˈkɑːt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] obligatory payment made annually under Islamic law on certain kinds of property and used for charitable and religious purposes.
– ORIGIN via Persian and Urdu from Arabic zakā(t) 'almsgiving'.

Zakinthos /ˈzakɪnθɒs/ (also Zakynthos) a Greek island off the SW coast of mainland Greece, in the Ionian Sea, one of the Ionian Islands; pop. 32,750 (1991). Also called ZANTE.

Zakopane /ˌzakəˈpɑːneɪ/ a winter-sports resort in the Tatra Mountains of southern Poland; pop. 28,630 (1990).

zakuska /zaˈkuːska/ (also zakouska) ▶ noun (pl. zakuski or zakuskas) a substantial Russian hors d'oeuvre item such as caviar sandwiches or vegetables with sour cream dip, all served with vodka.
– ORIGIN Russian.

zalcitabine /zalˈsɪtəbiːn/ ▶ noun another term for DIDEOXYCYTIDINE.
– ORIGIN 1990s: from zal- (of unknown origin) + -citabine apparently formed by arbitrary alteration of CYTIDINE.

Zambezi /zamˈbiːzi/ a river of East Africa, which rises in NW Zambia and flows for 2,560 km (1,600 miles) southwards through Angola and Zaire (Democratic Republic of Congo) to the Victoria Falls, turning eastwards along the border between Zambia and Zimbabwe, before crossing Mozambique and entering the Indian Ocean.

Zambia /ˈzambɪə/ a landlocked country in central Africa, divided from Zimbabwe by the Zambezi River; pop. 8,373,000 (est. 1991); languages, English (official), various Bantu languages; capital, Lusaka.

Formerly the British protectorate of Northern Rhodesia, Zambia became an independent republic within the Commonwealth in 1964, under Kenneth Kaunda (President 1964–91). Zambia's economy was adversely affected by its involvement in the Zimbabwe independence struggle (1965–79).

– DERIVATIVES Zambian adjective & noun.

Zamboanga /ˌzambəʊˈaŋgə/ a port on the west coast of Mindanao, in the southern Philippines; pop. 442,000 (1990).

zambra /ˈzambrə/ ▶ noun a kind of flamenco dance.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: Spanish.

zami /ˈzami/ ▶ noun W. Indian a lesbian.
– ORIGIN French Creole, from French les amis 'friends'.

zamia /ˈzeɪmɪə/ (Austral. also zamia palm) ▶ noun an American or Australian cycad, some kinds of which produce roots or seeds that are edible after careful preparation.
● Genera Zamia (of America) and Macrozamia (of Australia), family Zamiaceae.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: modern Latin, from zamiae, misreading (in Pliny) of azaniae 'pine cones'.

zamindar /zəˈmiːndɑː/ ▶ noun Indian a landowner, especially one who leases his land to tenant farmers.
– ORIGIN via Urdu from Persian zamīndār, from zamīn 'land' + -dār 'holder'.

zamindari /zəˈmiːndəri, ˌzəmiːnˈdɑːri/ (also zemindari or zamindary) ▶ noun [mass noun] Indian historical the system under which zamindars held land.
■ the office or territory of a zamindar.
– ORIGIN Urdu.

Zande /ˈzandi/ (also Azande) ▶ noun (pl. same or Azande /aˈzandi/) 1 a member of a central African people of mixed ethnic origin.
2 [mass noun] the Niger-Congo language of this people, with over a million speakers mainly in northern Zaire (Democratic Republic of Congo) and Sudan.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.
– ORIGIN the name in Zande.

zander /ˈzandə/ ▶ noun (pl. same) a large predatory freshwater perch native to northern and central Europe, where it is a valuable food fish. It has been introduced into Britain and western Europe. Also called PIKEPERCH.
● Stizostedion lucioperca, family Percidae.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from German Zander.

Zantac /ˈzantak/ ▶ noun trademark for RANITIDINE.
– ORIGIN late 20th cent.: probably from Z- + ANTACID.

Zante /ˈzanti/ another name for ZAKINTHOS.

ZANU ▶ abbreviation for Zimbabwe African National Union.

Zanuck /ˈzanək/, Darryl F. (1902–79), American film producer; full name Darryl Francis Zanuck. He was the controlling executive of Twentieth Century Fox, and its president from 1965 until his retirement in 1971.

ZANU–PF ▶ abbreviation for Zimbabwe African National Union.

zany ▶ adjective (zanier, zaniest) amusingly unconventional and idiosyncratic: zany humour.
▶ noun an erratic or eccentric person:
■ historical a comic performer partnering a clown, whom he imitated in an amusing way.
– DERIVATIVES zanily adverb, zaniness noun.
– ORIGIN late 16th cent.: from French zani or Italian zan(n)i, Venetian form of Gianni, Giovanni 'John', stock name of the servants acting as clowns in the commedia dell'arte.

Zanzibar /ˌzanzɪ'bɑ:/ an island off the coast of East Africa, part of Tanzania; pop. 640,580 (1988). Under Arab rule from the 17th century, Zanzibar was a prosperous trading port. It became a British protectorate in 1890 and an independent Commonwealth state in 1963, but in the following year the sultan was overthrown and the country became a republic, uniting with Tanganyika to form Tanzania.
– DERIVATIVES Zanzibari adjective & noun.

Zaozhuang /zaʊ'ʒwaŋ/ (also Tsao-chuang) a city in Shandong province, eastern China; pop. 3,191,900 (1990).

zap informal ▶ verb (zapped, zapping) 1 [with obj.] destroy or obliterate: zap the enemy's artillery before it can damage your core units | it's vital to zap stress fast.
2 [with obj. and adverbial of direction] cause to move suddenly and rapidly in a specified direction: the boat zapped us up river.
■ [no obj., with adverbial of direction] move suddenly and rapidly, especially between television channels or sections of videotape by use of a remote control: video recorders mean the audience will zap through the ads.
▶ noun a sudden effect or event that makes a dramatic impact, especially a sudden burst of energy or sound: the eggs get an extra zap of UV light
– ORIGIN 1920s (originally US): imitative.

Zapata /zə'pɑ:tə, Spanish sa'pata, θa-/, Emiliano (1879–1919), Mexican revolutionary. Zapata attempted to implement his programme of agrarian reform by means of guerrilla warfare. From 1914 he and Pancho Villa fought against the regimes of General Huerta and Venustiano Carranza.

zapateado /zaˌpatɪ'ɑ:dəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) a flamenco dance with rhythmic stamping of the feet.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: Spanish, from zapato 'shoe'.

Zaporizhzhya /ˌzapɒ'rɪʒjə/ an industrial city of Ukraine, on the Dnieper River; pop. 891,000 (1990). It developed as a major industrial centre after the construction of a hydroelectric dam in 1932. Russian name Zaporozhye /zəpa'rɔʒje/; former name (until 1921) Aleksandrovsk.

Zapotec /'zapətɛk/ ▶ noun (pl. same or Zapotecs) 1 a member of an American Indian people living in and around Oaxaca in southern Mexico.
2 [mass noun] the Otomanguean language of this people, with some 300,000 speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Zapotec or their language.
– ORIGIN from Spanish zapoteco, from Nahuatl tzapoteca, plural of tzapotecatl, literally 'person of the place of the sapotilla'.

Zappa /'zapə/, Frank (1940–93), American rock singer, musician, and songwriter. In 1965 he formed the Mothers of Invention, who combined psychedelic rock with elements of jazz and satire. In Zappa's later career he often mixed flowing guitar improvisations with scatological humour.

zapper ▶ noun informal 1 a remote control for a television, video, or other piece of electronic equipment.
2 N. Amer. an electronic device used for killing insects: a bug-zapper.

zappy ▶ adjective (zappier, zappiest) informal lively; energetic: Radio 4's zappiest chat show.

ZAPU /'zɑ:pu:/ ▶ abbreviation for Zimbabwe African People's Union.

Zaqaziq variant spelling of Zagazig.

Zaragoza /ˌθara'goθa, ˌsara'gosa/ Spanish name for Saragossa.

Zarathustra /ˌzarə'θʊstrə/ the Avestan name for the Persian prophet Zoroaster.
– DERIVATIVES Zarathustrian adjective & noun.

zarda /'zɜ:dɑ:/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Indian chewing tobacco flavoured with spices.
– ORIGIN from Persian and Urdu zardah, from Persian zard 'yellow'.

zari /zɜ'ri:/ ▶ noun [mass noun] [usu. as modifier] a type of gold thread used decoratively on Indian clothing.
– ORIGIN from Urdu zarī, from Persian zar 'gold'.

Zaria /'zɑ:rɪə/ a city in northern Nigeria; pop. 345,200 (1991).

zariba /zə'ri:bə/ (also zareba) ▶ noun (in Sudan and neighbouring countries) a thorn fence fortifying a camp or village.
– ORIGIN from Arabic zarība 'cattle pen'.

Zarqa /'zɑ:kə/ (also Az Zarqa) a city in north-western Jordan; pop. 359,000 (1991).

zarzuela /θɑ:'θweɪlə, Spanish θar'θwela, sar'swela/ ▶ noun 1 a Spanish traditional form of musical comedy.
2 [mass noun] a Spanish dish of various kinds of seafood cooked in a rich sauce.
– ORIGIN Spanish, apparently from a place name.

Zatopek /'zatəpɛk/, Emil (b.1922), Czech long-distance runner. In the 1952 Olympic Games he won gold medals in the 5,000 metres, 10,000 metres, and marathon.

zax ▶ noun variant spelling of sax².

zazen /zɑ:'zɛn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Zen meditation, usually conducted in the lotus position.
– ORIGIN Japanese, from za 'sitting' + zen (see Zen).

Z boson ▶ noun another term for Z particle.

Z-DNA ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry DNA in which the double helix has a left-handed rather than the usual right-handed twist and the sugar phosphate backbone follows a zigzag course.

zeal ▶ noun [mass noun] great energy or enthusiasm in pursuit of a cause or an objective: his zeal for privatization | Laura brought a missionary zeal to her work.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: via ecclesiastical Latin from Greek zēlos.

Zealand /'zi:lənd/ the principal island of Denmark, situated between the Jutland peninsula and the southern tip of Sweden. Its chief city is Copenhagen. Danish name Sjælland.

zealot /'zɛlət/ ▶ noun a person who is fanatical and uncompromising in pursuit of their religious, political, or other ideals.
■ (Zealot) historical a member of an ancient Jewish sect aiming at a world Jewish theocracy and resisting the Romans until AD 70.
– DERIVATIVES zealotry noun.
– ORIGIN mid 16th cent. (in the sense 'member of an ancient Jewish sect'): via ecclesiastical Latin from Greek zēlōtēs, from zēloun 'be jealous', from zēlos (see zeal).

zealous /'zɛləs/ ▶ adjective having or showing zeal: the council was extremely zealous in the application of the regulations.
– DERIVATIVES zealously adverb, zealousness noun.
– ORIGIN early 16th cent.: from a medieval Latin derivative of Latin zelus 'zeal, jealousy'.

zebec ▶ noun variant spelling of xebec.

zebra /'zɛbrə, 'zi:brə/ ▶ noun 1 an African wild horse with black-and-white stripes and an erect mane.
● Genus Equus, family Equidae: three species, in particular the common zebra (E. burchellii). See also quagga.
2 a large butterfly with pale bold stripes on a dark background, in particular:
● a yellow and black American butterfly (Heliconius charitonius, subfamily Heliconiinae, family Nymphalidae). ● (also Malayan zebra) a black and white Asian butterfly (Graphium delesserti, family Papilionidae).
3 (also zebra fish) S. African a silvery-gold sea bream with vertical black stripes.
● Diplodus cervinus, family Sparidae.
– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Italian, Spanish, or Portuguese, originally in the sense 'wild ass', perhaps ultimately from Latin equiferus, from equus 'horse' + ferus 'wild'.

zebra crossing ▶ noun Brit. an area of road painted with broad white stripes, where vehicles must stop if pedestrians wish to cross.

zebra finch ▶ noun a small Australian waxbill with black and white stripes on the face, popular as a cage bird.
● Poephila guttata, family Estrildidae.

zebra mussel ▶ noun a small freshwater bivalve mollusc with zigzag markings on the shell, sometimes becoming a pest due to the blocking of water pipes.
● Dreissena polymorpha, family Dreissenidae.

zebra plant ▶ noun a Brazilian calathea with leaves which are horizontally banded in light and dark green and purple.
● Calathea zebrina, family Marantaceae.

zebra spider ▶ noun a small European jumping spider with black and white stripes.
● Salticus scenicus, family Salticidae.

zebrawood ▶ noun any of a number of tropical trees which produce ornamental striped timber that is used chiefly in cabinetmaking.
● Species in several families, such as Connarus guianensis (family Connaraceae) of Guyana, and Diospyros marmorata (family Ebenaceae) of the Andaman Islands.

zebu /'zi:bu:/ ▶ noun another term for Brahmin (in sense 3).
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from French zébu, of unknown origin.

Zebulun /'zɛbjʊlən/ (also Zebulon) (in the Bible) a Hebrew patriarch, son of Jacob and Leah (Gen. 30:20).
■ the tribe of Israel traditionally descended from him.

Zech. ▶ abbreviation for Zechariah (in biblical references).

Zechariah /ˌzɛkə'rʌɪə/ a Hebrew minor prophet of the 6th century BC.
■ a book of the Bible including his prophecies.

zed ▶ noun Brit. the letter Z.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from French zède, via late Latin from Greek zēta (see zeta).

Zedekiah /ˌzɛdɪ'kʌɪə/ (in the Bible) the last king of Judaea, who rebelled against Nebuchadnezzar and was carried off to Babylon into captivity (2 Kings 24–5, 2 Chron. 36).

zedoary /'zɛdəʊəri/ ▶ noun an Indian plant related to turmeric, with an aromatic rhizome.
● Curcuma zedoaria, family Zingiberaceae.
■ [mass noun] a ginger-like substance made from this rhizome, used in medicine, perfumery, and dyeing.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from medieval Latin zedoarium, from Persian zadwār.

zee ▶ noun US the letter Z.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: variant of zed.

Zeebrugge /'zi:brʊgə, 'zeɪ-/ a seaport on the coast of Belgium, linked by canal to Bruges.

Zeeland /'zi:lənd, 'zeɪ-/ an agricultural province of the south-western Netherlands, at the estuary of the Maas and Scheldt Rivers; capital, Middelburg.

Zeeman effect /'zi:mən, 'zeɪ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Physics the splitting of the spectrum line into several components by the application of a magnetic field.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after Pieter Zeeman (1865–1943), Dutch physicist.

zeera /'ʒi:rɑ:/ ▶ noun variant spelling of jeera.

Zeffirelli /ˌzɛfə'rɛli, Italian dzeffi'rɛlli/, Franco (b.1923), Italian film and theatre director; born Gianfranco Corsi. His operatic productions are noted for the opulence of their sets and costumes. Notable films: Romeo and Juliet (1968), Brother Sun, Sister Moon (1973), and the TV film Jesus of Nazareth (1977).

zein /'zi:ɪn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry the principal protein of maize.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from modern Latin Zea (genus name of maize) + -in¹.

Zeiss /zʌɪs, German tsaɪs/, Carl (1816–88), German optical instrument-maker. He established a workshop in Jena in 1846, which developed into the company which bears his name today.

zeitgeber /'zʌɪtgeɪbə/ ▶ noun Physiology a cue given by the environment to reset the internal body clock.
– ORIGIN mid 20th cent.: from German Zeitgeber, from Zeit 'time' + Geber 'giver'.

zeitgeist /'zʌɪtgʌɪst/ ▶ noun [in sing.] the defining spirit or mood of a particular period of history as shown by the ideas and beliefs of the time: the story captured the zeitgeist of the late 1960s.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from German Zeitgeist, from Zeit 'time' + Geist 'spirit'.

Zen (also Zen Buddhism) ▶ noun [mass noun] a Japanese school of Mahayana Buddhism emphasizing the value of meditation and intuition rather than ritual worship or study of scriptures.

Zen Buddhism was introduced to Japan from China in the 12th century, and has had a profound cultural influence. The aim of Zen is to achieve sudden enlightenment (satori) through meditation in a seated posture (zazen), usually under the guidance of a teacher and often using paradoxical statements (koans) to transcend rational thought.

– DERIVATIVES Zenist (also Zennist) noun (rare).
– ORIGIN Japanese, literally 'meditation', from Chinese chán 'quietude', from Sanskrit dhyāna 'meditation'.

zenana /zɪ'nɑ:nə/ ▶ noun (in India and Iran) the part of a house for the seclusion of women.

– ORIGIN from Persian and Urdu zanānah, from zan 'woman'.

Zend /zɛnd/ ▶ noun an interpretation of the Avesta, each Zend being part of the Zend-Avesta.

– ORIGIN from Persian zand 'interpretation'.

Zend-Avesta ▶ noun the Zoroastrian sacred writings, comprising the Avesta (the text) and Zend (the commentary).

Zener /'zi:nə/ (in full Zener diode) ▶ noun Electronics a form of semiconductor diode in which at a critical reverse voltage a large reverse current can flow.

– ORIGIN 1950s: named after Clarence M. Zener (1905–93), American physicist.

Zener cards /'zi:nə/ ▶ noun a set of 25 cards each with one of five different symbols, used in ESP research.

– ORIGIN 1930s: named after Karl E. Zener (1903–61), American psychologist.

zenith /'zɛnɪθ/ ▶ noun [in sing.] the highest point reached by a celestial or other object: the sun was well past the zenith | the missile reached its zenith and fell.

■ the point in the sky or celestial sphere directly above an observer. The opposite of NADIR. ■ the time at which something is most powerful or successful: in 1977, punk was at its zenith.

– DERIVATIVES zenithal adjective.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French or medieval Latin cenit, based on Arabic samt (ar-ra's) 'path (over the head)'.

zenithal projection ▶ noun a map projection in which a part of the globe is projected on to a plane tangential to the centre of the part, showing the correct directions of all points from the centre.

Zeno[1] /'zi:nəʊ/ (fl. 5th century BC), Greek philosopher. A member of the Eleatic school, he defended Parmenides' theories by formulating paradoxes which appeared to demonstrate the impossibility of motion, one of which shows that once Achilles has given a tortoise a start he can never overtake it, since each time he arrives where it was, it has already moved on.

Zeno[2] /'zi:nəʊ/ (*c.*335–*c.*263 BC), Greek philosopher, founder of Stoicism; known as Zeno of Citium. He founded the school of Stoic philosophy (*c.*300) (see STOICISM), but all that remains of his treatises are fragments of quotations.

Zenobia /zɛ'nəʊbɪə/ (3rd century AD), queen of Palmyra *c.*267–272. She conquered Egypt and much of Asia Minor. When she proclaimed her son emperor, the Roman emperor Aurelian attacked, defeated, and captured her.

zeolite /'zi:əlʌɪt/ ▶ noun any of a large group of minerals consisting of hydrated aluminosilicates of sodium, potassium, calcium, and barium, They can be readily dehydrated and rehydrated, and are used as cation exchangers and molecular sieves.

– DERIVATIVES zeolitic /-'lɪtɪk/ adjective.

– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from Swedish and German zeolit, from Greek zein 'to boil' + -LITE (from their characteristic swelling when heated in the laboratory).

Zeph. ▶ abbreviation for Zephaniah (in biblical references).

Zephaniah /ˌzɛfə'nʌɪə/ a Hebrew minor prophet of the 7th century BC.

■ a book of the Bible containing his prophecies.

zephyr /'zɛfə/ ▶ noun 1 poetic/literary a soft gentle breeze.

2 [mass noun] historical a fine cotton gingham.

■ [count noun] a very light article of clothing.

– ORIGIN late Old English zefferus, denoting a personification of the west wind, via Latin from Greek zephuros '(god of the) west wind'. Sense 1 dates from the late 17th cent.

Zeppelin[1] /'zɛp(ə)lɪn/, Ferdinand (Adolf August Heinrich), Count von (1838–1917), German aviation pioneer. An army officer until his retirement in 1890, he devoted the rest of his life to the development of the dirigible airship named after him.

Zeppelin[2] /'zɛp(ə)lɪn/ ▶ noun historical a large German dirigible airship of the early 20th century, long and cylindrical in shape and with a rigid framework. Zeppelins were used during the First World War for reconnaissance and bombing, and after the war as passenger transports until the 1930s.

zepto- /'zɛptəʊ/ ▶ combining form (used in units of measurement) denoting a factor of 10^{-21}: zeptosecond.

– ORIGIN adapted from SEPTI-, on the pattern of combining forms such as peta- and exa-.

Zermatt /'zə:mat, German zɛɐ'mat/ an Alpine ski resort and mountaineering centre near the Matterhorn, in southern Switzerland.

zero /'zɪərəʊ/ ▶ cardinal number (pl. -os) no quantity or number; nought; the figure 0: figures from zero to nine | you've left off a zero—it should be five hundred million.

■ a point on a scale or instrument from which a positive or negative quantity is reckoned: the gauge dropped to zero | [as modifier] a zero rate of interest. ■ the temperature corresponding to 0° on the Celsius scale (32° Fahrenheit), marking the freezing point of water: the temperature was below zero. ■ [usu. as modifier] Linguistics the absence of an actual word or morpheme to realize a syntactic or morphological phenomenon: the zero plural in 'three sheep'. ■ the lowest possible amount or level; nothing at all: I rated my chances as zero. ■ short for ZERO HOUR. ■ informal a worthless or contemptibly undistinguished person: her husband is an absolute zero.

▶ verb (-oes, -oed) [with obj.] 1 adjust (an instrument) to zero: zero the counter when the tape has rewound.

2 set the sights of (a gun) for firing.

– ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from French zéro or Italian zero, via Old Spanish from Arabic sifr 'cipher'.

▶ zero in take aim with a gun or missile: jet fighters zeroed in on the rebels' positions. ■ focus one's attention: they zeroed in on the clues he gave away about.

zero-based (also zero-base) ▶ adjective Finance (of a budget or budgeting) having each item costed anew, rather than in relation to its size or status in the previous budget.

zero-coupon bond ▶ noun a bond that is issued at a deep discount to its face value but pays no interest.

zero crossing ▶ noun Mathematics the point at which a function crosses the horizontal axis as its value passes through zero and changes sign.

zero-emission ▶ adjective denoting a road vehicle that emits no pollutants from its exhaust.

zero G ▶ abbreviation for zero gravity.

zero gravity ▶ noun [mass noun] Physics the state or condition in which there is no apparent force of gravity acting on a body, either because the force is locally weak, or because both the body and its surroundings are freely and equally accelerating under the force.

zero-graze ▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as noun zero-grazing] feed (cattle) with cut grass brought to them instead of putting them out to pasture.

zero hour ▶ noun the time at which a planned operation, typically a military one, is set to begin.

zero option ▶ noun a disarmament proposal for the total removal of certain types of weapons on both sides.

zero-point ▶ adjective Physics relating to or denoting properties and phenomena in quantized systems at absolute zero.

zero-rated ▶ adjective Finance, Brit. denoting goods or services that are taxable for VAT, but with a tax rate of zero.

– DERIVATIVES zero rating noun.

zero-sum ▶ adjective [attrib.] (of a game or situation) in which whatever is gained by one side is lost by the other.

zeroth /'zɪərəʊθ/ ▶ adjective [attrib.] immediately preceding what is regarded as first in a series.

– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from ZERO + -TH[1].

zero tolerance ▶ noun [mass noun] non-acceptance of anti-social behaviour, typically by strict and uncompromising application of the law.

zest ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 great enthusiasm and energy: they campaigned with zest and intelligence | [in sing.] she had a great zest for life.

■ a quality of excitement and piquancy: I used to try to beat past records to add zest to my monotonous job.

2 the outer coloured part of the peel of citrus fruit, used as flavouring.

– DERIVATIVES zestful adjective, zestfully adverb, zestfulness noun, zesty adjective.

– ORIGIN late 15th cent.: from French zeste 'orange or lemon peel', of unknown origin.

zester ▶ noun a kitchen utensil for removing fine shreds of zest from citrus fruit.

zeta /'zi:tə/ ▶ noun the sixth letter of the Greek alphabet (Z, ζ), transliterated as 'z'.

■ (Zeta) [followed by Latin genitive] Astronomy the sixth star in a constellation: Zeta Ursae Majoris.

– ORIGIN Greek.

zeta potential ▶ noun Chemistry the potential difference existing between the surface of a solid particle immersed in a conducting liquid (e.g. water) and the bulk of the liquid.

zetetic /zɪ'tɛtɪk/ ▶ adjective rare proceeding by inquiry.

– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from Greek zētētikos, from zētein 'seek'.

zetta- /'zɛtə/ ▶ combining form (used in units of measurement) denoting a factor of 10^{21}: zettahertz.

– ORIGIN apparently adapted from Italian sette 'seven' (see also ZEPTO-).

zeugma /'zju:gmə/ ▶ noun a figure of speech in which a word applies to two others in different senses (e.g. John and his driving licence expired last week) or to two others of which it semantically suits only one (e.g. with weeping eyes and hearts). Compare with SYLLEPSIS.

– DERIVATIVES zeugmatic adjective.

– ORIGIN late Middle English: via Latin from Greek, from zeugnunai 'to yoke'; related to zugon 'yoke'.

Zeus /zju:s/ Greek Mythology the supreme god, the son of Cronus (whom he dethroned) and Rhea, and husband of Hera. Zeus was the protector and ruler of humankind, the dispenser of good and evil, and the god of weather and atmospheric phenomena (such as rain and thunder). Roman equivalent JUPITER.

– ORIGIN Greek: related to Sanskrit dyauḥ 'sky'.

Zeuxis /'zju:ksɪs/ (fl. late 5th century BC), Greek painter, born at Heraclea in southern Italy. His works are known only through the reports of ancient writers, who make reference to monochrome techniques and his use of shading to create an illusion of depth, while his verisimilitude is the subject of many anecdotes.

ZEV ▶ abbreviation for zero-emission vehicle.

Zhangjiakou /ˌdʒaŋdʒjɑ:'kəʊ/ (also Changchiakow) a city situated on the Great Wall in Hebei province, NE China; pop. 719,600 (1990). Mongolian name KALGAN.

Zhanjiang /dʒan'dʒjaŋ/ (also Chan-chiang) a port in Guangdong province, southern China; pop. 1,048,700 (1990).

Zhdanov /'ʒdɑ:nɒf/ former name (1948–89) for MARIUPOL.

– ORIGIN named after the Soviet Politburo official Andrei Zhdanov, the defender of Leningrad during the siege of 1941–4.

Zhejiang /dʒɛ'dʒjaŋ/ (also Chekiang) a province of eastern China; capital, Hangzhou.

Zhengzhou /dʒɛŋ'dʒəʊ/ (also Chengchow) the capital of Henan province, in NE central China; pop. 1,660,000 (1990).

Zhenjiang /dʒɛn'dʒjaŋ/ (also Chen-chiang, Chinkiang) a port in Jiangsu province, on the Yangtze River, eastern China; pop. 1,280,000 (1990).

Zhitomir /ʒi'tomʲir/ Russian name for ZHYTOMYR.

zho ▶ noun variant spelling of DZO.

Zhongshan /dʒɒŋ'ʃan/ (also Chung-shan) a city in Guangdong province, SE China; pop. 1,073,000 (est. 1986).

Zhou /dʒəʊ/ (also Chou) a dynasty which ruled in China from the 11th century BC to 256 BC.

The dynasty's rule is commonly divided into Western Zhou (which ruled from a capital in the west of the region near Xian until 771 BC) and Eastern Zhou (which ruled after 771 BC from a capital based in the east). The rule of the Eastern Zhou, although weak and characterized by strife, saw the Chinese classical age of Confucius and Lao-tzu.

Zhou Enlai /ˌdʒəʊ ɛn'lʌɪ/ (also Chou En-lai) (1898–1976), Chinese Communist statesman, Prime Minister of China 1949–76. A founder of the Chinese Communist Party, he organized a Communist workers' revolt in 1927 in Shanghai in support of the Kuomintang forces surrounding the city. As Premier, he was a moderating influence during the Cultural Revolution and presided over the moves towards détente with the US in 1972–3.

Zhukov /'ʒu:kɒf/, Georgi (Konstantinovich) (1896–1974), Soviet military leader, born in Russia. In the course of the Second World War he defeated the Germans at Stalingrad (1943), lifted the siege of Leningrad (1944), and led the final assault on Germany and the capture of Berlin (1945). After the war he commanded the Soviet zone in occupied Germany.

Zhytomyr /ʒɪ'tɒmɪə/ an industrial city in central Ukraine; pop. 296,000 (1990). Russian name ZHITOMIR.

Zia ul-Haq /ˌzɪə ʊl'hak/, Muhammad (1924–88), Pakistani general and statesman, President 1978–88. As Chief of Staff he led the coup which deposed President Zulfikar Bhutto in 1977. He banned all political parties and began to introduce strict Islamic laws.

Zibo /zi:'bəʊ, dzə'bəʊ/ (also Tzu-po) a city in Shandong province, eastern China; pop. 2,484,200 (1990).

zidovudine /zɪ'dɒvjʊdi:n, -'dəʊ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine an antiviral drug used in the treatment of Aids. It slows the growth of HIV infection in the body, but is not curative.
● A thymidine derivative; chem. formula: $C_{10}H_{13}N_5O_4$.
– ORIGIN 1980s; arbitrary alteration of AZIDOTHYMIDINE.

Ziegfeld /'zi:gfɛld/, Florenz (1869–1932), American theatre manager. In 1907 he produced the first of a series of revues in New York, based on those of the Folies-Bergère, entitled the Ziegfeld Follies. Among the many famous performers he promoted were W. C. Fields and Fred Astaire.

ziff ▶ noun Austral./NZ informal, dated a beard.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: of unknown origin.

ZIF socket ▶ noun a type of socket for mounting electronic devices that is designed not to stress or damage them during insertion.
– ORIGIN late 20th cent.: ZIF, acronym from zero insertion force.

zig ▶ noun a sharp change of direction in a zigzag course: he went round and round in zigs and zags.
▶ verb (zigged, zigging) [no obj.] make a sharp change of direction: we zigged to the right.
– ORIGIN 1960s: by abbreviation of ZIGZAG.

ziggurat /'zɪgʊrat/ ▶ noun (in ancient Mesopotamia) a rectangular stepped tower, sometimes surmounted by a temple. Ziggurats are first attested in the late 3rd millennium BC and probably inspired the biblical story of the Tower of Babel (Gen. 11:1–9).
– ORIGIN from Akkadian ziqqurratu.

zigzag ▶ noun a line or course having abrupt alternate right and left turns: she traced a zigzag on the metal with her finger.
■ a turn on such a course: the road descends in a series of sharp zigzags.
▶ adjective having the form of a zigzag; veering to right and left alternately: when chased by a predator, some animals take a zigzag course.
▶ adverb so as to move right and left alternately: she drives zigzag across the city.
▶ verb (zigzagged, zigzagging) [no obj.] have or move along in a zigzag course: the path zigzagged between dry rises in the land.
– DERIVATIVES zigzaggedly adverb.
– ORIGIN early 18th cent.: from French, from German Zickzack, symbolic of alternation of direction, first applied to fortifications.

zilch /zɪltʃ/ informal ▶ pronoun nothing: I did absolutely zilch.
▶ determiner not any; no: the character has zilch class.
– ORIGIN 1960s: of unknown origin.

zilla /'zɪlə/ (also zillah) ▶ noun an administrative district in India, containing several parganas.
– ORIGIN from Persian and Urdu ẓila' 'division'.

zillion ▶ cardinal number informal an extremely large number of people or things: we had zillions of customers.
– DERIVATIVES zillionth adjective.
– ORIGIN 1940s: from Z (perhaps as a symbol of an unknown quantity) + MILLION.

zillionaire ▶ noun informal an extremely rich person.

Zimbabwe /zɪm'bɑ:bwi, -weɪ/ a landlocked country in SE Africa, divided from Zambia by the Zambezi River; pop. 10,080,000 (est. 1991); languages, English (official), Shona, Ndebele, and other languages; capital, Harare.

Formerly known as Southern Rhodesia, the country was a self-governing British colony from 1923. In 1965 the white minority government of the colony (then called Rhodesia) issued a unilateral declaration of independence (UDI) under its Prime Minister, Ian Smith. Despite UN sanctions, illegal independence lasted until 1979, when the Lancaster House Agreement led to all-party elections (1980) and black majority rule under Robert Mugabe. The country then became an independent republic and a member of the Commonwealth.

– DERIVATIVES Zimbabwean /-wɪən, -weɪən/ adjective & noun.
– ORIGIN from Shona dzimbabwe 'walled grave', originally referring to Great Zimbabwe, a complex of stone ruins in one of the country's fertile valleys, the remains of a city at the centre of a flourishing civilization in the 14th and 15th centuries.

Zimbabwe African National Union (abbrev.: ZANU or ZANU–PF) a Zimbabwean political party formed in 1963 as a guerrilla organization and led from 1975 by Robert Mugabe.

Having formed an alliance (called the Patriotic Front) with ZAPU in 1976 to coordinate opposition to white rule, ZANU won a large majority in the first post-independence elections (1980). ZANU and ZAPU ruled Zimbabwe as a coalition until a rift developed between them in 1982; in 1987, however, the parties agreed formally to merge, adopting the name ZANU–PF on merger in 1989.

Zimbabwe African People's Union (abbrev.: ZAPU) a Zimbabwean political party formed in 1961 as a guerrilla organization and led by Joshua Nkomo. It merged with ZANU in 1989.

Zimmer /'zɪmə/ (also Zimmer frame) ▶ noun trademark a kind of walking frame.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from Zimmer Orthopaedic Limited, the name of the manufacturer.

zinc ▶ noun [mass noun] the chemical element of atomic number 30, a silvery-white metal which is a constituent of brass and is used for coating (galvanizing) iron and steel to protect against corrosion. (Symbol: Zn)
■ [usu. as modifier] galvanized iron or steel, especially as the material of domestic utensils or corrugated roofs: a zinc roof.
▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj.] (zinced /'zɪŋ(k)t/) coat (iron) with zinc or a zinc compound to prevent rust.
– ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from German Zink, of unknown origin.

zinc blende ▶ noun another term for SPHALERITE.

zinc chromate ▶ noun [mass noun] a toxic yellow insoluble powder, used as a pigment.
● Chem. formula: $ZnCrO_4$.

zinc finger ▶ noun Biochemistry a finger-like loop of peptides enclosing a bound zinc ion at one end, typically part of a larger protein molecule (in particular one regulating transcription).

zincite /'zɪŋkʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a rare deep red or orange-yellow mineral consisting chiefly of zinc oxide, occurring typically as granular or foliated masses.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from ZINC + -ITE¹.

zinco ▶ noun (pl. -os) an etched letterpress printing plate made of zinc.

zinc ointment ▶ noun [mass noun] ointment containing zinc oxide, used for various skin conditions.

zinc white ▶ noun [mass noun] a white pigment consisting of zinc oxide.

zindabad /'zɪndɑ:ˌbɑ:d/ ▶ exclamation Indian used to express approbation: Pakistan zindabad!
– ORIGIN from Urdu zindābād 'may (a person) live!'.

'zine ▶ noun informal a magazine, especially a fanzine.

zineb /'zɪnɛb/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a white compound used as a fungicidal powder on vegetables and fruit.
● Alternative name: zinc ethylene bisdithiocarbamate; chem. formula: $C_4H_6N_2S_4Zn$.
– ORIGIN 1950s; from zin(c) + e(thylene) + b(is-) from the systematic name.

Zinfandel /'zɪnfand(ə)l/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a variety of wine grape grown in California.
■ a red or blush dry wine made from this grape.
– ORIGIN of unknown origin.

zing informal ▶ noun [mass noun] energy, enthusiasm, or liveliness: he was expected to add some zing to the lacklustre team.
▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] move swiftly: he could send an arrow zinging through the air.
■ [with obj.] US attack or criticize sharply: he zinged the budget deal in interviews with journalists.
– DERIVATIVES zingy adjective.
– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: imitative.

zinger ▶ noun informal, chiefly US a striking or amusing remark: open a speech with a zinger.
■ an outstanding person or thing: a zinger of a shot.

Zinjanthropus /zɪn'dʒanθrəpəs/ ▶ noun a genus name sometimes applied to Nutcracker man.
– ORIGIN 1950s: modern Latin, from Arabic Zinj, the early medieval name for East Africa, + Greek anthrōpos 'man'.

Zinnemann /'zɪnəmən/, Fred (1907–97), Austrian-born American film director. He joined MGM in 1937 and won Oscars for the short That Mothers Might Live (1938) and the feature films From Here to Eternity (1953) and A Man For All Seasons (1966).

zinnia /'zɪnɪə/ ▶ noun an American plant of the daisy family, which is widely cultivated for its bright showy flowers.
● Genus Zinnia, family Compositae.
– ORIGIN modern Latin, named after Johann G. Zinn (1727–59), German physician and botanist.

Zion /'zʌɪən/ (also Sion) ▶ noun the hill of Jerusalem on which the city of David was built.
■ the citadel of ancient Jerusalem. ■ Jerusalem. ■ (in Christian thought) the heavenly city or kingdom of heaven. ■ the Jewish people or religion. ■ the Christian Church. ■ a Nonconformist chapel.
– ORIGIN Old English, from ecclesiastical Latin Sion, from Hebrew ṣiyōn.

Zionism /'zʌɪənɪz(ə)m/ ▶ noun [mass noun] 1 a movement for (originally) the re-establishment and (now) the development and protection of a Jewish nation in what is now Israel. It was established as a political organization in 1897 under Theodor Herzl, and was later led by Chaim Weizmann.
2 (in southern Africa) a religious movement represented by a group of independent Churches which practise a form of Christianity incorporating elements of traditional African beliefs.
■ the beliefs and practices of this movement.
– DERIVATIVES Zionist noun & adjective.

zip ▶ noun 1 (also zip fastener) chiefly Brit. a device consisting of two flexible strips of metal or plastic with interlocking projections closed or opened by pulling a slide along them, used to fasten garments, bags, and other items.
■ [as modifier] denoting something fastened by such a device: a zip pocket.
2 [mass noun] informal energy; vigour: he's full of zip.
▶ pronoun (also zippo) N. Amer. informal nothing at all: you got zip to do with me and my kind, buddy.
▶ verb (zipped, zipping) 1 [with obj.] fasten with a zip: he zipped up his waterproof.
■ (zip someone up) fasten the zip of a garment that someone is wearing: he zipped himself up. ■ Computing compress (a file) so that it takes less space in storage.
2 [no obj., with adverbial of direction] informal move at high speed: swallows zipped back and forth across the lake.
■ [with obj. and adverbial] cause to move or be delivered or dealt with rapidly: he zipped a pass out to his receiver.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: imitative.

zip code (also ZIP code) ▶ noun US a postal code consisting of five or nine digits.
– ORIGIN 1960s: Zip, acronym from zone improvement plan.

zip gun ▶ noun US informal a cheap home-made or makeshift gun: I made the zip gun in class out of a toy airplane launcher.

zipless ▶ adjective informal (of a sexual encounter) brief, uncomplicated, and passionate.
– ORIGIN 1970s: from the phrase Zipless Fuck, in Erica Jong's Fear of Flying.

ziplock (also trademark Ziploc) ▶ adjective denoting a sealable plastic bag with a two-part strip along the opening that can be pressed together and readily reopened.

zipper chiefly US ▶ noun a zip fastener.
▶ verb [with obj.] fasten or provide (something) with a zipper: he wore a running suit zippered up tight.

zipperhead ▶ noun US offensive an oriental person.

Zippo ▶ noun (pl. -os) trademark a type of cigarette lighter with a hinged lid, using petrol as fuel.
– ORIGIN 1930s: of unknown origin.

zippo ▶ pronoun another term for ZIP.

zippy ▶ adjective (zippier, zippiest) informal bright, fresh, or lively: a zippy, zingy, almost citrusy tang.
■ fast or speedy: the car is zippy around town.
– DERIVATIVES zippily adverb, zippiness noun.

zip-up ▶ adjective [attrib.] chiefly Brit. (of a garment, pocket, bag, etc.) able to be fastened with a zip: a white zip-up jacket.

zircaloy /'zɔ:kəlɔɪ/ (also zircalloy) ▶ noun [mass noun] an alloy of zirconium, tin, and other metals, used chiefly as cladding for nuclear reactor fuel.
– ORIGIN 1950s: from ZIRCONIUM + ALLOY.

zircon /'zɔ:k(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a mineral occurring as prismatic crystals, typically brown but sometimes in translucent forms of gem quality. It consists of zirconium silicate and is the chief ore of zirconium.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from German Zirkon; compare with JARGON[2].

zirconia /zɔ:'kəʊnɪə/ ▶ noun [mass noun] zirconium dioxide, a white solid used in ceramic glazes and refractory coatings, and as a synthetic substitute for diamonds in jewellery.
● Chem. formula: ZrO_2.
– ORIGIN late 18th cent.: from ZIRCON + -IA[1].

zirconium /zɔ:'kəʊnɪəm/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the chemical element of atomic number 40, a hard silver-grey metal of the transition series. (Symbol: Zr) – ORIGIN early 19th cent.: modern Latin, from ZIRCON.

zit ▶ noun informal a spot on the skin.
– ORIGIN 1960s: of unknown origin; apparently originally teenagers' slang in North American English.

zither /'zɪðə/ ▶ noun a musical instrument consisting of a flat wooden soundbox with numerous strings stretched across it, placed horizontally and played with the fingers and a plectrum. It is used especially in central European folk music.
– DERIVATIVES zitherist noun.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from German, from Latin cithara (see CITTERN).

ziti /'zi:ti/ ▶ plural noun pasta in the form of tubes resembling large macaroni.
– ORIGIN Italian.

zizz informal, chiefly Brit. ▶ noun [in sing.] 1 a whizzing or buzzing sound: there's a nasty zizz from the engine.
2 a short sleep: Philip's having a zizz.
▶ verb [no obj.] 1 make a whizzing or buzzing sound: the banger started zizzing furiously.
2 doze; sleep: when everyone inside the building had zizzed off he sneaked inside.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: imitative.

zloty /'zlɒti/ ▶ noun (pl. same, zlotys, or zloties) the basic monetary unit of Poland, equal to 100 groszy.
– ORIGIN Polish, literally 'golden'.

Zn ▶ symbol for the chemical element zinc.

Zoantharia /ˌzəʊən'θɛ:rɪə/ Zoology a group of coelenterates with polyps that bear more than eight tentacles, including the sea anemones and stony corals.
● Subclass Zoantharia, class Anthozoa.
– DERIVATIVES zoantharian noun & adjective.
– ORIGIN modern Latin (plural), from Greek zōion 'animal' + anthos 'flower'.

zodiac /'zəʊdɪak/ ▶ noun Astrology a belt of the heavens within about 8° either side of the ecliptic, including all apparent positions of the sun, moon, and most familiar planets. It is divided into twelve equal divisions or signs (Aries, Taurus, Gemini, Cancer, Leo, Virgo, Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricorn, Aquarius, Pisces).
■ a representation of the signs of the zodiac or of a similar astrological system.

The supposed significance of the movements of the sun, moon, and planets within the zodiacal band forms the basis of astrology. However, the modern constellations do not represent equal divisions of the zodiac, and the ecliptic now passes through a thirteenth (Ophiuchus). Also, owing to precession, the signs of the zodiac now roughly correspond to the constellations that bear the names of the preceding signs.

– DERIVATIVES zodiacal /zə(ʊ)'dʌɪək(ə)l/ adjective.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from Old French zodiaque, via Latin from Greek zōidiakos, from zōidion 'sculptured animal figure', diminutive of zōion 'animal'.

zodiacal light ▶ noun [mass noun] Astronomy a faint elongated cone of light sometimes seen in the night sky, extending from the horizon along the ecliptic. It is thought to be due to the reflection of sunlight from particles of ice and dust within the plane of the solar system.

zodiacal sign ▶ noun see SIGN (sense 3).

zoetrope /'zəʊɪtrəʊp/ ▶ noun a 19th-century optical toy consisting of a cylinder with a series of pictures on the inner surface that, when viewed through slits with the cylinder rotating, give an impression of continuous motion. Also called THAUMATROPE.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: formed irregularly from Greek zōē 'life' + -tropos 'turning'.

Zoffany /'zɒfəni/, Johann (*c.*1733–1810), German-born painter, resident in England from 1758. Many of his earlier paintings depict scenes from the contemporary theatre and feature the actor David Garrick (e.g. The Farmer's Return, 1762).

zoftig /'zɒftɪg/ ▶ adjective N. Amer. variant spelling of ZAFTIG.

Zog I /zɒg/ (1895–1961), Albanian statesman and ruler, Prime Minister 1922–4, President 1925–8, and king 1928–39; full name Ahmed Bey Zogu. He initially headed a republican government, proclaiming himself king in 1928. His autocratic rule resulted in relative political stability, but when the country was invaded by Italy in 1939 he went into exile. He abdicated in 1946 after Albania became a Communist state.

Zohar /'zəʊhɑ:/ ▶ noun the chief text of the Jewish Kabbalah, presented as an allegorical or mystical interpretation of the Pentateuch.
– ORIGIN from Hebrew zōhar, literally 'light, splendour'.

zoisite /'zɔɪsʌɪt/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a greyish-white or greyish-green crystalline mineral consisting of a basic silicate of calcium and aluminium.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: from the name of Baron S. von Edelstein Zois (1747–1819), Austrian scholar, + -ITE[1].

zokor /'zəʊkɔ:/ ▶ noun a mole rat of eastern Asia that builds up large food stores in its burrows, found in high-altitude grasslands.
● Genus Myospalax, family Muridae: six species.
– ORIGIN a local name in the Altai Mountains.

zol /zɒl/ ▶ noun (pl. zols or zolle) S. African a hand-rolled cigarette, especially of cannabis.
■ [mass noun] cannabis.
– ORIGIN of unknown origin.

Zola /'zəʊlə, French zɔla/, Émile (Édouard Charles Antoine) (1840–1902), French novelist and critic. His series of twenty novels collectively entitled Les Rougon-Macquart (1871–93), including Nana (1880), Germinal (1885), and La Terre (1887), attempts to show how human behaviour is determined by environment and heredity.

Zollinger–Ellison syndrome /ˌzɒlɪndʒər-'ɛlɪs(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Medicine a condition in which a gastrin-secreting tumour or hyperplasia of the islet cells in the pancreas causes overproduction of gastric acid, resulting in recurrent peptic ulcers.
– ORIGIN 1950s: named after Robert M. Zollinger (1903–92) and Edwin H. Ellison (1918–70), American physicians.

Zöllner illusion /'tsə:lnə/ ▶ plural noun an optical illusion in which long parallel lines appear to diverge or converge when crossed by rows of short oblique lines.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: named after Johann K. F. Zöllner (1834–82), German physicist.

Zollverein /'zɒlfəˌrʌɪn, German 'tsɔlfɛɐˌaɪn/ ▶ noun historical the customs union of German states in the 19th century.
– ORIGIN from German Zoll 'customs' + Verein 'union'.

zombie ▶ noun a corpse said to be revived by witchcraft, especially in certain African and Caribbean religions.
■ informal a person who is or appears lifeless, apathetic, or completely unresponsive to their surroundings.
– DERIVATIVES zombielike adjective.
– ORIGIN early 19th cent.: of West African origin; compare with Kikongo zumbi 'fetish'.

zombify /'zɒmbɪfʌɪ/ ▶ verb [with obj.] [usu. as adj. zombified] informal deprive of energy or vitality: exhausted, screaming kids and their zombified parents.

zona pellucida /ˌzəʊnə pɪ'lu:sɪdə/ ▶ noun (pl. zonae pellucidae /ˌzəʊni: pɪ'lu:sɪdi:/) Anatomy & Zoology the thick transparent membrane surrounding a mammalian ovum before implantation.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Latin, literally 'pellucid girdle'.

zonation /zəʊ'neɪʃ(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] distribution in zones or regions of definite character: quartz grains can exhibit zonation and rounding.
■ Ecology the distribution of plants or animals into specific zones according to such parameters as altitude or depth, each characterized by its dominant species.

zone ▶ noun 1 [usu. with adj. or noun modifier] an area or stretch of land having a particular characteristic, purpose, or use, or subject to particular restrictions: a pedestrian zone | figurative United are still in the relegation zone.
■ (also time zone) a range of longitudes where a common standard time is used. ■ chiefly Botany & Zoology an encircling band or stripe of distinctive colour, texture, or character.
2 archaic a belt or girdle worn round a person's body.
▶ verb [with obj.] 1 divide into or assign to zones, in particular:
■ [often as noun zoning] divide (a town or stretch of land) into areas subject to particular planning restrictions: an experimental system of zoning. ■ designate (a specific area) for use or development in such a manner: the land is zoned for housing.
2 archaic encircle as or with a band or stripe.
– DERIVATIVES zonal adjective, zonally adverb.
– ORIGIN late Middle English: from French, or from Latin zona 'girdle', from Greek zōnē.
▶ zone out US informal fall asleep or lose concentration or consciousness: I just zoned out for a moment. [ORIGIN: compare with sense 3 of ZONED.]

zoned ▶ adjective 1 divided into zones, in particular (of land) designated for a particular type of use or development: zoned housing land.
2 chiefly Botany & Zoology marked with circles or bands of colour: strongly zoned leaves.
3 US informal under the influence of drugs or alcohol: she's zoned on downers | a zoned-out hippie. [ORIGIN: 1970s: blend of ZONKED and STONED.]

zone plate ▶ noun a plate of glass marked out into concentric zones or rings alternately transparent and opaque, used like a lens to bring light to a focus.

zone refining ▶ noun [mass noun] a method of purifying a crystalline solid, typically a semiconductor or metal, by causing a narrow molten zone to travel slowly along an otherwise solid rod or bar to one end, at which impurities become concentrated.

zone therapy ▶ noun [mass noun] a system of alternative medicine (such as reflexology) in which different parts of the feet or hands are associated with different parts of the body.

zonk informal ▶ verb 1 [with obj.] hit or strike: Charley really zonked me.
2 fall or cause to fall suddenly and heavily asleep or lose consciousness: [no obj.] I always just zonk out and sleep straight through | [with obj.] I go rowing because it zonks me out.
▶ exclamation expressing the sound of a blow or heavy impact: she let it go and zonk, it was in the water again.
– ORIGIN 1940s: imitative.

zonked ▶ adjective informal under the influence of drugs or alcohol: the others got zonked on acid | a zonked-out beach bum.
■ exhausted; tired out: we hit the sack, zonked out.

zonule /'zəʊnju:l/ ▶ noun technical, chiefly Anatomy a small zone.

zonure /'zəʊnjʊə/ ▶ noun another term for GIRDLED LIZARD.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from modern Latin Zonurus (former genus name), from Greek zōnē 'girdle' + oura 'tail'.

zoo ▶ noun an establishment which maintains a collection of wild animals, typically in a park or gardens, for study, conservation, or display to the public.
■ a situation characterized by confusion and disorder: it's a zoo in the lobby.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: abbreviation of ZOOLOGICAL GARDEN, originally applied specifically to that of Regent's Park, London.

zoo- ▶ combining form of animals; relating to animal life: zoogeography.
– ORIGIN from Greek zōion 'animal'.

zoogeographical region /ˌzu:ə(ʊ)ˌdʒɪə(ʊ)-'grafɪk(ə)l, ˌzəʊə(ʊ)-/ ▶ noun Zoology each of a number of major areas of the earth having a characteristic fauna (especially mammals). They include the Palaearctic, Ethiopian, Oriental, Australian, Nearctic, and Neotropical regions. Also called FAUNAL REGION.

zoogeography /ˌzuːə(ʊ)dʒɪˈɒgrəfi, ˌzəʊə(ʊ)-, ˌzuːdʒɪ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the branch of zoology that deals with the geographical distribution of animals.
- DERIVATIVES zoogeographer noun, zoogeographic adjective, zoogeographical adjective, zoogeographically adverb.

zooid /ˈzuːɔɪd, ˈzəʊ-, ˈzuːɪd/ ▶ noun Zoology an animal arising from another by budding or division, especially each of the individuals which make up a colonial organism and typically have different forms and functions.
- DERIVATIVES zooidal /zuːˈɔɪd(ə)l, zəʊ-, ˈzuːɪd(ə)l/ adjective.
- ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from zoo- 'relating to animals' + -OID.

zookeeper ▶ noun an animal attendant employed in a zoo.
■ a zoo owner or director.

zoolatry /zuːˈɒlətri, zəʊ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] rare the worship of animals.

zoological /ˌzuːəˈlɒdʒɪk(ə)l, ˌzəʊə-/ ▶ adjective of or relating to zoology: zoological classification.
■ of or relating to animals: eighty zoological woodcuts.
- DERIVATIVES zoologically adverb.

zoological garden ▶ noun dated a zoo.

zoology /zuːˈɒlədʒi, zəʊ-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the scientific study of the behaviour, structure, physiology, classification, and distribution of animals.
■ the animal life of a particular area or time: the zoology of Russia's vast interior.
- DERIVATIVES zoologist noun.
- ORIGIN mid 17th cent.: from modern Latin zoologia (see ZOO-, -LOGY).

zoom ▶ verb [no obj., with adverbial of direction] 1 (especially of a car or aircraft) move or travel very quickly: we watched the fly zooming about | he jumped into his car and zoomed off.
■ [no obj.] (of prices) rise sharply: the share index zoomed by about 136 points.
2 (of a camera) change smoothly from a long shot to a close-up or vice versa: the camera zoomed in for a close-up of his face | zoom out for a wide view of the garden again.
■ [with obj.] cause (a lens or camera) to do this.
▶ noun a camera shot that changes smoothly from a long shot to a close-up or vice versa: [as modifier] the zoom button.
■ short for ZOOM LENS.
▶ exclamation used to express sudden fast movement: then suddenly, zoom!, he's off.
- ORIGIN late 19th cent.: imitative.

zoom lens ▶ noun a lens allowing a camera to change smoothly from a long shot to a close-up or vice versa by varying the focal length.

zoomorphic /ˌzuːəˈ(ʊ)mɔːfɪk, ˌzəʊə(ʊ)-, zuːˈmɔːfɪk/ ▶ adjective having or representing animal forms or gods of animal form: pottery decorated with anthropomorphic and zoomorphic designs.
- DERIVATIVES zoomorphism noun.
- ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from zoo- 'of animals' + Greek morphē 'form' + -IC.

zoonosis /ˌzuːəˈnəʊsɪs, ˌzəʊə-/ ▶ noun (pl. zoonoses /-siːz/) a disease which can be transmitted to humans from animals.
- DERIVATIVES zoonotic adjective.
- ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from zoo- 'of animals' + Greek nosos 'disease'.

zoophyte /ˈzuːəfʌɪt, ˈzəʊə-, ˈzuːfʌɪt/ ▶ noun Zoology, dated a plant-like animal, especially a coral, sea anemone, sponge, or sea lily.
- ORIGIN early 17th cent.: from Greek zōiophuton (see ZOO-, -PHYTE).

zooplankton /ˈzuːə(ʊ),plaŋ(k)t(ə)n, ˈzəʊə(ʊ)-, ˈzuːplaŋ(k)t(ə)n/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biology plankton consisting of small animals and the immature stages of larger animals.

zoospore /ˈzuːəspɔː, ˈzəʊə-, ˈzuːspɔː/ ▶ noun Biology a spore of certain algae, fungi, and protozoans, capable of swimming by means of a flagellum. Also called SWARMER.

zoot suit ▶ noun a man's suit of an exaggerated style, characterized by a long loose jacket with padded shoulders and high-waisted tapering trousers, popular in the 1940s.
- ORIGIN 1940s: rhyming formation on SUIT.

zooxanthella /ˌzəʊəzanˈθɛlə/ ▶ noun (pl. zooxanthellae /-liː/) Biology a yellowish-brown symbiotic dinoflagellate present in large numbers in the cytoplasm of many marine invertebrates.
- DERIVATIVES zooxanthellate adjective.
- ORIGIN late 19th cent.: modern Latin, from zoo- 'of animals' + Greek xanthos 'yellow' + the diminutive suffix -ella.

zori /ˈzɔːri, ˈzɒri/ ▶ noun (pl. zoris) a traditional Japanese style of flip-flop, originally made with a straw sole.
- ORIGIN Japanese.

zorilla /zɒˈrɪlə/ ▶ noun a black and white carnivorous mammal that resembles a skunk, inhabiting arid regions of southern Africa. Also called STRIPED POLECAT.
● Ictonyx striatus, family Mustelidae.
- ORIGIN late 18th cent.: via French from Spanish zorrilla, diminutive of zorro 'fox'.

Zoroaster /ˌzɒrəʊˈastə/ (*c.*628–*c.*551 BC), Persian prophet and founder of Zoroastrianism; Avestan name Zarathustra. Little is known of his life, but traditionally he was born in Persia and began to preach the tenets of what was later called Zoroastrianism after receiving a vision from Ahura Mazda.

Zoroastrianism /ˌzɒrəʊˈastrɪəˌnɪz(ə)m/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a monotheistic pre-Islamic religion of ancient Persia founded by Zoroaster in the 6th century BC.

According to the teachings of Zoroaster the supreme god, Ahura Mazda, created twin spirits, one of which chose truth and light, the other untruth and darkness. Later writings present a more dualistic cosmology in which the struggle is between Ahura Mazda (Ormazd) and the evil spirit Ahriman. The scriptures of Zoroastrianism are the Zend-Avesta. It survives today in isolated areas of Iran and in India, where followers are known as Parsees.

- DERIVATIVES Zoroastrian adjective & noun.

zorro /ˈzɒrəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) a doglike fox found in the forests and savannah of South America.
● Genus Dusicyon, family Canidae: two species, in particular the crab-eating fox (D. thous).
- ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Spanish, 'fox'.

Zouave /zuːˈɑːv, zwɑːv/ ▶ noun 1 a member of a light-infantry corps in the French army, originally formed of Algerians and long retaining their oriental uniform.
2 (zouaves) women's trousers with wide tops, tapering to a narrow ankle.
- ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from French, from Kabyle Zouaoua, the name of a tribe.

Zoug /zug/ French name for ZUG.

zouk /zuːk/ ▶ noun [mass noun] an exuberant style of popular music combining Caribbean and Western elements and having a fast heavy beat.
- ORIGIN 1970s: Guadeloupian Creole, literally 'to party'.

zounds /zaʊndz/ ▶ exclamation archaic or humorous expressing surprise or indignation.
- ORIGIN late 16th cent.: contraction from (God)'s wounds (i.e. those of Christ on the Cross).

Zovirax /ˈzəʊvɪraks, zə(ʊ)ˈvʌɪraks/ ▶ noun trademark for ACYCLOVIR.

zowie /ˈzaʊi, zaʊˈiː/ ▶ exclamation US informal expressing astonishment or admiration.
- ORIGIN natural exclamation: first recorded in American English in the early 20th cent.

Z particle ▶ noun Physics a heavy uncharged elementary particle considered to transmit the weak interaction between other elementary particles.

ZPG ▶ abbreviation for zero population growth.

Z-plan ▶ noun Architecture the ground plan of a type of Scottish castle having a central block with two towers at diagonally opposite corners.

Z-plasty ▶ noun [mass noun] a technique in orthopaedic and cosmetic surgery in which one or more Z-shaped incisions are made, the diagonals forming one straight line, and the two triangular sections so formed are drawn across the diagonal before being stitched.

Zr ▶ symbol for the chemical element zirconium.

ZRE ▶ abbreviation for Zaire (international vehicle registration).

Zsigmondy /ˈʃɪgmɒndi/, Richard Adolph (1865–1929), Austrian-born German chemist. He investigated the properties of various colloidal solutions and invented the ultramicroscope for counting colloidal particles. Nobel Prize for Chemistry (1925).

zucchetto /tsʊˈkɛtəʊ/ ▶ noun (pl. -os) a Roman Catholic cleric's skullcap: black for a priest, purple for a bishop, red for a cardinal, and white for the Pope.
- ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Italian zucchetta, diminutive of zucca 'gourd, head'.

zucchini /zʊˈkiːni/ ▶ noun (pl. same or zucchinis) chiefly N. Amer. a courgette.
- ORIGIN Italian, plural of zucchino, diminutive of zucca 'gourd'.

Zug /tsuːg/ a mainly German-speaking canton in central Switzerland. The smallest canton, it joined the confederation in 1352.
■ its capital; pop. 21,500 (1990). French name Zoug.

zugzwang /ˈzʌgzwaŋ, ˈzuːg-/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Chess a situation in which the obligation to make a move in one's turn is a serious, often decisive, disadvantage: black is in zugzwang.
- ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from German Zug 'move' + Zwang 'compulsion'.

Zuider Zee /ˌzʌɪdə ˈziː, ˈzeɪ/ a former large shallow inlet of the North Sea, in the Netherlands. In 1932 a dam across its entrance was completed, and large parts have been drained and reclaimed as polders. The remainder forms the IJsselmeer.
- ORIGIN Dutch, literally 'southern sea'.

Zulu /ˈzuːluː/ ▶ noun 1 a member of a South African people living mainly in KwaZulu/Natal province.
■ [mass noun] the Bantu language of this people, related to Xhosa and spoken by over 6 million people.
2 a code word representing the letter Z, used in radio communication.
▶ adjective of or relating to the Zulu people or language.

The Zulus formed a powerful military empire in southern Africa during the 19th century before being defeated in a series of engagements with white Afrikaner and British settlers. Some Zulus still live under the traditional clan system in the province of KwaZulu/Natal, but many now work in the cities. In recent years the Zulu Inkatha movement has been drawn into violent clashes with other black groups in South Africa, particularly the Xhosa, and also into conflict with the outgoing government and the African National Congress in the period of transfer to majority rule, over future constitutional arrangements and demands for Zulu autonomy.

- ORIGIN from the stem of Zulu umZulu, (plural amaZulu).

Zululand see KWAZULU.

Zuni /ˈzuːni/ (also Zuñi /ˈzuːnjɪ/) ▶ noun (pl. same or Zunis) 1 a member of a Pueblo Indian people of western New Mexico.
2 [mass noun] the language of this people, with about 3,000 speakers.
▶ adjective of or relating to this people or their language.

zuppa inglese /ˌ(t)zʊpa ɪŋˈgleɪzeɪ, -zi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a rich Italian dessert resembling trifle.
- ORIGIN Italian, literally 'English soup'.

Zurbarán /ˌzʊəbəˈrɑːn, Spanish θurbaˈran, surba-/, Francisco de (1598–1664), Spanish painter. Official painter to Seville from 1628, he carried out commissions for many churches and for Philip IV, for whom he painted The Defence of Cadiz (1634) and the series The Labours of Hercules (1634). Much of his subject matter is religious.

Zurich /ˈzjʊərɪk, German ˈtsyːrɪç/ a city in north central Switzerland, situated on Lake Zurich; pop. 342,860 (1990). The largest city in Switzerland, it is a major international financial centre.

ZW ▶ abbreviation for Zimbabwe (international vehicle registration).

Zwickau /ˈtsvɪkaʊ/ a mining and industrial city in SE Germany, in Saxony; pop. 112,565 (1991).

Zwingli /ˈtsvɪŋli/, Ulrich (1484–1531), Swiss Protestant reformer, the principal figure of the Swiss Reformation. He rejected papal authority and many orthodox doctrines, and although he had strong local support in Zurich, his ideas met with fierce resistance in some regions. Zwingli was killed in the civil war that resulted from his reforms.
- DERIVATIVES Zwinglian adjective & noun.

zwitterion /ˈzwɪtərʌɪən, ˈtsvɪ-/ ▶ noun Chemistry a molecule or ion having separate positively and negatively charged groups.
- DERIVATIVES zwitterionic adjective.

– ORIGIN early 20th cent.: from German, from Zwitter 'a hybrid' + Ion 'ion'.

Zwolle /ˈzwɒlə/ a town in the eastern Netherlands, capital of Overijssel province; pop. 95,570 (1991).

Zworykin /ˈzwɔːrɪkɪn, zvəˈriːkɪn/, Vladimir (Kuzmich) (1889–1982), Russian-born American physicist and television pioneer. He invented a precursor of the television camera, the first to scan the image electronically.

zydeco /ˈzʌɪdɪkəʊ/ ▶ noun [mass noun] a kind of black American dance music originally from southern Louisiana, typically featuring accordion and guitar.
– ORIGIN 1960s: Louisiana Creole, possibly from a pronunciation of French les haricots in a dance-tune title.

zygo- ▶ combining form relating to joining or pairing: zygodactyl.
– ORIGIN from Greek zugon 'yoke'.

zygodactyl /ˌzʌɪgəʊˈdaktɪl, zɪg-/ ▶ adjective (of a bird's feet) having two toes pointing forward and two backward.
▶ noun a bird with zygodactyl feet.
– DERIVATIVES zygodactylous adjective.

zygoma /zʌɪˈgəʊmə, zɪg-/ ▶ noun (pl. zygomata /-tə/) Anatomy the bony arch of the cheek formed by connection of the zygomatic and temporal bones.
– DERIVATIVES zygomatic adjective.
– ORIGIN late 17th cent.: from Greek zugōma, from zugon 'yoke'.

zygomatic arch ▶ noun Anatomy the zygoma.

zygomatic bone ▶ noun Anatomy the bone that forms the prominent part of the cheek and the outer side of the eye socket.

zygomatic process ▶ noun Anatomy a projection of the temporal bone that forms part of the zygoma.

zygomorphic /ˌzʌɪgəˈmɔːfɪk, ˌzɪg-/ ▶ adjective Botany (of a flower) having only one plane of symmetry, as in a pea or snapdragon; bilaterally symmetrical. Compare with ACTINOMORPHIC.
– DERIVATIVES zygomorphy noun.

Zygoptera /zʌɪˈgɒptərə/ Entomology a group of insects which comprises the damselflies. Compare with ANISOPTERA.
● Suborder Zygoptera, order Odonata.
– DERIVATIVES zygopteran noun & adjective.
– ORIGIN modern Latin (plural), from Greek zugon 'yoke' + pteron 'wing'.

zygospore /ˈzʌɪgəˌ(ʊ)spɔː/ ▶ noun Biology the thick-walled resting cell of certain fungi and algae, arising from the fusion of two similar gametes. Compare with OOSPORE.

zygote /ˈzʌɪgəʊt/ ▶ noun Biology a diploid cell resulting from the fusion of two haploid gametes; a fertilized ovum.
– DERIVATIVES zygotic /-ˈgɒtɪk/ adjective.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from Greek zugōtos 'yoked', from zugoun 'to yoke'.

zygotene /ˈzʌɪgə(ʊ)tiːn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biology the second stage of the prophase of meiosis, following leptotene, during which homologous chromosomes begin to pair.

Zyklon B /ˈzʌɪklɒn/ ▶ noun [mass noun] hydrogen cyanide adsorbed on or released from a carrier in the form of small tablets, used as an insecticidal fumigant and by the Nazis as a lethal gas.
– ORIGIN 1930s: from German, of unknown origin.

zymase /ˈzʌɪmeɪz/ ▶ noun [mass noun] Biochemistry a mixture of enzymes obtained from yeast which catalyse the breakdown of sugars in alcoholic fermentation.
– ORIGIN late 19th cent.: from French, from Greek zumē 'leaven'.

zymo- /ˈzʌɪməʊ/ (also zym- before a vowel) ▶ combining form relating to enzymes or fermentation: zymogen | zymase.
– ORIGIN from Greek zumē 'leaven'.

zymogen /ˈzʌɪmə(ʊ)dʒ(ə)n/ ▶ noun Biochemistry an inactive substance which is converted into an enzyme when activated by another enzyme.

zymotic disease ▶ noun archaic a contagious disease, regarded as developing after infection like the fermenting of yeast.

zymurgy /ˈzʌɪməːdʒi/ ▶ noun [mass noun] the study or practice of fermentation in brewing, winemaking, or distilling.
– ORIGIN mid 19th cent.: from Greek zumē 'leaven', on the pattern of metallurgy.

Zyrian /ˈzɪrɪən/ ▶ noun former term for KOMI[2] (the language).